Edwin Carewe Directs "Are We Civilized?"

Guild Will Stage Dinner-Dance Saturday Night

HAROLD SHERMAN'S BOOK TO BE PRODUCED INTO TALKIE—BILLY REITER ASSISTS DIRECTOR CAREWE

A new production company has entered the field for cinema honors and we made an initial visit to their quarters on the Metropolitan lot, now known as General Service Studios, a few days ago that certainly opened our eyes to something that should make film history. The Raspin Productions, Inc., is the title of this new producing company, and the two members of the firm now here are Edwin B. Raschbaum and Sidney T. Pink. They have joined the few informed directors of today. Edwin Carewe, to supervise and direct their first production. Never before have we seen a director or company so enthusiastic over their work as these men are and Mr. Carewe paused long enough between making stilts of his characters to tell us a little of this mighty undertaking. The story is taken from a famous book by Harold Sherman, called "Are We Civilized," which takes in the whole history of the world from the "Creation" to the present day. Not being content with having one of the finest directors of today making the picture, they engaged an all-star cast to enact the principal roles. Such names as William Farnum, one of the finest actors of today and the man who brought the great Fox Film company to fame; Anita Louise, not only beautiful but as clever a player as can be seen on the screen; Frank McGlynn, Le Roy Mason, Oscar Apfel, Stuart Holmes, as well as many others, will depict other (Continued on page 7)

Lyle Talbot

Warner Bros.-First National Studios have a great bet in Lyle Talbot. His best work was in "Mary Stevens, M.D." Other pictures that will go a long way toward making our claims ring true are "Mandalay," "Havana Widows," "College Coach," "Heat Lightning," and his latest, "Registered Nurse." Lyle Talbot not only takes his work seriously, but is well liked by his co-workers and is equally clever on the stage.

STARS STAGE GALA AFFAIR AT THE BILTMORE HOTEL

The most spectacular aggregation of entertainment stars in the entire history of the theater will comprise the talent for the show to be given by the Screen Actors' Guild at its first annual Dinner and Ball, according to James Cagney, chairman of the Guild's entertainment committee for that occasion. Leading names from the stage and radio, all of whom are Guild members or sympathizers, will join their film colleagues as performers on the night of Saturday, Jan. 13, when the gala event will be held at the Sala d'Oro of the Biltmore hotel. The elaborate dinner is being personally supervised by Dolores del Rio and her committee, since she is one of the famous epicures of the motion picture colony.

Practically every star of the various branches of show business will either attend as a guest or a performer and it is believed by Adolph Menjou, acting president of the organization, that this event will annually become the social highlight of each year. Other officers of the Guild include Eddie Cantor, president, Frederic March, Frank Morgan, Chester Morris, Ann Harding, Groucho Marx, Lucile Gleason, Kenneth Thomson and Morgan Wallace. The Board of Directors also includes Ralph Morgan, Robert Montgomery, Ralph Bellamy, Boris Karloff, Ivan Simpson, Claude King, Mary Astor, Miriam Hopkins, Spencer Tracy and James Cagney. Ann Harding heads the invitation committee, while Claudette Colbert, as chairman of the reception committee, will personally greet all guests as they arrive.

A NEW IDEA FROM BUSBY BERKELEY AND TRIUMPH FOR JACK OKEY AND WILLY POGANY

THE ART DIRECTORS

It's a good thing that Warner-First National have such an artist as Busby Berkeley on their staff as they always seem to have a new one up his sleeve to slip into the picture—in other words, it's the tabasco that pep's them up. Not that the screen play by Hugh Herbert and Carl Erickson, the adaptation by Gene Markey and Kathryn Scola, and the story by Harry Collins and Warren Duff (my, what a long list of writers!) was not up to snuff, they had a good idea and did a great deal with it and the finished product will surely attract the cash customers. The yarn was built around American stylistic who travel to the French capital to steal the "Parisan Fashion" ideas. This, of course, called for some really stunning fashion models, displaying clothes that will cause many a girl to look for the other fellow with the necessary cash to buy. Lots of good laughs, an interesting plot and some clever lyrics and music by Sammy Fain and Irving Kahal. William Powell seemed particularly adapted to the character of the debonair fashion racketeer and with Bette Davis as his secretary and sweetheart the plot moved swiftly. Then, of course, Frank McHugh with that funny laugh that is almost a trade mark for any picture from the Burbank studios, had a good part that called for hearty laughter; and lovely Veree Teasdale, impersonating an European duchess (for both looks and voice) to try and get just a girl from Brooklyn, did her usual clever bit, with Hugh Herbert as the owner of an ostrich farm that the American showed how to put over. Reginald Owen was another who helped to put the fun over with a clever characterization of the French courtier, while Henry O'Neill, Philip Reid, Gordon Westcott, Dorothy Burgess, Etienne Girardot, William Burrell, Nelia Walker, Spencer Charters, George Humbert, Frank Darien, Harry Beresford and Helen Freeman all helped to keep the pot of fun boiling. The gowns by Orry-Kelly were dreams of loveliness, the direction of William Dieterle was adequate, and the splendid photography of William Rees was one of the hits of the production and a word for the boys you seldom hear about—the art directors, a special award for Jack Okey and Willy Pogany for the lovely settings and especially for the beautiful Viking scene on a sea of silk that was truly ravishing, in the price of admission and shows that Busby Berkeley had another novelty. You'll enjoy "The Fashions of 1934." Plenty for the women to rave over and an eyeful for any male under ninety.

with Jack Harvey and Milton Raison working on the script for Radio Pictures and H. N. Swanson supervising, production starting early this month.

PROSPERITY IS RETURNING—as so many theaters in the east called for Wheeler and Woolsey that Radio Pictures sent them on tour. When they return they will make an other of their famous fun films laid in the period of Henry the VIII, under the direction of Mark Sandrich and for female interest, Thelma Todd.

SWEETHEARTS ONCE MORE—as Winfield Sheehan of Fox Films signed Charles Farrell for two pictures to play opposite J. net Gaynor which will go into production next month. This grand screen couple has been "separated" for fourteen months and Mr. and Mrs. John Public have called for them repeatedly.

THREE OF A KIND—on the Fox lot where the firm of DeSylva, Brown and Henderson are all working, but not together. De Sylva producing "Bottoms Up," Brown working on the famous "Fox Follies" and Henderson writing music for George White's "Scandals.

DID YOU SEE IT?—that grand new home that Warner Baxter recently built out at lovely Bel-Air. Not only is the exterior lovely to look upon, but the interior is just worth the work you would expect from such an interesting personage as this Fox star.

20th CENTURY WINS AGAIN— as Darryl Zanuck has secured one of the ace directors of Warners—Roy del Ruth—who will have as his first assignment the distinction of directing Ronald Colman in "Bulldog Drummond Strikes Back." You can't keep this youngest producer from having the best.

MUSTN'T WAKE THE BABY—so Stu Erwin and June Collyer have built a playroom out in their back yard—not for the baby but just for their intimate friends, with ping pong, tennis etc, and not forgetting the inner man, a darling little bar with just the right things on it.

Such a List — of notables at Sardi's with the glamorous Marlene Dietrich in her famous trousers, waiting in line with Josef von Sternberg, Helen "Boop a doop," Kane, Nancy Carroll just in from New York, Buz Berkeley with of course Myrna Kennedy, Joel McCrea and Frances Dee.

BUTLERS ARE POPULAR— with Herbert Evans, the British actor, as he just finished one for Irene Dunne in "A Transient Love" for RKO, and found another waiting for him in Edmund Goulding's "Rip Tide" for Metro-Goldwyn-Mayers, which is a good start for 1934.

IF YOU SEE A CHEESE—in the house of your many friends, you may know that Lillian Tashman sent many real Stiltons for Christmas presents. They keep a year says Tashman and with a little Port wine at intervals stay fresh. We don't know whether the wine is to be put in the cheese—or what!

INSTEAD OF HEPBURN—Radio Pictures announce that Irene Dunne will play the lead in Edith Wharton's "Age of Innocence," that Sarah Mason and Victor Herman are getting in shape for early production under Pandro Berman and Kenneth McGowan's supervision.

Emanuel Cohen Laundered; Ouster Rumor Draws Denial

Denouncing as “false and maliciously untrue” the recently published rumor that Emanuel Cohen would be supplanted as vice-president of Paramount Productions, Inc., and head of the company’s producing organization, Adolph Zukor, president of Paramount, today issued the following statement: “There is absolutely no basis of truth in the false and malicious story printed in certain western trade paper in which it was stated that Emanuel Cohen would be supplanted as head of Paramount’s production organization. Mr. Cohen has done a splendid piece of work and his efforts have the unqualified approval of all the executives of Paramount. Undoubtedly the present rumor had its inception in the fact that Mr. Cohen is enjoying a brief and much-needed vacation at La Quinta, California, and that during his absence his duties have been temporarily assumed by Albert Kaufman. Mr. Cohen will return to his desk within a few days to continue the fine work he has done as head of our producing organization.”

THE VANISHING SHADOW

Henry MacRae, veteran Universal producer, has just gotten a six months’ jump on the scientific world. In June, casting about for a serial idea, he decided to feature a death-dealing ray in “The Vanishing Shadow,” which will go into production on January 15, with Louis Friedlander directing. Ella O’Neill, his scenarist, went to work on it. Late in December a scientist made the first public announcement that he had perfected just such a ray.

BEAST OF BORNEO TO SHOW AT STRAND THEATER IN SAN FRANCISCO JANUARY 20

Far East Productions’ jungle photoplay “Beast of Borneo” is scheduled to start an indefinite run at the Strand theater, San Francisco, Saturday, Jan. 20, according to an announcement made by Donald K. Lawyer, in charge of the exploitation of the production. The film was made in part on the island of Borneo and features Borneo Joe, two-year-old orang-utan, captured in the far eastern jungles. The cast includes Mae Stuart, John Preston, Eugene Sylaford, Doris Brook and a horde of native Borneans.

BATCHELLER IS BACK FROM EAST

Completing a survey of audience reactions, George R. Batcheller, president of Chesterfield Pictures, today had returned to Hollywood from New York. Batcheller spent three weeks in New York, and visited theaters in key cities of the Middle West, to determine what the public wants in film entertainment.

CARILLO FAMILY REUNITED

After something more than twenty years of married life, Mr. and Mrs. Leo Carillo yesterday embarked on a unique adventure—a second honeymoon. It is to take place in an early California hacienda that Carillo, currently featured in Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer’s spectacular “Viva Villa,” has been building for two years in Santa Monica canyon. It is a replica of a home in which Carillo, descendant of five generations of California Dons, passed his childhood. Mrs. Carillo, arriving from New York yesterday on the steamship Santa Rosa after four years away from California, saw the hacienda for the first time last night. “I had to build it to lure her here,” Carillo said. Arriving with Mrs. Carillo were the couple’s sixteen-year-old daughter, Antoinette; Clara, their faithful cook, and Rex C., a Norwegian elk hound, said to be second of its breed to reach California.

“Nana” Proves Surprisingly Good Vehicle for Anna Sten

Emile Zola’s novel as adapted for the screen by Willard Mack and Harry Wagstaff Gribble proved a surprisingly good vehicle for Anna Sten and further proved that Mr. Samuel Goldwyn is one game guy to produce such a story at this time. We would point our finger at Dorothy Arzner and say that her direction of such splendid artists like Richard Bennett, Lionel Atwill, Phillips Holmes and Mae Clarke, helped to make this picture whatever box-office success it will attain, because she made this quartet of players so human that theatergoers’ attention will be focused on their movements throughout the photoplay, and since they are the pinwheel characters, one is always sure to please the majority of audiences. Others who play their parts well are Jessie Ralph, Lawrence Grant, Muriel Kirkland, Reginald Owen, Helen Freeman, Hardie Albright, Ferdinand Gottschalk, Lauri Beatty, Barry Norton and Branch Stevens. The film editing is credited to Frank Lawrence. If you ask us, he did a fine job for he never lost sight of the fact that “Nana” was the central figure and should be played for all she is worth against all arts, and he had plenty to contend with in cutting this picture down to footage. A word of praise should go to Gregg Toland for the beautiful and artistic photography. Richard Rodgers and Lorenz Hart furnished the song, “That’s Love,” with the musical score by Alfred Newman. Art direction by Richard Day, sound by Frank Maher, costumes by Travis Banton, Adrian and John W. Harkrider. Anna Sten is a combination of Marlene Dietrich, Greta Garbo, Lilian Bond and Clara Bow. Figure this out, Mr. Exhibitor, and then hop on Samuel Goldwyn, United Artists, exchanges for a peak at the latest European star in her bow to the United States.

Ken Maynard Clicks in “Wheels of Destiny” for Big U

Ken Maynard can mark up another winner for Universal in “Wheels of Destiny,” a typical outdoor story from the pen of Nate Gatzert, who is also responsible for the screen play and dialogue, that will please the young and old alike, for it has the good old fashioned formula of yesterday via “The Covered Wagon,” brought up to date in an oral film. Alan James directed Ken, and seems to understand both the star’s personality and the narrative thoroughly, and is worthy of special praise for his part in the production. The supporting cast, like in all Maynard pictures, have plenty of opportunities to strut their best wares. Dorothy Dix is the girl who falls in love with “Ken” and they work well together. Philo McCullough comes through with a fine heavy role. Others who add much to the opus are Ken Rice who is a sure-fire comic and gains many laughs; Nelson McDowell gives a fine characterization; Ed Cozen, Fred Mackaye, Fred Sale, Jr., Jay Wilsey, Jack Rockwell, William Gould and Big Tree, all share attention with others already mentioned. The photographic work of Ted McCord was commendable. Chas. Harris edited and Earl Grain handled the sound with Tarzan, the wonder horse, doing some nifty stunts and racing like a streak of lightning with Ken Maynard astride during some thrilling chases and fights with the Indians, which are one of the highlights of the picture.

Educational Signs Buster Keaton — E. H. Allen Prepares Busy Season on Lot

Buster Keaton, the screen’s famous “frozen-faced” comedian, has signed for a series of six comedies for immediate production by Educational Pictures. E. H. Allen, general manager in charge of production at Educational studios, has assigned Ernest Pagano and Ewart Adamson to the first story of the series which will mark the return to the screen of Buster Keaton who has been inactive for nearly a year. It is possible that Louise Keaton, who recently made her screen debut at Educational, may also appear with her brother. The return of Keaton to the field which made him famous, brings him among Educational’s imposing list of screen comedians which includes Andy Clyde, Moran and Mack, Tom Howard, Ernest Trues, Stoopnagle and Budd, Junior Coghill and others.

Moving Movie Throng by John Hall

That part of the Motion Picture NRA Code relating to Hollywood studios is now in the "official interpretation" stage. Official interpretation Number One, issued by the Producers Association, signed by Mr. Pat Casey (later interpreted by Mr. Casey), states that the Code does NOT say that a "bit" player shall receive $25.00 per day for playing a "bit." Mr. Casey says the "bit" player receives $25.00 for playing the "bit," if the time consumed in playing the "bit" is "ten minutes or ten days." Mr. Casey (in his interpretation), calls the attention of all concerned to the fact that the Code does not say "day." This "interpretation" is in the hands of Hollywood Screen Players' Guild and will be submitted to the Code Authority. In the meantime it behoves all Hollywood screen players, including extras and "bit" players, NOT to jeopardize their livelihood by becoming involved in arguments with studio employees and executives. They must leave the settlement of all arguments to THEIR ORGANIZATION LEADERS. All who have complaints to make should make them IN WRITING to the Guild. Now that picture workers HAVE a real organization, personal arguments with studio employees carrying out orders from their superiors are unnecessary; wholly useless and can do nothing but cause suffering by the INDIVIDUAL Actors who start them—PERSONALLY...

To all such we say: Settle ALL wage and work disputes THROUGH YOUR ORGANIZATION... Assistant directors and script clerks had a fine time at their New Year's Ball, with William Desmond Master of Ceremonies and William Holland Chairman of the Entertainment Committee. The event was filled with surprises, including the singing of "Bud" Jamison, radio singer, who sang "Down Underneath," a melodious ballad written by Eddie Gleason. This number looks like a hit... Several of our lady stars WILL go on being skinny. Pipestem legs mean not enough flesh on the bone structurally... And they are ugly... Who says "depression"? A local scribe tells of a movie star buying a 20-carat emerald... Just another rap for Hollywood... The Los Angeles Playground Department "rehabilitated" 500 professional musicians, taking them from picket work. All large cities have similar armies... If picture theaters used real orchestras, these starving professional musicians would NOT be on public charity... Just another reason why picture houses are empty... The fans want real music—and they resent being denied... Think it over...

The tragic death of Frank Geraghty, assistant production manager at Columbia, drowned during the recent flood, stands as a fine lesson to all organization men. Led by Dick Le-Strange, head of the Assistant Directors' Association, Geraghty's widow and five orphaned children will receive substantial financial aid... Loyalty in drama is a fine thing, fitting tribute to loyalty in life... WHEN EXECUTIVES TALK: "Skillful co-operative production can very quickly bring the industry back to its former high place."—Irving Thalberg... Four admissions and one recommendation: The industry must be brought BACK. There is HOPE if the right men take hold. And there is no high place NOW. Things are NOT what they CAN be... Well, well!
"Woman Unafraid" Will Highly Entertain the Masses

Lucile Gleason Tops Work of Such Stellar Players as Skeets Gallagher, Lona Andre, Barbara Weeks and Supporting Cast

Striking a popular cord in picture making through paying tribute to the women of to-day, and to Goldsmith Productions have a very entertaining picture in "Woman Unafraid," starring Lucile Gleason with a cast that more than hold up their part in the photoplay. For instance, here are names to conjure with: Jason Robards, Warren Hymer, Eddie Phillips, Ruth Clifford, Richard Elliott, Laura Treadwell, Franklin Parker, Harry Shutan, James Mack, Jean Porter, Baby Waring, George Gubil, Harry Arras, and those three girls—Erin Le Bissoniere, Julia Kingdon and Joyce Coade who give an extra fine performance in very important parts allotted them in the picture. The story and screen play by May E. McCarthy rings true to form, and holds your interest all the way. It is especially built for entertainment purposes with very little to tax the audience's mind, while they watch this tale of the struggles of policemen to maintain law and order against the greatest political ring which resorts to all sorts of rackets to gain their end. William J. Cowen, assisted by Harold R. Minter, is responsible for the direction which played such an important part in making this picture the entertaining screen play that it is. Along with Director Cowen, credit is due to Richard Elliot for dialogue direction. Gilbert Warren's photography was of the highest class. The settings and background, work of Lewis J. Rachmil, was worthy of any production. Harry J. Takiff looked after the production. J. S. Westmoreland, sound engineer. The film editing was the work of Helen Worn and Ted Kent. The production was supervised by Ken Goldsmith and George E. Kann. Exhibitors need have no fear to play "Woman Unafraid" because it is checked full of situations which go to make real entertainment.

Kitty McHugh and Roger Gray Shine in "Nice Girls" at Music Box

Paul Trebichat has an entertaining farce showing at the Music Box in "Nice Girls." It is a wee bit naughty, but withal very funny. Kitty McHugh and Roger Gray are very funny in their roles. Kitty is real screen material. The rest of the cast, Courtney Haynes, Rollo Dix, Frank Gallagher, Jimmie Malone, Catherine Cotter, Louis Dodd, Eddie Jones, William Martin, Teddy Armond, Frank Dawson and Harry Hollingsworth all catch due consideration for their work in the play. Jessie M. Roberts wrote the play which was well staged and directed by Paul Trebichat. Filmland should support the Music Box play so that the producer can continue to bring something new to our door for our amusement and edification.

"The Ghost Train" Should Draw Plenty of Attention from Theatergoers

George K. Arthur offers another very entertaining play at the Hollywood Playhouse, "The Ghost Train," with Paul Trebichat as Arthur Ridgeley and staged by E. E. Clive, who also plays the leading role and in such a manner that he keeps his audience roaring with laughter throughout the three acts. He has some very excellent support in Doris Lloyd, Arthur Treacher and Elspeth Dudgeon. The young romancers, Henry Wadsorth and Lucile Tuttle, are very capable artists and worth the attention of the producers. Others who carried out their part of the show were Clare Verdura, Gerald Rogers, Henry Mowbray, Eric Snowden and Edgar Sinnott. If any of the fair sex are troubled with weak hearts they better forget it if they go to see "The Ghost Train" for it is full of chills and thrills.

This is the Sixth International Group Players' production.

Edward Ludwig Does Sweet Job of Directing Monogram's Latest Feature—"A Woman's Man"

Wallace Ford, John Halliday, Marguerite De La Motte and Tom Dugan Score Big in Leading Parts

To Director Edward Ludwig should go the main credit for making Monogram's latest feature, "A Woman's Man," the success it really will be with the theatergoers, for he held his actors and actresses in check just enough to make them appear as real honest-to-goodness human beings rather than a lot of manikins who are being controlled on strings like puppets. Credit, too, should be given Douglas Fairbanks, who did such a fine job in editing the story for the screen from Adela Rogers St. John's story in the Cosmopolitan magazine. The work of Wallace Ford, John Halliday, Marguerite de La Motte and Tom Dugan was of the gilt-edge order. Miss de La Motte gave us the treat of treats, for she has been out of pictures so long, in fact, almost forgotten since the advent of the talkies; she came through like the real trouper that she was in the silent days. Wallace Ford never gave a more human performance, unless it was in "The Bad Girl" on the Belasco theater stage. That excellent actor, John Halliday, was superb and Tom Dugan stole the show for sure-fire laughs with Kitty Kelly making him step every inch of the way for first honors. The prize-fight sequence was a wow with Jack Perry putting over a K. O. on Wallace Ford in a most thrilling manner while Bob Perry refereed. Others in the cast who did their roles well were Jameson Thomas, Wallace Clark, George Mayo, Don Douglas, Bill Brown, Harry Greer and Joyce Coade, whose beautiful photography was capably handled by Joseph Valentine with the work of John A. Stranksy, Jr. Trem Carr, vice-president of Monogram, was in charge of production. Ben Verschleiser supervised.

Regis Toomey Stars in "Sailor Beware" at Mayan Theater

The much talked of stage production of "Sailor Beware," from the pen of Kenyon Nicholson and Charles Rohrbach, which opened New Year's day, is plenty hot and saucy for the Angel City theater-goers to accept. However, the work and sincerity of Regis Toomey takes the curse of the continuous barrage of slang and dirt that reaches across the footlights to roar of laughter at the antics and sayings of the characters in the play. Next in line for attention is Johnnie Owen, who really is Johnnie Quillan of the famous Quillan family and brother of Eddie. He plays the buddy of Regis Toomey and wins plenty of laughs as large flames. Ray Cooke, Lane Greene, Virginia Kami, Ruth Fallows and Calla Wartz are worthy of special mention. Others who took part in the play were Frank Marlowe, Jack Foss, John Alexander, Wayne Forrest, Tal Henderson, Carl Krivak and Rafael Storm. We want to call particular attention to Muriel Kirkland who played the most difficult lead opposite Regis Toomey and more than held up her end of the play. Two others worthy of special attention—Harry Hooper and sweet photographe was capably handled by Joseph Valentine with the work which is on a part with any of the others in the show. The production was well staged by Edgar MacGregor, produced by Belasco and Curran in association with Howard Lang, through an arrangement with Courtnay Burr.

Guy Lombardo Is to Remain at Cocoanut Grove Until March 17

Guy Lombardo and his Royal Canadians are to remain at the Cocoanut Grove until March 17, according to reports that have reached us. Following this the musical aggregation will go to San Francisco to the St. Francis hotel, and Ted Fio-Rito will return to the Grove. Ben L. Frank and his charming wife staged a private cocktail party in the Louis Siene Room last Friday for the four Lombardos and their friends. It was a huge success with society rubbering shoulders with the press, cinema and theatrical stars, while nightly in the Cocoanut Grove you can find the best-known cafe loco in the Southland applauding the Lombardo orchestra. One noticeable thing about the band is that Guy Lombardo allows every musician's best ability to come forward. He works his numbers around so that they actually do solos without their being forced into the center of the stage. It is one of the sweetest and most finished musical aggregations that have played the Grove in years. Col. Harry Baine the other evening attended a birthday party here in honor of Mrs. W. E. Dowling tendered her by her son, Danny. Marjorie Crawford was also present.

Mills Brothers at Sebastian's Cotton Club

The Four Mills Brothers at Frank Sebastian's Cotton Club prove themselves to be the men of the hour in café de for them are nightly packing this Culver City place of amusement with the best known celebrities of stage and screen, who come nightly to hear the boys sing and play on their guitars. The Mills Brothers are starring in the greatest of all Creole Revues that Frank Sebastian has ever offered. He has Rutledge and Taylor, Eddie Anderson and Johnny Taylor, Paty Hunter, May Diggs, Dudley Dickerson, Flora Washington, Sleepy Williams, those Three Ebony Steppers and the hotter than hot Creole chorus that outshines most of the beauties that work in the front line shows on the legitimate stages.

VI BARLOW AND BILL BENTER CONTINUE TO CREATE NEW SHOWS FOR BOWERY

Vi Barlow and Bill Benter are staging "Cruising," which is a sort of world tour with the artists on the program at The Bowery, representing the various countries. Aside from Vi Barlow and Bill Benter, you will find The Rhythm Five, Parisian Trio, Mini Lena Ali, Chas. Wells and Mike Angelo. Bill Fleck's Bowery orchestra is still going gling 'em with line music.

CAFE DE PAREE CONTINUES TO ATTRACT ATTENTION OF CAFE LOVERS

Cafe De Paree, opposite Westlake Park, continues to attract attention of cafe lovers with its type of entertainment it is offering and the fine music furnished by Bob Holman and his orchestra. Mona Ray is the star of one of the best variety shows staged here. Russ Cantor and Mark Harrington are the ace singers. Popular prices prevail at this spot tonight and day.

Club Ballyhoo Changes Shows the 15th

The Texas Redheads are due to return to the Club Ballyhoo January 15th as headliners of Wallace Milam's latest show, "Ballyhooing," which he has been staging with such great success for the past months. Joey Ray and his orchestra and Maxine Lewis are the holdovers by popular request.

Back to the Good Old Days

Marchetti's Cafe on Wilshire Boulevard in the heart of Beverly Hills, should once more unite old friends when we think back to the good old days when Marchetti's, located on Western Avenue and Fourth street, led the field and was the scene of some of the greatest parties among the elite of the Southland. It was known the world over for the good and food will service rendered by the Marchetti family.

VISITING SISTER

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Miller have as their house guest Miss Ruby Palmo from Galveston, Texas. Miss Palmo is the sister of Mrs. Miller. We ran into them at the Montmartre the other night, and strange as it may sound, Harry Miller used to be the big shot manager of this very self-same spot years ago.

Al Gordon Wins Eighth Straight — Sets Another Record

Is there no one in the racing game capable of stopping Al Gordon's winning streak? Last Sunday Al made the rest of the field look like a pack of speeding turtles in the 200 lap feature race of the 1933 season. At no time was anyone within striking distance of the newly crowned King of Castorway, though towards the last of the race while Gordon was "coasting" Rex Mays, running second, thrilled the packed grandstand with an attempt to overtake him. Al let Mays get within a quarter of a lap and then stepped out and left him as though he was tied to the track. Mays' second position won for him the second place in the Pacific Coast Championship. The next race to be held at the Legion Ascot Speedway will see all of the Class A cars equiped with new 205 cu. in. Miller motors in accordance with the new ruling of the A.A.A. for 1934. This move was made necessary through the propaganda against racing because of the danger to the drivers. It is hoped—and we believe it will—that the new motors will make driving ability a larger element in the winning of a race and will equalize competition. You would be surprised if you knew the difference a quarter of a second a lap makes in the handling of these tricky cars. It will be interesting to see if Rex Mays can display the skill that we know such drivers as Wilbur Shaw, Al Gordon, Kelly Petillo and Chet Gardner possess. The Italian Helmet, last week, was presented by Miss Phyllis Barrington and what a surprise that sweet little gal received. Al Gordon won it, of course, and, as you know, Al is no shrinking violet when it comes to kissing a fair maiden. Phyllis said she was going to recommend Al to Mae West for the love interest in her next picture—Mae demands a vast knowledge of the art of love in her male leads—or so the story goes. Well, that's all for today, friends, kumupmesumtime.

RKO-Radio Announces $4,000,000 Program

JOHN H. LAWSON IS AGAIN ELECTED TO LEAD SCRIBES

The Screen Writers' Guild has cleared all decks and has voted to take a real hand in the NRA Code procedure to protect its rights. The vote was cast Monday evening, Jan. 15, at the Writers Club, brought the following members on the various boards in their respective positions: Code Authority, John Howard Lawson; Agency Committee, Ernest Pascal and Wells Root; Writer-Producer Board, Oliver H. P. Garrett, Rupert Hughes, Ralph J. Block, John F. Natterford, Seton I. Miller, Gladys Lehman, Samuel K. Ornitz, John Emerson and James Gleason. Out of a membership of almost 600, 200 were present. 132 sent in their proxies and it was said to have been the hottest contested election held to date. It looks like the screen writers are following in the footsteps of the Screen Actors' Guild by really organizing and sticking together for the good of their calling. It is our belief, if the scribes will throw all personal feelings to the four winds and will stick together, the industry will hold them in higher esteem and pictures will be allowed to have the benefit of the real minds who create the stories for our present day talkies. No house divided against itself succeeds and it is high time that the writers get together and work hand in hand with the body just elected.

PLANS 17 PICTURES: MERIAN C. COOPER IS BACK ON JOB

Merian C. Cooper, vice-president in charge of production at RKO-Radio studios, started the wheels of production humming when he returned to the office this week after an absence of four months and announced the immediate production of 17 new pictures, involving an expenditure of approximately $4,000,000. Completely recovered from the illness which kept him away from his desk for a long period, Mr. Cooper plunged into work today on a production plan which will provide employment for more than 3500 people in all branches of studio work. Added interest was given the announcement when it was learned that the 17 pictures will go into production within the next seven months and seven of them will start within the next seven weeks. Pictures slated to go into production within the next seven weeks include: "Finishing School," with Ginger Rogers, Frances Dee, Billie Burke and Mitzi Green; "The Crime Doctor," with Wynne Gibson, Nils Asther and Ada Cavell; Clive Brook's new starring vehicle, "Family Man," "Dance of Desire," Jimmy Durante's starring vehicle, "Strictly Dynamite," and "Alien Corn" starring Ann Harding.

Have You Met the "Man From Dublin," Peter Ward?

Al Jolson and Dolores Del Rio

When "Wonder Bar," as produced by Warner Brothers-First National, reaches the screen, we are to see Al Jolson in his greatest screen role since "The Jazz Singer." Dolores Del Rio plays the feminine lead opposite the famous "Mammy" crooner. Pictured above are the popular artists in a scene in the picture which, it is said, is one of the most dramatic moments in the photoplay.

THEY START YOUNG—as Baby Le Roy made an official call to the Norman Taurog home to visit Baby Patricia. She showed the young man around like a great lady especially calling attention to the nursery with its carved nursery rhymes on the wall and the play room with a myriad of toys.

What’s the attraction—in that apartment house where Mae West and George Raft live? No sooner did the famous Ethel Merman arrive in Hollywood to play in “We’re Not Dressing” for Paramount Pictures, than she decided to move into the very same place with the air of Broadway in its halls.

“DON’T FALL IN LOVE”—is what Columbia Pictures selected for Grace Moore. This yarn concerns a vocal contest winner who is sent to Italy as a reward and while there she encounters all the difficulties that a young and beautiful singer meets. Great stuff for this famous singer and especially for Victor Schertzinger directs.

“TWENTY-FOUR HOURS AFTER”—Harry Cohn of Columbia saw a preview of Ann Sothern’s picture he signed her on a long term contract and not a minute too soon as the local critics raved over her work so much that the scouts of other producers were lining the young lady up for their own.

“GET ALONG DOGGIE”—is well under way at the Talisman studios as Harry Langdon, under the Arvid Gillstrom banner, decided to make this one there and this time the writers are Dean Ward and the rotund Vernon Dent who not only acts but wields a mean pen in the writing field.

“ALL OF ME,” a Paramount Picture with

HELEN MACK SCORING HEAVILY

DIRECTOR FLOOD and PHOTOGRAPHER VICTOR MILNER SHARE HONORS

Here was a story that was taken from the play “Chrysalis” by Rose Albert Porter and made into a screen play by Sidney Buchman and Thomas Mitchell that seemed rather abstruse in its final rendering to the theatre crowd. The story centers around a society girl, engaged to a brilliant engineer, who breaks off from him for some unknown reason. While on a slumbering tour this couple sees in a cheap café a man and a girl seriously discussing some trouble the girl is in. She is evidently in great difficulty, but loves him so deeply that it seems small to her while the man, who is a criminal, is trying to get the girl set up. They have their own problems and later get into a hotel to use the couple and try to befoul her. Later on the criminal is sent to prison, but escapes with the aid of the society girl, but the police pursue and catch up with him in a furnished room. When they see escape impossible, the criminal and the girl friend jump out of the window which evidently brings the society girl to her senses as she finds out that she really loves her former fiancé.

One of the best casts of the season in which Fredric March plays the part of the fiancé of the society girl to perfection, and Miriam Hopkins with that peculiar voice of hers registers heavily as the society girl. George Raft was extremely good in the character of the gangster. Nella Walker was perfect as the mother of the society girl, with William Collier, Sr., Gilbert Emery, Blanche Frederici, Guy Usher, John Marston, Edgar Kennedy and Kitty Kelly playing the other characters splendidly. The hit of the production was Helen Mack and how that girl can act.

As the devoted sweetheart of the gangster she would wring a tear from anyone and should eventually become one of our best romantic actresses. The direction of James Flood was adequate and with the gorgeous photography of Victor Milner everything that could be wished.

DAVE HUTTON AND HIS SPATS—was one of the recent sights at Sardi’s paying his bill to the pretty cashier, Marilyn Day. She is the youngest of the Tea Terry, Bennett Rubin, clever Helen Mack, Colleen Moore, the Beery boys, Wally and Noah, Mozzelle Brittonne and her boy friend husband, and a host of others were dining in this favorite spot.

TOOK THE TITLE SERIOUSLY—as Ann Sothern, under contract to Columbia Pictures, has had three proposals of marriage since the preview of her picture “Let’s Fall in Love.” If this is the result of only a preview, what a job for someone to answer letters when the picture is on a regular release.

THE GIRL’S CLEVER—as they say Jean Harlow has completed a full-length novel with the intriguing title of “Today is Tonight,” and they say the book is good. Perhaps that is the reason of not seeing the popular platinum blonde around the night spots as she is burning midnight oil at home.

NEW YORK CALLS—one of the regular fellows here and we are all sorry to see him go is Arch Reeves, so long a friend of scribes trying to ferret the news around the studios, will be moving to the big city as he switches places with Gabe York, the man in charge there, so all we can say is “Good luck, Arch; welcome Gabe!”

SHE PLAYS BOTH—as Sylvia Sidney will do one of those dual roles that every actor likes so well. Her next being “Thirty Day Princess,” one of those clever Clarence Budington Kelland yarns for Paramount Pictures. Lots of action and particularly suited to this clever player.

THEY GO TO COLLEGE—but not to study and particular science as Wheeler and Woolsey will enter three universities on three separate days to absorb some gags and wise cracks for their next fun film, “Frat Heads.” Their side-kick and best worker, cute Dorothy Lee, will help them through college at the same time.

THE FILMARTÉ THEATER—has some splendid screen fare on its list with Rene Clair’s “14th of July,” next, followed by the clever British made “I Was a Spy,” then Universal, a Universal, a Universal featuring Gloria Stuart and John Boles: the French film, “Moon Over Morocco,” and Rex Ingram’s “Baroud.”

A SECRET COLOR PROCESS—is almost completed at Radio studios by a well-known artist, Robert Jones, internationally known as a stage designer. To show you how important this is, they have decided to have Ann Harding lead the way from the old black and white idea to the new color system.

AUTHORS, TAKE NOTICE!!—Virginia Kay, who is about to reopen the Spotlight theater, is open for an original problem play dealing with domestic strife. She has already made arrangements with Max Gabel to stage his “Public Opinion” at an early date and has under consideration another of his brain children.

JOHN STONE, PRODUCER—sounds good to us and especially as they have assigned him Sally Eilers’ first picture, “Three on a Honey-moon,” with such names as Henrietta Crossman, ZaSu Pitts, Bruce Cabot and Irene Bentley in the cast, but John has had a lot of experience in the writing end and that counts.

DANGER AT THE CROSS ROADS—as we noticed several heads together at the Paramount studios, including Carole Lombard, Bing Crosby and Jack La Rue, but the great secret was revealed when we found out that they were trying to invent some new gag to welcome the latest Hollywood beneficent, Gary Cooper, on his return.

HAVE BLONDES BIG FEET?—and the answer is “YES” from the heads of the costume department at Fox studios, when they measured some three hundred show girls that were being fitted for shoes and the final decision was one size larger for the light heads over their brassette sisters.

THOSE DARK GLASSES—worn by Rudy Vallee over on the Fox lot were not as you might suppose to disguise himself from the process servers who seem to want his address, but to keep away the dreaded “Conjunctivitis” (now ain’t that a big word?), but to you it is only Kleig eyes, the same old trouble with a different name.

THE GIRL FRIEND—doesn’t mean what you think, but is the name owned by Taun Garnett, now in demand by so many studios since his return from Europe. Some day, Taun says, he is going to make a long trip on this same “girl friend,” but by the way it looks now, it is a long way off.

THE CRACK OF DAWN—finds Victor McLagen supervising a crew of twelve men and three tractors, clearing the mess left by the late storm in L. A. Canada. This is just a side line for Victor as he is being featured in one of Paramount’s best features, “The Man Who Broke His Heart,” but he was always a demon for work.
Edward G. Robinson to Play "Napoleon"
With Kay Francis as "Josephine"—
Frank Borzage Directs

Conjecture continues in Hollywood anec to the fortunate actress who will be cast as Josephine opposite Edward G. Robinson in the forthcoming production "Napoleon." Fan mail has delgued Warner Brothers-First National studios declaring that despite the accepted capabilities of Gloria Swanson and Katherine Cornell, both of whom have been hinted at in connection with the role, Kay Francis is the logical candidate. Miss Francis, according to her admirers, more closely fits the physical characteristics of the famous Josephine, and no more capable dramatic actress in Hollywood can be found than she. The tremendous appeals to the studio may not go unheeded, for the success that came to the combination of Edward G. Robinson and Kay Francis in their recent picture "I Loved a Woman," attests to the practicality of teaming these artists. Frank Borzage, who is to direct "Napoleon," is hard at work on preparations for filming the famous story.

May Robson Does a Fine "Hetty Green"
Character in "Rich Widow" — Director
Reiner Helps Save a Dud

M-G-M has an audience pleaser in "Rich Widow" starring May Robson. In it she does a "Hetty Green" character that is made to order for her, and is ably supported by Lewis Stone and Billy Bakewell with Jean Parker coming in for no end of attention. Others who command attention for finished performances are Tad Alexander, Reginald Barlow, Walter Walker, Claude Gillingwater, Mary Forbes and Eddie Borden who gains a few fine laughs. To our way of thinking Lewis Stone should be brought in on the finish and the whole matter cleared up with May Robson forgetting and forgiving all that has happened. Charles F. Reiner made an entertaining picture out of a very mamby-pamby story, written by Dudley Murphy and La Mar Trotti, with the screen play by Zelda Sears and Eve Greene. Len Smith's photography was OK. Lucien Hubbard handled the production. May Robson is a fine actress, but deserves better material than they dished up for her in this one.

Mrs. Wallace Reid and Melville Shyer Good
Directorial Combination

"ROAD TO RUIN" CLICKS AT TALLY'S CRITERION —
"SUCKER MONEY" ALSO GOING BIG EVERYWHERE

Willis Kent struck upon a happy idea when he assigned Mrs. Wallace Reid and Melville Shyer as directors on his features for they have to their credit to date two pictures which have made money for both exhibitors and producer. For instance, "Road to Ruin" drew big houses at Tally's Criterion and won no end of praise for the directors. Helen Foster stars in the opus with Nell O'Day and Gene Bowles more than holding up their end of the picture. Mrs. Wallace Reid has made good, both as an independent producer and director on her own, and her sharing honors with Melville Shyer on the direction proves too that she appreciates the knowledge and ability of this most youthful director who has been production manager of some of the best inde-dependent pictures made on the west coast. "Road to Ruin," like "Sucker Money," which the pair also directed very successfully for Producer Willis Kent, recently scored a big hit at the Los Angeles theater in L. A.

Wheeler and Woolsey Score Big Hit in "Hips, Hips, Hooray," Directed by Mark Sandrich

Bert Wheeler and Robert Woolsey appear at their best in "Hips, Hips, Hooray" from the pens of Harry Ruby, Bert Kalmar and Edward Kaufman. The music and lyrics by Harry Ruby and Bert Kalmar. The direction of Mark Sandrich is on a par with the work of the stars, for every word and action of the players went straight across the line to a ten-trike. Thelma Tedd, too, shares attention with Wheeler and Woolsey, while Dorothy Lee's best work is with Bert Wheeler when they sing "Keep on Doing What You Are Doing to Me." However, in all fairness, you will have to admit that theIF the stars cut throughout the unreeling of this story is well worth a repeater in the near future. Others who command attention are George Meeker, James Burris, Matt Briggs and Spencer Charters. Dave Gould's dance numbers are a big hit and add much to the opus. The musical score was under the direction of Max Steiner. David Abel's photography was beautiful and his temps helped put the picture over in a big way. Splendid credit should go to Van Nest Polglase and Carroll Clark for the art work. P. J. Faulkner, Jr., sound; Basil Wrangell, film editing. "Hips, Hips, Hooray" steps along so fast that one feels he is watching a cartoon comedy rather than a talkie. Wheeler and Woolsey's tomfoolery was funnier than ever, simply because they were given something to do worthy of their talents.

Martin Freed Doubles in Brass at Warner Bros.-First National Studios

Martin Freed, who is the musical director for Al Jolson, no more than finished working on "Wonder Boy" for the famous comedian at the Warner Bros.-First National studios under the supervision of Leo Forbstein, than he was assinged to other duties of which the most important was the recording and directing of the musical score on Victor Herbert's "Fortune Teller," starring Emilio Caruso, Jr., in Spanish and Italian versions of this famous score. It looks like Martin Freed will decide to stay on the west coast with the Warner Bros. after all, as he is a very busy man on the lot, too valuable to let get away. Al Jolson expects him to go east for his radio broadcasts and Martin has a number of offers from New York producers for musicals and other programs sponsored by some of the biggest studios in the metropolis.

DOING GOOD WORK

Frances Morris, who played opposite Ralph Bellamy in "Rain," "Seventh Heaven" and "The Patsy" on the stage, and was Robert Woolsey's leading lady on Broadway, has been doing some very good bits in numerous pictures. Her latest one was as the emotional mother in "Miss Fane's Baby Is Stolen," which was released recently.

Alfred E. Green Directs "Fur Coats," a
Warner-First National Production

Last week cameras started turning on "Fur Coats" at the Warner Brothers-
First National Studios, under the direction of Alfred E. Green. The picture is being filmed from the story by Ann Garrick, the cast being headed by Aline MacMahon and Paul Kelly. This is the production for which over $100,000 in ermines, sables and other valuable fur coats have been rented by the studio, and it is on this picture that armed guards are being used for the first time in Hollywood history to guard and protect the "props" and wardrobes of a film.
Battle Royal

The battle royal that is raging in filmdom should stop for not only will it lead to a lot of trouble and worry, but it will interfere with the very purpose that motion pictures are intended for: to-wit: amuse and entertain the world. As in all battle royals, the present controversy between the producers and craftsmen is turning into a free-for-all contest. All sorts of blows are being dealt and some one is bound to fall by the wayside, the victim of an unfair blow. This may in turn kill the goose that lays the golden egg (perhaps she doesn’t lay as regularly as some of us think she does)

Let us all shake hands and make it a happy round-table-picture-making family like it used to be—all work with one thought in mind, ALL FOR ONE AND ONE FOR ALL—and give the amuse-ment world the best pictures we have ever made in the motion picture industry and under the best working conditions ever experienced by its workers.

Moving Movie Throng by John Hall

Things are NOT very quiet along the movie western front. In fact, things are far from quiet. Mr. Sol Rosenblatt, arbiter of things NRA, now headed this way, will find plenty to unmar this interpretation of the Code regulating "on the bit" players by the producers; the union mix-up involving IBEW and IATSE; the Extra complaints—Oh, more, much much more. Mr. Rosenblatt faces one big headache. Here’s luck, Rosey. Or is it just plain Sol? Anyway, there is a dash of paprika in the way. Mae West crashed the front pages. The gal with more "IT" than most cuties dare dream of possessing and much "glamour" than all of our "exotics" rolled into one, invaded the courts of Los Angeles to tell all about how she was robbed of her diamonds. Just about the same time the Mdivani brothers, princes of far away Georgia, involved in trouble over their oil well operations, made a grand entry in court. Our tireless operators report that the Mdivanis drew a skinny house, because the man, woman and child, including officials of all kinds, jammed their way into the court where Mae was testifying. Her show was a riot. Reserves rushed to the place to handle the overflow. Report says Mae outwitted the Mdivanis five to one. Most of the jurors called to serve on the jury to try Mae’s case knew nothing about gangsters—but everyone of them knew about Mae West. Can you beat that gal? Any time Mae West takes the center of the stage all the world rushes for a seat. Jim Timony, her manager, should take a bow. But Jim takes a back seat for Mae. Suggestion to C. B. DeMille: Mae West for Cleopatra and Gary Grant for Antony. Fireworks. Mr. DeMille, Fireworks. Compared with this combination, Caesar’s fodder’s hill but a backyard. OR THE HUM- NAIL REVIEWS: "Duck Soup," starring the Marx Brothers, is a drama so intense its poignant irongy makes one gasp. Oh, yes; it is meant to be funny—but the borderline was crossed—Rubicon dividing comedy and tragedy—and we have a soul-gripping picture of humanity at its lowest mental ebb. "ALICE IN WONDERLAND": In which May Robson’s line "Off with his head" is a grimly humorous reminder of ONE slogan Hollywood should ponder. The picture is oke. This ends our review section—for the present. Agitating war with Japan just to sell papers is a dangerous kind of circulation gag. "What could Japan gain by victory?" asks one section of a Hearst paper.

In another section of the same paper, Arthur Brisbane, Hearst chief editor, answers the question thiswise: "The Japanese could not win." And to Mr. Hearst, the Hearst and Mr. Brisbane decided who CAN win, we’ll go on with our untangling of the NRA codes. That long, loud scream emitted by a local trade paper against Federal investigation of pictures costs was NOT good for the men threatened or Hollywood in general. Very plainly, it squawks to all the world that Hollywood is AFRAID. It was NOT a wise, even sensible, thing to do.

“JULY 14TH”—THE GREAT RENE CLAIR'S LATEST AT THE FILMARTHE THEATER

Rene Clair's name on a French picture is just the same as “Sterling” on silver, the best there can be and the latest from the French studios is one of his best. Here you see intimate scenes of colorful Paris, including a very interesting story that centers around the tenement quarters and the inhabitants of that great city. Jean, a taxi driver, and Anna, the daughter of a flower seller, prepare for her great Fete Day and the two attend one of these famous street dances for which all Paris is noted. When Jean returns to his lodging he finds his former sweetheart, Pola, and while he loves little Anna, the wiles of Pola overcome him and she stays the night. The next morning Anna's mother becomes seriously ill and she runs over to tell Jean of her trouble. Jean is not in but she finds a picture of Pola as well as some of her clothes whereupon she has a quarrel with Jean and he takes Pola to the dance. In the meanwhile Anna's mother dies and she is compelled to leave her lodging. Jean cannot find Anna and thinks of his sweetheart, in fact to try to find her but with no success. In his distress he becomes an accomplice of some underworld characters who propose to rob a cafe. While watching he finds out that this is where Anna works and their scheme fails, but the proprietor discharges Anna. Later on she meets one of her former clients of cabaret days who gives her money with which she purchases a flower wagon. One day a taxi runs into her flower wagon and to her great joy she discovers that it is the one driven by Jean. Once more, after all their troubles, they are re-united.

Marchetti's cafe, Wilshire Boulevard, announces that patents are being sought for the new style ice box refrigeration Milo Marchetti has invented. The cold air in the huge box containing meats and perishable food is blown out and around each object in the room thus giving every article a constant change of ice cold fresh air. It is said to be much more effective than the old process of merely chilling the supplies. The circulating air keeps the foodstuff fresh as well as ice cold, it is claimed. . . . .

The Four Lombardo's Offer a Whole Show

The Four Lombardos, headed by Guy and followed close on his heels by Carmen, Victor and Lebert, are a whole show all by themselves nightly at the Coconant Grove in the Ambassador hotel. This quartet could it if they had to give an evening's entertainment to the highest satisfaction of the most critical music lover. The Guy Lombardo Royal Canadian orchestra has made such a hit at the Grove that Ben L. Frank is holding them over to March 17. The crowds have been so large that Jimmy Manos, maître de hotel, has had to have 40 waiters nightly to look after the wants of the guests. The crowds are coming in large groups of anywhere from 10 to 40 people, this goes particular for society and cinema folks who are giving parties at this popular spot last week. Some of the satellites we saw the other night were Mr. and Mrs. Pilbury from Santa Barbara, Adolph Zukor, Lyle Talbot, Bruce Cabot and Adrienne Ames, Clarence Brown and wife (Alice Joyce), Mr. and Mrs. Dave Epstein, Joseph and Fred Santley, Mr. and Mrs. M. C. Levey, the Guy Robinsons, the Ned Marins, Mrs. Roy Del Ruth, Mr. and Mrs. Wallace Ford, Arthur Landau and wife and the Morris Smalls.

Curt Houck is Building a Fine Orchestra

Curt Houck is fast building up a great orchestra at the Roosevelt Hotel Blossom Room. It seems that the boys improve with each night's playing. Letters are flocking in from all over the country about their nightly broadcasts and Joe Mann, in charge of the cafe, is being lauded on all sides for the way the Blossom Room is being conducted. Miss K. Eline Wittman, secretary to General Manager Dave Boice of the Hollywood Roosevelt hotel, is receiving many inquiries from clubs and lodges to hold dinner-dances in the Blossom Room in the very near future. . . . .

Club Airport Gardens' Music and Show Is Lauded Everywhere

George Redman has become the talk of the town through the music that he is offering nightly at the Club Airport Gardens, both for their shows and dances and over the radio. This is the feature attraction offered by Tommy Jacobs, but hold your horses, the variety show tops any offered in the Southland. Georgie Tapps and Elsie Gilbert are knockouts with the great crowds. Both offer something that is far above any acts ever staged hereabouts. The rest of the show is on a par with these numbers. Don and Audrey El-Mere, sentimental dancers, Eva Olivotti and Kearney Walton goal 'em with their numbers in as fine a form as the headliners in music and dancing features.

NIGHT HAWK

CARLO MARCHETTI MAKING NEW FRIENDS AT THE BEVERLY WILSHIRE

Carol Lombardi and his orchestra are making many new friends at the Beverly Wilshire Hotel Gold Room, where they are playing nightly except Monday evenings. This aggregation of musicians seems to fit into this amusement place as perfectly as they would have been playing here for months. This we attribute to Carol Lombard's ability as a maestro to understand the acoustics of the room and the ability of his musicians to properly fill it with the right kind of music under his direction. SUNDAY NIGHTS are the big nights at the Beverly Wilshire Gold Room. We took a peek in at one of these evening events and found quite a number of fine parties, one was Russ Columbo celebrating his birthday by giving a party to Sally Blake, Loretta Young, Spencer Tracy, Lowell Sherman, George Mitchell and others. There were many celebrities present at the other tables. We talked with Mr. and Mrs. Archie Mayo, and waved a fond hello to hundreds of others on all sides as the Missus and yours truly danced to the tunes played by the Lombardi Musical Masters' offerings. One more fine feature about the Lombardi orchestra is that the entertainers who sing and entertain during the dance numbers are without a doubt the best that have come to us. The Beverly Wilshire is worthy of plenty of attention from cafe lovers for it is a quiet and restful place, with the service on a par with the best in the land, and the food the kind that only your mother can make at home sweet home.

CAFFE DE PAREE CONTINUES TO OFFER BOB HOLMAN'S ORCHESTRA

Mlle. Giggie and Alvarado Score Big Hit with a Great Dance

Pete Dokos still offers Bob Holman and his great orchestra as the stellar attraction at the Cafe De Paree. The headline act this week is Mlle. Giggie and Alvarado, the act that made such a hit at the Roosevelt Hotel Blossom Room. The dancers offer their most sensational number at this spot and never fail to stop the show. The beauty about their work is that they seem to enjoy every bit of it themselves as well as the audience does. Starr sisters, Earl Bell, Russ Cantor, Mark Harrington and others round out a great show.

MOE MORTON PLEASES HIS MANY FRIENDS

Moe Morton is operating at 7033 Hawthorn and is being visited nightly by the best known town's people who like night life and a quiet retreat during the late hours. An evening at Moe Morton's is like meeting stars, executives, directors and song writers on the biggest major lots during the busiest working hours.

CAN THIS BE SO?

Andy Clyde had a golf date with W. C. Fields for New Year's Day, right after the "unusual" downfall of rain which inundated most of the tees and greens. Fields claims that Andy took unfair advantage of him, as he showed up wearing a deepsea divers suit, thus winning the game by default as Fields could not "play through." . . . .

PERRY'S BRASS RAIL SINGING WAITERS INVADE MOVIES

Bob Perry's Brass Rail is one of the most popular show places of Hollywood Boulevard, singing and performing waiters offering a novel note in Hollywood night life. Yesterday the band of ten waiters, pianist, bartenders and cooks, together with Bob Perry himself, moved on masse to the Warner Brothers-First National studios to perform in a sequence of "Hot Air," in which there is used a perfect replica of the popular night-spot. Dick Powell, Pat O'Brien, Ginger Rogers and other members of the cast listened with interest to the melodies of the evening as rendered by the accomplished waiters. "Hot Air" is from the original by Jerry Wald and Paul Foider Moss and is being filmed under the direction of Ray Enright.

833 CLUB SINGER TO BE MARRIED

Marilyn Morgan and C. C. Roth are said to be married this week. Miss Morgan is the charming vocalist who has been making such a hit at the 833 Club. . . . .

GAY NINETIES CLOSES AND OPENS

The Gay Nineties closed one day and opened the next under new management, changing the whole set-up, show, music and what have you. It was one of the big surprises of night life row.

VINCE BARNETT PASSES UP NIGHT CLUBS

While Mrs. Gennieve Barnett in Detroit, Mich., attending her father's funeral, Vince has turned the night clubs down cold and is bowling at a place on Vermont Avenue with Wallace Ford, George De Verde and others.
From the Note Book:

We're glad to get back to the enjoyable job of writing a Kiddi column. Glad, too, that we have a little girl to write about June Miller, a little new sportswriter. Now happened again new.

SPORTS!

Sailed will mount Her finished Scott, Hopkins, too, for Holt “Eddie Bastin” in the El Trio. Flooded his location with Santa Temple in till the seven-year role, it seems to be a good thing. Several years ago, I worked as a publicist for IMPACT, and I really enjoyed working with the studio's leading lady, Barbara Stanwyck. She was a true professional and always a pleasure to be around. The studio was located in Hollywood, and it was a great experience.

CHARLES BASTIN, FRENCH ACTOR IN HOLLYWOOD

Charles Bastin is known as “Le Petit Charly” in French films. He is twelve years old and began his career when four in Paris. He has several French pictures to his credit. Came to New York when six years old and modeled for many national firms, also made many commercial movies. “Le Petit Charly” made several shorts for Fox while in New York. Charles is a blond with blue eyes, is 4’10” and rides horseback expertly, practicing several times a week at a local academy. Speaks English as well as his native tongue with hardly an accent. So with Hollywood screaming for newcomers, here is a real one with much experience and entirely capable. He will make his American debut soon.

DELMAR WATSON AGAIN WORKS WITH CHIC SALE

Delmar Watson, who made such a hit with Chic Sale in “The Big Bugler,” is again working with him in “Oil Well,” under the direction of Del Lord for Phil Ryan Productions. Delmar just finished a great part in “Fugitive Lovers,” with Robert Montgomery and Madge Evans at the M-G-M studios.

UP IN THE AIR—Clarence Brown, one of the best known directors at M-G-M, gets the best ideas for some of his productions and he worked on his latest, “Pretty Sadie McKee,” in this way. Out any state, he secured two of the best players on the lot with Joan Crawford and Arthur Jarrett as leading characters.

WHEN HE FINISHES—one of Universal’s greatest pictures of the year, “Elizabeth and Mary,” with lovely Gloria Stuart in the leading role, Lowell Sherman, who picks his jobs, will direct another of those Elmer Rice plays, “Left Bank,” that seems to be a good screen material.

Eugene De Rue, who has been supervising French pictures in Paris, wishes to be remembered to his friends and sends word that he will soon be in our midst again.

Hollywood Legion Stadium

“Gorilla” Jones floored Tony Poloni in the first last Tuesday night, but could not keep the rugged and willing Tony out of the going. The result was another poor showing for Jones for the go went the whole ten rounds with Tony getting stronger and Jones weaker. The crowd was glad when it was over and Jones took the nod. Bobby Pacheco entered the winner class to unseated Ceferino Garcia, state champ. He took two rounds and was going good in the third—when Ceferino backed away and caught Bobby with a right upper-cut and the bout was over. Pacheco tried but he could not get up. He was out! Tough break, Bobby. Max Maxwell, substituting for Harry Thomas, slugged a win from big Stanley Gard, flooring him six times. Gard has lot of heart and will go far after he learns more boxing. The big upset came when Leo Kelley stopped Joe Cardinella in the second. In their last meeting Joe won. Bob Ford stopped James J. Farren in the first of the opener.

CHARLIE GRAPEWIN IS ONE BUSY HOMBRE

Charlie Grapewin for years held down one of the top spots on the stage with his charming wife, Anne Chance, as author, director and star. He came to Hollywood and has been continuing his great success on the screen, while the Misus sits on the side lines and looks after their home. Charlie just had one of his many books, “The Town Pump,” given the top spot over 500 others by The American Institute of Graphic Art. His screen activities of late list “Baby in the Ice Box,” which he just finished, and now he is playing one of the leading roles in “Understanding Heart.”

Sol A. Rosenblatt is Voted One Swell Feller

NRA Forces Bootleg Methods on Producers

After he gives us the once-over and we do the same

By Harry Burns

The man of the hour in the Southland today is the NRA Deputy Administrator, Sol A. Rosenblatt, who is stopping at the Beverly Wilshire hotel, where all hands have been glad-handing him and then help to pass the word on that he is a "Swell Feller," yes siree, that he has come to listen to what is wrong with the movies and what can be done to improve them and the working conditions under which they are made. Once more the good old U. S. A. has been hit to send a Good Will messengers into the ranks of the so-called enemy and the producers have accepted him in a very kind way. They will see that his stay here with his charming wife and his right-hand man is of the most pleasant nature. After he leaves the industry will settle down to making pictures as it has in the past. Certain job seekers have landed soft berths for a while with the freight paid to the point of putting a further crimp in the budget roll that should be spent on making better pictures so that the theater attendance can be brought back to normal. Mr. Rosenblatt cannot make more work for people while the industry continues in its present sick condition. The extras who feel that the NRA Code will give them better wages have another guess coming for it will only go to a chosen few while others will be demoted from their one-time bit playing positions to common extras. Sol A. Rosenblatt is a splendid example of a fine man who knows law, like nobody's business. He has proven his worth in giving his all for a cause and is worthy of highest commendation for his efforts so far. But we fail to see where so many organizations, all trying to become a power and to stick their fingers in the movie pie can do anything else but upset the good intended by the NRA Code champions.

Lew Brown and Warner Baxter

Methods are now being devised on how to beat rulings

"The good old NRA Code will be lived up to to the last letter," has been the cry of the producers and Central Casting Corporation ever since President Franklin Delano Roosevelt signed the document on December 7, 1933. This all looks fine and dandy in print and sounds good to hear some of them say it, but the truth of the matter is that every department has started to find a way to chisel around certain technicalities and you can bet all the tea from here to China that when the industry settles down to make pictures under the new system and ruling, the workers will be worse off than they were before the code hove into sight. Not a single worker will ever top his head or earning capacity before all the bullaboo was started and no matter how hard Deputy Administrator Sol A. Rosenblatt works to put the code over, it will not work out as it was intended to do for one cannot deal with the motion picture industry like a laboring craft, everybody in the business is becoming a sort of bootlegger at heart, trying to outgrip the other fellow, under-self and under-cut their competitor, make pictures like a lot of thieves who are trying to not exceed a certain budget set aside by the company heads. Where day players were used by the day, they will be put on a weekly basis, many of the small jobs will be done away with, and instead of creating more work it will cut the demand in half in many instances. We would all be better off if we could return to the old system of making pictures without too many restrictions and rules, for this is a business that is as temperamental as the people in it, and must go on unhampered.

The Last Round-Up Is Great Screen Play by Jack Cunningham

DIRECTOR HENRY HATHAWAY KNOWS HIS OUTDOOR PICTURES

Why no more Westerns when such excellent entertainment can be provided with one of Zane Grey's best stories and made into an interesting and thrilling screen play by Jack Cunningham? In "The Last Round-Up," they have given Monte Blue a new lease on screen life, and while he plays a villain, he is such a nice one that you will really like him. In fact, the audience gave him a fine reception when he first appeared on the screen. Randolph Scott is also a great favorite, and this one of his is one of those heroes who always seems to be getting into trouble. Of course, Fred Kohler can always be depended upon to not only play a villain well, but he looks the part and this time he was a little more ferocious than usual. Fuzzy Knight is another who can always be given a dumb-bell role with which he can amuse and be liked in any production. So with Richard Carle, Barton McLane, Frank Middleton, Frank Rees, Dick Ruth, Buck Connors, Bob Miles, Sam Allen, Ben Corbett, Jack Holmes, Jim Corey and James Mason—in fact all of our old favorites—the cast was nearly perfect. We are not forgetting the female portion of the cast, but are reserving a special mention for a new one—at least we have not seen her before—Barbara Fritchie. If she does not attain a high place on the screen we will be greatly disappointed. Henry Hathaway certainly knows how to make out-door pictures, and with the aid of Archie Stout, the cinematographer, they showed us some thrilling scenes and magnificent shots of the great West. Just to make this one a better bet than usual, Paramount has added one of the most popular songs of the day, "The Last Round-Up," written by Billy Hill, which was injected into the picture naturally and just enough to wish for more. We confess that the usual Western picture does not appeal to us as theater fare, but this one is really good. Thrills, beautiful scenery, amusing in spots and just enough music to really enjoy: in fact, all the ingredients to make entertainment that any family can take to with discretion. Be sure to see it!

THE HUSBAND WINS—as the tussle between Colleen Moore's husband and the RKO studios as to her services is at an end, as Colleen will return to her hobby in New York for a visit and then return to her profession after a few successes.

TWO GOOD DANCERS—are to be teamed in a production that Lou Brock of Radio studios will shortly produce when Ginger Rogers and Fred Astaire get under way in the film. Lou made such a good job of "Down to Rio" that the executives have given him another.

MORE OLD-TIMERS GET IT—as Lowell Sherman could see no one for a prominent role in "Elizabeth and Mary" at Universal than Mrs. Leslie Carter, and his persistence won as they have signed her up. Lowell plays the male lead himself, which will give his fan a treat.

LOOKING FOR TRIPPLETS—as Paramount signed the Gale Sisters for their latest, "Melody in Spring," but the only thing that does not fit is that the Gale sisters are four! But the writers will soon fill this little discrepancy by writing another part.

THE CHAMPION CHECKER PLAYER—at the Darmour studio where the ancient game is so popular is not an old man, but little Billy Bar- ty, who, between his duties on the latest Mickey McGuire comedies, has hold all comers to date and is looking for more.

ON THE HIGH SEAS—is Sail or John Barrymore, also known as an actor, who will soon return to play in the Ben Hecht Charles McArthur play "Twenty First Century" for Columbia. John always takes to the sea between pictures and the wife and kiddies are always with him.

"THREE ON A HONEY-MOON"—seems quite a crowd, but that is what Sally Eilers will do in her first picture for Fox, and incidentally, Sally should know about honeymoons with her recent introduction into the matrimonial field with Harry Joe Brown.

DOGS GO HOLLYWOOD—what with Rudy Vallee's pooch nipping people and the Scotty owned by Pat Patterson, recent British importation, doing the same. Not to be outdone, a huge sheep dog on another Fox set bit Leslie Pearce. He didn't like the dialogue.

LOOKING OVER RUSSIA—is just what Paul Muni intends to do while on a trip with his family, and incidentally you will see Paul in an entirely different characterization than before in "Hi Nellie." This time he c'elves into the cosmic field for a change.

STILL CHANGING TITLES—as Frank Borzage's production for Columbia, "Paul Street Boys," was changed to "No Cannons Roar," then "No Greater Glory," after that someone called it "Men of Tomorrow," and now they go back to "No Greater Glory" for keeps.

GETS A BREAK—and a lot of others in the same line deserve it, but this one is Lee Garries, one of the best of the cameramen, who has been promoted to direct pictures by Fox Films. His first effort will be "Fledglings," one of the hardest of assignments.

THE RIGHT GIRL—has been picked by the astute comedian Harold Lloyd, as he decided upon Una Merkel for his leading lady and had a hard job persuading M-G-M to let him have one of their greatest bets and one who has saved many a poor picture by her comedy.

JUST STOP WORRYING—says Adolph Zukor to two thousand employees at Paramount studios when he arrived from New York on his annual inspection, and he also says the company is in better shape than at any time since that fateful day when the stocks dropped.

DOUBLES IN BRASS—is an old theatrical saying, and it should certainly be awarded to Eddie Allen Woollf at the M-G-M studios where he is called upon to make welcome speeches at their receptions, write a few sketches at times, give valuable ideas to many a sick scenario, and a few other chores.

WE'RE ALL DELIGHTED—that Radio Pictures have persuaded another of our old favorites to return to the screen, as Corinne Griffith will be co-starred opposite Otto Kruger in Israel Zangwill's "Perfect Crime," which John Robertson will direct.

Jack Oakie and Spencer Tracy Are Scream in “Looking for Trouble”

Jack Oakie and Spencer Tracy are a whole show all by themselves in United Artists studios’ feature, “Looking for Trouble.” It is a comedy-drama written around the life of “trouble shooters” employed by the telephone companies. William Wellman’s direction was even-steven throughout. Airline Judge, Constance Cummings and Judith Wood do justice to their parts, but it is hard to get interested in the girls with Messrs. Oakie and Tracy on the job. Others who command attention by their fine performances were Morgan Conway as a heavy, Paul Harvey, Joseph Auer and Frank Ardell. Good bits were played by Jason Robards, Frank Moran and Bob Perry. The story was written by J. R. Bren, screenplay by Leonard Praskins and Elmer Harris, photography by James Van Trees Jr., art work by Richard Day and Joseph Wright, music by Alfred Newman; associate producers are William Goetz and Raymond Griffith. Darryl Zanuck and Joseph Schenck are responsible for the production.

FEELS SURE THAT THIS IS THE PLACE FOR HER SO SHE IS HERE TO MAKE GOOD

Father Time performs wonders for many in a very short space of time. Louise Fernande believes that time alone will tell if her judgment in coming here to make good in our talkies was right for she had a sort of an intuition, something told her that this was the place so she came here from the Southwest, made her bid and was given an opportunity to appear before the eagle eye of some of the major studio cameras. She was given a perfect OK, for what she did and now she is certain more than ever before that this is the place and that there is no time like the present and has promised herself a real trial between now and the finish of the present year. If at that time she has not reached the heights she felt she could and would if she came to Hollywood, she will be ready to retire to private life and give up the theatre and pictures. Fair enough, Miss Fernande, and we wish you luck along with your many other friends and admirers who are pulling for you to make good!

“I WAS A SPY”—ANOTHER SPLENDID ENGLISH PICTURE AT THE FILMARTE

Here is another good one from England with a brand new personality that some of our own producers will surely try to bring here—Madeleine Carroll. This girl has everything necessary for a screen career if good looks and clever acting ability mean anything. In addition, they have a fine story that revolves around a Belgian girl who becomes a nurse during the great war and is unwittingly forced to become a spy. She meets a sub-officer and they work together. She is finally trapped, but her life is saved by the officer confessing he is to be blamed. Of course, there is much more to the yarn, with chills and thrills galore and everything else that goes into the best of spy stories and all of you who enjoy that sort of thing will really enjoy this. Madeleine Carroll is perfectly cast as the nurse and woman spy, with Herbert Marshall playing opposite her and giving another of those clever characterizations for which he has become famous. Conrad Veidt, as the German commander, gives a splendid performance in his usual vivid manner with Gerald Du Maurier, Nigel Bruce and Anthony Bushell playing other roles beautifully. Victor Saville directed with skill and the splendid photography and colorful locations will surely appeal. We have been much surprised by the many good pictures emanating from the British studios lately and this is one of the best so far.

In addition to this fine feature, Filmarte theater has several short subjects that make good screen fare and will be surely enjoyed by discriminating theater patrons.

Kitty O’Dare and The Red Heads (Earl and Josephine Leach) Pack ’Em in at the Club Ballyhoo

Kitty O’Dare, who is known the country over as the most beautiful heiress that ever was awarded a bank roll such as would make a poor man feel that he was anything but well off, is sharing her good fortune with the Texas Red Heads (Earl and Josephine Leach), who have been such a sensation all over the west coast. Right now Miss O’Dare is sharing honors with the Texas Red Heads at the Club Ballyhoo, not that she needs any money, but that she loves 'em and that they are her pals and she wants to work with them so that she can be near them in order that the trio can work together. Frank Hanover, owner and manager of the Club Ballyhoo, arranged so that Kitty O’Dare could appear in Wallace Milam’s revue which is the greatest of its kind ever staged and with Texas Red Heads and Kitty O’Dare as the stars. They are drawing the biggest crowds that the Club Ballyhoo has ever drawn to the cafe in years. Miss O’Dare is without a doubt the greatest sensation of the night life lovers and she has a great team of co-workers in Earl and Josephine Leach, the Texas Red Heads, the greatest dance team of all times that has ever appeared in a cafe in the Southland.

“SAMOVAR NIGHT”

Saturday evening, Feb. 3, is to be “Samovar Night” at the Hollywood Conservatory of Music. This Russian entertainment and dance is being sponsored by the “Pan Voyage Group,” and they will have Benjamin Zemach, dancer, the Moscow Art Quartet, Mme. Demaels, singer, and many others to entertain the guests. Stewart’s orchestra will supply the dance music. The admission will only be fifty cents and a “heck of a time” is assured all who attend. Michael Mark is in charge of the affair.

“ELYSIA” IS BACK IN HOLLYWOOD

The Mark M. Hansen Marcal theater, right in the heart of Hollywood, announces that “Elysia” starts Sunday afternoon. “Elysia” is the first authentic talking picture of a nudist colony at work and at play. For men and women to work and play sans clothes is startling to many people, but a great relief to the nudist colony members, it is said. Dr. Glasser, in charge of the Elysian colony in Riverside, is hoping to bring several members of the camp to the Marcal for a personal appearance. Just what the Hollywood police will do about the matter is one of conjecture.

Jimmie Durante Runs Away With “Joe Palooka” Picture Honors

Jimmie Durante was right at home in the fun-making picture, “Joe Palooka,” as produced by Reliance Pictures, Inc., with Lupe Velez and Stuart Erwin running him a close race for first honors. To one sitting on the side lines, Schmuzle Durante runs away with the honors like nobody’s business. Others who come in for their share of attention are Robert Armstrong, Mary Carlisle, Marjorie Rambeau and William Cagney, while Thelma Todd puts over a small but good part. Others who you will remember are Tom Dugan as a trainer, Stanley Fields and Gunn Williams. Robert Armstrong as a prize-fighter is immense; later on William Cagney plays his son, also a pug as though he really was a chip off the old block. Benjamin Stoloff directed the very funny comedy made from the screen play by Jack Jevne, Gertrude Purcell and Arthur Kober. Splendidly photographed by Arthur Edeson; music by Gus Arnheim and his orchestra.

Paul Muni Proves Most Entertaining in “Hi, Nellie”

You will love Paul Muni in “Hi, Nellie!”, so capably directed by Mervyn Le Roy, which is a newspaper yarn that smacks of the “Advice to the Lovelorn” that United Artists studios did with Lee Tracy and Sally Blane. However, this goes a step further and gets a heavy plot mixed up into it connecting up the disappearance of a bank president and the uncovering of a gangster operations. Next to Muni’s work you will go in a big way for Glenda Farrell and Bert Churchill and you will also keep your eyes on Ned Sparks, Douglas Dumbrille, Robert Barrat, Edward Ellis, Marjorie Gates, George Huret, Hobart Cavanaugh, George Meeker, Paul Kaye, Allen Vincent, Pat Wing, Frank Reichler, George Chandler, Donald Meek, Dorothy Le Baire, Harold Hueber and many others. Based on a story by Roy Chanslor, written for the screen by Abem Finkel and Sidney Sutherland; photographed by Sol Polito; supervised by Robert Fresnell.
Miracle Workers

What the motion picture industry needs right now is some MIRACLE WORKERS to inject new life and interest into the various departments who are governing those who are the backbone of the workers. The executive heads, with their "CLOSED DOOR" policy, hold themselves so aloof that a GOOD IDEA can’t reach them. The only thing that they know and follow is a FORMULA even older than they are. Our advice is to scrap all the present systems and ideas, START with a CLEAN SLATE, cut out all the present-day "IN-GOOD-PALS" and make it a real BUSINESS for the good of all concerned. This of course, means the STOCKHOLDERS who are furnishing the money expended to make the pictures. Theater attendance is not paying the freight so the only ones who can keep the industry going are the STOCKHOLDERS. Give them a run for their money. ONLY A MIRACLE will save us from going on the rocks. The majority of old line producers are only breeding the industry for all they can while the getting is good. The minute the pay-roll fails to come from the NEW YORK OFFICES, they will desert the sinking ship. It is high time that the "CLOSED DOOR" policy be done away with and ALL WORK FOR ONE AND ONE FOR ALL—a better understanding and more democracy fellowship among the men and women employed in the making of motion pictures. COME ON, YOU MIRACLE WORKERS, do something about this!

Moving Movie Throng by John Hall

HISTORY: January 21, 1934, Hollywood motion picture industry comes under direct Federal scrutiny by Deputy NRA Administrator Mr. Sol Rosenblatt... For the first time in its history, Hollywood can feel like a bug under a microscope. A questionnaire, issued by the Government, preceded Mr. Rosenblatt. Answering that document reveals every trade secret dear to Hollywood’s heart. Only the Government will know the answers, as official secrecy is promised. As practically all of the questions have some bearing upon income tax returns, past and present, the Government probably is acting well within its legal rights. Of course, that remains to be seen...

"But who is there to believe that those (Federal questionnaire) questions will be given the right answers?" asks a Hollywood trade paper... And: "We (?) can tell Mr. Rosenblatt that he will not get the right answers and a lot of them he should not get. It’s no business of his or the good cause that the NRA is supposed to represent."... This, of course, is supposed to be consoling to the producer on "the spot"—as if, they enjoy openly defying the Government and President Roosevelt’s plan to REDISTRIBUTE money and work...

In the circumstances, it may be wise to suggest that, in this extremely delicate LEGAL situation, the producers totally ignore UNOFFICIAL, financially disinterested mouthpieces, and talk to the Government THROUGH their lawyers... Of course, that’s exactly what they will do... A kindly Press, interfering in the wrong way and at the wrong time, is of no help... Business honestly conducted fears no man; no investigation... Mr. Rosenblatt comes to Hollywood fully armed with authority, and the wise course is to realize same... Odds bodkins! The Bard of Stratford-on-Avon is coming to Hollywood. (He’s public domain.) Harken to Mr. Will Hays: "Many observers of motion picture progress are pointing to the possibility that the vast motion picture public may soon be ready for a treasure house of great comedy and drama that lies in a possible Shakespeare-Bacon cycle on the screen. (He’s public domain), and he’ll be “modernized”—Yes, sir: war with England is in the offing... And there’s then a possible American version of the long and (verbally) horrible Shakespeare-Bacon war... Or has Hollywood ever heard of THAT?...

AT THE FOOT of the ladder: Is Hollywood overcrowded? A studio needed 30 chorus girls—1000 answered the call... "Where is Will Hays these days?" asks a newspaper paper, all hot and bothered about the Federal questionnaire... Son, for once, Will Hays is the ONE smart man in pictures. The industry "on the spot", he is holding his tongue and PLANNING the right defense, thereby setting an example all concerned should follow... They had to HIDE Mae West from the public and jury in her court appearances against alleged robbers... "After all, we have to give someone else a chance," explained Assistant District Attorney John Oliver, in charge of the prosecution... UNCLE, CARL LAEMMLE—observed and celebrated—his 67th birthday last week. May he have many more... "To me the intrinsic knowledge acquired by absorbing what is seen on the screen is not so important as the curiosity it arouses in the spectator for more intimate and extended understanding of the subject... If the audience suspects that you are trying to educate as well as entertain them, we’ll be asking in short order again ‘what’s wrong with the movies?’"—Benjamin Glazer, author and producer, in L. A. Herald-Express... Clean. O.K. Oh, so clear... Now, if—Well, never mind... But, how come?—Nope; just can’t go on. Oh, dear!
Dishing the Dirt with M. J. K.

The dramatic service of MARIAN (Trilby) MARSH are at present worth no less than $2,000 weekly to B. I. P. (British International Productions to you) ... Incidentally, Marian is about to say "yes" to an English dook over there . . .

"UNCLE" CARL LAEMMLE parted with a cool ten grand over a fare table at Palm Springs the other night, we were told. Anyway, there WAS a rich man left in Hollywood . . .

Among some of the other things you never knew till now is the fact that ZASU ("Oh, my—") PITTS is one of the best-dressed women in the town . . .

W. S. (Director) VAN DYKE is about to take the w. k. matrimonial leap. But not with the dusky-haired non-pro divorcée who seemed to be his heart-rave of a few months back . . .

Sartorial notes: ZEppo, of the brothers MARX, wears orange and brown striped socks . . LILIAN HARVEY, at the Coco Tree fountain last week, sported a pair of dazzling blue slacks and a baby-cap to match. But slack and alas, the famed Harvey figure was completely concealed beneath a big bad gray tweed coat (with a stand-up collar, girls) . . VICKI BAUM's secretary dresses ala Dietrich—mannish suit, tailored shirt, shoulder-length bob and all . . RUBY KEELER, spotted on a Boulevard shopping tour, wore one of those naughty black satin Mae Westish hats . . What GENE ("Timberline") FOWLER thinks of Hollywood can't be printed here (or anywhere else, for that matter). He-man author Fowler is now back in Manhattan after several weeks of her pilgrimage for M-G-M. During this interlude they say he gathered a no-good impression of our village. Incidentally, Gene—though he looks younger—is in the early forties, and has a family of wife and three—including a thirteen-year-old dotter who climbs roofs, cusses, AND smokes a pipe . . .

Is it his chawming habit of serving afternoon tea during office hours that makes a certain agent so successful at getting our biggest British idols on the dotted line?

Alfred Latell Act Headlines Club Airport Gardens; George Redman Music Continues to Win Praise

Offering the most unique act that has ever graced a cafe floor, Alfred Latell this week offers his sensational dog impersonation number with Sylvan Dell as his foil which causes gales of laughter. Here is a great bet for "Babies in Toyland" which Hal Roach is preparing to make with Laurel and Hardy. Tommy Jacobs, head man at the Club Airport Gardens, believes that the best is none too good for his cash customers, so he goes a step further by offering Gus Mulckay, an ace dancer and harmonica player of world-wide reputation; also Georgene and Henry, who offer the last word in dance acts, doing waltz and adagio turns that hold one spell bound. Eva Olivotti, the Queen of Song Birds, continues to get more than just her share of applause. You will just love Marita Flores in her Mexican dances. Kearney Walton acts as M. C. and sings a half dozen songs nightly by popular request. George Redman and his music has been labeled as offering the sweetest music in town. Tommy Jacobs is to leave for New Orleans, Miami and other points south for a month's vacation, taking Mrs. Jacobs along. He promises to bring back some new attractions and ideas upon his return to the Club Airport Gardens.

Mort Greene Opens at Cotille Lido Salon

Mort Greene, one of the best of the younger singers and pianists playing around the spots, is in the top place at the Cotille Lido Salon at the Knickerbocker hotel where Everett Hoagland’s orchestra furnishes the music. Here is a very restful place that should become popular with the business men and women, for it is centrally located in the heart of Hollywood.

Hal Le Roy was the guest star at the opening dance at this spot which is being handled by Manager Berghoff of the hotel. Among some of those we happened to see were Jack Osterman, Miss Laurel of Laurel and Ted, charming Martha Devaux, Betty Hayes, Hamilton Sisters, Isabel and Betty Hayes, Gordon Craig, Joan Palmer and Peggy Page. Adolph is in charge of the cuisine. The Everett Hoagland orchestra broadcasts daily over KFWB at 2 to 2:30 P. M. May Beth Carr and Craig Leach share honors with Mort Greene as crooners and entertainers.

Betty Dunn Clicks With George Hamilton’s Orchestra at Rainbow Isle

The opening of the Rainbow Isle Room in the Mayfair Hotel has caused quite a bit of comment along night life row, especially since George Hamilton and his stellar orchestra are the featured attraction. George has a band that stacks up with the best of them, and has just finished an engagement at the Fox studios where he recorded the music for George White’s “Scandals.” As an added attraction to his musical offering, George Hamilton has Miss Betty Dunn, a beautiful blonde, who sings the most popular of numbers with a soul and feeling that wins her encore after encore nightly. By the way, she would be a good talkie for some of our best musicals.

EDGEMONT CLUB REOPENS

The Hollywood Art Club has allowed the Edgmont Club to use their quarters at 1904 North Argyle while they are building their new quarters. Centrally located and offering plenty of diversion like they have in the good old past, the Edgmont Club should find little or no trouble to get some of the best followers of night clubs to pay them a visit.

ALEX THE GREAT IS AT SARDI'S

Somehow or other we can’t get the good old standby title of ALEX THE GREAT out of our minds when we meet up with ALEX, who is the head man on the floor at Sardi’s Hollywood restaurant over which the popular Eddie Brandstatter has made many demands. Alex has made many friends in the Southland. His best tricks were put in when he was at the Brown Derby and afterwards he went to work at the Beverly Hills hotel. When Eddie Brandstatter opened Sardi’s, Alex being a friend and admirer of his of years standing, joined him. Day and night he is on the job seeing to it that his BANDBUSTERS are well attended. One peek at the crowds that flock into this place will make you want to get into the swim whenever you think of eating in a restaurant, for everybody that anybody can be found there, having at least one meal during the given day.

SPECIAL TO GARBO: ROUBEN MAMOULIAN, though he doesn’t know it, has had a certain little player on the RKO lot all a-twitter ever since they met on a French-bound liner last year...

FRANK SEBASTIAN HOLDS OVO MILLS BROS.—

Prove His Biggest Attraction in Years

Frank Sebastian put over a ten-strike when he signed The Mills Bros.—Four Boys and a Guitar—for they are packing 'em in nightly at his New Cotton Club in Culver City, where the famous radio and stage stars are drawing the biggest and best stars of stage and screen along with producers, executives, society and civic figures. Others who are helping to command attention are: Eddie Anderson, Johnny Taylor, Clark Rutledge, May Diggs, Flora Washington, Patsy Hunter, Three Elly Steppers, The Creole Chorus, Les Hite and his band featuring Lionel Hampton, the ace trap drummer. You can put this in your little note book: FRANK SEBASTIAN OFFERS THE COLORFUL REVUE AND SHOW IN THIS GOOD OLD U. S. A.

Speaking of some who we saw listening to and applauding the Mills Bros. were Lenore Parsons, Jean Harlow, Ricardo Cortez, Sid Grauman, Lola Lane, Wesley Ruggles, And Judge, Al Hall, and many others of equal note, which is a fair example of how filmlanders are dropping in at Sebastian’s Cotton Club these days. SALLY RAND is guest of honor Sunday night at this spot and should help to bring out a good crowd of curiosity seekers who want to get a close-up peek at the talked of stage and screen artists.

MOE MORTON’S SPOT BECOMES HAVEN FOR SONG WRITERS

Every song writer of note has at some time or other dropped in at Moe Morton’s night spot and enjoyed the fine food and refreshments that he serves. It is the get-together place of good fellows, and any time you drop in of an evening you are able to rub shoulders with producers, stars, directors, song writers, and many folks from society and civic circles. To list them would sound like a page from the blue book of the Southland.

VI BARLOW AND BILL BENTER HEAD BOWERY SHOW

Vi Barlow and Bill Benter are still heading the Bowery show with such fine acts as Five Rhythm Girls, who just pulled a nifty Russian number as their latest hit; the Parisian Trio who are different when it comes to dancing acts, so much so that they go like wild fire; two cuties, Meeri and Leina Aila, give you everything Hawaiian that you ever hoped to see and they are good to look at too; Charles Wells is some whistler and entertainer, while Nick Angelio, the Bowery Caruso, sings right into your heart. BILL FLECK’S BOWERY ORCHESTRA is the best dance floor organization around these sort of cafes.

HARRY GREEN PUTS OVER A REAL PARTY

When it comes to being a real host, Harry Green is the last word in that calling. He staged a party at the Clover Club recently in honor of his wife becoming a mother. We would say that 1000 broke bread and drank with Harry while Ma Green and Mrs. Green’s mother, Mrs. Larson, sat by and helped the merry makers have a good time. Everybody that was anybody was on hand and all had a good time.

NEW BUSINESS MANAGEMENT FIRM IN HOLLYWOOD

Deputy Administrator Rosenblatt Visits Coconut Grove With L. B. Mayer

The talk of the town is that NRA Deputy Administrator Sol A. Rosenblatt and his wife, and his right hand man were the guests of Louis B. Mayer at the Coconut Grove Wednesday evening. This of course, was just social and had no bearing the M-G-M deals. However, we will have to hand the palm to Mr. Mayer for using the grey matter that was given him to work all angles for the good of the industry. Richard Dix and Lois Wilson were also present as was Al Rogell and his wife, Walter Donaldson, Mr. and Mrs. Wallace Ford and Mr. and Mrs. Vincent Barnett, Jeanette Loff, Mrs. Richard Arlen, Diane and Dario, the famous dancers, Russ Colombo, Carole Lombard, Michael Derby, a Danish actor who looks like the real McCoy, and hundreds of others. All dined and danced to Guy Lombardo's Royal Canadian's music which is still the central attraction at the Coconut Grove.

Cafe De Paree Is More Than Holding Its Own

You can always depend on seeing a good show and hearing some very fine music at the Cafe De Paree where Pete Dokos is the Boss Man in charge, and where he has any number of variety acts appearing with Bob Holman and his musical organization furnishing the music. Every Monday night is professional try-out night. Last Monday evening we caught the following acts: Lilo Saunders, Gloria Wilson, Patsy Stanley, Eddie Gordon, Mary Harlow, while the special guest artists were Joy De Lorme, who sang sweetly, and Dot Brown, who is the Queen of Accordionists. Ira Gay furnished the talent. The floor is well looked after by Elmer Johnson and Jim Franks. Mlle. Giggle and Alvarado are the star attraction now at this spot.

Henri De Soto and Dave Gordon Join Club La Boheme

Henri De Soto and Dave Gordon, who just joined the Club La Boheme, need no introduction to cuedom. Henri for years has fed the best known celebrities of stage and screen in the Southland. Dave Gordon is the prince of good fellows who meets you with a glad hand as you come into any place that he is connected with and you are just as willing to shake his hand when you say good-bye. The Club La Boheme right now offers one of the most interesting shows which reveals Libby Krimini, the greatest of all hula dancers, Marie Hollis, Mildred Stone, Claire Frances, Edward Pope as M. C. and Arthur Gibson and his band who need no introduction for they present the sweetest of sweet music.

Mays to Get Tripplett's Car?

With Ernie Tripplett deciding that Ascot Speedway is out of the question as far as he and racing are concerned, I wonder who will get the car that he piloted to so many victories? Rex Mays, it is rumored, has been approached by Bill White, owner of the Tripplett Miller, to drive the car, but, as far as I can learn, nothing definite has been settled. Personally ... and I know it is wrong to bring personal opinions in, but here's one, like it or not ... I don't feel Mays is the man for the car. I may be doing the boy an injustice, but it is my humble belief that Mays is entirely too inexperienced to handle the temperamental Miller. Later, perhaps, but not now.

There are several drivers to whom the wheel of a Miller is no new sensation, who are at liberty. "Shorty" Cantlon, for instance, is without a mount. Then, Wilbur Shaw would probably be able to get back into his old form if he had a car like the old Number One. (Gosh, these new numbers are going to be a bit confusing—don't you think? Or DO you think?) But why worry about it? Looking back over recent issues, I see that the theme of my stories has been "How about the new 205 cu. in. motors and who will get Tripplett's car?" Let it go! January 7th will find this rhyming fan at the starting line—the place? Legion Ascot Speedway. Don't be a dope—anyone knows that's the only place you can see a REAL automobile race this side of Indianapolis. And, that's thirty for today, friends, it's your pal Demeere signing off.

Club Ballyhoo Offers the Greatest of All Stage Revues

The Club Ballyhoo, with the Texas Red Heads as the stellar attraction, offers the greatest of all revues that have been staged around here in many a day. Wallace Milam created and put the show on. He has a great aide in Joey Ray, who acts as M. C., sings any number of songs to much applause and leads the orchestra. Kitty O'Dare, the heiress, is the star entertainer among the fair sex. She puts on a Shim-Sham- Shimmie dance that is a WOW; it is the hottest thing brought here from good old Broadway. The bridal and parade numbers are a show all by themselves. The girls never looked more stunning nor were the costumes more beautiful. Frank Hanover, the owner and manager of the Club Ballyhoo, is entitled to a world of praise for daring to put on such a remarkable show at the prices that he charges for his food. He is worthy of every good boost the press and public can give him and his place.

ANN HARDING IS SUBLIME IN "THE GALLANT LADY"

The United Artists theater is this week offering Ann Harding in "The Gallant Lady," produced by United Artists. We would say that Miss Harding is sublime in this picture. Clive Brook and others share attention with the star that made her screen hit in "Holiday." This, to our way of thinking, is even a greater picture than the first one that put her over the top.

"AUTUMN CROCUS" PROVES SUCCESS AT EL CAPITAN

A critical and cynical audience turned out en masse to welcome Francis Lederer on the opening night in his first stage appearance on the coast. They came to find fault but stayed to praise this great artist. Too much cannot be said for the manner in which Lederer directed this play, as well as the manner in which he portrayed the role of a simple, naive mountain man. Next to gain attention is Julie Haydon, who gives a marvelous performance in a difficult role. As a love-starved school teacher who falls in love with Lederer, only to give him up when she discovers he is married, rather than carry on an illicit love affair with him, she is superb. Starting out slowly the play finds its rhythm during the second act and continues to hold you until the end. The rest of the well-chosen cast consisted of Elizabeth Frohlich, Helen Byrne Grant, Eily Malyson, Phyllis Collins, Hugh Huntley, Colin Campbell, Else Jannsen, Otto Fries, Heria Lind and Virginia Weidler. Henry Duffy can certainly give himself a pat on the back for obtaining this internationally known star to direct and enact the leading role in "Autumn Crocus."

CHARLIE GRAPEWIN AND EMMA DUNN PLAY LEADS

Charlie Grapewin and Emma Dunn have the leads in the Chesterfield picture "The Understanding Heart," a George R. Batcheller production recently filmed at Universal, with Richard Thorpe directing. Hale Hamilton, Edmund Burns and Florence Dudley are in the large cast which includes William Balswell, Mary Korman, Barbara Weeks, Aggie Herring and Glen Boles.

MANY IN QUANDARY AS TO N R A CODE AS DEPUTY ADMINISTRATOR LEAVES

By Harry Burns

Now that Sol A. Rosenblatt, deputy NRA administrator, is heading for Washington, Hollywood and the motion picture industry are settling back once more to the art of making motion pictures. Most of the producers and workers are still in a quandary over what is or is not their legal right via the NRA code as drafted by Mr. Rosenblatt with the approval of Brigadier General
Hugh Johnson and our worthy and honorable President, Franklin D. Roosevelt. As we listened to Mr. Rosenblatt’s speech at the Wampas dinner last Tuesday night, we couldn’t help but believe that somewhere back of all this hullabaloo about the motion picture industry needing a code to regulate it, would only work to one end—that is, that the name of Sol A. Rosenblatt will one of these days be nicely imbedded on a gold shingle within the film circle as his reward for using his legal mind to help the producers out of a very serious tangle they got themselves into by bad business and handling of one of the greatest industries in the public eye today.
During the speech of the Deputy NRA Administrator, he admitted the code was full of holes which would have to be plugged up; that the document has been so arranged that it can and will be changed; that the majority of people today have two kinds of business, their own and the other fellows; that censorship, as it is being fostered by some people, is a farce; and that he is beset with all sorts of requests by certain factions, some that are honest and are scarcely trying to help the producers out of a bad situation, while others have their own axes to grind. If you ask our candid opinion, the NRA code as drafted for the motion picture industry has created soft jobs for everybody from the chief executive to the smallest paid member of these boards and is still nothing but a scrap of paper which al-

Have You Tried the Excellent Food at Tom Gubbin's Chinese Restaurant?
DEVELOPING OWN STARS
—as Trem Carr of Monogram Pictures is tired of borrowing and is bringing along Ray Walker, their new star, in his fourth picture, with fans in the mail getting bigger and bigger in each mail and demands for his productions greater than ever.

DO YOU Want a Male Baby?—In this instance we are speaking of a short subject, issued by Educational on the life of bees with the photographer showing how accurately the sex is predetermined by guaging the food supply and population of the hives.

WILLIAM NIGH AGAIN—recently finished his third production for Monogram, “The Curse of Bali,” with Paul Malvern supervising, and on our visit to the set we found two clever actresses not seen recently, Fritz Ridgeway and Dale Fuller, playing good parts.

ANOTHER NAME, THE SAME GIRL—Joyzelle, doing one of those famous exotic dances in the role of a nautch girl in “The Curse of Bali” for Monogram, tells us that she has changed her name to Laya Joy. We wonder why?

FIRST HE WILL, THEN HE WON’T—and the latest from Universal is that Carl Junior will not take that much talked of trip to Europe, but will return to Hollywood on account of the rush in production starting right away.

HOLLYWOOD’S LATEST ROMANCE—is not between the grown-ups this time, but the snoopers tell us it is around Shirley Temple and John Sloane, son of Paul Sloane, director. She saw John in his hand-some uniform when she was making an Educational picture at the Black Fox Academy and the damage was done.

JUST ONE HUNDRED YEARS AGO—Sir Bulver Lytton wrote his famous masterpiece, “Last Days of Pompeii,” and now Merian C. Cooper, executive head of Radio Pictures, has decided to produce the story on the screen that he claims will be one of the sensations of the new season with every part being filled by a famous player.

THEY ALL BID—but M-G-M gets the prize with Dashiel Hammett’s famous detective story, “The Thin Man,” and make sure that the production will be as good as the yarn, they have given Hunt Stromberg the honor of delivering it to the public. Hunt has given us some of the best out of this studio and is just right for the job.

“NOW I’LL TELL”—but you’re not going to let in on any Hollywood “dirt,” as it is a story to be produced by Fox Films shortly, dealing with life in New York during the gambling regime of the famous Rothstein, and to make certain that the role of the young lad, Spencer Tracy, will be given the lead.

WHY NOT LILIAN HARVEY?—for the title role of “The Merry Widow” that M-G-M is to produce shortly. She is all that the role calls for—beauty, singer, and dances divinely, and aside from that she is a good friend of Maurice Chevalier, who we bear, objects to some of the females mentioned for the lead.

RIGHT FROM THE BIG TOWN—they called Margaret Hamilton, famous on the New York stage, to play an important role in their latest feature for Ann Harding at the Radio studios. E. H. Griffith has been assigned to direct the opus and as he made such a success of other Harding pictures he insists on the best cast available.

HE WANTS A FARM—so June Collyer, actress and incidentally wife of Stewart Erwin, is taking lessons from Mary Brian who is becoming known as an expert gardener by those who know. By means of June expects to be ready for her clever husband’s experiment as soon as he decides on the ranch site.

THE BABY’S COMING—and we notice Joan Bennett, famous for her fine work in “Little Women,” making fewer public appearances than formerly. In the meantime she is quite busy reading all the new novels and watching Hollywood’s doings as she hopes to be back to the screen during the early summer.

ONLY THREE MOVIES—have been seen by Lanny Ross, last of finds for Paramount Pictures during his four years’ stay at Yale and that was the reason he gave to Mary Brian (who was surprised he did not know of her) when they were introduced on the Paramount lot recently. This seems reason enough, but you know those girls.

HIS EARLY TRAINING—as cartoonist with famous comedy companies is a great help to Norman McLeod, one of Paramount’s best directors in the days valuable ideas for the technical department whenever they seem to be in the dark regarding this director’s novel ideas. Two trades are better than one is the old adage.

ANOTHER SISTER WINS—with Mary Jordan, sister of Dorothy being signed for a role in Radio’s latest production, “Finishing School.” The other famous players in the cast are Ginger Rogers, Bruce Cabot, Frances Dee, Mitzi Green, Billie Burke and Marjorie Lyttel. The team of Tuchcock-Nicholls directs.

THE ELEPHANT’S STAMPEDE—and other thrilling sights are about to be seen in the latest jungle film, “Devil Tiger,” made by that intrepid explorer, Clyde B. Elliott, who gave us “Bring Em Back Alive.” He has just returned from the jungles of Asia with Marion Burns, Kane Richmond and Harry Woods for Fox Films.

Every home’s a STAGE says Cedric Gibbons

“A home has much the same decorating problems as a motion-picture set. It should be primarily a background for the action that takes place in it and the personalities who live in it.”

LUDWIG ON MCGUIRE STORY

Edward Ludwig is directing "If I Was Rich," a William Anthony McGuire story; Billy Reiter assisting. Lew Ayres, Frank McHugh, Burton Churchill, Robert McWade, Patricia Ellis and Isabel Jewell are in it. All of Ludwig's "U" features have been good box-office. This is Henry Higginson's first as a unit producer.

MacRAE MAKING A THRILLER

"Let's Go!" Henry MacRae is producing a serial at "U," directed by Louis Friedlander. It is called "The Vanishing Shadow" and Onslow Stevens, one of our promising young leading men, plays the featured role. He is well supported. This chapter play will hold more startling surprises than "The Invisible Man." So, Uncle Carl, why not grab a good feature at the same time? Independents have done this to their great profit. Stevens in the lead makes it a cinch.

HURT

Wilma Cox lost the best chance she ever had when she was injured in an auto accident which proved so bad she had to forego playing a part in "The Crime Doctor" for RKO.

WILLIAM NIGH DIRECTS

Frank Craven and Sally Blane have been signed by Trem Carr to appear with Ray Walker in "City Limits," Monogram feature starting Friday. Others definitely set in the cast include Terrence Ray, James Burke and James Conlon. William Nigh directs from the George Waggner adaptation of Jack Woodford's novel, W. T. Lackey is supervising.

FINISHES SCRIPT

Tristram Tupper has turned in the completed script on "Derby Day," his sixth for Monogram.

"THE FIREBRAND"

TREM ENTERTAINS

Trem Carr is entertaining his parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. T. Carr, who arrived Sunday from Trenton, Ill.

RONALD COLMAN STARTS SOON

Roy Del Ruth, who just completed ten years' continuous directing for W-F-N, has moved over to 20th Century and is conferring with scenario writers adapting the Roland Colman vehicle, "Bulgaid Drummond Strikes Back." Loretta Young will have the leading feminine role and Charles Butterworth, comedy star, has a featured role.

ORIGINATING

Albertina Rasch is currently originating dances for her thirteenth picture assignment, which is "The Merry Widow" at Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer.

IN DEMAND

With a number of Soviet pictures being prepared by the studios, now that Russia has been recognized by the United States, Dimitri Tiomkin is in great demand as the composer of musical scores for films with a Russian background.

VACATIONING

Michael Dalmatoff, the former Moscow Art theater star who was brought to Hollywood for Al Jolson's "Wonder Bar," will remain here for a vacation before returning to New York.

TO TRAVEL

Max Steiner, head of the Radio music department, is taking his first vacation in four years. He has no set destination, but has just filled the gas tank of his car and will wander through the Southwest.

W. T. LACKEY LOSES MOTHER

Mrs. Carrie Truesdell Lackey, mother of W. T. Lackey, Monogram producer, passed away at her home in Hollywood Monday night. Interment was at Forest Lawn cemetery. Mrs. Lackey was 61 years of age.
The Kick-Off

The most thrilling thing in all football players’ lives is the KICK-OFF. It reveals the beginning of a game—just how it will end one knows. The NRA started its little game and when the President of this good old United States, Franklin Delano Roosevelt, went for it in 1933, he made the first move after THE KICK-OFF, which was legalizing the document, and from now on it is anyone’s guess as to how this good old game will end. It will beuffed and knocked around worse than any football ever experienced. All good American citizens respect their government and the officials who were elected into office. But it is very difficult to accept the dictates of a lone official who stays aloof of the very people that he is supposed to serve for the common good of the majority. Deputy Administrator Sol A. Rosenblatt is in our midst; he is glad-handing a select few and letting the rest admire his pictures in the papers. We doubt if President Roosevelt or Brigadier General Hugh Johnson, who had as much to do with the NRA code as his royal highness, would become as exclusive as he has we’re here in the midst of the film industry. Mr. Rosenblatt, the game is on, and why not let us all be part of this good old NRA code game?

Moving Movie Throng by John Hall

"Vini, vidi vincit" (I came; I saw; I conquered!) Would that Mr. Sol Rosenblatt, Deputy NRA Administrator, not "investigating" Hollywood’s motion picture business, could make that same claim. "He called; We signed; We conquered!" charlottes official Hollywood... Ally oop! The Ambassador from Washington has gone Hollywood! And—oh, my gosh! he’s been fractionizing with (political) enemies of the Democratic Party! The enemy! Louis B. Mayer, Filmland’s LONE WOLF Republican leader, was host to Sol Rosenblatt over a week end and presented him to the Breakfast Club! The newspaper boys are burned up, because Rosenblatt has been engulfed by Filmland’s BIG SOCIALITES, who also are its BIG MOVIE producers, the very men Rosenblatt is supposed to be investigating! Mr. Rosenblatt plaintively walls against mixing social and business affairs. Harken to his cry: "Even at Louis B. Mayer’s house, everyone present forgot it was a social affair and went in for business."... Mr. Rosenblatt complains that he “hasn’t seen any social affairs”... He says: "They have all been devoted to business, everyone present trying to get something personal across... It was the same at the homes of Marion Davies and Ann Harding. The social life of Hollywood seems to have resolved itself into just a plain business affair."... Introducing Perhaps the Country’s Most Versatile and Prolific Writer, Harold Sherman

By Harry Burns

Harold Sherman is the best known juvenile writer in America today—his name is thrown into books of sport and adventure for boys having over two million copies. He is the ace writer for Boys’ Life, the official Boy Scout publication. In addition to his juvenile books, one of which was the novelization of the Red Grange photoplay, “One Minute to Play,” Harold Sherman has written four adult novels: “The Love Gamble,” “Sales Lady,” “Let Freedom Ring!” and “Are We Civilized?”

The first two named were written under the nom de plume Harold Morrow, the pen name he adopted while he was writing his middle school stories. Within a period of the past ten years, Harold Sherman has done an incredible volume of writing—having produced forty published novels, twenty fulllength plays (two of which were done on Broadway) and some three hundred short stories. He accounts for his prolific ability by saying that he has discovered how to consciously control and operate the sub-conscious mind, which according to Mr. Sherman, is the only phase of the mind possessed by the creative writer. With the degree that any man or woman can learn to consciously control their sub-conscious mind and command it to do his or her bidding,” says Mr. Sherman, “to that degree can he or she attain anything in Life within the range of his or her capabilities.” As evidence that this mental principle has served Mr. Sherman adequately, many of his books were written within a week to ten days, each book averaging fifty to sixty thousand words. His record is a sixty thousand word play in five days. Mr. Sherman says, “Her Supporting Cast,” was written in five days. Mr. Sherman knows no hours when he is at work on a story, remaining at the typewriter (all his stories and plays are written directly out on the machine) for fifteen to twenty hours at a stretch, with only five or ten minute time-outs every several hours. He has learned to relax, to drop to sleep on a cot in his room and awaken refreshed after five to ten minutes, ready for another siege at the machine. All his stories and plays are his last drafts, it being Mr. Sherman’s contention that the sub-conscious mind creates stories as perfectly as it is possible for a writer to create them... and that the conscious mind distorts this creation in getting the story through from the sub-conscious unless one knows how to blank the conscious mind. He also states that physical fatigue is absent when the sub-conscious mind is used... but fatigue occurs when we try to do with the conscious mind that which can only be accomplished and without effort, by the sub-conscious. In our interview with Mr. Sherman we found that he has yet to taste liquor although in “Let Freedom Ring!” he has written a novel denouncing the prohibition era and showing the devastating effect upon the younger generation of the prohibition period. To get material for this novel, he spent many nights in speakeasies, drinking straight gin and geranium and emerging with a vivid recollection of all that he had seen and heard. Mr. Sherman, like all great penmen, has habits, has never tasted coffee. He has no prejudice against these appetites and habits, merely stating that he has experienced no desire for them, enjoys seeing others enjoy smoking and drinking, but is perfectly happy and healthy without. Mr. Sherman has an insatiable interest in humanity... in world affairs. He is a student of international conditions and has attained a profound knowledge of the situation in America. His desire, his intimate, is to dramatize the vital issues that confront the peoples of the world and this he has done in his first screen drama, “Are We Civilized?”, “Human beings like stories,” declares Mr. Sherman, “that are not the figments of an author’s imagination... but that dramatically or humorously reflect a situation or issue in their own lives... or with which they are intimately or currently familiar. If I try to interest an individual in a story that I have created mechanically, with no thought of a parallel human situation, I can’t get an instantaneous reaction. But the moment I build a story out of human experience and relate it to my audience is point of timeliness, I catch everyone’s attention. Many stories are produced on stage and screen that are too artificial and entirely unrelated to the human interest of the moment to catch on. The public mind, so filled with activities, is caught and held by stories having a direct relation to the intensive interests of the period. Some stories are timeless and can be revived with profit, but full advantage has never yet been taken in the matter of introducing as well as conceiving stories tying in with the state of consciousness of the theater-going public. When this becomes an art, and the psychology of the human mind is studied with a view to properly feeding this mind, the results will immediately begin to mount up at the box-office.”

EVA OLIVOTTI DIVIDES HER TIME BETWEEN PANTAGES THEATER AND CLUB AIRPORT

Holding the record for the longest engagement as a singing entertainer in a cafe in the Southland night clubs, Eva Olivotti, “Queen of Song,” is this week doubling between the Pantages theater, where she is one of the featured singers in Salvatore Santealla’s orchestra which is the added attraction at the “Pat” theater, and the Club Airport Gardens, where she has won such great favor with the night owls that Tommy Jacobs has sort of accepted her as a fixture at his playspot. Miss Olivotti has a most pleasing personality and voice suited for the best operatic and musical organizations. Theatergoers are in for a real treat during the current engagement of this loveable vocalist, and if motion picture producers are wise, they will drop in and give this charming girl the once-over for some of their musicals, for she has a soul as great as some of our best actresses to match up her singing talents.

TURKEY SHOW

The Music Box is staging a burlesque show that is on a par with the Main Street show of amusements. It may call it “A Night in Hollywood,” or “A Night on Main Street,” with Don Dixon, Ukulele Myke, Claire Florence, Dallas Drake, Lita Raza, Ruth Barney, Lucille Layman and others.

Charles Chaplin Heads List of Celebrities Past Week at Beverly Wilshire

Charles Chaplin and Paulette Goddard headed the list of celebrities who dined and danced at the Beverly Wilshire Hotel Gold Room where Carol Lofner and his orchestra are the attraction. Others we lamped our eyes on were Alice Faye, the Princess Mdivani, David and Myron Selznick, Joan Blondell, Sister and George Barnes Joan's hubby, Edward Everett Horton, Sam Harris, Doe Allbright Lois Wilson, Dorothy Mackall, Lupe Velez and Johnny Weissmuller, Sammy Cohen, Carmen Lombardo, Gus Arghim, Wm. Wellman, Edward Cronjager, Harry Crocker, Mrs. George Hearst, Ken Murray, Sue Carroll, Walter Wagner, Gloria Shea, B. P. Schulberg, Sylvia Sydney, Vera Steadman and many others. The solo singers and music were more than pleasing on this occasion.

Cocoonat Grove Draws Plenty of New Faces to Dine and Dance

We never saw so many new faces around the Cocoonat Grove as have lately been dining and dancing at this amusement center in the Ambassador hotel. We ran into Freeman Lang entertaining A. E. Bennett, managing director of the 2 GB broadcasting station, Sydney, Australia. In the party were some well known celebs. The table was set with a complete radio equipment in use, even to the operators and entertainers. It was one of the most unique table settings we have ever seen on the "Cove" floor. Jimmy Manos knows how to cater to his guests. We saw Arthur Ungar and his wife dancing merrily as were M. H. Hoffman Sr. and Jr., stepping high, wide and handsome, Mr. and Mrs. Jack Lewis, Stephen and Paul Ames, Raquel and Renee Torres, Renee Davies, Col. Tim McCoy, Edward Cronjager, and there were hundreds of others. All seemed to enjoy the Lombardo Royal Canadians Non-Stop orchestra, for they seem to play anything by heart and never stop to turn pages but play from one number into another until they run out of tunes for that particular sitting and dance routine.

Billy Snyder Opens at Club Ballyhoo and Shares Honors with Earl and Josephine Leach and Kitty O'Dare

With Joey Ray joining the movies, Billy Snyder replaces him as M. C. at the Club Ballyhoo, which is owned and operated by Frank Hanefer. Billy needs no introduction to night spot followers. He is sharing honors with Earl and Josephine Leach (the Texas Redheads) and Kitty O'Dare, the beautiful dancing heiress, surrounded by a bevy of girls that is second to none and that Club Ballyhoo has to offer. The other night we ran into Lyle Talbot, Judith Allen, Patricia Farley, Herbert Fields, Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Herbert and hundreds of others having the time of their lives. Mr. and Mrs. Jerry Hoffman were in a party held for George Maduro, staged, we heard, by the famous Candy Kids, Viola and Dorothy Samson, who manufacture such delicious sweets. Billy Snyder promises to bolster up business at this spot because he is a very popular M. C. Martha Green clicks as added attraction.

Sally Rand Takes Bow and Makes Nice Speech at Sebastian's Cotton Club

Sally Rand is a smart little gal. She takes advantage of every situation a la the late Texas Guinan. Last Sunday night she was billed and appeared at Frank Sebastian's New Cotton Club. When called upon to take a bow, she up and said, "You have to give credit alike to Fanchon and Marco and Frank Sebastian for being brave enough to take a chance. Fanchon and Marcho for bringing me to the Paramount theatre coming tomorrow, and Frank Sebastian for engaging the Mills Bros., Four Boys and a Guitarist, for a run at this club." Listens like we have heard this sort of boost stuff before, but it surely shows that Sally Rand is a regular and knows her onions. She certainly made the evening a huge success and a look at those present revealed that they appreciated what Frank Sebastian was attempting to do in the very line Miss Rand gave him credit for doing. The best part of the celebrities are nightly making this place their rendezvous and are applauding the Mills Bros, like they never did before. Les Hite and his orchestra, featuring Lionel Hampton, the ace trap drummer, and the very funny Eddie Anderson and Johnny Taylor, are still the headliners of the all-colored show and band.

Many Parties Given at Moe Morton Club

The other evening Wilbur May held quite a party at the Moe Morton Club for about 35 couples. Among those present were Tom May, Eph Asher, Stanley Bergerman, Tom Platt of Platt Music Co., Jimmy Dunn, Jimmy Starr, Zion Myers, Bernie Topiliszk and Gloria Shea. Among those who entertained were Lillian Miles; Right and Wrong, those clever colored boys; Benny Baker, that funny fellow who works with Lou Holtz, made 'em laugh long and loud; Mack Grainger and Harry Revelle; the grownup and beautiful Peaches Jackson, Eddie Larkin, Lonnie Dorsa and any number of others. It was a great party. Every night is a banner night at this spot which is located on Hawthorne Avenue within a stone's throw of the Roosevelt hotel.

Paramount Gives Banquet of Beauty at Roosevelt Hotel Blossom Room

One of the swankiest affairs ever given in the Blossom Room at the Roosevelt hotel was honoring Earl Carroll last week. Paramount studios did itself proud in giving this "banquet of beauty," which served to introduce Earl Carroll and his eleven beautiful girls who came out here to produce "Muder at the Vanities." Curt Houck and his orchestra certainly helped to put over this affair in a big way with its entertaining dance tunes and the manner in which he conducts his orchestra.

Merle Carlson Returns to Cafe De Paree

Merle Carlson and his orchestra, who left the Cafe De Paree to go to Arizona, are back at this spot since Bob Holman and his orchestra have gone to the Westward Ho hotel in Phoenix, Ariz. Merle has a fine musical organization and is a happy-go-lucky fellow. One of his singing favorites, is playing a return engagement as is Jack Ray, the Fire King. The newcomers are Andre and Antone, sensational dancers, and the cute and clever Saunders Sisters. Pete Dokos, major domo of the place, is showing good judgment by his show and music selections.

Alfred Latell's Act and George Redman's Music Draws Crowds to Club Airport Gardens

Those who saw Alfred Latell's sensational dog impersonation number with Sylvan Dell as his foil, told their friends to be sure and see this act before it leaves Club Airport Gardens as it is a Wow. Following Latell there is Guy Mulcahy, an ace dancer and harmonica player of international repute; also Georgene and Henry, who do some marvelous waltz and adagio routines. Eva Olivotti is still a bright spot in the Club Airport show, and Mariza Flores is winning high praise nightly for her versatile dances. Kearney Walton acts as M. C. and sings a half dozen songs nightly by popular request. George Redman and his orchestra continue to play the type of music that you love to dance to. The food served at the Club Airport Gardens is always of the best and a grand time is assured all who visit this night spot.

Club La Boheme Continues to Draw Good Crowds

We dropped in at the Club La Boheme the other night and ran into Raoul Pagel and his wife (Ruth James, of Vanities fame); they were married a week ago and this was their night of fun for members of the Charles Rogers company, headed by Harry Brown and his charming wife, Sally Elters, Ralph Murphy, Casey Robinson and Val Paul and wife, joined Sammy Lee and Larry Ceballos in wishing the newlyweds good luck and all dined and danced until the wee hours of the morning, while other guests equally as noted, also made merry. Arthur Gibson and his orchestra furnished the music and there was plenty of fun and amusement offered by the various acts that were staged. Henri Desoto looked after the culinary part of the program with Dave Gordon the chief glad-hand man who saw to everyone's comfort from the minute they entered the front door and up to the minute they left for home sweet home..

Caesar's Still Going Strong

Giving their patrons good entertainment as well as serving excellent food keeps Caesar's one of the brightest spots in Hollywood. Johnny Horace, Hazel Jones and Bob Brown and his charming wife, Sally Elters, are still the trio that has the antiques, while Walter Johnson is at the piano. Cafe-lovers have come to make this spot their last stopping place, no matter where they have come from. They don't think the night is complete unless they have some of Caesar's tasty foods and pleasing refreshments.
SHIRLEY WINS

On the Fox lot they’re still talking of the worry Shirley Temple, four-year-old contract songstress, caused a certain dialogue director.

It seems Shirley persisted in splitting her infinities for a scene in the “Follies,” and nothing the dialogue expert could do made any difference to the youngster.

So what happened? So Shirley kept on splitting infinities.

GARNETT SEeks UGLY DUCKLING FOR ROLE

Pretty little girls need not apply! That sign hung figuratively on Director Tay Garnett’s office door today as he was interviewed eight year old girls for the featured child role of “Honor Bright” for Paramount. The part requires a freckle faced little girl and if a tooth or two is out, says Garnett, so much the better.

MEGLIN KIDDIES GET BREAK IN GEORGE WHITE’S “SCANDALS”

The cast of George White’s “Scandals,” now nearing completion at the Fox Film studios, was augmented by the addition of fifty Meglin Kiddies who appear in scenes with a full cast that include Alice Faye, Jimmy Durante and Cliff Edwards. The youngsters, who range in age from three to six years, will enact a complete number for the picture during the coming week. To comply with laws regulating employment of children, they will do their work for the film in short periods each afternoon with rehearsal and attendance at the studio school occupying the rest of the day. The Meglin Kiddies is a group of younger children trained by Ethel Meglin in a school that has gained fame on the Pacific coast as an institution in juvenile theatrical training.

NEW JUVENILE FUN SHOW ON KFWB

It’s something on the order of the late Jr. Hi-Jinks and it’s sponsored by the Marco Dog Food Company. It’s a fine juvenile revue and can be heard every Saturday at 7:30 P.M. on KFWB. Jane Withers is wonderful, of course. Kenneth McMillan’s singing will just thrill every feminine heart and will please the males, too. Herman Stark impersonates the Yogi Yorgenson and Raymond Ederen born the sheriff. Others are Gerry Doyle, David Leo Tillotson, the Stewart Sisters, Three Modernes, and Ruth Christy, Nip and Tuck, “those two grand pianists at the two grand pianos” accompany. The juvenile talent was selected from an array of 500. Johnny Murray and Jack Joy are responsible for the auditions and will make changes from week to week so as to keep the best of talent on the Marco Juvenile Revue. We would like to see this fun show continue indefinitely.

PETE TRONCALIE, 9-YEAR-OLD PROTEGE OF BUD MURRAY, LANDS KFWB JUNIOR HI-JINKS

Pete Troncale, the nine-year-old protege of Bud Murray, was picked out of hundreds to appear in the Warner Bros. KFWB Junior Hi-Jinks last Saturday. Pete was a singer, dancer and a black-face comic, and one of the “Two Black Dots,” composed of Pete Troncale and June Parkes, who have both been appearing in the local entertainment spots, in an original black-face song and dance act, staged by Bud Murray. This was the youngsters first broadcast and his stage training stood him in good stead as he never wavered.

TRIPPLETT TO DRIVE RICHFIELD MYSTERY CAR?

To me there is nothing quite as enjoyable as watching any kind of a sporting event with someone who doesn’t understand the game. Some people find explaining the fine points of a baseball broadcast but your friend and me. Demeree, gets a good kick out of it. Perhaps it makes me feel superior or nothing, but whatever it is I enjoy it. Last Sunday I took an attorney friend of mine—P. M. Bokowski—out to the Legion Ascot Speedway to watch Al Gordon win his fourteenth consecutive race at the local plant and the questions Bokowski asked were legion. For instance, Bokowski wanted to know why the drivers wore those helmets; why all the argument about the size of the motor; whether the cars could go the quarter mile in less than a second sometime. By the way, I just heard a little bird talking over the alleged plans of Ernie Trippler. It is rumored “The Blond Terror” is going to drive a car built by Richfield—a new car that will introduce a new idea in racing motors. I thought Ernie was kidding when he said that he was through. Another thing I just heard—Al Gordon uses four carburetors on his Miller and has one of the greatest race mechanics in the game working on his car. Petrole is the name and Petrole is a racer himself, holding several motorcycle records. Last week—and I was told that he does the same thing regularly—he put the finishing touches on Gordon’s car and then marked the time it would make on the wall of the garage before they left. Gordon wheeled it around Ascot within 0.2 seconds of the time Petrole predicted. Not bad, huh? I wish Gordon would let some of the other drivers benefit by the knowledge of Mr. Petrole. It’s getting monotonous watching Al win all those races, yet keep going, hoping someone will eventually end to his winning streak. The next race will be Sunday, Feb. 11—I’ll be seein ya then. Demeree.

HOLLYWOOD LEGION STADIUM

Another packed house, with hundreds turned away, greeted matchmaker-manager Charley McDonald last week when Art Lasky, Minneapolis heavy, split the main event with lightweight Billy Donahue, who gave away some twelve pounds to try his luck. Donahue went out of his class to meet a good big man—and was stopped in the fifth, after outboxing Lasky for half the distance, then weakening under the heavy punching of the big man, who has stopped five of the six men he has met here. Lasky seems to top Coast heavies—so far. Lacking what the fancy calls “color,” he packs a killing sock in both hands and will make life tough for most second- raters hereabouts. The upset of the show came when a Jim Jeffries boy, Hoyt Jones, 133, stopped Johnny Hines in the sixth, halting what looked like a brilliant future. Jones was too rugged for Hines, outsmarting and outpunching him nearly all the way.

MARCHETTIS CAFE WINS APPROVAL

Owing to the pronounced success of the new Marchettis’ cafe on Wilshire Blvd. at Reeves Drive, Milo Marchetti announces that the new rendezvous of the stars and social elite of Beverly Hills and Hollywood will remain open until 1:30 A.M. daily and Sunday.

The after-theater crowds have set this definite policy of the new institution. Over 100 famous stars visited the new place last week again proving that the luminaries of stage and screen are exacting in their cuisine. Friday night is designated as “College Night” by Milo, it is announced.

CLUB FLAMINGO BECOMES LATEST SPOT IN HOLLYWOOD

With Judd Kline at the piano nightly playing for some impromptu artists that drop in after they finish at the other night spots, the Club Flamino has become the latest of all spots in Hollywood where one can dine and enjoy refreshments that are in order these days. Shows people from all cafes are running into this their rendezvous and Judd has Sam Young singing for the cash customers in between the acts that are put on by the artists who feel inclined to disport their friends from the other cafes.

Al Jolson is Greater Than Ever in "Wonder Bar"

Academy to Make Awards at March 15 Banquet

DOLORES DEL RIO, KAY FRANCIS, RICARDO CORTEZ AND DIRECTORS BACON AND BERKLEY

Al Jolson can promise theatergoers that they haven't seen anything yet until they see "Wonder Bar," his latest picture. Then they can discuss him and his screen work for in this production you will see the famous singing star at his best. We told the whole world when we saw "Footlight Parade" that Warner Bros. better stop making musicals, because they will never be able to top that production. We take it all back, thanks to Al Jolson' great ability and versatility and at the same time not overlooking the direction of Lloyd Bacon and Busby Berkeley. The latter created and staged the marvelous dance sequences which are replete with electrical effects of such a great nature that one marvels and wonders if Frank L. Murphy, chief electrical engineer, will ever run out of ideas to help mystify the went. "Wonder Bar" also contains some very fine artists whose names mean much to any production and to this one they fit in as perfectly as if the story had been written around their talents. You will love Dolores Del Rio and Ricardo Cortez. "Ric" plays a downright heavy of the meanest kind and makes the most of every moment he is on the screen. Miss Del Rio looks stunning besides acting and dancing divinely. Kay Francis has a small but important part and gets over in a big way. This, too, goes for Dick Powell and Louise Fazenda. Others who helped carry the story were Henry O'Neill, Henry Kolker, Hugh Herbert, Guy Kibbee, Ruth Donnelly, Fifi D'Orsay, Merna Kennedy, Hal Le Roy, Eddie Kane, Robert Barrat and many others. What a revelation Al Jolson will be to theatergoers who have sort of been hungry for another "Jazz Singer" picture from the King of Crooners. He does a "Mammy" number in this one with a cute kid and a donkey, that final scene.

BECOMES VERY ACTIVE ON BEHALF OF MEMBERS

Primary voting was set into motion today by the Academy of Motion Picture Arts and Sciences to select the winners of the film industry's annual awards for outstanding achievements in all branches during the past year. The kings and queens of filmland will be announced at the traditional sixth annual awards banquet on March 15. Nomination ballots have been mailed to actors, directors, producers, writers, cameramen, assistant directors, sound departments and art directors, with instructions to select from their respective groups nominees to be placed on the final ballot in March. The selection of the winners will be made from more than 500 feature productions, including a score or more of foreign pictures which have been exhibited throughout the country. In accordance with a new change in the by-laws of the Academy, pictures in future will be included in the annual roster as of the calendar year. The current group will comprise all releases from August 1, 1932, to December 31, 1933. Considered one of the most important events in the film industry, the Academy awards banquet will be grasped by film personalities and distinguished guests.

Two cases were brought before the Conciliation Committee of the Academy, both on appeal from the Actors Adjustment Committee under the provisions of the Academy standard contracts for free lance part and bit players. In the case of Phillip Cooper versus Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer studio arising from the location trip to Mexico with the "Viva Villa" company, the Committee was instrumental in bringing about an amicable adjustment between the parties during the hearing without necessity of a formal award. In the case of three players versus Fox Films company relating to a "weather permitting" call during the filming of "Warrior's Husband," the Committee interpreted the Day player.

"Six of a Kind"—Leo McCarey Puts Over Good One with a Great Cast

A more capable brace of comedians than the six who were assigned by Paramount officials to make this picture will rarely be seen, for with Leo McCarey directing and Keene Thompson, Douglas McLean, Walter De Leon and Harry Ruskin working on the script and providing one clever situation after another, they have given us something that calls for those real belly-laughs so rarely heard in the theater.

The yarn concerns a mild mannered bank clerk (Charles Ruggles) and his wife (Mary Boland), who decide to take a much merited vacation by taking a trip to Hollywood. The wife, thinking to cut expenses, advertises for a couple to share the cost of the trip. George Burns and Gracie Allen respond with dire results to the bank clerk and his spouse. The fateful day arrives with the bank clerk bringing his luggage to the bank where another clerk (Bradley Page), who has stolen $50,000 worth of bonds, puts them into the vacationist's bag, thinking to get them later. The bank is shut down and all its poor bank clerks is chased all over the country by bank detectives. When they finally catch up with him they discover the real thief. Of course, while this is the gist of the yarn, the many complications that ensue, including those with W. C. Fields and Alison Skipworth, and the funny situations in one of which a huge dog is concerned with much hilarity, are too difficult to put on paper and must be seen to be appreciated. We might mention that George Burns did a nice bit as the sweetheart of the crook, and Wm. Kelly, James Burke, Dick Rush, Walter Long, Leo Willis, Lew Kelly, Alfred James, Tammany Young, Phil Ted, George Pearce, Verna Hilie, Florence Enright, Wm. Augustin, Kathleen Burke, Irving Bacon, Phil Dunham, Marty Faust, Lee Phelps and Neil Burns helped the piece along greatly, while Henry Sharp provided the usual good photography for Paramount Pictures.

In conclusion, we might say, "If you want to chase those blues away, be sure to see 'Six of a Kind.'" To indulge in the slang of today, it's a "wow."

WARNER BAXTER BUSY— as no sooner had he finished in "Fox Follies" than he was assigned to play an aviator in "The Ace." In the meanwhile, not to let this valuable talent go too much of a rest, he plays in "Odd Thursday," an Al Rockett production.

WHEN HE RETURNS—Henry King starts on his new contract for Fox Films with an assignment to direct "Mamie Gallante" from the novel of Jacques Duval. One of the best of the year.

TAKING DANCING LESSONS—is Maurice Chevalier, to perfect himself in the famous waltz, made world renowned in "The Merry Widow," for M-G-M studios, although Maurice tells us that he earned his living on the Paris stage as a dancer when he was a boy.

THE PRETTIEST LEGS—says Dr. Maurice Lebell, an authority on the subject, are to be found in Los Angeles and Hollywood, because of the fact that the girls in Southern California are able to indulge in out-door exercises all the year round.

"CITY LIMITS"—is the latest production from the Monogram studios, announces Trem Carr, producing executive, with Frank Craven, Sally Blane, Ray Walker, Jane Keckley, Fern Emmett, George Hayes, George Cleveland and others in the cast with William Nigh directing.

WROTE TWO SONGS—Did Jimmy Durante, for his latest RKO picture, "Strictly Dynamite" that have been published by Irving Berlin. Lupe Velez, Marion Nixon, Norman Foster and the Four Mills Brothers are all in the cast with Elbert Nagent directing.

ANOTHER PRESIDENT ELECTED—as Trem Carr of Monogram Pictures will head the Independent Motion Picture Producers Association. This will be the real thing as only actual and legitimate producers will be allowed membership, that they will be strictly adhered to.

THE FANS GET BUSY— which speaks well for the publicity boys at United Artists, as a great number of fan letters have been received by Anna Sten, star of "Anna." This is quite unusual as the picture has only been released in a few cities so far.

TWO MORE FOR LONDON—as Fred Newmeyer was signed recently to direct a picture for British International, and not being content with that raid on Hollywood they have secured Arthur Caesar to write a script for Alexander Korda's production, "Charles III."

IN BED AT 11 O'CLOCK— was the strange dictum of Earl Carroll for his famous beauties and their chapmen saw that the role was fixed up to on a recent party, but when the lady was sound asleep the girls came back and were in the thick of the fun.

DOING WELL IN LONDON—is Anna Mae Wong, our favorite actress as she gets the lead in the British production "Chu Chin Chow" for British Gaumont, as well as "Java Head" for Basil Dean. After that, she heads for China for one of her own pictures.

"PECK'S BAD BOY"— that we enjoyed so much as youngsters is to be screened for Sol Lesser, with Jackie Cooper in the name role and the other Jackie Searl doing one of his "meanie" roles. Eddie Cline directs, which makes three winners.

A SET DRESSER ARRIVES—as Charles Coleman, the latest director to make a success in Columbia Pictures, started about twelve years ago that lowly job, but did his work so well that he was gradually advanced and they tell us his first is a knockout.

BLONDES ARE ORGANIZED—since George White of "Scandals" fame made the assertion "that gentle men have no preference for blondes," but the girls say he proved his statement wrong by having sixty-three blondes and only fifty-two brunettes in fine.
Jean Hersholt Shares Honors with Clark Gable and Myrna Loy in “Men in White”

The day of the character actor is here, thanks to Jean Hersholt and other sterling actors, for in “Men in White” Mr. Hersholt shares acting honors with Clark Gable and Myrna Loy, and gives as a performance as Lionel Barrymore has given on the same show. In fact, Mr. Barrymore was to have played the part that Jean Hersholt plays as Dr. Hochberg. “Men in White” is thrilling to say the least, if it lacks anything it is comedy, although Wallace Ford and Russell Hopton were put into this opus for laugh purposes and gain many a laugh, but have too little to do. You will love Elizabeth Allan. Otto Kruger gives as fine a piece of acting as you have ever seen in a small but outstanding part. Little Dorothy Gray pulls on your heart strings until they are just about ready to snap, as she bravely fights to get well in one of the highlights of the hospital sequences. Her work with Clark Gable stumps her as an artiste equal to any child actress. Others who come in for attention are C. Henry Gordon, Henry B. Walthall, Russell Hardie, Sam S. Hinds, Frank Puglia, Leo Chalze and Donald Douglas. The screen play by Waldemar Young is in a great measure responsible for the suspense and interest centered by the principals in the picture. Sidney Kingsley wrote the play from which the Waldamor Young treatment was created. Director Richard Boleslavsky did a good job. Monta Bell was the producer. George Fosley, photographer. The technical staffs of M-G-M studios did themselves proud on this one, which promises to be a little too exciting for weak hearts, especially where Clark Gable performs an operation on Elizabeth Allan with his fiancée, to whom he is about to be married, looking on.

Joseph Santsley Is a Good Bet for Major Studios

Joseph Santley is the man who staged “LIFE BEGINS” on the New York stage so well that Warner Bros. decided that the story would make a very fine picture, and followed out this hunch and clicked with it in a big way, so much so, that they bought one of Mr. Santley’s screen plays,” “The House on 56th Street,” which scored another triumph for them. He is, to our way of thinking, an excellent director, and over-looking the other night we sat at the Masquers Club Revel and watched and listened to a sketch, “God Save the King,” staged and directed by Joseph Santley. It set our mind to thinking about this man’s ability and background and the more we thought about it the more we felt that producers are losing a chance to utilize the services of a man who knows his stage and screen in a writing and directorial angle on a par with the highest paid men now employed in our studios.

Jean Arthur Returns to Screen

Ralph G. Farnum has just arranged with Columbia studios for Jean Arthur to play the lead in “Whirlpool”, a Bob North production that started Monday. Miss Arthur, for the past year and a half, has been in New York where she was a very big hit in the leads of four shows, namely “Foreign Affairs”, “The Man Who Reclaimed His Head”, “$25 An Hour”, and “Curtain Rises.” She came to Hollywood to visit her mother and father with no thought of making a picture, but upon her arrival here Columbia immediately became interested in her for “Whirlpool”, also for the lead in “The Most Precious Thing in Life.” Universal wants her for the next Eddie Buzzell production, “The Behavior of Mrs. Crane,” as well as to play the lead in “The Man Who Reclaimed His Head”, the part Miss Arthur originated in New York. Claude Reins may also appear in this picture, and Lowell Sherman will probably appear in it as well as direct it. Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer is this week making extended tests of Miss Arthur with the idea in mind of signing her to a term contract.

Frank Capra Makes a Great Picture Out of “It Happened One Night” with Clark Gable and Claudette Colbert at Their Best

Frank Capra deserves the top spot in the billing of “It Happened One Night,” a Columbia picture starring Clark Gable and Claudette Colbert. These artists never appeared to better advantage in any of their screen efforts. It is one of the funniest comedy-dramas staged in many a day. The seriousness with which the players carry along the tempo is what makes this picture such excellent film fare. This naturally gives Frank Capra every opportunity to show his master directional hand, for at no time does he lose control of a situation and he nurses every angle of the original story as written by Samuel Hopkins Adams with the screenplay funny screen play by Robert Riskin for all it is worth and brings home another winner. Walter Connolly, James Thomas and Roscoe Karns command a great deal of attention. Roscoe gets many a hearty laugh. Others who play their roles well are Alan Hale, Ward Bond, Eddie Chandler and many others. Joseph Walker did a fine job of photographing the picture. EXHIBITORS WILL CLEAN UP ON THIS ONE EVEN BIGGER THAN THEY DID ON “LADY FOR A DAY,” which was also a directorial gem from Capra and produced by Columbia.

Lee Tracy Is to Be Brought Back to the Screen in Greater Glory

From where we sit and from what we have learned about the Lee Tracy-Mexico episode, Lee was made the goat and will come back to the screen in greater glory than ever. Those who live in glass houses should not throw stones for who knows, the stones are bound to bounce back and show up their own guilty actions. Lee Tracy is human like any of us, and may have in the past found his pleasures where others may not care to tread. However, he never harmed any one, and has given his best on the screen and is entitled to a break by the producers. Whoever is threateningly holding a club over the producers, anent their using Lee Tracy in pictures, is liable to feel the power of that club by the loss of a real box-office attraction and public sentiment condemning their stand against a man who was blamed for something that never happened and should have been protected rather than condemned.

Trem Carr Heads Independent Association

We are living in a day and age of organization: The latest body to form and to cast their hat in the ring is THE INDEPENDENT PRODUCERS who are working and producing within the Southland. Trem Carr has been elected President, M. H. Hoffman and Kenneth Goldsmith, Vice-President. Nat Levine and Larry Darmour were reelected Secretary and Treasurer. Atop of these elections, there was 35 membership applicants who aspired to joining the organization. This organization should do much to clear up the bad situations created in the independent field by a lot of chisellers and grafters who have fleeced would-be producers who were promised a bag of gold at the end of the rainbow trail. But which in many instances was never reached or intended to be reached, it only meant a way and means for the so-called producers fattening his own pocketbook and the loss of the suckers’ money as far as an investment was concerned. The Independent Producers Association is made up of the cream of independent producers and worthy of every attention and help.

Love

The words of Jule, “Keep yourselves in the love of God, looking for the mercy of our Lord Jesus Christ unto eternal life,” were the Golden Text in the Lesson-Sermon on “Love” on Sunday in all Churches of Christ, Scientist, branches of The Mother Church, The First Church of Christ, Scientist, in Boston, Mass.

One of the Scriptural selections in the Lesson-Sermon presented these verses from Matthew: “Then one of them, which was a lawyer, asked him a question, tempting him, and saying, Master, which is the great commandment in the law? Jesus said unto him, Thou shalt love the Lord thy God, with all thy heart, and with all thy soul, and with all thy mind. This is the first and great commandment. And the second is like unto it, Thou shalt love thy neighbour as thyself. On these two commandments hang all the law and the prophets.”

A passage from “Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures,” by Mary Baker Eddy, stated: “Love for God and man is the true incentive in both healing and teaching. Love inspires, illumines, designates, and leads the way. Right motives give pinions to thought, and strength and freedom to speech and action.”
DICK SUTHERLAND PASSES AWAY

Dick Sutherland, beloved by the amusement world for many characterizations that he gave to the screen, passed away Saturday night at his home after a lingering illness. His most noted screen work was with Harold Lloyd in "Grandma's Boy" during the silent days. Ye Editor joins the bereaved family in this hour of their sorrow, too, to learn to know and love Dick Sutherland for all the good things that he did in life.

Moving Movie Throng by John Hall

Good-by, Mr. Rosenblatt, pleased to meetcha . . . What you leave behind you, Mr. Rosenblatt, is a pea soup-thick fog of the guys who dering doubt . . . The boys and girls can’t make up their minds about what kind of a guy you really are . . . They did like your social activities; rather leaned towards the thought that you should have been a little more hard-boiled with the guys who entertained you so lavishly . . . Oh, yes; you complained about turning social affairs into business meetings and all that; but the Hollywood boys and girls, you see, are rather sore from being kicked around by the gents you seemed to coddle . . . They don’t like it, Mr. Rosenblatt—not a bit; no siree! Now, we are inclined to be a bit charitable . . . You see, Mr. Rosenblatt, after all you are a pretty young feller, grabbing your first shot at national affairs . . . Being a bright young lawyer, naturally you are looking a head a bit . . . But, lad, while you were in Hollywood you saw mighty little of the submerged tenth . . . You DID see a lot of the froth on top of the social stein . . . Now, deep in your heart, Mr. Rosenblatt, we feel that you saw TOO MUCH of the froth on top of the movie social stein . . . And what you tasted on must have tasted bitter . . . To a bright young feller like you, the old pat-him-on-the-back thing must have been a lot of banana oil . . . Well, young feller, while you were here did you observe what is happening to those unfortunate "flat rate" workers? Or did you? The Hollywood boys and girls know that, in order to feed the gang, President Roosevelt must divide the work . . . Understanding all about what it means to be hungry, the Hollywood boys and girls are splitting their pay checks with others via the 36-hour week, receiving one-third of their old pay and letting the other two-thirds go to other workers . . . But that flat-rate gag is murder . . . How would you like to work fourteen and sixteen hours a day without overtime? . . . All the flat-rate victims are doing just that . . . Most of them are working from four to six hours a day FOR NOTHING . . . Average this for a year and the PRODUCERS are taking tens of thousands of work hours for NO PAY . . . Converted to money, this means hundreds of thousands of dollars given to the producers FOR NOTHING . . . Did you notice this while you were here, Mr. Rosenblatt? Or did you
“Beggars in Ermine”—Excellent Story and Exceptional Cast

MONOGRAM PRODUCTION WAS DIRECTED BY PHIL ROSEN

Quite an unusual story, taken from the novel by Esther Lynd Day and made into an excellent screen play by Tristram Turner, is the latest Monogram picture, well directed by Phil Rosen and splendidly photographed by Gilbert Warren-ton.

The story concerns two master minds in big business. The one a former workman and now head of the concern and trying to give his workmen a square deal, with the other an unscrupulous villain who not only steals the other man’s wife as well as his interest in the company, but causes him to be a helpless cripple for life. He is finally outpointed by the honorable man and dies a disgraceful death. This is really the gist of the yarn, but there are many clever complications in the unravelling of the plot, in which a youthful love story is told, with good entertainment resulting. The cast was exceptional in every way and was headed by Arthur Lake, who did one of his most difficult roles as the “honorable man,” and was forced to play the part in a wheel chair in the bulk of the picture but handled it beautifully. Jameson Thomas played the unscrupulous villain to perfection while Henry Walthall handled the role of a blind man in his usual clever way. Betty Furness and James Bush, supplied the youthful interest, with Astrid Allyn, George Hayes, Steven Gross, Sam Godfrey, Lee Phelps, Clinton Lyle, Sydney de Grey, William Worthington, Myrtle Stedman and Gordon de Main playing the other parts with skill. The opening of the picture was particularly interesting and helped greatly to get into the moif of the story, as it showed the various departments of a steel mill in operation. Tren Carr, producing executive of Monogram, as usual invested this one with splendid production values, and from the comments overheard in the lobby after the preview, we feel sure that “Beggars in Ermine” has splendid box-office values.

This production, while made in Hollywood, had such a foreign atmosphere and was so cleverly produced and directed, that it was finally chosen by the manager of ”The Home of Foreign Pictures” as one of their choice pictures of the year.

This is one of those semi-musical romances with a delightful musical background and directed by one whose music is known all over the world, Victor Schertzinger, and with one of the finest singers of today in the male lead.

The theme of the story is that of the great devotion shown between two lovers. It opens in Vienna in 1838 and continues through four generations. No one could have been selected to better advantage for the character of the “composer” than John Boles, who carries the idea of the picture so beautifully during nearly a century of the musician’s life until his death, at the first performance of his symphony. Gloria Stuart is another in the cast who deserves special mention playing the part of Lucy, the leading girl character. She is charming and delightful even when dressed. Richard Carle’s characterization of the impersonation of the composer’s New York days is a gem, with Dorothy Peterson, Albert Conti, Mae Busch, Lucile Gleason, Edmund Beebe, Lester Lee and Louise Carter playing other parts with skill and understanding of the story. The original story and screen play is a distinctive piece of work on a difficult subject and this with the lovely photography of Merritt Gerstea makes this one an unusual production. Jack Pierce is responsible for the remarkable make-up.

There is no doubt that the discriminating theater-going public will heartily respond to this fine picture as a cycle of plays on domestic subjects are now the vogue. At least the audience at the opening performance seemed to be well satisfied with the entertainment given them.

—Arthur Porre.

Curt Houck Is Making Many New Friends at Blossom Room

Curt Houck and his Catalina Casino orchestra are making many new friends at the Hollywood Roosevelt Blossom Room, where he has been holding down the spot to very good success for many months. The reason for all this popularity is that Curt Houck himself is a fine musician and works hand in hand with his boys to give the public the best music it is humanly possible to give them for their nightly dining and dancing. Josef Mann is the maitre d' hotel, who looks after the food and welfare of everyone—need we say any more?

Sunday night is cinema and theatrical folks' evening and the impromptu show is the greatest kind of entertainment. Last Sunday night Ruth Lane panicked 'em with some songs with Dave Gordon at the piano, as did Betty Carter, Al Fineberg sang a parody and that popular Anna Chandler took a bow to great applause. Miss Chandler promises this Sunday to put on a number or two which should prove a treat. The Club Ballyhoo orchestra, too, offers some very fine dance music. Among those present were Milton Raison, Eddie Larkin, Jack Letter, John Mand, Pete Sokos, Louis Atlas and many others.

His many friends drop in and put on impromptu shows at all hours of the night and morning, and it looks like this place will be the real night owl of Hollywood for the stayagers.

Guy Lombardo's Royal Canandians

The mystery of the day is, when does Guy Lombardo play that violin that he always has under his arm while he leads his Royal Canadians orchestra at the Cocoanut Grove. Old Night Hawk has dropped in at night after night and he would like to hear Guy play a tune on the fiddle, but always in vain. However, he leads like a real maestro and knows his music, and the boys follow his direction like they should every inch of the way. Every night is a big one at the Grove, although they make Tuesday evenings the star and executive night of nights of the week.

David Covey is the 'Mystery Man' of Sardi's

Found right in the heart of Hollywood a "mystery man" who walks about one of the most popular restaurants in Hollywood Sardi's and seems to be always going somewhere in the place and doing something, but, just who he was, sort of had even old NIGHT HAWK guessing, for he worked hand in hand with Eddie Brandtatter, head man of Sardi's, and every now and then he and Alex who looks after the welfare of the guests, would get their heads together, or was he telling some waver something to do, at any rate, he seemed to be a man in charge and in the know, so we ran him down and found out that his name is DAVID COVEY, that he is associated in Sardi's with EDDIE BRANDTATTER, it was this man who had faith enough in "Eddie" when he wanted to get back into harness once more, the two make a great combination, and Sardi's continues to lead all other cafes in Hollywood, by a wide margin, which promises to make this spot one of the most talked of of its kind catering to the public.

By Harry Barnes

We can now sit back and yell loudly that "We told you so," and mean every word of it in the case of the extras and their problems. When the NRA code was first discussed by a committee made up of Frank E. Woods, Alan Garcia, Fred Williams, Charles Gilbourn, R. Pennell, Ed Dahlen, Mr. McCullough, E. Dahler, Harry Burnes and Arthur Forde, we told those present that they were on the wrong track, that they had an idea to frighten their way into making the producers, through the Central Casting Corporation, do as they wanted them to do, and that the body present was going to act for all the extras. They did and failed miserably, so much so that right now the very men who wouldn't listen to Ye Editor are talking about getting all the extras under one banner and trying again to save their necks. Well, folks, it is almost too late, for when the horses are gone from the stables there is no need to lock the doors. Alan Garcia was expected by some to save the extras from all the promised sins of the casting departments and to obtain for them a square deal. All he and his co-workers have done is to disrupt the whole extra situation into a hotbed of grief and trouble, and now Mr. Garcia makes a plea for a get-together of all of the organizations now functioning since the NRA code was put into effect, to wit: The Supporting and Extra Players Association, The Hollywood Players Association, The Riding Actors Association and the Junior Screen Guild members. If the extras take our advice, they will quit foiling around and make an Associated Screen Actors Guild and all go under the banner of the "Guild," for if ever there was a chance for the day players to get together and do something for themselves, it is right now. But they will never get any place by fighting the powers that be, even if they have a dozen plowshares to support them and as many jokers.

George Arliss

Will soon be seen in his first picture for United Artists, in "The House of Rothschild," produced by Darryl Zanuck and directed by Alfred Werker. Mr. Arliss lends great dignity to the screen and should prove one of the greatest drawing cards that Joseph M. Schenck ever had appear under his banner.

"No Greater Glory" and "It Happened One Night" Their Latest Hits

Two of Columbia's greatest pictures are slated to make theatergoers sit up and take notice when they will be represented to first-run exhibitors during February in Frank Capra's "It Happened One Night" and Frank Borzage's "No Greater Glory." Both are attractions of road-show caliber, and each is nearly ready for release. With Clark Gable and Claudette Colbert in the stellar roles, "It Happened One Night" presents a star combination that clicks very strongly in Robert Riskin's adaptation of "Night Out," originally a novella in Cosmopolitan. Initial previews have aroused enthusiastic comments from reviewers and the picture promises to be as much of a sensation as was Capra's "Lady for a Day." Borzage's "No Greater Glory" is the adaptation of Ferenc Molnar's novel, "Paul Street Boys," adapted to the screen by Jo Swerling who did the screen treatment for Borzage's previous Columbia picture, "Man's Castle." While no stellar names grace the cast of the picture, it is already hailed as one of the most unique and powerful productions to come out of Hollywood. The principal roles are portrayed by a dozen boys in their teens, but the story is said to be as powerful as "All Quiet on the Western Front." Columbia has two productions scheduled to go into work during February which should give exhibitors powerful box-office attractions during the summer months. The first of these to get under way will be the Ben Hecht-Charles MacArthur play, "Twentieth Century," in which John Barrymore will have the stellar role, that of the eccentric theatrical producer. Carole Lombard has the principal feminine supporting role, that of the volatile stage star, a character originated on the New York stage by Eugenie Leontovich. Howard Hawks will direct.

In work at the present moment at Columbia are the Elissa Landi-Joseph Schillain-Frank Morgan picture, "Sisters Under the Skin," which David Burton is directing.

They Pay the Tax — so anxious are British producers to get talent from the Hollywood studios, that besides a good salary, the large income tax is also paid to those who are willing to go over. The latest is Liya Joy, the dancer, who was right from a Paramount picture, "The Curse of Kah," to London.

Gave in at Last — did Warner Brothers in loaning their favorite star, Bette Davis, to play the leading role opposite Leslie Howard in their special production, "Human Bondage," that Pandro Berman will produce, for RKO with John Cromwell directing.

Three Good Ones — lead the cast of "The Show Off" for Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer, with Spencer Tracy, Madge Evans and Lois Wilson in the featured roles that Chuck Reiner will direct. Lois Wilson was featured in the silent version some years ago.

The Glorious Garbo — whose picture for M-G-M, "Queen Christina," is packing the Chinese theater every day and whose doings are front page material any day, made her picture debut in a slap stick comedy, "Erie, the Tramp."

Contracts for Six — were the awards from the production of "Fox Follies," with Nick Foran, a former football player, Frank Melton from Alabama, another newcomer to Hollywood, Shirley Temple, a baby of four, Sylvia Froos, radio singer, and Mitchell and Durant.

His First Picture — now doesn't that sound funny of Buster Keaton, but "Crowded Out" will be his first for Educational comedies. It has an unusual psychological angle and offers great scope for the pantomime abilities of the frozen face comedian.

His Best Assignment — to date was given to Hugh Enfield in a featured role in "I'll Tell the World," at Universal, on account of his excellent work in a minor role in "Love Birds," starring ZaSu Pitts and Slim Summerville.

Back at Paramount — is Jack LaRue, as he has an assignment in a featured role in B. P. Schulberg's production "Little Miss Marker." Jack is now free-lancing and will probably get the roles suited for his remarkable talents as the studios are bidding for him.

We Watched Lee Tracy — working out at Universal in another of those smart newspaperman roles for which he has become famous, but Lee says he wants to get out of being typed as his stage experience has been very versatile. Edward Sedgwick is directing this one.

Our Good Friend — Torben Meyer tells us he is playing an Austrian officer for George Fitzmaurice in "All Men Are Enemies" at the Fox Westwood studios, the Williams-Tweedreets feature. Torben says he feels like the star as he was the character in real life.

Another Good Team — is now out at the M-G-M studios, where William Powell and Myrna Loy are set for the leading roles in Dashiel Hammett's story "Thin Man," with W. S. Van Dyke directing and Hunt Stromberg taking charge of the producing end.

Did Such Good Work — in the British production of "Henry the VIII" that Charles Laughton has been assigned to play "Louis the Sixteenth" in "Marie Antoinette," the historical play that Norma Shearer will make at Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer studios.

Another from Broadway — as Peggy Woods will start her first motion picture role opposite Will Rogers in "Merry Andrew" for Fox Films. This will be a Sol Wachtel production that William Conselman and Kubec Glasman are adapting for screen possibilities.

Henry Duffy Wins — another prize for his El Capitan theater in Hollywood, as "Men in White," will follow Francis Lederer's "Autumn Crocus." This great play that was also made into a picture, was given a four-star rating by Burns Mantle, the dean of critics in New York.

A Wine Taster — now that is what we call a real job, but it is only a part in a picture as Andy Clyde will play this character in his next for Educational Pictures with the intriguing title of "Hello, Prosperity." Andy started his career on the musical comedy stage.

Born on One — is the answer Paul Lukas gave to an enquiring bystander when she asked him how he could make talking picture scenes on a moving train with all the noise. This was in "Glamour," at Universal. Paul first saw the light of day on a train entering Vienna.

Off for South America — right after he makes those personal appearances in the East, goes Ramon Novarro of Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer studios and in the early winter he hopes to produce a play in London and play the featured lead.

They Need a Rest — so the two comics of Roach studios, Laurel and Hardy, will enjoy a brief vacation after completing "Oliver the Eighth," their funniest story so far. They turned in one-half of their release for the current season and are ahead of schedule.

Back to the Farm — goes Robert Montgomery, star at Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer studios, who will install the necessary improvements on his Westchester farm near New York City, now that "Rip Tide" is completed. The studio is working on his next, "Calm Yourself."

Borrow the Best — as Radio Pictures were lucky enough to get Karen Morley from M-G-M for the feminine lead in "The Crime Doctor." This is the exciting story that Israel Zangwill wrote, and David Lewis was selected as the producer.

"No More Women" is the Funniest McLaglen-Lowe Laughfest

A Paramount Picture with Ninety Minutes

Chuck Full of Fun

Victor McLaglen and Edmund Lowe have never had a vehicle more suited to their peculiar abilities than the latest from Charles R. Rogers for Paramount Pictures' release, and supervised by Harry Joe Brown. The story by Delmar Davis, based on "Undersea" by John Mikle Strong, and made into an excellent screen play by Delmar Davis and Lou Breslau, concerns two deep-sea divers who, while rivals in love, receive a lesson that the fellowship of man to man means a great deal more in the long run. Of course, this is a mild way of trying to tell you the story, but Albert Rogell, the director, had a clever way of developing his story and the players' interpretations of the various characters, with the added attraction of the superb photography of Theodore Sparkuhl and Harry Fischbeck, that put the production over with a bang. As for the players, Edmund Lowe and Victor McLaglen kept the preview audience in roars of laughter by their antics and clever dialogue, with Sally Blane making a splendid foil to the two rivals in love. Minna Gombell characterized in a clever manner the sort of a girl that a sailor needs in every port, and the Certain Rub won great distinction as a "man of the sea and a real Salt." Adolpe Ethier deserves a special mention for his natural way of playing the captain of the tug and the boss of the divers, with Tom Dugan, Harold Huber, William Franey, J. P. McGowan and Frank Moran playing the other roles skillfully. The production had some remarkable underwater photography that is a great help to keep the spirit of the picture and is a credit to the technical departments involved. In a few words, if you want to see some thrills, much real comedy and an interesting picture all the way through, you can't beat "No More Women." Exhibitors, take it from us, book this one, it is the funniest McLaglen-Lowe picture they have ever made.
Winfield Sheehan, Fox Films Chief Executive, is the “Lone Wolf” of Filmdom

“YES MEN” HAVE NO PLACE IN HIS ORGANIZATION; HE LOVES THE FELLOW WHO CAN SAY “NO”

Winfield Sheehan, vice-president and general manager of production of Fox Films, is the “Lone Wolf” of filmdom, minus those high-priced “Yes Men” who are in each others way in the majority of the major studios here. Mr. Sheehan loves to have a man who will stand pat and differ with him on a matter of story treatment or the actual making of certain pictures. His “No” will find a welcome spot in Mr. Sheehan’s best ear. However, a certain public publication in Hollywood enjoys to ride him for all they are worth, and if the truth be known, it is a down-right personal issue. Winfield R. Sheehan is a natural born fighter. He comes from New York, a city where they love to gamble and are willing to take a fling at anything if they have a ghost of a chance to come through a winner. It is the spirit of this fighting man that has kept the Fox studios going. It is his good judgment to surround himself with the right kind of people that has kept the Fox Films among the leaders of Cinemaland.

Fox Films have pulled less boners than any of the other majors; they have had less pictures on the shelf, and have continued all these years under the “Sheehan” banner to keep their studios going, to create new ideas and vogue that have quickly been snatched up by other producing companies. When Mr. Sheehan decided to bring out B. G. de Sylvia, Lew Brown and George White to make musical comedies, Paramount immediately rushed plans to bring Earl Carroll to the coast to make a picture. This is just another bit of evidence that the Fox Films chief production executive knows his business and public sentiment. It is about time that the scribes lay off the men who are struggling hard to create new ideas and to conduct such large institutions so that their attackers can gain some of the spoils of success of the very man whom they are trying their best to tear down within the industry.

“Queen Christina” Is Made to Order for “Garbo”

MARIE “GAMBY” GAMBARELLI PROVES A TRULY GREAT DANSEUSE

Sid Grauman went highbrow with his present show. First he started out by giving us one of the most artistic productions he has attempted in years, starring Marie “Gamby” Gambarelli, a truly beautiful ballerina, Paul Remus and Company, and Cora Sue Collins and Jackie Hughes, which was staged by Max Scheck with music and lyrics by Edward Ward and George Waggner. Then he goes a step further with one leap and presents Greta Garbo in “Queen Christina,” which was made to order for her and her unique talents. Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer showed great judgment in this selection, for it was above all time that they gave Garbo something a little out of the usual.

Get a load of Garbo’s cast that appears in her picture—John Gilbert returns opposite the great actress (and what a performance he gives, it is worth a cool million to the opus); Lewis Stone, who again gives one of his fine performances; while others who contribute in a great measure are Ian Keith, C. Aubrey Smith, Elizabeth Young, David Torrence, Lawrence Grant, Sarah Padden, Reginald Owen, Akim Tamiroff, Paul Hurst, Barbara Barondess, Muriel Evans, Edward Norris and so many others too numerous to mention. The directorial work of Rouben Mamoulian was superb, he was as ideally selected to handle the direction as was the star picked for the leading role. The story was from the pen of Salka Viertel and Margaret Le Vino, continuity and dialogue Salka Viertel and S. N. Behrman, and last but by far the least, the photography, the work of that master photographer, William Daniels. Get in early and see that prologue, it will be well worth your while. It is not too long or overdone, but is in keeping with the features which may not break box-office records, yet it will place Garbo in greater popularity with the cinema-theater-going public than she has been for some time.

“Harold Teen” Brings to the Screen a New Star in Hal LeRoy

The silent version of “Harold Teen” gave Mervyn LeRoy the greatest opportunity to become one of the big directors of today. Now the talking version of the same story makes a full-fledged screen star out of Hal LeRoy. Both versions were produced by Warner Brothers, who have seen to it that Harold Teen doesn’t become an eyesore, but kept the character eccentric enough to cause gales of laughter. Hal LeRoy does some of his best work during a wedding sequence which takes place at an amateur show given in the picture. The audience actually applauded young LeRoy as if he were doing his act on a real vaudeville stage. Rolling close on the heels of the star for attention was Rochelle Hudson who played “Lillums.” What other directors missed in finding in this charming girl, Murray Roth brought to the surface to the point of where your heart reaches out for her as she struggles between love and duty. Another fine performance was that of Eddie Tamblyn as “Shadow.” If Eddie had been given half a chance he would have run neck and neck with Hal LeRoy. Here is one of the youthful comics that we predict will be snatched up one of these days for a long term contract. You will love Chick Chandler as the fast-talking, smart cracking “Lilacs.” He had a number of good opportunities to put across some songs and he came through like the seasoned trooper that he is. Patricia Ellis is fast developing her talents, and when it comes to looks she gets over in a million ways. Charles Wilson as the editor of Covina newspaper, is forceful and helps to carry the illusion through anent the stupidity of Harold Teen. Others who contribute in a good measure to put the picture across are Hobart Cavanaugh, Guy Kibbee, Clara Blandick, Hugh Herbert, Douglas Dumbrille, Mayo Methot and Richard Carle. Murray Roth’s direction was at the proper tempo to keep the laughs rolling at a fast and furious gait until the final fade-out. “Harold Teen” is from the comic strip by Carl Ed with the screen play by Paul Gerard Smith and Al Cohn. It is needless to say that these gentlemen did a fine job. The music and lyrics by Irving Kahal and Sammy Fain, with Leo F. Forbstein conducting the Vitaphone orchestra fitted this production to a nicety. The beautiful photography is credited to Arthur Todd and the production was supervised by James Seymour. The film editor was Terry Morse, art director John Hughes, and the costumes were by Ory Kelly.

GUL-BA-HAR

Well known Turkish Psychic Palmist is back again after an absence of two years. Let her help you to entertain your luncheon and dinner guests.
There are certain ethics observed in every business worthy of the name. One of the fundamentals of these is the courtesy of a civil reply. One executive failed to be human and has been dethroned from his high and lofty seat. Perhaps that is why in these days of stress the "business" is being so roughly handled by the public, both as regards opinion and patronage. Recently, a person long connected with motion picture and theatrical interest to discuss, wrote a letter to each of the executives of the local major studios asking for the "courtesy" of an interview. These letters called for a reply, not necessarily favorable as it is understood executives are busy men, but out of the entire industry only one instructed his secretary to answer. To the average man this is not particularly important, but to the keen observer it is just one of the cases which have gained the makers of motion pictures the disdain of the public whom they contact. It is hard for any "exec" to be "nice," to come down to earth and live on the same level and breathe the same air as those less favored, but more cultured mortals. It is a singular condescension for a higher-up to unbend to anyone whose salary stipend is less than four figures per week. They will honor Mr. Roosevelt so long as he is president, or the Crown Prince of Helioland, but to His Honor the Common American, who is destitute of seeking crumbs from the banquet table that he might possibly enhance their future glory, there is not even a disdainful reply. "Pride cometh before a fall" and Oh, what a fall is coming, my countrymen.

Moving Movie Throng by John Hall

Official Hollywood can dish it out—but it just CAN'T take it... In ye olden days, man was compelled to outwit man-eaters like wolves, tigers, sharks, etc... To-day, being civilized, men are compelled to give all they have to OUT WITTING EACH OTHER... Every deal made in dear heart-breaking Hollywood is made for the PARTY OF THE FIRST PART — and makes a SUCKER out of the Party of the Second Part... It's been that way so long even the United States Government couldn't keep it out of the MOVIE CODE... In Hollywood, the best the Party of the Second Part can hope for is the WORST... It is a disease in official Hollywood, so much so that even the President of the United States is flagrantly fooled and his visiting Code Administrator treated like an office boy... Items: "Hollywood studio helps re-employment by using 300 dummies"... Item: Hollywood studios issue one-day contracts at $7.50 per day... The contracts go to friends and relatives... Wustral Hurray for Sol Rosenblatt! A Hollywood trade paper yells about "millions of dollars wasted" by big studios... Poor thing! "WASTE-ED! Ha! ha! How funny... There's no "waste," our naive friend. That dough is the dough the Government does not get in income tax... Try again... Item: "Cotis, judging from the empty status of the AUTHORITY today, figure it will be a long time before Divisional Administrator Sol A. Rosenblatt will be able to gracefully withdraw from FILMDO.COM'S SECRET COURT"... "The caps are ours, the MEAT is food for the yolkers... Here's some of that "wasted money." Item: "M-G-M has expended around $800,000 in actual activities, having business of normal figures, escaping to come in around $400,000. Picture has been reviewed several times and indications are it may again go back for retakes. Jeanette MacDonald and Ramon Novarro head the cast!"... "Loud laughter... "WASTE"... Oh, my, yes! More of Uncle Sam's income tax money goes the way of "re-invested capital"... What a joke!... Perhaps this lost money can be charged to "do-in," but I don't see how... Conclusion: "Who gets rich in this deal?" Considering profits — honest profits: Didja know that the most successful (profitable) director in Hollywood is a Universal director named Edward Ludwig? He is in a "flat-rate" deal and has earned more money for Uncle Carl Lammenn than any director ever employed by Universal. The gross from his pictures tops that of all others. Briefly, he's Hollywood's most successful director. And he worked his way from the property department... Uncle Carl Lammenn's national broadcast last Tuesday was a treat to all listeners. The Grand Old Man of pictures has a wise head... Mr. Sol Rosenblatt: Sir: How long is a day—working day? Hollywood flat-rate workers would like to know.

OUR ERROR—CHARLES WILSON—EXCUSE US

In reviewing “It Happened One Night,” a Columbia picture starring Clark Gable and Claudette Colbert and directed by Frank Capra, we failed to give credit to Charles Wilson who played the city editor. His part stood out as prominently as any of the artists in the picture but we were fighting time to get the preview in and missed giving this very versatile artist the credit that was due him, so we apologize because we appreciate that it takes real actors to stand the acid test these days in some of the pictures being made and when a trouper gets a part that he can put his teeth to and does a good job of it, he surely should be given a hand for it.

TEXAS REDHEADS PLAY PANTAGES THEATER

Earl and Josephine Leach (The Texas Redheads), famous dancers who have been causing such a sensation at the Club Ballyhoo, are this week showing at the Pantages theater. They just finished dancing in “Glamour,” a Universal feature, doubling Constance Cummings and Philip Reed, and have some very fine bookings lined up following the “Pan” engagement both in pictures and on the stage.

HAPPINESS NOTE

Charlie Maas, noted bus owner, is in from Newark, New Jersey. He was here two years ago as guest of Mr. and Mrs. Lee Mitchell and is repeating his visit this time. Lee Mitchell is connected with Universal Pictures as one of the men who looks after the information desk. Mrs. Mitchell intends to drive back East with Mr. Maas when he returns home.

BROTHERS STUMAR ARE DOING FINE

John Stumar shot nine pictures in six months at the Columbia studios, while his brother Charles has photographed seven features at Universal City in the same time. This is some record for any of the ace cameramen. John and Charles are sure enough numbered among the most popular cinematographers.

LEO LANCE IS DOING OK

Leo Lance is connected with the Milton Hoffman-Sig Schlager Co. agency and is reported as doing fine and dandy as studio representative.

“MOULIN ROUGE” SCORES SUCCESS

One of the best pictures that 20th Century Productions have produced is being shown at Grauman’s United Artists this week. This picture is getting a lot of word-of-mouth advertising, for those who have seen the picture are urging their friends to go. Glamorous Constance Bennett heads the all-star cast. Franchot Tone is excellently cast as Miss Bennett’s leading man, while the Boswell Sisters and Russ Columbo figure prominently in the picture.

Universal Shows Good Judgment by Signing Lee Tracy

Lee Tracy, fast-talking star of “Private Jones,” “Blessed Event,” “Advice to the Lovelorn” and other notable screen hits, signed by Universal for the lead in “I’ll Tell the World,” an original screenplay. Tracy, regarded as the best newspaperman type on the stage or screen, plays the role of an untried wire service feature writer. Gloria Stuart has the feminine lead opposite him and Roger Pryor assigned an important spot with Edward Sedgwick directing.

“Good Dame” — Splendid Entertainment Values in B. P. Schulberg’s Paramount Production

SYLVIA SIDNEY IS AT HER BEST IN THIS PICTURE

B. P. Schulberg knows his movies and in his latest production, an original story by William P. Lippman, and excellent screen play by Vincent Lawrence and Sam Hellman, he has produced something that the younger element of theater-goers will delight in. They always sympathize with the poor working girl and her troubles and this girl had many of them. Of course, all emanating from nasty men. This yarn revolves around a carnival show with its colorful background, in which a “Shill Man” meets the girl. She is forced to join the strip dancers on account of having her pocketbook stolen by the shill man’s accomplice. In this manner he feels obliged to protect her, He of course thinks she is the usual sort that he has been to in his roving life, but after many complications in which both of them face a jail sentence, he realizes that she is a good dame. The final sequence, where they both declare their violent love for each other in a court room, could only happen in a motion picture. Now for the cast. With two exceptions it is perfect. Fredric March is undoubtedly a fine actor, but he cannot play a hard character which he is called upon to do in this instance, while Jack La Rue, who plays another of those “dirty heavies” and does it well, could have played March’s part to perfection. They seem to have forgotten La Rue’s magnificent work as the priest in “Farewell to Armes.” Sylvia Sidney not only played the girl beautifully, but was lovely to look upon. Noel Francis got a great deal out of the role of the hard boiled girl who tried to win March, with Russell Hopton putting over another of those clever characterizations we have seen so often; this time, as the accomplice of the shill man. Bradford Page, Guy Usher, Katherine Burke, Joseph Franz, Mimi Alvarez, Walter Brennan, John Marston, James Crane, William Farnum, Patricia Fairley and Frances Dudley, were others who pleased with their spot work in other roles. Marion Gering’s direction was all that could be called for as he had his story and players in hand at all times with Leon Shamroy’s photography backing him at all stages of the production. You’ll like “Good Dame” or we miss our bet, as it spells good entertainment all the way through.

—Arthur Forde.

Earl Carroll heard so much about Caesar’s fine food and refreshments that he had to take his girls there last week to really find out if it was all that “it was cracked up to be.” Judging from Mr. Carroll’s satisfied look after sampling the chef’s culinary art he was not disappointed. Nearly every night one can see stars or celebrities eating and drinking at this famous Hollywood night spot. The high-class colored entertainment still continues to amuse the patrons.

Von Kronenberger, chef Heins Miller, Toofik Simon Service. Turkish coffee.

Dave Hacker Wins Chance at Cafe De Paree — Merle Carlson Music Clicks

Dave Hacker and his charming dancing partner, Miss Dolly Gray, gave an impromptu exhibition last Monday night at the Cafe De Paree. Pete Dokos liked their act so well that he booked them as the feature attraction opening Wednesday night and they clicked in such a big way that they can stay on here as long as they like. Here is a dancing team worth watching. They have everything that spells success and good clean entertainment. Others worthy of mention are Maxine, who is some dancing fool, she's got everything that it takes to command attention; Cathleen Bassette, Zelda Wilson and Dave Zion, and Pack Ray, who acts as M. C. and does his famous fire eating act that is a WOW. MERLE CARLSON AND HIS DANCE MUSIC are more than holding up their end amidst great applause after each dance number and the show proper. MONDAY NIGHT there was a birthday party staged in honor of Mr. and Mrs. B. T. Marquis, the guests were Noel Marquis, Louise Montgomery, Bud Blanchard, Beulah Hooker, Jane and J. D. Ault. It was the thirty-first birthday anniversary of the guest of honor.

Modie — Woods and Charita Catch on with Curt Houck at Blossom Room

Modie and Woods, spectacular dancers, and Charita, the beautiful Hawaiian maiden who does her native dances like nobody's business, are sharing honors nightly with Curt Houck and his Catalina Casino orchestra at the Roosevelt Hotel Blossom Room. Everybody loves them and wants to see them again, and the Blossom Room is coming in its own due, thanks to the loyalty of Dave Boice, general manager of the hotel, and his assistants, Foreman and Carter, who stood pat all the way.

Ben Bard, Joey Ray, Anna Chandler and Lester Lee Share Honors at Impromptu Show at Club Ballyhoo

Sunday night the Club Ballyhoo, aside from offering their all-star revue with Billy Snyder, The Texas Redheads (Earl and Josephine Leech), Kitty O'Dare and six of the cutest and cleverest girls, put on an impromptu show, presented over by Billy Snyder, that will long be remembered by cafe lovers. Ben Bard put on a funny skit with Billy Snyder and Joey Ray, while his Missus, Ruth Roland, sat and laughed her head off at their antics. Miss Roland, too, took a bow amid much applause. Joey Ray sang two songs to great applause. Anna Chandler was given quite an ovation when she made her appearance and was forced to sing a second number. Here is a good stage, screen and cafe bet. She works along the lines of Blossom Seeley and her material is breezy and entertaining in every way. Lester Lee played the violin and how! This youngster can pull on your heart strings with this instrument. Among those present were Maxine Cantway, Herbert Fields, Judith Allen, Eddie Tierney, Ida Schnall, Jack Garm, dance impresario of New York who runs a number of schools in the metropolis and is a house guest of Billy Snyder, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Wilson took a bow; little Billy Wilkerson, the page boy of Sardi's, showed some of his home town folks (Athens, Texas) the stars at the Club Ballyhoo and were they happy? We will say there were and was everybody else who dropped in for the theatrical night at this spot Sunday evening.

The return of the Frazee Sisters to Hollywood caught the eye of Frank Hanover, owner and manager of the Club Ballyhoo, and he immediately signed them to head the new show at his popular cafe. Another favorite that he has brought back is Ruth Rogers. Billy Snyder is M. C. and the Texas Redheads, Earl and Josephine Leech, are held over with the same beauty chorus to back up their great dancing act.

VIOLET M. BARLOW AND BILLY BENTER ARE IN THEIR SIXTEENTH WEEK AT THE BOWERY

Holding the best record of any team of players in show business around the Southland, Violet M. Barlow and Billy Benter are this week celebrating their sixteenth week at the Bowery, where they are heading a very impressive program. Others who are scoring are Honey Bee, Myra and Marta Gay, Betty Doree, Nick Angelo and May Weyer and the Five Rhythm Girls who are more entertaining than ever. Bill Fleck and his Bowery Band with Jimmy Sill leading during the show and Bill Fleck presiding for the dances are going over bigger than ever with the Bowerites.

BILLY CARROLL AND GIRL SHOW CLICK

Billy Carroll and his Girlie Revue clicked Wednesday night at the Biltmore Hotel Sal De Oro for the Junior Chamber of Commerce and then journeyed over to Alexander's Rendezvous where they repeated their hit. Billy is one of the cleverest of the younger M. C.'s and song and dance stars.

CLUB FLAMINGO CLICKING BIG—THERE IS A REASON!

With Jedd Kline—himself—at the piano playing for many impromptu artists that take a final bow at the other night spots, the Club Flamingo, the latest of all night clubs in Hollywood, is making a big hit with the cash customers. Show folk from all the other night spots are making this "outfit" their rendezvous.

HAL HEENEY IS M. C. AT VERMONT INN

Hal Heeney is the clever M. C. at the Vermont Inn, and he is introducing such clever artists as the Three Peaches and Thelma Morris. It is the shortest and snappiest floor show around these parts. The trio are fast stepping good looking girls, while Miss Morris, a blues singer of ability, who deserves a break in the best night spots.

Frank Sebastian to Bring Back the Mills Bros.; Broomfield-Greely Stage New Show

Frank Sebastian is changing his show and has placed Le Roy Broomfield and Aurora Greely in charge of producing his new revue. This is just the beginning of greater things happening at the Cotten Club, which is now in its tenth year and will celebrate this event on February 22, when the Mills Bros., Four Boys and a Guitar, will play a return engagement as part of the new version of Broomfield-Greely Revue. March 22 Duke Ellington and his great colored band will take the spot now held by Les Hite and his orchestra, featuring Lionel Hampton. Eddie Anderson, Rutledge and Taylor, May Diggs, Paty Hunter, Dudley Dickerson and the Three Ebony Steppers and the beauty chorus are still part and parcel of the Frank Sebastian Ebony Revue.
From the Note Book:

Some difficulty at Paramount over who is to play the title role of "Little Miss Marker." Cora Sue Collins was all set and signed for the role, but something not to be made public came up and now Cora Sue is not in the role. Carmencita Johnson has been making extensive tests for it and so have many others — so we shall see.

Charles Basting, that clever French boy actor, proves a valuable playmate to Jane Withers. Jane is rapidly learning conversational French from Charles.

Shirley Jean, Tomboy Taylor in McGuiry comedies, is writing a book, in which he has transcribed the title of his current role, "Seven-Year-Old Actress." . . . Lucille Cooper, age 10, was taken to the hospital for an appendicitis operation. Pretty Lucille will be home within the week. Joan Blondell's sister, Gloria, gazes into the sleeping eyes of Juanta (Smiles) Quigley in the back seat of their car. . . . Billy Beray, Darling Hopson and Baby Alice in the leading roles of a Parent-Teacher benefit show. The money will go for food and shoes for the needy.

Miss Carol Fairley will sing and play the organ. It will be at the Ocean Park Municipal auditorium March 10. . . . Pearl Hay is the realist actress we have seen for a long time. She is a child Bernhardt. We saw her in a play at the Royal Palms hotel last Thursday and were really surprised at her performance. The play was given by Mrs. Alan Kopelson, teacher and actress of note. . . . Witnessed Shirley Temple starring in a short preview at Educational. . . . Jackie Cooper is to play "Peck's Bad Boy" for "Toilers of the Sea". Jackie Searl is featured. . . . Paul Levy made an impression in the star role of Bebe Orr's play last Saturday at the Ambassador.

Independent Producers Say This Will Be Their Greatest Year

Academy Plans Are Revealed to the Press

DENY THAT THERE IS LACK OF MONEY TO PRODUCE

By Harry Burns

There has been some talk about the independents finding it hard to get money with which to make their present season’s products. This is far from the truth according to a man on the inside, in fact, he says, that this will be the greatest independent year in some time and that he intends to make more pictures than he has made in three years and that some of the big money which was said to have been withdrawn from the producing field, is backing the same producer. This is sufficient enough proof of the present situation.

The independent studios are making all sorts of plans for renting space on the various lots and within thirty days you can look for the independent producers to be in the thick of their activity. This will also help relieve the unemployment brought about by the holding up of production by the majors until the first week in March, as they always do each year during the months of November and March.

One thing in favor of the independents today is that they are making a better grade of pictures and spending more money on their products. Besides this, they have always paid the labor scale and have not been affected by any union strikes or NRA code regulations.

GET TOGETHER AT LUNCHEON PROVES INTERESTING

Levy’s Tavern saw the rebirth of the Academy of Motion Picture Arts and Sciences in a get-together luncheon to the Press where President Reed made a telling speech, extolling the Academy and explaining its inception and the reason for never letting it die.

Lou Maren, the man who was appointed to “tell the world” about this Institution (and does it mighty well), introduced the various speakers and also informed the audiences present that Winfield Sheehan of Fox Films had graciously donated the services of Norman Manning to help make the Academy Ball and Trophy awards this year the best ever.

Frank Capra made a clever speech, telling of the director’s side of the benefits in being associated with such a worthy institution and explained that he considered this yearly event as being as important as the Royal Academy of London or American Institute of Painters were to the artists. Howard Green was the next to speak and this man’s sincerity in telling of the splendid work so far achieved and the future in store, was quite inspiring.

Norman Manning told of what was planned for the Academy dinner and ball on March 17th, and in a few well-chosen words said, that this year there would be no tiresome speeches to listen to, but instead, there would be

“Bolero” Is Triumph for George Raft and Carole Lombard

WESLEY RUGGLES DOES FINE JOB DIRECTING WITH BOBBY VERNON FURNISHING COMEDY SITUATIONS

At last George Raft got what he has been waiting for from Paramount, a picture that suited his peculiar capabilities, a good story, an excellent cast and a marvelous production. The story, written by Carey Wilson and Kubec Glasmon taken from an idea of Ruth Ridenour and made into an excellent screen play by Horace Jackson with comedy ideas by Bobby Vernon, will be a delight to young and old theater patrons. The yarn tells of a young and ambitious dancer who travels from the gay Nineties to till after the great war, becomes the idol of the big cities of the world, and eventually dies of war injuries after his greatest triumph. Of course, this is only a sketchy idea, as it involves many partners on his path to fame and of his one great love, his last partner, who helps him to his final success and glorious finish. George Raft was perfectly suited to the role of the dancer, “Raul,” that really showed he had acting abilities of the highest order, while Carole Lombard was not only beautiful to look upon as his last partner, “Helen,” but showed histrionic abilities that she has not displayed before. As for Sally Rand, she is not only a fine and graceful dancer, but did a fine piece of work in the few sequences she was in. The next honors for Williams Frawley in the role of manager and brother of Raoul, who gave a perfect characterization of a rough and ready miner, whose glee fell in all surroundings, with Raymond Milland giving a distinguished performance as “Lord Carey.” Gloria Shea was a delight as the early partner of Raoul with Frances Drake equally as good as his second dancing partner. Gertrude Michael, Del Henderson, Frank G. Dunn, Martha Baumattre, Paul Panzer, Adolfer Milan, Anna Shaw, Phillips Smalley, John Irvin and Gregory Guglielmo with other players who deserve special mention.

The direction of Wesley Ruggles showed his rare knowledge of story and players with Leo Tover aiding him greatly with gorgeous photography. An extra award to those artists, Hans Drier and Ernst Fegle, art directors, for their contribution to the lovely comedy and as much to Ralph Rainier for his clever music.

Emanuel Cohen, in charge of production at Paramount, and his staff are to be congratulated on this one which should not only do a great deal for the artists involved, but should show profits at the box-office for theaters playing this splendid picture.

at Paramount studios a few days ago where they were all assembled. Just now when the youngsters are reaching stardom every day, we wondered where some of them would be at this time next year.

OUR GOOD FRIEND— Will Stanton had no sooner finished playing a good part in a Hal Roach production than he was engaged to work with Tom Kennedy in another production for RKO-Radio Pictures with George Stevens directing.

THE GREAT AMERICAN HAREM—might get you all excited, but it’s only the latest story given to Lou Brock to produce for RKO-Radio Pictures and William Seiter is assigned the directorial duties. Just for good measure they have given Ginger Rogers and William Gargan to Bill as a starter for the cast.

SNOBNOZZLE HAS A VALET—no not getting swanky, but just for the picture “Strictly Dynamite,” as Edgar Norton, veteran character actor, will play valet to Jimmy Durante. Two body guards, Tom Kennedy and Stanley Fields, a barber, Louis Alberni, and two great Dames have also been added for extra laughs.

THE OLDEST AND YOUNG-EST—in song writers were called for “Bottoms Up,” a Fox film with Gus Kahn and Dick Whiting, with more than 150 smash hits to their credit and Harold Adamson and Burton Lane, who have recently become prominent in their song hits.

LEW BROWN FOUND OUT—that Hollywood chorus girls are shown as they New York sisters. She averaged $18 per week and lives on five. She needs no fur coats. Is tickled pink when called for in a hilly. Fifty per cent of them wear stockings and eleven per cent wear hats. Sixty-five per cent are blondes. Twenty per cent are brunettes and the rest redheads.

TOURING THE COUNTRY— was what Charles Delaney told us he had been doing for a long time where he was working in a sketch at vaudville theaters, but is now back for a whirl at his first love, the screen.

SHE LIKES NOODLES—or so we hear is the reason Alice Faye is so seldom seen at any one of the night spots. She alternates with her mother in preparing dinner in their modest Hollywood apartment. Here’s a new line for building up a young star.

TWO WOMEN IN HIS LIFE—has Ray Walker in the latest Monogram picture with Noel Francis and Jacqueline Wells competing in “The Loudspeaker” with Joseph Santley, our favorite boy actor of the old days, directing. Spencer Charters, Charles Grapewin, Lorin Raker, Mary Carr, Wilbur Mack, Ruth Roomie, Larry Wheat, Leonard Carey, Billee Irvine, Dixey Francis and Billy van Emery in other roles.

“The Party’s Over”— is S. K. Lauren’s adaptation of Daniell’s play that Columbia Pictures will produce with Al Rogell directing. Incidentally this will be the first for Felix Young on his re-engagement as associate producer. His last was “Let’s Fall in Love,” which introduced Ann Sothern to the screen.

ALL SIT BACK AND RELAX— as Cecil B. De Mille made his selection of the men who will portray Julius Caesar in “Cleopatra.” Incidentally, I heard some wag remark a few days back as he watched Cecil surrounded by his staff, that if he were suddenly called upon for a mob scene it could easily be arranged by calling his henchmen.

“A COAT. A HAT. A GLOVE”—is the way of a lawyer who was so interested in his work that he forgot all about his wife. Of course, another man was on the spot and ran away with her. Sounds good, eh? But there’s a lot more than this and RKO-Radio has bought the play for John Barrymore.

THEY USED TO BE NEIGHBORS—is what Jay Henry and Ethel Merman found out after chatting on the set of “We’re Not Dressing” at Paramount studios. It happened when Ethel was singing in the Russian restaurant on 5th street and Jay’s club was across the street.

George Arliss gives his most realistic characterization in “The House of Rothschild”; directed by Alfred Werker Boris Karloff and Helen Westley shine brightly. Loretta Young looks beautiful; Robert Young is an ideal lover.

The money lenders of Europe, the Rothschilds, came to life and re-lived their history-making days as champions of peace at any price. George Arliss as Mayer and Nathan Rothschild, gives his most realistic characterization in what we feel is the screen classic of the day and which will go a long way towards establishing the 20th Century Pictures, and Darryl F. Zanuck and Joseph M. Schenck, on the road to greater success. “The House of Rothschild,” with William Goetz and Raymond Griffith as associate producers, is a stupendous undertaking at this time, especially since there is such a great feeling of animosity against the Jews in Germany. George Arliss is so great in this picture that he stands out head and heels over every artist in the picture, although some very splendid performances are rendered by such sterling performers as Boris Karloff. Helen Westley plays Ma Rothschild with such finesse and understanding. C. Aubrey Smith as Duke Wellington was superb. Loretta Young looked beautiful and acted her best as Julie Rothschild, the romantic daughter of Nathan and Hannah (Florence Arliss, a fine actress), who falls in love with Robert Young. Particularly gorgeous was the ball room sequence done in color by Technicolor process, under the direction of Natalie T. Kalmus, where Nathan Rothschild is honored by the Duke of Wellington for his service to England. This part of the picture will stand out as a mark up splendid credits for the following actors who played their parts to the point of actually making you feel you were really living in the very locale of the story—Holmes Herbert, Arthur Byron, Alan Mowbray, Reginald Owen, Ivan Simpson, Noel Madison, Paul Harvey, Lumsden Hare, Gilbert Emery, Murray Kinnell, Georges Renavent, Oscar Aptel, Leo McCabe, Charles Evans, Desmond Roberts, Earl McDonald, William Strauss, Mathew Betz, Brandon Hurst, Reginald Sheffield, Lee Kohlmar, Leonard Mudie, Ethel Griffies, and those very capable children, George Offerman, Jr., Gerald Pierce, Milton Kahn, Cullen Johnson and Bobbie La Mauche. DIRECTOR ALFRED WERKER is to our way of thinking worthy of as much credit as any one connected with this masterpiece. The screen play by Nunnally Johnson is based on a play by George Herbert Westley. Maude T. Howlett is credited as associate director and is worthy of such praise that goes with such a post. THE PHOTOGRAPHY WORK OF PEVERELL MARLEY should also go on the honor role, not forgetting three other important factors: film editing by Allen McNeil and Barbara McLean; music, Alfred Newman; art direction, Richard Day, and last but not the least, costuming by Gwen Wakefield. EXHIBITIONISTS, GRAB THIS ONE QUICK!

They’ve decorated the outside of this theater and put up a rather bright little show on the inside. At least that is how it affected us and the large first night audience. A bunch of pretty girls, some tuneful music, including “How O’ Do,” “Take Along Your Roller Skates” and “Can I Depend on That?”, the attractive numbers that Mischa terris and his orchestra put over cleverly and a series of black-outs, some old and a few new, but all put over fast and furious by the cast consisting of Bernardi, an English tenor with a remarkable dramatic voice, and Sonya and her troupe of dancers that had plenty of life. Altogether a show that serves to pass an evening without straining any of your brain matter.

Duffy picks Miriam jordon

Miriam Jordon, noted Broadway actress, was today signed by Henry Duffy to play the leading female role in “Men in White,” the New York smash hit which comes to El Capitan theater following the engagement of Francis Lederer in “Autumn Crocus.”

Director Robert Florey makes “Registered Nurse” a convincing vehicle for bebe daniels and lyle talbot Director Robert Florey was responsible for theatergoers’ interest in “Registered Nurse,” starring Bebe Daniels and Lyle Talbot, for it was a most difficult subject to handle and could have become so melodramatic that the more serious moments would have turned into the wrong direction, as to commanding attention. However, the sincerity of Bebe Daniels and Lyle Talbot rang true and their work held you every inch of the way, with John Halliday running them a hard race for first honors. Lyle Talbot needs better material. If given half a chance he will become one of the most popular of leading men. Sidney Toler and Irene Franklin gained some very hearty laughs, while others who came through in fine form as to their parts were Gordon Westcott, Minna Gombell, Beulah Bondi, Vincent Barrett, Phillip Reed, Mayo Methot, Renee Whitney, Ronnie Cosby, Virginia Sale, Ed Garson, Gordon Elliott and George Humbert, while Florence Johns and Wilton Lackaye, Jr, were responsible for the play from which the screen photoplay was taken by Lillie Hayward and Peter Milne. Dialogue direction was credited to Arthur Greville Collins, photography by the work of Sid Hickox. Produced by Warner Bros.—First National, supervised by Samuel Birstocho.

Although a little morbid, the grand performances of all the actors carry this play over, and make it work while to see. Nance O’Neill is superb as Victoria Van Bred, a hateful character who dominates her brother and sister. Martha Sleeper and Hardie Albright supply the only light moments in the play with their romance, but even this is of short duration. Nance O’Neill being jealous of Martha Sleeper, her brother’s (Hardie Albright) wife, she procures the death of Hardie who leaves his wife to follow the trails of Martha Sleeper, which original hope she chose to become her insane father. Of course this type of story may be too heavy for the average playgoer, but those who saw it the opening night certainly enjoyed it. Genevieve Hanmer gives a good portrayal as Miss O’Neill’s weak sister. Others in the play are Virginia Howell, Frank Dawson, Maude Fealy, Chappell Dossett, William H. Turner, William Jeffrey, George Blackwood and Harry Hollingsworth. “Double Door” was well staged by Edgar MacGregor from Elizabeth McFadden’s story, and was presented by Edward Belasco.

Ballet dancer clicks at grauman’s chinese

Marie Gambarelli, of Radio City fame, is literally knocking ‘em cold at Grauman’s Chinese theater with her unique ballet number. Arriving from New York three days prior to the opening of “Queen Christina”, Miss Gambarelli was confronted with the task of picking sixteen girls out of one hundred sixty and training them. The act opened without a hitch, and so pleased Sid Grauman that he now has her training the girls for another colorful dance ensemble which is to be an added feature to the show.

This beautiful and charming artist has been approached by two major studios, and from all indications the silver screen will claim her services at the termination of the contract with Mr. Grauman.

Showmen of Hollywood present “Delirious Day” at show house

“Delirious Day,” a hilarious farce-comedy by Hal Conklin, was presented last Thursday, Friday and Saturday at the Show House on Wilshire near Hauser. The highly entertaining farce was directed by Celeste Rush. The cast was well selected except for Frank Eagan as the father. Although Mr. Eagan is a good actor, he was far too young for the part and the aged make-up was too evident. Jack Reagen, excellent; Thomas O’wens, convincing. And we can’t praise Betsy Gable too much. She should be viewed by some of these studio executives who are looking for new faces. James Haggerty as the colored butler, kept you laughing constantly. Bee Bangs was funny as the hired girl. Richard Bailey, as the young doctor, is a pleasing new juvenile. Others in the fine cast were Margery Grennen, Joy Purvis, Jack Foley, Mercedes Hofman and Estelle Livinger. “The Custodian,” a dramatic murder mystery by Hugh Welden, will open at the Show House March 8.

Mitchell Lewis gives marvellous portrayal in “The Hairy Ape”

F. P. Choate presented what some of Eugene O’Neill’s followers think is his greatest play, “The Hairy Ape,” at the Mason theater. Mitchell Lewis is easily the star of the production, and gives a grand characterization as Robert Smith. “The Hairy Ape” is billed as a “drama of ancient and modern life,” but it could also have been billed as a story of environment for “The Hairy Ape” is a study of a man who goes out of his natural environment and finds himself a “lost soul.” Wyndham standing does an outstanding piece of work, while Kenneth Chyst, Alice Holcomb, Bess Stafford, Allan Dailey, George Spelvin, and Mertland La Varre complete the well-selected cast.
Better Times Ahead

There are better times ahead and the month of March should find more activity in flmland than at any time this year. The reason for all this is the fact that the producers will be starting out on what is known as the new fiscal year's business, and since they have been preparing plenty of pictures, it will behoove them to get going so as to catch up with the release dates. The law of supply and demand enters into this as a great factor and right now there is plenty of demand for good pictures and the box-oftices of the good old U. S. A. are showing an increase in attendance all because more people are being put to work. There are BETTER TIMES AHEAD and we for one welcome this, for it has been a hard year which we all hope to put behind us. The new hope that all held out for the bettering of times through the NRA sort of had us all looking sideways for the improvement, but from where we sit it is looking better and better and day by day in every way we should find a greater ray of light and happiness in all quarters of the land.

FREEDOM OF THE PRESS seems to be annoying Mr. William Randolph Hearst. His papers have been giving much space to the newspaper code. Referring to this matter, the President might have added: “It is the public duty of an honest press to report ALL THE FACTS of the life of the community it serves... Now take this Hollywood motion picture code. Is William Randolph Hearst, who everlastingly brats about the freedom of the press, the proposed sales tax, which would take the burden of income tax from the rich and put the entire load upon the shoulders of the WORKING PEOPLE through a 'manufacturer's sales tax,' and who daily attacks the President's recovery program through Richard Waskburn Child and several unpatriotic members of Congress, in and out of office, really doing his PUBLIC DUTY by reporting the flagrant violations of the picture code? Is he telling the world that he, as a motion picture producer, is financially interested in the motion picture industry and that he DELIBERATELY REFRAINS FROM PUBLISHING the REAL FACTS about countless code violations going on in HIS PICTURE BUSINESS? And the same charge goes against the Hollywood Times... Hearst and Chandler CONTROL the public press of Southern California... In his attitude in these important matters, HEARST IS AN ENEMY OF THE NATION... In a sneaking way he is using all the influence of his newspaper to undermine the good work of the Roosevelt recovery administration... There is no honesty in ANY of the Hearst publications... They are not paid for the PUBLIC GOOD... They are, the charge goes, for the good of William Randolph Hearst and all in any way associated with him in the publishing field and making and selling of motion pictures... To be specific, here is a bit of news from the Mr. Hearst: A certain major studio made a fifteen-day feature. Four Rat-rate, or 'key' men, worked fifteen days and fifteen nights, averaging 16 hours per day. Each day they worked eight (8) hours for which they received NO PAY. The pay these men should have received amounted to almost $300.00—and the big picture company—under the code—kept that money... Now, Mr. Hearst; you who blat and blist about the "freedom of the press," what have you to say about things like this? Why don't you search out and REPORT these things? The case we cite is typical of the ENTIRE MOTION PICTURE INDUSTRY in Hollywood... The point is that, under the INTENT of the code, these men should have worked EIGHT HOURS PER DAY, and the other eight hours should have gone to FOUR OTHER workers, thus employing eight men instead of four... No, Mr. Hearst. YOUR much vaunted string of patriotic papers and their many ballyhooed POWER kept TOTALLY SILENT while that vicious movie code was in the framing. As a producer, you had a say. As a publisher, you were duty-bound to tell the public. YOU REMAINED patriotically SILENT.

Troupers Dine and Entertain at Great Gathering

More than 100 Troupers assembled in the Green Room of the Troupers Club, at 1634 El Centro Avenue, last Sunday night for their monthly dinner and entertainment. Herbert Munson presided, Arthur Foster was master of ceremonies.

Walter McNamara, a past president, made a suggestion that actors and actresses should organize for their mutual benefit, which evoked favorable comment.

The program consisted of sketches and made up principally with trouper completing the cast. Joseph Mills gave a character interpretation of Abraham Lincoln. Jane Withers, child actress, sang and gave a tap dance. Rose Murphy rendered old fashioned songs. The cast of the one-act play "Hundred Grand," included Bertha Carlisle, Frank B. Fanning, Teddy Armon and Charles W. Herzinger. Other one-act sketches were "The New Boarider," with Beatrice Earl, Lee Orlando and Isabelle Miller; "The Little Puritan," with Frank Campbell, Miami Alvarez, Alfred Hewston and Beatrice Warde, which were well received. Harry Holman and Edna Scholdfield gave a comedy sketch. Monte Carter, master of ceremony of the 233 Club, Martha Stanley, playwright, and Michael Visaroff, Russian actor, were among the guests.

"Soul"

"Soul" was the subject of the Lesson-Sermon on Sunday in all branches of The Mother Church, The First Church of Christ, Scientist, in Boston, Mass. Among the Bible selections in the Lesson-Sermon were the exhortations of Joshua: "And now the Lord your God hath given rest unto your brethren, as he promised them: therefore now return ye, and get you unto your tents, and unto the land of your possession, which Moses the servant of the Lord gave you on the other side Jordan. But take diligent heed to do the commandment and the law, which Moses the servant of the Lord charged you, and to love the Lord your God, and to walk in all his ways, and to keep his commandments, to cleave unto him, and to serve him with all your heart and with all your soul."

A correlative passage from "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures," by Mary Baker Eddy, stated: "When we wait patiently on God and seek Truth righteously, He directs our path. Imperfect mortals grasp the ultimate of spiritual perfection slowly; but to begin aright and to continue the strife of demonstrating the great problem of being, is doing much.

ELECTED

The Screen Actors' Guild, at their meeting Sunday night, unanimously elected fourteen of its members as nominees for appointment by Sol A. Rosenblatt to two of the NRA code committees. Guild nominees for the agents committee were Adolphe Menjou, Spencer Tracy and Berton Churchill; for the actors' committee the Guild's nominees are Ralph Morgan, James Cagney, Kenneth Thomson, Richard Tucker, Chester Morris, Robert Montgomery, Claude King, Mary Astor, Pat O'Brien, Paul Muni and Ann Harding. Superior Judges Isaac Pacht and Monroe Moore supervised casting of the votes to validate them to Rosenblatt. About 200 members voted in person and over 700 by proxy.

ABOUT THE CHICKEN CHEST

We happened on to Blanche Mahaffey the other evening and learned that her mother, a girl friend and herself were operating The Chicken Chest. On checking up we ordered one of their fried chickens and when it arrived, still piping hot, we sat down to dinner with the Missus, and to say that it almost melted in our mouths would be putting it mildly. It is one of the newest ideas in foods and is bound to become very popular with cinema folks for it is very nicely put up in a loaf of French bread with the trimmings on the side and at a price within reach of everyone's pocket.

ANN STILLSON MAKES BID FOR ATTENTION

Ann Sillson has made a bid for attention in cinema circles. She is a very pretty and versatile Miss in the bloom of youth, whom she should make mark if given half a chance to disport her beauty and acting wares.

Sidney Toler is a busy man these days. After finishing "Trumpet Blows," "Upper World," "Registered Nurse" and "Spitfire," he joined the cast of "The Quiter."

DR. MANECK K. ANKLESARIA IS HERE

Famously known as "Einstein of Human Consciousness," Dr. Maneck K. Anklesaria of Bombay, India, has arrived in Hollywood after a three years' lecturing tour of the United States and Canada. The greatest honor conferred on Dr. Maneck during this tour was the Chicago "World Fellowship of Faiths" last summer, where he was the youngest delegate and the most applauded speaker among the world-noted sages and philosophers. Dr. Maneck is a scientist just as well, having studied and analyzed matter and atom, even deeper than the latest scientific contributors in their constituencies as protons or neutrons, electrons, deuterons next into energy. Then consciousness and finally the "Alchemy of Consciousness" from wherein the Universe and the whole of the cosmic phenomena originated. Dr. Maneck, with his knowledge of the laws of nature, believes with genuine and sane conviction that there will soon come a time when human mind can with thought power produce their choicest desires in tangible realities just as easily as we flash the electric light by pressing the button.

SAM YOUNG CLICKS AT CLUB FLAMINGO

Sam Young, Club Flamingo's popular new owl songster, whose singing nightly with Bud Kline at the piano between turns of artists from other night clubs after they put up their shutters, is gaining a reputation as a songster second to none to get a big hand from artists from other night spots, who make the Club Flamingo their headquarters, which is open until the milkman comes around.

BARLOW AND BENTER OFFERS ANOTHER NEW SHOW AT THE BOWERY

It seems that the team of Violet M. Barlow and William H. Benter never run out of new ideas at the Bowery, where they are now on their seventeenth week. Their latest is credited for doing honor to George Washington, and they also put on a number, "A Bicycle Built for Two," which caught the crowd in a big way. This week, supporting Barlow and Benter, are Bobby Star, dancer, and Misses Weyer and Nick Angelo, who sing a duet, "One Alone," to much applause, with other feature acts offered to help round out the program. Bill Fleck and his Bowery Band still make 'em step high, wide and handsome as they play for the dances. Auditions at this spot takes place Friday evenings at 6 p. m.

JOE PIRrone JOINS CAFE DE PAREE AS ASSOCIATE MANAGER

Pete Dokos announces that Joe Pirrone has joined the Cafe De Paree as associate manager, and that they are going after business in a big way. Merle Carlson and his orchestra continue to offer some very fine music while the show is headed by Isabel O'Neil, blues singer, and William Moffa and Isabel Stephens, sensational dancers. Jack Ray acts as M. C. with a number of other features listed to help entertain the crowds nightly.
From the Note Book:

It's rumored that Buster Phelps is to be signed to a long term soon by some wise studio. Barbara Felix seems to be doomed to a "type." She did some fine work as a little Indian maiden in "Massacre" and did some Indian dancing in "Laughing Boy."

And we believe she should be given a versatile chance. Two-year-old Junia Quilegy attracting a lot of attention by her sweet, natural, charming beauty as the starlets along the Boulevard hand-in-hand with her talented big sister, Rita. Junia is coming up in the screen world under the expert guiding hand of Sol Solinger. Delia Bogard making a hit at the Trouper's Valentine party. Delia was also at the Screen Guild last Sunday. Jane Wither at the Trouper's, too. Professor Rincon Gallardo, of the Conservatory, showing the kids a good time at a private home in Beverly Hills with his always welcome magic show. Marilyn Knowlten and Jane Wither acting some tricks at a Ramsey. Theo's little brother, is going to be a director when he grows up. Listen in on Bebe Orr's radio show every Friday at 3:30. George Ernest in "Beloved" at the Rialto. George has done more work in the past year in real featured parts than any other boy actor in Hollywood. George seems to be more skilled, more deserving and possess more natural ability than any boy his age. We've seen in a long time.

"THREE BROWNS"

Monogram, through Kenacount agency, signed the "Three Browns," colored girls trio for the "Loudspeaker." Monogram radio feature starring Ray Walker, which Joseph Santley directed for the W. T. Lackey unit. The trio is featured locally over KHJ.

ACADEMY PLANS ARE TOLD AT GET-TOGETHER

real entertainment as well as the awarding of the Academy awards.

John Le Roy Johnson of Universal made an amusing talk and Lou Mayer introduced some of the junior players from the studios who were in line for next year's awards, if their talents advanced as rapidly as they had done in the past.

Altogether, it looked to us as if the nucleus of the Academy were putting new blood into the organization that should bear good fruit in the future.

The motion picture producers need the Academy and the artists and others in this profession surely need the Academy and should get together to make this great institution the success it deserves.

PETER WARD

Globe trotter, man of the world, who is with us for a while, smiling his way among men, chatting in a smooth flow of Dublin English without a brogue, that fine voice all actors would like to possess. A magnificent prospect for any producer on the look-out for another George Brent.

Alex B. Francis added to cast of Universal's "I'll Tell the World."
MADRID PASSES UP OUR BEST PICTURES FOR FOREIGN MADE

MARIE DRESSLER SPEAKS HER LITTLE PIECE IN NO UNCERTAIN TERMS

PREFERENCE IS GIVEN ENGLISH AND GERMAN FILMS

By Baltasar Fernández Cué

Believe it or not, every single motion picture shown in Madrid not so very long ago used to come from America. At present, however, Madrilenian cinema-goers are getting quite insured to European films, which not unfrequently they prefer to the more pretentious and renowned productions from Hollywood. In fact, not a few of this season's most successful films have come from Germany and France. English producers having contributed only two pictures, of which the first, "The Private Life of Henry VIII," scored a victory, while the second, "I Was a Spy," is just being quite sympathetically welcomed both by the critics and by the public.

Curiously enough, it is not French but German screen entertainment that Madrid audiences like best, in spite of the common descent of both Latin republics, and notwithstanding the notorious influence always exerted by Gallic culture upon Spanish life; such curious preference being the more surprising if we consider that very few Spaniards understand German, while almost every fairly educated person in Spain comprehends French.

Now, it is a striking fact that even successful European talks lack the characteristic completeness of good American productions. So, one is bound to wonder if the well-known tenets concerning the formerly undisputed prestige of Hollywood films will have to be re-

ALAN CROSLAND

Back to the very studio where he helped to make talking picture history when he directed the first talkie film with Al Jolson in "The Jazz Singer," Alan Crosland is now directing Pat O'Brien and Glenda Farrell in "One Man's Woman." Director Crosland has the good wishes of the entire film industry.

REJECTS TALK ABOUT HER CITIZENSHIP BY SENATE COMMITTEE

If the United States Senate investigating committee, or the Marines, or anybody else wants to know anything about Marie Dressler, let 'em come out and say what they want!

But if the determined Miss Dressler hears or reads one more crack about her American citizenship being questioned, there's likely to be a private war in these United States, and Marie will be the whole attacking army.

With the famous Dressler chuckle working overtime, the beloved Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer star said just that yesterday, after newspaper dispatches to the effect that she had been included in a group of "foreign stars" under investigation by a Senate committee.

"I've been in the United States ever since I came here from Canada fifty years ago," Miss Dressler said. "Thirty-five years ago I was married to an American. His name was George Hoppert and we were married in Elizabeth, New Jersey. These are matters of record. My marriage made me an American citizen and I've been one ever since. "I'm sick and tired of all these little dips at my citizenship. It has been one of my life's ambitions to be a good American citizen and I believe I have accomplished it. If the Senate Investigating Committee doesn't think so, why doesn't it talk to me about it?

"I worked in the Liberty Loan drive, and in every other cause I possibly could, I have"

CHINESE RESTAURANT
"I Hate Women" — is the striking title that Goldsmith Productions have given their latest with Wallace Ford, June Clyde, John Barrymore.

The Swedish One, another takes the room of Paramount's Vernon Rogers, Four Sal. Film Marte's "Love in Morocco" in which Myrna Loy, glamourous charmer in "Prize-Fighter and the Lady," and Joan Crawford, now starring in "Sadie McKee," started together as girls in the line in "Pretty Ladies" at M-G-M studios. Both coming right along these days.

Orchids delivered daily — reveal a heart-interest in lovely Martha Sleeper's life. She is the young star who is now playing the lead in "Duchess Doors" at the Mayan theater. The orchids may be the reason for Martha going East soon to appear in "Jig-Saw" for the New York Theater Guild.

SHE WANTS TO BE QUIET — so Mae West has bought a six-acre ranch out Vass-Neus way that has ten room and a guest house. She claims it is difficult to find peace and quietness in an apartment, but wait until her friends hear about that guest house on the ranch.

Fox films now on high — as eight productions are at work including the biggest of the year, "The World Moves On," that has Madeleine Carroll, lovely English star, and Francis Ford, in the leading role. John Ford directing and Winstead R. Sheehan supervising.

She goes to England — to study types for her role in "David Copperfield" for M-G-M, as Elizabeth Allen wants to have right David's mother, which she has been assigned.

Joan Crawford insists — that Leo White appear in some role in all of her pictures as he helped her greatly when she needed it in her first film, "Pretty Ladies," and she has never forgotten the incident. A good gesture as most people dislike: "I knew them when.

Two famous stars — Myrna Loy, glamourous charmer in "Prize-Fighter and the Lady," and Joan Crawford, now starring in "Sadie McKee," started together as girls in the line in "Pretty Ladies" at M-G-M studios. Both coming right along these days.

Orchids delivered daily — reveal a heart-interest in lovely Martha Sleeper's life. She is the young star who is now playing the lead in "Duchess Doors" at the Mayan theater. The orchids may be the reason for Martha going East soon to appear in "Jig-Saw" for the New York Theater Guild.

SHE SPEAKS FOUR LANGUAGES — but Ann Sothern, who played a Swedish production picture actress in Columbia's "Let's Fall in Love," had to hire an interpreter when she received fifteen fan letters written in Swedish. Her Swedish accent was so real in the picture.

She wants to come back — writes Lilian Tashman from New York, where she is co-starring with Helen Morgan in "Frankie and Johnny." Blizzard weather with its snowdrifts and piercing winds have been on the regular program since Lilian arrived East.

He won't fool you — says George Raft when you see him scraping with the former junior welterweight champion, Mushy Callahan, in the Mae West picture "It Ain't No Sin," as both Raft and the director, Leo McCarthy, will scorn the use of a double in the fight scenes.

Torch singing dolly — is the role that Esther Ralston was assigned on the Joan Crawford-M-G-M production, "Sadie McKee." Joan plays another of those scantily clad chorus girls in which she made such a decided hit in her recent picture.

We want a bull — with a back on which a girl can dance, is the latest order from Cecil B. de Mille now preparing his next Paramount picture, "Cleopatra." This is for the big banquet scene that is expected to rival all the orgies that famous Cecil has ever accomplished.

They should be funny — as Wheeler and Woolsey are to make a satire of medieval times called "Cockeyed Cavaliers" for Radio Pictures, and just to help them along in feminine appeal, Lou Brock has assigned Thelma Todd and Dorothy Lee.

Columbia steps out — with "20th Century," starring John Barrymore. Then, "The Party's Over," with Walter Lang directing, Grace Moore and her divine voice next in her first production for this studio and two others will start as soon as stage space permits.
Frank Borzage Creates Many Heart Throbs in "No Greater Glory"

Doff your hats, folks, to Frank Borzage, who gave us so many heart throbs in "Humoresque" during the silent picture days and comes through with another tear-puller in "No Greater Glory," uncovering at the same time a new starlet in George Breakston, who will make young and old turn on the Niagara Falls facet. It smacks of the Boy Scout idea and shows off the youngsters at their best. Jackie Searle gives a most surprising performance next to young Breakston. Next in line for attention is Jimmy Butler, in fact, it is a round robin affair with this trio of boys commanding the strictest attention. You will also like Frankie Darro, Donald Haines, Rolf Ernst, Juls Molnar, Wesley Giraud, Besudivne Anderson and Bruce Line, while among the grown-ups you will have to hand the palm to Ralph Morgan, Lois Wilson, Frank Reicher and Egon Brecher. The youngster who does a sort of Karl Dane character gained many a howl—at this time we are at least just what his name is. "No Greater Glory" was taken from "Paul Street Boys" by Ferene Molnar, with the excellent screen play by Jo Swerling, beautifully photographed by Joseph August. EXHIBITORS CAN PLAY THIS ONE UP FOR THE KIDDIES, they will help to bring in the grown-ups.

HERE IS A YOUNG GIRL WHO IS HEADING FOR SOMEWHERE IN FILMLAND

We dropped in at the Santa Monica high school Tuesday afternoon, Feb. 26, to witness a one-act play, translation from Harold Clough's "Bottoms Up," enacted by some of the pupils in a contest which was being judged by three judges from the Pasadena Community Playhouse for the express purpose of later placing this play on their boards for the edification of their pupils and friends. We must say that we ran onto a "find" in Beatrice Feldstein, who is a pocket edition of Clara Kimball Young. Her performance was marked by a seasoned trooper and she looked too beautiful for words. Facing her in her best scenes was a youth who answers to the cognomen of Druce Henderson. He, too, proved a sterling artist, his flair for comedy was far above the average and he will be worth watching. Others who helped materially were David Pierson and John Florence and Clarence Donohoe. The same play was presented by the same school and another two weeks ago. We learned that they had only two rehearsals for this presentation which makes their work more remarkable.

LUCILE WEBSTER GLEASON IS DOING FINE

Lucile Webster Gleason is doing fine and dandy after undergoing an appendicitis operation at the Wilshire hospital in Santa Monica, said James Gleason on the Fox lot where he is working on a story for Will Rogers. This good news should cheer the popular couple's many friends in and out of the industry.

SHOWMEN OF HOLLYWOOD OFFER "THE CUSTODIAN" FOR "THE MAN WITH THE HORN"

The Showmen of Hollywood have contracted with Arnold Engleander, the well-known eastern artist, to produce scenic effects for the new series of plays now in production. Mr. Engleander was the art director and is famous for the murals in the Loew's theaters in Cleveland, Rochester and other eastern cities. A series of studies is also being specially created to adorn the walls of the "SHOWHOUSE." The "Custodian," on March 8th, under the direction of Celeste Rush, will feature Lou Merrill of radio fame and James Hagney, vaudeville star. Others in this stirring murder mystery set amid the intrigue and counterplot of a banking institution include Tome Thompson, Don Harkelroad, Irving Atkinson, Thomas Ownby, Isabel Hollenshe, Galo Alvarez, Robert B. Robinson, Jack Reagan, Adele Arbo and Frank Eagan. Those who have watched the exceptional success of "The Showmen" will be pleased to know that the next production on schedule is "The Merchant of Venice," with an especially selected cast, featuring Joseph Cawthorn as Shylock.

WILFRED HARI COMPLETES PARAMOUNT PICTURE

Wilfred Hari, Japanese artist, has just finished the prominent role as "Suzuki" at Paramount studios in "Melody in Spring" featuring Charles Ruggles, Mary Boland and Lanny Ross. Mr. Hari is a newcomer to the films, and according to reports, his services will be much in demand. Hari graduated from UCLA where he was prominent in varsity debate and drama. He has taken part in various plays, among the most important being "The Middle Watch," "Enter, Madame" and "The Spider."

Buster Keaton Is in Line to Make a Real Come-back Through "The Gold Ghost"

The Buster Keaton of old is very much in evidence in Educational's latest fun-film which is "The Gold Ghost," the first of a series that they are producing with the famous funmaker. Charles Lamont directed and as well as aided on the adaptation of his own story, the Boyle and J. T. Vincent story, with the photography by Dwight Warren. The supporting cast proves quite an aid to Buster Keaton since the plot is thin enough to need these factors, enacted by Warren Hymer, Dorothy Dix, Joe Young, William Worthington, Lloyd Ingram and Leo Willis, to hold the attention while he.carries about the deserted town to gales of laughter and finally gets into the thick of a gold rush, with villains and a free-for-all fight that gains oodles of laughs with Ernest Pagnan, from another adaptation of his own story, and E. H. Allen produced this opus which will, to our way of thinking, give theatergoers plenty to laugh over when they view it in their favorite theaters through the Fox Films release.
Right Thinking

Right thinking brings success; wrong thinking draws failure. What we think about someone else we are. SUCCESS is here, there and everywhere for the man who THINKS RIGHT. The only enemy to man in this direction is FEAR; if we are afraid that we will never be able to DO THIS OR THAT we are bound to fail. But let us only CLOSE OUR MINDS to wrong thinking and see a mental picture of what we are attempting to do and if it is RIGHT AND PROPER for us to do it NOTHING CAN KEEP US AWAY FROM ATTAINING THIS END. The trouble with the whole motion picture industry today is there is too much WRONG THINKING. Today it’s “everybody for himself and the Devil take the hindmost.” Let us CHANGE OUR THINKING—look for SUCCESS, HAPPINESS AND PROSPERITY, not only for ourselves, but for the OTHER FELLOW as well—and magnet-like it WILL DRAW EVERYTHING THAT WE WISH FOR THE OTHER FELLOW TO OUR OWN DOOR. How? Through RIGHT THINKING!

Moving Movie Throng by John Hall

Glory be! Hollywood has a “Lone wolf!” ... Winnie Sheehan, head of the Fox studios, production boss, stands on his own feet ... We’ve always suspected it. In the Sheehan lad—always the brains behind Fox—is the target of certain Hollywood executives, and any slam at him means dough for the slammer ... But Sheehan’s natural Irish fighting heart, and his intelligence, coupled with real ability, make a combination pretty hard to lick ... OUR TALKIES: In “Counselor at Law” (talkie) a totally innocent man (John Barrymore) commits three felonies—through agents—burlgary, conspiracy, receiving stolen property—the papers ... The lawyer (Barrymore) is innocent because he had no guilty knowledge of a false alibi sworn to by his client, the motivating fact of the climax ... Why not hire a lawyer to pass on these stories? ... Walter Winchell pipes a lay blending the spirits of Harlequin, Pagliacci and Michaevilli. His song of the Great Metropolis snaps the bay of the pack, the bleating of the (Manhattan) shorn lamb, the mumble of underworld paupers and the maudlin laughter of the lady of the free range. Sometimes we wonder if he is not as mad as the people and things he gossips about ... The problem of human existence on earth has come down through the ages of universal man with no satisfying system for the ending of poverty and control of riches. All systems of what man calls “government” are epitomized in what the British call “Magna Charta” and a constitutional monarchy and the Constitution of the United States and republic. These two governments typify man’s highest earthly achievement. Here is where articulate man finds himself after all the centuries marking his physical ascent from his lowly beginning in the form of a cell floating in the warm mud of a cooling earth. And we wonder if man has any reason to be proud of what he has done with himself? We know dog eats dog. We also know man kills man by starvation and indifference to the suffering of his fellowman. How the rich have done this our DEPRESSION shows us. We are inclined to believe the “lower” mammals shame MAN ... Nothing can stop what Roosevelt has started. Big Business, headed by Heart, daily fights the NEW DEAL, the redistribution of wealth. Hollywood should not glorify Sandino, the Nicaraguan recently killed by his own people. All who know Latin America know that our Marines could have killed Sandino, but refrained—by order—because their act would jeopardize our friendly relations with some 130,000,000 Latin Americans and cost us hundreds of millions in lost trade by boycott. Our Marines died, denouncing the right to kill the killer, protected by political and commercial considerations. Making martyrs in Latin America is a costly business ... When a foreign director makes a good foreign picture it’s IN news ... When a foreign director makes a good American picture, it IS news...

DAD SAYS

"Wonder Bar," with an all-star cast headed by Al Jolson, has its local premiere at Warner’s Hollywood theater, March 14, at two dollars top. It’s Jolson at his best ... Anna Sten in “Red Hair” ... news now screening at United Artists theater, is clicking big. Party coming up from San Diego on a special to see it ... Lila Lee has top spot in "Beggars on Horseback," which Richard Thorpe directs for Invincible ... Christy Cabanne slated to direct "Money Means Nothing" for Monogram ... William Frawley, not Paul Gerttis, says the colorist in Paramount’s "The Great Magoo" ... Mary Carlisle has the romantic lead in Will Rogers’ "Merry Andrew" ... Ray Mayer of Evans and Mayer vaudeville headliners, makes his picture debut in Fox’s "Free Gold" ... Isabel Jewell spotted in M-G-M’s "The Thin Man" ... Don Alvarado in cast of Educational’s comedy "Lips That Pass in the Night" ... Fuzzy Knight added to cast of "Operator 13"—M-G-M. Andy Devine has a good spot in Universal’s "Black Cat" ... Nancy Carroll topped in Fox’s "Redheads on Parade." Esther Muir added to cast of Columbia’s "The Party’s Over." Mickey Rooney spotted in Mascot’s "Lost Jungle." James Bush lands the juvenile lead in WFN’s "Happy Family." Sam Hardy and Charles Bickford have important spots in Paramount’s "Little Miss Marka." Billie Burke spotted in RKO-Radio’s "Let All Who May Be Clever." Kay Johnson gets a featured spot in RKO-Radio’s "Of Human Bondage." Jack Haley will be featured by Paramount in "Here Comes the Groom."
“Countess of Monte Cristo” Disappointing
KARL FREUND DIRECTION WEAK, CHARLES STUMAR PHOTOGRAPHY EXCELLENT

Theater patrons who see the title of this picture advertised and think in any way resembles that great story “The Count of Monte Cristo,” will certainly be disappointed at what they see on the screen, as this Stanley Bergheman production is the slowest moving picture we have seen in a long time. In fact, we found it hard to keep awake during the early part of the production. It lacks showmanship.

The story by Walter Reisch, screen play by Karen de Wolf, and dialogue by Gladys Unger, was an impossible yarn that concerned two extra girls in a motion picture company in Vienna—and why the Austrian city, as the atmosphere was much nearer that of Hollywood. However, these two girls run away from a location they are working on and take the company car. When they come to they find themselves at a fashionable resort where they decide to impersonate a Countess and her maid. Strange to say, no one suspects where they are, even though they have stolen an auto in their flight. They get into the toils of an international crook and of course, is a young newspaper reporter to rescue them at the right moment—and of course, make a name for himself by exposing the crook. Karl Freund has not topped his other productions with this one, as his direction is weak and as for the cast he certainly made a grave error in assigning Fay Wray to impersonate the Countess as no one would ever accuse her of putting any characterization into the role that would have been “duck soup” in other hands, while Paul Lukas was wasted on an inferior role after what he did in “Candleglow.” Reginald Owen plays another of those strange Englishmen who can only be seen in motion pictures, and Paul Page, John Sheehan, Carmel Myers, Robert McWade, Frank Reicher, Richard Tucker, Matthew Betz, Bobby Watson, Dewey Robinson, A. S. Byren and Harvey Clark labored with the other parts. We might add that the only one who put a little life into her part was Kitty Kelly as the maid, but she suffered from the weak script and direction. We will say that Charles Stumar came across with some splendid photography, but even this will not save the picture.

In other words, the cash customers are going to be disappointed in both the misleading title and the production in general.

—Arthur Fore.

Beverly Wilshire Gold Room Business Is Improving Nightly

Carol Lofner and his dance music are helping to increase business nightly at the Beverly Wilshire Gold Room. Sunday evening we saw the following folks making merry and dining—Harry Conn and wife, Edward G. Robinson and Missus, Sam Harris, Mr. and Mrs. Norman McLeod, Michael Derby, Gus Arne, Dorothy Burgess, Hazel Forbes and Erniss Pessim, the latter minus his cute mustachio, Ernst Lubitsch gave a party to Dimitri Tiomkin and Albertina Rasch, Sidney Fox and others, Gloria Shea, Phillip Reed, the Stanley Bergeamans, Ernest Lassenme, Jesse Lasky, Nat Goldstone, Coro Kylle Bellows, Salvatore Santino, Charles Furthman, Renee Torres, Paul Ames and many others very much in evidence.

CURT HOUCK HAS MANY OFFERS—MAY NOT GO TO CATALINA

Curt Houck and his Catalina orchestra, which are the big noise at the Blossom Room in the Roosevelt hotel, are being deluged with offers. One is to stay one year right in Hollywood, another to go East and a third to go North for a long term engagement. Every year Curt Houck and his boys play at Catalina Island and they are slated to return there in June, but it looks right now as if they are apt to pass up the Island for a bigger and better contract.

The band has many high-class entertainers among the men, but the feature this week falls to the lot of Nita Mitchell, whom we last week called "Rita." Miss Mitchell is a blues singer that is different. She sells her songs one hundred per cent and especially over the ether, in a way that promises to make a name for herself in the Southland. Modie and Le Maux, exotic dancers, are winning much praise as is also Charita Alden, the greatest of all Hawaiian dancers. The other evening we met up with Billy Sullivan helping his mother celebrate her birthday; in the party was John Waters. Seated nearby was Gertrude Short and was she giving Curt Houck the once-over! Maybe it's love, who knows—we won't tell.

DAVE GOULD TO STAGE "SHIM SHAMS OF 1934" FOR PETER ARNO AND MOE MORTON

Over at the Music Box we will soon see a musical, "Shim Shams of 1934," produced by Peter Arno and Moe Morton. Word reached us that Dave Gould, who staged the dances for "Flying Down to Rio," "Hips, Hips, Hooray," and "Melody Cruise," and who is now preparing "Down to the Last Yacht" and "Cockeyed Cavaliers," all for Radio Pictures, is to stage the dances for the show with the musical score by Sammy Fain and Irving Kahal.

Guy Lombardo Stays on Until March 17; Ted Rito Oreo Opens Two Days Later

Gus Lombardo and his Royal Canadians stay on at the Coconut Grove until March 17 and will be followed into the Grove by Ted Rito on March 19. We ran into Jean Harlow, her Ma and Pa the other evening. Nearby was Harry Lachman and his wife. Sari Maritz hob-nobbed with Mr. Toplitzky. Paul Wilkins celebrated his birthday with the Mrs. and some friends.

OLD NIGHT HAWK became bewildered when Hyman Fink and the rest of the camera hounds started following pictures of Tito Schipa and rushed to the scene, wondering what new importation the producers had pulled out of their new bag of tricks and were showing the sights to. Alack and alas, instead it was Tito, our favorite warbler on and off the concert stage, out for a look at some of our best townpeople.

Alex and Frank Are Very Much on the Job at Sardi's

If you happen to hear Eddie Brandtatter or his associate, David Corey, say, "ALEX" or "FRANK," you will see a trim looking figure with a smile as long as a city block saunter over in the direction of the beckoning voice, and you will recognize ALEX or FRANK, the captains in charge of Sardi's popular eating place for the best people in and around Hollywood. Messrs. Brandtatter and Corey have built up a fine institution in Sardi's of Hollywood through serving only the very best food and at a price within reach of everybody. MOE MORTON CATERS TO THE WANTS OF THE BEST Ever since Moe Morton gave up his theatrical connections and started catering to the best people in town who like to dine and enjoy their refreshments among the right kind of people and in the right atmosphere, he has been building up quite a name for himself as a caterer to the big names of screen, stage and civic life. The Moe Morton Club on Hawthorne Avenue last week was well attended by the following members: Eddie Rubin, Dave Gould, Burton Lane, Lou Breslau, Peanuts Byron, Sid Silvers, Gene Sheldon, Buddy De Sylva, Peter Arno, Lowery Grant, Louis Fyv, Mack Sennett, John Waldron, Sally Haines, Benny Baker, Jean Gale, Frank Albertson, Dave Butler, Jack Gordon and hundreds of others who drop in and meet their friends and spend a pleasant hour or two and then send their way homeward.

FINE FOODS AT CHINESE KITCHEN

When that urge comes for a palatable dish of Chinese foods, drop in at Tom Tan's new palatial restaurant on Western Avenue, just north of Sunset at Prince. Mr. Gubbins is an excellent caterer and his staff is right up to the minute when it comes to service. And any time you want a tasty lunch or dinner a American style the Chinese Kitchen will give you complete satisfaction and please you too.

NAOMI LANDS WITH GUS ARNHEIM

Naomi Warner, that cute bit of loveliness that has been singing blues songs at the various night spots, has been signed by the Louis Donigan agency to appear with Gus Arneheim and his orchestra at the St. Francis Hotel in San Francisco starting March 6. We feel sure she will go over in a big way in the northern city.

Villa Torino Opens March 10th

The VILLA TORINO, deluxe place to dine and dance, opens on Hollywood boulevard Saturday, March 10. Excellent Italian foods will be featured for those who prefer the Latin cuisine, and palatable American foods for those who favor the American style of cooking. For the accommodation of private parties, Villa Torino announces private dining rooms in connection with a lovely dance floor. Don't forget—VILLA TORINO, corner of Taft and Hollywood Blvd., where good service and good food go hand in hand.

Frank Sebastian Tops All Creole Revues

The Mills Bros., Four Boys and a Guitar, continue to head the all-star creole revue at Frank Sebastian's Cotton Club, where Broomfield and Greely are staging three shows nightly with Les Hite, who also acts as M.C., and His Cotton Club orchestra, featuring Lionel Hampton, furnishing the music. Mr. Hite is no mean crooner and sings solo and double numbers with May Diggs. The revue has Eddie Anderson, Johnny Taylor, Rutledge and Taylor, Patsy Hunter and May Diggs in the Sister act; Dudley Dickerson, the dancing fool, the Gypsy Steppers, Sue Hays and the Creole Steppers, Sue Hays and the Creole Steppers, Sue Hays and the Creole Steppers, Sue Hays and the Creole Steppers, Sue Hays and the Creole Steppers. The music, especially the beauty creole chorus, is the cleverest we have ever seen on the floor at the Cotton Club.

JUD KLINE AT THE PIANO

The Club Flamingo is becoming famous as a late spot in Hollywood, keeping open until the small hours of the morning. Artists from other night clubs drop in for "interior decoration," both "wet and dry," and do a turn between the singing of Sam Young, who is clicking big with his popular songs having Jud Kline (who knows how) play the piano.

OPEN MONDAY NIGHT

The first Tingle-Tangle theater in America will be opened in Hollywood next Monday night on Santa Monica boulevard. The Tingle-Tangle theater is famous in continental Europe. This type of entertainment is along the lines of real old-time Variety shows in America before the word vaudeville was coined. There will be twenty acts of vaudeville, a buffet supper served in the lounge during the intermission. Frederick Hollander is producing the show. Herbert Brennon, Jr., is business manager.

Warner Brothers Production is at Highest Peak on West Coast

RKO - Radio Lot is Now Busier Than Ever

STUDIOS AT BURBANK ARE HOTBED OF ACTIVITY NOW

There may be an acute shortage of screen story material in Hollywood, but the Warner Brothers studio wouldn’t know about that.

No less than twenty-two best selling novels, hit plays or original screen stories have been acquired by Warner Brothers and are being made ready for early production.

These include properties which, when produced, undoubtedly will be among the biggest films of the year—or, in fact, since the advent of talking pictures.

This group includes "Napoleon," which will star Edward G. Robinson, under the direction of Frank Borzage; "Madame DuBarry," starring Dolores Del Rio; "Anthony Adverse," from the monumental novel by Henry Allen, with Leslie Howard probably playing the title role; Charles Dickens' classic, "A Tale of Two Cities," with Leslie Howard as Sidney Carton; "Oil for the Lamps of China," from Alice Tindall Hobart's best seller of America's industrial battles for oil in the Orient; "British Agent," from R. H. Bruce-Lockhart's colorful story of intrigue in Russia during the reign of the Czar and the revolution, and "Beau Brummel," from the Clyde Fitch play, successfully produced several years ago as a silent picture.

In addition, there is "The Dark Tower," from the hit Broadway play, in which Edward G. Robinson is being starred; "The Dragon Murder" (Continued on page 7)

RONALD COLMAN

Who makes his return to the screen in "Bulldog Drummond Strikes Back," Darryl Zanuck's 20th Century production, directed by Roy Del Ruth and which will be released through United Artists. The popular star, who has given enjoyment to millions, is expected to be at his best in this new picture.

THINGS ARE LOOKING UP AT GOWER AND MELROSE STUDIO

Five thousand persons will be given work and a weekly payroll of more than $500,000 will be put into circulation as the result of a new production boom which began this week at RKO-Radio studio.

With four pictures in production and five more starting within the next ten days, production at this studio is at the highest peak it has reached since 1929, officials report.

Hundreds of extras are being employed in the colorful new starring vehicle for Richard Dix and Irene Dunne, "Singaree," which is now in production under the direction of William Wellman.

"Strictly Dynamite," with Jimmy Durante starring, and a cast that includes Lupe Velez, Norman Foster, William Gargan, Marian Nixon, Ruth Etting, the Four Mills Brothers, Minna Gombell and others is also employing many people.

Elliott Nugent is directing this production and H. N. Swanson is producing the film.

Clive Brook and Diana Wynyard are busy in their new co-starring vehicle, based on A. A. Milne's famous play hit, "The Dover Road," which J. Walter Ruben is directing. Billie Burke, Reginald Owen, Alan Mowbray, Gilbert Emery and Phyllis Barry are in the cast. David Lewis is producing the picture for RKO-Radio from the screen play by H. W. Hanemann.

TREAT FOR THE BOYS—now that M-G-M have decided to make Robert Louis Stevenson's "Treas-sure Island," that classic romance of pirate gold and buccaneers on the high seas with Wallace Beery in the role of the lustful John Silver and Jackie Cooper as that wonderful boy hero.

Blond Charm
er of the Screen—Esther Ralston, was signed on a long term contract over at M-G-M studios a few days ago when the executives saw her excellent work on the screen in the Joan Crawford production "Sadie McKee." Esther made a hit in Europe recently.

CAREER STARTED AS A DANCER—as Marion Nixon reveals a sensational hit in High School revels, and a Hollywood producer spotted her on the professional stage in a Los Angeles theater. She recently finished the leading female role in "Strictly Dynamite" at RKO-Radio.

FIVE THOUSAND PEOPLE WORK—with a payroll of $500,000 weekly put into circulation as a result of a new production boom at RKO-Radio studios since Pandro Berman took charge. This looks as if this company has taken the advice of President Roosevelt to get to work.

THE SNACKER'S CLUB—is a new one, but was formed by Harold Lloyd and his company now making "The Cat's Paw." It has a charter and everything and was conceived to have the company relax between sequences and to have anyone who can suggest new ideas to Sam Taylor, the director. Coffee and cake are on hand which makes it quite popular.

BUSTER KEATON HAD CE-
BREITIES—in his latest comedy, "The Gold Ghost," with "Dutch" Henried, athlete from four universities, and William Worthington, formerly president of Multicolor; Jack Herrick, amateur champion heavyweight of the U. S. A.; Lloyd Ingraham, formerly ace director; Joe Young, brother of the famous Robert; Warren Hymer, who writes his own dialogue, and Dorothy Dix, graduate of a law school.

WORLD PREMIERE IN CHI-CAGO—is the latest wrinkle with "Are We Civilized," which Edwin Carewe directed for Rospin Productions, to open today in the Windy City. Dan Milner, film editor, and Edwin Carewe have gone there for the opening, but will return shortly to start another feature production for the same producing company.

Arthur Ripley writes and directs the Edgar Kennedy's "Average Man" shorts; Lee Marcus produces for RK-O-Radio.

SIX FEATURES COMPLET-ED—by April 1st, is the ambitious undertaking of Trem Carr of Monogram Pictures, but we know what this company can do and we can tell you "Money Means Nothing" and "Numbers of Monte Carlo" from E. Phillips Op gen's clever story.

ONE THOUSAND EXTRAS
—and all the principals were seen in the spectacular finish of "Stand Up and Cheer," the Lew Brown production for Fox Films, directed by Hamilton Mc-Fadden. Lew Brown made many Broadway hits before he came to Hollywood.

E. H. ALLEN DOES THE
TRICK—in casting featured players in E. W. Willingham's "Breakers Ahead," written by Ernest Pagano and Ewart Adamson, will have such well-known names as Betty Compton, Robert Warwick, Dorothy Sebastian and Don Alvarado in the cast with Charles Lamont directing.

"The Crime Doctor"—Excellent RKO Production With a Surprise Finish

Otto Kruger is certainly a valuable addition to the screen. His latest, the RKO production of Israel Zangwill's story "The Big Bow Mystery," with splendid screen play by Jane Murfin, is a yarn that delves into opinion of most people that there can be no perfect crime. The story tells of a master detective who has a beautiful wife. His constant attention to his business causes him to neglect his wife. In the meantime she has become enamoured of an attractive artist and plans to leave her husbond. The detective, in trying to get evidence of his wife's infatuation for the artist hires a woman criminal to spy on them. The girl however, blackmails everyone and the detective kills the girl with the lover's gun, which throws the blame on him. The artist is arrested and convicted of the crime but the wife, in her great love for him, offers to return to the detective, but he exposes himself as the real murderer and commits suicide. This is the story that is told on the screen, but the surprise finish shows that this is only a story which the detective has put into book form. But it is real drama. Otto Kruger, as the master detective, is forceful and vivid and gives an air of realism to the yarn that is enthralling, with Karen Morley playing the wife delicately in all its lines and shades. Nils Asther plays the artist lover with a great deal of sympathy and did some splendid work while being "sweated" at police headquarters. Judith Woods played the blackmailer with a great deal of skill and really looked the part. William Frawley enacts another good role in his interpretation of a member of the police force. Donald Crisp got a great deal out of the small role of the district attorney, and Frank Conroy, J. Farrell McDonald, Fred Kelsey and G. Pat Kelly handling other roles perfectly and were each a great addition to the cast.

John Robertson directed the story skillfully and carried his players along naturally to the surprise finish with the splendid photography of Lucien Andriot helping greatly. You will certainly enjoy this murder mystery with a huge surprise finish as it is beautifully done and splendidly produced by David Lewis and RKO-Radio Pictures will be able to handle another good one to their theaters that should reap a rich harvest at the box-office.

make up the score of the Fox production "Stand Up and Cheer." Caden-zas furioso, fastaros, furias and the many other varieties are what Lew Brown, the producer, and Hamilton McFadden, the director, had to pass on in this clever film.

FIRST WOMAN SUPERVIS-OR—has taken office as Pandro Berman, RKO-Radio executive, has appointed Jane Murfin on account of her great knowledge of stories and production as well as the many good productions of which she was responsible at other companies.

TWO NEW CONTRACTS—for the veterans on the Fox lot as David Butler and Frank Lloyd were persuaded by Winfield R. Sheehan, excutive in charge, to continue their good work that has had a great deal to do with the success of Fox films for such a long time.

"We Now Sell THEATRICAL FABRIC and Trimmings"
"Stand Up and Cheer" Will Be the Surprise Musical Picture of the Year

HAS WINFIELD R. SHEEHAN ANOTHER "CAVALCADE"?
LEW BROWN IS ASSOCIATE PRODUCER AND COLLABORATOR ON STORY AND DIALOGUE

When Winfield R. Sheehan, producer of "Stand Up and Cheer," gave Lew Brown, associate producer on this picture, full permission to go ahead and run things his own way, he knew that he had picked a man who knew musical comedies forwards and backwards. Not only was Brown associate producer on "Stand Up and Cheer," but he was also collaborator on the story and dialogue, and wrote the lyrics and music with the aid of Jay Gorney. Lew Brown proved that old saying of "too many cooks don't make a good broth" and shows what a success almost a one-man production head can be. Judging from the critics' enthusiastic reports on this picture, Winfield Sheehan can be pretty certain that he has another exceptional box-office attraction for this year as "Cavalcade" proved in 1933. Brown states that any success the picture may have is because Sheehan is a "regular fellow" and gives his cooperation to the fullest extent at all times. "Stand Up and Cheer" has one of the biggest attraction casts of this year. Warner Baxter, who is one of Fox's biggest attraction cards, heads the list, with Madge Evans, Boles, Stepin Fetchit, James Dunn, Shirley Temple, Sylvia Fros and many others in the cast. Hamilton McFadden was the director of the unusual extravaganza while Sammy Lee staged five of the most breath-taking dance spectacles that have come to the screen in a long time. Besides writing the lyrics and music for "Broadway's Gone Hill-Billy," Lew Brown will also be seen in the picture doing this special number; other song hits are "Our Last Night Together," "Baby, Take a Bow," "I'm Laughing" and "Out of the Red." Arthur Lange, who has been doing such excellent work on the Fox lot, was the musical director of this production.

THELMA WOODRUFF IS BUSY ARTISTE

Thelma Woodruff, charming and versatile artist, has just finished the leading role as "Peg" in "Peg o' My Heart" at the Major School of Acting. From there Miss Woodruff was called to the United Artists' studio where she is at the present time making electrical transcriptions for the recording department. According to latest reports she is scheduled for an excellent part in forthcoming productions at the U. A. lot and at M-G-M. Miss Woodruff is remembered for her excellent portrayal as Walter Huston's niece in "Storm at Day Break" with Kay Francis. Thelma and her partner Parle Kelly made a successful tour of the East last summer in a specialty number, and were accompanied on the trip by the former's mother.

MONTECITO PLAYERS CLICKING AT TRoupERS CLUB

That edifying and astounding play "SWEENEY TODD" is clicking right along since its opening a week ago. It is extremely interesting to note that a lot of entertainment is loaded into this old-timer. From all indications, "SWEENEY TODD" will be scheduled for a successful run.

Members of the cast include Francis Baker Smith, who directs and is cast in the stellar role, Jane Bellman, Billy Butts, John Carter, Viola Moore, Carl Ruthrauff, Henry Stockbridge, Mary Wagner, Edwin Poffley, Constance Purdy, Charles Johnston, Bobbie Bard and Niel Rawlinson.

FAMOUS AVIATRIX QITS AIR FOR SCREEN AFTER SAD EXPERIENCES

Louise Fernande, after being one of the most sensational aviatrixes for years, and who recently came to Hollywood and started on a screen career, has decided to give up flying and devote all her time to working in the talkies. Miss Fernande made this decision after working in a number of pictures here, and mainly because her best pals were killed in the New Orleans air meet. Strange as it seems, Miss Fernande was to fly to the Crescent City with a very dear friend, Jimmy Pate, the greatest of all stunt flyers, and take part in the show. Something interfered with her going through with the plans and she stayed here. When she read the accounts of the death of Jimmy Pate and another well-known flyer, who also was a friend of hers, during the celebration, she figured that the hand of fate had spared her and that it was about time that she give up flying and stick to her ambition of becoming equally famous on the screen. Louise Fernande has been adjudged one of the most perfect women by physical experts all over America. She attributes her great form to the many stunts that she has performed atop of airplanes.

Frank Strayer Directs "Together Again" for Invincible

Maury Cohan, producer of Invincible Pictures, today added Frank T. Mack, Rosita Marstini, Tom Ricketts, Clarence Geldert and Lloyd Ingraham to the cast of "Together Again," which he is producing at the Mack Sennett studios with Frank Strayer directing. Lila Lee and Onslow Stevens are featured, and others in the cast are Claude Gillingwater and Dickie Moore. M. A. Anderson is at the camera and Melville Shyer is production manager and assistant director. Story is an original by Robert Ellis, who also wrote the screen adaptation.

JANE LOSES HER MOTHER

Jane Crowley lost her mother who died suddenly. She was well-known and liked in film circles as is Jane, who is one of the prime movers and workers in The Troupers Club as well as working in pictures.
Just for Today

Someone told us of reading a poem “JUST FOR TODAY,” by some noble mind whose name we fail to recall at this time. It was so inspiring that we decided to use that gem of a title for our editorial. JUST FOR TODAY is what the ancient Greek poet Archilochus said, “ACH! GOD, HELP US—JUST FOR TODAY—and we plan and scheme JUST FOR TODAY, and if we know the why's and wherefore of our life-being in this great universe we are here JUST FOR TODAY, for who knows where we will be tomorrow. TIME AND PLACE have nothing to do with God.

So, whatever you do or think, do so JUST FOR TODAY; do it well, allow nothing that will mar this DAY get into your mind and conscience, accept only that which will make you happier and healthier, JUST FOR TODAY. Trust tomorrow to God Who is All-Power and Who knows our every need and will supply it if we are living and walking in His presence, as He brought us into this world ONE OF HIS PERFECT CHILDREN in mind and body. So remember that nothing counts but “JUST FOR TODAY.”

Moving Movie Through by John Hall

What's this? A group of bankers buying up all Hollywood studios and planning to fire them (exes) and start from scratch? Can it be possible? Sounds fantastic. However, there it is in the newspapers... Well, the goose that has been laying the golden eggs is punch-drunk from taking it from Washington and elsewhere. The revelation that a lot of big studios reporting in the red have been paying colossal salaries and bonuses to executives and their friends spells reform... Now just what big publisher, after starting a big Japan-American war scare, suddenly switched and started printing official war pictures... And just WHY did he make such a ridiculous about-face... This gent has a lot of stock on the market, guaranteed to pay 7%... Did quite a word from the Man in the White House jerk him away from self-destruction... We wonder... Here's the line in E. V. Durling's Daily News column: "...but those who watch the buying of shares in Wall Street believe it. A group is trying to get stock control of all the major film companies for the purpose of ousting all present executives and putting in men who will be instructed to produce only clean pictures..." Also we read in the same column: "Thirty thousand Catholic priests have been instructed to campaign for clean films, as have the editors of Catholic press, which reaches 20,000,000 people..."

Gracious! Now between Uncle Sam, stock buyers and organized religion, both Catholic and Protestant, Hollywood seems facing a fight for its life as is... "Universal," writes a gossip scribbler, "will make 'School for Scandal' in a modern version..." Well, one studio used "The Star Spangled Banner as a theme tune in a rum picture. Wouldn't a 'modern version' of Shakespeare be a wow! But you just can't believe ALL the gossip. Maybe Uncle Carl will learn about this... "GOING HOLLYWOOD": Patsy Kelly about walks away with this one. There's too much crooning all over the place. This is no crack at Bing; he's good—so is honey. There is not enough of Stuart Erwin and ditto Ned Sparks, Marion Davies? Oh, yes. That nice gal is almost smothered by the others. Too much on the ball in three other places is tough on any star. Today, the brutally frank talking picture books old Screen Personality out of the spotlight. There MUST be talent... Sorry... "MAL". More than twenty years a principal "heavy" in western features and holding his place is the record of Bob Kortman, now playing with Ken Maynard in "Doomed to Die." Happily married for twelve years to Golda Durante, former Keystone beauty, and living in his own fine home, rugged, hard-riding Bob and the Mrs. professionally and domestically, are among the unusual in pictures. They and their like are the real people of this picture business... Here's news: "If Congress passes the Dickstein (anti-foreigner) bill Hollywood will be half empty." Samuel Goldwyn... SO? So half of Hollywood IS composed of foreign actors? Coming from Sam Goldwyn, this...
Jack La Rue Tops Fine Cast in “Take the Stand”—Produced by M. H. Hoffman

Whoever said that newspaper stories were on the skids will have to take it back when they see “Take the Stand!”, directed by Phil Rosen, in which Jack La Rue out-Winchells Mister Winchell. It is his best performance in some time and if he can fare this well away from the Paramount lot, he might as well forget ‘em and look elsewhere for a chance to really disport his talents. Gail Patrick comes through with a nice portrayal. One of the surprises of the picture is Bradley Page, while the cast is brightened with Thelma Todd as La Rue’s secretary. The rest of the line-up reads like a page from the cinema blue book, for instance, you will find Bertone Churchill, Vince Barnett, Russell Hopton, Leslie Fenton, Sheila Terry, De Witt Jennings, Paul Hurst, Jason Robards, Richard Tucker, Judith Vosselli, Edward Kane, Al Hill, Oscar Apfel, Arnold Gray, Bryant Washburn and Lel Kelly. The story, continuity and dialogue are by Albert De Monde, suggested by “The Deuce of Hearts” by Earl Derr Biggers. Excellent photography was the work of Harry Neumann and Tom Galligan. The musical score of Abe Meyer clicked in a big way, recorded by W. C. Smith, edited by Mildred Johnston. “Take the Stand!” was supervised by M. H. Hoffman, Jr., Picture handled by Ray Culley and is a Liberty production.

“Jimmy the Gent” Will Draw ’Em in on James Cagney’s Name, Michael Curtiz Does a Good Job Directing Exhibitors will have to depend on James Cagney’s name to draw patrons in to see “Jimmy the Gent,” a Warner Bros. production. The story is very weak, relying on gags injected into the picture rather than an honest good plot. While James Cagney is the star of the picture, Allen Jenkins runs him a hard race for first honors. The story deals with a racket of finding missing heirs and heiresses of deceased millionaires who apparently have no relations. A main theme is carried through the story of finding one of the missing heirs who turns out to be a gambler and a murderer. Cagney locates him, and how he vindicates him of the above charges and gets a nice profit for himself is the motivation of the plot. Alice White does some outstanding work as the dumbbell sweetheart of Jenkins. Bette Davis, Alan Dinehart, Phillip Reed, Hobart Cavanaugh, Mayo Methot, Ralf Harolde, Philip Faversham, Arthur Hohl and Nora Lane complete the exceptionally good cast. Michael Curtiz did fine work with the material he had to work with. His comedy situations were exceptionally well done. Bertram Milhauser adapted the screen play from a story by Laird Doyle and Ray Nazarro. Ira Morgan deserves credit for the photography.

“Honor of the West” Is Something Different in Westerns—Ken Maynard Clicks in Nate Gatzert Story

Ken Maynard’s latest Universal release opus affords him the opportunity of doing something a little different in the realm of westerns. In “Honor of the West” Ken plays a dual role that will surprise his followers. His part as Clem, the weak brother who betrays his employer, and that of Ken, the hard riding, square shootin’ sheriff, is well done. His rendition of “Charlie” in the bar room, the Texan’s common enemy, is well played. Cecilia Parker, sweetness, as the girl who holds the love interest, Frank Hagney as Boots, Jack Rockwell as Rocky, Jim Marcus as Turner, Al Smith as Smokey, Franklyn Farnum as the saloonkeeper and Tarzan round out the rest of the cast. The picture was directed by Alan James who kept a fast-moving tempo throughout. Nate Gatzert’s original as well as screenplay and dialogue Ted McCord’s photography is effective. Sound by Earl Grant. Art direction, Ralph Berger.
My best radio bow to Filmograph readers!

Radio and screen soon will be one, if they aren’t already so, as far as the gossip chatters go—what with the headlines of each profession making good in both fields.

Who would have thought several years ago that the boyish Bing of the Coconaut Grove and radio would be one toppper movie star today? Probably wouldn’t have been if brother hadn’t called the water wagon to camp and then signed him with Columbia.

Burns and Allen? Clever radio kids, but their plugging of Paramount on their programs has been obvious and poorly done.

But for what they are getting per, the rest of us would no doubt jump through hoops.

As a way of introducing things, I wonder just how long it will be before the rest of the studios get wise and start copying RKO’s smart move of a radio tie-in? Someone laughed at the bunch when they put NBC in, but the tide has turned, I would say, with the other studios now fighting to borrow a half hour or so a month.

That sort of advertising is priceless and it wasn’t even three years ago that the mere mention of a radio broadcast to a movie executive or star was enough to get yourself badly frozen or bounced.

Radio for some reason or other seems to be resenting Fanchon and Marco’s entry into the field. Several violent editorials have been written although they seemingly have not gotten into ink. Furthermore, no one in my varied radio acquaintance ever heard of the two men who are heading the department.

Press releases say that Mr. McCarthy resigned from NBC to take the position of assistant manager at KFI, but there are plenty odds up that NBC has some sort of an oar in the situation.

Been common knowledge around here for years that the Anthony stations and NBC are none too friendly. It was strongly suggested some time back that Anthony kept Mr. Anylesworth’s pet program, “Hollywood on the Air,” off the air as long as he could.

After sending contracts and all data to FRC in Washington, S. A. Scherer last week received word from the high mogul that he could run the station effective the fifteenth. No more of the MacMillan classic stuff. From now on it’s the hottest of jazz. A dog watch engineer a night or two ago played a Chico de Verde transcription only to have the new manager, Bud Ernst, call him and tell him to jerk it in a hurry and put on the latest and newest record in the file.

Lots of the listeners may not like jazz, but records show that that’s where the money lies and at the present time KMPC is the hottest station for smaller commercial goin’.

What a nice person Jay Whidden turned out to be. Fined a thousand dollars by the music corporation for charging over-scale and paying underscale.

I do hope Mr. Hearst doesn’t decide to make it unpleasant for Don Lee after Mr. Lee’s court order restraining Mr. Hearst from getting into immediate operation on his two stations that will probably be one, KTM and KELW.

After Guy C. Earle reputedly refused to put any more money into the building of KNX’s new studios, they moved into the Otto K. Olsen building and from current reports they are liable to spend more money in the hiring of guides than they could possibly have invested in the new studios.

Said to be a new shake-up at KMTR. Like the earthquakes they’re getting frequenter and more frequent. Statistics show that such frequent changes in a radio station are usually the forecast of some sort of financial unhappiness.

Sam Hayes is angling for a New York contract for newsreel broadcasting. It would be a natural for the Richfield Regener.

Wonder how Louella O. Parsons will make out in her new coast to coast broadcast? Her name and ability to produce the stars at the time set is a big drawing card. California is fed up on star interviews, but golly, oh golly, how the hinterlands take to them.

KHJ’s southern belle, Linda Lee, is a little radio gal who will go screen one of these times. Personality and plenty plus of looks.

For years Carlton E. Morse, author of “One Man’s Family,” has been attempting to get recognition from the publishers. Since his program has gone coast to coast, he has had several offers to write the screen in book form.

That program, if the studio executives could see their way clear to take the back seat long enough to let Morse write the shooting script and supervise the production, would make a topnotch picture.

On February 28 the three great wire services, A-P, U-P and INS ceased serving radio. On March 1 a cooperative news syndicate sponsored by KFI, KNX and KGFJ stepped in with a newly formed service which provides news from all over the world, on tap for any and every radio station that wants it at a nominal cost.

It looks as though the old-line news daddies have shotgunned radio into marrying the gal; but the youngsters is likely to grow up to wit ‘em high, wide and handsome.

MILO MARCHETTI MAKES HISTORY

“Local boy makes good,” is applicable to many Los Angeles cafe men, it was revealed yesterday by Marchetti’s cafe on Wilshire boulevard. Milo Marchetti, now managing director of the new institution, was formerly a waiter in his father’s cafes on Hill street, at Fifth and Western and at the beach.

Renee Black, declared to be the best maidre de in the world, and now managing director of the Park Casino in Central Park, New York City, was formerly maidre de at the Ambassador hotel here.

Frank Sebastian, successful owner of the Cotton Club, was formerly a bus boy for Marchetti’s Roman cafe on Hill street near eighth in “the good old days.”

SARDI’S OF HOLLYWOOD

Visitors to Hollywood, of which there are many at this time of the year, may be seen daily, either at the luncheon or dinner hour, flocking to Sardi’s, one of the popular eating and meeting places in the Film Capitol. Of course, there is a reason for everything, and the one for tourists is that motion picture stars, writers and executives of the motion picture studios are to be found there daily or nightly. The tourists always find the best and they have not only found out that Sardi’s is a celebrated place for food, but they can invariably see their favorite star at most any time of the day or night.

NIGH DIRECTS “NUMBERS OF MONTE CARLO”

John Darrow has been signed for the lead opposite Mary Brian in Monogram’s “Numbers of Monte Carlo,” starting Wednesday with William Nigh directing. Others in the cast are Kate Campbell, Yoda D’Avril, Robert Frazer, Astrid Allyn, George Hayes, Billee Van Every, George Cleveland, Andre Charon and Carl Stockdale. “Numbers of Monte Carlo” is Norman Houton’s adaptation of the E. Phillips Oppenheim novel, “Numbers of Death.” Paul Malvern is supervising.

EARL CARROLL TELLS US

MOTION PICTURE CRITICS

—have unanimously agreed that Mae West, Katharine Hepburn, Bing Crosby and Baby LeRoy are the four big screen developments of 1933 and as that makes three from Paramount studios the executives declare it is because they are willing to experiment on new talent.

VALENTINO’S FAMOUS HORSE—that became so well known in the late star’s productions, will be ridden by Richard Dix in “Singingare,” the colorful yarn of an Australian bandit and a lovely opera singer. The horse has led the Rose parade for years.
Mr. and Mrs. Irving G. Thalberg, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Montgomery, Mr. and Mrs. Clark Gable. Here is a happy party, made up of MGM stars and Executives Chief Irving G. Guy Lombardo Farewell Week Promises Big Business for Grove

This is farewell week for Guy Lombardo's Royal Canadians at the Coconut Grove, for they are closing March 17th with Ted Fio Rito and his orchestra coming in on the 19th. Ted comes in with the same aggregation with which he left the Grove, and also some headline acts that he discovered up North. It will remain to be seen just how popular Ted Fio Rito is, for when he left for the northern engagement he was to be gone only four weeks. The Lombardo engagement here was extended from four weeks to March 17th, permitting the Fio Rito orchestra to stay at the St. Francis hotel in San Francisco for a longer period of time. Now that Ted is returning, it will be like the home-coming of a hero, everyone that can get away will be on hand for the opening night to give him a good old-fashioned welcome to our fold.

SLOPPY JOE'S

The drop-in place of Hollywood for night-clubbers is Sloppy Joe's. There we ran into Elsie Clark and Nelson, story vaudevillians and radio artists of no mean ability and reputation. They were visiting with Hugh Enfield, Universal player, one of the coming of the younger actors working in talkies for the majors. Frank Gallagher is the crooner at this spot and this boy should be picked up for some of the musicals, for he is a good bet.

S. S. Monte Carlo to Be Thrown Open to Public March 17; Arthur (Hoot) Gibson Orchestra to Furnish the Music

The popular sports and pastimes that made the various ships so famous on the high seas of the Pacific, will again be open to the public when the S. S. Monte Carlo will be thrown open to the public just outside of Long Beach, with taxis leaving from 1375 West Seventh street, Long Beach, directly to the ship. Arthur (Hoot) Gibson and his orchestra have been signed to furnish the dance and show music. There will be any number of acts furnished by the Lou Dorn agency to keep the visitors entertained between the popular sports games, fine food and a chance to dance to the tune of the roaring ocean.

CLUB FLAMINGO OFFERS PLENTY OF VARIETY NUMBERS NIGHTLY

The high-lite of nite-life on Hollywood boulevard, after other nite clubs close, is the Club Flamingo. This late spot is where artists from these clubs drop in before hitting the hay to give a specialty of their ability which always goes over big, even doing their darntest to compete with Sam Young's singing—if that is possible. He is being ably assisted by Mike Dunn, and of course, Jud Kline's piano playing is an act by itself. As an added attraction, the attractive and clever fan dancing of Peggy Rae adds a touch of variety.

A. A. A. CRITICISED FOR ALLEGED NEGLIGENCE AT EL CENTRO

It is truly a sad state of affairs when a group of men engaged in such a hazardous profession as race driving have to bring legal action against their representatives to get the protection that is theirs. It is with bated breath that we await the decision of the Grand Jury concerning the tragedy of last week at El Centro. If we were the ASCC official in question, we would urge him to allow me to write an editorial giving my personal opinion. We should be glad to have you write for your ASCC report and to have it published in your column. I feel reasonably certain that if a harmonious understanding had existed between drivers, mechanics and A.A.A. officials and if a certain "official" had not been so concerned with his "official duties," the accident would NOT HAVE HAPPENED.

Perhaps I should be a little stronger—it is my belief that once a race is in progress the only man who has the right to handle the flags is the starter or his assistant at the starter's request and NOT the A.A.A. REPRESENTATIVE! I have been informed that the leading drivers positively will not drive until this deplorable condition is corrected. Three human lives have been sacrificed on the altar of negligence—let us bow our heads and offer a prayer for the departed souls and in the same breath pray for the removal of the condition which could allow such an accident to happen.

AFFECTS OF STATE

"Affairs of State" by Maurice Anthoni is about the most gorgeously costumed production that the Pasadena Community Playhouse has yet presented. But when you have said that, you have said everything. The speeches are long and "literary," and the action almost non-existent. One might be reading a book, rather than seeing a play. The plot is flimsy, obvious, and the subplot obvious, as well.

FAIR ENOUGH!

Harry Green, screen comedian, in an effort to curb his love of gambling, has entered into an agreement with his business manager, Al Rosen, whereby Rosen collects $100 from Green every time he catches him at a roulette table, playing cards for money or shooting craps. But it works the other way, too, and during the three weeks Green has been working with Claire Trevor and John Boles in Fox Film's "Free Gold" he has collected $700 from Rosen.
KIDDIES

LEW BROWN HELPS SHIRLEY TEMPLE TO BECOME REAL STAR

When Lew Brown needed a baby star he looked over hundreds and finally his eye lit on little Shirley Temple. He fell in love with her and immediately had Winifred Sheehan, chief executive of Fox Films, sign the little child-actress to a long-term contract, and placed her in “Stand Up and Cheer.” Her work was a revelation to the studios and today Shirley Temple is the most sought after kiddie star. Her next picture is to be B. P. Schulberg’s production “Little Miss Marker,” which Paramount is to produce. Shirley was loaned by Fox for this picture which will add greater glory to her fast growing reputation.

Little Gloria Rock doing such a moving bit in “All Men Are Enemies” with Helen Twelvetrees that she got her check raised ... Dickie Moore in “Together Again” with lovely Lila Lee as his mother for Invincible Pictures out at the Sennett studio ... Cullen Johnson being knocked down by Alan Dinehart and picked up by Una Merkel in an exciting bit with Harold Lloyd in “Cat’s Paw” ... Lorraine Rivera playing an Italian bit in “Firebrand” at U. A. ... Little Jackie Rock and Payne Johnson, both well-known as infant players two years ago, starting over again in a nursery scene with Janet Gaynor in “World Is Ours” and winning praise from Director Blystone for good behavior ... Little Bobby Watson up and out again after a siege with flu which cost him a couple of good parts ... CONGRATULATIONS TO “DAD” WHOM YOU ALL KNOW “Dad” Zanfretta celebrates his 75th year since he made his stage debut in vaudeville on next Wednesday night by attending the premiere of “Wonder Bar” at the Warner Brothers theater in Hollywood. “Dad” made his stage debut on Monday, March 14, 1859, at the old Boston theater. “Dad” is 80 years old and the last living member of the original Zanfretta Troupe of Pantomimists, famous on two continents. Ask Grandpa, he knows!

PLACEMENTS

O’Reilly & Mann have certainly been doing all right by their clients. In the past week they placed Shirley Temple in “Little Miss Marker,” Alden Chase in “Now I’ll Tell” and “The Firebrand,” Lane Chandler also in “The Firebrand,” Douglas Frawley in “I Hate Women” and Olive Cooper was assigned to write and direct the dialogue for “I Hate Women.”

SO SORRY, FUZZY!

In our haste to review “Come on, Marines,” we overlooked Fuzzy Knight’s performance in that Paramount picture, with Richard Arlen, Lupino Lane, Roscoe Karns and others in the leading roles. Fuzzy is always a sure-fire laugh provider, and in this picture he came in for no end of attention, in fact, his work stood out with the rest of the leaders. Henry Hathaway directed the picture, with Bobby Vernon his aide on comedy situations and gags.

SAMMY GLASSER LEAVES

Sammy Glasser, after finishing in “Bottoms Up” for Fox and “Showmanship” at the Columbia studios, is enroute to New York with Chas. Foy to play the Loew’s theaters. He made so many friends here that he hated to leave Hollywood.

Lou Brock Wins Promotion; Will Only Produce Features

Lou Brock’s fine work in the production of comedies for RKO-Radio has won him a promotion on the home lot—in the future he will only produce features for this studio. “Down to Their Last Yacht” will be his first production under the new status. This will be the satire on society life during the depression, which will have Sidney Fox in the leading role. Wheeler and Woolsey’s “Cockeyed Cavaliers” and “The Great American Harem,” will be other Brock assignments. Lee Marcus will hold down the former Brock post as comedy producer for RKO-Radio, with Bert Gilroy, assisting.

Sol. M. Wurtzel Has Proven Worthy of His Position in Cinemaland

Sol. M. Wurtzel, chief executive, producing at Fox Films’ Western Avenue lot in Hollywood, is one of these quiet unassuming sort of men who work when there is work to be done. If he does find time to play we wonder how he can crowd it into his daily program. He has been the life of the Fox Films organization for years. No matter what the task is to which he is assigned, Sol. M. Wurtzel always comes through with flying colors, and no two men in the industry have stuck and worked together like Sol. M. Wurtzel and Winfield R. Sheehan and therein lies their success.

ANNA CHANDLER SIGNS WITH HARRY WURTZEL AGENCY, INC.

Anna Chandler, well-known stage and screen character actress, has signed a contract with the Harry Wurtzel Agency, Inc., for a period of time on film and theatrical matters. Miss Chandler is a good bet for both stage and on the radio, and should find plenty of opportunities to disport her acting wares while in the Southland.

A NEW PERSONALITY CLICKS

"OLIVE GROWS UP"

A few years back when I was a lonely youngster in lil' old New York, I became acquainted with a well-known little lady—"Faye, Elliott and King," or in other words, Corinne King, Louise Elliot and a charming, chubby cherub of tender years, Olive Faye, who was an extremely talented child. She had everything—grace, beauty, a sweet voice and above all, was a dancer of no mean merit. That at time, as young as she was, I could see she had something and felt that she would go far. Slowly and steadily young Olive wended her way up to success. Barely in her teens she was featured in the musical comedy success, "Woof-Woof" in New York. Her work in that show brought her a nice contract from Earl Carroll. She was the dancing star of the seventh edition of the Vanities. She was an immediate success, which she again repeated in the eighth edition the following year. The last I saw of Olive in New York was when she was co-starred at the Club Richman with Harry Richman, Ann Pennington and Francis Williams. Imagine, then, my surprise to walk into the Club Ballyhoo and there on the floor singing sweetly to the music of a soft-toned guitar, manipulated by her own dear fingers, was the child-star Olive Faye, now a lovely young lady. I sent for her, she joined our party. After one happy reunion we settled down for a cozy chat and Olive confided in me her hopes for the future. "You've guessed it." Yes; it is Filmdom and something tells me she'll make it, for she has everything—youth, charm, talent, beauty, and the greatest asset of all, years of experience. She also told me that the Movies were her first love, that at the tender age of two and a half she was Ford Sterling's leading lady, right up until she reached her seventh year, under the able direction of Carl Laemmle, Sr. Mr. Movie Mogul and You and You and You—here is a sure-fire bet. Test and try, and I bet you'll buy. In the meantime Olive will still headline at Ye Olde Club Ballyhoo.

"TIS TINGLE-TANGEL TIME IN TOWN"

With a bang and a bang, a ting and a tang the newest little theater in town opened its doors Monday night to an appreciative audience. The delectable Continental Cocktail, titled "Allez-oop," is a delightful mixture of nonsense spiced with subtly clever lyrics, pulsating music and a remarkably well-trained group of players. The melodies alone, combined with the artistic rendering of same by the producer-composer, Frederick Hollander, is worth a visit to this charming little show window. From the time the curtains parted till their final closing, the first night audience composed mostly of screen and stage luminaries, chuckled audibly and at times broke into loud guffaws at the bungoyness of the players. The Tingle-Tangle theater is something different. "Allez-oop" can hardly be termed a revue, it is really a potent musical cocktail—it savors slightly of the old Triangle theater in New York's Greenwich Village, but again it is better, it has that Continental finesse. The most amazing feature of the evening was Mr. Hollander himself. Without tearing his hair, or bursting a collar button, he calmly sat at the piano and played the entire musical score, without a thing in the way of data before him but the key-board of the instrument. This man is a genius—his music has something, an indefinable something that beggars description. Outstanding performances were given by Steffi Duna, Margaret Scherk, Roland Varwood and Paul Irving. To Mr. Hollander goes the credit for those saucy Tangy lyrics for those "somewhat different" melodies and expert direction. Don't miss Tingle-Tangle; it is the most potent thing in town—the absolute cure for the "Jitters."

"CREDIT WHERE CREDIT IS DUE"

We regret very much that in our preceding issue we erroneously credited Kitty Kelly with the clever portrayal of the maid in the recent Universal release, "The Countess of Monte Cristo." The laurels should go to Patsy Kelly. Our sincerest apologies, Miss Kelly.

MARTA DEVEAUX

Marta Devaux, who won her first laurels as a beauty by being chosen "Miss Indiana" in a beauty contest several years ago, has recently appeared in M-G-M's all-star production, "Hollywood Party," featuring Jimmy Durante, Lupe Velez, Jack Pearl, Laurel and Hardy, Polly Moran, Charles Butterworth, Tom Kennedy, June Clyde and M-G-M Baby Stars. Alan Dwan directed. Miss DeVeaux plays the part of the Hula girl in Hal Roach's recent Laurel and Hardy laugh riot, "Sons of the Desert." Prior to her arrival to Hollywood, Miss DeVeaux had roles in two New York productions: "Queen High" with Ginger Rogers and Charlie Ruggles, and "Dangerous Nan McGrew," featuring Helen Kane. She also played musical comedies in New York. Miss DeVeaux, according to latest reports, is scheduled for a part in "Operator 13," M-G-M production featuring Marion Davies and Gary Cooper, direction of Richard Boleslavsky. Here is an accomplished and capable artist who is rapidly gaining recognition on the silver screen. Management of O'Reilly and Mann.

"A WEE BIT O' RUSSIA"

("Two Guitars Club")

Oh me, oh my, it's not a question of going Hollywood anymore—it's "Going Continental!" First the happy, snappy Tingle Tangle theater and now "The Two Guitars Club," an intimate Russian rendezvous that is pleasing to the eye and soothing to the nerves. It was formerly the Russian-American Art club and under the expert supervision of Mr. A. Davidoff. It has been converted into one of the most unique "Club Intime" that this writer has ever been privileged to see. The cuisine, Russian, of course, is both palatable and different, and I don't doubt that ere long "Shaslick" (no, I won't tell you just what it is—you'll find out) will become the "piece de resistance" of a long and varied menu. The show, ah! Again you have something different. The beautiful "Countess Sonya" is a charming Mistress of Ceremonies, or perhaps I should say interpreter, who sings and dances inimitably. The treatment of the show is entirely Russian and at times the sheer beauty of some of the numbers presented strikes at both the heart and the eye. If you, my friends, are really seeking diversion that is different, together with a delectable dinner served quietly and efficiently in an atmosphere of refinement and continental lilt, visit Monsieur Davidoff's "Two Guitars Club," conveniently situated on Harold Way near Western Avenue in Hollywood. Members of the cast include Messrs. Sankar, Melesh, Bekef, Bobot, ably assisted by the Misses Lifert, Melesh and the beautiful bona-fide Countess Sonya.

Good Bet for "Cleopatra"

Cecil B. DeMille, who is quoted as saying that we lack actors, better go down to the Mason theater and see Mitchell Lewis in the "Hairy Ape" and then retract his statement. Mr. Lewis would be an excellent character for Mr. DeMille to use in his forthcoming super-production "Cleopatra" at Paramount.
Carol Lofner Improves Business at Beverly Wilshire

It is the variety of music that Carol Lofner and his orchestra are offering visitors to the Beverly Wilshire Gold Room that is bringing them in greater numbers at this playground of the elite of the southland. Coupled with this is the fact that the food is of the very finest and not forgetting the service, supervised by Arlette, former of the Coconut Grove, and Billy Theis, who has been connected with this place for so long that he is considered a fixture here. SUNDAY NIGHT, WE SAW Clarence Brown and wife (Alice Joyce), Lou Clayton and a large party, Madamele Carroll, J. Walter Ruben and wife, Ralph Blum and Missus, Carmel Myers, the Graham Bakers, Raquel Torres and Paul Aten, General Manager Jamings with Mrs. Fee, Col. Harry Baine, Polan Banks, the Harrison Carrols, Mr. and Mrs. Leslie Howard, Gloria Shea, Sid Lipman and wife, Guy Lombardo, Archie May and wife, and Seymour Felix. FRIDAY EVENING, Anita Murray held a large party for 65 at the Beverly Wilshire. Among those present were Clarence Brown and wife, Lew Cody, Buster Collier, Jr., George Hearst, Carmel Myers and hubby, Mrs. Allan Dwan, Mrs. John Considine, Jr., Lloyd Pantages, Dixie Martin, Bess Meredith, the Frank Borzages, Louella Parsons, Dr. Henry Martin and many others.

DICK BOSLEY HEADS HOLLYWOOD STABLE ENTERTAINERS

The Hollywood Stable made a ten-strike when they signed Dick Bosley as M. C. of an array of stellar attractions such as Gigi and Alvarado, Dorothy Tiema, Peggie and Virginia and eight beautiful girls who make up the chorus. Wednesday nights are set aside as Celebrity Nights, when stars from stage and screen make their bow and some entertain. Joe Lewis and his orchestra furnish the music. Dick Bosley should become quite a favorite with Hollywoodians, just as he did when he was the star of the 833 Club in Los Angeles. The Hollywood Stable offers three shows nightly.

All-Colored Revue Is Hit at Sebastian's

Broomfield and Greely are staging the all-colored revue three times nightly at Frank Sebastian's Cotton Club, with Les Hite, who also acts as M. C., and his Cotton Club orchestra featuring Lionel Hampton, furnishing the music. Les Hite is a top-notch crooner, sings also, and he is the spot in the revue which includes Eddie Anderson, Johnny Taylor, Rutledge and Taylor and Patsy Hunter. Dudley Dickerson, the dancing fool, the Three Ebony Steppers and Sue Hay. The popular fan dance number of the Creole beauty chorus is a riot and the best-ever floor show put on at Frank Sebastian's Cotton Club.

Curt Houck Is California's Successor to Phil Harris

With Phil Harris spending all his time in the East, Curt Houck, who is holding forth with his Catalina Casino orchestra at the Blossom Room in the Hollywood Roosevelt hotel, is a worthy successor to the now famous "Phil"; in fact, if you listen in on the air you may even swear that you are listening to Mr. Harris instead of Mr. Houck. And what is more, Curt can play any instrument in the band, especially the bass fiddle and we would say that on that particular instrument he outshines any other musician we have ever seen or heard. The Blossom Room patronage has been building up by leaps and bounds nightly since Curt Houck has been there, first because he is a real musician and next because he has the most versatile and entertaining group of men playing in his orchestra that are Californians and who give their best at each sitting. The rest of the program is well taken care of by Nita Mitchell, a blues singer, who knows her audiences and who never fails to get a big round of applause after each song rendition. Adele Johnson, too, is winning much favor with Blossomites. The latest newcomer is Phil Coleby, who won a warm spot with the crowd his opening night with his musical offerings. Dave Hutton dropped in and sang a song just to show he still is able to make good at any place. Madonna and Le Macoux, senpeople exotic dancers, round out a very clever and catchy show. Josef Mann is the chief hand-shaker as you enter the door of this beautiful cafe, and he sees to it that you leave happier than you entered.

There is a quartet of entertainers on the Club Ballyhoo program right now in the new show that Frank Hanower, the owner and operator of the popular rendezvous, is offering night life lovers, that smacks of real class. Dorothy Ates, famous singer and dancer, daughter of Roscoe Ates, shares honors with Olive Faye, the latest sensational hit from the Earl Carroll Vanities to come to the West Coast. She is a beauty, sings, dances and plays on a guitar like only she can, and promises to become a great card here. Billy Snyder, aside from being the M. C. of the whole show staged by Jack Lester, puts over some songs and dance numbers that are awe. Little June Earle, the fastest and youngest of dancing stars, makes one think back to the good old days when Ruby Keeler was the Queen of Dancers in good old New York. Ruth Rogers, too, stays on with very interesting and fast stepping tunes. Roscoe Ates' orches-}

Cafe de Paree Celebrates All-Sports Night

Don Toby was the M. C. at the Sportmen's get-together at the Cafe de Paree last Thursday night which was held in honor of Joe Pirrono, who, with Pete Dokos manage this night spot which is gaining a reputation on its own, second to none. The floor show, which is in a class by itself, is headed by Will Moffa and Isabelle Stephens, dancers de luxe, Ross and Crandall, Moana, Olga La Marr, blues singer, Fedder and Beck, dancers, Hal Hedrick, crooner, and Lucille Vernon, a beautiful acrobatic dancer who is worth watching for she will get some place. Melba Carlson all-star orchestra furnished the numbers. Kirk Wilmoth is more than holding his own as regular M. C.

Moulin Rouge Cabaret Offers Unique Entertainment

Moulin Rouge Cabaret, just a few doors north of Hollywood Boulevard, offers unique entertainment in their recently opened night rendezvous. No cover charge. Free parking facilities for all patrons.

Caesar's Makes Many Improvements and Adds Plenty of Patronage

Caesar's, the White Spot, so different, on upper Hollywood boulevard, which caters to patrons who appreciate fine foods and refreshments, and where Johnny Archer goals 'em with songs, dances and smart cracked, Baby Mack, the Creole Queen of Songs is featured, Walter Johnson at the piano, and the Harlem Colored Waiters, is nightly gaining a reputation as a cafe in a class by itself. Here many of the Who's Who in Filmdom are seen nightly, in fact, folks from every walk in life. Shep Kelly is a much loved host and is making friends by the score by looking after their welfare from the minute they arrive until they leave. Caesar's has been renovated and beautified to the point of drawing the attention of all.

Perry's Brass Rail Moves Two Doors East

Perry's Brass Rail cafe is moving a few doors east of their present location, nearer Vine Street. Perry's Brass Rail has an international reputation. It's the meeting place of producers, actors, actresses, writers, directors and others of the stage and screen, and the sporting fraternity make their headquarters. Perry's serves only the best foods on the market, always the finest beverages. It's worth a "mile's" walk to hear and see the "doings" of Perry's Headline Singing Waiters.

Ascot Night Race Postponed to Wednesday, March 14th

Old man weather stymied the racing picture and made it necessary to postpone this week's night race 'til next Wednesday. Fog, fog and then some more fog rolled in from the ocean and dampened the ardor of the fans considerably. Then Al Gordon's car probably could not have been put in racing condition in time for the race and Rex Mays was in low spirits over the deplorable accident at El Centro: so, taking everything into consideration, perhaps it is best that we wait. Herb Balmer, the youngster who has been offering more competition to Al Gordon than that worthy has had for many a race, swears that just as sure as God made little green apples he is going to get on with the next race at Ascot, but is going to win there. There was some rumor that Herb would change cars and drive Gordon's mount—Herb having decided to take a well earned rest from the roar of speeding motors—but that rumor is absolutely unfounded. "I have learned all the peculiarities of my present car and I would be foolish if I took a new one to break in just when I seem to be winning races," remarked the likable Balmer. I agree with you, Herb, and I also hope that you continue to win races. You are a colorful driver and a good showman, good luck! Now, don't forget, next Wednesday night at the Legion Ascot Speedway at 8:30. The Tiffany Twins will be on hand to present the Helmet to the winner of the Dash—there's one to win. You get two kisses instead of one this time. Okay, I'll be seeing you.—Demeree.

HOLLYWOOD LEGION STADIUM

If matchmaker Charley McDonald's raslin cards are as good as the first, there'll be no more dull Monday nights in Hollywood. Last Monday's show ended in a near-riot when Tiger Jack Morgan, after losing on a foul, started to kick the referee and ended up on his back on a sock on the chin. Call it a "show" if you will, for that's just what it was, a good show, full of thrills, which, after all, is what the fans pay for. Lou Mueller was given the main event when Moran went wild. The rest of the card was almost equally exciting. FIGHTS: Georgie H Lansford was lucky to get a draw with Frankie Wallace last week. Two knockdowns by Lansford gave him an even break. Al Trumans decisioned Manuel Victoria. Mide Martinez and Felix Imao fought a whirling draw. Jimmy Wakefield outboxed Joe Skube. Mel Brown, scored over Billy Cooke and Freddy Young took the opener from Bobby Ramirez. COMING: This week Jimmy Donahuje meets Frank Rowsey, Charley McDonald says he has signed Young Terry and will toss sturdy Tom Patrick in there against Mickey Walker. Looks like a big line-up.

OLYMPIC STADIUM

Let's forget last Tuesday's main event. No doubt Tom Gallery wants to forget the awful showing made by Eddie Ceresa against Garcia. Ceresa wanted to lie down in the sixth—and referee Billy Burke tossed him and gave it to Garcia. The rest of the card was almost as bad, with the exception of the Fritzie Zieve-Lloyd Smith go, which was plenty hot. Draw. Bobby Pacho was much too rough and tough for Lou Jallo, 134d General. Padillo smacked a win from Young Speedy and Frankie Castillo trounced Harry Shane. COMING: None other than Tony Canzoneri and Baby Arizmendi—next Tuesday night. Get your seats early for this one, for it is going to be a sell-out. Following, Gallery will present equally good bills, using some of the best men in the game. Lasky, Loughran, Jack Sharkey and others are headed this way, not forgetting lightweight champ Ross. Yes, sir: things are looking up for Messrs. Gallery and Dario—and is that Jack Doyle, too?

"JOE PALOOKA" AT UNITED ARTISTS THEATER

What promises to be one of the funniest comedies of the year is coming to Grauman's United Artists theater next Wednesday, March 14. Edward Small produced this picture which is being released through United Artists. Jimmy Durante heads the all-star cast with Lupe Velez playing the feminine leading role. Those who like rapid-fire talk, clean comedy and plenty of action should be sure and see "Joe Palooka."

NO SHUT-DOWN THIS SUMMER AT FOX STUDIOS . . . Winfield R. Sheehan

INDEPENDENT PRODUCERS MUST OBEY NRA MOVIE CODE" — TREM CARR

SOL. M. WURTZEL HAS PLenty TO KEEP HIM BUSY

Winfield R. Sheehan announced last week that there will be no summer shutdown of the Fox Film studios. Both the Movietone plant in Westwood and the Hollywood studios will be operated at full speed and capacity throughout the spring and summer months in preparation of a big program of 29 new pictures to complete the 1933-34 schedule and begin the 1934-35 list of pictures.

This announcement indicated a definite upturn in business conditions and theater receipts as all production is now financed from funds received from rentals on pictures now playing in the theaters throughout the world. Theater business being a barometer of all business, the outlook is said to be generally most encouraging.

Twenty-four future pictures are included in the new announcement. These are all to be started before the close of the summer, six of them to be put into production within the next four weeks.

Winfield R. Sheehan, vice-president and general manager of production, is personally producing or preparing the following units: “The World Moves On,” featuring Madeleine Carroll and Franchot Tone; Janet Gaynor and Chas. Farrell in “Change of Heart”; “Now I’ll Tell,” by Mrs. Arnold Rothstein; “Marie Galante,” which Henry King will direct from the novel by Jacques Duval, with Ketti Gallian

IN SPITE OF EXTRA COST OF PRODUCTION SAYS CHIEF EXEC.

Drastic action against any of its members who wilfully violate the motion picture industry’s NRA code was promised Thursday night at a meeting of the Independent Motion Picture Producers association, by Trem Carr, president.

Carr stated that it was the belief of the organization that the NRA code deserves a fair trial, in spite of the increased cost on production entailed, and that the organization would not countenance any violation of the code on the part of its membership.

A reception for members of the MPTOA at its convention in Hollywood on April 10, will be held by the independent producers organization. A committee comprising Sam Wolf, chairman, Ken Goldsmith and J. E. Chadwick, was appointed by Carr to make arrangements.

Overtures on behalf of the Screen Writers Guild to negotiate a standard contract for free-lance writers was tabled by the organization for consideration at the next meeting.

The meeting was held at the offices of Mascot Pictures, 6601 Santa Monica Boulevard.

“Rhythm in the Air” Splendid Entertainment with Story, Cast and Direction O. K.

Warner Brothers have been smart enough to show us various phases of life to interest the masses and at last have hit the interior of a radio studio for a subject that will surely interest any audience. Good entertainment woven around a smooth-running story. The yarn, by Paul Finder Moss and Jerry Wald, with excellent screen play by veteran writers, Warren Duff and Harry Sauer, concerns a loud-mouthed radio scout, traveling the country for talent. In his wanderings he comes across a singing wailer who appeals to him as having ability. This young man is taken to New York by the scout. At his own expense, of course. When they reach the big city, the radio manager turns the deal down and both boys are thrown on their own resources which by this time are mighty slim. An amateur composer, one of those regular pests, composes a song that he persuades the young singer to warble at a road house. His manager has tricked the radio officials to attend. This is a huge success and the boy and his manager attain the end they have worked for. Of course, the boy gets his girl who has helped him in his hectic career. This is only a sketch of the clever yarn, so many trifling complications and snatches of genuine humor are interwoven that will provide hearty laughs to any audience. Pat O’Brien was easily the star of the piece with his genuine way of putting over the “radio scout” so cleverly. You’ve seen some of them in real life. Dick Powell has a nice personality and was delightful as the young singer and sang some clever songs that will be whistled on the streets or we are mistaken. Ginger Rogers never looked better nor played more naturally as in the role of the sweetheart of the boy singer. Allen Jenkins put over some real humor with that “dead pan” boy. Grant Mitchell gave a good interpretation of the radio manager and Joe Capron helped the fun along with his Dutch dialect as a sponsor of soap. Joan Wheeler, Johnny Arthur, Henry O’Neill, the Three Radio Rogues in their clever imitations of radio favorites, the Four Mills Brothers, Ted Fio Rito and his delightful band helped to carry the production to success. This list should be enough for anyone’s money and in addition, the music and lyrics of Harry Warren and Al Dubin. The gowns of Orye-Kelly, the art direction of Esdras Hartley, the clever direction of Ray Enright supported by the dialogue direction of Stanley Logan, and the superb photography of Sid Hickox were additional reasons for this picture hit, which we noticed was supervised by Sam Bischoff, a veteran of picture making. Don’t miss “Rhythm in the Air” when you see it advertised, as we assure you many hearty laughs, an interesting yarn, coupled with seasoned players, and well directed. Warner Brothers have provided something this time that should please the most fastidious.

Leon Gordon playing the featured role in “White Cargo” over at the Hollywood Playhouse nights, and working on the script of “Sequoia” for M-G-M in the daytime.

CHUNK FROM 48 ACTRESSES—was the distinction given to Loreta Young in her first role on the screen by Lon Chaney in “Laugh, Clown, Laugh,” for M-G-M. Now she is playing the femme lead with Ronald Colman in “Lady of the Saddle.”

GETS HER CHANCE—of emerging from working clothes, usually assigned to Sylvia Sidney in pictures. “Thirty-day Princess” will see Sylvia in thirteen different frocks, most of them displaying long trains.

FIVE ON THE MARK— as the lovely Goldwyn show girls made a solemn vow that they would never marry until they played real parts. “Strictly Dynamite” released them from their vow. All having small parts.

SET THE WORLD TALKING—a few years ago; now “Sacred and Profane Love” has been assigned Joan Crawford. It is both daring and dramatic and revolves around an artist’s model.

NO MORE ARGUMENTS—so Lilian Harvey will be directed by Hans Schwartz in “Lottery Lover.” This new German director has produced some real hits in Europe recently.

ONE HUNDRED PER CENT PURE—is going some, but M-G-M have decided that the story just suits Jean Harlow for her next production. To get the laughs they have added Pat Sy Kelly from the Hal Roach studios for good measure.

BOB CAME BACK—and if you don’t know what we mean, it is the veteran director Robert Vignola, who has been selected by Larry Darmour to make the “Scarlet Letter” a success.

ROGER PRYOR TAKES THE JOB—vacated by George Raft as leading man to Mae West in the Paramount production, “It Ain’t No Sin.” John Brown plays second man. He was formerly known as Johnny Mack Brown.

NEW DIVORCE WRINKLE—is being tried by Laura La Plante, who fled to Riga, Latvia, recently. Reno, Nevada, will have to take a back seat as this one makes a trip to Europe possible.

SPEAKS THE FIRST LINES—in Mae West’s latest over at Paramount studios, as Jack Mullhall does this and seems quite proud of his distinction, though it is only a minor role.

“SEE MOTION PICTURE STARS”—is no idle boast of the proprietors of the Two Guitars Club near Western avenue. Anna Sten, Princess Gcpilzine and Sandra Rostova were there a few evenings back.

PARAMOUNT THEATER HITS—with Ben Bernie and all his merry men with the capacity audiences giving him a wild reception at the opening. “Congo, Marines” is the feature picture.

“ALL IN THE FOUNTAIN”—as Radio Pictures have the Charles Morgan novel on their hands once more and will produce with Ann Harding, Leslie Howard and Paul Lukas in the leads.

TWO STEP WEDDING—is the latest idea in matrimonial antics when Wilbur Clayton and Gladys Henderson were married to the syncopated strains of Duke Ellington at Paramount studios at high noon.

WAITED FOR 12 YEARS—claims Gus Meins, to have the opportunity of directing “Our Gang” comedies for Hal Roach and at last his wish has been granted and how the kids love Gus!”

WILL ROMANCE INSURANCE BE POPULAR—now that Thelma Todd has started the fad, as she claims she joined the N. R. A. (no more romance), by divorcing her husband? “At least I’m sure of one year,” claims Thelma.

TRISTRAM TUPPER GETS ANOTHER—as Monogram Pictures have assigned this ace writer to scribble “Derby Day,” an original that will go into production in April with W. T. Lackey at the production end.

SEE SMOKE: LOOK FOR FIRE—says Will Rogers of Fox Films, after his return from Washington recently and speaking of the air mail scandal. Will almost settled the vexed question, but he was called back for “Merry Andrews.”

SHE KEEPS HER SECRET—as Rochelle Hudson of Fox Films intends to keep the name of the man she is engaged to all to herself. Too much gossip, says Rochelle, kills any romance.

ANOTHER BABY ACTOR—made his debut in the screen when Leslie Howard Gargau, eight months of age, came before the cameras on the RKO lot in “Of Human Bondage.”

JACK OF ALL TRADES—can well be said of Donald Cook at Columbia studios, as he worked as grocery boy, tried selling bonds, made a stab at stenography, was a bell boy and bank clerk and now a featured player in “Most Precious Thing in Life.”

TWO JOBS AT ONCE—with...
Allen McNeil Says Darryl Zanuck Knows His Cutting of Pictures

Many a good picture is spoiled by the carelessness or ignorance of the cutter, or as they are designated today, the film editor. Meantime Allen McNeil on the United Artists lot a few days back, our conversation naturally turned to the subject nearest to Allen's heart—cutting pictures. He told us that Darryl Zanuck is an excellent cutter as well as a successful producer. His supervision and judgment of cutting is par-excellence and that Mr. Zanuck considered the cutting of a picture to be just as important in the finished production as the direction, story or cast. McNeil recently finished cutting “The House of Rothschild,” starring George Arliss, and made by 20th Century Pictures, Inc., which has turned out to be one of the big hits of the year and McNeil confided to us that he considered it an inspiration to work on their pictures. At present he is cutting “Bull Dog Drummond Strikes Back,” starring Ronald Colman and directed by Roy Del Ruth. Allen McNeil should be a good judge of cutters as his career dates back to the early days of motion pictures. He cut all of the famous pictures of Mabel Normand, Charlie Chaplin and Roscoe Arbuckle as well as a great many of Harold Lloyd’s biggest hits. Other stars for whom he has cut pictures are Mary Pickford, Douglas Fairbanks, John Barrymore, Norma Talmadge, Wallace Beery and Lee Tracy. Twelve of these pictures have had big premises that have resulted in tremendous successes.

JEAN HERSHOLT SIGNS NEW TERM CONTRACT

It wasn’t generally known, but Jean Hersholt was a free-lance player until yesterday. Three days ago, Hersholt’s Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer contract terminated. He became a free-lance, but for three days only, for the studio today gave him a most attractive New Deal. “As a free-lance,” Hersholt smiled, “I worked on the Jean Hersholt Production, cutting and titling the trailer film which I took on my trip to Europe last year.” Hersholt left Wednesday for a 10-day trip to New York with Mrs. Hersholt. He must be back at the M-G-M studios before April 1st—so he intends to crowd as many stage plays into his brief visit as he can.

PRESENTS “DULCY”

Eleoz Olund is to play the lead in “Dulcy,” which is being mounted March 25th at 2 P.M., by the Major School of Dancing at the Majestic theater. Supporting Miss Olund will be Wilbur McConnell, Lillian Lock, Meta Pauline, Robert Wilkinson, Lee Eilden and others. “Dulcy” is one of the cleverest three-act comedies ever written by George Kaufman and Marc Connelly.

Beware of Charity Racketeers Warns Chest

In a statement issued by General Manager D. C. MacWatters of the Los Angeles Community Chest, the public is warned against the pernicious activities of charity racketeers. MacWatters stresses the importance to all persons approached for donations of demanding of solicitors that they first show the Information Card, issued by City Department of Social Service, and prescribed by ordinance in all cases where money is solicited in the name of charity. He explains that these Information Cards show at a glance the percentage of donations that goes to relief, and also the percentage paid to solicitors and promoters. They should not be considered in any case as an endorsement or permit to solicit money. When solicitors fail or refuse to show Information Cards, their names and those of the organizations in whose name solicitations are made, should be obtained and reported to the City Department of Social Service, Los Angeles City Hall, telephone Michigan 5211, Station 2294.

FRANCIS BAKER-SMITH HITTING IN “SWEENEY TODD” AT GREEN ROOM

Francis Baker-Smith is making a great hit in his role as the demon barber in “Sweeney Todd” at the Green Room theater in Hollywood. His villainous role is very well acted. This old time “meller drammer” is packing them in as was evidenced Tuesday evening when the house was completely sold out. Harry Green, comedian, entertained one hundred of his intimate friends and members of the cast of “Bottoms Up,” recently completed Fox production. Two hours of solid entertainment with plenty of beer and pretzels gave Harry’s guests a pleasant evening.

SIDNEY LANFIELD IS TO DIRECT “SONS O’ GUNS” IN ENGLAND

Sidney Lanfield yesterday signed a contract which will take him to England on a three-months assignment to direct the musical production of “Sons o’ Guns,” in which Jack Buchanan and Lily Damita will star for British and Dominion pictures, and which will be released in this country by United Artists. He will leave Hollywood April 9th, the day after which he is scheduled to finish George Arliss’ latest production for 20th Century Pictures, “Head of the Family.” The loanout has been approved by Joseph M. Schenck and Darryl Zanuck, to whose 20th Century company he is under contract. Leonard Praskins, scenario writer of 20th Century, will make the trip with Lanfield to prepare the script of “Sons o’ Guns,” which will have a two-months shooting schedule.

The King’s Club Leaps Into Popularity Over Night

GAIL REINGOLD AND HENRI DE SOTO MAKE A REAL COMEBACK

The good old reliables, Gail Reingold and Henri De Soto, are back in our midst with the famous King’s Club in their new location on Sunset boulevard. These gentlemen have legions of friends in every walk of life; first, because they have always looked after the welfare and comfort of their clientele; second, because they know their business and have done everything that is a credit to their name and business. The best people in town are making the King’s Club their nightly rendezvous; there they dine and enjoy the best in refreshments while there is just enough entertainment to break the spell of silence. For this part of the program Messrs. Reingold and De Soto have such sterling artists as little Miss Mildred Stone, who has oodles of songs that she sings sweetly and a personality and soul that reaches your very heart; the Three Brownies (or is it the Thelma Brown Trio) offer everything in rhythm and song that create ladies can offer at such a high class playset. These charmers are stars on the radio as well and recently played in one of the feature pictures made by Monogram Pictures. It is needless for us to give a list of who goes to the King’s Club, for if you took time to mention names we would have to say “yes” to almost everyone that you brought to our attention, so large is the list of guests that drop in from time to time during the course of a week’s time. What more, they come early and stay late.

MESCALL IS SHOOTING “BLACK CAT”

Johnny Mescall is doing some fine work as cinematographer on Universal’s “Black Cat,” directed by Edgar Ulmer, starring Boris Karloff. When he finished this picture, we are told, he is to have another assignment immediately on the same lot.

Clara Kimball Young Should Be Given an Opportunity to Make a Comeback

When the producers start looking around for a real wholesome and loveable actress for their pictures, we would humbly suggest that they make a test of Clara Kimball Young, she looks as lovely as ever, her voice reacts to the “mike” as good as any of the present-day actresses, and her name is still a by-word with the best people over the civilized world and only needs the proper kind of a vehicle to make a complete comeback in some of our best talkies.

Academy's Comeback

The annual Academy of Motion Picture Arts and Sciences awards have been made and to the victor goes the spoils. However, this year the event meant more for the Academy than it did for those who were honored. It spells the comeback of this worthy organization after one of the greatest acid tests to which anyone has been subjected in the motion picture industry. What happened is past history. What is before them is to be watched with great interest. The men who stood firm in their faith in the Academy of Motion Picture Arts and Sciences are worthy of a word of praise and the support of everyone who is today earning a living in any branch of the art of making pictures. Hollywood Filmograph compliments the Academy and its member for the manner in which they staged the awards banquet Friday night, March 16, in the Fiesta Room of the Ambassador hotel. Right is might; and now that the men behind this institution have proven themselves, it behooves the industry, to the last man, to support them in whatever they attempt to do in the future for the best interests of filmmaking.

Moving Movie Thing by John Hall

Hollywood's various lobbys, ever active in Washington, and now gaining the attention of the Government and many congressmen and senators are begining to sit up and take note over welcome notice of all things pertaining to the motion picture industry.... Representative Dickstein (N. Y.) is sponsoring a bill to limit foreign actors on the big screen, a bitter opposition from Hollywood men born abroad and very rich from American pictures: Men who seem not entirely Americanized. With these men in Rep. Representative Dickstein said: "They are UNPATRIOTTIC and actuated by SELFISH MOTIVES." This is an OFFICIAL view of Hollywood—and is full of DYNAMITE for all concerned.

It is NEWS to the American people and NOT news to those who know and WATCH Hollywood...Patriotism is a gag-line to many of our un-Americanized motion picture people. The "Big Stick" heretofore wielded by those in power in Hollywood IS NO MORE...This is a good thing for all MOD-GULS to remember, else an aroused American public opinion may strike this way... Mr. Samuel Goldwyn very foolishly cracked that, "If foreigners are kept out, Hollywood will be half empty." Mr. Goldwyn may not realize the public reaction to this thoughtless statement... But POLITICIANS, even the people realze its vital significance... A kept press leaps to attack Bishop John J. Cantwell for his criticism of rotten pictures... THIS is dynamite... More than twenty million dollars bow down the Bishop.... A writer, GENE FOWLER, floods the scene with an amazing display of knowledge of the obscenities of sacred and profane literature. It is said he is well known. Perhaps, being well known and thoroughly versed in the obscenities of literature is poor ground for attacking a Bishop. This kind of foundation— the ability to cite literary obscenities and use them to justify rotten pictures... MORE DYNAMITE for men and women of millions of theater patrons... A constructive suggestion for Hollywood is that the producers establish a central Press Bureau of their own through which all NATIONAL publicity shall pass, after being approved by a committee of producers... Otherwise, its own PUBLICITY WILL ruin Hollywood... Mr. Goldwyn's statement, and now this thing from the well-known Gene Fowler, point this need... Dialogue writers are hired to edit the talk in pictures... Hollywood producers need an editor for the stuff they permit to be sent to the country... A recent case is Gary Cooper's (publicity department) thoughts on marriage, which he protested... Clearly, nothing under the sun justifies ridiculing of VIRTUE. Attacked by a Bishop of a powerful church, picture men go right on TAUNTING what is TAUGHT every Sunday School child in America. The blatant asses talking from "Sister Gatherer," "Mother..." TURING VIRTUE, should be SI-LLENced—unless film people DELIBERATELY want us to believe they consider virtue a JOKE.... Eva La Gallienne wrote a book titled "At 33." Her picture on the cover...
John E. Cromwell's Direction of "Spitfire" Is Highlight of Picture

Katharine Hepburn fans will not be disappointed when they see her in "Spitfire." As a wild and illettrate child of nature, with an instinctive faith in the power of prayer, she does some of the best work she has done to date. John Cromwell should be complimented on the manner in which he directed this picture, in less capable hands it could have been a dismal failure. Robert Young and Ralph Bellamy did some good work opposite Miss Hepburn. Some outstanding characterizations were given by Louis Mason, Virginia Howell and Therese Wiltier. Martha Sleeper, Sara Haden, Sidney Toler, High Ghere and John Beck completed the cast. One of the highlights in the picture was the lovely photography by Edward Cronjager. Max Steiner's appropriate musical score also added much to the production. Exhibitors will have to know their audience's reaction to stories dealing with spiritualistic subjects if they want good box-office receipts. This is an RKO-Radio production, produced by Merian C. Cooper.

"DAWN" IS A THRILLING GERMAN PRODUCTION AT THE FILMART THEATER

One of the most remarkable pictures seen in a long while is at the Home of Foreign Pictures this week, and while it is a story of the great war, in this instance it contains a distinctive message for peace. The yarn depicts the various members of a submarine crew with the effects their dangerous work has on their morale and on the other side, their families at home and their reactions. The principal action of the piece takes place around the danger work they are sent out to do. In fact, in one instance, it really shows the destruction of a British cruiser on which the late Lord Kitchener was carried on in his fatal trip to Russia. There has never been such remarkable scenes depicted in any film as the actual firing of the torpedo. The sinking of various ships and finally the destruction of an armed merchant ship by the sub in which the undersea vessel also loses. The players in this film are so realistic that they fill you with compassion. Arnie Sandrock as the broken mother of commander of the sub, Rodolf Foster as the captain, Fritz Genschow as the lieutenant, Hans Liebel as the mayor of the town, Elsa Knott, his daughter and fiancée of the lieutenant, Paul Wernicke as one of the crew as well as his wife, Camilla Spier. All these players are particularly natural in their roles while the direction of Gustav Uickey is remarkable as well as the grand photography of famed Carl Hoffman. This is certainly an epic if anything can be called by such a title and while the story is told in the German language, the superimposed English titles make the story particularly intelligible. If you are in favor of peace and detest the horrors of war be sure to see "Dawn." At any rate, you can witness something different in this picture of the war and its horrors.

Ted Fio Rito Opens Monday at Coconut Grove

Ted Fio Rito and his orchestra open Monday at the Coconut Grove and as an added attraction Veloz and Yolanda, international dancers, will appear at each performance. Guy Lombardo and his Royal Canadians finished March 17. The popularity of Ted Fio Rito will be tested by his return engagement at the Grove, in the meantime Ben L. Frank has plenty of name bands around these parts as opposition to the Fio Rito engagement.

Mary Nash replaces Jobbyna Howland in Universal's "Uncertain Lady." Charlotte Henry lends ingenuous spot in George Arliss' "The Head of the Family."

"Men in White" Clicks with El Capitan Audiences

One of the best staged and directed plays that have been seen here in a long time is "Men in White," now at the El Capitan theater. Henry Duffy is certainly to be congratulated on the choice of an exceptional cast. Roger Pryor, a newcomer from the New York stage, is very talented and is sure to make his mark on the screen. Miriam Jordan gets a chance to prove that she can really emote and handles her role in a sympathetic and charming manner. Henry Kolker, who is also known around these parts, does very well as the senior Doctor of St. George's hospital, where all of the action in the play takes place. Agnes Anderson did an outstanding piece of work as a student nurse who becomes enamoured of one of the officers. The direction and music of the play very capably. The rest of the cast did very well in their respective parts. Here is a play that is sure to go over big with theatergoers.

SID GRAUMAN SIGNS "HOUSE OF ROTHCHILD"

Sid Grauman has signed a contract with Joseph M. Schenck and Darryl Zanuck to book George Arliss' latest and greatest picture, "House of Rothschild," for the Grauman's Chinese theater, starting Tuesday, April 3.

What Could Be Finer Than This M.P.R.F. Rec'd

Miss Marion Davies, president of the Motion Picture Relief Fund, announces that the Fund spent $150,000 last year in alleviating distress caused by illness and unemployment. Aid was extended in 4800 cases, representing approxim-te'v 16,000 persons. $40,000 worth of food was provided to feed about 15 000 people. $20,000 was paid for rents and public utilities, and in any number of cases saved eviction of families from their homes. About 1,000 people received private medical care of which 300 were treated in hospitals, sanitariums and rest homes. Special cases were provided in 150 cases. 100 major operations were performed. The social workers of the fund made approximately 1500 home visits in addition to about 6,000 office interviews. During the Christmas holidays the Fund distributed 1,000 turkey Christmas baskets, and gave a ticket for a Christmas turkey dinner good at several of the best Hollywood restaurants to about 600 single people. The Motion Picture Relief Fund is a private charitable organization supported entirely by members of the motion picture profession, the majority of whom pledge one-half of one per cent, or 50 cents out of each $100.00 of their earnings. The higher paid artists in many cases make a lump sum contribution for the year exceeding one-half of one per cent of their annual earnings. Preparations are under way for the prosecution of an intensive campaign among the more fortunate members of the industry to raise funds for relief work this year so that the Fund can continue to make good the slogan: "The Motion Picture People take care of Their Own." The officers of the Fund are: Marion Davies, president; Fred W. Beetsom, chairman of the executive committee; Ronald Colman, first vice-president; Mary Pickford, second vice-president; Will H. Hays, third vice-president; Samuel Goldwyn, fourth vice-president; M. C. Levee, treasurer, and Francis X. Baur, executive secretary.

PRETTY FIGURES

According to reports of a well-known New York statistical organization the average movie attendance averaged 60,000,000 paid admissions every week during the year of 1933. The total capitalization in the picture industry totaled $1,700,000,000. Cost of production totaled about $100,000,000, and gross intake totaled $1,000,000,000. Which all goes to show that the industry SHOULD BE on a good footing financially. Figures don't lie. Gross revenue of a billion dollars per year against a total investment capital of a near two billion dollars is a pretty good ratio.

NANCY GATES, A BUD MURRAY PUPIL, IN “TOGETHER AGAIN”

Nancy Gates, cute little four-year-old, a pupil and patroon of the Bud Murray School for Stage and Screen, received her initial picture engagement, having just appeared in “Together Again,” a Maury Cohen Invincible picture. This youngster, while being an accomplished actress, is a very competent tap dancer, having appeared in many Bud Murray stage programs.

ACADEMY OF MOTION PICTURE ARTS AND SCIENCES MAKES ‘32-’33 AWARDS

By Harry Burns

Time does not permit us to go into details about the awards made by the Academy of Motion Picture Arts and Sciences at a banquet in the First Room of the Ambassador hotel, Friday evening, March 16. However, we will state that to Will Rogers should go the trophy for being the true Ambassador of Good Will, for he stood on his feet for almost two hours and kept the great crowd chuckling with glee as he presented the diplomas and statu-ettes to the winners. Academy Pres-ident Reed presided and Vice-President Howard Green made a sterling speech for the defense of the Academy. Frank Lloyd, too, made a speech which rang true with sincerity. All in all it was one of the finest events that has ever been staged by the motion picture industry. Winfield R. Sheehan ac-cepted the statuette for the best pro-duction, “Cavalcade,” for Fox Films B. B. Kahanee acted for Katharine Hepburn and accepted in her name the statuette for the best performance of the year in “Morning Glory,” an RKO-Radio picture. Charles Laugh-ton being in England, his statuette for the best acting role of the year stood on the table at the finish awaiting the winner, but no one represented him. Frank Capra, George Cukor, Paul Muni and Leslie Howard were paid tributes as the runners up for first honors among the men, and Diana Wyn-

The Truth and Nothing but the Truth
By Vivian Denton

"HA, HA, HAW"

IT happened here in Hollywood a few days ago . . . an ex-Capone lad blew into town from Chicago, with a brief-case under one arm, and a grim determination in his heart to go straight . . . The brief-case contained manuscripts written during an enforced government vacation . . .

A certain male star whom the lad had helped in said star's not so starry days invited our visitor from the "Windy-City" to luncheon on the lot . . . Mr. X arrived looking dapper and gay, brief-case under his arm, his poker face a trifle pale . . . Mr. Male Star greeted him effusively, meanwhile eying the aforementioned case with apprehension . . .

Whilst seated in the Commissary at luncheon the manager of a certain female blonde sensation walked in, he spotted our star and his guest and his usually ruled complexion turned the color of St. Peter's robe . . . he took one look turned on his heels and fled, and never stopped running till he reached his protege's dressing room . . . He whispered in her shell-pink ear, and she blanched, under her heavy make-up and bollered for help . . . while she marked time till the bodyguards arrived, the aforesaid manager paced up and out the dressing-room—watching the return of the male star to his dressing room which adjoined hers . . .

At last they arrived, Mr. X was now chatting volubly and our Star had a look of relief on his face, for he now knew the contents of the brief-case . . . Mr. Manager straightened his tie and approached them, before the star could introduce his little boy friend, Mr. Manager spoke his little piece—"Don't I know you?" he asked archly.

"No," quoted our visitor coldly, "I'm sure you don't.

"But yes, didn't we meet in Colosimo's in Chicago?"

"Not!" emphatically lied the visitor getting red behind the ears, "I've never met you." Then reaching for his watch, he studied the time, excused himself and walked to his host's office, and without further ado, literally flew across the lot, and out of the studio, an hour later he was on the "Flyer" homeward bound to Chicago, the brief-case still under his arm . . .

Now laugh and laugh heartily.

The Male Star thought he'd come to shake him down — Mr. Manager thought he'd come to kill his Golden Goose, who cackled too much recently.

The Manager feared that Mr. Manager would put the finger on him and his true identity would be discovered.

And after all, my friends, all he wanted was a chance to go straight, and peddle a few—just a few "scripts".

"VARIED IMPRESSIONS" (of the past week).

The Sweet and unspoiled charm of Claudia Dell . . . the smiling non-chalance of Lewel (Courage) Candler . . . Ruby Keeler's warm heart . . . Joe E. Brown's patience with the autograph hounds . . . Charlie Starret's friendliness . . . Doug Dumbrille's well-deserved break . . . Jack Kearn's memory . . . the innate refinement of the winning-dance team at the Blossom Room . . . Curt Houch's immaculate appearance, Larry Adler's temperament . . . The Modernistic bar at the King's Club . . . Dynamic Arthur Vinton, a brilliant raconteur . . . meeting Carl Brason, one of the most charming gentleman ever brought to Hollywood . . . The courtesy of the Captain at Sebastian's . . . The Walker Twins, mere babies, shyly offering me beady beads to wear at the premiere of "Wonderbar" . . . Dick, I think it was made the presentation . . . and speaking of "Twins" the many good deeds of the Coleman Twins of Ye Olde Mark Twain Hostelry . . . and last but not least, my own private Impression of Old Man Flu . . .

"MEWS AND PURRS"

There is plenty of dissension among the cameramen, sound workers and technicians — It seems that some of the higher-ups have failed to fully understand, just what the N.R.A. stands for —

Mr. Executive, when you stamped your releases with "Members of the N.R.A." did you know what your pledge to our President meant, "More work and more pay," or perhaps you understood it to be "Longer hours and less earning pow" (C). There is a spreading under-current of discontent, Mr. Executive . . . Are you prepared to take the consequences of your negligence in failing to live up to your pledge.

Why don't the studios give jobs to the girls who are forced out of work through the illness of an important member of the cast? — it seems that these girls are not under contract for the duration of the picture but depend on their daily pay to carry them through —

Recently a female star in a production still shooting was ordered home for a week on the advice of her physician —

The extras engaged had to sit home and twiddle their thumbs, and await the Star's return — This procedure is outrageous, some of those kids support large families and all they could show for that particular week was five dollars —

Changing titles of pictures after previews is the latest gag of producers to avoid press-slams on bad pictures — This is just as Gag-a as buying "Best-Sellers" and changing titles to what they think is a better box-office come-on for the public to bite on. When will Producers learn that the word "Camouflage" is obsolete —

Oh me, oh my when the Labor-Board gets through issuing new licenses to agents and personal representatives, the chauvinists and sidewalk so-called agents will be out of luck — This will be a blessing to producers and workers within the studios —

The only "Purr" this week goes to Dave Allen of Central Casting, who is seeing it that more of the old-timers get a wee bit o' work — This past week we've glimpsed many busily employed —

"BIT'S O' THIS AN' THAT"

Cora Sue Collins is a very literary young lady according to the very nice young librarian in charge of Hollywood P. L. L. Juvenile division . . .

Many hearty cheers for Bob Walker. The gallant seventeen year old son of genial "Al" Walker of Nicholason fame for his grand gesture in offering to give a blood transfusion to his buddy, James ("Jimmie") Nicholson who was badly hurt in an auto accident Sunday last . . .

Bob is a grand lad, a swell football player and a gentleman in the old id not hesitate to give up his precious study period to travel out to the Santa Monica Hospital and donate his blood to save Jimmy's life . . .

Bob is a grand lad, a swell football player and a gentleman in the making . . .

It is not generally known in these parts that artist Henry Clay is, really Clive O'Hara, son of the greatest Surgeon the World ever knew, Dr. Henry O'Hara of Melbourne (Australia) . . .

Sax Rohmer, who writes those ducky little bed-time stories (ugh) was once a composer of low comedy songs, the type that was featured by that famous English comedianess "Daisy Harcourt" who by the way is living in New York City, she would be a wow in pictures . . .

I really do enjoy young Sydney Miller's capable M. C. 'ing on Dr. Marney's Marco program on Saturday P.M. This lad has a grand future ahead of him . . .

WARM WELCOME GREET'S RETURN OF "WHITE CARGO"
(Hollywood Playhouse)

E. E. Clive presented Leon Gordon in "White Cargo" Thursday night, to a well-filled house. Gordon has not lost any of his zest for the role of "Witzel," his portrayal of the "man who stays and conquers the infernal monotony of the West Coast of Africa," was a flawless piece of acting. The play is well cast, especially worthy of mention are Wallis Clark as the old doctor, Gerald Rogers as Arthur and Ben Taggart as the jolly old skipper. "Nadja," who portrays Toneleylo, the only woman in the cast, was cute and impish, but failed to be convincing. The set was effective and special mention should be given to the lighting. All in all, it was a good show. Among the first-nighters glimpsed were John Barrymore, Dolores Costello, Earl Carroll, Tom Rooney, the Eleven Carroll Beauties, Alice Joyce, Ernst Lubitsch and many other well-known screen stars.

Singing and Dancing to Great Success Nightly —

June Earle . . . Club Ballyhoo — Thanks to FRANK HANOER
At a recent party staged at one of the exclusive playspots, Carl Brisson, the famous Danish star, met some of Hollywood's best known satellites and broke bread with them. We give you a view this week of one of the happy groups—Arline Judge, Ernest Lubitsch, Sharon Lynn and Carl Brisson—caught by our faithful photographer, Hyman Fink. Mr. Brisson has just finished his first American picture, "Murder in the Vanities," the Earl Carroll-Paramount musical in which he has a nice part with an all-star cast and the Earl Carroll Beattles the main attraction.

Beverly Wilshire Gold Room Becomes Mecca for Southland's Elite

Every night is a get-together evening for Southland's elite at the Beverly Wilshire hotel Gold Room, where Carol Lofner and his orchestra are the stellar attraction. As an added feature, there are a number of crooners who come in for no end of applause. WE SAW Jack Warner giving a party to about 20 the other evening. Among those at the table were Bebe Daniels, Ben Lyon, Sharon Lynn, Benjamin Glazer, Maureen O'Sullivan, John Farrow and many others of note. Nearby we noticed Mr. and Mrs. Archie Mayo, Spencer Tracy and Loretta Young, Edgar Alan Woolf, Monroe Owsley, Mahlon Hamilton, Walter Futter, Billy and Ella Wickersham, the Harrison Carrolls, Jules White, Lillian Miles, Chas. Feldman, Charles Furbush and many others of equal note. The Gold Room is the most restful and peaceful place in California as far as cafes go, and General Manager Jannings knows how to cater to the best people who make this place their dine and dance place whenever they want to get away from the run of places that are bidding for their patronage.

SARDI'S AS POPULAR AS EVER

Dick, the new door boy at Sardi's restaurant, told us they had a busy week. For instance, Constance Cummings and her mother dined there just before sailing for England. Alan Dinehart and his lovely redheaded wife, Mozelle Britton, are regular customers. Helen Mack, Sylvia Sidney and B. P. Schulberg, Charles Murray and his partner, George Sidney and a large party of friends and Lee Tracy with his fiancee, Isablul Jewell, were a few others that Dick had the pleasure of noting on the little book this smart boy keeps of the famous names that enter the silver doors of this noted restaurant.

CZAR'S FORMER COOK CHEF AT CASINO CAFE

Entertainment is offered with meals at moderate prices at the Casino Cafe, on Yucca St., according to Max Amsterdam, proprietor. The chef is Pierre La Collos, a Belgian, who formerly cooked for the late Czar of Russia, and eastern millionaires. Among the entertainers is Leonard Stevens, pianist and song writer, who turned out the hit "I Faw Down and Go Boom" and "A Dime in My Pocket." Mr. Amsterdam, who played for ten years with the Los Angeles Philharmonic orchestra, plays his violin nightly at the cafe. Gypsy Clarke, actress, is hostess.

ASSISTS ARCHIE

Dave Thompson, Jr., is assisting Archie Buchanan, production manager, on the Monogram pictures at the Western Service studios.

Caesar's Have to Turn 'Em Away Nightly; Colored Entertainers Prove Crowd Pleasers

Shep Kelly will not have to worry about where his next meal is coming from for some time. Nightly he is forced to turn people away from his popular rendezvous, Caesar's, located right in the heart of Hollywood, where he has one of the most unique playspots which is visited by the best people from every walk in life and of stage and screen. Walter Johnson, ace colored pianist, whoops things up for Babe Mack, Queen of Song. Here is bunch of creole loveliness that is worth watching and listening to. Then there is Johnny Horace famous funmaker, and many others. The crowds are coming early and staying late, in fact, many of them meet the milkman on his route in the A. M. as they are going home.

MARCHETTI'S PLAYS HOST

Bert Wheeler presided at the after-theater dinner at Marchetti's, the cafe, elite on Wilshire boulevard, last Friday night and announced that he and Nate Stein of the John Considine office have taken unto themselves a well-weathered box, Eddie Volk of Portland, Oregon. At the same cafe Donald Ogden Stewart entertained a group of friends for luncheon recently. At another table Ralph Summerville, Olympiad officials, presided as a host to a group of ten. Marchetti's is gaining a name as a backer for fine foods.

Roosevelt Hotel to Open Roof Garden; Curt Houck Continues to Please in Blossom Room

Dave Boice, general manager of the Roosevelt hotel, is going to reopen the roof garden this year, and every Thursday they will do their best to get their audiences there to hear and see the artists. It will be an open-air affair, and the patrons of the hotel can enter their lunches in this beautiful spot. Every Thursday Houck and his Catalina Casino orchestra are still the star attraction in the Blossom Room where he and his boys put on one of the best all-around dance programs nightly, with Nita Mitchell, Adele Johnson, Phil Cobey and Modie and La Maux.

CLUB FLAMINGO

The Club Flamingo on Hollywood boulevard, is the playspot for late night prowlers who make it their late stand on their rounds to see 'once' more the artists from the other nite spots who make the Club Flamingo their "Home," do a turn or sing a song, and 'hearing' Sam Young's singing which is so different, with Jud Kline at the piano. Kline's piano playing should receive top billing.

Duke Ellington and Orchestra Open April Fifth at Sebastian's Cotton Club

Frank Sebastian once more is making a ten-strike in candelabrum by signing Duke Ellington and his great orchestra. Colored Kings of Rhythm and Jazz, for a limited engagement starting April 5. At this time Snake Hips Tucker and Ivy Anderson, famous colored entertainers, will be added to the Broomfield and Greedy new revue. At present the creole show, staged by these famous entertainers, reveals the hottest and best singing and dancing aggregation collected together; the creole beauty chorus is the best that ever stepped on the Cotton Club floor; then there is Martelle Collins, the hottest and most daring dancing darling that we have ever set our optics on. Octavia Sumer, who is one of the surpises of the show, starts out by singing a blues song and winds up by showing more pep and life than the best of 'em show who are much younger than she is. Sue Hoy sings and acts in accord with the high class and lends much to the doing. Patsy Hunter makes a nice come-back. Eddie Anderson, Three Ebony Steppers, Rutledge and Taylor, Dudley Dickerson and Les Hite's orchestra round out the show.

Colored Entertainers Stage Good Show at Moulin Rouge

The Moulin Rouge Cabaret entertainers continue to please patrons at this interesting night spot on Fountain Ave., just north of Hollywood Boulevard. Hazel Jones, versatile ebony singer and dancer, formerly of the Cotton Club, is an exotic little number, and adds zest to the delicious steak dinners featured by Babe and Bryan Hensley, managers of Moulin Rouge. Billed at the cabaret are two Harlem gals who offer unique dancing numbers. Excellent food and amusing entertainment, a double feature at Moulin Rouge.

SIGNS FOR SEVEN YEARS

Paul Parry signed for seven years with Fox Films. They saw him in one of his recent pictures and had him sign on the dotted line.
Kelly Petillo Wins Main Event at Ascot Speedway — Next Race Wednesday Night, March 21

Although Rex Mays stepped out and annexed the Helmet Dash last Wednesday night at the Legion Ascot Speedway, Kelly Petillo was right on his exhaust pipe all the way. Was Rex's face red when the Tiffany Twins appeared on the track to present him with the Helmet and the KISSES? Petillo took the lead in the first turn of the main event and was never headed from then on. Rex tried, as only Rex can, but his motor failed him early in the race and then it was easy going for Kelly. Even so, Kelly did a beautiful bit of driving—rather reminding us of the way he drove about four years ago, when he was the King of Ascot Speedway. We wonder if this win won't break the jinx that has been riding on Kelly's exhaust pipe for so long. Nice going Kelly—we'll be watching you next Wednesday night. So much enthusiasm was evidenced by race fans over the stock car road race at Mines Field, that the Ascot Speedway officials have decided to stage a 200-mile stock car race on April 15th. The track will be run over and around the hills surrounding the present track. Work on the new track has already started. All types of stock cars are to be entered, with no limit as to cubic inch displacement and we believe, for that reason, that it will be a much more thrilling event than the recent 'Ford' race. Don't forget—another thrilling race will be staged at the Legion Ascot Speedway next Wednesday night, March 21st.

ERNIE TRIPLETT AND MELVA

Some time ago the late Ernie Triplett won the Italian Helmet Dash at Ascot Speedway. He was honored by Melva, of the famous dance team of Sorel and Melva. He was indeed a happy man that day for he beat the field all the way in almost every event in which he raced. His true, clean sportsmanship will be missed not only by ever American Legionnaire who has supported the Legion Ascot Speedway, but also by every red-blooded American who loves clean sport.

Mystic Theatre Opens Thursday Night

Sunset Boulevard will be the scene of a grand and glorious opening Thursday evening, March 22nd, when the Mystic Theatre opens its doors to the public with a variety of space, gaiety and entertainment. Henry Seymour and his Yukon River Sourdough band will furnish the rhythm. Valli, nationally known magician will put on an entertaining act, and Eleanor Morris will provide a singing harmonizing number. Beer, sourdough biscuits and barbecued meat will be served opening night.

Oakley Legion Stadium

Looks like the Hollywood Legionnaires, guided by Manager Charley McDonald, are going to make a success of mixing rasslin' with the Legion Monday night shows at the Legion are the berries. Mueller, German rassler, tossed Dr. Mullikan last Monday, which same makes him top man at Hollywood. "Tiger" Jack Morgan, toe biter king, is the picturesque bone breaker. All in all, the Legion shows are worth seeing. Drop in; you'll enjoy them. TO ACTORS: Don't miss this show; every facial expression known to man can be studied. BOXING: oh, yes; the usual Friday night bouts are staged, and good ones. Last week Frank Rowsey took the nod over Billy Donahue. Late in the go Donahue started tossing rights and had Mr. Rowsey teetering, but it was too late; Frank had the edge. Johnny Yasul decisioned Mark Diaz, bolo man from the Philippines. Sailor Jack Ward stopped Gene Brooks. Jimmy Frewitt won from Young Speedy, but Referee Gilmore gave it to Speedy. Red Wolfe decisioned Will Jabara and Jesse Corral took the opener from Joe Tambe. As usual, the house was full, no news at Hollywood.

Olympic Stadium

Lou Daro, Jack Doyle and Tom Gallery were happy men last Tuesday night. Instead of long rows of vacant seats, they proudly gazed upon a multitude of equally happy fans, solidly packing the vast auditorium for the first time in many moons. The house was a complete sell-out. All of Hollywood was there, many who have not seen a fight in ages. In the promenade the walls were thickly covered with the pictures of athletes of today and yesterdays, all from the private collection of Lou Daro. In the ring Uncle Tom Carey, dean of Western fight promoters, was introduced to the crowd and received a rousing cheer. Lee Rammage, Art Lasky and Jimmy McLarrin took a big hand and Frankie Wallace, who challenged the winner of the main event, was acclaimed. It was a brilliant evening. The big attraction, little Tony Canzoneri, master boxer, was given a great reception when he followed Arizmendi, his Mexican challenger, into the ring. THE FIGHT: Well, what did you expect? Briefly, Tony gave Arizmendi a boxing lesson. From start to finish, the Mexican was in there taking them—and coming right back for more. He was game; oh, yes. But he was facing class far beyond his ken. Let it be said that Tony is a sportsman. Many times he held his mitt when he might have struck. Without extending himself, he was satisfied to cuff Arizmendi with a straight left and a lightning-like right cross. The Mexican had an even break in but two rounds—if one wants to be generous. Referee George Blake faced an easy decision. Canzoneri, still young, holds his place as first challenger for his lost title. Leo Kelly slugged his way to a win over Don Conn in the semi. Artie Duran and Fred Young broke even in the special. Domingo Lopez decisioned Tommy Santos. Walter Frederick stopped Nish Kerkorian and Frankie Castillo took the opener from Jimmy Uchida: Frankie Van, referee. NEXT WEEK: Another big one. Lee Rammage, game, clever heavy from San Diego, meets Art Lasky. If Lasky can get over this boy he'll be in line for the title. Just now Rammage is going great, having ended a very successful Eastern invasion.

George McManus Is Honored at St. Patrick's Dinner by Masquers

Thursday evening the Masquers Club was decorated in the finest array of decorations in honor of St. Patrick's Day and at the same time pay homage to George McManus. It was a very inspiring night with Harlequin Joe E. Brown, as well as ex-Harlequins Sam Hardy, Antonio Moreno and Mitchell Lewis in attendance. The gathering was turned over to William Collier, Sr., who acted as toastmaster. It was a great night for Irish wit. The first was a word duel between William Collier, Sr., and William C. Frawley, followed by William Conklin who cited some of his experiences. Lyle Talbot bowed out politely after admitting that he went Hollywood a long time ago owing to the fact that his grandmother's name was Hollywood. Joseph Scott made one of his stinging speeches. Lew Fields recited a heart-throb poem. Charlie Murray panicked 'em with some witty stories. William C. Frawley sang some songs including "Mammy," which was written by his accompanist, Walter Donaldson. The laugh hit of the night was Joe Cunningham, who ribbed everything that happened during the evening in such a clever manner that he ran away with the show. Dick Powell sang some Irish songs to great applause, accompanied by Arthur Franklin on the piano. George McManus closed the affair with some witty remarks and wrote fins to one of the Masquers' most delightful evenings.

FREE-FOR-ALL FIGHT BETWEEN PRODUCERS AND CRAFTS HURTS BIZ

Culver City Lot Will Prove Great Help to Workers

If there is any letting up of industry in any other business, it looks as if the motion picture industry never heard of it. At least, that is what it seemed to us on a recent visit to the M-G-M Studios in Culver City, where a construction program, including the erection of sixteen three room suites for their famous stars, an emergency hospital, a dental emergency building and a fire station, all under way.

In addition to these marvelous changes, twenty-four pictures are to be in production within the next month. This was the welcome announcement given us after Nicholas M. Schenck, Louis B. Mayer, Irving Thalberg, and the other executives at this major studio, got through with their conference recently.

The modern suites for the stars, with facilities for the protection of valuable wardrobe and other luxurious accommodations, are provided for the lucky ones under contract to the studios.

Not forgetting that the feeding of their players is an important item, the commissary is to be enlarged for the thousands expected to be employed during the Spring rush. Also the Casting Department, and the Film Vaults are to be bigger and grander than ever.

A few of the names on the roster of this famed organization that are to be benefited by the changes are: Norma Shearer, Marion Davies, Lionel Barrymore, Joan Crawford, etc.

DORIS LLOYD

The amusement world offers many very capable character actresses. Doris Lloyd is one that commands attention with the best of them in every role that she enacts on stage and screen.

It is High Time That Something is Done to Call a Halt

The free-for-all fight that is still raging between the producers and the various crafts guilds of the industry is holding back the progress of the business, getting back to normal. This is true in every branch, because people are not playing fair with one another and are trying to drive home bargains that in time will cripple the very heart of the work they are striving to improve their present earning capacity in, and will in time sound the death knell of the very industry that is making possible their living and working under happier conditions.

The NRA is striving to be the mediator, but we find too many dictators in line ready to prove that without them the motion picture industry would fail. They are not half as important as they think they are, and if they will just let their own personal feelings go to the four winds and work for the betterment of conditions and bring about a better understanding between employers and employees, they will be doing a service to the very interests that they are supposed to serve, and to the amusement world, which will benefit by viewing better pictures.

TERRY DANZLER BACK

Terry Danzler is back from Shanghai, China, where he and his band have been playing to about 3,900 night club followers. He expects to make a tie-up shortly with one of the amusement centers in the Southland.

M. B. PAUL
Lido Apts., 6500 Yucca
Phone HO-2961 for Appointment
THE HIGH PEAK is now being hit at Paramount Studios, with employment at high gear. Seventeen pictures in various stages of work, and six more planned in two weeks. Scores of extras and bit players are now playing their background.

TOOK FIFTEEN MINUTES to catch a pose of Sylvia Sidney while she bobbed around in the Paramount commissary, where she is all dressed royalty for her production of "Thirty Day Princess." The still camera man was almost dizzy.

HIS FIRST PICTURE as Director, will show his wife, Dolores, and baby, making a screen appearance, now that John Barrymore has decided to produce and direct a picture of his travels on many lands and seas.

"THE LIFE OF VIRGIE WINTERS"—taken from a series of short stories by Louis Bromfield, will serve Ann Harding as her next vehicle for RKO Pictures. The star is one that is just built for the star and will shortly start in production.

BARRYMORE AND KRUGER are two more famous names added to the roster of "Treasure Island," the Robert Louis Stevenson classic, at the M-G-M Studios, with Hunt Stromberg in charge of the production.

ACADEMY'S BEST ACTOR—Charles Laughton was assigned to play the role of the elder Barrett in "The Barrett's of Wimpole Street," by Irving Thalberg, for the M-G-M Studios, with Norma Shearer in the star role.

HOLLYWOOD GETS THEM ALL—as Ethel Merman was offered $3500 a week at Radio City's Music Hall in New York, but turned it down to accept fifty per cent less at Paramount Studios for a chance at the flickers.

THE MOST BEAUTIFUL GIRLS are claimed by most of the studios, but Albertina Rasch affirms that her glamorous ballet numbers in the "Merry Widow" will far surpass all others for pulchritude.

MOST FAMOUS COLLEGE in all the world is soon to be the locale of a screen production, since Louis B. Mayer decided to film "Manners Make Men," an original by Johnny Conside, who was at the University.

WHAT WILL BING CROSBY DO now that his golf partner, boating companion and fishing pal, Richard Arlen, is Europe bound. Mrs. Bing also loses her bridge partner for her daily contract game, that Mrs. Dick knew so well.

JUST BEFORE THE BABY COMES—Frances Dee is making her last fling at pictures with her appearance in "Of Human Bondage" for RKO Pictures. Her fine work in "Finishing School" made her invaluable to Leslie Howard.

OVERCOME WITH DELIGHT was Gail Patrick, scrutinizing Southern beauty, when she was told to leave for New York, and go into one of the best plays of the season. Just finished "Murder in the Studio" for Columbia Pictures.

DE MILLE SAYS IT'S THE BEER that has put all the bay windows on the men since prohibition went out, as he has had great trouble in picking trim, stalwart men to act as Roman Legionnaires in his production of "Cleopatra."

HER PAST CATCHES UP as Carl Brisson, of Paramount Studios, claims he gave Greta Garbo her first chance on the stage, and she acknowledges that she had a crush on handsome Carl and presented him a bunch of violets at the stage door in Sweden.

"MELODY IN SPRING" DISTINCT HITS FOR DIRECTOR McLEOD AND LANNY ROSS, A NEWCOMER.

There is one thing certain—Lanny Ross, the young singer, will certainly forge rapidly to the front if they give him half a chance, with his lovely lyric voice and splendid personality. Here is a light, lyrical offering that has a refreshing atmosphere and is a real treat. The yarn concerns a young singer who takes strenuous means of getting on a certain radio programme, by pursuing the daughter of the sponsor, a manufacturer of soap, and eventually wins by his efforts. The setting is charming, and Lewis Gensler, who wrote the catchy music, with Harlan Thompson adding his talents to the lyrics, being in a great measure responsible for carrying the production to success.

"The Milling Song" and the one of "The Open Road" will probably be whistled on the streets, and Lanny Ross is delightful with his lovely singing voice, and with one or two more pictures to mellow his acting ability, we predict he will go further than any crooner who preceded him.

Of course, anything that Charlie Ruggles and Mary Boland are in may be of delivering delightful comedy, and they do not disappoint in this one. George Meekler is splendid as a rival to the crooner, with Herman Bing delivering something distinctive as the inn keeper. Ann Sothern we have not seen before, but her path should be easy on the cinema ladder if she keeps going like she did in this production. The Gale Triplets fit nicely into the general scheme of things, with Norma Mitchell and Helen Lynd adding delightful bits. Frank Leon Smith is responsible for a delightful story, with much good comedy interspersed by Benn W. Levy delivering a splendid adaptation. Special awards should be given to Hans Drier and Bernard Herzhorn for their fine art direction, and Henry Sharp, who added greatly to the pictorial beauty of the whole with his splendid photography.

Norman McLeod gave just the right light, frothy touch to the direction, coupled with some real lifting music and the general atmosphere of the production, getting that much wanted "word of mouth advertising" that is the showman's delight, to carry this one to success.

NAUGHTY GIRLS GET IT, claims Bette Davis, who says that the sweet and gentle girl of the screen does not get the eye of the public. Always the naughty ones win. Of course, Bette avers, only for the screen does this work.

ALL IN FOUR YEARS came the great success of Lionel Barrymore, who is almost ready to celebrate his twenty-fifth year on the screen. Recently he made a personal appearance tour for M-G-M Studios that went over big.

"NO MORE LADIES" is the title of a play purchased by M-G-M for a screen vehicle for their latest star for the screen, Lucille Watson, from the New York stage. The elegant Franch-Tone will help Lucille succeed in her first.

Norma Shearer is Superb in “Rip Tide”—Robert Montgomery, Herbert Marshall Also Score

Irving G. Thalberg brought home another winner for M-G-M and Norma Shearer in “Rip Tide,” written and directed by Edmund Goulding. Miss Shearer is superb in this picture, and is ably supported by Robert Montgomery and Herbert Marshall, with Mrs. Patrick Campbell quite a surprise as a future screen prospect. Others who came through with nice and even performances were Skeets Gallagher, Lilyan Tashman, Ralph Forbes, George K. Arthur, Helen Jerome Eddy, Baby Marilyn Spinner, Phyllis Coogan, Earl Oxford, Arthur Jarrett, Howard Chaldecott and Halliwell Hobbes. The musical score was by Herbert Stothart, recording by Douglas Shearer, art direction by Alexander Tolubuff and Fredric Hope. Special credit is due Adrian for Norma Shearer’s gowns and Ray June for his beautiful photography. Also the editing work of Margaret Booth.

Wallace Beery Thrills Picture-goers with His Performance in “Viva Villa” at Preview

Wallace Beery never had a role that will make picture theatre-goers remember his work in long after he is gone as he does in “Viva Villa,” his latest M-G-M super production, produced by David O. Selznick, that was so excellently directed by Jack Conway. Aside from the star you can mark up credits for six players that help in a great measure to hold the interest created by the star. They are Leo Carrillo, Henry B. Walthal, Stuart Erwin, Fay Wray, George E. Stone and Joseph Schildkraut. Others who will command attention are Donald Cook, Katherine De Mille, Phillip Cooper, David Durand, Francis X. Bushman, Jr., George Regas, Frank Foglia, Adrian Rosley, Pedro Regas, Henry Armetta and many others who have small but good parts. The battle scenes and the mas gatherings of the various factions and the bandit raids are gems as far as building dramatic interest is concerned. The photography work of James Wong Howe and Charles G. Clarke are worthy of special mention, as is the art work of Harry Oliver, Herbert Stothart musical score, recording by Douglas Shearer and editing by Robert J. Kern. In closing let us give great credit to Ben Hecht for the screen play, suggested by the book by Edgcomb Pinchon and O. B. Stade.

Shim Shams of 1934 Open April 26 at Music Box

Moe Morton is lining up a great show (Shim Shams of 1934) for the Music Box opening April 26, starring Jack Osterman, Gene Sheldon, Bernie and Walker, Peggy Montgomery and many others. Dave Gould is staging the dances and some of the most famous song writers are writing the music and lyrics.

Benny Baker Signs with Roach

We said some time ago that some wise producer would sign Benny Baker to a long term contract. Well, Hal Roach has gone and done it, and before Benny starts there he is to do a picture at Columbia Studios. Benny used to be Lou Holtz’s stooge. He subbed one night for Lou at the Masquers revel. We spotted him and made this prediction.

J. C. Woolf Leaves Freeman Lang

J. C. Woolf has resigned from the Freeman Lang organization, his resignation being accepted by the Board of Directors. Mr. Woolf was the manager of California Studios, formerly operated by Freeman Lang. It is understood that Mr. Woolf is leaving the motion picture business, and his former employers’ wish him success in his new ventures.
THE ASSISTANTS ROLL OF HONOR

There were seven assistant directors given honor diplomas at the Academy of Motion Picture Arts and Sciences awards banquet dinner, who are worthy of special mention at this time, because this is the first time that the "Assistants" have ever really been recognized by the industry as a part of the scheme of making pictures, although these men have been the pin wheel men of those responsible for the success or failure of many a great picture produced on the West Coast. So we place the following men's names on the honor roll of 1934: WILLIAM TUMMELL, CHARLES DORIAN, DEWEY STARKEY, FRED FOX, CHARLES BARTON, SCOTT M. BEALL, GORDON HOLLINGSHEAD—and of course every assistant director in every nook and corner who helped to make pictures what they are today. Ye Editor feels the urge to pay this tribute to the ASSISTANTS because we ourselves served the industry in the self-same capacity years ago, and finally had the honor of being elected Players Stockton, following to office after Scott M. Beall served his term. Lest you already know, this organization was the first of its kind in the motion picture industry.

"The Vidor Outlook"

Today, King Vidor is just as optimistic as he was many years ago when he borrowed a small moving picture camera from his friend, a chauffeur in Houston, Texas, to take pictures of 11,000 troops who were ordered from Houston to Galveston to embark from Vera Cruz, that marked the beginning of his career in motion pictures.

In an interview granted this writer on the United Artists lot, Mr. Vidor stated that his first picture under his own banner would be "Our Daily Bread." This will launch him as an independent producer releasing through U. A. "I feel," he said, "that big business methods are all that handicaps pictures right now. Producers working for the major studios have much to contend with. And furthermore, he added: "I'm out to break away from the eternal cycles, the copying of style standardization."

In the past it has been the King Vidor Productions, sponsored by a contractual company—today it is "King Vidor Productions," sponsored by King Vidor.

The day has come, the spell of the cycle has broken, and King Vidor steps out alone, unafraid and unhampered by big business methods. He is courageous and his optimism stands out like a bright star, shining through the darkest night.

If Mr. Vidor can keep his promise and supply the exhibitors with well-directed, original and interesting pictures, he will no doubt find a responsive public, for we are sorely in need of something new and somewhat different, as the appetites of Mr. and Mrs. Public have become jaded. Perhaps Mr. Vidor is the answer to the movie-lover's prayer, and a new era in production is in the making.

"Dictaphoney"

Not so many moons ago, a European scout for a major studio bought a story in London for a new star sensation, here. The story was typically English and most of the dialogue was Cockney and its comedy value was lost because of the failure of the story editor to translate it into "Americanese."

The buyer was nonplussed—he felt he had something! So he sent for a lassie whom he knew was familiar with Cockney "slangage" and asked her if she would read the script and translate the whole thing as she read, so his bosses could get the drift. He promised in return that she should work on the screen adaptation later. She agreed, and so one afternoon she hied herself over to the studio in question and settled herself down for the reading.

Silence reigned supreme while the girl read the aforementioned script slowly and carefully, translating as she read. At the finish she was thanked and taken over to the commissary for tea—she left the studio with promises of much work later.

A few days pass, and the girl is having luncheon with a friend at a well-known Vine Street restaurant. Much to her surprise she hears her name mentioned in the next booth—she paused to listen. To her horror, she learned from the ensuing conversation that she had been duped and that her entire reading and clever translation had been recorded "dictaphonically" and all for profuse thanks, badly made tea and a lot of empty promises.

NOTE: The proofs of the above story are in my possession, and another recurrence of same will produce names.

TRIBUTE

It is with heartfelt regret that this writer hears of the passing of Lilyan Tashman. Very few knew or understood Lilyan. She was one of the most-natured souls in filmland, and many of her generous gestures never reached the pages of our local papers, or crept into columnist's corners. She preferred her charitable deeds to be kept a secret, but I know of several people just recently who owe their life and soul to Lilyan's kindness. To Edmund Lowe, goes my deepest sympathy in the loss of his wife and only sweetheart, and we who loved Lilyan as a pal will miss her.

Lorette Hurley Makes Her Debut

Before a carefully selected group of patrons and patronesses of the Drama, Miss Lorette Hurley, well-known in the East, made her Western debut at the Hollywood Studio Club.

She works along the lines of Ruth Draper, and was especially good in some of her lighter characterizations. "The Doctor's Secretary" and "Talking Pictures" were extremely well done and her opening number, "At the Post Office," was a typical familiar scene that evoked gales of laughter from the audience.

Miss Hurley is piquant and charming, and her enunciation perfect; it was indeed a treat to listen to her English—each word stood out alone and could be heard in the farthest corner of the theatre.

Those of us who saw and enjoyed Lorette predict a brilliant future for her.

Julia Ellsworth Ford is Back in Hollywood

Hollywood once more harbors Julia Ellsworth Ford, famous authoress and lover of children of stage and screen. When last here she staged her own children's play, "Snickety Nick," with some of the best known cinema kiddies. Eddie Buzzell acted as M. C. and was relieved by Jack Oakie and Dick Powell.

Ascot Speedway Races Please Fans With Day Races

The popularity of the Ascot Speedway races seems to go up by leaps and bounds, for the American Legionnaires no more than switched from the Wednesday night races to the Sunday afternoon contests than the public showed their approval in a greater measure by a larger attendance than they had expected, although the races have been drawing in a big way. The races have been more thrilling than ever, and the contestants have been fighting for very inch of the way to the final lap. Many stage and screen stars have been giving away the helmets for the Italian Helmet Dash, while the great crowd looking on includes many celebs from both stages, rubbing shoulders with Southland's society bags, and folks from every walk of civic life.

Governor James Rolph, Jr., Should Grant Voice of People by Forcing Racing Commission Into Action

It is high time that Governor James Rolph, Jr., took a hand into this horse racing delay brought about by the Racing Board Commission, over which Carleton Burke is Chairman. The people voted to allow horse racing in the State. This would keep in California millions of dollars that now reach the coffers of the Caliente, Mexico, crowd. Commissioner Carleton Burke, for his own reasons, has seen fit to delay the granting of permits and thus help the various clubs who stood ready to build tracks here, from going ahead with their plans. As soon as Governor Rolph is able to take up his duties in Sacramento he should call in the Racing Board Commission and force them to take action or change the board to a body of men who will do as they have been ordered by the people of the State of California through an election authorized to the citizenry of this good old United States.

Hollywood Legion Stadium

Johnny Indriassino took Pearl Whitehead into camp last Friday night. The Italian from Boston lived up to his advance notices by giving Whitehead a boxing lesson and coaxing to the finish an easy winner. Too much class for the local boy. Olympic Auditorium

Darro, Gallery and Jack Doyle packed the big Olympic with their second big show headed by Art Lasky and Lee Ramage. Every seat was sold and hundreds were turned away, offering any price for a ticket. The go was hot from start to finish—and what a furore the decision by Abe Roth raised! The little referee was greeted by the loudest, longest and bitterest boos ever heard in any arena in this man’s town. COMING: Tuesday, Nite Pacheco meets Barney Ross, lightweight and junior welter champion. This one should be another sell-out. The Olympic seems definitely out of the red, as other equally important matches are in the offing.

Experts in Child Training

Although the Rainbow Studios has been in operation only a few weeks, upon entering the doors one immediately senses the atmosphere of real activity. Indeed, it seems that their work of training children for motion pictures is assuming a position of greater importance than ever before in the history of motion pictures. Ethel Gray and Marcel Scheroder have complete charge of this work. Miss Gray says that regardless of how clever or attractive a child may be, preliminary training in motion picture technique is necessary, as it teaches a child dramatic values, while physical culture, voice, enunciation and dance training give the pose and ability to express and make values visible and register to others. While the ability to act as directed is necessary, naturalness of action must be retained for success in pictures. The staff of five teachers brought together by Rainbow Studios is composed of experts in child training, each in their own branch. Several groups of children are being coached at the present time to fill calls from the studios. The Dalcroze method of Eurythmics, used in this studio, is proving remarkably successful in developing and imparting the idea of rhythm to children. Grace, naturalness and understanding are stressed in the complete course offered, while special coaching is given to both children and adults to suit individual requirements.

PATRICIA (Patty) BROWN

Patricia Brown, child actress, who was chosen with fifteen other children from a group of several hundred by Earl Carroll, New York producer of "Vanities," is making her debut in motion pictures, and according to reports is scheduled for some good breaks. She was chosen with several others in a beauty contest.

Inside Information
Has It That Big Shake-up is Coming Soon

There is plenty of trouble and worry ahead for some of the big shots in Filmland, if some of the plans afoot in Washington go through. It appears that the powers that be are out to go gunning for one of the biggest men in film circles, and if this works out, you will be surprised beyond words, for the political wheels will then start working and the whole movie map will be changed with some of those now in power being shorn of it. You will also find President Roosevelt wielding the big stick, and the result will be that a man not even heard of will be appointed the Dictator of the motion-picture industry.

This may all sound like a wild story, but we have it from very good authority that this plan has been developing slowly but surely, and when it has matured to the point where it is practical and will stand the acid test of time, the first bombshell will be exploded. That will call for many others, and you will see plenty of executives running for cover. Right now the handwriting is on the wall, and the minute it reaches the right of way over other investigations that are being made as to the financial earning and status of the higher ups in Filmland, this very thing that we are talking about will come to life, and things will start to happen. So get ready for the fireworks display very soon.

HAROLD LLOYD
Cinema theatregoers are anxiously awaiting Harold Lloyd's next screen offering "The Catspaw," which he is producing at present under the direction of Sam Taylor. Fox Films are handling the release of this fun-film; that we are told promises to be one of the famous funmaker's best efforts since the talkies came to life.

Whole Procedure is Seen to be Nothing But a Farce

NRA was intended to make more work and to increase the earning capacity of the workers, but today, right in our midst, the Extra Committee is about to cut down the list of day players from 17,000 to 1,500. This will do nothing but make a farce out of the whole problem and will be in keeping with what was started when Alan Garcia and Frank Woods went to Washington and so filled Deputy Administrator Sol Rosenblatt's mind with the sins of the industry, as far as the way the extras were being treated, that the code was drafted, and the result is the extras are worse off today than they ever were. The committee, right now trying to cut down the list of the extras who should be employed, are doing so against all that is fair and square and will disrupt the business all the more, and if you ask us, it is a restraint of trade and illegal. If Mr. Garcia is such a friend of the extras, why does he continue to work as an extra? for years he was Charlie Chaplin's assistant director, and we understand may again resume this post when the famous comedian starts his next picture.

Extras can't take an assistant director's job, nor any other craftsman's position, but assistants take extra jobs. Alan Garcia, unable to live up to his promises that he made when the extras with their hard earned dollars sent him to the Capitol to represent them, is now taking a hand in telling those who should leave this

"GLAMOUR"

ONE OF THE BEST FROM UNIVERSAL WITH SPLENDID ENTERTAINMENT VALUES—WILLIAM WYLER'S DIRECTION EXCELLENT

Edna Ferber certainly knows humanity, with all its frailties, and Dorothy Anderson caught the spirit of the story by her fine screen play, with Gladys Unger making a smooth continuity to match. B. P. Zeislman clearly showed his valuable knowledge along producing lines with his happy choice of director and perfectly fitted cast to interpret the story.

The yarn concerns a young, ambitious chorus girl who decides to get out of the rut and pursues the author of the play so successfully that she not only reaches the pinnacle of leading lady but marries the author. There is a child by this union that seems to cement their perfect understanding of each other, but like many marriages, there is a "fly in the ointment" in the person of a young and handsome singer that the couple meet in a cafe. The young wife is so enamoured by this handsome singer that she persuades the author to make him the leading man in the company, playing opposite her, the result being, of course, love developing between them and the wife leaving her husband and joining the singer. Of course, there is only one ending to such a situation, especially when she finds her young lover is only a counterfeit and it was only glamour that made her see differently. When she finds out her mistake she returns to her author-husband and child.

William Wyler, the director, handled his players so naturally that the preview audience was enthralled with the story and vociferous applause greeted the end of the piece. Constance Cummings was lovely and sympathetic in the difficult role of the woman torn between her real and artificial self, while Paul Lukas gave the character of the playwright the necessary dignity to carry the story along so successfully. Philip Reed, a newcomer to the screen, should advance rapidly in his chosen profession if this one is a sample of his work, as he not only is handsome, but has fine screen presence and a delightful voice that he uses in one of the catchiest musical numbers. Joseph Cawthorn can always be depended upon to deliver something unusual in anything he attempts and he handles the role of manager with skill and understanding. Doris Lloyd, Olaf Hytten, Jessie McAllister and Alice Lake fit perfectly into minor roles.

George Robinson provided splendid photography. Charles D. Hall supplied beautiful sets. Sam K. Wineland's music and Ted Kent, with the supervision of Maurice Pivar, showed skill with the editing of the film. In other words, from start to finish, this production is good entertainment that should register heavily at the box office of any theatre.

Face Slapper and Hair Puller is the latest characterization that Ann Sothern, Columbia's newest discovery, in her new picture, "Red Head Cat," a yarn of a society dame with a temper, but Robert Armstrong gets the girl down at last.

Three finished in a week at Columbia Studios, with "20th Century," featuring John Barrymore and Carole Lombard; "Party's Over," with Stu Erwin and Ann Sothern; and "The Most Precious Thing in Life" all ready for public approval.

Blood Thirsty and Rough is the character of Bill Tyrone that Lionel Barrymore will interpret in the screen version of the Robert Louis Stevenson epic, "Treasure Island," that Victor Fleming is getting under way at M-G-M.

She Must Stay, so M-G-M signed blonde and beautiful Mariel Evans to a brand new contract. Her best known roles are in "Dancing Lady," "Broadway to Hollywood," "Made On Broadway" and "Skyscraper Souls."

"The Captain Hates the Sea" should be a good one for Lewis Milestone as his first effort for Columbia pictures now that the Soviet picture is in the discard. This new yarn is full of action that Millie Etter.

Passing Around the Cigars is the usual thing done by the doting father when the baby arrives, and Frank Capra was busy at the task last week on the advent of a 71/2-pound new director. Capra bet on a girl but a boy arrived.

Two Pictures at Once were assigned to Ada Cavell, recent recruit from the New York stage to RKO pictures. One of them was "Sour Grapes," with Clive Brook and Diana Wynyard, and the other "Murder on the Blackboard."

Do You Weigh 160 Pounds—If so, and are a young girl with dancing ability, no fat, plenty of curves and a good singing voice, a good job awaits you in Mae West's present picture, "It Ain't No Sin." Get in line, girls.

Must You Commit Suicide to break into the movies these days?

That is exactly what a young girl did and failed. Earl Carroll heard of it and sent for the girl to make a test for Paramount pictures.

Cotton Evening Gowns are now the rage with the young ones of the screen, as Evelyn Venable, Helen Mack, Frances Drake and Gracie Allen, of Paramount pictures, all wear them recently at swanky evening affairs.

Play in a Small Theatre seems to work out successfully for some, as Steffi Duna, Chicago Hungarian actress of the Tingle Tangle Theatre, got a long term contract at the RKO Studios after executives saw her work.

Star rank at last awarded Warner Baxter, of Fox Films, as Winfield Sheehan announces Warner's name will head the film in future productions. His splendid work in "Stand Up and Cheer" did the trick.

Girls of all Nations now adorn the walls of the Café de Paris in the Sun Room of the café in Movietone City. The Art Directors have sketched so far the American girl, English, Magyar peasant, Chickoslovak, French, Spanish, Bavarian and Javanese.

Giving Him the Once Over was just what Janet Gaynor was doing to Charlie Farrell when she was required to shave him on the set at Fox Studios and was Charlie nervous, but Janet handled the flattering razor like a veteran. A Trip on the Ocean should be just the right thing for Alice Faye as her new opus will be "She Learned About Sailors," with Sol Wurtzel picking out Nick Foran to play opposite the blonde discovery of Rudy Vallee.

ED W. ROWLAND
By ARTHUR WENZEL

The sad death of Ed W. Rowland, famous old time producer of stage plays, who was responsible for the building and early successful management of the Hollywood Play House, brings vivid thoughts to those who have followed the trend of the drama for the past thirty years, of the deceased showman's great ability as a producer. Together with Ed Clifford, he formed the producing firm of Rowland and Clifford, and through many years actually had as many as 300 stage plays "on the road." Several companies of "The Rosary" played every big city and every hamlet in the country, while numerous companies of "East Lynne," "The Millionaire Tramp," "September Morn," "Rock of Ages," "Little Mother," "Little Mother To Be," "Phantom Detective," and countless others, and rich and poor, the college bred and the illiterates alike, enjoyed these red-blooded plays. The hand that signed many now famous actors to contracts calling for 52 consecutive weeks "on the road"; the mind that sought and signed for hundreds of plays, assembled the countless casts and then mapped out tours that took them literally to every nook and corner of America, is forever still.

Ed Rowland was buried in Hollywood Cemetery Friday at 2:00 p.m. Burr McIntosh delivered the eulogy in the chapel. Lovers of the spoken drama and the stage itself have lost a friend.

WHY WORRY?

The main trouble these days is that people worry themselves sick about what they believe is their misfortune in being unable to sit on top of the world, far above any of their friends, relatives, or what have you. If the truth was known, they are WELL OFF, better than they realize, until they look around and find some one not faring so well, right at their very feet. This very subject, along came Sarah Padden, that beloved character actress of stage and screen, and she gave us the key to the whole situation. "Why Worry?" she said. Continuing along these lines, she revealed these facts: "We have a place to lay our heads, something to eat, with success right around the corner. Yes, sirree, we are sitting on top of the world!" What a nice way of putting it, and HOW TRUE.

So we repeat, WHY WORRY? It will only hasten our very end, make old men and women of us, and we really can not do a single thing to change it, EXCEPT by refusing to see these so-called conditions and troubles. We can look away from the root of all this evil, we are bound to be as happy and contented as any human being should be in this good old world. So, WHY WORRY?

"Why can't we get in? We're the fans! We are the ones who make these stars famous!"—Asserting what is right in thought, a hole in New York mob yelled this as it tore the orchids from Mary Pickford's coat—and almost tore the coat from her body—as she tried to leave the bier of Lila-yan Tashman. Polite reserves fought the mob as picture stars looked on in fright, fearful of being mauled by their frenzied "admirers." This is the monster Holly- wood plays—with the monster that one minute takes the famous to its bosom and the next lops off their heads. Create mob psychology—and answer to the mob. And this is but ONE of the Impenetrables we have tried to point out to our picture "Greats." Playing with the MINDS of men can be very DANGEROUS. Hollywood publicity, much of it created and written by untrained minds, causes scenes like the one in New York, with its violence and DEMANDS. The mob demanded its RIGHT because it had CREATED the fame that overshadowed the dead star. It felt it OWNED the right to look upon what it had CREATED. It thought it had the RIGHT to rip these fums from Mary Pickford. It DID. . . . The living Mary Pickford, weeping for the dead Lila-yan Tashman, was crushed and bat- tered, and took quick refuge in an auto not her own—any place to escape from Hollywood's VERY OWN silly publicity-created Frankenstein. . . . The MINDS of the mob were aflame with a big itching upon the THEATRICAL greatness, passing with each day's sun. A glory sharing the fate of all ephemera . . . The LURE causing more heartbreaks than any other thing—and less REAL fame. . . . It is a realization of these things the "Greats" of Hollywood—if they seek ultimate peace and happiness—must come to own . . . They must come to know the MINDS of the man, the end, even in the presence of death, stirred to frenzy by propaganda, that thing which Holly- wood calls "publicity," always OWNS what it creates. And in the end own- ership is asserted . . . Defined, the Mob enthusiastically rips the orchids from this the "Great." . . . And this is done in a spirit of RIGHT to destroy what it created . . . Maybe these thoughts will bear to all concerned a suggestion; what the Mob is after the worst.

Observation says Hollywood will not heed; seems incapable of heeding. Hollywood is—Hollywood—American money, invested abroad, makes possible two "lost causes" and "The Private Life of King Henry VIII," both foreign stories, one made in England. "Little Women," the best, is American. . . . This is a dubious sort of patriotism. . . . An appreciation of the best in ART wel- comes a good picture, regardless of origin. . . . An appreciation of our nice big DEPRESSION dictates that it is the STERN DUTY of all producers to make ALL their own best pictures at home, employing American actors . . . There is much phoney ballyhoo about Art in pictures, and the situation is not without plenty of sadistic hu-

Facing importation regulations, producers scream ART! In their stud- ies they WORSHIP the COMMER- CIAL DIRECTOR. Menaced by Fed- eral domination they screech to the gods that picture-making is a BUSI- NESS! Regardless of these things, producers owe it to the country to SPEND THEIR MONEY HERE.

IN HOLLYWOOD NOW
BY BUD MURRAY

The biggest opening IN HOL- LYWOOD NOW (Ripley It or Not), and there was "Tingle Tangle Theatre," "Wonder Bar" at Warner's, and Kruegerth at the Philharmonic Thea- tre, and none other than TED LEWIS at the Paramount Theatre, handicap- ped by the world's worst picture (never mind the name)—So it proved that "CLASS A" stage shows, as depicted by the one and only TED (our old playwright)—His Band this time is aug- mented, and play like "soothing dance musikers"—His talent is "perfect" and presented in real showmanship style, with TED on the stage 1 hour, and "NEVER A DULL MOMENT."—After seeing some of the other stage shows, for the past year IN HOLLYWOOD, this is like "The rejuvenation of the Stage," and TED LEWIS in PERSON is alone responsible—IN HOLLY- WOOD NOW.

To the Kreutzer-Paige concert—When people will pay $25.7 for a seat and sell out, for a very mediocre pro- gram—Not that Kreutzer isn't a dancer or an artist—He is a real arti- stie, but in this program he had one or two at the most entertaining dances, which were original at the same time—His partner, Ruth Page, whom we have seen many times, years ago, in N.Y. Broadway shows, was out of place with Kreutzer, and yet she too, is an artist—It was like "oil and water," this combination—NO GO—We noticed Pert Kelton, screen- comedian, and Gladys Ahern, vaude- ville actress and dancer—Also Pert's mentor, Charles Beyer, agent de luxe —Mary Frances Taylor, the ballerina and dance teacher—Jesse Lasky, the motion picture producer—Alice White, with one of the "chic-iest" chapeaus we have seen in some time (no, we're not going in for fashions yet)—Mr. Behymer in the lobby all agog, and no wonder (SRO)—Jean Parker, Wampas girl—and that's all, IN HOLLYWOOD NOW.—Doc Kears opens his Dance Marathon April 4th at the Winter Garden, and you must come over to HOLLYWOOD, NOW.
Have You a Little Starlet in Your Home?

A big salute to Norman Manning, of the Fox Studios (Promotion Department), for his grand gesture of the past week.

On Tuesday, March 27th, in Judge Blake's court, Norman and his charming wife, in celebration of their ninth wedding anniversary, adopted the orphaned daughter of Mrs. Manning's sister, who passed away recently. So Norman, who in the past has directed five Wampas Frolics, several motion picture electrical pages, and in addition supervised several Olympic Games, was personal representative of Jack Warner and most recently took entire charge of the arrangements of this year's Academy Ball—became the proud Daddy of June Naomi Manning, age eight.

Whilst the confirments of the Wampas were picking the new crop of screen sirens, Norman was picking his own little Starlet, in whose sunny presence he and Mrs. Manning will bask for the rest of their lives.

There are many others who are financially able to follow Norman Manning's example, and, oh, so many lovely little starlets looking for two loving sponsors to guide them to stardom per medium of a happy home and the love and care of a loving Dad and Mom.

"Music is Moosic That Comes From Berlin"

Who said that? I haven't time just now to look it up in my Who's Who—but it seems to me that with Duke Ellington's "Hot Off the Griddle" orchestra going into the movies and "punny" Ben Bernie in town for the same purpose, Ted Lewis making everybody happy, Hal Grayson at the Orpheum, and Lil' ole Catalina Island has awakened to the fact that big-name bands mean something and is searching for headline baton wielders to star at the principal hotels and cafes this coming summer. That's not to Berlin we turn for tuneful melodies—Music is here, right here in Cinemaland.

Varied Impressions (of the Past Week)

Mae West's T. D. an' handsome bodyguard, the one on the left ... Menia Kennedy's red hair ... Phil (Wampas) Gersdorff's smile ... Jack La Rue's impish grin ... Al Romero's fighting technique ... Rosalie Stewart's amazing aptitude for work ... the genial manager of the Writer's Club (commissary) ... Hal Le Roy's dancing ... Wilma Cox's grand disposition ... Max Amsterdam's violin playing at the cozy Casino Café ... and last but not least my own private impression of fly-by-night so-called trade papers whose sponsors literally have lifted the entire front and back covers of an old standard weekly that has been in existence for fifteen years.

In the Name of Sweet Charity

It certainly did my heart good to see Bing Crosby at the recent Temple Israel Benefit. This grand trouper, who turns down thousands of dollars for public appearances, and who dislikes too much limelight, did not consider himself when asked to appear on the bill. Not only did he keep his word and make his appearance, but together with Charles Butterworth and Frank McHugh, took time to plan and rehearse and costume an act that was a remarkable imitation of the Buswell sisters. The act stopped the snow cold and was one of the highlights of a grand program.

Me-ow!

Imitation might be the sincerest form of flattery, but in my opinion many of these corner-grabbers in our local dailies should be doing plain and fancy dressing. I'll bet that when the great M. C. (Master Commentator) of them all reads some of the "Bu-bu-blabs" he wishes he'd have stuck to his dancing.

Threshold Theatre To Open Soon

Threshold Experimental Theatre, a new Little Theatre, for the production of original plays and as showcase for film talent, has been organized by William D. Russell. The new group has taken over the theatre on Robertson Boulevard, formerly operated by the Beverly Hills Community Players. Russell, who will direct the productions, was for several years associated with Oliver Hinsdell in the Dallas Little Theatre. He recently directed "Snow in August at the Pasadena Community Playhouse. The play is being considered for purchase by M-G-M. The first production, yet to be selected, will open on or about April 16th. Both amateur and professional casts will be used.

Capable Artist

CONSTANCE PURDY

Those who have seen Miss Constance Purdy in her versatile role as Mrs. Lovett in "Sweeney Todd," now playing its fifth hilarious week at the Green Room Theatre on El Centro, will admit that her capable acting is a blended mixture of comedy and drama well done in every respect. Miss Purdy hails from Santa Barbara, where she won acclaim in "Three Cornered Moon," playing the role of Mrs. Rimpelgar. She was formerly a concert singer in the East and sang Russian opera in Paris. Miss Purdy speaks French, Russian, Italian and German fluently. Between scenes in "Sweeney Todd" Miss Purdy renders several singing numbers that bring down the house with laughter. She truly is a capable artist.

ROBARE DeLONG

Robare DeLong, head of DeLong Make-Up Studios on Sunset Boulevard, leaves for New York by plane this week-end, where he is to make arrangements for new equipment for his Hollywood laboratory due to expansion of business and the demand of DeLong cosmetics, not only locally but from Australia and England, as well. Mr. DeLong is preparing to have his products on the open market shortly. Here is an organization that is forging right ahead due to good make-up merchandise.

GOOD LUCK, BETTY!

Betty Blythe, statuesque star of the silent era, has just finished an important role in Monogram's picture, "Money Means Nothing," with Wallace Ford and Gloria Shea. Christie Cabanne directed.

Tamblyn Wins Another Chance

Eddie Tamblyn, who made such a hit as the little coxswain in "The Sweetheart of Sigma Chi," returned to Monogram for his second assignment with an important role in "Money Means Nothing," with Wallace Ford and Gloria Shea. Tamblyn and Cabanne directed.

Silver King and His Movie Revue Prepare for Tour

Silver King, the $50,000 movie dog, is to be featured in a unit which will take to the road with an all-star variety of acts. Those signed by Arthur Butler, owner of Silver King, are the Two Jacksons, Valerie Venice, Gresham and Blake, and the Three McCarthy Sisters. Another feature will be the Gould Twins, who will handle a hair dress feature in the foyers of the theatres as an added attraction.

New Song Writer in Hollywood

Monte Tivon, song writer, has composed several new musical numbers, among which are "Fantasia," modern love lyric; "Romaine," a love lyric with a catchy melody; "Black Freedom," a negro spiritual; and "When You're Near," a fox trot. Mr. Tivon comes from a musical family, is versatile in his music, and with these interesting numbers which he has composed should encounter no difficulty in gaining recognition for his composition.

The Beverly Wilshire Gold Room

The Beverly Wilshire Hotel Gold Room is housing Carol Lofner and his Orchestra. Ever since this aggregation came back to the West Coast, they have been improving by leaps and bounds and are now classed as one of the best developed musical organizations that has been turned out as a Los Angeles product in years. Carol Lofner at one time shared honors with Phil Harris under the firm name of Lofner-Harris Orchestra. Phil used to hit the trap drums while Carol led the orchestra from the piano. Things have changed, and Phil and Carol are now keen rivals.

Green Lantern Inn

Offering the home cooked food that never fails to please the most critical lovers of the right kind of food, the Green Lantern Inn, located on Hollywood Boulevard, between Gower and Bronson, is attracting quite a bit of attention with its lunches and dinners. Particularly on Sunday, when there is available a special turkey, chicken or steak dinner at the most reasonable prices offered by any of the places in the heart of Hollywood. Many of the stage and screen celebs are commencing to make this place their regular dining spot.

Sloppy Joe's

The talk of the world is "Sloppy Joe's", located opposite the Warner Bros. Studios on Sunset Boulevard. This place is exactly like the one that travelers from all parts of the world visit in Havana, Cuba. Johnny Keyes, former Mayor of New York's Chinatown, is manager and owner of the Southland Sloppy Joe's, and has Frankie Gallagher, one of the best crooners in town, singing to his heart's content and the entire satisfaction of the visitors. You can drop into Sloppy Joe's any time during the night or the wee hours of the morning, and find some of the most unique entertainers, sort of an impromptu show, put on by some of the guests who make this place either their first or last stop during a night of visiting the cafes and beer gardens in and around Hollywood.

The Three Little Pigs Inn

The Three Little Pig's Inn on North LaBrea is enjoying unprecedented popularity owing to the good food prepared by Lillian Glaser, the Gregor Smaroff girl revue and Lou Singer's ace dance orchestra, according to Mark M. Hansen and Harold Herond, owners. The Saturday afternoon dancers are attracting the elite of filmdom as well as social circles, it is said. Among the spectacular acts seen in the Smaroff girl revue are the Milanes Sisters, who arrived direct from Havana, Cuba, where they appeared for a solid year, it is announced.

Sebastian's Cotton Club

Frank Sebastian is not to be outdone by any of the theatres or cafes when it comes to engaging name bands, for he has Duke Ellington opening at his Cotton Club April 5. He will follow this band in with Ted Lewis and his Orchestra, and will then bring Cab Calloway in for a run following Ted Lewis, and what he will top this with remains to be seen. Right now Frank Sebastian offers Les Hite and his Cotton Club Recording Orchestra, featuring Lionel Hampton, the ace trap drummer, and the Broomfield-Greesly all-star colored revue. Outside of New York's Harlem, we doubt if such a great line-up of talent has ever been gotten together under one roof.

Otto E. Brooks is the head waiter, with about six snappy captains aiding him in keeping everybody happy from the minute they enter Sebastian's Cotton Club, to their saying good night. Mr. Brooks is a very fine and cultured gentleman who loves to serve the guests the best in the land in food and refreshments, while Frank Sebastian looks after the business entertainment and music end to a nicety.

Gus Arnheim and Jay Whidden in Bay City

Jay Whidden and his Orchestra are at the Mark Hopkins Hotel, while Gus Arnheim and his musical organization are holding down the spot in the St. Francis Hotel in the Bay City. Both are reported meeting with fine success.

MARCH 31, 1934

The King's Club

No matter whatever time you drop in at The King's Club, you are apt to run into your best friends enjoying this beautiful rendezvous that has made a great name for the food and refreshments that is second to none. The King's Club has four rooms, the finest stage and screen stars and executives. The Three Brownies (Thelma Brown Trio), colored entertainers extraordinary, share honors with Mildred Stone, a cute and captivating damsel who sings her way right into your heart and makes you applaud harder than you have in some time in some of the best shows.

The Russian Eagle

Among those who have made early reservations for General Lodjinsky's unique Russian Eagle Easter Breakfast are Marlene Dietrich and her husband, Rudolph Sieber; Ivan Lebedeff and Wera Engels; the John Monk Saunders (Pay Wray); Mae Clarke and Sidney Blackmer. An important feature of the menu will be a special Russian recipe Easter cake.

Marguerita Lucille Tops Fine Show at Cafe De Paree

Marguerita Lucille, formerly of the Lucille Sisters, named as vaudeville stars, is the headliner at the Cafe De Paree, where Pete Dokos and his associate, Joe Pirrone, have lined up an entirely new show, which includes six beauties who sing and dance; George Boyce, a singing and dancing comic; Ken Wilmarth as M. C.; and Morie Carlson's Orchestra. The signing of Marguerita Lucille by Cafe De Paree is a ten-strike, first because this charming little lady has an appealing and pleasing voice that is one hundred per cent perfect for the radio, stage or cafe floor. Secondly, because she has quite a following among the stage and screen stars and executives, and third, but far by not the least, Messrs. Dokos and Pirrone have placed an excellent all-star show on the same program with Miss Lucille, and have done all this without any raise in prices. Wednesday night we heard Miss Lucille sing to a packed audience and the applause was gladening to the songstress' heart, for in the audience were many cinema stars, sportsmen, and folks from well known society families. Marguerita was forced to have her sister, who was in the audience, sing their last big hit, "Stormy Weather," as an added attraction. Among those we spotted were Jack La Rue, Mr. and Mrs. Vince Barnett, John Kelly, Lucille Collins, Eddie Prinz, Pie Traynor, third baseman of the Pittsburgh ball team, and just as we were leaving we learned that Miss Jean Parker was giving a birthday party for about twenty of her friends, and all were having a great time.

Cesar's

When it comes to offering unique colored entertainment Shep Kelly, at Cesar's located in the heart of Hollywood, knows what the public likes, for he has at this time the finest quartet of floor entertainers any playspot harbors. The show they put on is never the same from one program to another, for they are the most willing performers to give the public whatever they request. Babe Mack, Johnny Horace and their aides are very much in evidence. When it comes to food and refreshments, Cesar's slogan, "You Name It and We Will Serve It," just about tells the whole story of what is in store for those making this their dining place in Hollywood, day or night.

Sardi's

Sardi's in Hollywood is making a name for itself that cannot easily be erased from the memory of those visiting this famous cafe. Day after day there can be seen sitting at the tables many notable tourists who visit Hollywood especially to dine at Sardi's and mingle with the Who's Who of filmland. Sardi's is noted for its fine foods and beverages the world over.
Hollywood Legion Stadium

Referee George Blake made a hairline decision at Hollywood last week when he gave Georgie Honsford a decision over Frankie Wallace. It was close—and packed with action. Honsford was down for a four count in the fourth, taking nine, but he came back, battling furiously, and took the lead. Wallace started fast, running away with the first four rounds. The knockdown in the fourth spurred Honsford to desperation and he went in to do or die. Wallace took the seventh, his last good round, and Honsford slugged to win the last three. It was a great fight. Blake was right, the prelims were good. Eddie Zivic, master boxer, stopped Rito Martinez in the third. Tony Souza won from Ed Mosebar. Augie Soliz beat Benny Pelz. Joe DeLucia easily won from Al Austin. Sandy Robertson took the nod from Mel Brown.

WRESTLING: The rasslin' shows continue to attract the fans. Last week Sailor Clayton Fisher won the main event from Louis Miller on a foul. Dr. P. A. Mullikin tossed Walter Lecore in an exciting match, taking two falls. It was rough going and had the customers yelling. Pat McGill-Paul Comstock, draw. Perry Marler pinned Len Anderson. In the opener Frank Tishman won from Flash Kelly.

Olympic Auditorium

Barney Ross, lightweight and junior welter champion, had a fight on his hands last week. Bobby Pacho, veteran Mexican, was in three throwing leathers, taking plenty of chances to score a win. Pacho held his own most of the way, closing Barney's right eye as tight as a clam saying "hello" to a starfish. An almost full Olympic greeted the champion—and the fans saw a real fight, heightened by the brilliance of the young lad from Chicago, who needed all he had in there with the tough and willing Pacho. Ross outboxed Pacho, binding repeatedly, but there was no sleep in his punch. Pacho took all and came back for more. The decision by George Blake met with no disapproval. The prelims developed two knockouts. Henry Armstrong stopped Young Danny. Davey Day stopped Kenneth Reed. General Padilla lost to Frankie Murray. Al Romery downed Mel Brown four times, winning easily. Fred Young and Art Duran went to a draw in the semi. Manuel Ponce took the opener from Young Bud Taylor. No Olympic show next Tuesday.

What's a Hollywood Derby?

We all know what the Kentucky Derby is, and we all know what a Marathon is, and most of us know what a Walkathon is. But, in the name of E. R. Bradley, is a Hollywood Derby? The Hollywood Derby, friends, is part and parcel of the big Walkathon-Marathon which will be staged at the Winter Garden starting April 4th, and continuing until some lucky lad or lassie cop's the grand prize of $2,000. Each team will be sponsored by some glittering luminary of the screen, and they will be coached, cheered and seconded by those stars during the course of the Walkathon. There is plenty of wagering among the sponsors already on the winner of the Walkathon.

Wampas Presidential Election and Selection of the Baby Stars

There never was more enthusiasm in any election we have been interested in than who would be the President of the fair famed Wampas. The boys dropped their work in all the studios, and there was some lively electioneering for the extreme position. Finally the announcement was made that Phil Gershof was the lucky man came out, although Sam Cohn, his opponent, gave the incoming President a good run for the honor. After this was all settled to everyone's satisfaction the event of the year was the selection of all the beautiful and talented girls in the film colony, the Baby Stars of the screen for the year, as naturally it means future stardom to some of them.

The loveliest aggregation of feminine pulchritude and intellect paraded before the seats of the mighty, who had their future in their hands. "The Members of the Wampas" and the girls did their stuff, to impress these boys with their capabilities as to whom they could win to the coveted prize.

However, after careful discussion the final vote revealed that Judith Arlen, Betty Bryson, Jean Carmen, Hedene Cohen, Dorothy Drake, Jean Gale, Isabel Hayes, Ann Hovey, Lucille Lund, La Anne Meredith, Gigi Parrish, Jacqueline Wells and Katherine Williams were the lucky ones, although some of the others came close to the prize. The six alternates tieing for 14th and 15th places were Jean Chatsworth, Dorothy Grainger, Naomi Judge, Leona Keefe, Mary Korpan and Irene Wares.

After this delicate and difficult task was taken care of, the boys adjourned for something more amusing, if not educational, for the remainder of the evening. In fact, it was the shank of the morning before the jollity came to a delightful finish.

Donald Kerr Opens at Club Ballyhoo as Star of New Show

Donald Kerr started Thursday night at the Club Ballyhoo as the star of the new show. He is the M.C. and is being aided by Anita Faye. The featured artiste, Dorothy Ateas, still remains in the top spot, offering new song and dance numbers. She will be backed up by a dancing sister team and Lee McNally. Frank Hanover, owner and manager of the Club Ballyhoo, has retained Roland Faverot and his very capable orchestra to furnish the dance and show music, with a Hawaiian String Band singing and playing in between dances and the show. The revue was created by Jack Lester, and affords Mort Ruby a chance to do some acting as well as assiting to stage the show.

Cocoanut Grove

Ted Fio Rito and his Orchestra continue to top their past records that they made at the Ambassador Hotel Cocoanut Grove on their last engagement here. The lovers of high class music and dancing acts are applauding the work of the maestro and his aggregation and especially Veloz and Yolanda, the greatest dancing team that has yet appeared at the Grove. The rest of the program is made up of vocalists of the highest order. The Three Debutantes, "Muzzy," Marcello and Ray Hendricks more than hold their own at each performance.

Grand Opening of Sammy's Wunder Bar Saturday Evening, March 31st

The wonder spot of Hollywood Boulevard has its grand opening Saturday evening, when S. Cooperstein and M. Katz open the doors of Sammy's Wunder Bar, located across from Hollywood Pantages Theatre. Good food, hospitality, service, singing waiters, and plenty of glorious entertainment will reign supreme at what appears to be one of the liveliest spots on Hollywood Boulevard.

Here Are Some Very Interesting Facts to Conjure With

Just what is happening to the Code in Hollywood, as it relates to working people? An unprejudiced survey of the situation brings to light a few facts far from complimentary to picture producers. The division of work angle, as it affects the men of the various trades, by using three men where one was used, thereby reducing most pay checks by two-thirds, is being borne philosophically by the employees. They are willing to make the sacrifice to help their fellow craftsmen. Men who formerly cashed weekly pay checks averaging around $90.00 per week are weekly accepting an average of $30.00, barely paying their household expenses. They are taking it on the chin, patriotically going along with President Roosevelt until times improve.

That committee which went to Washington representing the extras and "bit" players and extracted from Sol Rosenberg a minimum of $25.00 per day for talking "bits," thereby raising the hope of all experienced extras and "bit" players, committed a most tragic boner. They forgot all about actors, and the pay they receive. Quite naturally, when they require a "bit" player, the producers hire an experienced actor — and the false-hope inspired experienced extras and "bit" player finds himself exactly where he was before he donated a couple of dollars to send a

Warner Baxter and Spencer Tracy are Full-Fledged Stars

Current profits that contrast sharply with operation losses of a year ago will enable the motion picture industry, the nation's fourth largest business, to make progressive adjustments and effect expenditure increases during the coming year.

Winfield Sheehan, vice-president and general manager of production for Fox Films, made this forecast recently on publication of the financial statement of his firm covering the period from the effective date of its reorganization April 1, 1933, to December 31, in which a profit of $1,410,793 is revealed as contrasted to a loss for the similar period the previous year of $7,595,100.

Assurance that this forecast is more than mere opinion that may or may not be borne out as fact is furnished by the measures that are already being taken along these lines.

Physical expansion of the two producing studios here that includes construction of new sound stages, a new projection and re-recording room building, a new mill, a large film storage vault of fireproof construction, and remodeling of present structures is now nearing completion. Further construction to meet the demands of increased production at Movietone City and the Hollywood studio is scheduled during the coming months of the year.

Even more directly essential to profitable operation but

Good Little Troupers—Are all the Wampas Baby Stars by their records, and if they finally reach real stardom, the credit will be all to the Wampas boys who picked each one for real ability.

Hand Picked in Hollywood—went Leonard Sillman, who wrote and directed "New Faces," a recent New York hit that C. B. Dil-lingham, veteran New York producer, has come back with the help of Elsie Janis, the greatest trouper of them all.

William Farnum Again—Rapidly gaining another foothold in talking pictures where he once ruled in silent pictures. We saw him on the "Cleopatra" set at Paramount in a scene with Henry Wilcoxon as "Marc Antony."

So Interested in Her Part—that Margaret Sullivan is cutting out the dodos in Frank Borzage's production of "Little Man, What Now!" at Universal Studios. Quiet and sweet is her watchword.

It Pays To Advertise—Certainly applies to Frederick Hollander, making a hit with his Tingle Tangle Theatre, as he has been engaged as producer, writer and director by Radio Pictures. Steffi Duna also got a job in the films.

Rivals Brought Out Talents—As Mary Robson made her big hit in a Columbia Picture when loaned from M-G-M and now Universal is trying to do the same thing by borrowing this clever veteran player of the stage and screen.

Jack La Rue and Robert McWade Steal the Whole Show in "No Ransom" PRODUCED BY M. H. HOFFMAN—SUGGESTED BY DAMON RUNYON'S STORY, "THE BIG MITTEN"

Jack La Rue's suave way of playing a gangster (a la Paul Muni style) and Robert McWade's treatment of the tired business man who wants to be bumped off so that his wife may find happiness elsewhere is the keynote to what turns out to be a very splendid photoplay for any theatre. La Rue has a great flair for comedy and shows his versatility, and in Mr. McWade he found a great match, and the two carried the Damon Runyon story, "The Big Mitten," through to a delightful point, revealing a romance with the charming Leila Hyams, who looks more beautiful than ever, falling for the gangster, much to the discomfort of Phillips Holmes, who had been the girl's heart throb. Hedda Hopper looms up very brightly in this picture, and when it comes to grabbing laughs, Vince Barnett knows how to steal 'em right on the spot. Others who helped carry the story and fast moving tempo of this comedy drama along were Eddie Nugent, Carl Miller, Christian Rub, Irving Bacon, Garry Owen, Fritzi Ridgeway, Mary Foy and others equally well known. Albert DeMonde wrote the screen story, did the continuity, and wrote the dialogue, all scored in a big way for him. Harry Neumann's beautiful photograph, documented by Mildred Johnson, music by Abe Meyer, and recording work of R. E. Tyler, and Rudolph Flothow, production manager, all go to spell added credit to Producer M. H. Hoffman and his illustrious son associate, Producer M. H. Hoffman, Jr. We almost forgot to mention Fred Newmeyer directed "No Ransom" and did a fine job of it, and you will see this opus as "A Liberty Production" in your favorite theatres.

Toddy-Kelly At It Again

Hollywood's only feminine comedy team—Thelma Todd and Patsy Kelly—will shortly start work on the seventh of a series of eight fun films they are appearing in this season at the Hal Roach Studio. Gus Melsin will again direct the inimitable pair of comedians, it is announced. At the present time Miss Kelly is on loan to the M-G-M Studios, where she is playing the featured comedy role in "100 Per Cent Pure."

Edward Small Still Searching—for the right man to play "The Count of Monte Cristo" after trying to get John Barrymore. John Gilbert, Fredric March and Frances Lederer, but now has his eyes on Robert Doanit, English player in "Henry VIII."

Styles in Actors—Seems to be about the same as styles in fashions, as Herbert Marshall is now the vogue as a leading man. Constance Bennett, Norma Shearer and Carole Lombard will all have in them their pictures.

A Stable of Horses—And their own polo grounds have been purchased by Fran's Borzage, now directing at Universal Studios, Charlie Farrell and other enthusiasts of the sport of kings are helping him to support it.

Latest Film Team—Fred Astaire and Ginger Rogers of Radio Pictures will likely have "Ringstrass," a stage hit from Vienna, by Adler Lasga, for their first starring vehicle. Allen Scott writing the screen version.

Get Rid of the Home Wrecker—is just what a lot of women in Alcott Beach, New York, tried to do recently when they wrote a letter to Paramount Studios suggesting that a certain girl in their town be given a role in "Cleopatra."

Jack Knows His Classics—as Jack Oakie casually remarked to one of those Earl Carroll cuties at Paramount, "You look like a Grecian Frieze," but the beauty replied haughtily, "You're not so hot yourself."

He Knows the Music—as Josef von Sternberg, director of Marlene Dietrich in "Scarlet Empress," is co-directing the symphony orchestra scoring the production, and he wants the tenor to match his direction.

Beat 50 Competitors—in the race for the role of "The Crooner" in Joan Crawford's picture, "Sadie McKee," at M-G-M Studios, as this desirable role was finally awarded to Gene Raymond, blonde leading man.

Usherette the Heroine—in the romantic yarn built around Radio City that M. H. Aylesworth and Pandro Berman, of Radio Pictures, will do, called "The NBC Revue of '34," with all the radio and pictures of this vast company's artists, playing the characters.

International Celebrities—Charles Boyer, famous French actor, and Pat Paterson, English star, have been assigned to the picture, "By Royal Command," a Robert Kane production for Fox Films. Eric Charell, a Frenchman, will direct.

John Francis Dillon Died After Getting a Raw Deal

The passing of John Francis Dillon is just another example of a man dying with a broken heart. For after he had given his all to this industry, he spent his last days dogged and worried about why he was suddenly dropped like a red hot iron and kept out of his rightful place as one of the leading directors. Bad reputation in the hands of some unscrupulous agents was the cause of his great worry, and when we talked to him not 72 hours before his death, he admitted that some one had put thumbs down on him, and his spirit was broken. John Francis Dillon was worthy of better treatment than this from heartless Hollywood—yes, from the producers whom he help make such big shots that they claim they are today.

George Arliss in “The House of Rothschild” Wins Approval of Most Critical Theatregoers

George Arliss easily ran away with all honors in “The House of Rothschild,” which we previewed recently and pronounced the greatest picture of the year. The most hardened critics paid their respects and approval to this Darryl Zanuck-Joseph M. Scherck United Artists epic, with beautiful and artistic costumes created by the United Costumers, and we will pass this along to say that the Walt Disney Technicolor color, “The Big Bad Wolf,” made a tremendous hit as it contained the Three Little Pigs and Little Red Riding Hood, all thrown in for good measure. The Sid Grauman prologue, staged by the master showman, with Max Schreck as his right hand bower, was laid around studio life. Maria “Gamby” Gambarelli again steals the show with her swan dance and ballet numbers which she heads.

The rest of the artists, Jackie Hughes, Billy Severin, Francis White, Bud Jamison, Jack Richardson, Jack Powell and many others, contribute in a great measure to the fine entertainment. David Ross conducted the orchestra in a very capable manner, thanks to his leaving some of the brass instruments home.

Constance Purdy Shows Real Ability at Green Room

Constance Purdy shows real class in her role as accomplice to the villainous Francis Baker-Smith in “Sweeney Todd,” now approaching its seventh week at the Green Room Theatre in Hollywood. The show has been playing to capacity crowds. This old time opus, written in 1850, has an interesting plot and is enacted with all the enthusiasm of that period. Miss Purdy’s acting is full of interest and clicks 100 per cent with the audience.

Marta DeVeaux Slated for Part in “Down to the Last Yacht”

Marta DeVeaux, exotic and beautiful Brunette, has been assigned in RKO’s epic, “Down to the Last Yacht,” to do a featured dancing number. Paul Sloane directs, and Sidney Fox is cast in the stellar role. Miss DeVeaux has just completed a bit in a Hal Roach production featuring Jeanette Loaf and Eddie Foy.

Wilfred Hari Completes Part at Universal Studios

Wilfred Hari, Japanese artist, has finished his role as “Sato” in Universal’s vehicle, “Affairs of a Gentleman,” starring Paul Lukas and directed by Edwin L. Marin. Hari is inimitable and versatile in his interpretations as an Oriental actor, and shows real class and ability with his capable work. He is also a baritone singer, and renders both popular and classic numbers worthy of special mention. Mr. Hari is up for another important role at one of the major studios. His good work speaks for itself.

“I HATE WOMEN”

KEN GOLDSMITH, INDEPENDENT PRODUCER, PUTS OVER ANOTHER

The Independents are not dead by a long shot, if the one we saw in Glendale recently is any indication. True, it was another story of a young reporter who ferreted out a murder, when the police failed to make any headway, but it was produced in such a snappy manner, with a cast and direction that could be copied by most of the so-called major companies. The story and screen play by Mary McCarthy gave strong evidence of knowing her screen requirements, with rapid fire action and snappy dialogue, that had the audience laughing uproariously between the many dramatic situations. Aubrey Scotto directed with a masterly hand, and kept his characters moving naturally at all times, and was ably seconded by the lovely photography of Ernest Miller. Lewis J. Rachmil and Paul Plamentelio supplied beautiful settings. J. S. Westmoreland certainly knew his sound requirements, and Lou Sabin whipped his film into the right shape as film editor.

The cast was perfect—James Ford as the young reporter didn’t just run around madly, but delved into the crime and ferreted out the criminal naturally. June Clyde was lovely and clever as the girl suspected of the crime. Fuzzy Knight got in some of his priceless comedy as another reporter. Bradley Page gave just the right touch of villany into his character and speeches. Alexander Carr provided some priceless comedy as another member of the fourth estate. Barbara Rogers, Bobby Watson and Eleanor Hunt played three chorus girls successfully. Cecelia Parker made a great deal out of a small role of the telephone girl, and Douglas Fowley, Margaret Mann, Kermar Cripps, James Mack, Philo McCullough, Snowflake, Shirley Lee, Joey Ray, Charles Saxton, James Quinn, Dorothy Vernon and Pat Harmon were all excellent in minor roles.

There is no doubt, by his recent and present productions, that Ken Goldsmith knows the pulse of his public, and we feel sure you would have agreed with us had you heard the pleasant comments on the picture in the lobby of the California Theatre after the preview of “No More Women.”

ALAN SEARS CLICKS WITH C. B. DEMILLE

Alan Sears, who made such a hit in Mary Pickford’s last talkie as the Western heavy, and who has a perfect “Mike” voice, did a hit the other day for C. B. Moving Movie Throng by John Hall

Hollywood Boulevard, these warm spring days, offers succor to unemployed motion picture actors. Its brilliant sunshine makes up for many things. Unable to crash studios in gainful employment, Thespians have the comfort of a semi-tropical somnolence that lessens the hard blow of adversity and makes them blood brothers of the dolce-far-niente people of lands nearer the equator.

"Dear old Broadway" is a fading memory, no longer poignat to theatre people long in Hollywood. The balmy lure of Southern California has worked its subtle, irresistible will upon them, and they no longer pine for the roar of the crowd across the footlights. Very plainly, many, with much less material things than the East offers, are happier in Hollywood—FUNNY.

"Why must the theatres drive away paying customers by giving them not one bad picture on a program, BUT TWO BAD PICTURES?... And the business can't afford to be shown up."

—Hollywood Reporter, March 30

Mere extracts—but very outstanding. Highlights, as 'twere, of an article against the evil of the double bill...

Just a tiny dash of tabasco, wholly unintentional, you may be sure, is refreshing.

There is a sinister joke in that two-bits-for-"bits" gag in the movie Code. If "bits" players got it, all would be Jake. But they DON'T. That dough is being grabbed by actors, accustomed to more. Get it?... "More melody and less noise in jazz" is demanded by New York orchestra leaders. Now the acrobatic jazz monkeys can go back to the zoo. By now, "Jazz Kings" must know that their Congo atrocities were tolerated because human brains were made that way by poison liquor. Public frenzy created its own musical horror mental stimulus. Now that public sanity is returning, a lot of so-called "jazz geniuses" should scram to the dog house. The public, now drinking good liquor, needs them no more. Bath tub gin makers and jazz composers, twins, fade together...

Dr. William A. Wirt, Gary, Ind., educator, now attacking the NRA through Hearst's Universal Service, turns out to be a very rich man—just another of the moneyed class viciously opposed to President Roosevelt's "redistribution of wealth" ideas... When the congressional committee gets through with rich educator Wirt—well, he won't know from nothin'... James (Jimmy to his friends) Madison, these many years headline vaudeville writer and top-notch gag-man for big shows and the biggest names in vaudeville, is in Hollywood, doing nicely devoting his sure-fire talent to the talking pictures. If a certain big director now making a big picture, doesn't regain his normal mental poise, all Hollywood—and the world—not a few working for him, will buy him a ticket to Patton. There is no legitimate excuse for such demoralizing excursions. But a very ugly report is raising the heat of Hollywood actors to the boiling point. From a reliable LEGAL source in Los Angeles comes the tip that some big studio pay offices are in cahoots with chiseling downtown collection agencies, TIPPING THEM OFF with an arm in the pocket on the payroll. A quick "plaster" goes on the pay check... this is the last word in betrayal, rather thunk-like—or are we unfair to Mr. Mephisto-mine?... The one Godfathers. The one gentleman, reserving his heavy artillery for enemies... Stanley Bergerman (Uncle Carl's very able son-in-law, if you don't know) is going great guns over at Universal. He is a very successful producer, having several outstanding box-office successes to his credit. Bergerman looks as the best investment Uncle Carl made during re-casting his film career in the big business world, has acquired knowledge of picture making, and is headed for big things.

Anything seems to come to the English hands down, but what the Irish want, they must get fists up.

THE TRUTH AND NOTHING BUT THE TRUTH

By VIVIAN DENTON

The Moving Finger Points

Motion picture producers refuse to accept the rulings of the "Code." Again, the selfish core of the heart of the world's greatest industry comes into prominence. The letter "P" is paramount in this industry and the slogan is "All for me—none for you."

All our good President asked was cooperation with the NRA, thus enabling master and man to regain possession of financial security; it is too bad that those who wield the wand of power won't hearken to the plea of that great man, Franklin D. Roosevelt, whose kindness and courage has been apparent ever since he took office. What does he do in return—opposition, treachery, lies—and aggressive assurances that are uttered in suave phrases and written on beautifully embossed paper with gold-plated fountain pens.

Mews and Purr

Oh! Mister Winchell, George Raymond is only the flower boy—the head man is still chief holer of la Gaynor's heart.

The Francis "Bunny" Weldons are buying "little" things—binders, booties and a bassinet. What Studio Executive would froth at the mouth if he knew that in Washington they are preparing a questionnaire which he must truthfully answer or else?

That story that is being prepared on the life of Al Capone will be bitterly resented by his family, who will be prepared to sue if that studio persists. It seems to me that some of those scandal spreaders who go "tea-ing" every afternoon should have a neat card tucked on their back reading "Mangy Dog Here."

How about some of those "big eggs" climbing out of their high chairs and giving decent kids a break; Humpty Dumpty was a big egg, too, but what a tumble he took—if some of those girls ever break down and tell, it's just going to be too bad.

That two A. M. curfew for the beer parlors is going to add to that unnecessary evil, "The Speakeasy," we don't need them.

How I'd like to hear some decent English spoken for once. Why doesn't someone open a school of radio announcers on the West Coast and teach them how to speak correctly?

The only purr this week goes to Isadore Bernstein, King Vidor's head-man, who is seeing to it that the deserving ones get a break in the Vidor opus, "Our Daily Bread."

Varied Impressions

Marion Davies' Easter gown ... Bob Montgomery's sense of humor ... Joan Crawford's eyes ... ZaSu Pitts and Gracie Allen's laughter (infected ... Mrs. Russell Mack's beauty—she was the best dressed lady at Alice Brady's premiere ... Orchids, their sheer beauty, I love 'em, but all I get is geraniums ... Bert Wheeler's playfulness ... Jack Oakie's sombre looks these days ... The starred skirts of the lassies who wait on you at the V.C. on Derby ... Ann Harding's aloofness ... Sid Grauman's voice ... Lorenz "Larry" Hart's lyrics ... Otto Male's mustache ... and last but not least, my own private impression of the so-called patriots who fly the "Blue Eagle" and who fail to live up to its standards.

Alice Brady Scores in "Biography"

That magnetic Broadway stage star, Alice Brady, who has been thrilling movie-goers with stellar screen portrayals, returned to her first love, the stage, Monday night, in a sophisticated comedy titled "Biography."

It was a typical Hollywood première; massive searchlights outside the theatre, and the usual gaping crowds; in the foyer one fell over hocus-pocus focus gentlemen snapping pictures of this ermine-coated lady or that frock-coated gent. There were stars and stars and more stars all out in their best bib and tucker to do homage to that grand actress, Alice Brady.

It was a humorous, all-talkie and somewhat airy little play depending entirely on a group of humorous characters for its entertainment value. The plot was thin and loosely woven, and only a superb characterization such as Miss Brady gave saved one from complete boredom. Laughs were many, because of the manner in which she handled the humorous dialogue. She was capably assisted by Hardie Albright as the radical young editor, who amuses one and all with his pompous diatribes. He portrays his role with zealous frenzy.

Ada May was flippant and far from convincing as the ingenuous daughter of a physical culture minded publisher, played splendidly by Douglas Wood. Vera Gordon, as the German maid, slightly overplayed, and her audience felt she was working too hard by making her character too obvious. "Biography" is amusing, but fails to reach the heights of brilliancy. It promises its patrons plenty of laughter but lacks dramatic fervour. Edgar MacGregor directed smoothly and keeps the play moving at a fast tempo.

The one setting, an artist's studio, was restful to the eye, and very attractive.

William MacGowan Sets an Example for Other Fistic Knights of the Squared Circle

It is a wise man who knows his limitations, and a still wiser man who can find a way out to improve his rating and standing in his chosen profession, or who can desert his present work for something more profitable in more ways than are seen on the surface, as in the case of William MacGowan, who fought his way into the three championships, Southern middleweight champ, Canadian and Cuban title holder. In order to gain this recognition he had to battle men such as Young Strubling, Jimmy Slattery, Capt. Bob Roche, Jack Redick (Canadian champion), Paul Berlenbach and Espasarguet, the Cuban champ.

Prior to his ring work, William MacGowan worked three years on stage with Belle Bennett and others, and since retiring from the ring in Atlantic, Georgia, and coming to Hollywood, he has played nice parts and bits in some of our best pictures. His great popularity on stage and in the prize ring seems to have followed him right to the very door of the cinema studios where he works, for he is very well liked in film circles and stands in line to land a place for himself among the best known artists who play his line of parts in pictures.

Virginia Sale's Recital a Success

Charles "Chie" Sale introduced his little sister Virginia from the stage of the Hollywood Concert Hall to a large and delighted audience.

She was assisted by Harold Fitzgerald at the piano, and an added pleasure was the magnificent rendering of several violin solos by Sol Cohen.

Miss Sale's program was varied, and she showed her versatility in "The School M'a'm." The boy friend and she aptly depicted an elderly woman in a skit titled "The Little Arts Club." A somewhat different something was "Say It With Flowers," on which Adeline Morrow collaborated in writing; it was original and diverting. Miss Sale has mastered the art of make-up, and though she herself is a very lovely young lady, she can portray the aged and infirm without exaggeration.

Stage and screen stars were spotted here and there, all warmly applauding and enjoying Virginia's grand performance.

Curley Robinson's of Universal City

Universal City, over which Carl Laemmle presides, is a real community, but one of the bright spots of this thriving place is the store of Curley Robinson, in the commissary. The players and visitors who flock to this film capital can be outfitted from top to toe in wearing materials. Then there are novelties for presents, such as the finest perfumes, as well as the latest in jewelry from everywhere. Cigars and the finest liquors from all over the world can be obtained from Curley, but his latest thought for his many customers is a complete assortment of domestic and foreign delicacies for the table. Curley has a host of friends both out and inside of the profession.

Ben L. Frank Proves Ability to Pick Winners for Grove

Ben L. Frank knows how to pick when it comes to signing headline orchestras to appear in the Ambassador Hotel Cocoaconut Grove, for ever since he started off with Abe Lyman, he has clicked with Ted Fio Rito, Guy Lombardo, and we understand that Ben Bernie will follow Maestro Fio Rito into the Grove. This will guarantee Mr. Frank a chance to set up greater records for drawing the elite of the Southland to the Cocoaconut Grove dinner dances nightly. Ted Fio Rito right now has one of his finest supporting organizations. He has had during his engagements at the Grove Veloz and Yolanda, sensational dancers; the Three Delmontes; Muzzy Marcellino; Ray Hendricks sings solo and doubles up in various groups, to much applause. Caught Sue Carroll and Nick Stuart together again, cooing and dancing. Oh, boy! what joy, Jean Harlow and buddy, Lupe Velez and Johnnie Weissmuller stepping high, wide and handsome, and many others, all in a night's fun and pastime.

Carol Lofner Develops New Vocal Favorites at Beverly-Wilshire Gold Room

The cry for new faces doesn't only ring true about the picture-studios—the same applies to the cafes—as we have just noticed where Carol Lofner, who heads his own orchestra at the Beverly-Wilshire Hotel Gold Room, has made a great favorite out of Joy Hodges. Larry Cotton has been the new center, Miss Ding Janus, who comes here direct from great successes in Chicago night spots. Many celebrities were seen at this spot Sunday night. We saw Frank Capra, William Wellman, Eddie Small, L. B. Mayer with Major Zanit, Carmel Myers and Ralph Blum, Spencer Tracy, Elaine Hammerness, Bobby Webb and wife, Charles Butterworth, Clarence Brown and Alice Joyce, Ray Hendricks, Maxine Cantaway and many others. Sunday night business is improving by leaps and bounds, while every night finds plenty of celebs dining and dancing.

Caesar's Continues to Enjoy Fine Business

Serving the finest food and refreshments within a stone's throw from the leading hotels and theatres in Hollywood, Caesar's rendezvous for stage and screen celebrities is doing more than their share of good business day and night. Shep Kelly knows what the public wants and is losing no time in gratifying their wishes, with such sterling colored entertainers as Babe Mack and Johnnie Horace singing and dancing to the excellent piano accompaniment of Walter Johnson. All this serves to give the public something that is different in the way of entertainment in such a place.

Duke Ellington and Band at Sebastian's Cotton Club

Duke Ellington could well be advertised as the Aristocrat of Rhythm, for he is the leader of them all when it comes to maestros and entertainers, for he has a band of workers that is second to none, and he proved his mastery Thursday night at Frank Sebastian's Cotton Club, where he made his bow as the head of the best croon orchestra that LeRoy Roundfield ever staged, and such great artists as Snake Hips Tucker, Ivy Anderson and at least thirty others, which includes the prettiest and peepiest croon chorus ever shown here. Celebrities of stage and screen flocked to the Cotton Club to pay tribute to Duke Ellington and his company of entertainers.

Girl Revue Wins Much Applause and Attention at Cafe De Paree

Isabel Stephens staged a girl revue that shows some striking beauties who can trompe like nobody's business. Then as you look further you will see two clever funmakers in Ken Wilmarth and George Boyce. Kent acts as M.C., with George doing his well known dance turn. One of the headliners is Margaret Lucille, who croons as well the best of them and better than the most, and with it she has a very sweet personality. Russ Cantor has come back to sing during intermission and dances. Merle Carlson and his Orchestra are still furnishing splendid dance and show music, with Merle singing and playing a mean saxophone, besides doubling in the quartet singing with the boys.

Henri De Soto to Open Club

Henri De Soto is going it on his own soon as a club owner. He is rebuilding the 50-50 Club, and hopes to get under way within ten days. Henri has many friends who know that he has a knack of making everybody happy.

Dorothy Ates Shares Honors with Roland Faverot Orchestra and Jack Lester

Dorothy Ates, headlining at the Club Ballyhoo, certainly has a great repertoire of songs and dances, and dresses up every one of them in the most artistic and beautiful costume that we have seen her wear in some time. She is becoming a great favorite with night spot lovers. Running her a close race for first honors is Donald Kerr, who acts as M.C. and does his regular vaudeville act with his partner, Anita Payne. It is a riot of fun and amusement. The Two Hollywood Peaches are cute and captivating girls who dance very gracefully, while Lee McNally helps to round out the program. Roland Faverot and his sterling orchestra, and Jack Lester, producer of the Ballyhoo Revue, are worthy of special honorable mention. Three shows are staged nightly, with Sunday evening set aside as Celebrity Night, when plenty of impromptu acts are put on by stage and screen stars aside from the regular revue. We got a peek at Vicki Rasmussen with some shackets making merry the other evening; as well as Mr. and Mrs. Charles Wilson, Dave Gordon with Misses Caro Hundleby and Verlie Feters, and crooks of others.

Moulin Rouge

The Moulin Rouge Cabaret continues to furnish mirth, fun and frolic at their conveniently located night rendezvous on Calhouna, just a few doors north of Hollywood Boulevard. Johnny Haven Johnson fascinates with his numbers at the piano. Two "gals" of Harlem fame croon songs that please patrons. Babe and Byron Hensley, managers of Moulin Rouge, are adding more space to their cabaret in order to accommodate larger crowds. Drop in at Moulin Rouge any evening. Their cuisine and entertainment will interest you.

Blossom Room

Curt Honeck has what we would term an all-around entertaining orchestra. The way they cut capers one minute and change to a classic the next proves their versatility. Curt himself plays one of the best bass cellos of any of the musicians we have ever heard. What's more, you can always look forward to something new happening during an evening's dancing and dining at the Blossom Room in the Hollywood Roosevelt Hotel. The Friday night dancing contests are drawing large attendances and much fun and excitement for those making this place a nightly habit.

Paul Franks Makes Many Friends at King's Club

Paul Franks, who is the friend of the thirsty folks who drop into the King's Club, makes many new friends nightly, for he knows just what they like. His memory is so good that when he runs across some one that he met in New York's most elite clubs, where he worked before he came here, he seems to remember the likes and dislikes of his friends, and takes special care to serve 'em just what they want and like best. The King's Club is run by Gail Reingold. He has as entertainers Mildred Stone and the Thelma Brown Trio. The high standard of food served at the King's Club is the talk of the town.

Green Lantern Inn

The Green Lantern Inn, on Hollywood Boulevard, between Gower and Bronson, where real home cooked foods are made a specialty, are attracting quite a crowd of diners who appreciate good food cooked properly. Particularly on Sundays, when a special chicken, turkey or steak is served with all its trimmings at the right prices that are within reason. Many of the stage and screen people, as well as business men, bring their families here to dine.

Tony Pastor's to Open Soon on Sunset Boulevard

A replica of the famous New York "Tony Pastor's" will be revived this month in both name and idea, when Tony Pastor's opens on Sunset Boulevard near Van Ness. John Decker, noted caricaturist and artist, and J. Belmer Hall, veteran stage director, are co-producers of this new enterprise. They will stage last century's old time melodramas, and present them with all the enthusiasm and gusto of the Nineteenth Century period, with specialties between acts. Food and beverages will be served throughout the evening.

Theatre Mystic Opens Saturday Evening

Theatre Mystic, on Sunset Boulevard, will open Saturday evening with a lively variety show, featuring Elaynor Morris, Hollywood's singing harpist, and Valli, one of the greatest magicians on the Pacific Coast. "The Cat's Claw," mystery play, will be one of the headliners. Curtain at 8:30, and popular prices will prevail. Refreshments will be served during the show.

NRA EXTRAS CODE FORCES PRODUCERS TO TRICK SCENES

committee to Washington to better his condition. It's a great break for the experienced actor whose salary is around $150.00 and whose daily check looks like $25.00. Here is one place where criticism of producers is impossible. They have the right to get all they can for their money. The situation is the direct result of the stupidity of the men who asked for and received those Code contracts, some of which fail to help the lowly extra and "bit" player.

In the matter of within-the-law trickeries there is much to be criticized. We now have the panstromist—at $75.00 per day. He is the extra who, when asked a question by one of the players, instead of speaking a line, shakes his head "yes" or "no," or points a finger. This saves the producer $17.50, the difference between $75.00 and $25.00, which the extra would receive if he spoke a word. Then there is the one-day contract, in which an extra is hired for one day on contract. This worker may speak a line; if he does he is paid according to the Code. Otherwise he works a silent "bit." He is a "potential" "bit" player.

The industry continues to use as "bit" players and extra assistant directors of long experience as such, a direct violation of the Code, which specifically forbids picture players engaging in more than one bit of work. This is a serious problem; serious for the experienced assistants, who are not to be criticized for seeking any work to support themselves and their families. The worker is not to blame. In this matter, the producers are guilty. They are without any kind of systematic treatment of experienced assistant directors; men of long standing in the business and capable of any production. They represent a class of men the producers shamefully neglect, dismissing them without consideration when they finish work on a production. The best out for this situation is the clause in the Code placing all assistants on yearly contracts, with a guarantee of a fair salary for enough weeks to maintain them as assistants and keep them out of the extra ranks.

Those unable to secure contracts can be listed as extras until they can secure work as assistants. There seems no other way.

The one definite ruling coming out of Washington, that one setting aside the ruling of the producers that a "bit" paid $50.00 if it required "ten minutes or ten days," as stated by Mr. Patrick Casey, representing the producers, and definitely ordering that a "bit" paid $25.00 per day, shattered the hopes of the most needy class in Hollywood, the real "bit" player and experienced extras capable of playing "bits." They have no more hope, because, as stated, all "bits" go to experienced actors, who quite happily accept the same.

So Hollywood wonders, that is, that part of Hollywood which needed help—the extras and "bit" players. The recont of registered extras, with reduction from some 17,000 to 2,500, faces those in authority. What will happen here has Hollywood guessing. There is need of an official ruling from Washington, specifically stating the requirements of all to be permanently registered. The necessary data for this can be secured from the Hollywood Screen Actors' Guild—otherwise the workers will be at the mercy of inconsequential under-clerks. This matter needs immediate official attention. It must not be left to unimportant underlings. The qualifications of an extra should be officially set, and Hollywood ordered to comply.

Capable Youngster

GAYLE MORRIS

Little five-year-old Gayle Morris has just finished a role in Bryan Foy's latest vehicle, "Life Ends," featuring Don Douglas. "Life Ends" will be released through Columbia. Gayle is remembered for her excellent singing of "It Happened One Night," featuring Claudette Colbert and Clark Gable, directed by Frank Capra. Also for her good work in "Mary Stevens, M.D." Warner's opus featuring Kay Francis. This versatile youngster has been in pictures a little over a year. During this time she has played child roles in fifteen productions. For Gayle's age we would say that she is really a seasoned little trooper, as all directors who have handled her will admit.

Vince Barnett has a spot in Paramount's "She Loves Me Not."

less visible as evidence of expansion to the layman is a strengthening of the talent line-up. Two of the most successful contract players on the Fox Film list are being elevated to stars, increasing the number of stars available for the more costly feature productions to six. And a total of 35 young stock players, 23 girls and 10 men: seven featured players: four comedians; and a baby star, Shirley Temple, have been added or will be added to the contract list within the next four weeks.

The players newly given star ranking, that is evidenced to the public by the featuring of the player's name for the title of the production, are Warner Baxter and Spencer Tracy.

Baxter's name will appear over the main title of his current picture, "Too Many Women." It is the first time he has been accorded this honor since appearing in one of the first of the successful talking films, "In Old Arizona." His recently renewed contract has been torn up and a new one written which extends until 1937.

Tracy makes his debut as a star after three short years' work in pictures, during which he has earned distinction as one of the screen's leading players. Also boasting an extended contract, Tracy now stars in "Now I'll Tell You," by Mrs. Arnold Rothstein.

Renewed assurance of steady employment was given employees with the announcement that the studio not only will not close down during the summer months, but will increase production.

NRA Boomerang is Means of Showing Up Studio Rackets

By HARRY BURNS

The much talked of cutting down of the extras from 17,000 to 1,500, which we and others have hopped on as a blacklist, restraint of trade, unfair and un-American, now turns out to be a helping hand to the extras rather than a boomerang, for if the committee that undertakes this task will do it fearlessly and fairly, they will find when they have completed their job that they have a list of those they as NRA representatives feel should be given the work as regularly as is humanly possible. If these men and women are not the types Central Casting or the studios dare put in their productions, the pictures will soon go to smash, and we might as well close our studio doors. So in the event that the 1,500 extras selected are unsuitable for the pictures being made, NRA or no NRA, not even the President of the United States can or will order the studios to disrupt their business and make them charitable institutions, then the studios will go back to the old methods of casting their pictures, and that is direct, using Central Casting only for a clearing house.

Central Casting will furnish whatever talent is assigned to them by the Committee, and when the producers realize they are being hampered by the NRA Code they will be the first to order a change, and if it is necessary, they will go a long way towards having the NRA repealed.

Gilmore Track at Fairfax-Beverly Blvd. to House Big Doings

The Screen Actors Guild is going to stage a monster carnival at the Gilmore Stadium at Fairfax and Beverly Boulevard May 18-19-20 inclusive. It promises to be the biggest affair that this organization has staged, not even barring their ball at the Biltmore, for this time it will be open to the public, and every star and player who belongs to the Guild promises to turn out to make this the event of the year. We feel that the Guild is out to enrich its bankroll, so that if it has to cross swords with the Academy of Motion Picture Arts and Sciences at any time for control of the actors membership in the motion picture industry, it will have enough finances to fight for its rights. This is only a matter of personal opinion, however. This is possible most any time, since the Academy has made its latest drive to regain their lost foothold not only in the actors' branch, but every department that was affected by the walk out of members who became dissatisfied with the way things were running in the Academy under the old regime.

WITH APOLOGIES TO ELEANOR HUNT

In our review of "I Hate Women" an outstanding picture produced by Ken Goldsmith, we credited Cecelia Parker with playing the role of the telephone girl, which was exceptionally well done, and now find out that Eleanor Hunt was the actress responsible for this clever performance.

Wilfred Hari

A new personality who is clicking on the screen and making rapid strides in filmdom. Mr. Hari has recently completed a prominent role in "The Affairs of a Gentleman," featuring Paul Lukas, also a splendid part in a current release, "Melody in Spring," a Paramount production. Hari is considered to be one of the outstanding Japanese singers in America.

ET'S SEE WHO'S WHO

By HARRY BURNS

"Tarzan and His Mate" Too Thrilling for Our Kiddies

M-G-M has the greatest thriller in "Tarzan and His Mate," but we fear it will be too thrilling for the kiddies who love the Edgar Rice Burroughs tales of the life and experiences of Tarzan. To see animals slaughtered right before your very eyes is horrible entertainment—especially when the killer is a character that you have learned to love and idolize, and that is exactly what happens in this episode of the experiences of Johnny (Tarzan) Weissmuller and his sweetheart Maureen (His Mate) O'Sullivan. Others who score in the opus are Neil Hamilton, Paul Cavanagh, with Doris Lloyd, Forrester Harvey, William Stack, Desmond Roberts and Nathan Curry more than holding up their end of the story. The direction is by0ott C. Charleton, and the camerawork and motion picture photography by Charles Clarke and Clyde DeVinna the best ever, act work above average, sound by Douglas Shearer a bit noisy at times, editing a great job. Screen play by J. K. McGuinness, with adaptation by Leon Gordon, all worthy of special mention. Exhibitors have a great bet in "Tarzan and His Mate," if M-G-M lends an ear to this warning, not only from us, but others, that it is too gruesome for the family trade and needs toning down a bit.

"Sisters Under the Skin" is Fine Columbia Picture

Elissa Landi, Frank Morgan and Joseph Schildkraut score heavily in "Sisters Under the Skin," with Doris Lloyd and Clara Blandick coming in for a great deal of attention because of their superb acting. Others who please are Henry Kolker, Samuel Hinds, Selmer Jackson, Arthur Stewart Hull, Howard Hickman, Robert Graves and Montague Shaw. Jo Swerling's screen play from S. K. Lauren's story is a typical Columbia product—it never misses fire at any time. David Burton directed this picture with a clear understanding of his subject and is worthy of a good handclap. The photography work of Joseph August; sound by George Cooper; musical by Louis Silver; and editing by Gene Milford are all worthy of special mention. Arthur Black assisted Director Burton on this splendid Columbia picture.

Are Big Boy and Barbara Married?

Someone tipped us off that Big Boy Williams and Barbara Weeks were married in Arizona the other day. Can this be true? Mr. Williams, besides being one of the screen's most popular actors, is some polo hero and player. Miss Weeks needs no introduction to screenland.

Olsen and Johnson Make 'Em Roar in "Take a Chance"

Ole Olsen and Chic Johnson were never funnier than they are in "Take A Chance," now running at the Mayan Theatre. They are making 'em roar at the box office and have one of the best supporting casts of players that stars have allowed to sneak in on their shows. For instance, you will rave over Lillian Miles—in fact, she runs the stars a hard race for first honors. Florence Farnsworth, too, commands a lot of attention, as does Johnny Downs. Maxine Doyle, Gordon De Main, Betty Allen, Fred Satter, Lee Beggs, Oscar Regan, Al Downing and John Florescu, while the ensembles and chorus are good to look at and work like Fanchon and Marco's best line girls and boys. "Take A Chance" was written by Laurence Schwab and B. G. De Sylva, music by Herb Nacio Brown and Richard Whiting, with Vincent Youmans, additional songs, musical numbers staged by John J. Fleming, book directed by O. J. Vanasse, additional dialogue by Sid Silvers, setting by Ralph Goodacre, frocks by Kiviette and Charles Le Maire. This is one of the best musical comedies put on hereabouts in ages and is worthy of the best of patronage.

The Passing of Kurt Rehfeld

We noticed the Rehfeld Children working on the M-G-M lot the other day, and it brought very forcibly to our mind that Kurt Rehfeld, who was one of the assistant directors who came within an ace of becoming a class A director, finally losing his battle to win that post before he passed on into eternity. Kurt had a brilliant mind, a man who raised a family of five, and who passed out of the picture a credit to the motion picture industry.

ROSENBLATT PUTS HIMSELF ON THE SPOT

PAT CASEY'S APPOINTMENT ON LABOR COMMITTEE HEAVY BLOW AT UNIONISM—READ THIS TIP-OFF

Is Judge Ben B. Lindsey, former 3rd Circuit Court Judge of the State of Missouri, on his way to a seat on the Federal Labor Committee? Hollywood has been inclined to be charitable in its estimate of Sol Rosenblatt, young lawyer acting as divisional administrator for the motion picture code. After his visit to Hollywood, during which he was wined and dined by all in power while the people whose condition he came here to investigate flattened their noses against the show windows and tightened their belts, many harsh things were uttered against him. He was roundly criticized for coming and leaving without devoting more time to the job of personally scanning the scene. Hollywood Filmograph counselled less haste in condemning the young lawyer, advising its readers to wait for his report to the President. To date, there is no news of that report. This fact is disturbing. Rosenblatt's sincerity remains unimpeachable, but his gloomy disconsolate manner, so far as can be seen, is that of the man who was charged openly made against Rosenblatt by the man in the street. Among the rank and file of the workers he is regarded with suspicion tinged with bitterness. He has done nothing to remove this suspicion.

Recently Judge Ben B. Lindsey, famed sociologist, was appointed by George Creel, State Director of the National Emergency Council, to hear motion picture labor complaints, after two other committees appointed by Rosenblatt failed to function. Judge Lindsey immediately took up his duty, hearing many complaints and preparing a report to Washington. With one exception, an independent, all producers flatly refused to appear before Judge Lindsey, but he continued to investigate labor complaints, the producers sullenly remaining away.

Now, out of a clear sky, comes the announcement that Judge Lindsey is to be the final new committee appointed. The Judge promises that, pending the formation of the new group, he will continue his investigations. The appointment of this third committee by Rosenblatt may indicate that he is not discouraged by the failure of the preceding two. Maybe this is but fair to Rosenblatt.

The new Motion Picture Labor Committee is of very speedy birth after the starting of Judge Ben B. Lindsey's work. Was the Judge too diligent? One wonders. Rosenblatt's snappy action in hurrying the appointment of a new committee just as Judge Lindsey is gaining his stride—in spite of the flat refusal of the producers to co-operate—is a highly aromatic indication that inner wires have been burning. The alacrity with which the producers appear before the NEW Labor Committee will be infallible proof of WHY they refused to appear before Judge Lindsey.

Is THIS the answer? "The committee named Saturday by Sol Rosenblatt INCLUDES PAT CASEY, labor contact executive for major film studios . . ."

From this source emanates that "aromatic" whiff above referred to. PAT CASEY IS THE HIRED OPPONENT OF EVERY LABOR UNION IN MOTION PICTURES. His job is to fight unionism and DEFEAT IT wherever and whenever possible. He is INCLUDED IN THE ORGANIZED WORKERS, which fact indicates that he can, in no way, be brought into giving union workers a square deal. HE IS PAID TO FIGHT UNIONISM IN MOTION PICTURES. During labor troubles in Hollywood Pat Casey SETTLED NOTHING. His work here was, and is, for the men WHO PAY HIM HIS SALARY AND EXPENSES.

FOR MAKING THIS APPOINTMENT TO THE LABOR COMMITTEE SOL ROSENBLATT LOST OUR FAITH. By adding the committee will be "supplemented by impartial persons to be named shortly." Rosenblatt admits the possible existence of partiality in the committee, which may be figurative or otherwise. CASEY'S PRESENCE ON THE COMMITTEE REMOVES ALL DOUBT. HE IS PAID TO BE PARTIAL TO THE PRODUCERS. The whole thing is—aromatic—which will go through the mails, if you get what we mean.

Showmen of Hollywood Score Triumph on Repeat of "Ideal Husband"

Playing to capacity houses last week, The Showmen of Hollywood successfully repeated Oscar Wilde's "Ideal Husband" at their Theatre Istome on Wilshire Boulevard. The Showmen started with their original presentation two months ago. Rosa Milano, as the scheming Mrs. Chevely, renamed Wilberforce for this production, gave a masterful performance, and second week anothervue was wonderfully to a fine piece of acting from Miss Milano. Freddie Winors' Lord Goring is the most natural interpretation of this character that the writer has seen to date. Mr. Winors will also repeat this week. Russell Hawthorne, or Robert Cliter, and Eileen Martin, as his wife, both gave substantial characterizations. Margery Grennan and Jane Anne O'Leary as alternating Mabel's being pleasing. The direction by Celeste Rush was splendid from start to finish, and the sets by Arnold Englund were very well suited to this piece.

Bob McGowan Directs Shaw and Lee

Bob McGowan, who made himself famous as director of "Our Gang" for Hal Roach and M-G-M, is on the latter lot, directing Shaw and Lee, those funny fellows who just arrived from New York City.

M.P.T.O.A. and Hollywood

The keynote of the MOTION PICTURE THEATRE OWNERS OF AMERICA’s visit to Hollywood was for the express purpose of meeting those who are responsible for the making of the pictures. Membership’s theatres throughout the breadth and length of the land, and at the same time try and give the producers first hand information of what is wanted and what is wrong with the present day talkies. In return the M.P.T.O.A. keyed their best ear to listen to what the producers had to say regarding what was wrong with the exhibitors, and their ways and means of selling the HOLLYWOOD MADE products. For one sitting on the sidelines, the convention being staged at the Ambassador Hotel, April 10th to 14th, can be listed as a huge success; a tribute to both the EXHIBITORS and the PRODUCERS, for all will be wiser and better fitted for their jobs in the future.

HOLLYWOOD FILMOGRAPHY wishes once more to come to such HONEST and SINCERE people as came from all quarters of the land to LOS ANGELES and visited our studios in HOLLYWOOD, BURBANK, UNIVERSAL CITY, CULVER CITY and other nooks and corners of filmland. GOODBYE until we meet again. PRESIDENT ED KUYKENDALL announced that the next convention was to be in NEW ORLEANS in 1935. Too bad that we must be passed up for the time being, for we were just commencing to like and know AMERICA’S GREATEST EXHIBITORS, just as they wended their way homeward. The crowning events of the session were the Association of Motion Picture Producers dinner at the M-G-M Studio Wednesday night and the M.P.T.O.A. banquet at the Ambassador Hotel. What could be sweeter than this, we ask you?

Moving Movie Throng by John Hall

All trains crossing San Fernando Valley whistle for thirteen crossings. During daylight the whistling is lost in the clatter of traffic. When the sun sets and men drop their chores, the whirr of motors and the blasting of automobile horns seem to fill the air with an inky blackness that fills the giant hole between the towering sierras and human-kind falls into silent slumber, those whistles fill the night, receding in the distance, until they send back a sound the imaginative mind easily conjures into the forlorn wailings of a banshee flying over the desolate moorlands of Ireland. The poetic brain of an Irishman—a gifted Irishman—in the still hours of the night, caught those far, faint and ghostlike whistles—and he remembered a son—a son on his way to prison, moaned to a cell by the sound coming in his ears. The lad would be on one of those trains. Self-styled to be the boy “pay” for his misdeeds, a deeper thing was stirred to life by the weird walls coming through the silent night. He leaped from a sleepless bed, rushed to his boy’s side and halted the hand of the law. One last appeal would be made. His father’s heart had answered. Jim Tully’s soul responds to that which makes him a great writer. It is the spirit within him . . . Good luck, Jim . . . PUBLICITY: “It (sophistication) should be translated into characterizations of worldly wisdom, modern thinking and resolute freedom. It is popularly thought that sophisticated roles do not evolve the proper amount of sympathy in the audience . . . Norma Shearer”; “ . . . And the answer, Norma, is easy. Let’s see: SOPHISTICATE: To render worthless by adulteration; pervert; vitiate . . . The root is SOPHIST! One of a body of men in ancient Greece! (5th century B. C.) (Not so “modern,” Norma) who taught philosophy, eloquence and politics; a fallacious argument; fallacy. Webster . . . When you argue sophistication, are you a Sophist? . . . Just say “SMART,” as that present-day term is understood to describe “nice” ladies abreact of the times . . . This case plainly how the use of “sophistication” by moronic writers has led to a famous expression of the publicity writers . . . Naturally, a term with the background of “sophistication” excites no sympathy among ordinarily decent, educated people . . . “Smart” is as far as discreet socialites care to go . . . Hollywood take notice. It’s worth thought . . . Blurb writers bag down many an innocent Hollywood great . . . now comes the “Legion of Honor” to open to operate a cologne dairy in the country. It is pledged to “remain away from vile and unwholesome motion pictures” . . . Any more jokes at the expense of bishops? . . . Wissercracking Hollywood . . . Famous Hollywood bories: “Real talent is bound to win recognition eventually” . . . “Sure, commented a movie actor of long experience. “We use to get $35.00 and $50.00 for playing a ‘bit’—but, thanks to that committee the extras and ‘bit’ players sent to Washington, we now take $25.00 or walk the streets.” It’s enough to make you ridicule those working for the producers. Many (they the committee) don’t think so—but the results speak for themselves . . . With Pat Casey on the labor complaint committee in Hollywood and Senator Glass taking both out of the stock exchange bill while he is away, President Roosevelt will hesitate before he again turns his back.

IN HOLLYWOOD NOW

BY EUD. MURRAY

To the Olsen & Johnson opening NITE—in “Take a Chance,” and for the price of $1.50, per—it’s a great show—even if the rest of the cast is “ugly.”—Oley & Chicky once the whole burden of the show on their shoulders, and carry it well—we noticed Bryan Foy down in front—Mr. and Mrs. Ed Lowry and Mr. and Mrs. Tommy Dugan.—Marco (who was a piece of this and that) and Fanchon in her ermine wrap—Wally Ford, and one of the Giltless boys—and Bernie Weinberg down in Row 1—IN HOLLYWOOD NOW.

Doe Kearn’s Walkathon finally “get us”—So after a “Masquer rehearsal,” our old colleague Maurice Kussel, Dance Maestro, and his charming companion, Anita Pike, unloaded at the Walkathon, and excellently by “Rookie” Lewis—and M.C’d by our dear friend Frank Kerwin, who knows all the adjectives when introducing the “celebs”—Looks like every one was there—Ruby Keeler, who is doing a ten a second—her sisters are hot fans—Vince Barnett and Harry Green bet on everything but the Hot Dogs—LeRoy Prins, the “Fencing man,” and Dance Director, up for a bow, and his guest, anyone of “Estimo,” Mala—Bill Seeiter in a box—Mary Carlisle—Mr. and Mrs. Jack Lewis at ringside—Jack La Rue drops in late for a “look-see”—Ed Lowry forced up on the rostrum for the real BOW, and a few words to please the cash customers (is his face red?)—Jackie Fields training on “Hot-dogs”—Marion Nixon as sweet as ever—and Peanuts Byron, with her sister Marion, in a box with Bill Demarest and the Lowry family, and Tommy Dugan—the comic fellow on the floor who lives thinks up for the “walkers” is none other than Kenny Price, who gets here fair and square. You see—So-o-o-o we were inveigled with our host, Maurice Kussel, to be a judge of the midnite sprint—and while Maurice won the first derby, we nailed the “winna” of the Midnite—so we’re even—and then in the “wee” hours, after a perfect evening, we wound our way (wend is the word) back to our shack IN HOLLYWOOD, NOW.

Look Half Surprised—was the instruction given Will Rogers in “Merry Andrew,” by David Butler, the director, but Willie answered it that was all or none with him, and if he was clever enough to look half surprised he would look for a raise . . .

THE TRUTH AND NOTHING BUT THE TRUTH

The Rich Are Always With Us

The early part of this week a local Daily devoted much space to the sad sad story of eight little poor little rich girls, who despite their large and comfortable incomes feel that they must work. Dear me, they just can't be idle and the only work they care for right now is our local industry, "The Tin-selled Talkies"; and the various casting offices have been notified that the darling debutante daughters of the very ultra four hundred will condescend to work as lowly extras to gain the necessary experience. These Society Sussels are about as welcome on the extra lists as an outbreak of smallpox would be on a battlefield and the girls who must earn their living as an extra resent their intrusion, and one cannot blame them. Take the case of Janet Snowden, 19-year-old oil heiress who has forsaken social position to start work as a film extra. She has an income of $3,000 a month; she needs that work as an extra like I need poison-ivy, and the big "bosses" will see that she gets it. Why? Because she is Miss Snowden of the "Oilwell Snowdens" and if little Janet appears in a mob scene with 1,000 other extras, the very ultra Snowdens will condescend to patronize the picture. Oh, yes, my dear little boys and girls of the extra world, the poor little rich girls are always with us.

Mews and Purrs

Why is it that a really worthwhile show cannot be produced right here in Hollywood? It seems with all the talent available among legitimate Thespains, that we should really have a winter of a season of really a good show. Care and money is lavished on beautiful costumes and settings and the cast is recruited from either the social field or the friends of the family of the producer. Those two comedians who thought up that roilty little scheme to scare that little chorus girl are indeed lucky that the kid was too timid to go to the District Attorney with the story. It's "one to twenty," boys, for that kind of gag, so don't do it again. Besides, you are old enough to know better.

It's racket-time again in Hollywood. There are enough chiselers in town this week to form a new branch of the stone-mason's union. Heigh-ho, it must be Spring.

There is a certain actor in town who is causing his fellow Thespains to laugh in their sleeves, because of the tall hat said actor is wearing. Many remember him when and it's just little more than a year ago when he was a humble understudy to a well known featured player who recently co-starred with Joe E. Brown and now the little understudy who has grown up into a big actor, my lads, passes his old time friends by.

The only Purr this week goes to Clara Bow for her kindness to those kids who were tramping the road and who stopped at the Bow-Bell ranch for a feed. They got it, together with a new outfit from head to toe and their face went home. Good girl, Clara.

Varied Impressions

Merle Ford's voice . . . Henry "Daddy" Seymour's sourdough biscuits . . . good to the palate but bad for the waistline . . . that unique spot, "The Theatre Mystic" . . . Charles Spencer Chaplin at the "Rob Roy" premiere . . . Hazel Jones mellow voice . . . Baby Judy, the "Walkathon" mascot, just two years old . . . Dr. Pat Byrne's smile . . . Sam Brinkin's dilemma (you ask him) . . . Carmen Considine's petite daintiness . . . Winnie Sheehan's aggressiveness . . . Ira Darnell's courtesy . . . and last but not least, my own private impression of the performances practiced by those to whom you have been charitable.

Hieland Lads and Ladies Hold Forte at Music Box

Sir Walter Scott's immortal work, "Rob Roy," was presented for the first time in America last Saturday at the Music Box.

Here is a play that has been given great forethought, the scenes are the finest scenic spectacles I have ever seen. The action is simple and direct, though the contemplation is disjointed. The plot of the play is halted at times to allow the presentation of the lovely stirring songs of Native Scotland, such as "Càithre Òr Thru the Bye," "Auld Lang Syne," and the ever beautiful "Annie Laurie."" The Royal Venetian has the part of the Scottish Robin Hood, benevolent like his English counterpart to those in distress, yet harshly opposed to the tyrants in power. Henry Thomson portrays the dashing young hero who tends to drillize his rendition of Bobbie Burns simply love lyric, "My Heart is Like a Red, Red Rose." Other players are Wyndham Standing, Mrs. George Benjamin Hull, listed on the programme as Mary Lenox and Francesco Rotolii. Although scheduled to play the role of hostess, the beautiful dramatic voice of Merle Ford was heard above all the other choristers. Why the producer over-looked this talented lady and did not present her in the part she was listed for, I do not know.

Altogether "Rob Roy" is a really spectacular production and if you are one of the forty thousand Scotchmen, take a chance and see it. You won't be disappointed.

Gateway Players in 3-Act Mystery Comedy

A packed house greeted the April production of "Murder," a three-act mystery comedy-drama by Finlay McDermid and Arthur Fitzcharid at the Gateway Club House, April 10th.

The players under the direction of Francis Jose Hickson acquitted themselves admirably. Among those worthy of mention were Michael Whalen, Paula Randall, Jack Harling and Betty Roadman. The play was well staged and the entire company are to be complimented upon such a smoothly rendered performance.

BOBBY VERNON IS ASSIGNED

Bobby Vernon, Paramount scenarioist, has been assigned to his tenth script, "Thank Your Stars," to write the comedy construction and gags into the story that Wesley Ruggles is directing on that lot.

VERNON DENT AT M-G-M

Vernon Dent plays a fine part in "Manhattan Melodrama" at the M-G-M Studios, where Directors W. S. Van Dyke and Jack Conway are handling two units on the picture.

PREPARES

James B. Leong, Chinese author-producer of "Lotus Blossom" in silent days, appearing Anna May Wong, Noah Beery and Tully Marshall, is preparing another original, entitled "The Cry of Peace," which will go into production very shortly.

Credit is Due

A word of praise should go to Martin Freed, who makes the arrangements and conducts the Al Jolson end of the programme on the Kraft-Phoenix Cheese Company broadcast every Thursday night. Last Thursday was Jolson's last broadcast for a couple of weeks, as both he and Mr. Freed are returning to the coast.

Four Hal Roach Comedies for M-G-M Release

"APPLES TO YOU" CLEVER IDEA

A pip of an idea of taking grand opera and giving it a comedy touch via the burlesque mode. Some good music, and a pretentious production, with Lillian Miles, Billy Gilbert, Eddie Borden, Will Stanton, Wilfred Lukas, Douglas Wakefield, Billy Nelson and Jack Barty in the various characters. Skillfully directed by Leigh Jason. Good photography by Kenneth Peach and some clever and lifting music by Arthur Kay. This one should please.

"FOR PETE'S SAKE" ANOTHER "OUR GANG" COMEDY WITH THE NEW LINE-UP

The latest gang of youngsters should please patrons of picture theatres, who like this form of entertainment, and after they get in working order and get banded together a little more naturally they will show merit. The story was of a band of small children who help a little girl get another doll after a wagon has wrecked her old one. The situations are funny, but a little touch of pathos is added for good measure. Gus Meins directed, with Francis Corby supplying good photography.

"I'LL TAKE VANILLA" ANOTHER CHARLEY CHASE WITH AMUSING SITUATIONS

Charley takes the character of the ice cream vendor with amusing complications, when he gets mixed into an imaginary kidnapping that turns into a great satire on many of the police forces in this country. One of the gags, where Charley swallows a whistle, resulted in gusts of laughter from the preview audience. Charlie Parrott and Eddie Dunn directed and kept the tempo of the story running on high. Betty Mack, Tommy Bond and Harry Bowen helped along greatly by their good work, and Francis Corby supplied fine photography.

"MAID IN HOLLYWOOD" ANOTHER SATIRE ON MOVIE STUDIOS

Thelma Todd breaks into pictures in this one, with Patsy Kelly in her bungling way almost defeating lovely Thelma's luck. However, everything came out all right, with some amusing situations. Gus Meins directed skillfully, and had his players moving rapidly, with many amusing gags and some snappy dialogue. Thelma Todd and Patsy Kelly had Constance Berger, Don Barclay, Eddie Foy Jr., Billy Gilbert, Jack Barty and Alphonse Martell helping along greatly in the various roles, with Francis Corby doing the honors in the photographing lines.
Caesar's Leads All Night Spots Along Boulevard

You will have to travel a great distance to top the show and amusement that Caesar's offers in its playspot, which is the rendezvous of the stars at El Brendel. In looking the Hollywood Boulevard spots over we find that Caesar's leads 'em all. You can get anything you want in eats and refreshments until 2:00 A.M. Shep Kelly has always been a great hand to serve the public the best, and the controlled entertainers are all of that, especially Babe Mack, Johnny Horace and others, with Walt Johnson at the piano.

THAT GENEVA BALL

The Ambassador Hotel will be the scene of the Geneva Ball on May 14th. It will be a greater event than ever before, we are told.

Flo Ash Clicks in Calexico

With fan dancers still the rage, Flo Ash tops 'em all with her success at the A.B.W. Club, Calexico, California. This artiste seems to have a happy faculty of making her audiences more interested than any fan dancer that has appeared around these parts, which is a tribute to her artistry.

Dick L'EsStrange to Talk

Dick L'EsStrange, candidate for Supervisor of the Third District, and member of the Regional Labor Board, will be the first speaker at Hollywood's new Democratic Club, which holds its first meeting Tuesday evening, April 17th. This meeting will be in Behnannese's building at Western and Santa Monica Boulevard.

THE THREE STOOGES ARE BUSY

Howard, Fine and Howard finished their first comedy at Columbia Studios under Archie Goeltz's direction. Their next is to be laid out around a prize ring.

CHANGE SPOTS

Zion Myers left Columbia Pictures to join RKO-Radio as an associate producer. His place at Columbia Studios was taken by Jules White, who will head the shorts departments. Sam White signed a new contract at RKO to continue directing shorts for that company.

Junior Actor Guild Elects Officers

Around three hundred people attended the meeting at the Hollywood Woman's Club last week when the Junior Screen Actor's Guild had a meeting to elect officers for the forthcoming year. Those named are Lee Phelps, President; Tom O'Grady, First Vice-President; Florence Wix, Second Vice-President; Aubrey Blair, Secretary; and Edwin Baker, Treasurer.

Masquers Easter Revel Sunday

The Masquers Easter Revel is slated for Sunday night, Al Ray being the Jester, with Chief of Police J. J. Davis as guest of honor. The show slated is one of the biggest and best yet offered, and carries stars from stage and screen who are noted for their ability to entertain the masses and their gifts to the last act, and when it is over, a buffet supper will be served in the grill room.

Garnett Wanted on Loan by Paramount from M-G-M

A further request has been made to Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer for a four-week loan of Director Tay Garnett for "Honor Bright." Since Garnett's time expired at Paramount no director has been assigned to the company to replace him, and production will get under way on the picture immediately upon Gary Coopers' return to his home lot. It is hoped at Paramount that Garnett may do "Honor Bright" in ample time to be back on the M-G-M lot for the direction of "China Seas." Word from quasi-official sources at Metro indicate the request will be denied, chiefly due to the conflict that would arise with the production schedule of the Gable-Harlow picture.

Samuel Goldwyn Goes Into Production Very Shortly With Three Important Pictures

Samuel Goldwyn is wasting no time in lining up talent for Eddie Cantor's next starring opus, temporarily titled "The Treasure Hunt." Ethel Merman, Broadway musical comedy favorite and radio star, was recently signed for a featured role opposite Mr. Cantor. Miss Merman completed her first screen role with Bing Crosby in "We're Not Dressing" and left for New York after signing her contract with Goldwyn for a short vacation before returning here to start on "The Treasure Hunt." As another important step in the preparation for his new production season, William Wellman has been assigned to direct "Barbary Coast," which will have Gary Cooper in the featured masculine part. Dwight Taylor is rapidly completing the continuity and dialogue for this special production and indications are that this picture will reach the actual filming stage very shortly. With the above two pictures about to start, Goldwyn is preparing Anna Steen's next picture, which in all probabilities will be "Resurrection." Rouben Mamoulian may be the director of this world famous story.
Olympic Auditorium

Lou Daro certainly knows how to draw the fight fans by giving them only topnotcher boxers. Next Tuesday will see King Levinsky, Chicago Jewish heavyweight, and Lee Ramage go ten rounds. At present Levinsky is working out at the Ringside gymnasium, while Ramage opened his training at the Manhattan gymnasium. Undoubtedly tickets will be at a premium for this bout, as they were at the Art Laskey and Lee Ramage fight a few weeks ago, so get your tickets early.

Wrestling

Because Jim Browning evaded those terrific toeholds of Leo Nuna last Wednesday night at the Olympic Auditorium, Browning will meet Dick Davis-court, the wild-eyed rip-snorting mat bull from Vista, California, this coming week. Jack Daro is certainly succeeding in giving mat fans plenty for their money, for last week saw Harold Jacobs winning over Chuck Stringari; Vic Christy getting the fall on Joe Varga; Dick Daviscourt head man over Everett Ribbons; and Mike Mazarki lost the fall to Ed "Strangler" Lewis.

Hollywood Legion Stadium

Eddie Zivic, lanky member of the Zivic clan, experienced a bad case of stage fright in his first main event last week. Ponce, a clever, hard-hitting Mexican lightweight from San Fernando Valley. For eight rounds, Zivic looked like a tail-ender, showing all signs of going under at the end of the eighth. It was a boxing contest, with plenty of cleverness on both sides. But the fans don’t like boxing in main events and were beginning to express their disapproval, their protests growing as the go progressed. In the seventh and eighth Ponce almost sunk Zivic with body blows and the skinny member of the Zivic boxing squad looked on the way out. In the ninth Zivic suddenly caught Ponce with two stifi lefts and followed through with a short right to the chin, and Ponce went down. He tried hard to get to his feet in time, but Referee Abe Roth had counted him out. Other results: Bobby Olivas decisioned Chris Pineda; Miguel Martinez, the Watts Wasp, outlugged Jimmy Delucia; George Gravas beat Benny Pels; Red Wolfe won from Willie Juhera; and Walter Vaughn took the opener from Frank Goldenson.

The Scamp!

Andy Clyde, Education’s Scotch comic, wanted to donate some money to charity, and wishing to remain anonymous—didn’t sign his name to the check!

EDDIE IS O.K. AGAIN

Eddie Sutherland is up and around and feeling fine and dandy once again, and who knows but he will get back to work soon.

DeLong Products Score

DeLong Make-Up is used exclusively by members of the cast of “Rob Roy,” now showing at the Music Box Theatre in Hollywood, as well as several other local show houses. Robare DeLong, who heads the DeLong Laboratory, continues to expand his excellent product, not only to the screen artist, but to the stage artist as well. The national expansion program of this up and coming concern is rapidly taking shape, as evidenced by orders and inquiries coming from all parts of the country.

Columbia to Spend $1,000,000 a Month to Complete 1933-34 Program

Columbia Studios will spend approximately $1,000,000 a month between April 1 and July 1, completing its current 1933-34 program, Harry Cohn, president of Columbia Pictures, announced last week. Sixteen class A pictures, three action dramas, seven two reel short subjects and the monthly issue of Screen Snapshots are scheduled to finish production before July 1. The program will include pictures directed by Frank Capra, Lewis Milestone, Joe May, the recently imported German director, David Burton, Roy William Neill, Albert Rogell, Lambert Hillyer and D. Ross Lederman.

Jack Holt is listed to appear in three starring productions, Carole Lombard in two, Gene Raymond, Grace Moore, Claudette Colbert and Fay Wray in one each, with the remaining six of the class A productions headed by stars borrowed from other studios or by Donald Cook, Jean Arthur, Richard Cromwell, Joseph Schildkraut or Ann Soothern, Columbia contract personalities.

In work at the present are the Grace Moore operatic story, “One Night of Love,” with Viktor Schertzinger directing; Robert Armstrong in “Hell Cat,” under the direction of Al Rogell; and Tim McCoy in “Hook and Ladder.” The Short Subjects program for the present season includes two comedies featuring the team of Murray and Sidney, three rhymed musicals, and two all-star laugh-makers.

Edythe Fellows Lands Best Chance of Career in “Family Man” with Richard Dix

Class will always tell when put to the acid test. Little Edythe Fellows, who we think is one of the little Sarah Bernhardts of the screen, has been walking the streets of Hollywood, just hoping that one day she could play a part worthy of her talents. Not that she is concealed—to the contrary, she is somewhat backward—but everything she has played on stage and screen has never given her a real opportunity, but it fell to the lot of RKO-Radio Studios to sign her for the very part that will make her name stand out among child artists, for she is playing with her favorite star, Richard Dix, in “The Family Man,” under the direction of that veteran John Robertson, and is Edythe happy? We'll say she is, and the public who pay their shekels into the box offices of our best theatres will soon see America’s sweetest and most soulful child since Baby Peggy started the public’s mind to thinking about the kiddies of pictures next to the grown-ups, and in some cases in a greater measure towards the young ones, because they are more natural in acting on the screen.

MICKEY ROONEY PLAYS CLARK GABLE AS A BOY

Mickey Rooney plays Clark Gable as a boy in his present picture, “Manhattan Melodrama,” which M-G-M is working hard to make one of his best pictures of the year.

What the Kiddies are Doing

KIDDIES AMUSE

Janelle La Rue, concert violinist, presented a talented group of professional children at the Safeway “Kitcheneering” program recently at the Hollywood High School auditorium. Miss La Rue is to be remembered by her work as soloist recently with the Los Angeles Shrine Cantors. Richard Quine was master of ceremonies, Barbara Perry gave a fan dance, Brindell Simon gave a dramatic reading, Janelle La Rue and her Violin Ensemble gave a well interpreted group of numbers, and Jane Withers, of the Marco Revue on KFWB gave a dance and impersonations of screen personalities.

NORMAN SALLING O.K. AGAIN

Frederick F. Paul, Hollywood publicity man, is now rejoicing over the return to health of his little client, Norman Salling, Hollywood Baby Star, who was injured in an automobile accident a few weeks ago. Norman, with his father and mother, was on his way to Culver City, where the lad had been rehearsing for his next picture. Norman is now quite fit again and ready for work. His latest picture is a Jack Hays production, “Gimmie My Quarter Back,” for Educational.

Their Own Baby Stars—under the name of Debutante Stars, were named by Fox Films, with Alice Faye, Claire Trevor, Pat Paterson, Rosemary Ames and Drue Leyton, for first honors, who are expected to reach the heights of stardom in 1934.

MARLENE DIETRICH IS SUPERB IN “THE SCARLET EMPRESS”

IS PAT CASEY TRYING TO DESTROY UNIONISM IN HOLLYWOOD?

Josef Von Sternberg's Direction Applauded at Preview

Paramount Pictures has made some remarkable productions on a lavish scale, and "The Scarlet Empress" starring Marlene Dietrich, is no exception to the rule. A story of the great Catherine of Russia, who started her eventful life as an innocent German Princess and reached the height of her fame after she had gotten rid of a half-witted husband and so enamoured herself to the army of her adoption, that the populace was carried away with enthusiasm. Josef Von Sternberg, the director, delved deeply into the history of his subject and gives us that peculiar period of Russian history in which their rulers coupled savagery with religion. There is a magnificent sweep to many of the scenes, from the time the Czar's emissary arrives in Germany on orders to transport the Princess from her simple surroundings to the half-savage Court of the Czars, to that time when she swept the people off their feet by her dramatic ride at the head of the army into the Palace. It would take too long to go deeply into this colorful subject, but we can truthfully state that Josef Von Sternberg performed some marvelous results in the unrolling of the story. Preview audiences burst loose every now and then with tremendous applause. Marlene Dietrich was perfectly lovely as the wide-eyed, innocent Princess, and duplicated her fine work in her interpretation of the worldly wise woman who learned her lesson in the hard school of experience at the

Great Danger of Forcing National Labor Strike Looms

The motion picture industry of the United States, which depends upon the nickels, dimes and quarters of the working people to keep it prosperous, when it deliberately plots to destroy the right of those workers to organize, is planning its own doom. Strangely enough, the motion picture industry, at this exact moment, figuratively, is cutting its own throat by doing this same thing. In the hands of a man recruited from the ranks of labor, a man of the old "strong arm" school, in which brutality ruled over brains, this huge motion picture business places its future standing with ninety-nine percent of the men and women who pay cash to see its product. This man is PAT CASEY.

The prevailing Hollywood labor situation compels an observer to wonder just what kind of man is William Green, President of the A. F. of L. And when one considers Green memory goes back to Samuel Gompers, the man who created the Federation of Labor and was its courageous president until he died—a poor man. From here Green seems a politician, not a labor leader. If Hollywood is typical of his commanding qualities—labor had better get rid of him.

The man, PAT CASEY, and his employers, the picture producers, just now are engaged in an enterprise which leads to discontent, hatred and violence. CASEY and his employers are doing all they can to DESTROY unionism and create picture producer-controlled Worrying About Fat—are most of the feminine members of the screen, but Marion Nixon, who plays the leading character in "Arabella" for Radio Pictures, claims she is just the opposite and can eat anything she wants.

Wife Works Now—as Mrs. Frank Borzage, once a motion picture actress in the days of silent films, will play a leading role in "Capper," the stage play at the Beverly Little Theatre, with Virginia Valli and Walter Byron.

Money Means Nothing—to Merry Fahrney Eisner, Winifred Flint and Virginia Peine Lehman, with fortunes estimated at fourteen millions, but they disport their charms in the Cecil B. DeMille production, "Cleopatra," at Paramount.

Darling of the Opera—Marguerite Namara, famous singer of Italian Opera, is stoney broke, so just finished working with Sylvia Sidney at Paramount Studios in "30 Day Princess," a B. P. Shulberg production.

Each Day for Three Years—a devoted fan in merry England has sent a letter to Carl Brisson, now playing in "Murders at the Vanities," at Paramount. If you are not conversant with Carl, he is a recent importation to Hollywood.

Song Hit in 15 Minutes—was the remarkable record made by Mack Gordon and Harry Revel with "Did You Ever See A Dream Walking," but the hefty member of the team says they almost sweat blood at some of their efforts with little reward.

Out on the Ranch—with her husband, Bill Boyd, was Dorothy Sebastian, but the old lure of the screen made her change her mind and let the chickens rest as she decided to work with Ann Harding in "The Life of Virgie Winters," at RKO.

No More Fat—says Molly O'Day, who succeeded in losing twenty-five pounds without dieting and is now making a screen come-back at RKO Studios in a feature that Al Santell is directing so cleverly.

Saw Him in New York—in "Viva Villa," and the critics were so profuse in their praises of Leo Carrillo's work that M-G-M decided to sign Leo on the dotted line for a number of years. His hits were "Mr. Antonio" and "Lombardi Ltd.," on the stage.

Three on a Match—may be unlucky for some, but the fact that Oliver Marsh, famous cinematographer, who photographed "The Merry Widow," three times, is not superstitious. The first time it was a two-reeler, the second a silent film and now a talkie.

Eighth Wonder of the World—is Paul Sloane's set on the RKO lot in the production, "Down to Their Last Yacht," with a tropical island set in an inland sea, a complete native village and a fifty foot waterfall, all built on the stage.

So Good in the First—that Lanny Ross, who made such a hit in "Melody in Spring," that Paramount has assigned him two more, "Mississippi," a story that revolves around "The Showboat," and "His Master's Voice."

Two Charles Coleman—and they get mixed up in the casting offices, but the original is Charles Pearce Coleman, who sent us his card with his full name and is now working at Radio Studios in "Down to Their Last Yacht."

2,000 Extras Worked—at RKO Studios with Leslie Howard in "For Human Bondage," at Trafalgar Square, Victoria Station and other spots of London shown in the production. This was the prize of the year for the complaining extras.

Exhibitors Take Notice—that Monogram Pictures have some of the best players under contract, with Lionel Atwill, Gigi Parish, Ray Walker, Ralph Forbes and John Wayne on their list for present and future releases.

Another Art Director Wins—with Gordon Wiles, of Fox, winner of the Academy award for last year, promoted by Winfield Sheehan to assist Julian Johnson in the story department and finally to get the much coveted directorship.

Not a Crooner—says Nick Foran, former football player and now acting at Fox Studios, when an extremely effeminate person called to him at a night club, "Hoo Hoo, Crooner," and was the big six-foot Nick insulted. He's just a terror.

Ladies Take Notice—the dotted face veil so popular a few years back will most likely break on fashion's shore again, as Mae West is wearing one in her new picture, "It Ain't No Sin," at Paramount Studios.

Plum of the Season—landed by Carole Lombard, with Paramount assigning her the title role in "The Notorious Sophie Lang." It looks as if Herbert Marshall will have the luck to play opposite the blonde beauty.

A Wild Boar Hunt—was the attraction on the set of "Cockeyed Cavaliers" with Wheeler and Woolsey—the little beauty weighed 35 pounds and was brought straight from Santa Cruz Islands for the comics to play with.

Juvenile Stock Company—is now the order of the day, and Columbia Pictures has started with Genevieve Mitchell, Patricia Caron, and Richard Hemingway, with Bill Perlberg scouring the New York Broadway for recruits from the stage.

“Stolen Summer”

“Stolen Summer” will probably be snapped up by some motion picture company. It is trite, pseudo-sentimental, semi-sensational, and unconsciously melodramatic. And believe me, those qualities count in Hollywood. But if this new play, adapted by Ramon Romano from a novel by Empires Greyson and premiered at the Pasadena Community Playhouse, is going to get anywhere on the stage, it must undergo some severe surgical operations as well as rewriting. As it now stands, the prologue and third act should be eliminated and the play, without adding a line, would be decidedly improved. “Stolen Summers” is all a familiar stage star who marries a young author and discovers too late that youth cannot mate with age. It is another Playhouse show in which the cast and production are far better than the vehicle. Betty Blythe is good as the star, and James Ellison very good as the young author. Then there’s a young lady in a minor role, Diane Crystal, who appears to be one of the most striking personalities seen around these parts. She will probably mean something to Hollywood. Alan Bridge is swell as the star’s faithful manager, and Patricia Ellis demands attention as the author’s young love. Douglas Fowley does a wow of a comedy bit.

Beatrice Clicks in “The Boor”

For excellent drama, the Playhouse’s recent one-act play tournament for secondary schools has it all over the current main stage production. One of the best of these one-acters was “The Boor,” by Anton Chekov, which placed second in the senior high group. “The Boor” is presented by Santa Monica School and featured Beatrice Feldstein and Druce Henderson. Henderson received first place in acting for men, and much of his success was due to Miss Feldstein’s splendid work opposite. She showed unusual talent and possesses an unusual voice which should register well on the microphones.

ASSOCIATIONS — company unions. This work, unavoidably ABETTED by certain clauses in the NRA, is in full swing. Mr. Sol Rosenblatt ARMS CASEY to the teeth by giving him authority over extras and labor complaints. He plans CASEY in the heart of the camps of the workers. Rosenblatt makes PAT CASEY the most powerful enemy of union labor in this country, backed by the millions of the picture producers. Rosenblatt makes PAT CASEY a CZAR of all motion picture workers.

In this whole situation only the big picture producers are blind. They see unaware of the disaster facing them if their labor contact man, PAT CASEY, is allowed to continue his activities. This man CASEY, we fear, would not qualify for the President’s “Brain Trust.” That he CAN realize where his course is leading him—and his employers—is a matter of extreme doubt. Right here is where the producers show EXTREMELY POOR judgment in selecting the wrong man for the wrong place. The REACTION from CASEY’s work is positively INEVITABLE. And that reaction will be much more violent than the action. “Sow the wind and reap the whirlwind.”

The Hollywood scene produces but one real man, and that man is Judge Ben H. Whitmore. Hollywood, nationally known as a sociologist and lawyer. If the producers fired PAT CASEY—and all others—and placed their labor affairs in the hands of Judge Lindsey, and those he would select to help him, a catastrophe would be avoided. The handwriting is on the wall. PAT CASEY IS LEADING THE PICTURE INDUSTRY TO DISASTER; to war with union labor all over the United States.

Sennett Studios Gone—As Sol Lesser, veteran independent producer, has taken over the lot and will produce “Peck’s Bad Boy” with Jackie Cooper as the first, “Chanda,” with Gaye Whitman, to follow.

DIETRICH IS SUPERB

Russian Court. John Lodge surprised us greatly by the clever manner in which he handled the difficult role of Count Alexi. Sam Jaffe as the crafty, half witted Carr had a clever understanding of this difficult character, but Louise Dresser was a distinct disappointment. Ethel Merman, while Marie Seiber was a lovely and perfectly natural child as Catherine. C. Aubrey Smith contributed another of his rare characterizations as Prince August, while Ruthelma Stevens, Olive Tell, Gavin Gordon, Jameson Thomas, Erville Anderson, Marie Wells, Edward Van Sloan, June Darwell, Harry Woods, Hans von Twardowski, Davidson Clark, Philip Stelman, John Davidson and Gerald Fielding were others who helped the production to success with their clever playing of the other characters.

We are reserving a special paragraph for Bert Glennon, whose beautiful photography was a distinct asset to the production, and while we are not going to predict whether the picture will have general appeal, the applause at intervals during the unrolling served to establish that the preview audience appreciated the fine work of Marlene Dietrich and Josef Von Sternberg in contributing something to the screen that is quite out of the ordinary. Paramount Pictures deserve great credit for their daring undertaking in showing us Russia at the time when politics and religion held sway.

“The Affairs of Cellini” Equalled as Good as “Henry the Eighth”

Darryl F. Zanuck, associate of Joseph M. Schenck, has produced another winner for 20th Century Fox in “The Affairs of Cellini,” taken from the play “The Firebrand,” by Edwin Justus Mayer. The performance of Frank Morgan, as Allesandro, Duke of Florence, causes as much amusement as did the role played by Charles Laughton in “Henry the 8th,” while the performances of Constance Bennett and Fredric March are their best to date. Commanding attention are Fay Wray and Louis Calhern, while Vincent Barnett comes in for a great many laughs by his funny antics. Others who help the picture considerably are Jessie Ralph, Jay Eaton, Paul Harvey and John Rutherford. Gregory La Cava’s direction was excellent; Bess Meredyth is responsible for the fine screen play, and the beautiful photography is credited to Charles Rosher. In fact, every department more than held up their end throughout this production, which includes the associate producers, William Goetz and Raymond Griffith.

Storm Signs for “Kiss and Make Up”

Rafael Storm has just been signed to play one of the feature roles in “Kiss and Make Up,” a B. P. Schulberg production produced for Paramount. The cast includes Cary Grant, Genevieve Tobin, Helen Mack, Edward Everett Horton, Lucien Littlefield, Mona Maris and a number of other character players. Mr. Storm plays the role of “Rolando,” a comedy Latin nobleman.

Richard Thorpe Finishes Directing “City Park”

Starring Sally Blane

Chesterfield Productions has just completed another picture in “City Park,” which Richard Thorpe directed, starring Sally Blane. The cast that is supporting Miss Blane is a noteworthy one, for it contains such well known featured players as Henry B. Walthall, Hale Hamilton, Johnny Harron, Judith Vosselle, Claude Kink, Eddie Phillips, Mary Fooy and others. Melville Shyer is the unit production manager who looked after the wants of Director Thorpe. Andy Anderson was responsible for the photography and Edward C. Jewell the sets.

Personality Contest Winner to Appear in Pictures

Miss Majel McCarroll, who resembles Janet Gaynor, personality contest winner over a group of 375 beauties, is to appear in motion pictures, according to the latest dope from a major studio. Miss McCarroll is a charming brunette with plenty of personality and charm, and although a newcomer to Hollywood, she will have no difficulty in making the grade. Majel has played in stock in one of the large Northwestern cities. She photographs very well, and has a sweet voice suited to the microphone. Besides being an excellent trouper, Miss McCarroll is a featured ballet dancer, having won laurels throughout the State of Washington for her dance interpretations. Miss McCarroll’s trip to Hollywood was sponsored by Spokane papers and the Orpheum Theatre of that city.

We predict a good future for this versatile personality.

Thelma Woodruff Broadcasting

Thelma Woodruff is busy rehearsing a part in a radio epic which will be ready for broadcast this week end. Others in the cast include Eugene Parker, Paul Kelly, Fred Kelly and Mr. Chase. Miss Woodruff continues to make electrical transmissions for radio broadcast at United Artists Studio.

“Show House” Notes

Louis Merrill, general manager of the “Show House,” announces the casting of Huntley Hale and Adele Arbo in “Putting It Over,” scheduled for production on May 7. This new sparkling farce comedy by Hal Conkin, the author of “The Man,” “Delirious Day” and many other hits, carries you from the top floor of a big hotel right down to the kitchen, where much of the comedy occurs when a group of gangland thugs are recruited to save a desperate lack of help occasioned by a strike of hotel workers. New sets especially created by Arnold Englemand, and the direction by Celeste Rush, go toward making “Putting It Over” one of the best Showmen of Hollywood productions of the season.
The American motion picture exhibitors have held their convention and are homeward-bound. Hollywood producers met the exhibitors, showed them a good time and told them a few things from the Hollywood angle. Mr. Louis B. Mayer bravely faced the exhibitors in convention and gave the producer side, the meat in his coconut not being what seemed a defense of block-book and a slam at the double bill. Coming from Mr. Mayer representing the producers, all seems logical. Indecent pictures were slammed by the exhibitors, even though they were accused of rushing to book them when they showed box-office qualities. This seems logical—if all wrong. So we have the exhibitors happily on their way home dreaming of the end of double bills and much cleaner pictures—but with 600 or 700 of hope that block-booking will end. Hollywood stands firm on THAT. Latest reports from Washington say that Clarence Darrow will recommend a Federal Commission to regulate motion pictures, a fact likely to rule decisively and finally on ALL METHODS OF MAKING AND SELLING MOTION PICTURES. Exhibitors desired to stop double bills and RAISE ADMISSION PRICES, and: "Concessions of opinion was that double features are ruinous, that well-balanced single feature shows bring the exhibitors more revenue and that improved film product must be turned out if the industry is to continue its existence. . . . Successful business invariably adds to its success by DECREASING QUANTITY and INCREASING PRICES. . . . Improved QUALITY, when GUARANTEED, meaning money returned to dissatisfied customers can counteract leaner quantities and higher prices. QUESTION: Will picture producers GUARANTEE quality? . . . That the double bill is disastrous is beyond question. That quality in pictures fluctuates dizzyly is unquestionably correct. That exhibitors must take the bad with the good under the block-booking system makes theatre profits extremely uncertain is undeniable true. That producers profit only from "his" pictures and lose on all others is asking too much. So the irresistible force meets the immovable object. . . . The impasse involved calls for a third party, that party to ENFORCE ITS DECISIONS. . . . Clarence Darrow, it is said, will recommend the grading of all theatres. The logical sequence is graded pictures. Out of this we have the indicator pointing the exit to block-booking. If Darrow's recommendation is accepted, there will be first, second and third grade theatres. This situation inevitably causes a riot of prices, the third grade becoming, be cause, if the plan goes through—adios block-booking. . . . Well, the M.P.T.O.A. convention was a good thing for Los Angeles business; supplies Mr. Darrow with a potent point with which to help his recommendation—and leaves the producers facing the Decency League, belligerent exhibitors and a Government favorably considering Federal control of pictures.

By VIVIAN DENTON

Mews and Purrs

That sweet and lowly daily that blossoms forth each morning with saccharine reviews on current releases evidently bases its credits on the amount of advertising that follows up: Quarter page nets a "great"—a half page a "super-great" and a full page acts any picture, good, bad or indifferent, "a whole contingent of sugar-coated superlatives."

This procedure is extremely unfair to the other daily and weekly trade papers and should be discouraged by the studios, who are looking for a just review, unless they want us all to go "Pollyanna" and treat us accordingly.

What major studio recently sent a casting director to New York to sign up fifteen boys and girls from the legitimate ranks for "stock" here, at the rate of $35.00 per week? This is just another way to best the "Code," as hitherto this same studio has employed bit players at $25.00 per day.

The City Council should pass an ordinance prohibiting the opening of any cafe or night club that employs so many people when they do not have sufficient funds to pay off their indebtedness. They open up with the usual "gaga" searchlight system and feel that the public ought to wear a path out rushing to their front door—at the end of the week they close owing everybody. Something should be done about this; these fly-by-night ventures are a source of annoyance to everyone concerned.

The Grand Jury should spend a little of their spare (?) time investigating the shake-down methods employed by the so-called vice squad.

Most of the cafe's who serve beer and wines and other beverages with or without meals are wondering just Where! To Whom! and When! they pay off. It seems that the right lads get a kick in the pants anyhow, so what's it all about.

Leave it to the various studios to get around that fifteen dollar a day extra. They make them carry four or five sets of wardrobe so that they can shoot three days work in one.

Several hearty "purr" to Henry Dally, of the El Capitan Theatre, who has always given theatre-goers the best available "real shows" and "real names" at popular prices, which has catapulted him to success. Now he brings us Will Rogers in "Ah, Wilderness," and in so doing he has accomplished what no other producer could do—the return of the beloved Will Rogers to the stage. Rogers' interest in the script was so intense that he took a plane to New York to look at the Guild Production of the play. He was delighted with it, and we can look forward with pleasure for the Hollywood premiere of "Ah, Wilderness."

A very special "Purr" this week to Doctor Patrick J. Byrne for his quick response when called upon by this columnist to aid an indigent Trouper. Thanks, Doc, you are indeed the actor's angel. This case is only one of many stricken souls you have aided gratis.

Varied Impressions

Bill Boyd's healthy happy look ... Ann Sothern's vivacity ... "Thunder Over Mexico" (great) ... Jean Harlow's nonchalance ... Ken Goldsmith's grand epic, "I Hate Women"—me too ... Michael and Patricia Griffith, the two beautiful youngsters of lovely Bertha Griffith and Raymond Griffith of 20th Century ... Thelma Todd's beauty ... Noe Beery's disposition (grand) ... Sam Goldwyn's protege, Anna Sten (so exotic) ... Sl Smith's arrogance (phew) ... "Jiggs," the Don Juan canine of the Mark Twain Hotel ... and last but not least my own very private impression of these so-called openings—if someone opens up a can of sardines they hire a flock of searchlights. It's getting tiresome.

A Bouquet for King Vidor

It did my heart good to see the boys of the American Legion working out at "Tarzana" under the direction of King Vidor. The boys, about one hundred of them, told me that he is the "greatest guy" they ever worked for. He is, for I especially noted his tolerance and humane handling of some of the camera shy lads. You are O.K., King!

Actors Take Heed

Chatting with genial Charlie Miller, headman at "Actors' Equity," I learned that all theatrical producers are required to post a bond to cover salaries, but that if ten actors (Equity members) get together and waive the bond, what can the Association do? Nothing! Literally speaking, they strike themselves and then cry about it. If they would abide by the rules of the Association and stick together there then could be no squawk.\n
ROBERT MCGOWAN SIGNED BY PARAMOUNT TO DIRECT THIRTEEN ONE-REEL SHORTS WITH CHILDREN

Robert McGowan, who directed the first "Our Gang" comedies, which introduced Jackie Cooper, Farina, Mary Kornman, Mickey McGuire and others has signed a contract with Paramount to make a series of thirteen one-reel technicolor shorts with children two, three and four years old. Bob certainly knows how to handle children, and if anyone can make entertaining comedies with the children doing their best work, he can.

DICKIE'S BUSY

Dickie Jones

One of the busiest of little trouppers is none other than Dickie Jones, now working in "Fifteen Wives" for Invincible Pictures. Dickie is remembered for his very good work in "Wonder Bar" with Al Jolson, "Now I'll Tell" for Fox, "Reunion" and "Virgie Winters." This versatile youngster also broadcasts over KMTR and KFI. Sunday Dickie will be seen in a trick riding act at Hoot Gibson's Rodeo.

CHILD PLAYERS ACTIVITIES

Elaine Von, Wendy Moncur and Marcia Mae Jones in the quaintest of early English comedies with C. Aubrey Smith and their blond type, enjoy their roles of spectacle of Wheeler and Woolsey antics in "Cockeyed Cavaliers" ... Johnny Aber, with his elbow in splints from an accident while he was doing his rousing act on stilts at a school circus ... Edythe Fellows back at RKO following her well-merited success in "Family Man" ... She and Bonita Granville and Dorothy Gray charming in the new Ann Harding picture ... Vyola Von enjoying her stage contract with Olsen and Johnson down at the Mayan in "Take a Chance" ... Fans enjoying the splendid work of the juvenile lead, Johnny Downs, reminiscing of the old days when he was with "Our Gang" ... Billy O'Brien, very English in his smart Eton outfit, in a nice bit with Director Ford, who NEVER forgets the youngsters who have done good work for him. Wesley Girard in a "tough" bit for Director Conway at M-G-M, with a scrap on his hands in an exciting scene for "Manhattan Melodrama." Mickey Rooney playing "Blackie" in the picture, presenting a big toy motorboat to little Payne Johnson as a reward for a thrilling bit.

RKO SIGNS KID ACTRESS

Dorothy Gray, 10, has been engaged by Director Alfred Santell at RKO for the part of Ann Harding's daughter Joan in "Virgie Winters." She is now appearing at both Warner Bros. and "Our Gang" productions and is being paid for her work.

Ben Badr's Bouquet Score in "Night of August Sixth"

Naomi Judge runs away with first honors in "Night of August Sixth," and is a great picture bet. Others who command attention are Merle Mantell, Johnstone White a finished actor, Paul Ames good to look at, while the rest of the artists fill the bill. They are Mildred Gove, Herbert Ashley, Guy Gado, Charles Hessler, Erich Von Stoehling, Jr., Jack Cooper, I. Jack Bradbury, Marion Mitchell and Ray Kapler. The show was staged Saturday night at the Elisa Ryan Auditorium by the Ben Badr Dramatic Clubs.

"PUBLIC OPINION"

The plot of "Public Opinion" is as old as our California Hills, but the Spotlight Theatre production is a credit to Virginia Kay, who is sponsoring this little playhouse. She gives the play a fine setting, in fact, better than one finds in such a Playhouse. Jeanita Croydland is very good as the wife, as is Arthur Loft as the attorney, Daphne Darien as the innocent daughter, Frank Darien as a banker. Others who stand out in the cast are Pauline Drake, who is very sympathetic, William Moran, Jean Temple, Alice Parker, Ted Edwards as a bad heavy, Gene La Rue, Collins Woodbury, Howard Chadwell, Jenny Dark, Jeanne Goodwin, Jeanne Victor and Olga Barone. This three-act play has more plots and counter plots than in half a dozen serials. Producers should find something that would make an ideal movie in this one if they want to dig for material.
Helen Morgan To Be Guest Star in Beverly Wilshire Hotel Gold Room Sunday Night

The first guest star night held at the Beverly Wilshire Hotel Gold Room honor falls to Helen Morgan, who is to make her bow at this rendezvous of the elite of the Southland as an added attraction to the Carol Loaner Dancing Music Orchestra, which has been holding down this spot for some time. Sunday nights are getting to be a habit with cafe lovers around these parts, and they have practically worn a road to the very doors of the Beverly Wilshire Hotel, presided over by Manager Jennings, and we look for a capacity attendance to greet Miss Morgan, who has come to the West Coast for some theatrical and screen engagements.

Irene Castle Sees and Praises Veloz and Yolanda at the “Groove”

Irene Castle, at one time the greatest of all ballroom dancers, sat with a party of friends, Constance Bennett, Gilbert Roland, Joan Bennett, Gene Markey and Arnaud de Paree, and praised the dancing act of Veloz and Yolanda, the international dancers now appearing there as the added attraction with the Ted Fio Rito Orchestra, and Miss Castle praised the dancers, in fact, she applauded them very heartily, as did her friends. It was quite a night at the Ambassador Hotel, with such celebs dancing and dancing, and hundreds of others doing the same.

Caesar’s Started the Colored Show Craze in Hollywood

It fell to the lot of Shemp Kelly at Caesar’s Cafe to start the colored show and entertainment craze in Hollywood. He was the first to offer such entertainment along with the finest food and refreshments, such as different and better than the majority of places one finds along Hollywood Boulevard. The Three Queens of Spades harmony singers, Babe Mack, colored Queen of Songs, Johnny Horace, one of the funniest singers and comedians, the Head Singing Waiter, who looks nifty in his evening dress clothes, all lend class and real entertainment to capacity crowds during the evening, and a fine family trade for dinners and after theatre parties.

Club Ballyhoo Offers Packer and Lorraine and Great Revue

Frank Hanofer, owner and operator of the Club Ballyhoo, offers Packer and Lorraine, the most sensational dance team that has yet appeared at his night spot, has seen to it that these artists are backed up by a fine revue which contains Colley Richards as a M.C., Vici Joyce, crooner par excellence, and six of the prettiest and most versatile girls, in a series of songs and dances. The show was created by Jack Lester, who also leads the Club Ballyhoo Orchestra. The Shim Shams of 1934 company were the guest artists last Sunday night, which was another of those nights replete with plenty of fun and amusement for those present.

Merle Carlson Proves Versatile at Cafe De Paree

Merle Carlson and his orchestra continue to click at the Cafe De Paree, where Pete Dokos and Joe Pitrone are the major domos. Merle, we think, is one of the most versatile maestros we have ever seen—he sings, plays a saxophone and directs the band, all with real ability, and it is his handiwork that puts the show across in a big way. Marguerita Lucille sings her way right into your heart in a big way, while a newcomer from Chicago, Miss Bogue Adair, nerved the dancing act of Veloz and Yolanda, the international dancers now appearing there as the added attraction with the Ted Fio Rito Orchestra, and Miss Castle praised the dancers, in fact, she applauded them very heartily, as did her friends. It was quite a night at the Ambassador Hotel, with such celebs dancing and dancing, and hundreds of others doing the same.

Curt Houck Changes Program at Blossom Room

Curt Houck believes in changing his program of music and acts ever so often at the Hollywood Roosevelt Hotel Blossom Room, where he has his Catalina Casino Orchestra as the featured attraction, and in which he himself plays one of the most important parts in entertaining those who come to this place to dine and dance. The new dance team, Eson and Lucille, are a sensation. Earl Carroll and a large party dropped in the other evening and watched Jack Powell and others strut their stuff. Curt Houck has a new number, “Little Nell,” a rube take-off that is a howl. Ernie (Pinkie) Brown is making quite a name for himself here as a funnemaker as well as a fine musician.

Olympic Auditorium

An almost sell-out saw Kingfish Levinsky, Chicago, outslug Lee Ramage last Tuesday night. Referee George Blake did not hesitate in awarding the decision to Levinsky. The Kingfish almost stopped Ramage in the first round, but Lee reached the bell, and from then on, managed to jab his way out of the hot spots, now and then slipping over a right. Levinsky took all Ramage had to offer and waded in, slinging leather, rocking Ramage now and then. The San Diego boy lacks aggressiveness and a sleep-producing punch. That Levinsky failed to flatten him was because of Ramage’s speedy backpedding. And it is the same backpeddling that loses Lee’s fights. Until he develops a punch and decides to force the going, men like Lasky and Levinsky will steal the show from him every time out. Levinsky made the fight and deserved the me—

Hollywood Legion Stadium

Manager match-maker Charlie McDonald goes right on serving Legion fans top-notch cards. Last week Benny Miller, pride of Boise Heights, easily outboxed and outslugged Billy Donahue, tough light-heavy from Gotham. Miller had too many gloves for Donahue, who took a severe beating before he dropped out in the seventh. Later Donahue stopped Ramage. He was downed three times. The bout lacked spectacular features. The show was stolen by Billy Boggs and Al Romero in the semi. This was a caveman go. In the second the plodding Boggs nailed Romero with a short right and Romero hit the deck. He took a count and—was bounced off the canvas eight times, somehow weathering it to the bell. Later Romero downed Boggs three times, then took the lead, outslugging his man for a decision. It was a real test for Romero and the kid proved he has lots of fighting heart. A rematch will pack ‘em in. The Frank Rowsey-Bob Godwin main event tonight should pull ‘em in.

The King’s Club

The Colony and Clover Clubs best cash customers are drooping into the King’s Club these nights to hear and see Stuart Ross and Joe Sargent, who are the last word in patter songs. They make a fine appearance and know how to play their punch lines so that they go over with their listeners. The Three Brownies, too, come in for their share of attention. The King’s Club is right in the heart of the elite night life district and promises to win many friends through their latest attractions.

Leon Herriford and Orchestra Open at Cotton Club

Frank Sebastian, owner of the new Cotton Club, once more offers a fine musical aggregation in Leon Herriford and his Orchestra headlining the new Creole show, which contains more stars than any three similar playpasts could assemble. In the Herriford musical company you will find the old favorites, Lionel Hampton, greatest of all colored trap drummers. The Creole chorus is the greatest ever put on a night club floor, and the funmakers are second to none. Otto F. Brooks is the captain who meets and greets you at the door and sees that the best in the land is none too good for those who drop in for any of the three shows nightly or the dashing Sunday afternoons.

Moulin Rouge Unequaled for Show, Music, and All Around Entertainment

Babe and Bryan Hensley, owners of the Moulin Rouge, need no introduction to night spot followers. They have been serving the public for almost a quarter of a century, and right now have in their present location one of the most centrally located places where you can drop in night or day and enjoy food that smacks of the kind Mother fixes at home, and the refreshments mixed in a manner reminiscent of the most exclusive clubs. The show is brimful of novelty and amusement for all tastes and desires, and when it comes to good fellowship Babe and Bryan Hensley are in a class by themselves. Old Night Hawk is making this spot his “last roundup,” and here he finds most of his friends having the time of their lives, which is saying something these days, for so many places trying to corner the business of the elite of Hollywood.

Mrs. Kitty Rosengarten, well known in social and film circles, left Wednesday for New York City, where she is taking a vacation for about three months, and will then return to the Southland. Herman Rosengarten holds down his position with Curley Robinson in the Little Big Store, that serves filmmad’s finest among the stars, executives, artists, writers and technicians.

Cosmetic Business Control Is Being Fought

Sound—Cameramen Become Part of Union Mixup

Leader is Fighting to Continue His Supremacy

Stage and screen actors are going to benefit by the keen competition that has arisen lately in the cosmetic field in the Southland. Many inferior cosmetics, powders and lipsticks that have crept into the market will be eliminated on account of the housecleaning process that is now in progress.

Max Factor, who has ruled the field for many years, and who has become an international figure, will now find a competitor right in the heart of Hollywood, the DeLong Make-Up Studios. The DeLong organization has thrown its hat in the ring and is making a bid for the theatre and screen business, and also for the society make-up business. Robare DeLong supervises and creates these excellent cosmetics, and has associated with him some of the best cosmeticians on the Pacific Coast. Their plant is located on Sunset Blvd. near Western Avenue.

The DeLong organization has installed new equipment in its laboratories. It has reached out for international business and is finding encouraging response from all quarters. Its products have many qualities that are different from any other make-ups and powders now manufactured in the Southland. Orders are coming in from all parts of the country daily, and during the past thirty days Mr. DeLong has employed additional help.

In a recent interview with Robare DeLong, president of the DeLong Company, we were enlightened as to the quality and quantity of ingredients (Continued on Page 7)

Pat Casey Faces Big Upset in New Studio Deals

In the last issue Filmograph warned picture producers of the serious consequences that PAT CASEY is systematically heading for by attempting the complete destruction of the rights of organized labor. To date his operations have resulted in what seems the end of the cameramen’s union and the forming of an ASSOCIATION composed of members of the A.S.C. (American Society of Cinematographers). From these men the studios select groups for term contracts which they cannot break during a strike. The sound men’s union and studio electricians’ union, I. A. T.S.E. (International Association of Theatrical Stage Employees) are absorbed by the I.B.E.W. (International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers). By agreement with the Hays organization studios, all former (and present) members of the I.A.T.S.E., when they leave the studio to work on location, are compelled to pay for an I.B.E.W. union card. The initial cost is $12.00, with monthly dues of $3.25, a total individual annual cost of $52.00.

This means that the local I.A.T.S.E., the studio electrical workers, who have given their lives to helping create the huge fortunes of the men now running Hollywood studios, are ruthlessly kicked out, forced to surrender their organization rights to total strangers and FORCED to pay those strangers an annual tribute of some $35,000. To the men concerned (the producers) this looks like a NICE piece of work.

By ARTHUR FORDE

All Were There—at Golda Madden Craig's home, to honor Hope Loring and "Caprice" cast, the Beverly Hills Community Players, with Theda Bara, Dorothy Phillips and a host of others a few days ago. Their new season should surprise you.

Arthur Forde

Three Big Ones—Phil Reed and Don Woods will have a chance to do something good in Warner Brothers latest college yarn, "Just Out of College," and it looks as if the genial Dick Powell will be with them.

It Should Be Good—as Bela Lugosi and his famous Gypsy orchestra, Sam Feidler, and Chico de Verdi and his International aggregation of Gypsy musicians, will add their music to "The Merry Widow" for M-G-M.

One Pupil Lost—as William Henry, a student of Urban Military Academy, was signed on a player contract. Ida Kovernan, genial secretary for Louis B. Mayer, claims that she has made a good discovery.

She's Back Again—as we saw Anita Page on a lot and she told us she had been appearing on the stage in the East. But had so many offers from major studios that she was returning to the screen once more.

In for Good—is John Lodge, with a renewal of his contract, after his fine work with Marlene Dietrich in "The Scarlet Empress" for Paramount. Quite a quick success for a player with so little experience.

Three Weeks Enough—for the Richard Arlen in foreign lands, so Dick and his lovely family will embark at Marseilles on May 2nd for the United States, and prepare for his next assignment, "Ready for Love," for Paramount.

Musicals Going Big—as "Wonder Bar," the latest hit with Al Jolson for Warners, is breaking all the records established by "42nd Street," that was once considered one of the best.

Mullah Going Big—as Paramount cast him in the fourth this season. The first "Many Happy Returns," then "Half A Sinner" STARRING BERTON CHURCHILL AND DIRECTED BY KURT NEUMANN, PROVE TO BE HIT

Universal Pictures have given us one in this that will put any audience in good humor, as the preview audience laughed so heartily during the unreeling of their latest fun film that one priceless dialogue was lost to the audience. The yarn was taken from the stage play, "Alias the Deacon," by John B. Hymer and LeRoy Clemens, that had a great vogue on the local stage, but was greatly improved in the screen version by Earle Snell and Clarence Marks, with added dialogue by Ralph Spence that fairly scintillated.

Most of you remember the story of the smooth confidence man who goes into a small town and under the guise of religion wins everybody's confidence on sight with his oily voice and smiling manner, and makes his exit at just the right time.

Berton Churchill was that "Deacon" in person, and it would be difficult to see anyone else who could have gotten so much out of the character. At any rate, he kept the audience in good humor at all times. Sally Blane was another surprise in the clever manner in which she carried out the role of Phyllis. She looked lovely and acted naturally. Joel McCrea did not do so well with the character of John Adams. Our favorite child actor has always been Mickey Rooney, and he delivers another characterization of the precocious child, as Willie. Guinness Williams was perfectly cast as Bull Moran, and Russell Hopton did equally well with the role of Slim Sullivan. Gay Seabrook, Spencer Charters, Theresa Maxwell Cowan, Alexandra Carlisle, Reginald Barlow, Bert Roach and Walter Brennan were others who contributed to the success of the screen play and George Robinson provided lovely photography.

Kurt Neumann, the director, evidently knew his story well, as he handled his dialogue and players with skill, and kept his audience interested at all times. Universal Pictures showed a keen knowledge of audience requirements in selecting this splendid story, director and cast, and should reap a rich harvest at the box office in any community.

CLEOPATRA and "It Ain't No Sin," and now with W. C. Fields in "The Old-Fashioned Way." Another One for Ripley—as lovely Leila Bailey was rescued from drown- ing on a stage at RKO in the ocean order on the set by Paul Sloane, that is creating such comment in "Down to Their Last Yacht." Chambermaid to a Duck—is the latest job for busy Libby Taylor, chambermaid to Mac West at Paramount, as the duck that Carl Ilisson sent Mac for Easter is growing big and needs much attention.

Expect Some New Ones—when Winfield Sheehan, high one at Fox, returns from his European trip in July, as the last time he brought Kitti Gal- lian, Pat Paterson and Madeleine Carroll from across the pond.

Another Good Fellow—has been signed on an actor-writer contract by Fox Films, with Harry Green in both jobs, since he endeared himself to Fox fans with his clever work in both lines.

Two Famous Boy Stars—are all grown up, Wesley Barry and Ben Alexander, who are now working in "The Life of Virgin Winters," and from what we hear, are just as good juveniles as when they played child roles.

Once Filled the Pulpit—at the Methodist Church in Talladega, Alabama, but now Gertrude Michael is a prominent film player and is gracing the cast of "Mudrner on the Blackboard," at RKO Studios.

Wife Dominates Him—as Jean Fontaine, wife of Chick Chandler, RKO comic, has a permanent injunction, preventing him from participating in auto racing on the dirt track, where once he was a champion.

Seventeen Years Ago—Cecil B. De Mille had Charles Rogers in his cast at Paramount, in a production, "The Woman God Forgot," and now the same Charles Rogers is producing "The Woman God Forgave" for the same company.

The New Supervisor—at M-G-M should know what it is all about, as Sam Marx will take charge of Lupe Velez's latest film, "Indecent." He has headed the story department for a long time with skill.

London Gets Them—with Lawrence Butler and George Teague, experts in process work in pictures, sailing to join Alexander Korda and his London Films company on the Fairbanks' picture, "Life of Don Juan.

CLEANLINESS Versus SMUT—was emphatically decided upon by a number of theatre owners, who were asked their favorite players by Fox Films, and they immediately replied Will Rogers and Janet Gaynor, who never have to offend in any of their pictures.

Paris in Hollywood—is almost a reality, now that Mlle. Annabella, Andre Daven, Mlle. Danila Perola, Andrea Bekeley and Pierre Brassier have all been brought from the French capital to be featured in pictures under American auspices.

Father and Daughter Work—both providing stories for Fox Films, since Irvin Cobb decided to give his "Judge Priest" yarns to the screen, and daughter Elizabeth contributed her novel, "She Was a Lady."

RAINBOW STUDIOS MAKING PLACEMENTS

The Rainbow Studios, teachers of dancing, drama, voice and language, announce the opening of Saturday classes, starting May 5th. This capable organization has been placing its students with various motion picture companies during the past two weeks, several of whom are Dorothy Gray, who was seen in "As the Earth Turns," Warner Bros. epic; also Danny Boone, who has just finished at Columbia, and Dan Casey, who is now working at Educational.

MAX FACTOR'S MAKE-UP STUDIO—HOLLYWOOD

APRIL 28, 1934
Al Jolson is Back in Hollywood—To Do Another Picture for Warner Bros.

Al Jolson returned to Hollywood after a most successful radio broadcast engagement in New York. He no more than set foot on California soil than he and his charming wife, Ruby Keeler, started taking in the festive events, which can be found by the sport loving public every night but Sunday. Reports have it that after Jolson has rested here for two weeks he will return to New York City for a short stay, and then, upon his return to the film city, will don grease paint once more in a Warner Bros. production at their Burbank studio. "Wonder Bar," his latest talkie, is breaking records everywhere, and it is only right that the producers take advantage of a million dollars worth of publicity that is sure to be gained for them in the world's best theaters.

We noticed Jack L. Warner sitting at the Olympic Club next to Al Jolson in the latter's extra seat last Tuesday at the Levinsky-Ramage fight, which leads us to believe that we are not very far off in our guess that they are to get together on such a deal, especially when it is known that Mrs. Jolson (Ruby Keeler) is under contract to that firm.

"THE UNCERTAIN LADY"

POOR DIRECTION OF KARL FREUND HELPS MAKE MATTERS WORSE—CHARLES STUMAR'S PHOTOGRAPHY IS REDEEMING FEATURE

It's the same old story about "Too many cooks" spoiling the soup. In this case it is a good entertainment dish that should have been served up to theatre-goers through "Uncertain Lady," which was adapted for the screen by Daniel Evans and Martin Brown, with the screen play by George O'Neill and Doris Anderson, while the poor direction and angles of Karl Freund helped make matters worse. The story needed such writers and a megaphone wielder who not only knew but was interested in the subject, but the latter was not better than the material and handling that was accorded them. It takes a stage director to handle such sterling players as Edward Everett Horton, Pat Cavanaugh, Dorothy Peterson and Genevieve Tobin, while Mary Nash, Renée Gadd, George Meeker, Gay Seabrook, Donald Reed, Arthur Hoyt and others helped materially. Producers make a mistake turning over stories to directors who are unfamiliar with the American way, just as it would be folly to give some of our American directors a story dealing with European history and royal life. The photography work of Charles Stumar is one of the redeeming features, along with the earnest efforts of the stars and players. Other than this, we fail to see why Universal made this picture, unless they figured that such a combination accidentally might bring home a good picture.

Sloom-Frank Morgan Feature Starts Shooting at "U"

With the cast nearly complete, the Edward Sloom feature starring Frank Morgan, "There's Always Tomorrow," started into production at Universal Monday, April 23rd. Elizabeth Young is to be featured with Morgan. Others in the comedy-drama of American home life are Louise Lorimer, Robert Taylor, Dick W inslow, Margaret Hamilton, Morry Mudge and Helen Parrish. Scott R. Beal, Academy award winner for Universal, is assisting Director Sloom.

United Artists Theatre Has Good Program

With many comedy situations and an exceptionally good cast, "We're Not Dressing" is proving a good box office attraction at the United Artists Theatre. Besides Bing Crosby and Carole Lombard, the cast includes Leon Errol, Ethel Merman, George Burns and Gracie Allen. If you want hearty laughs and captivating music don't miss this picture. Clever short subjects in the supporting program include "Screen Snapshots" and "Henry the Ace," with Bert Lahr.

Artists' Agencies Combine Business Management

Myrt Blum, Phil Berg, Arthur W. Stebbins and Bert Allenberg will be the executives of Artists' Management. Their offices will be located at Wilshire Boulevard, just opposite the Beverly-Wilshire Hotel. Their present location is in the California Bank Building. This consolidation fills a much wanted need amongst professional people who have desired capable business managers to look after their personal affairs, as well as their studio business.

Motorists Beware of a Hard Boiled Minion of the Law

Motorists are warned to stay away from Van Nys and this valley district, and as far as this editor is concerned, to refrain from spending money with merchants there so long as they tolerate the present motorcycle squad stationed there. Apparently orders have been given to motorcycle policemen to hand out tickets for the slightest road infraction. Motorcycle Officer B. H. Tidbeadens, wearing badge No. 74, has so far gained the record of giving out the most citations. One of his favorite retreats is near Universal Studios, where due to the half mile long block, motorists frequently turn around in the middle of the highway. Then—out pops the brave (?) officer on his trusty machine. There's no excuses. He is absolutely John Law.

"She Loves Me Not" Opens at Belasco Theatre Before Representative Audience

Edgar MacGregor again proved his ability as a stage director when he handled adroitly "She Loves Me Not," in which Dorothy Lee, Russell Hopton, John Artz, and others play important parts. It is brimful of laughs, and holds your interest all the way. Miss Lee can always be relied upon to give an excellent performance and she finds in Russell Hopton an excellent aide de luxe. Theatregoers should support the latest of Homer Curran productions at the Belasco Theatre.

Patrick and Marsh Orchestra to Play

The International Geneva Association Ball, slated for May 14th at the Ambassador Hotel, will be entertained by the Patrick and Marsh orchestra. This affair promises to be one that will long be remembered, for it involves some of the best known men catering to night life followers in the leading cafes of the Southland.
THE FIRING LINE

It is high time that those who appreciate our efforts take a hand and protect us while we are on the FIRING LINE and fighting for FAIR PLAY for all who are working within the gates of the motion picture industry. HOLLYWOOD FILMOGRAPH is the oldest and only weekday newspaper in HOLLYWOOD, and has always fought the laboring man's fight. During the ACTOR'S EQUITY STRIKE we were the only publication that stood by the ACTOR. The last strike, where CAMERAMEN AND SOUND ENGINEERS walked out, HOLLYWOOD FILMOGRAPH was publicly thanked by HOWARD HURD at the American Legion Stadium for the FAIR AND IMPARTIAL way that we published the news and facts about the working man's side of the controversy. DO YOUR BIT to help us on our daily FIRING LINE fight to CARRY ON. Subscribe or advertise, and tell your friends to do likewise. WE THANK YOU.

Moving Movie Throng by John Hall

Federated Motion Picture Crafts, representing film studio workers, flouts refusal to file complaints with Pat Casey, producer agent member of the Studio Labor Committee...Pat Casey is chairman of the Producers' Committee. In notifying the Committee, Dick L'Hommedieu, secretary-treasurer of the Federated Group, says: "...We feel that Pat Casey must be unfair to all complainants, or else dishonest in his dealings with the producers who pay his salary." This is Labor Reaction No. 1 to Pat Casey's alleged refusal to browbeat labor. Hollywood labor refuses to be browbeaten by Pat Casey and his employers. The workers will comply DIRECT TO WASHINGTON. What next, Casey? You are doing worse and worse every time you make a move. And you producers: What is the name of common sense? Are you PAYING your OWN GUILLOTINE? With Pat Casey trying to represent both the producers and studio labor at one and the same time, and Louis B. Mayer (supposedly by request) securing signatures of all contract players, and having all other Hollywood producers do the same in their studios, to a petition against the Dickstein bill limiting importation of foreign actors, and every trick and substitute being used to defeat the NRA, Hollywood needs the keen eyes of Clarence Darrow. We suggest to the President that he send Darrow to Hollywood to study the local situation. It is suggested that Darrow contact Judge Ben B. Lindsey and that the two of them work together...If President Roosevelt has appointed ANY one man to represent BOTH SIDES OF ANY NRA matter there is no doubt in Pat Casey's assumption that prerogative—and the producers sanction his action...This situation calls for a Darrow and a Lindsey, and perhaps a court of law, a trial, and a sentence. The defiance of Hollywood workers is the FIRST MOVE in the direction of a giant labor war Pat Casey is fomenting in Hollywood. The Administration in Washington does not understand that the situation created by the autocratic Pat Casey is SERIOUS. The workers DEFY Casey and all his employers. They contemptuously refuse to be browbeaten by the UNLAWFUL acts of a strong-armproducer labor agent...This places the matter squarely up to the Code authorities and the President...Pat Casey must be thrown out of Hollywood and the en..."

Mews and Purrs

Oh, me, oh! my, I am only in kindergarten when it comes to columnning, but I am hoping that when I grow up into a great big columnist with a corner on a "Daily" that I will be able to roll up to the studios in a gilded Rolls-Royce with an upholstered footman and have the doorman bow low to me and fall all over himself to bring on the red carpet—oh! pshaw! what I really mean to say is—do they actually have to do it? Why all that pencil pusher needed the other a.m. when she arrived with such pompl at a local studio was Sir Walter Raleigh to spread the coat for her.

What recent feminine star, who prates of her career (which is really a thing of the past) as being the cause of her breaking "the tie that binds" should sit down and concentrate on how bad she felt when that "blonde bomb-shell" stole her third husband. If she did this, she would save the little girl whose man she craves much heartache and many tears.

A certain gentleman (?) who has recently returned to Hollywood from New York would be respected a little more if he left his bedroom secrets at home where they belong. His discussions regarding his wife's feelings for him have been disgusting his listeners.

What grossly overrated "Tattletale on a local daily is about to lose his job when his contract comes up for renewal. He will find a pink slip instead of the expected salary raise. "Ah! little man, what now." Back to the trade papers for you.

Winchell would say "orchids for you," but I give my longest and loudest "purr" in sheen admiration for the pioneers of the Screen Actors Guild. They worked hard, gave their time and money and unselfishly stepped down from their high places to give office to those whom they thought could strengthen this grand organization. It would be a grand and glorious gesture if the present "officers" and advisory board got together and conferred an honorary life membership upon those twenty-one loyal souls who made the Screen Actors' Guild possible.

A breach of promise suit will hit the front pages shortly when that "lassie" whom we all thought was so sweet sues that high powered executive.

Hypocrisy is filmland's greatest sin, and to one certain lady I'd say—your eccentricities were only rumors on Broadway, but in Hollywood you are on the "spot." Everyone knows, so why the veil of mystery? Those sneaky weekend trips are not secrets any longer, so why sit in judgment upon your weaker sisters when you are in the same boat.

A big "purr" this week for Joan Crawford for another very charitable deed. I bet that little extra girl will pray for you forevermore.

Another big "purr" for Tom Keene, a grand lad whose lack of affectation and pose is so apparent. Tom is playing the lead in King Vidor's first stellar production, "Our Daily Bread."

To that very noble lady, Miss Stevens, of the Social Service Department of the County Relief Board, for her grand gesture in placing "Dad" Zanffretts of this staff in a beautiful repit home in Highland Park, where he will have love and care, goes not only the sincere thanks of this writer, through whom the arrangements were made, but the gratitude of the whole staff.

Varied Impressions

Alison Skipworth's speech at the "Beeftaters" dinner Tuesday night at Al Levy's Tavern . . . Mrs. Jan Rubin's glorious voice . . . Karen Morley's baby (a lovely lad) . . . Boris Karloff's charming disposition . . . "20th Century" Columbia's best yet . . . Mary Astor's sincerity . . . Virginia Wood's promotion; congratulations, darling (no, don't throw the dictionary, you may need it). . . . The magnificent sets in "Down to Their Last Yacht" . . . Bobby Vernon (a hardworking little cuss) . . . Meny Fairney's fortitude (take it easy, Meny, don't let it get you) . . . and last but not least, my own private impression of that "studio" who awards ten years of loyal service with a petty promotion (phooey).
Cafe De Paree Offers Many Unique Features

Pete Dokos and Joe Pifronne have developed many new features at the Cafe De Paree (opposite Westlake Park). Starting off first with a top notch orchestra, Merle Carbon and his Musical Monarchs, they then offer such sterling singers as Margaret Lucille, Russ Costar and Aylor Ayres, a darling of the dance bands, clicking in a big way. The dance floor is a wonder to behold with the girls in the girls' chorus sure enough work fast and fine together and look like a million. Every Sunday night is theatrical night here, chuck full of laughs and entertainment.

Lionel Hampton is Welcomed Back to Cotton Club

The return of Lionel Hampton, greatest of all colored trap drummers, featured with Lewis Hines place will remain etched in the memory of the Cotton Club crowd. The musical organization headed by Maestro Herriford was the original Cotton Club recording band that played with Louise Armstrong and helped to create some of the biggest song hits, such as "One Hour with You," "Memories," "Rascal You," "Sleepy Time Down South" and many other song hits which the famous Armstrong sang in his own inimitable way. The featured artist center is a new addition, which will catch on immensely with the classic customers. Benny Whitman, popular referee and sportsman, has become affiliated with the Cafe De Paree, which means quite a boost in business, if you ask me.

Babe Mack, Johnny Horace, Lee Young and Walt Johnson Going Over Big at Caesar's

For a quartet of star entertainers such as are now appearing at Caesar's, it will be a hard matter for any one to find such talent among colored artists as Babe Mack, who not only sings delightfully, but always looks as if he had just stepped out of a band-box. Johnny Horace, one of the funniest of funmakers, holds the strictest attention. Lee Young, the lad who spins a tray while singing like nobody's business, is coming through in great shape at this spot. Walter Johnson is the best pianist we have heard around any of the night spots when it comes to tickling the ivories while the singers croun away to applause from the cash customers.

"The Nineties" Proves to be Interesting Night Spot

"The Nineties," on North Vine Street, in Hollywood, stages one of the most interesting shows in town, with a variety of entertainment and refreshments that pleases the most discriminating. Jack Thompson, manager, is the man responsible for the good food, and the novelty acts that are such a drawing card to the lovers of gaiety and fun. The floor show is produced by Will Cowan, formerly of Panchon & Marco. Mr. Cowan was also connected with several well known cafes and clubs in the East. Mr. Thompson makes the announcement that a large orchestra will be in evidence on May 8th. One of the cleverest of the Creole teams we have seen in a long time are Eddy and Sunny, whose popularity is increasing nightly.

Moulin Rouge Adds Many Features to Their Playspot

There are many new attractions being offered by the brothers, Babe and Bryan Henley, at their Moulin Rouge Cabaret. For instance, they have signed Alma Travers and Floria Washington, who were stars at Frank Sebastian's Cotton Club recently. These charming Creole "darlings" will sing their way into the hearts of visitors to this place of amusement. While the crooners are working you will find Harvey Brooks at the piano. It is this gentleman of color who wrote Mae West's best songs for "I'm No Angel." The Moulin Rouge offers dining, dancing and refreshments that are on a par with the best places in or around Hollywood.

Jerry Ross Tops Club Ballyhoo Show and Music Offerings

A new personality in the night clubs, Jerry Ross, tops the Club Ballyhoo show this week, which has such sterling acts as Packer and Lorraine, Vicki Joyce and Martha Janus working hand in hand with him to help entertain the crowds that nightly drop into this rendezvous for stars of stage and screen, and some as well of our best known town's people. Frank Hanover, the boss man of the place, has Jack Lester putting on the revues, and the dance maestro has worked his hardest to give us something new and different, and the girls in the chorus sure enough work fast and fine together and look like a million. Every Sunday night is theatrical night here, chuck full of laughs and entertainment.

Olympic Auditorium
Lou Doro and Tom Gallantry are showing Tony Herrera, Mexican lightweight champ, and Young Peter Jackson in Tuesday's main go, with a good preliminary card. Herrera is running good and there should be fireworks. Jackson is running out of opponents locally. Doro is trying to match him with Tony Canzoneri, who is listening favorably. Doro and Gallery, rather than stage mediocre bouts, remained dark this week. Art Lasky and Kingfish Levinson, Walker-Rosenboom and other topnotchers, will show at the Olympic.

Hollywood Legion Stadium
The impressive feature of the Legion weekly show is the unrivaled boxing of the regular customers. The place is always comfortably filled, and the old movie crowd is down there in the front seats as of yore. Charlie McDonald, manager-matchmaker, seems to be whole-heartedly backed by the Legion Committee in charge of the stadium. There can be but one answer: When the boys get in there at the Legion they must work. And they do. Peppy shows—that's the answer. Last week Bob Godwin, a tough, clever light heavy, was far too good for Don Conn, who substituted for Frank Rowsay. The go was one-sided all the way. His big point was Conn's rugged gameness. Teddy DeFrancis and Ernie Kirchner met for the third time in the semi, Kirchner winning. Carmen Barth decided to manage Victoria. In a hot finish, Red Wolf drew with Carmen Citro. Joe DeLucia won from Max Talty. Manuel Ponce stopped Carl Marks in the opener. This week Tommy Paul, ex-wherever-to-charge, meets Joey Ponce.

William MacGowan Clicks in Mae West Picture
What some actors would call a part made to order, William MacGowan can say that in all of his fighting days in the ring he never had a fistic bout that was made to order as the one he fought in the Mae West picture, "It Ain’t No Sin," now in production at Paramount Studios. In the talkie, Mr. MacGowan has a ring battle with Roger Pryor, who plays the lead opposite Miss West. The two mill to their hearts content and those on the inside say they never saw a battle that looked more real, and when you know the inside—that Director Leo McCarey, son of the once great king of fight promoters, Uncle Tom McCarey, is directing the Mae West picture and, of course, the fight you can readily see why MacGowan smiles at the results obtained.

Frank Strayer Directs "Fifteen Wives" for Invincible
Continuing his successful come-back in pictures, Conway Tearle, one-time star of the silent pictures, was signed by Maury Cohen to star in "Fifteen Wives," murder mystery which Cohen produced for Invincible Pictures at Universal Studios. Tearle's come-back in pictures is the result of his successful appearance on Broadway a season ago in the poignant role of the down-and-out actor. In addition to Tearle, Cohen has a very excellent cast of players, including Natalie Moorhead, Raymond Hatton, Noel Francis, John Wray, Ralph Harold, Oscar Apfel and Robert Frazier. Frank Strayer is directing from an original story by Charles S. Belden. Melville Shyer is production manager and Andy Anderson is at the camera. Edward C. Jewell is handling the art work.

Columbia has a Natural in "20th Century"
One could use every complimentary adjective in describing John Barrymore's paramount portrayal of the role of "Oscar Jaffe" in Columbia's recent release, "20th Century," but no word would fit the picture as well as the very simple—"priceless"—for that is just what he is.

Barrymore forgets himself and steps wholly and soully into the role of the egocentric arrogant mad genius, "Jaffe," magnificently, and not for a moment does he lose control of that character; he simply and sincerely gives you "Oscar Jaffe," the highly-strung temperamental producer, beloved by all his associates, tho' he drives them crazy at times, as if he, John Barrymore, might have really been the original around whom the story was written. Lily Garland, his protege and sweetheart whom he transfers from a lingerie model into an emotional actress, is ably played by Carole Lombard, although at times her voice becomes strident and screechy and not very pleasing to the ears. There was a tendency to overplay, which unfortunately was obvious.

The supporting cast was unusually fine, special mention to Roscoe Karns and Walter Connolly, whose efforts to keep Jaffe out of difficulties and provide him with the necessary funds for his forthcoming play evoked gales of laughter from the audience. The direction was excellent—Howard Hawks rates orchids for this one. It is clear, humorous and above all interesting. Eighty minutes of grand entertainment.

Restrictions and Lack of Work is Given as Cause

By HARRY BURNS

The NRA Code, which was intended to create more work in every industry, is proving a boomerang in the film industry, so much so that the extras, who perhaps had a chance to earn a living as a day player, have, since the ruling, on the compensation to be paid them and the method of distributing the work, which includes no requests from the studios, closed the door to them in such a manner that many of the best extras have been ousted from the place they once held and has forced them to seek a living in other fields.

The producers, too, have curtailed the use of extras, rather than increase the numbers, used. First, because the Code has limited them to certain kinds of work that can be paid for at the old prices, while in many instances the pay check has been doubled. The bit player of yesterday therefore has been relegated to the atmosphere actor of today, and many of them, fearing that the hand writing is on the wall, have allowed their wardrobe to run down to the point of where the Central Casting is no longer calling them for the high class work they used to, and are only giving them ordinary work.

Cutting down of the list to 1,500 is another heartache for the extras if it ever goes into effect. For here is what you will find: Casting offices in certain studios exchanging lists of their favorites and sending in their names, in order that only those may have the work.

Censorship and Labor Troubles Prove Bugaboos

The producers have become the object of swift kicks from the long haired gentry who call themselves censors to the press of the world, although these producers are trying their level best to improve pictures and make them profitable for their companies, in order to continue in business.

Their greatest worry, aside from what we have already stated, is the labor element connected with the industry. The NRA Code has forced the splitting up of work allotted to their employees until there is little less than a living wage for the workers, which naturally makes them dissatisfied with their lot.

The drastic censorship laws of every hamlet throughout the width and breadth of this good old world has them on the jump day and night in order to keep one step ahead of this clan. Every now and then you will hear some one rave and rant about forcing the producers to make better and cleaner pictures, while back of most of these cries is a selfish and personal interest. It is high time that the producers took their turn at kicking some of them around, especially those responsible for the abuse.

MAXINE RONDEAU AT SPOTLIGHT THEATRE

Maxine Rondeau, one of the younger actresses who has high ambitions to make her mark on stage and screen, is now appearing in "Four Queens and a Deuce" at the Spotlight Theatre.
Sardi's Was Busy—The day we were there, with quite a few Motion Picture celebrities present as well as the admiring fans who follow the stars around to their favorite restaurants from day to day.

Another Sister Registers — in the famous Young family as Georgiana, the young sister of lovely and popular Loretta, was cast for a role in the Fox production of "Caravan," that will be one of the sensations of the year.

That Famous Dancer—Fred Astaire, who made such a hit in the RKO production, "Flying Down to Rio," supervised by Lou Brock, has returned from London, as they have assigned him a featured role in "The Gay Divorcee." Mark Sandrich directs.

One Socialite Refused—a screen contract from Al Kaufman, one of the head men of Paramount, when he offered June Grabiner, daughter of the executive vice-president of the White Sox baseball team, a contract. Her excuse was, "I'm afraid."

She Pleases Her Husband—as all good wives should be, is the reason Queen Mary of England wears those curious hats, according to Madame Hilda Grier, now at Paramount, and formerly personal attendant to the royal personage.

Four Films Each Year—is the contract with W. C. Fields was rewarded with his latest success. "The first picture on the new deal being "The Old-Fashioned Way," that our old friend—and a good director—Bill Beaudine is making at Paramount.

Another European Prince—has joined the extra ranks with Prince Guido Pignatelli helping Will Rogers make "Merry Andrew" (Handy Andy) at the Fox Studios, and from what we hear, David Butler, the director, made a swell job of it.

Three Expert Make-Up Artists—were required to produce the remarkable characters that appear in the Fox production, "Caravan," as we noticed Charles Dudley, Charles Briden and Cecil Holland at work on the huge stage at Westwood.

The Latest for Women—is a trim tailored suit worn by Marlene Dietrich, displaying neatly divided skirts. She made trousers popular for the girls, but now that everybody is wearing them, Marlene thought a new style would be in order.

One Ton of Pulchritude—nearly taxed the strength of the stage of the Mae West set over at Paramount when the fourteen girls, averaging 149 pounds apiece, started to do their little dance for this forthcoming production.

Trem Carr Pics—Christy Cabanne to direct "Jane Eyre," the Charlotte Bronte classic. One of the year's specials that is expected to fall into the same class with "Little Women," Christy recently completed "Money Means Nothing" for Monogram Pictures.

The Two Laughmakers — Charles Murray and George Sidney, will make a brace of funny pictures for Columbia under the supervision of Jules White, the latest supervisor at the plant. The first will be "Plumbing for Gold," with Charles Lampert directing.

Her Excellent Work—in "Twentieth Century" by Carole Lombard has made Columbia star the blonde in another, "Orchids and Onions," an original by Diana Preston. To assure success, they have engaged S. K. Laurns to write the screen play.

Another Lucky Youngster—is blonde Allyn Drake, who is placed under contract at Columbia Pictures for their new juvenile stock company. The roster gets bigger and better every day, with Dick Heming, Patricia Caron and Billie Seward among the lucky ones.

"Sadie M-Kee"—Clarence Brown, director, and Edward Arnold, player, score heavily.

Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer state on their credit sheet, "Presenting Joan Crawford," and while the girl did a swell piece of work in the name character, they didn't realize when they engaged Edward Arnold for one of the characters that he would almost steal the show. However, it's an interesting yarn of the young daughter of a cook in a rich household who loves a ne'er-do-well, cleverly portrayed by Gene Raymond, and elopes with him to New York. The boy turns out to be a boor and leaves her stranded in the big city. She gets a job in a night club and comes under the notice of a playboy millionaire who takes a fancy to her and finally marries her. Her great love for the no-good boy is lasting, however, and she confesses to the millionaire her feelings. He releases her to the boy, who dies just in the nick of time for her to marry the man who was the cause of all her trouble. It's an audience story from start to finish and well told in the unrelenting. Joan Crawford did well here, but the character and looked beautiful in the bargain, while Edward Arnold's characterization of the pleasure loving millionaire is superb. His splendid knowledge of comedy and pathos sets a high mark for others to emulate, especially in his drunken scenes, that could have been ridiculous in other hands. Esther Ralston, as Dolly, the cafe entertainer, who lures the boy away, did a fine piece of work, although the cameraman failed to be kind to her in many instances. Gene Austin, Candy and Coco, help the picture in the cafe sequence—this should be a stepping stone for other engagements for them. Zelda Sears scored heavily as the landlady of the boarding house, as did Jean Dixon in the role of a broken down chorine who helps Sadie in her distress. Franchot Tone, as Michael the rich son who wins Sadie at the finish, was personable, with Leo Carroll playing the "butler" to the rich man with skill. Earl Oxford, Akim Tamiroff and Helen Ware do well with the other characters. Vina Delmoe's story is excellent screen material, and John M. Stahl has excellent direction.

Clarence Brown showed his long and valued experience in his clever direction of the story and players, but Oliver Marsh was a little uneven at times with his photography. M-G-M has a fine vehicle here for any theatre with story, star, director and cast, that will surely be one of the hits of the year.

Hal Roach Digs Up—Lillian Ellis on his recent trip to the pleasure spots of Europe. Miss Ellis was a sensation at the famous Moulin Rouge in Paris and had experience in screen work with a Viennese company with Paul Vejos, director.

Lilian Harvey Returns—in "Love Time," a romance with music, written by Anne Caldwell for Fox Films, and with the right director in the person of Paul Martin, who directed the blonde beauty in "Blonde Dream" and also helped make "Congress Dances."

Just Walking Around—is enough to tell whether a girl will make a success of stage dancing, at least that is what Albertina Rasch requires in a test, and she claims that out of thousands she has only been wrong a dozen times.

Since They Were Boys—Mitchell and Durant, comedy stars of "Stand Up and Cheer," a Fox picture, have worked together and of them they have ever had another partner. Quite a record in these changing days of stage and films.

"Showboat of 1934"—will be produced under the title of "Transatlantic Showboat" for United Artists, with Leon Gordon completing a script on a loan from the Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer Studios. The studios are swapping writers and players these days.

All Mixed Up—is Wera Engels, now in American pictures, who was born in Germany, educated in China, made her home in Paris, played in a Turkish picture, but is a British subject. Try to figure this one out.

Ronald Colman at His Best in "Bulldog Drummond Strikes Back"

Anytime an actor can hold his own all the way through a photoplay these days, as Ronald Colman does in "Bulldog Drummond Strikes Back," screen play by Nunnally Johnson, based on a novel by H. C. McNeile, he is certainly accomplishing all that any producer can hope a star will do. To be truthful, we hated to see the whole mystery cleared up, for Ronald Colman was so delightful in his portrayal that one sort of forgot everything and everybody and wondered what would happen next.

Next to the great performance of Ronald Colman, we would place Charles Butterworth, who created more real laughs in this picture than in anything he has ever done. Una Merkel came in for her share of laughs. Loretta Young not only looked beautiful, but really did some highly dramatic acting. Warner Oland's villainous performance was superb. He was so ably assisted by George Regas and Mischa Auer. C. Aubrey Smith, as the man from Scotland Yard, was splendid, with Ethel Griffies, Halliwell Hobbes, E. E. Clive, Douglas Gerrard and Arthur Hohl rounding out the fine cast.

Roy Del Ruth is deserving of a world of credit for his direction of "Bulldog Drummond Strikes Back." William Goetz and Raymond Griffith were the associate producers on the picture, which was very artistically photographed by Peeverell Marley. Edited by Allen McNeil, and musical score by Alfred Newman.

Daughter of Actor Arrives

Marie La Marr, daughter of Dick La Marr, well known screen and stage actor, returned from New York, where she has been working on radio and stage, and will take a fling at pictures.

"Public Opinion" Reveals Very Fine Character Actress in Alise Palmer

Many screen actresses are afraid to appear in legitimate stage Little Theatre plays, but not so with those who hail from the stage and have taken a hand in cinema matters, as in the case of Alise Palmer, who plays the "mother" role in "Public Opinion," now showing at the Spotlight Theatre. Miss Palmer comes from the speaking stage, her latest New York engagements including a long season with the Chas. Blaney stock company. She first made her bow before the cameras back in the Metropolis. Coming to the West Coast, she has more than held her own with the best known cinema players. We caught her in "Fashions of 1934" and "The Woman Unafraid," and found her work was very creditably performed. Alise Palmer is a widely traveled woman, her stunning and striking appearance abroad winning the attention of the great artist, Dana Pond, and even catching the eye of the Grand Duke Boris. Like all true artists, she never got shot. Sherather believes in allowing her work on stage and screen to speak for her, so you may as well make up your mind to get better acquainted with this silver haired character actress.

"CHEATERS"

LIBERTY PRODUCTION A HIT AT PANTAGES THEATRE

A double bill as usual, but the M. H. Hoffman production stood out vividly on account of the human story, fine cast and excellent direction. The yarn concerned a young man a girl who were discharged from the State prison on the same day and became acquainted on the boat coming over to San Francisco. The man is fixed all right, as he still has the spoils from a confidence game that he practiced, but the girl is in sore straights, as she was wrongfully convicted and finds the road a hard one in trying to go straight. The man comes to her rescue by finding a scheme whereby she is to marry a rich man, but everything goes wrong, as he falls in love with her, just as his plans are all working right. Of course everything turns out well at the finish, as he marries the girl and decides that the straight and narrow road pays the best in the end. Bill Boyd did a swell piece of work as the ex-convict, as his screen appearance just suited the role. Mary Astor playing the part of the girl cleverly. Her transition from the poor girl to the society favorite after she was gowned and beautified, was remarkable. Alan Mowbray was perfectly cast as the rich man and Dorothy Mackaill and William Collier got a great deal out of the characters of a confidence man and his moll. Louise Beavers can always be depended upon to deliver a bit to perfection and her colored maid characterization was a gem. Quinn Williams did a swell piece of work as a detective that was entirely convincing.

Phil Rosen directed with a splendid understanding of his story and players, with M. H. Hoffman, Jr., providing a lavish production.

To sum it all up, the audience seemed to enjoy "Cheaters" as much as we did. The other feature on the bill was "Black Cat." A universal production featuring Boris Karloff and directed by E. W. Ulman.

Moving Movie Throng by John Hall

WHIMSICAL HOLLYWOOD: Did you ever hear the crooning of a rhinoceros? That's what you hear when rival supervisors tell each other how good the other guy ain't. The flora and fauna of Hollywood and vicinity chiefly consist of cacti, sagebrush, ground squirrels, skunks, possums, soft-hearted casting directors, horned toads and yucca, the last being the lightest wood in California. It is widely used in motion pictures in the form of war clubs and furniture, to break on the heads of Hollywood actors. No, NOT producers... Sorry! One of the most noticeable whimsicalities of Hollywood producers is saying the wrong thing at the wrong time... Big picture moguls love to make speeches and be quoted on great public and industrial questions of the day, fondly dreaming that a palpitating world would hang on their words... Well, the public does hang upon their words. The public usually hangs like a bulldog, tearing the words to pieces, trying to make sense out of them. Behold! Independent Theatre Owners of Southern California, in meeting. Subject, the double bill. Mr. Louis L. Mayer on the soap box: "I am with them in that move (to end double bills). I am willing to go, but, by comparison, I will submit to the United States Supreme Court or the President of the United States (oh, yeah?) to defend my attitude of stopping you. I tell you I am going back there and I am going to raise H----L (my gracious). This destruction of the industry (double bill) must stop. It can't go on..."

The first film of 'Prosperity' at a cost of half a million (poor stockholders!) because it was not good. We made another at the same cost. (Ouch! Poor, poor stockholders!) We maintain a stock company so we have the best players. Last year M-G-M lost $750,000 on that stock company." (One-o-o-o-o-o) Wouldn't THAT give stockholders and U. S. tax officials the willies? $1,250,000 in the ashcan!... Go right on talking, Looie... I. E. Chadwick on the rostrum, replying to Mr. Mayer: "Mr. Mayer's remarks take me back to the time when Selig made movies, and the worm was saying the same thing about Mr. Mayer, who was then one of the independents he now decries. It is easy to sit on the heights of Olympus and give advice, but success does not give anyone the divine right to tell other men how to live. That's what makes dictators and unhappy world." Mr. Mayer retorts: You have no right to run your own business. No one has the right to do as he pleases. We have to think of the other fellow. (F. X. Bushman, maybe). If you think you can get along with just independent pictures, you are really not M-G-M to go to hell. Why, it's ridiculous!... It is a bit ridiculous to see a BIG GOD OF OLYMPUS publicly admit his company WASTED more than a million dollars and at the same time inveigh the whole world to tell that company to "go to hell..." When Federal experts finish checking the public speeches and writings of the Llamas of Hollywood, they will send it to hell, by comparison, will seem a jaunt in paradise... Whimsical, whimsical Hollywood!

Surprise at the OPENSING of "Moe Morton's 'Shim-Sham'" revue, Hollywood Music Box Theatre—A clean revue, with excellent dance routines by Dave Gould, who deserves more credit than anyone else connected with the show. The opening number alone was a classic, with perfect stage lighting, and to do it with "Lima beans" is the feat performed by Dave—and a flock of Orchids gave him alone. A lot of credit to Moe Morton for having the nerve to attempt this sort of thing in "Jaded Hollywood," and a "jinx" theatre—But as the boy who was born in "show business," Jackie Osterman, says, "If you've got the show, they'll come"—The most amazing surprise was, to us, the control Jack had over his long standing snub-nosed Bolivia, because for many years, we said, it was a case of "building over matter," and we were really tickled "pink" to see Jackie go thru that show with not once having his "breath come in boor plants" (no pun intended). We don't know what he did for us unless it was that good old "CALIFORNIA SUNSHINE"—He was nervous, yes, but he was a revelation in M.C.-ing—Osterman is class, and typical Broadway—Osterman drew the regulars into this opening night, and plenty of the "boiled shotts"—Osterman, you put it over—“Purrz and Purrz” for Sid Grauman for that very charitable act that I witnessed the other A.M. in the forefront of the Chinese Theater.

“The Last Gentleman” Another Arliss Triumph

Twentieth Century Productions give us another original story in "The Last Gentleman," a typical George Arliss vehicle. The story concerns an old gentle-man, the last of his line, who has a divine sense of humor and a strong tendency towards tantalizing his only relatives.

George Arliss, as usual, gives a flawless performance and is ably supported by Edna May Oliver (better than ever), Donald Meek, who, however, seems miscast; Charlotte Henry, who looks sweet and demure but displays no his-trionic ability; Frank Albertson, whose role of “Allan” was delightfully natural.

The direction was smooth—leave it to Sidney Lanfield not toondoover Barney McGill, as usual, gave this production clear photography. The story by Leonard Praskins is excellent and original. All in all, it is a good sub-stantial picture.

Richard Thorpe Directs “Green Eyes” for Chesterfield

In Town

Don Clare, former RKO-Pathe dance director, who has been staging shows at the Paramount Inn and Westward Ho, in Phoenix, Arizona, is back in town and is stopping at the Lido Apartments.

“STINGAREE”

DIRECTOR WELLMAN FAILS TO PUT THIS ONE OVER

RKO Pictures had something good in this one, if William Wellman had understood the value of his story, but he served neither fish, flesh nor fowl in the handling of the production. The yarn, by E. W. Hornung, told of a famous bandit in Australia, in the 70’s, who kidnaps a girl that afterwards becomes a famous opera singer but returns to her first love, the bandit, even though her sponsor tries to hold her. Irene Dunne was charming as the opera singer, with her clever rendering of some songs, especially “Tonight is Mine.” Richard Dix had little to exploit with his role, but Mary Boland walked away with a comedy role of the wife of a ranch owner. Andy Devine was good for a few laughs as Dix’s partner in crime, and Conway Tearle gave a fine performance as the opera producer. George Barroud, as the captain of police, trying to entrap the bandit, did what he could with the thankless role, and Henry Stevenson made a great deal out of the part of the ranch owner, with Una O’Connor playing a maid with good comedy results. The music of Frank Harting was especially tuneful, this being the only thing that saved the production. James Van Trees’ photography was quite uneven. We think this one will be unable to establish any box office records, although the names of Irene Dunne and Richard Dix may bring them in.

“DOUBLE DOOR”

NEW ACTRESS FINDS HER PLACE IN PARAMOUNT PICTURE

An interesting mystery story of two old maid sisters who inherit great wealth through the accumulation of real estate in New York, with the elderly one dominating the entire family and not even stopping at murder in her ambitions. The young brother falls in love with a beautiful girl and marries her, which is resented by the elderly sister. Lots of thrills and chills with an appealing story, and it is doubtful that Dix is ready for a performance of this nature; George J. Turner is well cast as the opera singer, and Colin Tapley scoring heavily as the young doctor who solves the mysterious disappearane of the young bride. Virginia Howell gives just the right touch as the faithful retainer, with Halliwell Hobbes, Frank Dawson, Helen Shipman, Ralph Renley and Burr Carruth playing the minor roles with skill.

The Wonder Woman was given a new lease of life with his careful direction, and Harry Fischbeck aided him greatly with his lovely photography. Elizabeth McFadden wrote the original story, that was suggested by Hermine Klepe, but we noted that Jack Cunningham and Gladys Lehman, veterans of screen writing, were credited with the screen play, which clearly showed fine continuity and dialogue. You can play this one in your theatre without hesitation, as it has all the ingredients necessary to make any audience go out and tell their friends.

“THE LOUDSPEAKER”

DECIDED MONOGRAM HIT—DIRECTED BY JOSEPH SANTLEY

Monogram has given us some very fine pictures, and in this one it has kept up the good work, if the hearty applause at the preview is any criterion. The story, by Ralph Spence, with screen play by Albert DeMond, tells of a low-mouthed, boastful boy who graduates as a helper at a railroad station to the head man of a national radio station. Of course there is a girl in the case, whom he meets at the depot in a peculiar way, and is connected with all his vicissitudes, finally marrying him after he almost sank to the depths of despair. Ray Walker was perfectly cast as Joe Miller, the boy. He put the characterization over in such a breezy manner that everyone was interested in him from the start to the finish of the picture. Jacqueline Wells was a lovely girl and did splendid singing voice. She was one of the Baby Stars of the Wampas, and should go far in her chosen profession. Charles Grapewin played another of those lovely characters that any audience likes, and Noel Francis did well as the friend of the girl. Spencer Charters got a great deal of comedy out of the role of the sponsor of the radio programme, and Lorin Raker is perfect as the radio manager. Walter Mack, Billy Irwin, Ruth Romaine, Lawrence Wheat and Mary Carr took good care of the other parts. Joseph Santley, the director, had his story and players well in hand at all times and is worthy of a real spot on any lot, with Gil Warenorton providing some splendid photography. Some catchy music by Roy Turk and Harry Akst was a great help in putting the production over, and W. T. Lackey showed experience in his supervision. Exhibitors need have no fear in booking this one, as the preview audience showed their appreciation in the usual manner of hearty handclapping.

ARThUR FORDE.
BOB HOLMAN AND RUSSELL CANTOR REUNITED AT THE CAFE DE PAREE

Bob Holman and his orchestra having finished their engagement at the Westward Ho in Pheasant Run, opened at the Cafe De Paree for one week’s engagement. Russ Cantor, who is singing and acting as M.C., worked with Maestro Holman in L.A. and also in Arizona, so this is quite a reunion for them. Marguerite Lucille, that popular crooner, is resting for a week and will return here when the show opens. Miss Lucille Adair, owing to her winning so many friends, has been held over, as have Modie and Le Maux and others of note who nightly and Wednesday and Saturday afternoons please the visitors with their singing and dancing.

HOLLYWOOD STABLES OFFER PLENTY OF AMUSEMENT

There are loads of fun and amusement on tap at all times at the Hollywood Stable. In addition to the regular patrons of the club, on a par with the best of them, the music will keep everyone happy. We caught Miss Patsy McNair in her fan dance and, oh boy, what a daring number! She was her usual beautiful self with Fred De Felice and Loring Blaisdell doing a great Apache and sailor act. Miss Giulia sings delightfully, while Gay Johnson acts as M.C. There was also a delightful dance act, but we missed their names. Carlton McKenzie manages this spot and does a fine job of it.

EDDI E AND FUZZY CLICK ON MAE WEST SET

Eddie Borden and Fuzzy Knitl play a couple of comical bits in a burlesque show that Mae West is the “Queen of Burlesque” in. The funsters went over in a big way in their parts. Leo McCarrey directs Miss West in “It Ain’t No Sin,” her present picture at the Paramount Studios.

EVELYN MYERS JOINS MOULIN ROUGE SHOW

Evelyn Myers, who for years was one of the top pianists and singers on the West Coast theatre circuit has joined the Moulin Rouge show that Messrs. Babe and Bryan Hensley offering those Queens of Creole Entertainers, Alma Travers and Floradora, Washington, with Harvey Brooks at the piano. Sam M. Daniels hangs away on the trap drums and helps everybody happy. This show, plus the dancing, dining and refreshments, is making Moulin Rouge a high spot as far as getting the best business.

VIRGINIA VALLI, WALTER BYRON, DOROTHY PHILLIPS PLEASE “ERASMUS”

The Little Theatre of Beverly Hills presented a fine cast at the Hawthorne Auditorium Monday night in Capprice, adapted by Philip Moeller and directed by Hope Loring. Virginia Valli, Walter Byron and Dorothy Phillips shine very brightly, while David Scott, Fred Sullivan, Reine Borzage and Joseph Halle help to keep up their high standard.
Hollywood Legion Stadium

Last week's main event between Tommy Paul and Joey Ponce ended in a no-contest decision when Paul accidentally butted Ponce in the sixth and Referee Larry McGrath stopped the go. The bout was nothing to rave about, neither man having any advantage. Paul's bobbing and dodging finally brought his head against Ponce's nose. His seconds tried to stop the flow of blood, but the beak was too badly damaged. McGrath's decision was right. Charley McDonald, manager of the시장 Dr. Martin to have the lags repeat on the Miller-Godwin card this week, preferring to pay them off and forget it. As usual, the preliminaries saved the day. McDonald always guards against bumm main events with a top-notch supporting card. Mushy Callahan, third man in the prelims, kept the boys at top speed. In the semi Johnny Hines jabbed a win from Archie Lewis, downs Lewis in the first. Forgetting his first knockout a short time ago, Hines is heading for the top. Peppy Sanchez outpunched Midget Martinez, the Wattie Wasp. This was a sizzler. Martinez is a great crowd pleaser. Ray Campo took the nod from Tully Corvo. Freddie Encinas won from Rex Reese and Walter Vaughn and Willie Tubero boxed a hot go in the opener, which was a draw. Tonight Benny Miller faces Bob Godwin. This one will make Benny show all he has, as Godwin is plenty tough and a good boxer.

Olympic Auditorium

Next week's show at the Olympic should be a complete sell-out, for on that occasion Messrs. Darn-Gallery-Doyle headline the Rumson Bulldog. Mickey Walker, swapping wallops with Slapsie Maxie Rosenbloom, light heavyweight champion of the world. And all the signs indicate that this is going to be a real fight, with Mickey absolutely “in the pink” and out to hold his place at the top. The Rumson mighty one is all through with the playboy stuff—and now he needs the money. Mickey's big chance to stay in the money. He just must get in there and hold his own with Maxie—otherwise the old tobbogan. A week later Art Lasky and Kingfish Levinsky will settle for all time the Jewish heavyweight championship of the world. Some line-up, won't last Tuesday's go between Young Peter Jackson and Tony Herrera was a disappointment to a small house. Jackson had Tony on the floor several times, but could not finish the job. The bout did the colored boy no good, because of his failure to stop the job he had on goofy street. Herrera takes the palm for finishing on his feet. Max Maxwell, in the semi, stayed down too long in the second and lost to Leo Kelley. Artie Duran took the special from Angelo Mussolini. King Solomon-Sammy O'Dell drew a slow bout. Chalky Wright decisioned Albert Ledoux in a hard fought go. George Goodman, in a rough bout, won from Joe Gardinas.

Film Colony to Turn Out for Loves of Byron Play Starring Leslie Fenton

With glamorous historical characters now the new vogue on the screen, the Hollywood film colony is registering considerable interest in regard to “Bitter Harvest,” the new stage play dealing with the love life of Lord Byron, which opens in Beverly Hills May 7 under the direction of the Beverly Hills Community players. A special party of studio stars will be on hand to welcome their film comrade, Leslie Fenton, in his temporary return to the footlights, who now takes the role of Byron, and the part is said to present him with one of the finest characterizations in his career. “Bitter Harvest” is the first of a series of plays being staged by the Beverly Hills Community Players for the purpose of special model playhouse in Beverly Hills.

H. and H. Productions to Make Series of Eight

“Camera” is the latest story that this new company is producing out of the International Studios under the supervision of Robert Hoyt. The story revolves around a motion picture company working on location at one of the large ranches in California. The hero and heroine, strange to relate, are members of the company, with a strange and thrilling mystery uncovered. The yarn was written by Eddie Davis and is directed by Robert Hoyt, with Leonore Poole at the camera.

The picture star, Edmund Cobb, will be supported by Edna Aselin, Eddie Davis, Mack Lackey, Felix Valentine, Walter Watts, Larry Madison, Lois Glassen and Tiny Skelton. This is a series of eight pictures that will contain just the right amount of drama, comedy and other things that the public is demanding these days.

Offers Great Service

The Colony Club Wine and Liquor Company is offering a great service to its clientele. The men who are back of this organization are too well known to need any further introduction, and we feel that no more need be said.

LONDON, April 16—The British Board of Film Censors is a contentious group, though severe in many instances. It is hard on animal pictures because it has received many letters protesting against brutality and cruelty in animal films made in the past. Not too much preamble; the picture in this category was completely turned down, and cannot be shown here. Last year such films as “American Tragedy” and “Island of Lost Souls” were rejected, and have never been seen here.

The B.B.F.C. is strongly opposed to (1) Films dependent upon sexual appeal and erotic passions; and (2) Definitely against sordid or brutal themes. Three hundred eighty-two films had to be altered, edited and revised last year (1933).

Gregory Ratoff is hard at work in the Gaumont British story, “Forbidden Territory.” This is being produced for G-B by Joe Rock, from dear of Hollywood. Joe just returned from Latvia, where exteriors were taken, and where some of the sunshine-lovers (Hollywood) were almost frosted to death.

Jack Votton and the American gang, viz.: Dave Bader, Rufus Lenaire and others, are preparing George Cukor any hour.

Anna Sten and Margaret Sullivan dashed newspaper raves recently, when their films crashed the West End the same week and won the “Nana,” thanks to the Censors, is now known as “Lady of the Boulevards,” which is SOMETIMES a naught saughty a title, as the book was banned here when the Prince of Wales was a wee boy. “Only Yesterday” has established La Sullivan as a real box office draw.

Talking about Laughton and Carstairs reminds us that four companies are after Paddy, who has broken pictures of Blackshirt, Master Crock. Paddy worked on this opus from the famous book for over four months.

Cyril Gardner and Dave Bader gave the gala in Brussels and Rotterdam a treat by going over to those fair cities during the Easter holidays, which are two days longer in fairer England than in the States. And believe it or not, the boys did the shop twice because a wager called for the first guy who did talk shop to pay the other guy a shilling, and you know they're both Scotch.

“Jew Suss,” Gaumont epic, is the talk of Europe. Hitler probably won't like it, but the rest of Europe will, because it's the biggest, finest thing Gaumont has done since. Conrad Veidt heads a cast that simply dazzles in big and little names.

Hans May, famous Austrian composer, is making a grand tour of his music, including Sound City, etc. While here several film scouts fell for his daughter Butti and she may make pictures here.

Charles “Buster” Laughton, as Paddy Carstairs calls him, is soon to leave these shores for the sunny hills of Hollywood, Culver City and thereabouts. With him will go a grand little aden Charles’ wife, Elsa Lanchester. Laughton is one of the most popular fellers on this side.

“Roman Scandals” opened here to grand business at the Leicester Square Theatre. Eddie is very very popular here, but that’s to be expected. “Stop the Jazz” wowed the press and faithful Empire public.

ARILLIS ARRIVES

George Arliss has arrived from the United States on a visit which will include his making his first British film. The nature of the pictures which he will do has not been announced by the producers, Gaumont British, but it is reported that he will portray a celebrated English character. Work on the production will not be started until early August.

Gaumont British has also announced the signing of Conrad Veidt to a year’s contract, effective at the expiration of his present contract with the same company, which terminates June 1. Veidt’s new contract is said to call for a record salary ever to be paid to a star by British producers. Several major producing companies in the United States were bidding for Veidt but he has elected to continue with Gaumont British, and will start work shortly on his next picture at that company’s Shepherd’s Bush studios.

Showmen Preparing for Premiere

Celeste Rush, of the Showmen of Hollywood, is busy these last few days before the opening of “Putting It Over,” the laugh riot by Hal Conklin, which has its world premiere before Show House audiences on Monday, May 7. With Arnold Englehard, art director, Miss Rush has been visiting the various big hotel kitchen in order to exactly duplicate the one best adapted to the required business of this new farce. So don’t shoot and ask afterwards if you see a strange person prowling around your kitchen—It might be Don McKenzie, business manager, or Lou Marriau, general manager, or any one of the company staff of “Putting It Over” looking for “loca,” or it might be Big Dick, the Eggman, head chef of the Hotel Chisel, or Jane the Dip, but they won’t bother you, for if you help them’ they’ll make you a member of their secret clan.

Laemmle, Jr., Signs Doug Fowley

Youth will be served, according to Carl Laemmle, Jr., general manager of production at Universal Studio, who announces that Douglas Fowley, sensational young actor recently seen in “Sailor Beware” at the Belasco Theatre, Los Angeles, has been signed by Universal on a long term contract commencing May 15, through the O'Reilly-Mana agency.
Screen Kiddie Mothers Are Being Gypped

Blind Ads in Dailies—Studio Come-Ons Draw 'Em In

Something should be done to stop the gyp artists who are fleecing the poor mothers of screen kiddies out of their monies by daily advertising high-binding promises of putting the youngsters in the movies. One racketeer claims that he places the applicant's pictures before every producer, director, casting director and assistant director. We doubt if ten people in the whole industry, among those just mentioned, even know that these men are in town. However, one in particular takes anything from $10 up for the so-called service, and he has been doing this for years.

Another grifter used to run a dancing school. He fleeced everyone that he could, then went into bankruptcy when he was pressed by some of his creditors, and is now working a come-on game among the kiddies, signing them up to long-term contracts, and demands, we are told, as high as fifty per cent of their earnings, and also insists that they give him a certain amount of money for exploitation purposes. We have never received a line of publicity about any of his clients, although his bait is that he just signed up a child that was just the type and that the youngster is receiving $300 a week and that the studios are clamoring for just such finds, from him and no one else.

There is only one legitimate kiddie casting directory that we know being recognized by the studios, and they have a way of helping experienced kiddies.

Eddie Cantor Announces Big Program for May 18-19-20

To augment the festivities planned by more than 500 screen stars and featured players who will actively participate in the first annual Film Stars Frolic on May 18, 19 and 20, at the newly constructed Gilmore Stadium in Hollywood, Eddie Cantor, president of the Screen Actors Guild, announced the roster of circus, rodeo and Mardi Gras entertainers.

To handle all details in connection with the frolic, Cantor has selected a special committee consisting of Ann Harding, Marion Davies, James Cagney, Chester Morris, Mary Astor and Sam Hardy.

The stadium, being rushed to completion and personally erected by Earl B. Gilmore, is considered second only to the Coliseum in capacity and auto parking accommodations. Situated at Fairfax near Beverly, it will be officially opened to the public with the presentation of the three-day carnival by and with the film stars. Thereafter it will be used for civic, athletic and amusement activities.

Climaxing the frolic will be a grand parade of all the stars associated with the Screen Actors Guild. Headed by Cantor, the celebrities will be preceded by four bands, and in the line of march will be Fredric March, Ann Harding, Mary Astor, James Cagney, Jimmy Dunn, Dick Powell, Robert Montgomery, Otto Kruger, Leon Errol, Jack Gilbert, Boris Karloff, Robert Morgan, Chester Morris, Sam Hardy, and hundreds of others.

Mussolini Likes Mae West—as he endorsed her famous curves after seeing her picture and declared that the slim figure so much desired is quite ugly; and what the Duce says goes with the people of Sunny Italy.

World's Best Dressed Women—can be found right here in Hollywood, says Carl Brisson, the newest foreigner to be at Paramount, and he should know, as he has covered all quarters of the world in his various engagements.

Lew Ayres and Alice Faye—are the latest team at Fox, in the production, "She Learned About Sailors," with George Marshall directing, and one of Sol Wurtzel's productions, made at the Hollywood studios.

One Year Ahead—will Jack Yellen be able to recome, as Fox signed him on a contract as song writer, lyricist and dialogue writer, with an option on his services, that looks as if Jack will be with us for a long time.

"Me and the King"—a yarn of an American actress who makes a tour of Europe, and almost wins a kingdom, is the next for glamorous Mae West at Paramount, and Mac is as usual writing the dialogue.

Leonard Fields Gets Another—as Trem Carr, of Monogram Pictures, assigned the director who made "Manhattan Love Song" popular, the megaphone of "King Kelly of the U. S. A.," on account of his fine work in the former.

Set Your Mind at Ease—with Talulah Bankhead positively about to make a Noel Coward yarn for Gaumont-British in dear old London, where the Bankhead fans are legion.

Mary Carlisle Gets Her Wish—as she was sick and tired of playing the coed roles on the screen, so M-G-M assigned her the feminine lead in "The Rear Car," a comedy mystery thriller with Harry Beaumont in the directorial chair.

The Circus Clown

Joe E. Brown at His Best in a Warner-First National Production—Great Kalmar-Ruby Story is Excellently Directed by Ray Enright

By far the best picture Joe E. Brown, of the cavernous mouth, has ever attempted, both from a directorial standpoint as well as perfect casting from the star to the minor roles. The yarn revolves around a circus, first starting at the dismay of a clown, deserted by his young wife, leaving a small son to be cared for by the father. This so much disgusts him that he decides to never enter the tents of this nomadic life, and takes charge of a small country hotel, where he expects to bring up the boy in healthier surroundings. All this goes by the board when the smell of sawdust in the boys nostrils causes him to be forever practicing acrobatics. The arrival of a circus in the town causes the boy to join up. First as a rooustabout, until by force of circumstances he becomes the star performer. Many clever complications have been written into the piece by those clever writers, Bert Kalmar and Harry Ruby, in an original story and continuity that almost smells of the sawdust ring. Ray Enright, the director, evidently worked on the story, as he had every detail cleverly established and his players seemed to enjoy their work as much as the delighting audience did at the premiere, which has supplied superior photography that was a great help in the production, with James Seymour giving the whole an elaborate production as Supervisor. Too much praise cannot be given Joe E. Brown for his remarkable interpretation of "Happy, the Clown," both as the father and son. He showed acting ability of the highest merit and his acrobatic work was perfectly correct. Patricia Ellis made a lovely and appealing trapeze performer, trying to bring up the young son of a drunken brother and incidentally in love with Joe E. Brown. Dorothy Burgess provided the feminine menace as a lion tamer, who uses Joe to further her own ends. This player's work is always flawless. Donald Dillowaid provided plenty of amusement as a man masquerading as a girl trapeze performer whom Joe is stricken with, and Gordon Westcott playing the drunken brother of the girl with realism. Charles Wilson's interpretation of the circus owner was exceedingly clever. Harry Woods as Ajax, the strong man, was a clever characterization also, was John Sheehan, Spencer Charters, Tom Dugan, Earl Hodgson, and Bobby Caldwell playing Joe as a small boy with a rare understanding, but the palm must be handed to little Ronnie Crosby, who played the young ward of Patricia Ellis. Warner-First National provided an elaborate production that should bring the fans in millions to any theatre to delight both the young and the older members to see a real circus picture cleverly placed on the screen.

Wm. Powell and Myrna Loy Prove Delightful in “The Thin Man”—W. S. Van Dyke Does Fine Job of Directing

One of the most delightful mystery stories within the humdrum life of big business getting mixed up with the key man of the story finally being killed by the very man that he entrusted with his legal affairs. The woman in the case is emmeshed, as is every one else, in such a manner that the unravelling of this yarn creates not only the greatest kind of suspense, but ails of laughter, thanks to the delightful performances of William Powell and Myrna Loy, who carry the burden of the screen play, which was written by Albert Hackett and Frances Goodrich, from the novel by Dashiell Hammett. W. S. Van Dyke’s direction proves once more that he never loses a single opportunity to squeeze the most out of every scene that he directs. Special mention is due the following artists: Minna Gombell, Nat Pendleton, Maureen O’Sullivan, Edward Ellis and Edward Brophy, for their splendid support of the stars. While these players filled in a very worthy manner: Natalie Moorhead, Porter Hall, William Henry, Harold Huber, Cesar Romero, Harry Wadsworth, Cyril Thornton and Gertrude Short. The last named artiste did a surprising bit. The photography work of James Wong Howe is deserving of a word of praise. The sound, too, was well handled by Douglas Shearer. The art work was by Cedric Gibbons, David Townsend and Edwin E. Willis. Musical score by Dr. William Axt, editing by Robert J. Kern, and wardrobe by Dolly Tree. The production was produced by Hunt Stromberg. It is a picture that will please the masses, for it is good clean fun.

Joseph Santley to Direct Wampus Baby Stars for Mascot Pictures in “Young and Beautiful”

The Wampus Baby Stars are to appear in a picture for the first time, through a story that is now being written by Earl Snell and Joseph Santley. The latter is to direct the feature for Mascot Pictures. The narrative is about the experiences of the girls seeking Wampus honors and what happens to them after they are selected. Production will start within the coming week.

“Bitter Harvest” Ranks as Fine Footlight Effort

Beautifully produced and admirably acted, “Bitter Harvest,” new three-act play by Catherine Turney, which opened Monday at the Hawthorn school in Beverly Hills, can be set down as one of the most impressive footlight offerings in recent months. The entire production reflects great credit upon the Beverly Hills Community Players, under whose auspices the play is presented.

“Bitter Harvest” is a rather daring treatment on the unholy life of the great British romantic poet, Lord Byron, whose fondness for half sister entangles him in a web of intrigue and tragedy from which he never does escape. The situations and dialogue, however, have been handled with fine restraint and intelligence, as well as power, and the piece is highly effective from beginning to end.

Leslie Fenton gives an outstanding portrayal in the very difficult role of Byron. It a part which again proves this actor’s marked abilities, and wide range of emotion. Jeanette Nolan, as the half sister, also delivers a splendid and sincere performance. Others who might be singled out for individual praise are Lindsay MacHarris, Janice Dean and Rosa Barcello.

Dickson Morgan’s direction is most noteworthy and contributes much to the play’s charm and potency.

Max Factor Proves To Be Man of the Hour

Whenever anything new is done in the cosmetic field, Max Factor, who has led the field for years, seems to have an uncanny way of discovering it. One look into his plant on North Highland Avenue will show you the reason why this success. For it is here that the latest “Satin Smooth Make-Up” has been created, and it has taken the studios and the country by storm. Max Firestein took Ye Editor on a tour of the Max Factor plant the other day and we were startled beyond words, especially when we saw the PERCERN hair and wig department, over which Perc and Ern Westmore, the kings of hair and wig creators, keep their eagle eyes, and their hand working to supply the demand of the studios and the best town’s people.

Edward Small, for Reliance Pictures, Gets His Classic, "The Count of Monte Cristo," Under Way

Following several months’ preparation, cameras started turning on “The Count of Monte Cristo,” Edward Small’s ambitious production of the Alexander Dumas classic for Reliance Pictures and United Artists. The story that has thrilled millions of readers in every civilized country is being brought to the screen on an ambitious scale, with a score of principals and hundreds in the cast. Robert Donat, young English screen and stage star, who was introduced to American audiences as the kings rival in “The Private Life of Henry VIII,” makes his Hollywood debut in the role of Edmund Dantes, the Count of Monte Cristo, and playing opposite him, in the character of Mercedes, is Elissa Landi. Other personalities include Louis Calhern, as de Villefort; Sidney Blackmer, as Montego; Raymond Walburn, New York stage actor, as Danglars, and O. P. Heggie as the Abbe Faria. Rowland V. Lee is directing Small’s latest production, and Peeverell Markey, who photographed “The House of Rothschild” and many other outstanding pictures, heads the camera staff. Four well known scenarists worked on “The Count of Monte Cristo,” Philip Dunne and Dan Totheroh writing the screen play and dialogue and Harvey Thew and Harry Hervey adapting the story. Serving in the capacity of associate producer is Leon Gordon, playwright, actor and screen writer, who has been announced by Small as a member of the Reliance organization.

Empire Pictures Start Another On Their Series of Eight

The most remarkable horse and dog in pictures will be seen in the next Empire Picture that Robert Emnett is directing, “Courage of the North,” with Frank Merriwell, the horse “Flash” and the dog “Captain,” as well as Bill Desmond, Harry Myers, June Aubrey, and a new face on the screen, Thaya Sutherland, from the Pasadena Community Playhouse. Empire Pictures have another series planned of eight action Western pictures starring Yakima Canutt, one of the most daring stunt men ever seen on the screen. This company is operating at the International Studios.

Moving Movie Throng by John Hall

The sight of those Hollywood movie moguls in a Los Angeles court, testi-ying for a henchman, inspires an inward chuckle ... For once they are on a spot where they can’t talk as an imperious something or other ... One of them, a gentleman named Thalberg, and a lawyer, furnished Hollywood actors food for thought. Have an earful! Lawner: What is a rehearsal? ... Thalberg: “O ly when the cast is on the set, on salary, and everything is ready for shooting, can you call it a rehearsal.” ... Lawyer: “If the leading actors and actresses start work two or three weeks before the picture is begun, is that a rehearsal?”

In United States, the Puritan blood of American lawyers held them to rec-tics. And in Allen’s poem has invaded their ranks; an un-American, Asian cunning seems to be rotting away
Puritan ideals and American rectitude.
This Allen cunning has nothing to do with LOGIC or REASON; it is born of the idiotic belief that Puritans are stupid ... “The opinion of those presents was that the (movie) boycott should be maintained until the subject matter of pictures is improved to conform to the ideals upon which our country was founded.”—Los Angeles Educators, in conference ... This will show that the American public, which is entertained in re-movies is shaping in America means a citizen who “conforms to the ideals upon which our country was founded.” And these ideals are NOT Asiatic; they are NOT European; they are AMERICAN.

Those who refuse to conform must be destroyed. Their destruction must be in the form of removal from all opportunity to degrade our literature, our music, our drama and our schools.

If Hollywood lawyers are too blind to see what is impending for their clients, if drastic reforms are not started at once, they are blind indeed ... The unrest extends to organized labor ...
The upheaval in our national affai-s, the NRA and other industrial recovery laws, with the blasting out of all forms of exploitation of the public and rooting out of immoral plays and pictures by religious bodies, should be a loud voice to Hollywood lawyers ...
There Is A New Deal ... After a few Hollywood windows were broken and a few hard Hollywood heads are cracked by the great religious battle against bad pictures; and after a REAL labor strike, led by the powerful I.B.E.W., Pat Casey gave the producers for the well trained, peaceable L.A.T.E.S.E., maybe the producers will observe the men who legally advised them.

SOME EXPERT

Fred T. Walker, remembered as the screen’s best “Lein,” now a make-up artist, did a good job for James Horne, a comedy director for Warren Doane, at Universal. Walker made a beautiful blonde out of Eddie Nugent, so attractively beautiful that a cafe full of players and tourists fell madly for the mysterious stranger. Horne, long with Doane at the Hal Roach plant, just finished another good one starring Stering Holloway. Billy Hackney is production man.

where she was given a supper for stage and screen celebrities of fame. This petite and exotic dancer is coming

Wampas Baby Stars Are Honored

The Wampas Baby Stars of the screen are always watched with interest by nearly everybody connected with the motion picture industry. First, for those selected, and second, for the one making the most rapid progress during the year. Joan Blondell was Tuesday evening, at the Elks Club, awarded the Silver Troupe for being the one to make the most rapid progress of 1933. Ginger Rogers, Constance Cummings, Gloria Stuart, Frances Dee and Mary Carlisle running close to the winner in popularity. Something has happened to the Baby Stars of 1934 that has established a precedent, as the thirteen lucky ones of 1934 were given featured roles in a B. P. Schulberg production. There have been many times when the girls have been used in a picture, but the difference this time is that every one of them will have a distinctive role in the production of "Kiss and Make Up." This will surely be the decided advantage of the clever ones, as merit will easily show who should be given a long term contract that the producer promised when the initial production is completed.

MEWS AND PURRS

There is an Englishman in town who for many years was the artist who produced the famous and infamous character figures for that great London institution, "Madame Tussard's Wax Works"; they say he is a past master at his art.

He has come out here under contract to a major studio, and he is on a different stage eight or ten hours a day, especially where a great number of extras are used—watch him closely and you will see him make lightning sketches—it has been whispered that Mr. J— is about to make many, many pretty little extra "lissies" and many, many handsome gentlemen in wax, and they will be used as background for pictures instead of extras in the flesh. The new wax extras will do everything but talk!

So, Tinsel-Town is pinching on the pennies but still throwing thousands of dollars away in stupid productions and equally stupid directors.

Is it any wonder that "Stingaree," a grand story, was entirely ruined, the future billing should be "Stinkaroo," and that is putting it mildly—the technical director was an ex-police commissioner and with each day he grows badder. There is no hope with that gentleman, I doubt that he is a good man and all that, but it takes a "bashwacker" born and bred to know his Australia. What was the matter with Snowy Baker—what a help he could have been.

I wonder why the story editors turn down a good script because it runs to 154 pages—too much trouble to read it, yet they permit drivel to burn up thousands of feet of good film—for instance, Edgar Allen Poe's stories, Goodness knows there are enough horrors in this day and age without digging into Poe's morbid monstrosities and screening them. There are so many stories of human interest, true stories in one's midst, that the movie-going public want to see, but when pot-shot scripts are turned out together with trust and alive with the bluest of blue prints, the public cry for these, too—why, oh well, what's the use.

Strange people, these movie celebrities—they need more than a psycho-analyst to penetrate the mask they wear, the mask the dear public has forced on them. I just wonder how many of them are happy. Money, you say "yes," but it has not come so easy—they have given their all to their art, they are puppets dancing at the end of the strings held in the hands of their loving fans. Sure, they have grand houses, and cars and maids and stalls as well, one thing they can never have is "liberty." They can never escape their captors—the capricious curious coveious public.

A very aristocratic "pur" to Johnny LeRoy Johnson for that grand invitation to the Wampas Dinner-Dance, and my very sincere thanks for that very nice introduction. It came as a happy surprise.

Millions of "purrs" to the millions of mothers on "Mother's Day," a very special "pur" for my own lovely mother so far away.

A wee "pur" of admiration for that astounding juvenile Charles Bastin, a grand little truiper.

A "pur" to the boys of the Herald-Express, and to their City Editor, for their good fellowship and friendliness.

I know Walter Winckell will be happy to know that many "purrs" are awaiting him here in Hollywood. The banners are out already, Walter, so hurry on out (he is expected June 15th).

"MURDER at the VANITIES" Promises to Top All Musicals—
Earl Carroll Opus Reveals New Star in Carl Brisson

Paramount can sit back and take it with a smile when it comes to musicals, for their offering of "Murder at the Vanities," directed by Mitchell Leisen, should be a Broadway success. It has just what the public cry for these, to-wit: Youth, Efc, beauty, captivating music, dancing, gorgeous settings. In brief, a real "Earl Carroll Vanities" brought to the screen in greater form, owing to the wider range this form offers than the stage. A new star will be born with the exhibition of this feature, for theatregoers will applaud the work of Carl Brisson in a most difficult part, and if he is given an equal opportunity will become a favorite as an "Earl Carroll Charmer," for he has that something that gets across on the screen. The cast is so brimming of real artists that try as it may the production can not lose the galaxy of performers who appear in the picture in their respective parts. For instance, there is Victor McLaughlin, giving a superb portrayal of his acting abillity. This actor can always be depended upon for an excellent performance. Jack Oakie was more than his share intended in the opus. Gail Patrick, Kitty Carlisle, Toby Wing, Gertrude Michael, Lola Andre and Barbara Fritchie look too beautiful for words, and all troop like veterans. Speaking about old timers, you will have to hand the palm to Jessie Ralph, Chas. B. Middleton, Otto Hoffman and Donald Meek for their performances; others who helped out were Paul Gerrits, Chas. M. Caveny, Colin Tapely, Beryl Wallace, Dorothy Stickney and many others. Mitchell Leisen's direction is something to rave about. It proves that Paramount was right when they promoted Mr. Leisen from art director to his present post; his directorial knowledge and treatment of his pictures are on a par with the best directors in the industry. The original story was from the pen of Earl Carroll, the composer, who also gave play credit to Carey Wilson, dialogue to Sam Hellman and Joseph Gollomb, music to Arthur Johnson, lyrics to Sam Coslow, dances to LeRoy Prinz, and the beautiful photography the work of Leo Tover.

Mr. DeLong reports that he is making rapid strides in his national expansion program, and that he is well pleased with business conditions regarding his DeLong products.

Mr. Fleischmann will specialize in the adaptation of voices to microphonic use, and the coaching and direction of dialogue. Joe Mills again impersonated Abraham Lincoln at the Decorative Arts Guild Friday night, making the Emancipator's famous speech in costume. Mr. Mills just finished a part in W. C. Fields' picture, "Old Fashioned Way," at Paramount Studios.

RAINBOW STUDIOS BUSY

Little Marion Olive, talented 8-year-old pupil of Rainbow Studios, was the first girl chosen for the professional group which is now in rehearsal at their Hollywood studio. Hudson Metzgar, under whose direction this troupe is being organized, believes that because of their size, these girls will be more outstanding than their older girls, who created a sensation last year in Grauman's Chinese, the United Artists, and Warner Bros. This troupe is the first reproduction in America of the well known English "Tiller Mites." Rehearsals will continue until school closes, at which time the Rainbow Girls will be ready for professional engagements.

FREDDY DeFELICE AND SUNNY BLAISDELL MAKE HIT IN CALIF.

Freddy DeFelice and Sunny Blaisdell, nationally famous dance team, continue to be a drawing card in the Southland. This duo has worked in some of the largest and most exclusive clubs in New York, Chicago, Detroit, Havana, Mexico and Canada, and at the present time they are staging several intriguing numbers at the Nineties, popular rendezvous in Hollywood, where their Apache dance continues to be one of the drawing acts. Their Caricca, Tugen and novelty numbers are extremely unique and original, and have pleased patrons at the English Village at the Ambassador Hotel and other exclusive clubs where they have been employed. Freddy and Sunny have entertained such celebrities as Wallace Beery, Lew Cody, Joan Crawford, Lilian Harvey and other notables from cinemaland. Sunny, exotic and charming little blonde, has a personality that has brought her a host of friends throughout Southern California. This team has made a decided hit since their arrival from Eastern cities.

LEON HERRIFORD WINS GREATER PRAISE THAN DUKE ELLINGTON

There is much talk making the rounds of the Southland about Leon Herriford and his Cotton Club Orchestra than was created by Duke Ellington when the latter had his band at the same spot. Maestro Herriford plays the “whispering saxophone” like nobody’s business, and what is more, he is some M. C., his personality going over the top with Cotton Club visitors and over the radio, with the Herriford Orchestra, and equally as important is Lionel Hampton, America’s greatest colored trap drummer. His new instruments cost $2,000, and have helped to improve his work in a great measure. Lionel is on his fifth year at Sebastian’s. One of the niftiest performers in the Broomfield and Gleeve Revue is Aurora Gleeve, who has more life, animation and zip than any half dozen fast singing and stepping colored hot mamas. We just learned that her full name is Aurora Borealis Camilla Gleeve. Get a load of this, will you? LeRoy Broomfield is a great showman as well as artist, and knows how to get the best results out of his actors. His present Creole show stands in a class by itself. Featuring May Diggs, Eddie Anderson, Johnny Taylor, Octavio Summers, Elta May Waters, Dudley Dickerson (the New York Cotton Club sensation), Rutledge and Taylor, and those sweet and popular singers, Martha and Cliff Ritchie, who are forced to sing many encore nightly. The Creole chorus and costumes set off the show in great form. The head waiter, Otto E. Brooks (that Southern gentleman), used to be the head man of the Fred Harvey System, and traveled all over, showing ’em how to do things up right, and to think that his highness is on the job here with a half dozen captains and oodles of waiters under him.

ALICE BRADY VISITS BEVERLY WILSHIRE GOLD ROOM

Alice Brady was the most noted of celebs who visited the Beverly Wilshire Gold Room Sunday evening. In her party were Martha Sleeper and her hubby, Hardie Albright. Others sitting in the charmed circle were Gloria Shea and Winslow Felix, Hal Grayson, Alice Joyce’s daughter, Win Wellman and wife, Harold Katser and Marion Bardell, Mary Astor, Ray Hendricks and Maxine Doyle, Art Wilson, Jack Stone, Frank Albertson and wife, June Knight, Tommy Lee and others of note. Carol Loefner and his musical organization are making many new friends nightly with their fine dance music and vocal numbers.

The Mickey Walker-Rosenbloom fracas out of the way, Messrs. Lou Daro and Tom Gallery are facing a sell-out house when Art Lasky and Kingfish Levinsky go to the post next Tuesday night to settle for all time who is the Jewish heavyweight champion of the world. Lasky is training at the beach and Levinsky works out at a local gym. Sister Leaping Lena says brother Kingfish, now acclimated, will flatten Lasky, then look for more worlds to conquer. Advance dope aside, men, between Lasky's heavy artillery and the leather-throwing Kingfish, it should be a hectic night. Maxie Rosenbloom, after a brief trip to the canvas in the first, took a seven-round beating from the Rumson Bulldog, now in great shape. The champion was staggered by the hardsocking Mickey and, at times, was on the verge of a knockout. Maxie took no chances with Walker, tried to outslap him, but could get nowhere with powder-puff stuff. The little guy from Rumson was too good. Both men had cut eyes, otherwise there might have been a decision to Walker was right. The sixth round, between Fritzie Zivic and Lloyd Smith was not so hot. Referee Frankie Van called it a draw. Cannonball Green, Alabama negro, met George Simpson in the special and proved a tough hombre. Simpson's cleverness won the nod. It was a good go. Michele Frattine, Italian, outpunched Tom Jeffers in a slug-fest. George Goodman in a fast go decisioned Frankie Castillo and Jack Willis took the opener from Frankie Limas.

Hollywood Legion Stadium

Benny Miller, stopped last week by Bob Godwin, may decide to call it a day. The Boyle Heights boy just can't get over the tough ones of the fight racket. He had no chance against Godwin, a rough, tough and clever light-heavy. Bobby Olivas decisioned Young Speedy; Angi Soliz won from Rito Martinez; Mickey Walker, previously tipped Maxie Ponce. Butted in the fourth, Red Wolfe lost to Frankie Arragron. Tonight, Vearl Whitehead meets Young Terry. Charlie McDonald and the Legion boys continue the good business at Hollywood. The Miller-Godwin go was a complete sell-out.

Showmen Inaugurate New Policy with Laugh Fest,
"Putting It Over"

Opening Monday night with a bang-up farce comedy, "Putting It Over," an opus by Hal Conklin, The Showmen of Hollywood started their new policy of a five night run, with hour change in the cast, when Celeste Rush, producing director, stepped into the leading feminine role, the play moved along with rancous laughter-punctuating each scene. Huntley Hale, as an indolent young man, turned in a finished piece of acting. Consistently outstanding was the performance of Golo Alvarez as the faithful valet to Chester Veyden, Jr., while Margaret Grayson, as the sister, and Thomas Owney, as her boy friend, were both splendid. Chester Veyden, Jr., was portrayed by James Haney with his usual aplomb, and equally as good was Margery Gremmen as the casier of the charger. Fred Fribour, bellboy deluxe, and Jack Reagan, as the effeminate clerk, gave the audience many guffaws. The rest of the well balanced cast; Kenneth Lamont, as the chief crook; Russell Hawthorne, as Big Dick; tonnes Thompson, as Jane the Dip; were excellent; Biron Eagan, Phaedra Conrad, Joy Parvis, John Morgan, Van Rohl, Don McKenzie, Anne Herman, Merle Lewis and Sam Lamb, convincing. Direction of the play and the portrayal of the part of Mary Dillingham, both cleverly done by Celeste Rush. Sets by Arnold Engleeder were realistic.

"Four Queens and a Deuce" at the Spotlight Theatre

Virginia Kay comes across once more with something amusing. The casting directors and other executives watch these performances and this time they have a bright little play that tells of a young man who has dallied with many females. He gets caught at last when they all get jobs as servants in his house just after he was married. However, everything turns out well when he wriggles out of his many troubles. Directed by Max Gabel, with Dougal Mack, Eve Harrower, Jean Temple, Katherine Johnson, Joe Parker, Silvia Maxine Rondin, Gene la Roche and the cutest child performer, June Smaney, we have seen in a long time. Casting directors will surely take notice of this youngster. The evening we were there quite a few film celebrities were present and acted as if they enjoyed the show as much as we did.

M. H. Hoffman Starts Another for Liberty Pictures

The intriguing tale of "Two Heads on a Pillow" is the title of the latest Liberty to go into production with M. H. Hoffman, Jr., assembling an all-star cast and director that augers well for theatregoers. William Nigh, famous for some of the best M-G-M productions, will direct, with J. H. McCloshy assisting. Just take notice of these names of favorites in the cast: Neil Hamilton, Miriam Jordan, Henry Armetta, Hardie Albright, Dorothy Appleby, Claude King, Edwin Martindale, Eddie Kane, Betty Blythe, Nelly Nichols, Lona Andre, George Lewis, Claire McDowell, Mary Forbes and Mary Foy. The camera work is in charge of Harry Neumann.

EVENTFUL YEAR

June Smaney
For a little girl of 11 years of age, June Smaney has had a very eventful year in pictures, as well as on the stage. To begin with, this soulful lassie has a love for dramatics—however, they always seem to cast her in comedy roles, as is her part in "Four Queens and a Deuce," now playing the Spotlight Theatre. This is the second play that this clever child artiste has appeared in with excellent success. Her screen appearances in "Little Women," "Stage Mother," "Mating Time," "Sitting Pretty" and many others equally as important, stamps Miss Smaney as one of the most versatile kiddies appearing on either stage.

CLEVER YOUNGSTER

Charles Bastin
One of the most outstanding youngsters that we have interviewed lately is none other than twelve-year-old Charles Bastin, who was brought to Hollywood for an important role in the Fox feature, "The World Moves On," starring Franchot Tone, Reginald Denney and Madeleine Carroll. This picture was produced by Winfield Sheehan and directed by John Ford. This versatile lad received his first motion picture experience in the studios of Paris. Charles speaks French fluently, and since his arrival here he has attained an excellent speaking technique of both the English and Spanish languages. Here is an unusually clever boy who is coming right to the front.

N.R.A. Strengthens Central Casting Control of Extras

Authors Prove Easy Prey for Scenario Agents

"No Requests" and Other Gags Work Hardship

By HARRY BURNS

The N.R.A. Code has played the day players' problems right into the hands of the Central Casting Corporation, and has given greater power to Dave Allen, General Manager, and his associates, to run the business of furnishing extras to the studios than he had ever hoped would come into his possession. The C.C.C. General Manager, all the way through the N.R.A Code formation, has maintained a "hands off" policy, allowing those who were eagerly fighting to put through certain systems and increases in extras' pay to go right ahead.

The various rules which the extras figured would help them have kicked back at them and cut down their earning power, and the "No Requests" from the studios, producers, directors, assistant directors and casting directors has absolutely made the Central Casting offices the ruling power. Dave Allen and his associates have the producers to please, the State Welfare Department to report to, and the N.R.A. Code as it is interpreted by the Producers Association. So the very instrument that the extras figured would prove a great help to them has so far proven a detriment, for it has robbed them of the rights that they held for so many years when studios could request whatever talent they wanted and in many instances they would call the day players direct and pay them a higher wage than if they were called through Central Casting.

"Inside Pull" is Just a Gag to Trim Ambitious Writers

Hollywood is infested with a lot of so-called author's agents who claim that they can sell unknown writers' stories to the studios because they have an "inside pull" with the editors on the various lots, claiming further that if the story in question was given certain revisions that it is a 10-to-1 shot that they could sell the story at a much larger figure—at any rate the cost for this service is only a small fee, but it is well worth the try and investment.

This graft is just another "come-on" that is being worked in the heart of the film industry. There are so many angles to the ways and means these so-called agents work that it would take a Philadelphia lawyer to figure the whys and wherefores that they promise certain things, when they know in their very hearts that they never get inside the studio so they can show their scripts or stories to the proper authorities, who buy the yarns if suitable for their stars and programs.

LEND A HAND AND BE BLESSED FOR EVER MORE

William (Dad) Zanfretta, age 79, is ill at the General County Hospital, and the doctors want to operate on him for what they claim is a tumor. Dad feels that if he could get into a private sanitarium, his life would be spared. We are powerless to help any further, and want some good Samaritan that would be interested to help an old clown and trouper.

Carl Brisson

Who starred in such European productions as "The Ring," "The Manxman," by Sir Hall Caine, "Song of Soho," "Prince of Arcadia," "Two Hearts in Waltz Time," and is now appearing in "Murder at the Vanities," which is showing at the United Artists Theatre. This marks the popular European star's first sensational American appearance. Los Angeles critics are high in their praise of this artist's work and predict a new smash box office star for Paramount Pictures.
“Thirty Day Princess”
Sylvia Sidney Scores Big Hit in a New Characterization

Here is a good little story, all about the Princess of a small European country coming to America, where her father, the King, wants to put over a loan, with an American promoter arranging the deal. On their arrival, the Princess gets the mumps, and the financier, in desperation, finds a poor little actress to impersonate the Princess, with a great deal of success. There are, of course, many amusing and thrilling complications. The original yarn was by Clarence Buddington Kelland, and made into a fine screen play by Preston Sturges and Frank Patos, adapted by Sam Hellman and Edwin Justus Mayer. Sylvia Sidney was delightful as both the Princess and Nancy Lane, the little impersonator, and her clothes will delight all the girls. Cary Grant made the role of a young man, head of a great newspaper, who has no use for royalty, but succumbs to her impersonator, stand out vividly, with Henry Stephenson playing the King with dignity. Edward Arnold was splendid as the American promotor. Edgar Norton made good in the role of the Prime Miniter, and we wonder why this splendid actor is not used more in important assignments, on account of his great knowledge of both pathos and comedy. Lucien Littlefield, Robert McWade, George Barbiere and Margaret Narama were perfectly cast in other roles. Marion Gering directed cleverly, with Leon Shamroy photographing the production beautifully. You’ll like this bright little yarn, and especially Sylvia Sidney in her new characterization.

“Many Happy Returns”

Norman McLeod Has Another Good One Starring Burns and Allen

Norman McLeod’s fine flair for comedy direction stood out vividly in the latest, with that great comedy team, Burns and Allen, with Gay Lombardo and his music helping the production along to a fine finish, just for amusement purposes, and it certainly “hits the ball.” All the owner, whose wild and insane antics get everybody into trouble. Written by lady Mary Cameron, J. V. McEvoy, Claude Binyon, Keene Thompson and Ray Harris, with catchy music by Arthur Johnson, and good lyrics by Sam Coslow. Burns and Allen play “themselves,” and if you listen to them over the radio, you will easily know what nonsense abounds in the picture. Joan Marsh and Ray Milland take good care of the juvenile portion of the production. George Barbiere is perfect as the irascible father, always in hot water over the antics of his crazy child. Gay Lombardo plays “himself.” William Demerest and Johnny Arthur are two others who amuse with their comedy, with Stanley Fields and Johnny Kelly playing two detectives who never detect anything. Egon Brecher, Franklyn Pangborn, Morgan Wallace and Kenneth Thomson play minor roles with skill, with Veloz and Yolanda in dancis that fairly scintillate. Larry Adler, John Taylor and Clark Rutledge in their specialties, and Gay Lombardo and his merry musicians, the Royal Canadians, playing selections as only they can do. In other words, the whole production is just for amusement purposes, and it certainly “hits the ball.” All the family can see this one, with theatre managers smiling at the jingle of the cash registers.

25 Years Ago—Hobart Bosworth was working in a Selig Picture down on Hill Street, back of a Chinese laundry, and today Hobart is just as busy playing a featured role in a Columbia picture, “Whom the Gods Destroy,” but Hobart says “Those were the good old days.”

Two Old Pals—lunching together at Paramount Studios a few days back when Al Christie, of the Astoria Studios, New York, was being entertained by Bobby Vernon, who is now writing at the Paramount in Hollywood. These two boys made film history in Hollywood.

The Beauty Contest Winner—Gwenillian Gill, of Paramount, has been loaned to Treni Carr, of Monogram, to play opposite Ralph Forbes in the production, “Shock,” that Roy Pomeroy, a former cameraman, is to direct, but Treni always gets the best in any picture he makes.

We Noticed Ronald Colman—who recently finished the 20th Century picture, “Bulldog Drummond Strikes Back,” seriously discussing a new lens with Gilbert Morgan, in his camera shop on Sunset Blvd., a few days ago, and learned that Ronald is a student of the camera, and knows his lenses.

The Newest Executive—Robert Welsh, of Monogram Pictures, has assigned Albert de Mord to write the screen play, “Dynamite and Dames,” an original by George Bertholton, but Robert is not new, as he was a prominent executive at Universal for a number of years.

Ten Major Cities—saw a preview of “Murder at the Vanities,” featuring Carl Brisson, recently from Europe, by Earl Carroll flying from Coast to Coast on a thousand mile itinerary each day, and from what we hear, the film made a hit wherever shown.

The Best Dress Man—says Adolph Menijen, are Gary Cooper for overcoats, Lowell Sherman with his caps and hats, the ties of Robert Montgomery, William Powell’s trousers and the shoes of Clive Brook, with no one differing from Adolphe, as he is one of the best.

12 Different Costumes—and each calling for a change in make-up of face and hair, was the difficult task for Loretta Young for “Caravan,” a Fox production now in the making, with Erik Charell, recently from Europe, directing, and a master of detail.

Greatest Show Ever—is Moe Morton’s Shim Sham Revue at the Music Box, staged by Dave Gould, with Jack Osterman, Winnie Shaw, Ber nie and Walker, Cully Richards, Olive Faye, Janece Capon, Jay Mills and the peppiest chorines, both white and colored, that has been seen in a long time on any stage.

Henry McRae Tells Us—of his latest plan, for Buck Jones, who is now in San Francisco, talking to the Boy Scouts, but will shortly return to start a season of outdoor pictures, with such distinguished writers as W. C. Tuttle, William McLeod Raines and B. M. Bower.

C. A. Tornqvist of Paris—writes us to expect another beauty from gay Vienna, who will give our eyes a treat at Hal Roach Studios and is called Lillian Ellis. She is a singer and dancer par excellence, and has been a decided hit in all European cities for a long time.

“The Old Fashioned Way”— was shown to Irving S. Cobb at the Paramount Studios by W. C. Fields, who is starring in the production, with direction by William Beaudine. Of course you know the gentleman from Tack tuck is an actor these days for Hal Roach.

Just Another Secret—is the theme of Cecil B. De Mille’s next production for Paramount, but he is working out the details on his yacht when he takes a vacation after finishing “Cleopatra,” which we hear is another good one from the veteran director.

Hollywood Just Right—says Carl Brisson, who recently completed a featured role in “Murder at the Vanities” for Paramount, and Carl is so delighted that he is looking around for one of those Beverly Hills homes and a yacht to spend the idle time.

Do You Get Sexack?—It so, apply to “Dr. Bing Crosby” of Paramount, who gave some little pills to Ethel Merman just before she embarked for the East by way of the Panama Canal. She sent a postcard to “Dr. Bing” saying they had done the trick in keeping her well.

Three Make-Up Artists—Rob Stepanoff, Al McQuarrie and Roy Laidlaw are required for the Edward Small production, “Count of Monte Cristo,” at Pathé Studios, in Culver City, with Robert Donat, who just arrived from England, and Elissa Landi, in the leading roles.

Just Sixty-Seven Sets—are necessary for the Edward Small production of “Count of Monte Cristo,” now in production, and we noticed the accurate detail on a cell set that was designed by one of the best technical advisors, Louis van den Alster.

All Come to Attention—as Adolf Zukor and Emanuel Cohen enter the Commissary at Paramount Studios a few days back. Even Miriam Hopkins hobbled to her feet as the genial bosses greeted her, as well as a dozen others, when we there gathering news.

Carl Brisson Proves in "Murder at the Vanities" That He Has Right to Stardom in American Pictures

Many European stars have come to America, appeared in a picture, and soon became just a memory, for they were over-heralded and over-publicized, and when they were put to the acid test they were found lacking. Carl Brisson, who is a famous star across the pond and who can speak many languages, made his American debut in "Murder at the Vanities," now showing at the United Artists Theatre in Los Angeles. He was allowed to go in on his own merits, the part wasn't the best that might have been selected for him, but he accepted it, made the best of it, and to say that he has won out is putting it mildly, for he has a field of actors and actresses to wade through for recognition that would have defeated many a man. But Carl, coming from the lightweight picture he has just completed, "The Harbinger," and his role is that of a dare-devil auto racer and Frankie Darro, the famous boy actor, in a featured role.

In the supporting cast are such well known players as Jason Robards, Francis McDonald, Julian Rivero, Edwin Maxwell, James Bush, John Davidson, Edward Hearn, Stanley Blystone, Al Bridges, Bruce Mitchell, Lloyd Whitlock and others.

Bert Clark and Armand Schaeffer will direct the production, which starts immediately at Mack Sennett Studios.

Neil Hamilton and Marion Nixon Prove Happy Combination in "Once To Every Bachelor"

M. H. Hoffman struck upon a happy combination and idea when he selected Neil Hamilton and Marion Nixon to star in George Waggner's story, "Once To Every Bachelor," as suggested by Eleanor Gates' "Search for the Spring," for in this vehicle thegarencers will find some very fast moving situations that will intrigue them, for you wonder just how this charming little miss who was enmeshed in a gamblers' brawl and killing will ever straighten her own affairs out so that she might tell the love of the man who first start out to befriended a girl in distress, only to find himself in love with her, but, of course, obstacles galore that had to be wiped out, and they fall by the wayside one by one until the final curtain, which shows the lovers happily at ease with the world.

The action of the stars, Neil Hamilton and Marion Nixon, is so natural that you feel very much in the story, and really pull for the pair to come through victorious in their battle of hearts. Neil Pringle is a sort of a half-way menace, and makes herself felt all the way. Raymon Hatton was delightful—in fact, he ran the stars a hard race for first honors. Others who did their parts well were Bradley Page, Ralf Harrode, Kathleen Howard, George Irving and Don Alvarado. The direction of William Nigh was very good. He allowed nothing to get away from him—in fact, a less seasoned director would have made this an ordinary picture. Fine photography work by Harry Neumann is worthy of special mention. M. H. Hoffman, Jr., was associate producer of the picture, with Rudolph Floot production manager, Mildred Johnson in charge of the film editing, recording by E. F. Tyler. It is a Liberty Pictures Corporation production, made at the RKO-Pathé Studios, Calver City.

New Type Arrives in Hollywood

Miss Muriel Sharada (formerly known as Muriel Shaw), well known dancer and actress from Europe, is one of the recent arrivals who is making her first appearance in Hollywood. Miss Sharada is remembered for her excellent work during the silent days of movies, both in this country and in England and Egypt. In London she worked for Rex Ingram, one of the outstanding directors of Europe. She has also been featured in shorts in the West Indies, is well travelled, and speaks various Asiatic languages, including the Hindis. Muriel is also rated as one of the best Nautch dancers now in this country, and has a background of thirteen years of motion picture experience. She is an unusual type, a combination of a Malay, an English lass, an Orient, and a Ceylonese, which make up the Fox epic, "She Learned About Sailors," featuring Alice Faye and Lew Ayres, direction of George Marshall. This young lady is an aviatrix of no mean ability. Here is a good bet for any producer wanting an unusual type.

Shirley Jean Rickert Starts Busy Season

What with signing a contract at Darmount's for the "Scarlet Letter," trying to iron out conflicting dates with a major studio, getting her pony ready for the Guild Frolic, preparing to model in the larger cities on the Coast for a dress concern, and entering her show pony in the horse shows at Coronado, Stockton, Sacramento, Pomona, Wichita, Chicago and New York, Shirley Jean Rickert has started a very busy season during the past week.

Other Notes

SOL LESSER and Major John Zanft have joined hands as co-producers and formed the George O'Brien Pictures Corporation, and the star—George O'Brien is correct. His contract with the Lesser-Zanft combination calls for six pictures within eighteen months, all to be released through Fox.

W. C. FIELDS' movie, "Trouble in the Works," will be released by Warner Brothers.

In Moscow, Andrei Bolkonsky, screen director, has directed his second Russian film, "A Wife's Confession," the first picture of the year to come out of Moscow.

MRS. TERENCE STANLEY, wife of the noted English actor, who is here to make the picture, "North of the DMZ," was granted a divorce by the Los Angeles Superior Court.

Cloudy with a chance of rain. The next full moon will be on November 14th.
THE PASSING PARADE

The man who allows worry to catch up with him is closing his eyes to THE PASSING PARADE, for TIME is like the mass of humanity that goes on and on with its left and right eyes half closed and it is with today and tomorrow that we might say that today was a GOOD ONE, and when tomorrow comes it was a BAD DAY—they all pass along and on their way alike. So we must learn to accept the BAD WITH THE GOOD and be thankful for the privilege that we have been given to still have all our faculties, so that we will be able TO APPRECIATE what is going on in this good old world.

Moving Movie Throng by John Hall

"Cleaner Movie Fight Spreads," says a headline . . . From now on, all movies are going to be cleaner, bigger, better and—Oh, you know the rest . . . With Irvin S. Cobb, actor, now in our midst, O. O. McIntyre here, telling the world what he thinks of Hollywood (not including his boss, that big producer, William Randolph Hearst); Will Hays on the scene to see how the wheels go round, the Screen Actors' Guild preparing to fight, Will Rogers starring in "Ah, Wilderness," spring is in the air in Hollywood takes on a festive front and all are gay and happy—and hungry . . . William Randolph Hearst is telling the world how President Roosevelt is tearing the Constitution to pieces . . . Well, Willie, why not tell the people the President has a bood on his neck, laughs at the funnies in Hearst papers, shakes every day, goes fishing, swims every day, lives in the midst of his own family, like all decent American husbands, tries to redistribute wealth and work (his blackest crime in Hearst's eyes), plays with his grandchildren, works hard, tells the people what he is doing by press and radio, and is considered by most a pretty good guy . . . Why not, Willie? . . . Mr. Eddie Cantor is re-elected President of the Screen Actors' Guild . . . Howdy, Mr. Cantor: Just a word: Your battle for the BIG boys and girls is won. The Guild is a fact. How about the LITTLE boys and girls? You and your fellow Big Guns have the power to lick the producers. And the POWER you have is the SUPPORT of the little fellows—The Guild. So far, nothing has been done for the little people. They are continually abused by producers and their underlings. A firm stand for the little fellows is in order. They constitute the great HUMAN FACTOR in this Hollywood scene; and the human factor—always—proves the most powerful ingredient of the human family. It is that way, Mr. Cantor. Mr. Sol Rosenblatt appointed Pat Casey judge, and executive. He sits on the elbows, representing BOTH sides. It is the DUTY of the Guild to FIGHT Pat Casey. It is the duty of the Guild to oust Pat Casey from ALL participation in motion picture affairs; also the man who appointed him, Mr. Sol Rosenblatt . . . We think the Screen Actors' Guild is a fine thing—for the big boys and girls. So far, it has not been a good thing for the little boys and girls. It is not wise to forget the masses. Hollywood's little people constitute the masses—the working people of Hollywood. They have the power to destroy ALL groups opposing them, because more than a hundred millions of their kind fill the land. Leadership forgetting the masses forgets its own safety. You and your fellow officers of the Guild, we believe, sympathize with the little people and want to help them. Let the want take the form of action. Your entire future depends upon those forgotten workers. You may lay to THAT.

EASTERNER CAST IN NEW SPOTLIGHT PLAY

Diane Crystal, charming blonde actress, has been cast in Virginia Kay's new play, "Bedrock," now going into rehearsal at the Spotlight Theatre, the showcase of Hollywood. Miss Crystal hails from the East Coast, where she played stock, and made her debut in California several weeks ago in a role at the Pasadena Playhouse.

THE TRUTH AND NOTHING BUT THE TRUTH

Mews and Purrs

The movie racket schools are with us again, since Ye Editor’s stirring front page story in last week’s issue, complaints have been coming in thick and fast, especially from mothers of little children, who have been bilked out of their hard earned money from small sums to staggering amounts. Next week this columnist will have something of a startling nature to reveal.

GABBY

That saleslady who caters to the stars in the “French” room of a big downtown department store will lose her job unless she puts a check on her tongue. Her gossip has been responsible for many tears and much heartache. Certain ladies of the cinema are crossing the store off their list on account of the gabby gal.

SHOCKING

Strange revelations, if revealed, will shock the sophisticates of filmdom if that little girl’s parents commence suit against that Eastern crochets and quavers writer now at a major studio here.

BEWARE

There is a bitter war raging between two little girls on the M-G-M lot, and a big bold lad is the cause of it all, and I’d love to be in on the finish when that blonde baby gets slapped.

CAUGHT

Nothing but the truth is the caption, so here ‘tis, two issues ago I wrote of the Dude Ranch at La Quinta. A few nights ago that steward who waited on the big shots was arrested as a fugitive wanted in Florida for questioning on a jewel robbery.

SORRY

If I was only sure who was responsible for that lady’s “change of heart” I’d write the story. However, those who know are helping to ferret out the truth, and when we do, someone will be sorry.

LONELINESS

Attention—New Yorkers! That little girl will sue to regain possession of her photographs and necklace, and when the suit comes up, it will have a distinct “Well of Loneliness” background.

PRAISE

All the “purr” that I could gather together would not be enough to present to Sheriff Eugene Biscaiaux and his merry men for their untiring efforts and ultimate success in the Gettle kidnapping.

A gentle “purr” of welcome to June and Walda Winchell, who are here to spend the summer.

A basket of “purr” to Mrs. Nelson, et al., of the Tip-Top Hotel, in Azusa, for her kindness to a stranger. Thank!

A big, loud and today “purr” for Marion Gering for his latest and best, “Thirty Day Princess.”

“A purr” of delight cos’ Wilma Cox has made the grade. She has been signed by Fox for a featured part in “She Knew About Sailors.”

“Purr’s and purrs” of gratitude to my pal, Patsy Kelly, who never goes back on a friend.

VARIED IMPRESSIONS

Sue (sun-tan) Green (I’ll be over for tea, Susie) . . . Merry (front-page) Fahney (Lotsa S. A. and how) . . . Dick Powell’s glasses (so distinctive) . . . Carl Brisson’s first picture (congratulations, Carl!) . . . Azusa, oh! boy, page Jack Oakie . . . Nicki Justin’s (M-G-M) work (verra good) . . . No- reen Phillipas as a bride (beautiful) . . . Aline McMahon (what a gal) . . . My lust scoop (em I sad) . . . hard-boiled City Editors (afraid to take a chance) . . . Carol Lofner’s music . . . and last but not least, my own private impression of the heartless petty agent racketeers, who rob children and movie-struck boys and girls of their small change, and leave them flat after promising them everything. There ought to be a law against such practices.

Marion Kent

With the musicals all the go in pictures, many singers from the opera, stage, and even night clubs have turned their attention to the talkies, and here we have a most charming and youthful actress, who has sung in grand opera, played in stock plays, and who is determined to make a place for herself in pictures. She has every qualification, youth, beauty, charm and all the ambition that can be crowded into a determined young artist’s life, who seeks only a chance to prove her true artistry and ability not only to emote but sing and do other worthy things which are acceptable to the screen.

Novel Plan by Showmen

Several old time melodramas have been welcomed with open arms by the Los Angeles theatregoing public. But now The Showmen of Hollywood have a new phase of an old idea—they plan to do an old play the modern way with all the old time dialogue, but using all the trappings of a modern production. The first of these plays will be that screamingly funny farce comedy, “A Hand(some) Affair” or “Poor Nellie, the Cabman’s Daughter.” This play amused audiences of a century ago with its laughable intriguing situations. Opening at the Show House Monday, May 21st, and running indefinitely, this will feature such artists as James Hagney, Tommy Thompson, Margery Grennell, Thomas Owmbry, Russell Hawthorne, Helen Tobija, Don Harkelade, Jack Reagan, Keith Lamont, Margaret Grayson, Marjorie Hall, Marie Kinney, Joy Purvis, Phaedra Conrad, Anne Herman, Sam Lamb, Irving Atkinson and many others. After the performance the cast will play host to their guests of the evening with a reception. Variety acts and refreshments and gala entertainment will also spice the evening. Despite all the extra flourishes, Celeste Rush, producing director, is proud to announce that there will be no increase in special guest membership assessments.

CAESAR'S OFFERS
COLORED ENTERTAINERS

Preparations are being made today in the Hollywood Canteen of the Agfa, Ansco Corporation to receive over one million snapshots within the next five months of persons anxious to crash the movie gates. These snapshots, at the rate of about 20,000 a day, are expected as a result of the greatest national quest for new movie talent ever held in the United States.

Th contest, known as the “Agfa Test for Hollywood,” will run in every state of the Union, and will give an opportunity to every man, woman and child to be properly considered as movie material. This movie-talent contest began on May 1st and will end five months later, on September 15, 1934. Twenty-five winners will receive test screens, and five of these will be brought into Hollywood. Arrangements already made with Universal Pictures assures a guaranteed appearance in motion pictures at a guaranteed salary for not less than ten weeks.

“Talent is the one real shortage in Hollywood,” said Joseph Novak, head of the Hollywood Canteen Bureau for the Agfa Company recently, “and in an effort to find the future Clark Gables and Greta Garboz, this contest is being held. Every entrant’s photo will be studied, submitted to the judges and an answer sent to the contestants stating his or her classification, such as ingenue, leading lady or character.”

The greatest producers and directors in Hollywood—Carl Laemmle, Jr., honorary chairman, Rian James, John M. Stahl and Karl Freund of Universal; Joseph Santley, Trem Carr and George Melford of Monogram; Eric Von Stroheim and George White, will act as judges of this contest, along with Charles B. Lang and Lee Garmes, ace cameraman and winners of the Academy Award of 1923-33.

Carl Laemmle, Jr., when interviewed recently, said: “The public wants new faces, new names, new personalities. We are always on the lookout for new talent. This Agfa Test for Hollywood should give us many new type stars.”

Trem Carr stated: “My company will guarantee ten weeks work in a feature picture to the winner. We must satisfy the box office demand for new material.”

GUS ARNHEIM SLATED TO RETURN TO GROVE JUNE 4

The Famous Nightclub Orchesra are closing June 2 at the Coconut Grove after a most successful engagement. This will mark the return of Gus Arnehm and his new orchestra June 4 to the place of his early triumphs. Ben L. Frank is making a wise move, and is bound to prove this by a great get-together nightly of many of the maestro’s old friends.

MERLE CARLSON MAKES A TRIUMPHANT RETURN TO THE CAFE DE PARIS

Merle Carlson and his Orchestra returned to the Cafe de Paris amid a blaze of new glory, for he has just completed his vacation. The boys won many new friends with their dance program, and pep up the variety show, to the point of it being a fast moving and entertaining series of acts headed by Modie and Le Maux, sensational ballroom dancers; Betty Doree and Ty Parvis, youthful and peppy singers and dancers; Tommy Dew and the Briti Veloste. You will go for them in a big way. Ken Wilmarth acts as M. C. And hold your horses, folks, here is a bit of news—Marilyn Monroe, an old favorite in the night club, has returned to her first love, singing before the mide, and is she going over big. Little Helen Janus comes thru with some fine steps and songs, and Bonnie Rae, who has just been singing by singing “The Indian Love Call,” and what a great voice and what a world of personality. Wednesday night was a big one at this spot. The Cedars Quartet, under the direction of Pith Lodge gave a dinner dance in honor of the installment of officers. Among those present were Beatrice Pearl, President of the Women’s Grand Lodge; Bessie Schwab, and Benah Pearl—Pith Lodge, and Sadie Rammell. The officers installed were Benha Aehuler, President; Claire Rosenblatt, Vice President; Florence Rosenblatt, Corresponding Secretary. There were many fine members present.

Next to this gathering was the Hollywood Belmont Players, equally as large in numbers, and all had a great time. It was announced that All Sports Night slated for Thursday evening will reveal Bill Spaulding and some of the greatest coaches and athletes of the U.C.L.A., and other colleges in the Southland, and sure enough, they were on hand, and every one had a ducky time. Oh, yes, we almost forgot, Dorothy Bartoo clicked with a couple of songs.

WONDER BAR BECOMES LATE SPOT

Dudley Dickerson, famous singing and dancing comedian who came direct from sensational hits in “Connie’s Inn” and the “Cotton Club,” in the heart of New York’s colored belt, has opened the “Wonder Bar,” at 1245 East Adams Street, Los Angeles. It is getting the late trade, for things don’t really get going here until about 11 and every one had a ducky time. Of course Dudley is busy at Sebastian’s Cotton Club, where he is one of the stellar attractions.

MOULIN ROUGE

Mirth and fun continue to reign supreme at Moulin Rouge Cabaret on Cahuenga Blvd. Alma Travers and Flora Washington, those ebullient entertainers, know their “onions” when it comes to pleasing patrons. Harvey Brooks at the piano needs no introduction as to his ability at tickling the ivories. Esther Ralston with a group of friends were guests at Moulin Rouge several evenings ago.

LIONEL HAMPTON AND LEON HERRFORD SHARE AIR AND CAFE HONORS

Frank Sebastian signed a good collaboration when he landed Lionel Hampton, ace trap drummer, and the Leon Herrford Orchestra. The former was the star of the Later Lassela, and in his musical organization, while the latter has been leading to the famous bands and groups. Right now these versatile musical artists are sharing honors at KFACT and in the New Cotton Club, where they are holding forth in conjunction with the Broomfield and Grecy Lee Creole Revue, starring Eddie Anderson, Johnny Taylor, Ella May Waters, Martha and Cliff Ritchie and Dudley Dickerson, which is the best colored band on the side of New York City. One of the highlights of the show is the Creole chorus, made up of the prettiest ebony girls we have ever set our optics on. Here are their names: Cleo Herrndon, Helene LaRame, Susan Giancarlo, Pauline Parminter, Hazel Simpson, Annabelle Gordon, Sue Johnson, Alyce Kiel, and Violet Clark. Pat Rian dated as a singer with his old partner, Johnny Taylor, in their clever dancing act. As an added attraction, Frank Sebastian offers the Four Dancing Covans, the greatest quartet of colored step ters that ever hit the Cotton Club. Harold Brown cleverly plays the piano during intermissions for the entertainers. Our hats off to LeRoy Broomfield and Aurora Grecy for their latest show that opened Thursday night.

Young Terry, Trenton buzz-saw, proved it at Hollywood last week when he buzzed his way to a sluggish win over Yarl Whitehead, former state middleweight champ. Young held his own for a few rounds, downing Terry in the first; after that he faded under the body battering of the rugged guy from New Jersey. In the last round Whitehead was fought off his feet, going down from exhaustion. It was a tough go all the way and pleased the fans. Johnny Hines, 135, after being downed in the first by Harry Burke, came back, returned the compliment in the second, and boxed his way to a decision. Ray Campo decisioned Freddy Young. Augie Soltz took the nod over Johnny Ryan, but it looked like Ryan. Freddy Encinas won from Jimmy Uchida and Walter Vaughn took the opener from Willie Juberó.

Olympic Auditorium

If Kingfish Levinsky is staying in hiding until next Tuesday, Lee Ramage will have a return shot at Art Lasky. Mr. Levinsky has disappeared for parts unknown, and a lot of people think he is afraid of Mr. Lasky, the man with the paddleriver dudes. Be that as it may, Olympic customers will be very pleased indeed to see Ramage in there again with Lasky. Many think he won in his first go with the big Jewish fighter. Lasky is in great shape, having trained hard for the absent Kingfish, and his second bout with Ramage should be more exciting than the first.

JEAN DARLING LANDS PART

Jean Darling landed one of the leading roles in "Jane Eyre," produced by Montgomery Film Productions, under William Christy Cabanne direction. This is the best break that Jean has won since she returned from a long tour on the RKO theatre circuit, where she was making personal appearances.

Hollywood Picture Players Association Frolic Pleases

The first frolics that the Hollywood Picture Players Association staged, Sunday, May 13th, at the Women's Club of Hollywood, was a huge success. The show pleased the crowd in every way. Don Brodie acted as M.C. and caused gales of laughter. There were some splendid acts, particularly Bert Howard at the piano, Mary and William Sahbat, Hardy Ali, Computers, Sunukar, Countess Sonia and Alex Bekeifi, Gregory Goluboff, Mary and Alex Meles, Dolly Hobson and partner, and many others. Filmland can well be proud of this organization and what it is striving to do for the day players.

Tony Pastor's Theatre Offers Something That Is Different and Well Worth While

If you want to laugh your head off at the funny antics of the actors who play their parts so seriously that they are really funny, go to Tony Pastor's, the theatre mime. Crowds have been greeting the current offering, "The Ticket of Leave Man," with enthusiasm. The cast includes actors who are remembered by the old time theatregoers, among them being Sheldon Lewis, Zena Bear, Bill Gere, Harry Hay, Maude Allen, Teddy Lorch, Joe Girard, Clyde McCoy, John P. Wade, Johnny Bowie, Bill DeLucca, Lee Baron, Dot Steele, Annand Johnson, Priscilla Steward, Charles Bushnell and the Tony Pastor's chorus of hundreds. The actors give such a performance that brings the theatre of yester- year into vivid reality. Tommy Riley's songs are one of the big hits of the show, Darry Welford is worth special mention, as is Ida Maye, the last named being worth a top spot in the billing of the show. Never before or ever again will there be another gathering of players like you see at Tony Pastor's Thea- tre, and let them take you back many years to the good old days.

INTERNATIONAL GENEVA ASSOCIATION BALL

O. K. THIS ONE

We never enjoyed any event in the Southland better than the Interna- tional Geneva Association Ball at the Ambassador Hotel May 14. The Fiesta Room harbored the best known chefs and maitre de's, and as well as they have served the public with the best cuisine, they served the night another way so that the night was a huge success. Acts from the "Bowy" entertained. The Patrick and Marsh orchestra furn- ished the fine dance music, and every one present pledge as the night brov' to happy ones. The players got greater than this one, so for well did they enjoy the get-together and good fellowship spirit that predominated throughout the night.

SHIM SHAM REVUE IS BEST STRIKING L. A. IN YEARS

Moe Gould staged what is the best musical revue that has hit this good old town for years, and if Mr. John Public fails to support this show they are plumb crazy and don't know what they want in entertainment. The comics are then hitting on all cylinder—Jack Osterman, Bernie and Walker, Jay Mills, Janice Capon, Cully Richards. All can pull me back time and again to see them go through their funny antics. And as for out and out class entertainment you will go a long ways before you find any better artists than Olive Faye, The Theodores, George King, Charles Bruns, Herman Pan, Gertie Greene, and above all, those cute pickanninies who stop the show with their rhythm and songs, and as for the chorus, white or colored, you will have to hand the palm to 'em. The music by J. C. Iews, book by Benny Baker and Sid Walker, are, to our way of thinking, the backbone of the opus. A load of the Music Box show and tell your friends what a wow it really is, and you will be doing them a great favor.

Extra Questionnaire to Help Weed Out Undesirables

Independents are Hot After Big Names

Needy Day Players Will Then Get a Better Break

By HARRY BURNS

The first questionnaire that has ever been used to find out just where the extras in the motion picture industry really stand financially, and as to their earning power, is within a short period of time going to make its appearance in film-land. It will be an order from Washington headquarters of the NRA, and will show up those who are undesirable in the industry, thereby doing away with a lot of those people who are at present just working in pictures for the love of it, rather than a necessity to earn a living. This is a fine piece of work on the part of those who are in constant touch with the NRA executives, and who will really be doing a great service for those who are daily struggling to earn their daily bread within the day players' ranks. We have it from good authority that the weeding out process is to become a reality, and that the investigation along these lines has been going on ever since Dave Allen, general manager of the Central Casting Corporation, turned over the books on orders of the producers, so that a check-up could be made by the committee, which is trying to figure out a system of employment for extra talent which would split up the work more evenly. So it remains to be seen if the questionnaire is put into operation, whether it will accomplish any better working conditions.

The independent producers of feature productions in the Southland are out to get the biggest box office names that they can buy for their pictures. The Liberty-M. H. Hoffman, Monogram, Mascot and Invincible - Chesterfield companies have shot the first gun off in this direction. You can look forward to Phil Goldstone when he starts, doing the same. So if you ask us, the major studios, unless they turn thumbs down on the requests for the loaning of some of their stars, and if some of the free lance big shot artists turn a deaf ear to the "indies," this is going to be a great year for the actors, for their services will be in greater demand and competition keener, for, as we know, this is the life of any trade. Invincible Pictures signed Eric Von Stroheim and Wera Engels for "House of Strangers," and promise many more surprises within a short time. Some of the casts at work now in Reliance Pictures in "Count of Monte Cristo," and Larry Darmour's "Scarlet Letter" is another fair example of what is to be offered this year to theatre goers. Prosperity for the actor is not just around the corner—it is here, and will stay for some time.

CALL FOR VOLUNTEERS

Volunteers to take tests that may be the means of helping to save the life of William "Dad" Zanfretta, 79 years of age, who used to write "Dad" Says," are needed at the Los Angeles County General Hospital. First to respond was Mrs. Louise Semmacher Carter.
Leslie Fenton to Star in "Bitter Harvest" at the Hollywood Playhouse Starting May 28

With the opening of "Bitter Harvest," a new play having to do with the love affairs of Lord Byron, scheduled to get under way Monday evening, next, at the Hollywood Playhouse, theatregoers are showing considerable interest in the return of Leslie Fenton to the stage in the portrayal of the romantic and emotional British poet.

Fenton's appearance in the starring position of "Bitter Harvest" marks this versatile young actor's return to the stage after numerous motion picture engagements. His last work in the theatre here is remembered because of his outstanding performance in Dreiser's "An American Tragedy."

An exceptionally strong cast has been assembled by Dickson Morgan, under whose direction "Bitter Harvest" will be presented, the feminine leading role having been assigned to Lilian Bond. In the role of Byron's half-sister, Miss Bond has wide scope for many emotions, affording this young actress every opportunity to win additional recognition in the theatre.

Melville W. Brown, who is presenting Catherine Turney's "Bitter Harvest" at the Playhouse, has combed the cream of Hollywood's professional ranks for talent. Among those who have outstanding characterizations are Catherine Manners, Janice Dean, May Beatty, Lindsay MacHarrie, Alfred Cross, Darwin Rudd and Benjamin Brindle.

During the engagement of "Bitter Harvest" at the Hollywood Playhouse, Brown will present nine performances weekly. Nightly, including Sunday, with matinees Wednesday and Saturday afternoons.

"The Love Captive"
Universal Hit Causes Theatregoers to Talk as They Leave Theatre

Max Marcin, playwright and director, evolved something out of the ordinary that should not only interest those students of hypnotism, but gives us something unusual in entertainment. The yarn concerns a doctor who uses hypnotism in his practice and is accused of unethical conduct by the medical board, on information from another doctor. Jealousy being the real reason, both being in love with the same girl. This is the outline of the story, but it is by the "something different" ending that makes the play good screen fare, and causes theatregoers to talk as they leave the theatre. There are complications that ensue during the unrelenting that need not be gone into here, as seeing the picture will prove our statement.

Max Marcin directed skillfully and was aided greatly by the splendid performances of Gilbert Warren, with Edward Das Benturini and Eph Asher, associate producers, supplying an excellent cast and fine production values.

Nils Asther, playing Dr. Alexis Collender, the hypnotist doctor that gave just the right touch of mystery to the role. Lovely Gloria Stuart was perfect as the nurse, who was the bone of contention. Paul Kelly was the man, with the two roles played by Norman S. Ware with just the right touch of villainy. Alan Dinehart is always at home in a conspirator role and just right in this one. Robert Greig, in another of those perfect butter parts, afforded some amusement, with John Wray, Ruth Brown, Virginia Kamil, Elliott Ruby, Franklin Ardell and Ern O'Brien playing other roles with a great deal of success.

John Humphrey is Ace Jungle Effect Man

For years we have wondered who was responsible for the marvelous jungle effects in pictures, and time and again we tried to check up on the details, only to find the studios sort of evasive about the issue. This year, one day we ran into John Humphrey, working on the "Young Eagles" set at the Mack Sennett Studios. This was a Boy Scout serial produced by Romance Pictures with Harry O. Hoyt directing, and we started discussing the jungle settings in this photoplay, and say and behold, we led right up to the topic of the jungle scenes in "King Kong" and "The Most Dangerous Game," and who do you think did the job on these pictures. No one else but John Humphrey, like he did hundreds of others. What an art and what a man! At last we have run down an interesting news angle to the art of making talking pictures.

NITA MARTAN IS BACK

Nita Martan, who went to New York City some time ago to appear in some Eastern plays and pictures, has returned from a successful trip and is once more preparing to do some work in the Southland studios and theatres.

Stu Erwin Told Us—that it's second nature for him to play "rube" roles, as he comes from Squaw Valley and is proud of it. Much more distinguished than being a citizen of London, Paris or any of the other big cities.

Her Face Her Fortune—says Edna May Oliver, who plays over being called home. Just at present doing a hard riding, polo playing grandmother in "We're Rich Again," being directed by William Seiter.

Chip Off the Old Block—is David Jack Holt, son of Jack Holt, famous star. Young Jack has been assigned to play a part in "Shock," for Monogram Pictures, starring Ralph Forbes, with Roy Pomeroy directing.

The Next Leading Man—for glamorous Garbo will be Herbert Marshall, now the favorite of the ladies who will play the "scientist husband" in "Painted Veil," a yarn of London beauty immersed in an Oriental wilderness.

With Tears in Their Eyes—will be the new tempo in dancing, or so says Gay Lombardo, of Paramount, who tells us that the age of languorous rhythm is the order of the day with the old jazz removed in this romantic period.

The Old Master Gets Another—as Paramount has purchased "Buccaneer" from Maxwell Anderson and Laurence Stallings for Cecil B. DeMille. The yarn concerns Sir Henry Morgan and his band of pirates who sailed the seas.

Another European Star—Mady Christians, under contract to M-G-M, was assigned a sensational role in "Wicked Woman," Ann Austin's yarn of a mother who became a murderer for her children's sake.

I Am I Mortified—says Jimmy Durante, who came back to M-G-M, after a vacation, and found himself cast in "Student Tour," a story built around twenty beauteous dames.

The Jinx Pursued Him—says Elliott Nugent, directing "She Loves Me Not" for Paramount, Bing Crosby sprained his wrist pushing Warren Hymer, Miriam Hopkins sprained her ankle and Kitty Carlisle developed laryngitis.

An Ice Cream Party—is a novelty in Hollywood circles, but Mae West, sex exponent of Paramount, threw one of them a few days ago to the hair dresser, make-up woman and wardrobe girl of "It Ain't No Sin.

Listen to This—Wera Engels, Michal Visareff, Wilam van Bricken. Hank Mann, Harry Holman, Misha Auer, are a few of the prominent names. Maxine Cooper of Inezible Pictures has in his cast, "House of Strangers," with Eric von Stroheim starring and Frank Strayer directing. M. A. Anderson is photographing the picture; Melville "Buddy" Shyer is production unit manager; Edward C. Jewell is art director. The picture is in production at Universal City.
Will Rogers is a Riot of Fun in "Ah Wilderness" at El Capitan Theatre

If you want some real honest-to-goodness fun and amusement order seats for Will Rogers' show, "Ah Wilderness," which is this and more if you can enjoy some real hearty laughs. Mister Rogers is a show in himself, but wait, there are others you will have to think about and applaud! For instance, William Janney—this lad never gave a finer and more stirring performance in his life. There are any number of fine artists in the cast—in fact, it is perfectly spotted throughout. So we will just mention the names of the players: Anne Shoemaker, Martha Mayo, Charlotte Henry, Jay Ward, John H. Dillon, Ralph M. Reiley, Mary Blackford, Lex Lindsay, Anne O. Neal, Helen Flint, Hal Price and Clyde Dilson. Russell Fillmore staged and directed the Eugene O'Neill comedy, which was presented by Henry Duffy before one of the most representative first night audiences we have ever seen in the El Capitan.

"Little Man What Now?" is a Fine Morsel of Entertainment for Theatregoers

It is seldom that one can find a novel that smacks of real screen material as good as Hans Fallada's novel, "Little Man What Now?" as placed in screen play and continuity by William Anthony McGuire and directed by Frank Borzage. The story is laid in a German atmosphere. It could have been done equally as well in America, our land of the free. However, it proves one of the best vehicles for Margaret Sullivan, that gal really proving that she can act, and has a soul that is bigger than herself. She and Douglas Montgomery play on your heart strings until you are ready to yell for help. Doug never was better. The dialogue was so bright and interesting that you were allowed to relax and figure you knew where the lovers went from there. It spells the making of greater glory for these players. One of the surprises of the picture is the work of Alan Hale. Here is an actor from the silent days who need not step aside for any of the talkie knights who have to come to the front of late. Mark up fine performances for Christian Rub, Catherine Douzet, Fred Kohler, Mae Marsh, Hedda Hopper, Sarah Padden, Tom Ricketts, Harry Kinnell, Muriel Kirkland, DeWitt Jennings, Alan Mowbray, Frank Riehle, Bodil Rosing, Donald Haynes, Paul Fix, Carlos de Valdez, G. P. Huntley, Ethienne Girardot and Max Asher. The screen play and continuity by William Anthony McGuire was exceptionally fine, as was the directorial work of Frank Borzage. It stacked very much of "Seventh Heaven." Hand a bouquet to Norbert Brodine for his beautiful photography and the rest who had anything to do with making this a fine picture for the world's best family audiences.

"Poor Nellie, the Cabman's Daughter"

Playing to capacity houses all week, "A Han(s)ome Affair," or "Poor Nellie, the Cabman's Daughter," started its run at the Show House. This farce of 100 years ago is headed by James Hagney, the unfortunate barrister who causes all the trouble, turning in one of the finest and funniest performances of his career, while Tommy Thompson as his erring wife is a splendid comedienne, well worth watching. Russell Hawthorne, the playful colonel, and Margaret Grayson, his jealous wife, quarreled their way through the play in a most convincing manner, giving splendid characterizations. Marjorie Hall and her husband, Don Harklewood, for the anger and wit of the others, were especially good in the last act, showing surprising ability in handling the farcical situations. Poor Nellie, Joy Purvis, was sweet and demure; Jack, her lover, Joseph Morgan, was good in tolling the villain; Keith Lamont, whose wickedness and sides brought hysterical laughter from the audience; Mary Alda, the maid, was worth that second look; Thomas Owney again lived up to his reputation as the bashfullest bashful young man; and Marie Kinney was pleasing as the secretary; Sam Lamb, the process server, was good. The direction by Celeste Rash, again up to standard, the specialties between the acts, the refreshments and reception, all go to make this show one to be attended. Starting its second big week at the Show House. Don't miss it.

"Take the Stand," Liberty Picture, Makes Hit at Pantages

The matinee audience at this theatre seemed deeply interested in one of the best mystery yarns seen on the screen in a long time. In addition, it had one of those pesky, "a columnist," who was wont to murder it. Of course, someone was suspected. In fact, many were suspected and the clever unearthing of the murderer caused the audience much thought, but was cleverly worked out by Earl Derr Biggers, with Albert De Mondo writing a fine screen play and natural dialogue. Phil Rosen directed his story and players with a fine understanding and Harry Neumann handled the photography with fine photography. The cast was one of the best seen in a long time, with Jack La Rue playing the columnist with fine understanding of the difficult role. Thelma Todd, as beautiful as ever, had a great deal to do as the columnist's secretary and acquitted herself creditably. Gail Patrick also captured the audience with her natural playing of the daughter of a banker, and one of the suspects. Leslie Fenton as a rival columnist did his usual good job, and Bertol Gardinich as a dignified banker who didn't want the columnist to publish some of the things he had done was another one almost convicted. Vince Barnett and Bradley Paige, two gangsters; DeWitt Jennings as chief of police; Paul Hurst as the dumb detective; Russell Hopton, who unearthed the crime, and incidentally won the girl; Oscar Apfel and Richard Tucker as two lawyers; Arnold Gay as a crook who didn't want the papers to know his secrets; Jason Robards and Shella Terry, two Broadway habitues, who had secrets; and Edward Kane, as the newspaper owner, were all a credit to the fine production that M. H. Hoffman provided. A good story, fine cast and splendid direction should delight any theatre owner. At any rate, the audience decided so by hearty applause at the finish of the picture.

EDDIE CANTOR AND THE ACTORS’ GUILD

Who is it that coined the phrase, “Very good, Eddie”? At any rate, it doesn’t matter, for it fits our sentiments as to Eddie Cantor’s connection with the Screen Actors Guild and his taking a hand in the running of the Frolics last week at the Gilmore Stadium. As President of the Guild, he has created more good will for the actors than has any other organization in existence today, and we hope that he will not allow the rush of the success of this great movement to run away with his better judgment. For if an actor ever had a chance to get an even break, it is right now, under the banner of this body of men and women who make up the cream of the motion picture industry.

FELIX JOINS CANTOR

Seymour Felix is going to create and stage the song ensembles in Eddie Cantor’s fifth annual screen musical comedy, which Samuel Goldwyn will place in production in a few weeks, from the script of Nunnally Johnson, Arthur Sheekman and Nat Perin. Roy Del Ruth is directing the picture and the story. After Felix finishes the Cantor picture, he returns East to do a new musical play for Max Gordon.

JOSEF SUPERVISES

Victor Zoubel has been supervising serials for Pathé and the Mascot Pictures the past five years. At present he is looking after “Burn ‘Em Up Barnes,” a chapter play for the same firm.

SOLD

Mascot Pictures Corporation has closed with Mel Holling and Sam Berkowitz, of the Far West Exchanges, for a speculative serial under the Mascot lineup for the entire Mascot feature program. The Holling and Berkowitz exchange will handle the Mascot line-up of ten features and two specials.

JUDITH FINISHES

Judith Velzeli finished her part in “Stamboul Quest” at the M-G-M Studios, starring Myrna Loy and under the direction of Sam Wood.

CHICO DE VERDI IS BUSY

In between his work on “The Merry Widow” at the M-G-M Studios, Maestro Chico De Verdi and his orchestra have found time enough to slip over to the Pacific Studios, where he furnished the music for Liberty’s M. H. Hoffman production, “Two Heads On A Pillow.” He was ably aided by Julius Klein, Hungarian cymbalom virtuoso.

EDDIE KAYE VERY MUCH ON THE JOB

Eddie Kaye is very much on the job at the Colony Club Wine and Liquor Company offices, where he is meeting his old friends and making many new ones. You can always rely on Eddie to come through like the regular feller that he is, especially when any one needs a friend.

VIOLET M. BARLOW AND BILL BENTER OPEN AT NEWHOURS’ FROLICS

Violet M. Barlow and Bill Benter, that popular pair of funnemakers, no more than returned from Mexico, than they were signed for a limited engagement by Newhours’s Frolongs on Long Beach Boulevard. This is the latest of high spots around this belt where they dine, dance and are entertained.

WALTER C. KELLY IS APPOINTED EMERGENCY CHAIRMAN OF NVA

At a meeting, May 9, of the board of directors of the NVA, Walter C. Kelly was appointed Emergency Chairman, according to word from Henry Chesterfield in a telegram from NVA New York headquarters to Harry English, local representative. Mr. Kelly’s duties is to safeguard the interests of the organization and its members.

IN HOLLYWOOD NOW BY BUD MUREY

To the opening of “Ah, Wilderness,” which Will Rogers makes his first attempt in “The Drama,” as Will Rogers playfully puts it in his curtain speech, which was a masterpiece. A great play for Will, and Henry Duff should again be complimented on picking a fine cast, and excellent play—Once again “Terry Duffy” showed his thoughtfulness for “his public” by not boosting the prices, as is his custom “Walt Bticbil” (as he is called) William Janney handled his part superly, as did Anne Shoenemaker—Will sure look and acted the part of the “bashful father” who can’t bawl his son out—How that play hits home is explained by the long run it has had in Noel Yawk—A goodly crowd turned out—as we bumped into several ex-areas Larky and Sam Goldwyn—Dave Bennett is making a Mayday down in—Charles Miller, head of the West Coast Actors Equity Association—C. Aubry Smith getting real hearty guffaws—Leon Gordon, actor and writer—Bill Frolik, another stage actor, now a confirmed picture actor—Walter Donaldson, the perennial “hit” song writer, with Bill—Armand Kaliz—Wm. Le Barom, executive—Ed Mund Breese, from the stage to screen—and a good time was had by all the home folks, IN HOLLYWOOD.

Lou Greenspan, now publicity man at the Universal Studios, and very busy, too—Bill Rowland producing his own at the Columbia Studios—Al Rogell dashing thru—Georgia Stone, our old playmate, feeling pretty chipper, just finishing another picture—Here is one bad they keep busy, IN HOLLYWOOD, NOW.

Tubby Garron and his boss, Ed Janis, have hit on a great idea, they pulled off last week, a day before the opening “Hooddie at the Vanities”—They run the Paramount, and have been so to plug the songs, invited all the distributors of music to a preview, giving the buyers a real insight to the songs they will be selling, IN HOLLYWOOD, NOW.

RUBY BARBEE, EASTERN FAVORITE, AT CAESAR’S

Ruby Barbee, who bails from New York, where she has been appearing in some of the best shows and night spots, and who is now holding forth at Caesar’s nightly, where she is singing to much success, Miss Barbee, too, works in pictures, and has just finished in “Operator I3” for M-G-M and “Bite the Bullet” for Columbia Studios. Caesar’s also offers Johnny Horace, Lee Young, Jess Brooks and Walt Johnson as entertaining factors along with their splendid food and refreshments.

OPEN PUBLICITY OFFICES

Shane Ryan and Hal Wiener have opened publicity offices at 1509 North Vine Street. They have a fine list of clients, who include Mrs. Leslie Carter.

MOVING MOVIE THRONG BY JOHN HALL

THE GREAT WEST! Oxnard, Cal., May 20, 1934: Mark ye well the date, Cheyenne, Pendleton, Prescott and all other points annually inviting the world to come see and marvel at the world’s best in man and horse and girls! by Jupiter! Ranch-bred, all those hardy words and lassies of the great American outdoors, and each and every one a star contestant in all things even remotely related to horses, range cattle, wild and gentle, and the fine art of roping anything on four feet, from a goat to the wildest wall-eyed canine or steer roaming the ranges of the West... Yes, sir, mark ye well that date, for it is the date of Oxnard’s annual Rodeo! And what a Rodeo! Gents, this party city of Oxnard, California, is a real Western he-man’s town, where the men wear ten-gallon hats, ranch country boots, and the pants and shirts to blend them into the surrounding landscape; where the girls wear overalls, cut to fit, with a nonchalance, sang froid and savoir faire that puts the “daring” Marlene Dietrich right back in the rear rank of the rankest pants—sporting names of all centers of “modern” sartorial grandiloquence, as the boys say... Those overalled Oxnard gals really WEAR overalls as overalls are worn in the very smartest cow country circles. And you can’t laugh that off, mister... Gosh! fellers, them high-wide-and-handsome Western overalled gals shore are a sight refreshing to big city piffle-jaded eyes... Oh, yes, the Rodeo! Now, who should pop up in Oxnard at the hottest part of the thrilling festivities but Buck Jones and his Universal serial troupe, headed by ‘Let’s go’ Harry MacRae and the smiling young director, Louis Friedlander; production manager V. O., Smith and his two assistants, Eddie Tyler and Eddie Woeker—all after shots of the Rodeo doings... At aforementioned, Oxnard is a prideful WESTERN city, and its chief of police, Joe Kerrick—a top hand if need calls—totes his artillery in full sight of all men. Look out from under the wide brim of his Stetson from a pair of very observing eyes that spell trouble for would-be bad men. Cecil Kellogg, his right banker, fits the frame—Shucks! the Rodeo! Well it was a Rodeo—and how! The best in the West were there, and it was a top hand show all the way—But we just or; them overalled gals and—Oh, drop in on ’em, gents, and you’ll KNOW you’re OUT WEST; yes, sir, e-i-e! Here’s how, Oxnard! You and your fine “hands,” fine horses, fine overalled gals; the cuttest overall-wearing lasses in the entire wide world! Wuxtara! Wuxtara! “The President decides Rosenblatt needs help. He will assign a Braintrustor to help”—News item... To Hollywood, this is NOT news, because, from the very start. Hollywood knew Rosenblatt needed help. In fact, Hollywood knew it so well that Hollywood jumped in and helped prepare the movie code, and when the code was finished Rosenblatt had ready for the President the best code Hollywood could think up. Yes, sir. And right out of Hollywood’s own head!

THE TRUTH AND NOTHING BUT THE TRUTH

By VIVIAN DENTON

Mews and Purrs
Gratifying

To note that since Ye Editor's story on the racketeering movie and scenario schools that the local dailies have been minus the “come on" ads that serve as bait for unsuspecting mothers of talented children or the average movie-struck boy and girl.

Thanks!

 Came flying in from all directions for my article on the "gabby" girl last week—"Keep it up, Filmography," said one grand lady of the cinema.

Oh! You Nasty Mans

Irrespective of the fact that Moe Morton tried awfully hard to do the right thing by his co-workers in the "Shim Sham Revue" and failed, I still do not see why those who started the agitation that finally closed a great show, could not have stood by till the end, especially the ones who got good results from the studio. However, they sang their own swan song, for help was forthcoming when they upsed and pouted. A Mrs. Don La Farge, from San Francisco, a wealthy lady with a yen for theatricals, was just as interested in her golden wand and "presto" the day was saved—but—you walkouts spoiled it all.

The War Is On

It looks like a fight to a finish between Joan and Jean. Personally, I'm for Joan. After all, it was her man and Jeanie done Joan wrong.

Hide Away

La Quinta is certainly getting to be the "piece de resistance" on the celebs' week-end menu—those little sun-baked grass shack that dot the desert are the answer to the weary news-gatherers query as to why the week-ends in Tinsel-Town are dull.

So What

Very humbly suggested to the gentleman in charge of the publicity department at Pantages Theatre that I would like to write a story around old-time vaudeville and Mr. Alex the "Papa of Pan Time." Naw! he barked back, Mr. Pantages would not be interested, mebbe so—mebbe so—but remember the time, etc., etc., etc.

You Think Up A Funny Answer

Recently Ye Editor gave an unknown cigarette peddler, a wimsassy loss by the way a nice little mention in his column—and the result was, she complained to me saying very loftily, I despise things like that, I do not think it was nice of him, how dare he and so forth—hey, Boss, just don't be so good-hearted, space is valuable.

Mew

How impossible and improbable are those stories sent out by studio publicity departments to cover up the antics of their stars. Take the story of the severed artery in the arm, for instance, now I ask you is any woman, especially a wife, vanity going to thrust her arm through a glass door just to get it all cut up.

Fortitude An' How

Olive Faye was rushed from the Music Box Theatre, where she was starring in "Shim Sham Revue," to Hollywood Hospital for an emergency appendix operation. She stuck till the last minute. All is well now, and Olive is on the mend.

Purrs

To Dr. W. G. Taylor and his charming wife, Esta Howard Taylor, for their hospitality, Ann Harding for her generosity to that children's institution, Ben Bernie for his facing the mike with a raging temperature. The "Howards," who arranged the Trans-Atlantic phone call, so as I could talk to my mother.

Clever

Talent Scouts should see and hear Roderic Dhn, that versatile young Englishman whose work in the Little Theatre was remarkable.

VARIED IMPRESSIONS

Bob Montgomery's gone high hat (say it isn't so) with publicity for his productions (hope he keeps 'em) . The Cantor Carissmas (and so level-headed too) . Ah! Wilderness and Will Rogers (ah! wonderful and how) Little Jane Withers performing pro (don't do it, Jane, dear, you are still just a baby and so clever) . Sardi's at noon time (what a bee-hive buzz and buzz, then wonder where the gabs) . Frederick March (a grand actor) . The papiermaché promises and cardboard hearts of Tinsel-Town (phooey) . Mary Brian as a blonde (no Ike Mary) and last but not least my own private invasion of some of the Boulevard's small-time stories who, when they get a good patron who pays cash for their purchases, they don't appreciate them, but just go to work and put up the prices. I know that to the certain lady I have in mind pays and never bargains. Too bad they like to kill the goose who lays the golden eggs.

EXTRAORDINARY ENTERTAINMENT

Having just previewed "Fog Over Frisco," I feel like dusting off my most laudatory adjectives and, after binding them into a laurel wreath of praise, bestowing them gently, but none the less firmly, upon Mr. William Dieterle and all others who contributed to the making of this fine Warner Bros. production.

It is indeed seldom that a mystery thriller warrants such whole-hearted enthusiasm. A captious critic, looking about for flaws, might find one or two, I suppose, but they are of negative value and rate no mention at all. For the picture is so well realized and so cleanly played that it stands forth as one of the few intelligent, imaginative and steadily engrossing cinematic offerings of the last twelve months.

Director Dieterle has succeeded in creating a highly intriguing atmosphere of mystery and sustaining the element of suspense throughout the novel story. The portrayals of Margaret Lindsay, Bette Davis, Hugh Herbert, Donald Woods, Lyle Talbot and other able players, Mr. Herbert being particularly outstanding as an intoxicated newspaper photographer. Robert Barrat, Irving Pichel, Douglas Dunbrille and Alan Hale are other members of the cast. Tony Gaudio's camera work, as always, is stunning.

While Manhattan-holidaying recently, Jean (Dad) Hersholt and I attended two Broadway plays, which, with one or two exceptions, were simply swell. My new boss, Mr. Burns, has asked me to briefly review each, feeling that Filmography readers here in Hollywood might be interested.

The evening of our arrival in New York was spent most enjoyably. After dining at a charming little Danish restaurant, we viewed the Theatre Guild presentation of Maxwell Anderson's richly colored historical drama, "Mary of Scotland," which features Helen Hayes, the picturesque Philip Merivale and Helen Menken. This intensely regal offering, staged and spoken more brilliantly than any play of the current season, is likely to live as an example of vivid, compelling, poetic American playwrighting. Mr. Anderson, our distinguished dramatist, has created a beauty of language seldom heard in the modern theatre; it is, I feel sure, his finest achievement. Miss Hayes' characterization of Mary Stuart, revealing variety and skill, aids greatly in making the production a genuine theatrical triumph. Praiseworthy, too, is the intelligent work of Helen Menken and Merivale, as well as the dignity and humaneness of Theresa Helburn's direction.

By combining the respective talents of Eugene O'Neill, Americas foremost playwright, and George M. Cohan, first actor of our stage, the Theatre Guild has presented Broadway playgoers with a fine, simple folk comedy entitled "Ah, Wilderness!" Delightful in its reflection of wholesome human life and rich in mellow humor, warmth and gentle wisdom, the new O'Neill play takes place in a "large small town" of Connecticut during the year 1906. Woven about a typical American family, it unfolds a sympathetic study of the tribulations of adolescence. An unusually natural portrayal is offered by the eminent star, Mr. George Cohan, who lives the character of Nat Miller, family man and newspaper owner, every moment he is before his audience. There is an impressive mood of reality about the entire production, due largely to Philip Moeller's valid, expert direction and the authentic settings of Robert Edmond Jones.

Due to a limited space in this issue, the remaining New York stage reviews, including "Another Tobacco Road," "Dinner at Eight," "As Thousands Cheer," "Ziegfeld Follies," "Men in White," "They Shall Not Die" and others, will appear next week.

The Harry Lachmans entertained at a buffet supper last week in honor of Mr. and Mrs. Clive Brook. Their guests included Ronald Colman, the Warner Brothers Maurice Chevalier, Kay Francis, the Frank Lloyds, the Jesse Laskys, Janet Gaynor, Winfield Sheehan, the Edward G. Robinsons, the Al Rockets, the Eric Pommers, Herbert Marshall, the Sol Wurtzels, the Sam Hafensteins, the Robert Kaes and the Hersholt's. Following the delightful supper, guests danced to the music of a smart Hawaiian orchestra.

SHOWS IMPROVEMENT
Word has reached us that Frank Sebastian, owner of good fellows, and owner of Sebastian's Cotton Club, who underwent an operation for appendicitis last week, is a much improved man and will soon be able to be removed to his home. Mr. Sebastian's room at the California Hospital has been filled with flowers daily from his many friends.

Jack Dunn and his Orchestra open May 28 at the Rainbow Gardens, the maestro and his boys having kept busy the past year at some of the best clubs and nightspots.

EDIE WITH KYSER ORCHESTRA
June 7 will bring the opening of the Terrace Room at the Miramar Hotel and Kay Kyser and his Orchestra, presenting a new blonde singer, Edie Adams.

Thelma Todd looking beautiful, having lunch alone ... Mary Kornman and her new husband.

ROSS AND SARGENT SCORE HIT WITH HOLLYWOOD SONG AT KING'S CLUB
Stuart Ross and Joe Sargent, after winning the plaudits of the best known Hollywood celebrities for their singing and playing of everything from a German ditty to the Wittiest of American songs, have topped all of their efforts by originating a song about Hollywood and its celebrites that has caused quite a furor in film circles and cahedemo. We dropped in a couple of nights running and found among those being entertained while dining and enjoying their favored refreshments, Helen Morgan, William Powell, Jule Styne, John Warburton, Mr. and Mrs. George Landy, Karl Freund, Mr. and Mrs. Freddy Fralick, Arthur Ungar, Sari Maritza, Frank Orsatti, Paul Page, Jalanne Johnson, Arthur Caesar and hundreds of others equally well known. The Three Brownies, colored Queens of the Song, continue to win their share of attention and applause, and rightly so, because they are charming and know their songs and music on a par with the best of 'em.

MORIE AND LE MAUX HEADLINE CAFE DE PAREE
The aristocrats of the dance, Morie and Le Maux, are the headliners at the Cafe De Paree, where they have been_clicking for almost two months after finishing a five months' engagement at the Bixlon Room in Hollywood's Roosevelt Hotel. As a special attraction, Pete Dokes has engaged Prince Lei Lani, Hawaii's noted tenor, and Miss Lelolua, Hawaii's premier dancer. The Royal Aristocrats are billing them with a great variety of acts and singers, including Russ Cantor and Ken Willmarth as M.C. Ever since John Alexander has joined the Paree thing has been in the hands of this grand triple. Crowds have been visiting this most unusual cafe, within a stone's throw of Westlake Park. Joe Pirrone's sports nights on Thursday (don't be surprised if he exhibits some motorcycle races) are pulling some of the best sportsmen and their friends to dine and dance to the tunes of the popular Merie Carlson's Orchestra. Jimmy (never heard of him) Dixon, Chevrolet-dealer, threw a party which was attended by about thirty celebrites, among them Billy Tummel and his wife, the latter being the junior casting director of the Fox Westwood Studios.

WELCOME LITTLE STRANGER
Mr. and Mrs. Donald Cook (Maxine Lewis) are the proud parents of a baby girl who arrived May 22 and weighed seven and three-quarters pounds. Congratulations, folks, and welcome little stranger to our fold.

MIRAMAR HOTEL TERRACE ROOM OPENS JUNE 7
The Miramar Hotel will be the scene of a brilliant event on June 7, when the Terrace Room is opened for the summer season, presenting Kay Kyser and his orchestra. Kyser will be assisted in making the occasion a gala one by several popular headliners of stage and radio. He has just completed a successful engagement at the Bal Tabarin, fashionable San Francisco supper room.

Reservations for the opening have already been made by many society folk and screen stars.

The remodeling program has just been completed at the Miramar and the room has been enlarged to include the outdoor terrace. Patrons will now be able to stroll along the beautiful paths of the tropical gardens between dances.

EXCELLENT CAST IN SPOTLIGHTS' "BED ROCK"
A well balanced cast plus good direction put over Spotlight's new three-week feature, "Bed Rock," at Hollywood's miniature theatre several nights ago. The dialogue was snappy, and the plot and continuity clicked, giving what could be termed perfect rhythm. Members of the cast included Eddy Gray, Augusta Anderson, Richard Pope, Diane Crystal, Bob Bacon, John O'Malley, Winona Bell and Allen Dailey. Special mention goes to Diane Crystal and Richard Pope, who were exceptionally good in this opus. Credit also due to Augusta Anderson. George Kern is responsible for direction.

OPEN STUDIO FOR JUVENILES
Bebe M. Orr, well known in radio circles, has opened her studio at Mme. Nina Da Silva's school of dancing on Hollywood Boulevard, where she will teach dramatic and expression, and where her students will have enviable experience on the stage and radio. This should be good news to mothers who are looking for a capable teacher for their youngsters, as Miss Orr has won an enviable reputation with the various children that she has tutored.

KEN MAYNARD TO STAR IN MASCOT SERIAL
Mascot Pictures will start production on a Ken Maynard feature early next month, with the serial scheduled to go into production about four weeks later. Sherman Lowe and Al Martin now are writing the script for the Ken Maynard feature, which is as yet untitled. Sig Neufeld will supervise.

Barney Sarecky and Wyndham Gitens are writing the Maynard story under the supervision of Victor Zanol. "A DAUGHTER WEEPS"
Columbia Pictures, we are told, is again looking with much interest at the story of "A Daughter Weeps," from the pen of Vivian Denton.

FRANK SEBASTIAN OFFERS GREATEST CREOLE SHOW
We doubt if at any time in the past ten years that Frank Sebastian has been operating the Cotton Club did he ever have a gathering at one time such a great aggregation of stars on the floor, orchestra, or during intermissions between the three shows offered nightly. Get a load of these sterling artists: The famous team of Broomfield and Grecley offer their most sensational review ever staged in the Southland—it is the last word in beauty, action and entertainment, and has the best chowy chow this side of New York City. Eddie Anderson, that famous comedian, shares honors with Rutledge and Taylor, Dudley Dickerson, those Queens of Entertainment, Ella May Waters and Octavia Summer, Songbirds Cliff and Martha Ritchie, with Harold Brown at the piano, and the top line features of the show. The Four Dancing Covans, the greatest rhythm dancers we ever saw, will per- form. And to top it all off, there is Leon Herford and his new Cotton Club Orchestra, featuring Lionel Hampton, the man who tops all colored trap drummers in this good land. Taking it all in all, Frank Sebastian's Cotton Club has much to be proud of, and cane lovers are packing the place night after night to show their appreciation of the real talent offered. Otto K. Brooks is the head waiter, and he and his staff work overtime to please every one who dines and dances at this playspot.

OPENS NUDIST COLONY
Ernest Butterworth, who used to act in pictures, is now proprietor of a nudist colony (Peaceful Valley Sun- cation) at Little Rock, California. He charges the price of three sacks of cement to join, and is building his little village up in this manner.
The Johnny Pena-Frankie Wallace last week—Oh, what the use! Every paper in town printed the boys, and the State Commission spanked them with a 60-day suspension; that’s how awful it was. Referee Abe Roth, because he wanted the fans to see a fight, did the right—but it was no use. Let’s forget those two bimbos. As usual, Charley MacDonald, manager-matchmaker, was ready with a good preliminary card. In the semi Perfecto Lopez and Hoyt Jones fought to a drawing draw. In the special, little Midget Martinez, the Watts Wasp, battled like a bocbast, but Augie Ruggiero was too clever for him and snatched the nod. Tony Roquafaro, welter, was outsmarted by Jimmy Wiefeld; Sal Fernandez decisioned Joe DeLuca in a terrific bout and Andy Lujan, the opener from Gaby Ybarra. Tonight’s go-between Bob Godwin and Bob Olin should be a sell-out.

Olympic Auditorium

Four rounds each, with two even, was the verdict at the end of the Kid Chocolate-Tommy Paul go last Tuesday—a draw. The Kid was in there trying with all he had, easily taking the early rounds, but Paul’s vicious body attack evened matters. Paul slipped to the floor in the first and many thought it a knockout; it wasn’t. In the seventh the Kid hammered Paul’s legs, but Tommy weathered it all. The ninth was even, and the tenth fairly sizzled with action. It was a great go and the draw was right. The preliminary card was packed with action. NEXT TUESDAY: Babyface Casanova, Mexico’s pride, and Freddie Miller, featherweight champion, head the bill. This one should be a complete sell-out. Casanova is a rough, tough battler, with plenty of boxing skill and no doubt will give Miller a whale of a fight.

Jimmy Durante Visits and Enjoys Club Ballyhoo

Frank Hanover, the boss man of the Club Ballyhoo, was paid a visit last Sunday night by Jimmy Durante and a party of friends, and to say that “Schnozzle” had a good time would be putting it mildly. In fact, everybody in the place did, for Jimmy has a way about him of seeing to it that those about him have their fun. The Shim Sham Revue stars, too, joined in the merrymaking, with their headmen, Moe Morton and Benny Baker. The Jack Lester revue went over in a big way, particularly Lorraine and Packer, the fashion plate dancers; Kearney Walton, the singing M.C.; Gladys Gardner, who dances divinely; and the beauty chorus. The Club Ballyhoo Orchestra helped to round out the best floor show in town.

Douglas Scott Proves Real Trouper at Writers Club

Douglas Scott proved a sensation in a sketch, “Morning Shows the Day,” by Madeleine Brandeis, staged at the Writers Club. In fact, the younger surpassed such sterling actors as Clarence Geldert, Wilbur Highby, Paul Gerrard Smith, Vesse Y. Davoren, Kenn Randall, Al Jerome and Milton Kahn, who appeared in the same skit. Paul Gerard Smith directed the piece, which was a huge success, and could be recommended for a talkie short. In “Rings On Her Fingers,” by Kerry Conway, Minna Gombel shared honors with Georgia Caine and Crawford Kent. It is a pleasing little playlet, that holds you all the way. Last, but by far not the least, “After Such Pleasures,” by Dorothy Parker, was enjoyed throughout, the first episode revealing James Gilfoyle, Shirley Chambers and Breska, all doing splendid work. You Were Perfectly Fine brought to us the charming Clara Kimball Young and Hyram Hoover. Miss Young was especially charming and delightful. Mr. Hoover more than held up his end of the act. The Lady From Paris was a bowl, having as the artists Byron Bishop and Ruthelma Stevens. Watch Miss Stevens for future reference. The closing number, “Dusk Before the Fireworks,” was very funny. Adele Rowland and Walter Armittage scored quite a hit. A well representative audience attended both nights.

Back on Warner’s Lot

Dickie Jones returned to the Warner Bros. lot, where he last worked in “Wonder Bar,” so that he might work in “Housewives,” one of their features. The little fellow ran into Bushy Berkeley, who directed the dance sequences for the Al Jolson opus, and the two had a great talk. Dickie’s latest picture was “Baby Take a Bow,” with Shirley Temple, Jimmy Dunn and Claire Trevor, while his next assignment is to be in “The Scarlet Letter,” with Colleen Moore for Larry Darmour.

Henri De Soto Opens 50-50 Club

The latest of clubs to throw their doors open to their membership and guests is Henri De Soto’s 50-50 Club, located at Harper and Sunset. It is indeed a very high class get-together place for fine dinners and refreshments. Mildred Stone, a popular singer, accompanied by Henry Starr, who ticked over the wide latitude of an attraction, do their share of entertaining.

Well Known Hollywood Woman Enters Agency Field

Miss Thelma Weiser, a name well known amongst the “Who’s Who” of Hollywood, is entering the agency business with a staff capable of handling the personal affairs of motion picture artists, stage artists, writers and directors. Miss Weiser, who has had a background of twelve years of successful business experience in the real estate business, is well versed in the negotiating of business contacts for her clients, and those placed under her capable management will have a staff that will give them one hundred per cent cooperation.

William Cady, an artist who has been with Paul Whiteman, and who has broadcast his melodious baritone voice over NBC, is one of the high class artists that has signed with her. Mr. Cady led the voices in Mae West’s current production, “It Ain’t No Sin.” Wednesday, May 30th, this songster will be guest artist at the Breakfast Club. Miss Goldyne Weiser will be an associate to the organization.

“Murder on the Blackboard”

“Murder on the Blackboard,” shown at the RKO Hill Street Tuesday night, is taken from the “Mystery Serial” by Stewart Palmer and given its screen version by Wille Goldbeck and adroitly directed by George Archainbaud. Photographed by Nick Musuraca.

We did think for awhile we were pretty good detective material, but our theory was shot to bits and though interest holds, there are big gaps that left us wondering what a whole lot of it was all about. Here’s murder and comedy hand in hand.

Edna May Oliver and James Gleason, with their rapid fire repartee, not only held the play together, but kept their audience continually amused to such an extent several of their lines were completely lost in the laughter.

Tully Marshall was well cast as the school superintendent and gave a good performance, while Jackie Searle was truly refreshing. With his snappy comebacks and natural handling of the sardonic line, he received his share of the laughs.

Bruce Cabot, Gertrude Michael, Regis Toomey, Edgar Kennedy, Fredrik Vogeding and Barbara Pritchie also appeared in this intriguing murder story.

All in all, the story is good, but it needs much brushing up and smoothing out. Calls for convincing acting from other members of the cast and why, oh, why, must we have so much extra footage that does not mean a darned thing. For instance, in the last scene, we were all keyed up thinking the trump would surely give a much needed key to the situation, but he didn’t, and down we came with a loud thump, for the picture was over and two clever players, Miss Oliver and Mr. Gleason, had actually been cheated out of a climax.

“The Playboy of the Western World”

There’s always something doing when Douglas Montgomery comes back to the stage of the Pasadena Community Playhouse. This time Montgomery stars in that amazing Irish comedy, and co-stars in the balcony scene from “Romeo and Juliet” with lovely Gloria Stuart. Miss Stuart and Montgomery present a delightful curtain raiser, but the hit of the evening is J. M. Synge’s Irish play, the like of which has never been written before, and may never be again. If you have not seen this rowdy, roaring riot, don’t miss its splendid Playhouse production. Montgomery is terrifically good as Christopher Mahon, and Ralph Freud equals him as Old Man Mahon. Laurene Tuttle shows a striking personality and considerable ability as Margaret. For comedy the quartet of Neil Fitzgerald, Cyril Thornton, Byron Kay Foulger, and Elmo Cerutti would be difficult to equal. Ethel Phillips is another who shines. Norman Rock’s settings are beautiful, and the costuming is perfect. Mr. Foulger did a fine job of direction with both plays.

Hollywood Dirt Dishers Are Hard At Work
Musicals Make Greater Comeback Than Ever

Work as Extras and Then Put the Industry on the Pan

There is plenty of trouble ahead for the motion picture industry, owing to the fact that there is a band of dirt dishers who are working as extras and are being kept busier than any others, not only as toilers, but equally as well as squealers, about what is going on inside the studios. One man in particular no more than ends his day's work than he is known to call up a certain party downtown and tip him off to everything that he happened to see transpire that day, and a lot of the things he is handing out are just hearsay and wouldn't stand the acid test as far as truth is concerned, but he is trying to make a soft berth for himself politically (or is it in the industry?) and figures that his present methods will do this for him. If the truth were only known, that man is heading for a hard bump, and will find that biting the hand that is feeding him is bad business, and not being done this season.

Ever since the NRA code was formulated and put into effect, Sol Rosenblatt's scalp has been hanging by a thread. Everyone seems to be out to

WELCOME LEWIS IS IN TOWN

Welcome Lewis, famous radio and stage singing artist, who is a native Californian, has returned to the Southland for a month's stay, and intends going to England, and may even tour the continent. She would be a great bet in some of our musical talkies.

ALAN GARCIA HOME

Alan Garcia is on the way to recovery now that he has been allowed to leave the Hollywood Hospital, and is once more at home.

LOUISE BEAVERS LANDS

Louise Beavers has landed the biggest part of her life in John Stahl's next Universal feature, "Imitation of Life." It is said that she has the top spot alongside of the star role played by Claudette Colbert.

Reginald Barker

Tom Carr has assigned Paul Malvern to produce "Moon Stone," Monogram screen version of the famous Wilkie Collins mystery novel, which goes into production early next week under the direction of Reginald Barker. Malvern is currently engaged in the production of "Happy Landings," featuring Ray Walker and Jacqueline Wells.

"Flying Down to Rio" and "20 Million Sweethearts" Start Musicals Boom

Just as musicals were lagging a bit and producers started to turn their attention to sex pictures, Lou Brock came through with "Flying Down to Rio" for RKO-Radio Pictures, and following close in the footsteps of this success, Warner Bros. produced "Wonder Bar," with Al Jolson, and "20 Million Sweethearts," and lo and behold, every exhibitor in the business put up a cry for more musicals, and we must admit that they are making a complete comeback. Yes, sir-ee, they are back bigger and better, and are here to stay for a long time to come. Eddie Cantor right now is preparing to give us another production under the Samuel Goldwyn banner, and every major studio in the business has become music minded, with the largest music publishing houses reaping a harvest, because with every picture there are from one to three big song hits that are causing the public to hum and whistle the tunes merrily.

WRITERS' CLUB HAS AUCTION OF AUTOGRAPHED BOOKS

Miss Suzanne Wood, writer and actress, had an interesting book entitled "Kay Wood's Chicago" at the auction recently sponsored by the Writers' Club, which created quite a bit of notice among collectors of books. The book deals with Chicago and has very many interesting details of the famous Middle West city. Story begins in year of 1871.

AL STEEN TO BOSTON

Al Steen, connected with Associated Publications, bid Hollywood goodbye Saturday and is heading for Boston, stopping over in Kansas City to see his boss, Ben Shyhn.

Marilyn Morgan at Hollywood Stables

Marilyn Morgan, having finished at the Casino in Catalina, is now working at the Hollywood Stables, where she is singing to her heart's content and that of the guests.

Up at 6 o’Clock—to get her exercising and a voice lesson, is the way Ann Southern starts the day. She is playing "Blind Date" for Columbia Pictures.

Seven pictures in eight months is her record.

"A Million Dollar Ransom"—will be made by Edward and Victor Hallin for Universal Pictures. Cable messages to Joan Bennett daily have persuaded her to take the star role.

Speaks Seven Languages—so Wera Engels was assigned the lead in "The House of Strangers," for Invincible Pictures. German, Italian, Austrian, Russian, English, Danish and Japanese are in her category.

The American Max Reinhardt—Maurice Schwartz, writer and producer, has signed a contract with Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer, after finishing "Yoshi Kalb" on a tour of South America and the United States.

Kidnappers Beware—of trying their duty work on Carl Brisson, latest Paramount star, as stories officials ordered a 24-hour cordon of guards when Carl moved from his hotel suite to the 24-room house in Beverly Hills.

Famous Writer Loaned—with Reliance Pictures making arrangements to have Mike Simmons, author of "The Bowery," a United Artists picture, collaborate with Earle Snell on "Young and Beautiful" for Mascot Pictures. Joseph Santley directs.

Gary Cooper Gets Ribbed—in the Paramount commissary over wearing a loud red and white flowered necktie. The ribber insisted that Gary's bride, Sandra Shaw, is picking them out, but he explained that the tie is character in "Now and Forever."

Trem Carr Generous—in loaning his famous writer, Tristram Tupper, leave of absence to write for Paramount on "Outrage." Tristram will do the adaptation, continuity and dialogue.

Another Difficult Problem—was given William Seiter, director, and Gorden Alvine, producer, of "We’re Rich Again." RKO Picture, in selecting two girls that must be exactly alike, have fine figures and acting ability. Joan Marsh and Gloria Shea filled the bill.

Worst Dressed Man in the World—are right here in Hollywood, or so says Rene Hubert, recent arrival from the Rue De La Paix, to design gowns for Kitti Gallien, in "Marie Gallienne," for Fox. Hubert says the men wear sweat shirts and golf attire when escorting ladies in the evening.

Diamonds on the Eyelids—caused Cocoanut Grove regulars to gasp with amazement as Pert Kelton, of RKO Pictures, arrived recently, wearing a row of miniature diamonds on each eyelid.

Gracie Allen Writes—to Norman McLeod, of Paramount, that she thinks her husband, George Burns, is the most polite husband, as he always precedes her out of their apartment as soon as he hears the fire whistle blowing on the streets.

Don't Wait Longer—for authentic beach styles, as Frances Fuller, Paramount player, is showing the latest in beach pajamas, of dark brown lines, that are really a dream. A novel played effect is used for summering.

Buz Berkeley Beware—as Max Steiner, musical director, and Dave Gould, of RKO Pictures, had a novelty in "Down To Their Last Yacht," with 150 palm trees and three huge bonfires swaying to the dancing of 500 humans.

Experience Counted Here—as Trem Carr, of Monogram, selected Herman Schloom, former head of the leading department of Universal, as production manager and assistant to Robert Welch, executive producer.

Thirty Speaking Roles—have been written into "Captain Hats the Sea," by Wallace Smith, author of the famous novel. This will be the first Lewis Milestone production for Columbia Pictures.
Leslie Fenton Again Scores Hit in “Bitter Harvest” at Hollywood Playhouse

Melville W. Brown showed fine judgment in producing, and Dickson Morgan in staging, “Bitter Harvest,” with Leslie Fenton as the star, at the Hollywood Playhouse. After seeing this tale of Lord Byron’s love life at its initial showing in Beverly Hills, we felt that Hollywoodians should be given a chance to enjoy this play, and sure enough, it was given for the first time here Monday night before a representative audience, and to the confidence of Mr. Brown in Leslie Fenton, the youthful actor put over a ten-strike by the manner in which he characterized Lord Byron. Second to him in acting honors we select Elsa Buchanan, then Lola Luxford, Lillian Bond, Lindsay McHarry, Alfred Cross, Finis Barton, Darwin Rudd, May Beatty and Benjamin Brindley. The play is from the pen of Catherine Turney, and is worthy of a screen chance with an all-star film cast.

Here, There and Everywhere

CARL LAEMMLE, SR., enroute for vacation abroad, to sail June 16th on the Ile De France for his annual six weeks’ visit in London, Paris and Carlsbad. CLAUDETTE COLBERT and CARY GRANT will co-star in “The Gilded Lily” for Paramount. Radio pays $65,000 for the rights to “Roberta,” one of the season’s musical successes, slated for IRENE DUNNE. ARTHUR JACOBSON and CHARLES BARTON, promoted to full fledged directors at Paramount Studio, will co-direct “Wagon Wheels,” with RANDOLPH SCOTT and GAIL PATRICK. “Imitation of Life,” the JOHN M. STAHL production for Universal, is scheduled to start June 18th, with CLAUDETTE COLBERT in the starring role. DOUGLASS MONTGOMERY, talented young stage and screen actor, has won a three picture a year Universal contract, due to his excellent work in FRANK BORZAGE’S “Little Man, What Now!” starring MARGARET SULLAVAN. BORIS KARLOFF, celebrated Universal character star, has purchased KATHERINE HEPBURN’S former canyon retreat. “Our Daily Bread,” starring KAREN MORLEY and TOM KEENE, completed—KING VIDOR due in New York with print June 15th. SEYMOUR FELIX engaged to stage idea for “The Treasure Hunt,” EDDIE CANTOR’S picture for United Artists. TAY GARNET entertaining aboard his yacht awaiting completion of his Laurel Canyon home. Two well known screen comedians in cast of “The Merry Widow,” M-G-M, HERMAN BING and LUCIEN PRIVAL. JACK BENNY arrived in Hollywood for role in Edward Small’s next production, tentatively titled “Transatlantic Showboat,” on completion of first for Reliance. HELEN MUNKEN to be given test for top spot in “Good Earth,” which IRVING THALBERG will produce for Metro. FAY WRAY option lifted by Columbia, calling for her to make two features during the coming year.

New Writer Makes Bow in Hollywood

One of the cleverest comedies that we have read in a long time is an opus written by a comparatively new writer, George A. Mackie, who has decided to take a fling at the silver screen with a variety of stories that should make some producer sit up and take notice. One of his recent stories, and a masterpiece at that, is titled “Sanitary Plumbers,” a comedy with situations and gags that would do justice to any staff of gag writers on any lot in Hollywood. It is a story suitable for two comedians, such as Laurel and Hardy, or any other team of comedians in the city of cinema. This story has over two hundred new and original gags, with a lot of good old “belly laughs,” and it steams with comedy throughout. “Sanitary Plumbers” has plenty of material for a feature production. Mr. Mackie, although new in the writing game, has turned out an excellent story and should have no difficulty in interesting some producer with his original ideas.

Eugenie Besserer Passes

The beloved character actress, Eugenie Besserer, passed away. We join the entire industry in mourning with those who are near and dear to her, over her sudden death. To have known this great artiste and her charitable traits for the good of humanity was to idolize her, and we did, and admit this at this time.
Endurance Contests
The recent walkathon classic was just another example of what endurance contests do to the unfortunate participants. It includes enough to accept the word of so-called sports promoters who hold out big prize money offers to entice them into such grueling contests as were recently staged, and for which the contestants and workers are being paid for their wages. We are told that a six-day bicycle race is soon to be run off in Hollywood in a newly built stadium. Bike riders from all over the country are said to have been imported to take part. We hope that the riders will fare better than the walkers did. These endurance contests, according to the law, are illegal, but somehow or other those back of the events find ways and means to lark old John Law, so that he can only drag the case in and out of courts, while the races go on and on. We are for good class sport, but not for sport of a sort to do a detrimet to the community and to good business. It creates a place for the gangsters to hang out and hide away, and usually winds up with some sort of gun play. It is unfair competition to the movie theatres in the neighborhood, as they are unable to meet the counter attractions with any kind of program that looks good enough on paper to gain public support.

Moving Movie Throng by John Hall

Hollywood is all adither over a conc- ated attack by church people. Every "inside" trade paper in the field is screaming sugges- tions how to check the churchmen — Long ago Filmo- graph (unsubsidiz- ed-free) suggested CLEAR PICTURES THEN, the "inside" press laughed at big churchmen — even wisecracked at them, and the producers went right on patting the boys on the back with lots of fat ad- vertising ... NOW the "inside" press is screaming in wild alarm — and NOT wisecracking at big churchmen ... In Hollywood, "analysis" is a terrifying word, because few words, written or spoken in Hollywood, are expressed with analysis in mind. The "Yes-man" complex of ALL milking the Holly- wood cow is the basic cause ... The irresistible pressure of American Dem- cracy and American puritanism in- courage conquests of forces and sup- pression of the American ideals ... President Woodrow Wilson died fighting for these things, a true mar- tyr to the spirit which is the founda- tion and guiding power of this great na- tion ... Now Mrs. August Belmont, President of the Motion Picture Research Council, heads a movement to "make all Americans film conscious" ... Recently published research shows 52 feature pictures are condemned by the women's clubs of the country; Hollywood may be surprised to know that no Mae West picture is on the list ... The prevailing wild frenzy of alarm among the "inside" press people is funny ... Apparently they think the motion picture industry faces com- plete destruction. Producers should not be alarmed. They should know that their way out of the mess is very simple—CLEAN PICTURES. That's all ... Stop supplying the en- my with ammunition ... Says an "inside" trade paper: "We say that Mr. Flays is all wrong ... Leaders should come out of hiding in an effort to DEFEND THIS GREAT INDU- STRY ..." We say this great industry NEEDS NO DEFENSE ... All this industry needs is CLEAN PICTURES ... They may be artistically poor, but no man can make all "hit" pictures: but every producer in Hollywood can make ALL CLEAN PICTURES ... The big lesson for all producers in this present situation is the REALIZA- TION that it is FOLLY to buy press opinions ... The panic now on among the "inside" press is no consolation to picture producers ... Observation will show but a muddling proceeding designedly indicating the wisdom of spending much more money in printer's ink ... Most of the stuff is vitu- parious ... Using invective against powerful church leaders is a result of THINKING ... If they are wise, producers will CENSOR all propa- ganda put out by their "inside" trade papers; among them the real editorial mind is conspicuous by its total absence ... One of them refers to "professional reformers, publicity- seeking churchmen and cheap politi- cians" ... Only big and very power- ful churchmen are heading the activities of the churches; and those big churchmen care nothing for publicity ... So far, that old pest, the "profes- sional reformer" does not figure ... For "cheap politicians"—politicians are NOT CHEAP ... Ask any produc- er ... Mr. Harry Burns, owner and publisher of Filmmograph (always unbought), holds firmly to the posi- tion he always held: CLEAR PIC- TURES and clean people ... And that position, gentlemen, is the ONLY position for ALL producers. Holding that position there is nothing to "DE- FEND," as your "inside" press has it.

Hollywood Dirt Dishers

get him—in fact, right now there are several petitions being signed which are to be mailed to President Franklin D. Roosevelt demanding the removal of Mr. Rosenblatt. This, too, runs true as to certain mobs being out to get Dave Allen, general manager of the Central Casting Corporation. These men and women have plotted and schemed and won't rest until they put Dave Allen and the Central Cast- ing out of business. All this turmoil won't help the situation, or the indus- try. It will make it harder for the extras to carry on. If the truth were known, many of the wage adjustments put through in the N.R.A. Code were the work of Dave Allen and the Central Casting Corporation. During the World War any one was a traitor to his country who was proven an "en- my within," and was put on the fringes and left. Today no one thinks anything at all of attacking the Presi- dent or any of his administrators of the N.R.A. Code, which is like a war time measure trying to pull this country out of the hole that it is in, and the same goes for the extra producers' problems, which are right now up to the Central Casting Corporation to work out as ordered by the N.R.A Ad- ministrators, and the C. C. Corporation in its duty, it is up to the government to rotate the work and supervise the business.

NEW PRODUCING COMPANY AT THE TALISMAN STUDIOS

An aggregation of picture men of experience has taken quarters at the Talisman Studios, formerly the home of D. W. Griffith. Academy Produc- tions.—The studio is scheduled for a short time, and is headed by Barney Good- man as President, Abe Heller, Vice- President, and Pat Clemens, Second Vice-President. Each of these men has had a long experience in both the- atre management as well as producing pictures. Their first set-up will be a series of six. These stories are now being prepared and contain elements of drama, romance, and comedy. This is always good screen fare.

THE PEBLO INN

Mike Girard, formerly with the Club Royale here, is now running "The Pueblo Inn," in Phoenix, Arizona, and reports doing great business. He was visiting in Hollywood the other day to sign up a new girl and to open Wednes- day at his place in Arizona.
THE TRUTH AND NOTHING BUT THE TRUTH

By Vivian Denton

Tinsel-Town Topic

Herbert Marshall in a glowing con- fession in one of London's cinema magazines tells openly of his love for the glamorous Gloria.

Little Lass, What Now

Carole Lombard is reported to be delighted with the grand reviews on her work in "20th Century," but her happiness would be complete if Bill Powell would telephone his congratulations—Carole still carries the torch an' how.

Amusing Signs

Old Lady Rumor

Is painting the town red with a story to the effect that one big major studio in Hollywood will close permanently er Santa Clause goes swinging down the Boulevards again. Several of its best associate producers are planning to leave the fold at an early date.

Not So Hot

A well known gown designer of one of the better studios was a chorus boy in "I'll" ole New York many moons ago. At that time he befriended a lad some years younger than himself and treated him as a brother. Today he is forced to pay said lad, who has developed into an impudent, indolent cur, a weekly stipend because of the ingrate's threats to lie about his benefactor. Oh! me, oh! my, the only place to find gratitude is in the dictionary, so 'elp me.

Dodging the Gossips

Is a new game in Tinsel-Town. Those who can keep two homes going, and those who can't have hide-away shacks in the hills. I love the story that is making the rounds about the blonde star who has the two apartments. It is too ducky to print! Call me up some time and I'll let down my back hair.

Purr's

Many "purr's" of welcome to three worthy gentlemen of the press, Walter Winchell, Sidney Skolsky and Louis Sobol, whose pens are mightier than the sword. To Mrs. Arthur Vinton for her graciousness and charm. A special "Purr" to Director Jack Con- way for his grim determination to make "100 Percent Pure" a hit—it's in the bag, Jack. "Purr's and Purr's" of delight because Frank Sebastian is on the road to recovery.

Notice

To all my friends—My Sunday nights are open now 'til next September, ac- counta I don't have to stay home to listen to "The Jergen Journal." So what!

An Adonis in Our Midst

I wonder if any of our studio scouts have seen handsome Anthony De Sousa? Boy! He's got everything. A typical Warner Baxter type, plus intelligence and talent.

Scoop

Morton Downey (Barbara Bennett's darling) is packing them in at the Club Chez Paree in Chicago. Business is terrific! (Are we listenin')

VARIED IMPRESSIONS

Otto Malde's diets (they sly me) . . . Jack La Rue's boyish exuberance (it must be love) . . . Constance Ben- nett's peeves (you count 'em, I'm too tired) . . . Patsy Kelly's ukulele tech- nique (I'll take vanilla) . . . The ar- ticle, "Morons on the Air" (from the Catholic World, May, 1934) a splendid bit of prose . . . Anthony's very defi- nite definition of the word love (if you know me well enough, ask me) . . . That fortune-teller (whom I think is a columnist's spy in disguise) who has some of our cinema celebs worried . . . and last but not least, my own pri- vate impression of the mugs who won't pay for honest labor. Oh! Mr. Presi- dent, how's about making it a peni- tentiary offense? My heart just aches for those poor little chorus-kiddies who put in hours and hours of hard, hard work and some of them had hardly enough to eat. This putting on the high hat and producing a show on the proverbial shoestring has be- come a pestilence. There ought to be a law!

IN AND OUT OF FOCUS

By Allan Hersholt

Jean Arthur Shines in Poor Film

If I were the author of Columbia's "The Most Precious Thing in Life," I would feel somewhat embarrassed by its straightforward imitativeness, its obviousness and its lack of freshness in dialogue. There is no scene in this shallow, lachrymose drama which is without an artificial mood or which fails to suggest that the emotional qualities have been abstracted from other stories rather than honestly con- ceived. It would, no doubt, have been a far better photoplay had some trace of creative earnestness been given it. There is, however, a genuinely lovely performance offered by Miss Jean Arthur. Portraying a motherly role with remarkable restraint and simpli- city, this brilliant young actress gives a characterization which should be remembered for a long while. The ever reliable Richard Cromwell, Don- ald Cook, Anita Louise, Ben Alexan- der, Mary Forbes and John Wray are generally excellent in their roles. Lam- bert Hillyer directed.

Broadway Stage Reviews

In the May 26th issue of the Filmo- graph I reviewed two current New York stage plays, "Ah, Wilderness!" and "Mary of Scotland," both of which Jean (Dad) Hersholt and I attended while vacationing in the big city. Be- low are criticisms of various other off-erings that we viewed.

A Memorable Performance

After seeing Henry Hull's interpre- tation of Jeeter Lester in the power- fully realistic drama, "Tobacco Road," I must concur with New York thea- tregoers who undoubtedly here in Broadway's most sensational performance of the season. Mr. Hull's char-acter delineation, so far as I am able to remember, is the greatest piece of stage acting I have seen in any amusing little maestroism I have been told by the most critical spectator to burst into round after round of laughter and applause.

Occurring at a farm house in the back country of Georgia, "Tobacco Road" tells the story of Jeeter and his family of poor whites. Restrained by poverty and ignorance, the small, isolated group of once sturdy stock has degenerated and is dying out under the pressure of an economic system. The interesting action has been developed thoughtfully by Producer-Director An- thony Brown. His handling shows a keen sense of grouping and individual values. This is a vulgar story, but exciting and strange enough to linger in one's memory for a long while.

Max Gordon Musical Hit

The latest Jerome Kern-Otto Har- bach musical comedy, "Roberta," is generally distinguished for its fine tempo, humor and gaiety; for a par- ticularly ravishing fashion show displaying grace and splendor; and for the freshness, lightness, brightness and charm of Mr. Kern's music. Deft- ly adapted from the Alice Diller novel, this tuneful revue already has become a much discussed offering throughout the country. The irre- sistible Lydia Roberti, Bob Hope, Ta- mara, Fay Templeton and George Murphy, recently signed by Columbia, give splendid singing and dancing per- formances. Mr. Hope, I believe, would be a highly successful choice for the screen. "Roberta" is an achievement of which Producer Max Gordon may be proud; he has given it one of those flawlessly mounted productions that are his trademark in the New York Theatre.

Walter "Dodsworth" Huston

Another spectacular Max Gordon success—absorbing and eminently worthy—is Sidney Howard's carefully weighed, expertly worded dramatiza- tion of "Dodsworth." The music is the Sinclair Lewis novel. Given strong, varied, sustained direction and acted with enkindling sincerity, this wise, articulate comedy-drama is warm with life. Mr. Howard deserves unlimited praise for having written it with such extraordinary technical ease. The star, Mr. Walter Huston, portrays Samuel Dodsworth with intensity and deli- cacy, offering a strikingly vivid piece of work. Fay Bainter and Nan Sunder- land (Mrs. Walter Huston) are ut- terly fine in their roles.

Reviews of "Ziegfeld Follies," "As Thousands Cheer," "The Shining Hour" and "They Shall Not Die," will appear in this column next week.

JEAN HERSHOLT WITH ANN HARDING

M-G-M has loaned Jean Hersholt to RKO-Radio for the Ann Harding picture, "The Fountain," directed by John Cromwell. Thearegoers hope some day to again see Jean Hersholt in as great a part as in "Men In White." Another like that and he will have to be starred.

MASCOT SIGNS BEN TURPIN

Nat Levine, through the Ruth Dwy- er agency, signed Ben Turpin for his next serial, which will go into produc- tion within a short time.
THE KING'S CLUB CONTINUES TO TOP HOLLYWOOD FIELD

Gail Reinking can well be proud of the patronage that the King's Club is drawing its way, for one look in at most any hour during the evening will show you that the best people in and around Hollywood are enjoying their dinners and refreshments in an atmosphere that is worth the standing in public or private life. We have yet to see anyone step out of line in this place, and the many repeaters who come back night after night are the best evidence that they were pleased with the management, with Smiling George and Harry serving the refreshments, and entertainment—and while on this subject, let us say that you have to go a long ways to find two such clever artists as Stuart Ross and Joe Sargent. These men have entertained the crowned heads of Europe and know their audience to the last detail. They are a joy, a joy, all the time, giving them just enough and making them hungry for more, and the beauty of it all is they never run out of material, always uncorking something new every night.

The Three Brownies, the highest class Creole singers, too are helping in a great measure in winning the attention that the King's Club is getting and while places it in the lead of the entire field in West Hollywood. Just a fair example of some of the celebs we saw drop in to enjoy themselves at the King's Club: Marlene Dietrich, Ann Harding, Ted Fio Rito, William Powell, Dudley Murphy, James Gleason, Lewis Milestone, George E. Stone, George Bancroft, Lou Clayton, John Warburton, Jimmy Durante, Barry Trivers, who wrote the hit song "Boris," about Hollywood for Messrs. Ross and Sargent, Don Alvarado, John Twist, Sally Blane, Carey Grant, Alice Terry, Gertrude Michael, Barbara Barondess, Mickey Walker, Jack Kearns, Sidney Fox, Chas. Belan, Carl Laemmle, Jr., Albert Kaufman, Paul Page and so many others that one would tire reading the list. Oh, yes, we almost forgot Paul Franks, who knows how to serve the best refreshments in town, has recovered from his illness and is back on the job.

JOHNNY HORACE IS DUE TO RETURN TO CAESAR'S

Johnny Horace, a great favorite at Caesar's, who's been in the hospital for some time suffering with a playspot. Ruby Barbee, a newcomer in these parts, is making a place for herself and will be heard from not only in night spots, but on the screen as well. Johnny Horace and others go a long ways toward entertaining the crowds that drop in here. Walt Johnson, famous song writer and pianist, tickles the ivories for the entertainers.

GUS ARNHEIM OPEN JUNE 5
AT COCA-COLA GROVE

Gus Arnheim and his incomparable orchestra opens Tuesday, June 5, at the Coca-Cola Grove. He has as added attractions Florence and Alvarez, Maxine Tappan, the Three Downey Sisters and Jimmie Newell. This should be a gala event, for Gus Arnheim proved his popularity recently by selling out such a long engagement at the Beverly Wilshire Hotel, and then made even a greater hit in the St. Francis Hotel, San Francisco.

Monday, June 4, is preview night at the Grove, with the big opening the following night. Wednesday evening we ran into Col. Harry Baine with Madeline Sivyer, that gorgeous blonde entertainer, Randolph Scott, beautiful Clare Leahy, Jack Benny and Missus, Lloyd Pantages, Eddie Sutherland, Chas. Over, Nick Stuart, Joan Marsh, and Tommy Lee. Here is a good bit of news—Billy Thies, who used to share maître de hôte honors with Albert, at the Beverly Wilshire Hotel, and formerly at the Grove, is the right hand man to Jimmy Manos, head man at the Coca-Cola Grove. And at a closing shot, let us say that General Manager Ben L. Frank is all smiles now that Gus Arnheim is coming back home to the place of his first and biggest success.

AT LEVY'S TAVERN

Looking about us at 'Al Levy's Tavern, we noticed the following celebs dining: Monroe Owsley, Gloria Stuart, Sari Maritomi, Tom Keene, Harold Lloyd, Sam Taylor, El Brendel and wife, Dorothy Wilson, Guy Kibbee and wife, Glenda Farrell, Judith Vossely, Lyle Talbot, Dorothy Sebastian, Carole Lombard, John Warburton, Rita La Roy, Einar Harsfjeld, Thelma Todd, Bill Cagney, Pert Kelton, Hobart Bosworth and wife, and many others. Al Levy was the busiest man this side of the Rockies glad handing 'em all and looking after their welfare.

COMMANDS ATTENTION OF NITE LIFERS

Amid the most entrancing atmosphere one can find all sorts of fun and amusement at the White Horse Tajawn, located on Cahuenga near Yucca. The Harlem Singing Waiters, under the direction of Curtis Carpenter, adorable Babe Mack, the sweeter of all color is painting the town red with the music of musicians, the Elliott Lewis Rhythm Trio, playing for the dance numbers and show, all makes for just the right kind of pastime that nite lifers love to run into and spend an evening enjoying, in between the best kind of food and refreshments that one might seek of an evening. Stage and screen stars make this place a sort of meeting spot day and night. This, of course, draws the natives to give them the once over.

LE ROY BROOMFIELD, AURORA GREELY AND FOUR COVANS
HEAD SEBASTIAN'S SHOW

The famous colored producers and entertainers, LeRoy Broomfield and Aurora Greely, continue to stage and appear at the popular review for Frank Sebastian at his new Cotton Club, where Leon Herriford and his orchestra, featuring Lionel Hampton, ace trap drummer, are winning a great deal of applause nightly from the largest crowds that have attended this popular amusements center in some time. We have never in our whole life seen such an array of beauty and daring costumes as worn by the Creole chorines, and when it comes to fun-making, you will have to hand the palm to Eddie Anderson, Rutledge and Taylor, and Dudley Dickerson, while Cliff Ritchie, Jr., and Martha Ristoff sing their way into the hearts of those present, and by the way, Martha can step and do those rag numbers like nobody's business, too. The Four Dancing Covans top the rag off in great form: the quartet of dancers that outstep any others we have ever seen on the Pacific Coast. Leon Herriford and his Cotton Club Orchestra is offering something that is a breath of the beaten path. He individually is a great artist, his whispering saxophone numbers are gems. Then there is Lionel Hampton, who puts on the Louis Armstrong thing between his peppering up the show and dances, that is a wow. Head waiter Otto E. Brooks, at this spot, keeps coming before our mind's eye every now and then, for he is so regular and always tries to make the guests feel at home.

ASSISTANCE LEAGUE TO STAGE VAUDEVILLE SHOW
AT MIRAMAR JUNE 13

“Evening, folks, how y’ all?” brings Kay Kyser at the opening of the Terrace Room at the Miramar Hotel in Santa Monica Thursday, June 7. Looking more like a professor than an orchestra leader, he is famed for his completely “dead pan” when telling a music joke, which he likes to do. Many rev- ellers will be attracted to the opening of the beautiful Terrace Room by this well-known radio star, who is returning to Southern California after a successful engagement at Bal Tabarin, in San Francisco.

Society folk will throw to the Miramar Hotel Thursday evening, June 7, when the Terrace Room, the summer dancing place of long-standing popularity, will have its gala opening. Kay Kyser and his orchestra will play for the event, and any number of the smart set have already made reservations. June 13 will find a large number of the society set enjoying the famed vaudeville of the Assistance League.

BEVERLY WILSHIRE GOLD ROOM CLOSES FOR SEASON

Carol Lofer's Orchestra brought to a close the dining and dancing season Sunday night at the Beverly Wilshire Gold Room, to reopen September 15th. The maestro was given quite a hand when he bid every one present goodbye. Among those present were Col. Harry Baine, Sally Blane, Lor- retta Young, Jack Oakie, Richard Wallace and wife, Sam Jaffe and missus, Mr. and Mrs. Billy Bakewell, Bobby Webb and wife, Don Alvarado, Betty Furness, Purnell Pratt staging a party, Mr. and Mrs. Louis Calhern, Mae Clarke, Sidney Blackmer, Joan Marsh, Frances Drake, Erwin Gelsey, Arthur Landau, Jack Smith, Judith Allen, Milton Golden, Harold Kaiser, Marion Bardell, Rochelle Hudson, Julius Tannen, Ernst Lubitsch, Fidel La Barba, Kathryn McGuire, and last but by far the least, Madeleine Sivyer, that dashling blonde beauty who is all the rage. This has resulted in a lot of talking on the radio and at the Pig-n-Whistle downtown store, and who is being considered for pictures.

EDYTHE FEELINGS AGAIN PROVES HERSELF A VERY VERSATILE LITTLE ACTRESS

Chalk up another fine performance for sweet little Edythe Fellows in "Jane Eyre," produced by Monogram and directed by William Christy Cabanne. The clever little miss followed her success with Richard Dix in "The Family Man," a RKO-Radio production, with work in this picture, and we understand there are a number of major studios after her services, one of them angling for a long term contract. Edythe is known as one of the best young actresses of her time because she loves her work, but takes orders like a seasoned trouper.

CLEVER

Ralph Gilliam, the little boy actor, has just finished a nice bit in "Baby Take a Bow" at Fox, with Harry Lachman directing.

BUSTY

Bobbie Bell, twelve-year-old child actress, has just finished a bit in King Vidor's "Our Daily Bread," also an excellent role in Monogram's "Jane Eyre." In between pictures Bobbie sings at various clubs and organizations.

THREE IN A ROW IS TOO MUCH GRIEF

Our heart has been so heavy the past week owing to the fact that our attention has been called to the passing of three men who meant much to our community. The first to pass on was John Nogle, who for over 20 years has been a member of the law firm of Nogle and Burke. His office was located in the Paramount studios, beloved by all, from Chief Bryant to the youngest of the boys. Next the grim reaper claimed Edward H. Neill, Belasco Theatre director. That is the late James Neill, beloved stage and screen actor, and just as we were going to press word came to us that Clark Comstock, that grand old trouper, after a hard fight, lost his battle, and died very peacefully in a rest home in Virginia Avenue. This was too much grief for us to bear in a single week, so we will beg for pity and the healing touch from Him who is able on the heads of those ill at this time.

CLUB BALLYHOO FLOOR SHOW IS THE BEST EVER

Frank Flanoer can well boast of staging the best floor show in town for the annual "Ballyhoo," presented by Frank Q. Graham, chairman of "Ballyhoo," created by Jack Lester, Lorraine and Packer International Dancers headline, with Kearney Walton as M. C., Gladys Gardner, solo dancer, and the beauty chorus. Lester has used the word for class and gorgeous costumes adorning those nifties that Mr. Lester selected and trained for the show. The Commodores furnish the dance and show music and are sure enough pepping it up nightly. Sunday night is star night and plenty of impromptu acts are put on, and a good time is had by all, if you ask us.

Sports

Hollywood Legion Stadium
Bob O'Brien's winning streak expanded with a loud report at Hollywood last week. Bob Olin, New York lightweight, capped O'Brien in the first, dropped him for a no-count, then knocked him through the ropes and proceeded to finish him and the referee stopped it. O'Brien was out on his feet. In the semi-Ppancy

Olympic Auditorium
Freddy Miller, featherweight champion, was defeated for Baby Casanova last Tuesday. The little Mexican, though he tagged Freddie twice, was on the receiving end of a fancy boxing lesson while the go lasted. Miller's class was too much for the boys from south of the Rio Grande, none of whom have been out in the great world. Because of Miller's longer reach and greater height, Casanova could not reach him often enough to do anything worthwhile. In the semi-final, Miller lost to Red Wolfe by technical k.o. from Walter Vaught. In the opener Frank Castillo scored a technical k.o. over Joe Rickiey. The house was full. This week referee Garcia meets Billy Bogy. By midweek busted Al Romero off the floor several times. This should be a real slug match.

Frankie Bailey Gives a Party
The gay blades of the Nineties as well as some of the younger ones of today were invited to a birthday party of one whose fame sent Broadway into ecstasies. In other words, the girl "with the million dollars legs." Two hundred of them came from all quarters of Hollywood, and nearly everybody famous in their day. It would have done the young stars of this day and age good to see the enjoyment of those whose names were world wide. Here was Lew Fields, of the famous team of Weber and Fields, May Howard, Vera Gordon, Emily Fitzroy, Mabel Leslie, Otis Harlan, Mrs. Willie Collier, Maude Allen, Burr McIntosh and a host of others whose names were almost forgotten. The party was at a time when he was about to go abroad for a year's vacation. In the various songs of the days gone by provided a myriad dollar entertainment that anyone would enjoy at any time. You should hear the laughter ring in the voices of those who gave your mothers, fathers and grandparenths so much amusement years ago. The famous ones are here in Hollywood, and some of them accept small roles in motion pictures to eke out a scant living. We're sorry you could not attend, as it was a show in itself.

Southland Becomes Mecca for Musical Comedy Artists

Extras Continue to War Against Central Casting

Dave Gould is Backed by Agency to Create Revues

The Southland will once more take its proper place in the amusement world. This time all artists who make the art of being a part and parcel of producing a musical revue are to be given an opportunity to help mold a hit show made up of Pacific Coast talent in every line. Dave Gould, who is at present working at the RKO-Radio Studios, and who with Moe Morton produced and staged the "Shim Sham Revue" at the Hollywood Music Box, is slated to stage a revue for that company in August, and will in the meantime line up whatever talent he can for the first Los Angeles musical revue sponsored by a local agency, which intends to back Mr. Gould, at the same time signing up the artists under its own personal management.

This announcement should start things humming here, for Dave Gould has for years been staging shows and revues in New York City, and his coming to the West Coast has brightened the musical revue pictures that he has staged and created the dance ensembles and musical numbers for. His present arrangements will broaden his activity and will make him absolutely the top man in his chosen calling, for he will be in direct touch with all artists now here and those who are contemplating coming to the West Coast in the very near future.

EL BRENDEL TO DO ANOTHER

Ralph Staub will start production of a new El Brendel comedy next week. This is El's last comedy under his present contract with Warner Bros. The story of Kentucky mountain life was written by Joe Traub, Staub, who is in charge of all shorts at Warner's West Coast studios, will also direct.

ALENE CARROLL IS A NEW COMEDY FIND

Aleene Carroll, a San Francisco girl who came here on her own and who made good in pictures, is coming to the front as a comedienne. Her best work to date has been in the Warren Deaves-Universal comedies.

EDYTHE FELLOWS

Following closely in the footsteps of little Shirley Temple is Edythe Fellows, who is destined to reach stardom very shortly, for the Byers-McArthur Agency has just signed little Edythe for one of the most important roles of her career in "Mrs. Wiggs of the Cabbage Patch," which is being produced by Paramount. This engagement comes to this clever little actress through her remarkable work in "The Family Man," produced by RKO, starring Richard Dix, and in "Jane Eyre," recently completed by Trem Carr-Monogram Pictures.

Take Advantage of Case Pending Against Dave Allen

Filmland's extras are at war with the Central Casting Corporation, figuring that this is the time to strike, while the iron is hot, against the very organization that controls the ways and means through which they obtain their daily work. They assume that the case now pending against Dave Allen, head of the C.C.C., will make it possible for them to obtain a fairer deal, and that in the event Mr. Allen is removed from his post, it will spell the end of the present system. All this is a lot of rot. It is as far from possible as anything impossible ever attempted. The case that will soon be heard in the courts has no bearing on the future operation of the Central Casting offices. If it is found advisable to change the management, this will easily be negotiated by Fred W. Beetsom, president of the Central Casting Corporation. But in this country a man is never guilty until proven, and he is entitled to a fair trial and hearing, so everything pertaining to this case will have to stand until the courts decide the guilt or innocence of Dave Allen and those supposedly involved in this case.

The men and women who appear in the case will have to stand or fall on what part they take in this whole affair. At the best it is a nasty blotch on the whole motion picture industry, and anyone willfully trying to injure the good names of those connected should, and will be, forced to pay the penalty of their actions. If they are really and truly pressing a case that is for the protection of those working as day players, then their fight will not be in vain, but on the surface, it looks like a dog eat dog case of spite work.

EUGENE STARK TO OPEN CAFE IN HOLLYWOOD

Eugene Stark, who has fed more stars and celebs than any other man in Hollywood, is again to take a hand in catering to Hollywoodians when he opens his new place in Hollywood.
"Cockeyed Cavaliers"

One of the funniest comedies we have had the pleasure of seeing in a longest time was at the Ritz Theatre last week by RKO Pictures, with those laugh makers, Wheeler and Woolsey. A costume production, in which they tell of two itinerant workmen who prey on the gentry. One of them has a happy faculty of borrowing everything in sight. Of course, there are disguises and bold bad fair galores, with the whole thing a laugh from beginning to end. Lou Brock, associate producer, provided an elaborate production, with Mark Sandrich, director, having the play and players well in hand with an abundance of novel gags and fast tempo at times. Four writers contributed their talents—Ralph Spence, who knows his dialogue like the alphabet; Ben Holmes, Grant Garrett and Edward Kaufman. As for Bert Wheeler and Robert Woolsey, they delivered all that is expected, with dainty Dorothy Lee backing them up with her piquence, in cute boy's clothes. Thelma Todd made a gorgeous Lady Genevieve, around whom the story revolves, with fat Robert Greig making a real old time duke with his eyes peeled at all times for the ladies. Henry Sedley aided as the friend of the baronet but Noah Beery was the hit of the show, playing the bold, bad baron. His basso profundo voice thunders through the theatre with weird effect. The lovely photography was provided by David Abel and the perfect costuming was credited to Walter Plunkett. The music was one of the hits of the picture, the two songs that will be whistled on the streets, "The Big Bad Wolf is Dead" and "How'd You Like to Wander," by Will Jason and Val Burton. Pandro Berman provided a splendid production that should be a joy to those who like beauty as well as laughter for their screen fare and will surely be rewarded by fat box offices in any theatre.

Short Subjects Preparing for the New Season with Educational in the Lead

There is no doubt in anyone's mind that the double feature programme is doomed. Not only are the producers sick and tired of providing two for one, but the dear public is beginning to realize that the thing is not only foolish but tiresome, as quite often the second one is usually inferior. With this fact in mind, Educational Pictures, always the King of Shorts, is getting ready for one of the busiest seasons of its long career. We had a talk with Mr. Christy during his vacation in Hollywood, just before he was called in a hurry to resume work at the Astoria Studios in New York, where most of the Educational pictures are made, and he told us of some of the ambitious undertakings soon under way. He pointed with pride to their first, "Love and Babies," which was a full length play on the New York stage, and has been boiled down to give two minutes of entertainment. Their second effort, which will be whistled on the streets, "The Mysterious Mr. Wong." This is taken from the novel by Harry Steven Klee and will be one of the specials of the year.

Three Celebrities Want Her—with P. G. Wodehouse, Dwight William, owner of the Little Theatre in New York, and Walter Huston, the services of Marion Marsh. This girl seems to be a hit since she arrived from London.

The Peer of Engravers—Edouard Chimot was secured by Winfield Sheehan of Fox Pictures to make a series of authentic sketches in color to illustrate the characters and scenes for Eric Charleston's "Caravan."

Noah Beery Gets a Break—in the role of the Hungarian inn keeper in "Caravan," one of the big features at the Fox lot. Noah recently startled the preview audience at "Cockeyed Cavaliers" with his voice.

Just Imagine This—Will Rogers, Irving Cobb, Frank Costello, James Gleason, Henry King and Ray Logan and magazine editor, were all lunching together at the Café De Paris on the Fox lot. A sight for the fans.

Monogram Going British—with Ralph Forbes, Colin Clive, Gwennllian Gill, Aileen Pringle, James Thomas and Beryl Mercer all being placed under contract by Trem Carr, in charge of production.

Two Big Names—Fred Astaire and Violet Kemble Cooper, famous stage and screen stars, reached Hollywood from New York recently, where they are under contract to appear in some RKO productions.

"The Broadway Lover"—a new comedy by DeSidle Pek, will be staged for three nights at the Writers Club beginning June 20th. One of our favorites, Georgia Hale, will be seen in a featured role.

Nothing But Vegetables—is claimed to be the right thing to use, by Pert Kelton, of RKO Pictures. In fact, Pert is not satisfied with eating them, but must have vegetable products for her beauty treatments.

Just a Quiet Outfit—worn by Stephen Pitchot on his recent flying trip to his beloved Harlem, with a snappy shepherd's whip, gray cuta-way suit, white spats, purple necktie, pearl derby and winged collar.

Head of Chippings Films—Lo Ming Yan is studying American motion picture making at the Fox Movietone Studios, and started with the spectacular settings of "Caravan," the Eric Charlal masterpiece.

On for Another Year—is Lew Ayres, whose option was picked up by Winfield Sheehan, general manager of Fox Films. The Janet Gaynor feature, "Servants' Entrance," with Frank Lloyd directing, is the first on the new deal.

No Rest for the Franchot—as the dear public is clamoring for Mr. Tone, so right after he finishes "100 Per Cent Pure" with Jean Harlow for M-G-M, he will be sent into a baseball picture, "Death on the Diamond."

Two Noted Funsters—Herman Bing and Lucien Prival, have been added to the cast of the "Merry Widow," just to be sure that there will be a lot of laughs as well as pictorial beauty and music.

His Favorite American Actress—prompted a Chinese admirer to design and send a beautiful handmade carved gold bracelet and earrings to Ann Sothern, of Columbia Pictures. Quite good for a beginner.

John Miljan Signed—for a featured role in Monogram's picture, "The Row's Youth," with Charles Lamont directing, from a story from the pen of Harry Sauber and Ben Verschleiser supervising.

A Famous Son—Jesse Lasky, Jr., has been signed by Trem Carr, of Monogram, to write dialogue for "Redhead." Betty Burbridge wrote the script from the novel by the well known Vera Brown.

"We Die Exquisitely"—is the intriguing title of a new play by John Twist, of RKO Pictures, who will produce the opus in Long Island during his vacation from writing. He will be back in 4 weeks.

Time To Get Married—says Al Santell, who celebrated the completion of "The Life of Virginie Winters" for RKO Pictures, by going to the altar with Jane Keithly, at the old marrying spot, Yuma, Arizona.

Columbia's Ace Director—Frank Capra, was taking time off from his many duties to study the new Leica camera with Gilbert Morgan at his camera shop on Sunset Blvd. This seems to be the meeting place of many notables.

When the Strike is Over—Lewis Milestone will take his players and technicians on location for "The Captain Hates the Sea," that Columbia will produce, but is delayed by the famous longshoremen's strike.

Carl Brisson Told Us—a few things about his friend, Primo Carnera, who says in his modest way that he will knock his opponent, Max Baer, right out of the ring. He also adds Max is neither fighter or actor.

Baby Le Roy Entertain— with Kingsford Smith, noted Australian air pilot and adventurer, at a luncheon in the Paramount commissary a few days back. This is the young man's first attempt at meeting celebrities.

George Yohalem Gets a Good One—from Robert Welch, associate producer for Monogram Pictures. "The Mysterious Mr. Wong." This is taken from the novel by Harry Steven Klee and will be one of the specials of the year.

P. G. Wodehouse, Dwight William, owner of the Little Theatre in New York, and Walter Huston, the services of Marion Marsh. This girl seems to be a hit since she arrived from London.

Lew Cody Answers Last Call—Will Be Missed by All

The press held up the passing of Lew Cody, and men and women who knew and loved him best crowded into the Pierce Bros. Mortuary to pay their last tribute to a real man, who had given much to this good old world. He was called for the last time, joining his beloved wife, Mabel Normand. The services were very brief—Lew Cody’s wishes, no doubt. As Father Mullin conducted the services we saw, among his many friends: Winfield Sheehan, Irvin Cobb, Bill Hart, Buster Keaton, Charles Murray, Jack Kipper, Henry King, Charles R. Rogers, Eddie Mannix, E. H. Allen and wife, Ben Bernie, Pitt Sheridan, Revell Sheehan, St. Masters, Dan Towsby, Tom Moore, Tiffany Thayer, Alan Dwan, Jack Oakie, Dr. Harry Martin, Harry Rapf, Marshall Neilan, Wesley Ruggles, Arline Judge, Al Lewis, Skeets Gallagher, Ned Martin, Warner Catlett, Charles Middleton, Lee Moran, Frank Darien, Charles Miller, William Conklin, William Burress, Frank Campeau, Arthur Stubbins, Bob Goldie, Hazel Forbes, Toby Wing, Angie Norton and Paul Nicholson, Crassford Kent, Larry Ceballos, Teddy Sampson, Lottie Pickford, Red Housew, Al Frietas, Ma La Vernie, Abe Roth and hundreds of others. The streets were lined with at least a thousand others who were there to pay their humble tribute to one of filmmand’s finest actors and good fellows, and whom it was our pleasure to know, respect and admire, for he ALWAYS GAVE HIS ALL to help everyone, never letting a friend down, and above all, he NEVER ALLOWED HIS LEFT HAND TO KNOW WHAT HIS RIGHT HAND WAS DOING when any one approached him for a helping hand.

233 Club Celebrates Its Tenth Anniversary—Ex-Gov. C. C. Young Gives Sterling Talk

Ex-Governor C. C. Young was the guest of honor Wednesday evening at the 233 Club’s tenth anniversary, and made a sterling speech. President Otto K. Olsen introduced the man who hopes to be returned to the Capitol as chief executive of the State of California, and he was greeted with a great ovation and a tremendous round of applause after he had completed his speech. The late Gov. James Rolph, Jr., was honored by taps being played by Gregory Golubee on a bugle, while all stood at attention. In reward for his thrilling talk, the great statesman was entertained by Oscar Radin and his 233 Club Symphony Orchestra, which was in the booth in the highest spot of the evening’s entertainment. Monte Carter, entertainment chairman, offered Miss Muriel Sharada, who did a “Nautical” and “Rhumba” dance to the point where she actually stopped the show. Here is a girl who does these Native dances with such emotion and feeling that her very toes and the tips of her fingers have a language all their own. Jose de Arratia, noted singer, sang two distinct hit numbers to astonishing enthusiasm. The assembly hall was packed to capacity. The speakers of the evening, who were very much at home, were Harry Zeheber, former President of the Club, and Judge Shrum. The reading of the history of the 233 Club, ably written by Edgar Forrest, was perfectly handled by John Ince, John Prince, William Humphrey and Christian Frank. Louis M. Chaudet spoke of how the organization degree team was originally formed and how now holds a place in the world’s Masonic activities. Midlght supper followed, with ex-Gov. C. C. Young doing plenty of glad hand shaking with everyone while they were breaking bread. Earlier in the evening Henry Roque- more presided as host for dinner and put on a show that was made up of the following artists, who pleased very highly. To start with, Albert Taylor, a veteran vaudeville star, also a dandy, who was a waiter; then came Jewell McGown, tap dancer; Marguerite Wolf, impersonator; then the Avakans, splendid dancers; Dona Adams, dancer; the Three Mercers, sensational dancers, all accompanied on the piano by Miss Lorana Dagmar. Joe De Nat did a piano solo, and Chas. Mintz sang—and how!

“Cheaters” Booked Over Loew Chain

“Cheaters,” first feature to be released on Liberty’s program of eight for 1934-35, has been booked over the entire Loew circuit of fifty theatres. Beginning June 12th, the picture which features Bill Boyd, Dorothy Mackaill and June Collyer will be shown in the de luxe houses of the metropolitan chain, including the Ziegfeld, 175th Street, Lexington and 83rd Street. Playing time will extend up to the end of June. The Loew deal was arranged by Budd Rogers, general sales manager of Liberty, and Jack Bellman, of the Hollywood Film Exchanges. “Cheaters,” suggested by Fanny Haislip Less’ “The Peacock Screen,” was directed by Phil Rosen from the screen story by Adele Buffington.

Prof. J. Orlov, Russian Scientist, Lectures in Hollywood and Los Angeles

Prof. J. Orlov, famous Russian scientist, stages a series of lectures in Hollywood and Los Angeles during the next two weeks. The professor, who has created the world’s breadth, “now and then” in Hollywood and at M-G-M has arranged these lectures and demonstrations of his health principle in answer to requests from the public, and his talks will cover up to date subjects. On June 18th, Prof. Orlov lectures at Hollywood Conservatory of Music in Hollywood. In downtown Los Angeles he lectures June 10, 11 and 14 at the North Hollywood Auditorium on West Adams Street. There is no admission charge and Prof. Orlov has an important message to all who attend.

George Waggoner Working On "Girl of My Dreams" Story for Monogram

George Waggoner is a very busy man these days. He no more than finishes one story than he finds himself engaged on another. Upon finishing “Once To Every Bachelor” for Liberty-Maj. Hoffman, which scored heavily at a recent preview, he hurried over to Columbia feature Studios, where he wrote “Among the Missing,” and right now he is writing “Girl of My Dreams” for Trem Carr-Monogram Pictures.

William (Stage) Boyd Heads Cast in “Her Knight Comes Riding,” Opening Soon at Playhouse

The next production to go into the Hollywood Playhouse is a new play by John V. A. Weaver called “Her Knight Comes Riding.” This play is being tried out at the Playhouse prior to its production in New York. A splendid cast has been assembled by E. E. Clive, who is producing the play (by arrangements with Al Rosen). It consists of such well-known actors as William (Stage) Boyd, Eddie Nugent, Dorothy Libaire, Dora Clement, Gertrude Short and James Bush. This play is taken from the published novel written by John V. A. Weaver, also called “Her Knight Comes Riding.” It is now in rehearsals under the direction of E. E. Clive.
A Great Friend Passes—Gov. James Rolph, Jr.

The motion picture industry joins the bereaved family of Gov. James Rolph, Jr., in their hour of sorrow, and bow their heads in prayer for the loss of the BEST FRIEND we have ever had. BELOVED BY EVERYONE WHO MET HIM WITHIN THE GATES OF THE STUDIOS, his handiwork for our interests was ever evident, and his passing will be felt even more by filmland than the very state which he governed and loved so. Our last meeting with Gov. James Rolph, Jr., was at a dinner at the 233 Club, which we shall never forget. He was the essence and personification of a GREAT MAN, who stood before his BROTHERS as one of them, ready to serve and help enlighten the burden of humanity. IT WAS INDEED A GREAT SIGHT, something that many a man would give his life for, to be able to see and still—to James Rolph, Jr., it was JUST ANOTHER FACING OF HIS DUTY—to make himself and all other men HAPPY AND PROUD THAT THEY LIVED WITHIN THIS ERA, so that they could do their BIT towards GOD AND MAN.

Proudly we write these few words as our humble tribute to one of GOD'S MEN—James Rolph, Jr., FAREWELL until we meet again—one can't say GOODBYE—to a MAN LIKE YOU—“Sunny Jim”! May your smile stay with the State of California for ages to come.

GEORGE STEVENS DIRECTS ANOTHER FUN-FILM AT RKO-RADIO STUDIOS

Carol Tevis and Grady Sutton today were signed for featured roles in the "Girls in a Boat," newest of the "Blondes and Redheads" comedy series at RKO which goes into production Monday with George Stevens directing from the story written by Jack Townley and Fred Gill. Stevens has just completed direction of the RKO feature length comedy, "Bachelor Bait." Miss Tevis and Grady Sutton also were signed on new contracts at RKO today, calling for six more of the "Blondes and Redheads" comedies, with options for six to follow these.

"WEATHER PERMITTING": CREDIT BELONGS TO FERDINAND SCHUMANN HEINKE

There has been some sort of a mix-up as to who originated the story of "Weather Permitting," which Universal bought and is soon to produce. We have it on good authority that Ferdinand Schumann Heinke wrote the story and sold it to the big U, they in turn having had a number of writers prepare it for the screen.

Plainly, the Little Fellow is a millionaire today and a bum tomorrow. This cannot be said of the Big Fellow actor... We could go on and on, but space forbids. Why not eliminate the legendarium and establish a flat $25.00 per day rate for ALL talking bits? The Guild can do this thing... Why not do it?

Moving Movie Throng by John Hall

Just now Hollywood is flooded with literary celebrities—and all sing the same monotonous song... Most of the distinguished visitors are directly or indirectly connected with the picture business, some actually working in pictures, others writing for them, and still others with bosses financially interested in films... Automatically, it seems, the celeb ladies and gentlemen strike what, to an old inhabitant of Hollywood, is a heavy, monotonously dull sing-song pace of sickly flattering adulation... These sleekly prosperous sons and daughters of Manhattan's fashions run true to humanity's normal forms during days of financial fate, and there is no desire to hold them up to scorn... Far from that... They are very human... However, be that as it may; to one who has sat on the Hollywood sidelines for a dozen years, the annual parade of praiseworthy doers growing a bit tiresome... Overplayed platitude is rich food for the Grand Lamas of Hollywood—no matter how high the price... We are in receipt of a nice letter from Mr. Kroll to Mr. Thompson, in which he gently chides us for overlooking the fact that the Hollywood Screen Players' Guild (of which he is secretary) has collected for extras the sum of $878.26, covering 110 claims... We know of these things, Mr. Thompson, and we hasten to congratulate... We are interested in the Little Fellow... Let us not forget that, because of the background of the Little Fellow, high-salaried Hollywood players have been saved HUNDREDS OF THOUSANDS in salaries... Let us not forget that Mr. Cantor and his player fellows in the big money were hurried to organize because the producers manaced THEIR big salaries, and without the support of the MASSES, there would have been... This Guild, by the way, like the Heaven of the Mohemedan, is divided into two DEGREES OF GREATNESS... There is no reason for a Junior Guild... ALL SHOULD BE EQUAL, and all business of ALL players should be handled through one central office... There should be no Little Fellow... Today, the universal trend is a process LEVELING UPWARD... Like Mr. Darrows, we would eliminate the distinction in government and fraternal organization... When is a day screen worker worth $35.00 per day for playing a talking bit?... As we have said in previous articles, a producer may hire a talking extra bit player for as low as $10.00 per day. If he asks a $7.50 per day extra to speak a line he must pay the extra $25.00... Why not a flat $25.00 per day for ALL talking extra bits?... Apparently, this is what was sought in the beginning, but as Darrows says, Big Business framed the Codes... Having secured other changes, the Guild can change this matter to a common-sense interpreta...

Lachman’s Direction Praised

At the present view showing, Fox’s “Baby, Take A Bow,” starring the sensational Shirley Temple, James Dunn and Claire Trevor, was claimed one of the year’s most entertaining cinematic Presentations. The success of this tight, spontaneous film is not due to the work of any particular star or featured player; rather, it must be declared entirely a director’s picture. One is at all times acutely and pleasantly conscious of the imaginative, unshackled and thoroughly intelligent direction of Harry Lachman.
This man merits unlimited commendation for taking a commonplace story and giving it an unusually outstanding picture which never once fails to hold the spectator’s interest.
If, during my brief writing career, I really have sounded like a press-agent for Mr. Lachman, it is only because I recognize the fact that he is one of Hollywood’s few directors who successfully can create and blend realism, pictorial artistry, humaneness, suspense, comedy and emotional drama.
Throughout “Baby, Take A Bow” runs a really delightful, undeniably amusing brand of humor. In fact, I do not, at the moment, recollect having seen a summer, more steadily enjoyable light drama for months. Unexpected in its twists and hilarious in its comments, the picture continually bubbles with agreeable laughs. Little Shirley Temple, bright and believable, offers an amazingly fine piece of work for a youngster. Claire Trevor, more beautiful than ever, James Dunn, Alan Dinehart and Ray Walker are thoroughly convincing in their respective roles. Viewing this Lachman production is a pleasant adventure which I leave to you with my blessings.

“They Shall Not Die”

My most thrilling and eventful evening, while Broadway playgoing with Jean (Dad) Hersholt, was spent at the Royal Theatre viewing the Guild production of John Wexley’s forceful, gripping, colossal melodrama, “They Shall Not Die.” Furnishing an absorbing, genuine, complete experience, this new play, I believe, would move any audience throughout the universe to authentic shouts, hisses and applause. With a dynamic touch of almighty realism Mr. Wexley author of “The Last Mile” and “Steel,” has woven it around actual facts of the widely discussed Scottsboro Negro case. Incidentally, these nine condemned Ethiopian boys, accused of raping two white girls, have been proven innocent. “They Shall Not Die,” no doubt, is devilish in its cruelty. But, in my opinion, it is the one play of the current season that can hold its own as a work of dramatic art worthy of comparison with Bronte, Wycherley as “What Price Glory” and “Journey’s End.” It would be difficult to over-praise the acting of Claude Rains, recently seen as “The Invisible Man,”
Ronald Colman, Helen Watkinson,
Helen Westley and Thurston Hall.
These players, supported by a carefully selected cast of seventy, contribute excellent characterizations. Director Philip Moeller, responsible for the staging of many other successful Guild offerings, proves by his deft handling that he is a master of his craft.

Billie Burke Offers “Follies”

One day, after lunching at the Upper East Side club where Marguerite
Cooper, the prominent stage star, Dad and I attended a performance of the newest “Ziegfeld Follies,” elaborately sponsored by Billie Burke (Mrs. Flor-enz Ziegfeld). This current edition, stars Wellman Price, Wylie Watson,
Eugene Howard, Everett Marshall, Vilma and Buddy Ebsen, Jane Froman and a dozen slightly lesser known performers, is a result of the wish expressed by Mrs. Ziegfeld that so glamorous a tradition as the “Follies” not be permitted to die. And so, in a sense, it is a memorial to that master showman of them all, the late Florenz Ziegfeld.
Brilliantly staged by Bobby Connolly and John Murray Anderson, the offering has a lavish abundance of singing, dancing, gorgeous girls, glamour, comedy, novel music and colorful eye-spectacle—all characteristic of previous Ziegfeld shows. The above mentioned entertainers, with one exception, are splendid; Willie Howard, Fannie Brice and Everett Marshall being especially fine.

HAL KYSER OPENS TO GOOD SUCCESS AT MIRAMAR HOTEL

It looked like the good old days when Jay Whidden was at his best at this amusement palace, which threw its doors open Thursday night to the public amid an array of celebrities that have helped to make cinema and stage history. Kay Kyser, like the big line maestros, has a great following, and to mention who was on hand would be like taking a corner of the underside of the amusement world blue book.
This promises to be the high spot of the resorts in drawing to the elite of society, so they can rub shoulders with stars, executives and civic workers of the Southland.

At the suggestion of his classmate,
Hal Kemp, Hal Kyser first founded his band on the campus of the University of North Carolina in 1926, and eight of fourteen present members are original boys. On graduating from college—where he was acclaimed the best organizer of cheer and school spirit the university ever had—“The Old Man from the South” barnstorm-ded around forty Southern colleges before taking a shot at the “big time.” Since then he has played in many of the most fashionable hotels in the country, including the New Yorker,
New York; the Gibson, Cincinnati;
the William Penn, Pittsburgh; La Rive,
Kansas City; and not so long ago, the swanky Del Mar Club in Santa Monica. His music is characterized by its color and variety, and he should draw a big crowd at the Miramare.

MERLE CARLSON PROVES
VERSATILE SINGING MAESTRO

The Cafe De Pare or “Little Merle” Carlson, the versatile singing maestro and his orchestra as the main attraction at the popular family cafe, opposite Westlake Park, Los Angeles. The musical offerings also include Russ Canton, Billy Wolfe, and in a clash of novelty Kathleen Bassett, the dancing beauty. Ken Wilmot is the M.C. on the jobs, which rounds out the show part of it. Pete Dokus is running the Cafe De Pare as a family dine and dance place and is deserving of patronage. He is being assisted by John Alexander and Joe Pirrone, and an able staff of assistants.

PLEASURES PATRONS

The White Horse Tavern, popular rendezvous on North Cahuenga Boulevard, continues to draw ‘em in with its variety of entertainment and refreshments. The Harlem Singing Sisters and Babe Mack are the drawing cards that take a lot of applause, and Cliff Ritchie’s melodic voice wins the approval of the nite lifers. Don Scane, who manages the White Horse Tavern, has won a host of friends, and Paul Smith, part owner of the establishment, is on hand every evening to take care of all patrons. Motion picture celebs can be seen at this spot any night of the week.

Never Had a Flop—so RKO has signed William Seiter for another eight-teen months, to do five pictures, not counting his present assignment.

GUS ARNHEIM OPENING AT COCOANUT GROVE TOPS ALL OF 'EM

Gus Arnheim's return to the Cocoanut Grove Tuesday night, June 4, went down in history as one of the best nights that has ever taken place at this amusement center in years. Wherever one looked his eyes would light on celebrities from stage and screen breaking bread with society's best known figures. Ben F. Frank and his charming wife took a great deal of interest in the activities, and Gus Arnheim was at his best right from the very opening number, particularly his radio broadcast program. The sensation of the evening was the dance team of Florence and Alverez, this duo topping all artists that we have seen hereabouts in some time. Their rhythmic impressionsistic dances are the last word in such offerings— you will rave about their "Bolero" and other numbers. An array of celebs! Looking about one saw Marlene Dietrich with her hubby and Brian Ahearn, Clarence Brown and his wife, Alice Joyce, Col. W. S. Van Dyke, his darling mother and a large party of friends, Walter Winchell and Mr. and Mrs. Graven Le Roy, Stanley Bergerman's "Eddie Sitton and Claudia Dell, Leo Morrison, Mae Clarke with Sidney Blackmer, Mr. and Mrs. Chas. R. Rogers, Ethel Ascher, Mr. and Mrs. John M. Sargent, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Freed, Mack Gordon, James Seymour, M. C. Levee and Mrs., Ben Bard and Ruth Roland, Jack Oakie, Toby Irwin, William Le Baron, Kitty Kelly, Mr. and Mrs. Louis Coblin, Max Gordon, Vincente Minnelli, Marshall Neilan, Jerry Hoffmanns, Carolyn Ney, Mr. and Mrs. Roscoe Karns, Maxwell Arnow, Rosalind Rosenthal and her ma and pa, J. Lindenbaum and guest, Samuel Z. Arkoff, "General Manager" City Ballyhoo, Mrs. Roy Del Ruth, Ella and Billie Wickersham, Mr. and Mrs. George Ahrens with Ye Editor, and hundreds of others, which included a party of society folks in one group. You could see Hymie Fink and the other camera hounds shooting celebs on all sides. The Gus Arnheim musical organization at present tops all of his efforts in the past. Jimmy Newell never sang better, Maxine Tappan and Johnny Hamilton make a fine team of crooners. The Three Downey Sist- ers are a great trio and will be heard from. A little blonde lady whose name fails us made a hit, and one of the eye openers was Tommy Manchini, who plays a mean violin solo, and those trumpeters who back up Jimmy Newell in some of his hit numbers are worthy of special mention. FRANK SEBASTIAN TO THROW CHEZ PAREE DOORS OPEN JUNE 20 The Chez Paree (formerly Plantation Cafe) will make its bow June 20 in Culver City as the 8th installment of Frank Sebastian, who is the Canton Club boss man. The popular cafe owner intends to offer some very new and definite ideas of entertainment which will draw from the salon circles and a band that will gladden the hearts of those who love to dance. We learned that the minimum charge of dinners will be within reach of everybody, and that when summer arrives the outdoor gardens will be fitted up so that the public can dine and dance under a blanket of stars and with the stars. SEEN AT AL LEVY'S TAVERN Charlie Chase ... Mack Sennett ... Paul Robeson and Connie Montegameo ... Harry Green dining with Leon Gordon and his wife ... Cy Bartlett and Alice White ... Jean Muir lunching with Milton Spaulding ... Lillian Roth ... Mr. and Mrs. Harry and Nils Asher ... Hugh Herbert and Robert Armstrong ... George O'Brien dining with his brother and mother, celebrating the birth of a new heir in the O'Brien family ... Frank Craven being kidded by his wife for ordering mock turtle soup ... Max Schect pointing out Hollywood's celebs to Morris S. Schlinger as they break bread at Frank's ... Johnny and Mabel Redman entertaining at the piano, and Hazel Jones, ebony singer, pleases with her melodious voice. Chief Alex, former chef to one of the motion picture celebs, is on hand to prepare palatable dishes for those who enjoy good food. Sunset Club Annex has installed a feature hour between four and six in the afternoon for those who want diversification during that time of the day.

EDDIE LANDFIELD IS OFFICIAL CREETER AT THE CLUB BALLYHOO Eddie Landfield, who was formerly connected with the Club La Boheme, is now the official creeter at the Club Ballyhoo, where Frank Hanower is generalissimo and owner. This move on the part of Mr. Hanower is a wise one, for Eddie has a world of friends who will make the Ballyhoo their rendezvous, and you can look for some parties that will run way into the wee hours of the morning. The Jack Lester Revue this week stands the acid test against his other offerings. Loraine and Packer still are the main attraction with their sensational dances. Janice Capon, one of the shining stars of the Shim Sham Revue, is their dance director, with a number of interesting side attractions, and the best singing M. C. in the business, Kearney Walton, making many new friends nightly. The Musical Com- modores furnish the music, and the high flown, charming entertainers, fill in during intermissions.

NIGHT HAWK

LUNDBERG ORCHESTRA AND SHOW GLADDENS HEARTS OF COTTON CLUBITES The musical offerings of Leon Herri- ford's Orchestra, featuring Lionel Hampton, king of Creole trap drummers, head the show staged this week by LeRoy Broomfield and Aurora Ackerman at the Cotton Club, where the all-star troupe of stars and the top rated revue have put on at Frank Sebastian's new Cotton Club. The same company of players are held over in an entirely new show. Headed by the producers, the revue offers The Four Dancing Covans, Eddie Anderson, Johnny Taylor, Dudley Dickerson, Ella May Waters, Martha Ritchie, Cliff Ritchie, Jr., Octavia Sumler, Rutledge and the always popular Mr. and Mrs. George Brown, who plays the piano during the inter- missions. The dance that Jacques Rutledge and Martha Ritchie do, and the Topsy number by Dudley Dickerson, brought extra attention the past week. Says Mr. Rutledge: "I am the ager of Sebastian's, and has had his hands full during the boss's illness. Otto E. Brooks continues to be the head waiter, with an army of assist- ants to take care of the crowds that dine, dance and enjoy their favorite refreshments amid an entrancing at- mosphere.

BABY LE ROY BROADCASTS SUNDAY NIGHT OVER CBS Baby Roy is to appear for the first time on the radio Sunday night over CBS on the Photoplay Hour, which will be a nation-wide hookup for this occasion.

TOMMY JACOBS RE-OPENS SHIP CAFE—GEORGE REDMAN ORCHESTRA IS FEATURED The Ship Cafe, located on the pier at Yacht Basin, was the delight to the public. Tommy Jacobs, who could easily answer to the title of Commodore Jacobs, has seen to it that seaside lovers of night life can enjoy the finest in entertainment by spending time dancing and to the captivating music as furnished by George Redman and his Orchestra. The solo singers are too well known to need any hurraya to be brought over. With the latest dance band of Lawrence King, fresh from his concert tour and radio triumphs, is singing in better form than ever; Miss Margaret Merle runs Mr. King a close race and first honor. Tommy Jacob's trip to Florida showed him how the Southerners run their night spots to big success, and he is going to offer the same kind of amusement fare from time to time as has made the Ship Cafe one of the most popular spots at the Ship Cafe is open, it should become the get-together Sunday night spot of the celebs, as it used to be before it was closed down for the season.
Sports

Olympic Auditorium

Meet Kid Asteca, gents, a lad from Mexico City, now welter and lightweight champ of the world. Nothing was said about titles, but Asteca was awarded a decision over Young Peter Jackson last Tuesday by Referee Abe Roth, so that gives the Mexican lad some rights. But sold right to the chin in this zoot sat Jackson down hard for a nine count. And when he got up the Kid staggered him again, but the colored boy managed to stick the round. As usual, Jackson outboxed his man, but Roth decided the knockdown entitled Asteca to the nod. At that he made things very tough for Jackson, outfighting him in the clinches. Jackson’s wild misses and lack of aggressiveness should have counted against him. Jackson’s best was a stabbing left, but his right was fanning the air. Other results: Davey Abad, in the semi, took an unpunished decision from Louie Carranza, Harry Armstrong beat Vicente Torres, Samy Abad won from Tony Mendez, George Goodman stopped Sol Hernandez and Jack Scott beat Lew Stratton.

Next Tuesday: Art Lasky meets King Levinsky. The boys all are waiting for. These boys have craved each other enough to assure a real slugfest. Lasky is after bigger game and the Kingfish says he’ll knock Lasky through the ropes. If the fans still have faith the thing should be a sell-out.

Hollywood Legion Stadium

Last week’s show was almost a sell-out. Billy Boggs, who floored Al Romero, tried his luck against Ceferino Quilley—but the Filipino was too rugged for him, stopping him in the fifth. It was a rough, tough go, with Boggs showing the gameness of a bulldog. George Simpson- Mickey McFarland, draw. Augie Ruggieri-Tully Corvo, draw. tote.

Dickie Moore, child actor who has proved a sensation in several recent pictures, has been signed for a featured role in “The Human Side,” with Doris Kenyon and Adolphe Menjou. Edward Buzzell is directing.

Kiddies

Norman Salling

Four-year-old Norman Salling is not superstitious about black cats or any other kind of cats. Picture shows him telling Boris Karloff and Bela Lugosi all about his black pet. Norman is a pupil of Jack Hay’s Baby Star Studio, and comes from a long line of showmen. His father, with four brothers, were affiliated with the famous Sullivan and Considine circuit of vaudeville. Miss Kellogg is dramatic teacher and Miss De-Lyon is dancing instructor to this versatile youngster. At the present time Norman is working at the Hollywood Studios for Halpern & Wilcox, producers of picture under the capable direction of Dallas Street.

“Cavalcade”

Gilmor Brown and his Pasadena Community Playhouse have done an immense job extremely well in staging the American premiere of Noel Coward’s “Cavalcade.” “Cavalcade” is a difficult play to produce, direct and act. If any one but Noel Coward had written it, it would be considered a very poor play, composed of sketchy incidents which do not in many cases explain themselves, and would be very confusing to any audience which had not already seen the motion picture. It is a difficult play for actors, because it does not build and does not give any member of the cast a sustaining role. In spite of this the Pasadena cast distinguishes itself. Doris Lloyd as “Jane Marryott” gives sincere and understanding work, and convincingly indicates the passing years. Sharkey Simpson, as “Ellen,” did about the best work in the show, and Judith Evelyn, as “Margaret Harris,” gives a delightful performance. Others doing outstanding work in the cast of 20 were: Ralph Freud, Eric Snowden, Dora Mayfield, Paul Regan Magee, Edith May Kinney, Barbara Sheldon and the children Dick Quine, Bill Martin, Pearl Hays and Anita Dennison. Morris Ankrum directed with speed and vigor, assisted by Willard Davis. Robert Lee designed the brilliant settings, and Collienette directed the dances. Outstanding scenes were: Dockside, Theatre, London Street, Beach Resort, Glory, and Night Club. Glory in particular is a sequence worthy of study. The whole play, as produced at Pasadena, is a huge spectacle, grandly staged.

Diane Wilbur, blonde and talented, who has just completed ingenuity leads in numerous stage plays, is taking a fling at the screen, and expects to be set by Kosloff soon.

Dr. Hugo Riesenberg composed two songs and directed the music for Liberty’s forthcoming production “Two Heads On A Pillow,” which has just been completed. Dr. Riesenberg, a personal friend of M. H. Hoffman, president of Liberty, wrote the two numbers, “Why” and “Two Heads On A Pillow,” for the musical sequences in the product. Neil Hamilton, Miriam Jordan, Henry Armetta and Hardie Albright are prominent in the cast. William Nigh directed.

Fox Films Program Looks Very Interesting

Columbia Pictures Lots Is Busy Spot

Will Create Plenty of Work for Every Branch of Industry

Increased numbers of employees both in the artists groups and office and laboring classes is promised for the year 1934-35 in the annual production program of the Fox Film Corporation which was wired here from New York by officials of the corporation, there attending the annual sales convention. The program was announced the last of the three days' meeting at the Waldorf Astoria.

A total of 58 features as well as 112 short subjects are announced, as compared with 52 features and less than 100 shorts last year. Fox Movietone News will also issue 104 news reels of full 1,000 feet length in its first year of independent production and release.

"In shaping our new season's programs we are cognizant of the constantly increasing demand on the part of the public to see new personalities on the screen," S. R. Kent, president of the Fox Film Corporation, explained to 250 executives, home office officials and field representatives from all parts of the United States and Canada.

CLARK'S WARDROBE AVAILABLE

The late Clark Comstock's wardrobe is available. Any one being interested can communicate with Ye Editor of this publication, and he in turn will get in touch with Mrs. Comstock.

WINIFRED CLICKS AT MONOGRAM AGAIN

Winifred Dryden, who plays some very fine character parts in our best talkies, has once more clicked for Monogram Pictures in "Tomorrow's Youth," directed by Chas. Lamont.

BETTY MAY IS WORKING

Betty May is working in "The Merry Widow," starring Maurice Chevalier and Jeanette MacDonald under the direction of Ernst Lubitsch, at the M-G-M Studios.

Gilbert Pratt

Paramount has placed its stamp of approval on Gilbert Pratt as a feature director by permitting him to handle "Elmer and Elsie," a vehicle starring George Bancroft, as his first directorial assignment. This comes after Mr. Pratt has proven himself on some of their ace story and comedy constructionists on some of their best pictures. Director Pratt started his career as a megaphone director when Hal Roach put him to work on the Harold Lloyd series.

Directors Milestone and Capra are Working on Big Features

Columbia Pictures are sure enough to help make cinema history this year, for they are going after things in a bigger and better way to make their best pictures. Harry Cohn, who looks after the production end in Hollywood, is the silent Napoleon who works and moves quietly, and with an organization of associates who are second to none. His assigning Frank Capra and Lewis Milestone to their present pictures is a ten strike.

Accompanied by cast and production crew, totaling nearly 100 persons, Frank Capra, Columbia director, leaves Monday for Tanforan to shoot the first sequences of "Broadway Bill." Camera work started June 11 on a location outside the clubhouse of the nationally known race track.

Warner Baxter and Myrna Loy head the cast, with Clarence Muse, Margaret Hamilton, Lynn Overman and Osgood Perkins set for supporting roles.

Photography will be under the direction of Joseph Walker, C. C. Coleman will be Capra's first assistant director, with Ralph Black as second assistant.

Starting date for Lewis Milestone's first for Columbia, "The Captain Hates the Sea," has been tentatively set for June 20.

Mae Clark has been cast in one of the leading feminine roles, with Fred Keating, well known New York stage comedian, recently signed by Columbia, assigned to the role of Danny Checkert, one of the principal male characters in the popular Wallace Smith novel. Columbia's three stooges, Howard, Fine & Howard, now on a personal appearance tour, will add further comedy touches as members of the ship's band.

JACKIE FIELDS, CUTTER

Eddie Mannix has given Jackie Fields, ex welterweight champion, a chance to learn the picture business through the cutting department at M-G-M Studios.
Edward Small Starts a New One

Not being content with producing one mammoth production, "The Count of Monte Cristo," this energetic producer has under way a clever mystery story, "Transatlantic Showboat," with Benny Stoloff directing and one of the best casts of the season. Such screen favorites as Bill Boyd, Nancy Carroll, Donald Douglas, Gene Raymond, Patsy Kelly, Jack Benny, Robert Elliott, Sam Hardy, Ralph Morgan, Carlyle Moore, Sidney Blackmer and that comedian who made one of the best pictures for Famous Players Mr. Small has secured the services of Teddy Tetzlaff to take charge of the cameras. Some clever lyrics and songs will be placed naturally in the production, with Larry Ceballos staging some novelties.

The Adonis of the Screen

John David Horsley, handsome young juvenile, has a signal honor conferred upon him by securing a majority of 5,000 votes over his nearest opponent as "The Adonis of the Screen" in a film contest. This was conducted during the production of "Down To Their Last Yacht," a RKO Picture directed by Paul Sloane.

"Let's Talk It Over"

By ARTHUR FORDE

Kurt Neumann comes to the front once more with one of the laugh successes of the season. Thoroughly romantic and Lewis Foster, screen play and dialogue by John Meehan, Jr., that tells of a hard-bitten sailorman who rescues an heiress from the sea and in this manner breaks into high society. Chester Morris, who heads the cast and comes across with a stellar performance as the sailor, and Mae Clark, as the heiress, line up for first honors, with Frank Craven, Irene Ware, Andy Devine, Russ Browne, Amanda Blake, Gordon Montgomery, Douglas Fowley, Thomas Dugan, Herbert Corthell, Jane Darwell, Willard Robertson, Frank Reicher, Henry Armetta, Otis Harlan, Lois January, Dean Banton, Earl Eby, Wanda Perry and Dawda Davies in supporting roles. The photography of Charles Stumar was one of the highlights of the production, with lovely settings by Harrison Wiley. Universal Films has a winner in this one that should hit the popular taste as well as the reformers who are making such a hubbub about screen entertainment.

Spotlight Theatre Presents "Little Boy Blew In"

The best so far at this Spotlight Theatre was presented on June 5th and is still playing, a play by Kay Clamp, chock full of surprises and laughter, dialogue that has seldom been heard, and tells of the adventures of four show girls, one of whom arrives with a newborn baby with an unknown father. How to keep this startling announcement from the father of one of the girls about to visit them, as well as their boy friends, keeps the audience in roars of laughter. Mary Lou Treen, Constance Kent, Margou Hall, Violet Axtell, Grant Gordon, Dave Daggett, Herbert Vigran, Al Johnson, Louise La Vole and Lawrence Kidd vied with each other for honors. Directed with skill by Al Jackson, Earl E. Tree as general manager, Frances Kay, Leopold Loeble as his assistants, and W. L. Andrews providing some gorgeous stage settings that would be envied by any theatre. One that you never see but who deserves a lot of credit is Hetty Klein, who runs the stage cleverly and quietly. The next show will be "Quick Sand," with Dulcie Cooper, Earle Tree, Bernard Suss, Frank Darien, Ernie Young, Daphne Darien and Helen McDermott in the cast and under the direction of John White. If you have never seen this clever aggregation of artists you have certainly missed a treat.

Miss Nash had number 1200 as far as an interview was concerned, but she was selected and made good. Right now she is working at M-G-M Studios in "Student Tour," and what's more, she is making good.

“The Death Parade”

The cry that is now reaching to the very skies against war will have greater power than ever before when theatregoers have a chance to view the United States Government actual scenes of the World War from the firing of the very first shot to the Armistice as it is pictured in “The Death Parade,” a feature picture that is the property of Nate Stein and Dave Maltman, and from one who sat through the unreeling of the picture, we want to go on record as saying that the owners of this film should make a clean-up on it, for it is the greatest picture yet made for the boys who are taking part in the battles front, the sea battles and sinking of some of the greatest liners, including the Lusitania, the Battle of the Narre—in fact, every happening that went down in history— all lends itself toward making every human feel that war is as unnecessary as the very building of the ships and death dealing cannon of mankind. We tell every one from nine to eighty to go and see the Death Parade. It is both a smart and a beautifully made picture. It is the story of the field of battle so that this country might be safe from the very attack that created the world war.

Bert Woodruff Plays His Last Role

Bert Woodruff, one of the deans of character actors, has played his last part. He passed away Thursday morning after quite an illness. He was beloved by all who knew him. His latest screen work was a lesson to the younger generation, who are now striving to learn what Bert Woodruff forgot when he became the finished actor that he proved himself on stage and screen.

Does Service to Humanity Break the Law?

There are plenty of us who can remember when our family doctor acted in the capacity of surgeon, bone-setter, tooth-puller, and literally fixed anything pertaining to the human anatomy. He was serving humanity to the best of his ability, and in the best possible way known to his profession. Since then, however, specializing has become the by-word. Today the doctor would no more think of extracting a tooth than a dentist would think of giving medical treatment.

Today we have a scientist, by name Prof. J. Orlov, who has discovered a simple adjustment process known as the “Carl-at System.” He, as other discoverers, has been subjected to mis-statements because his discovery is new, and because those who oppose his discovery are ignorant of the good that his system has accomplished. That he has been given his treatments, and not by those who are unacquainted with his methods. When a new discovery comes to light that benefits mankind, it should be encouraged instead of discouraged. Prof. J. Orlov, whose discovery no one of the sensations of this age, is giving to humanity the full benefit of his discovery that should prove a boon to this new era.

We’re Rich Again

WILLIAM SEITER’S LATEST BID FOR LAUGHS CLICKS FOR RKO

Should you be lucky enough to drop into any theatre where this picture is showing you will be sure of at least one hour of continuous laughter. The preview audience simply rocked in their seats. The screen play by Ray Harris, from a play by Alden Nash, tells of an impeccable, once rich family with a grandmother who has a yen for polo playing. The daughter of the house is to retrieve the family fortunes by marrying a very rich young man, but a poor but revealing visitation visiting the family annexes the prize. However, the family has Dame Fortune come again to their doorstep by a speculation. Edna Mae Oliver, as the polo playing grandson, does some of the funniest work of her career. Her performance is equal to her long line of clever characterizations as the poor relation. Reginald Denny, Joan Marsh, Larry Crabbe, Gloria Shea, Grant Mitchell, Edgar Kennedy, Ymaoqua, Lenita Lane, Dick Elliott and Andreas Segurola were other players who contributed to the fun. William Seiter showed his valuable comedy training by his clever direction, with Nick Musuraca providing some lovely photography. Pandro Berman has produced some really good ones since he took charge as executive producer, but this one deserves special mention as one of those “good but clean films” that they seem to be clamoring for just at this time.

Dorothy Dell was Headed for Great Things

We learned that Paramount had three pictures all ready for Dorothy Dell to appear in when she met with that fatal accident the other evening. Here was a lovable girl, beloved by her co-workers. She was a real fine human who appreciated the position that she attained and was striving to better herself. We join the unhappy family in deepest regret at the passing of an actress we were proud to have in our industry.

Flo Ash Creates Black Laced Fan Dance to Bolero—Novelty

Creating one of the most artistic and captivating fan dances that has been placed on a local stage, Flo Ash is nightly scoring a big hit at the Hollywood Stables. The charming miss recently did a double fan dance to the Bolero with Chas. Sabin. This was voted such a sensation that Miss Ash decided to do it as a solo number, and Ye Editor having heard so much about this dance, dropped in to give it the once-over, coming away seeing something that is absolutely a salacious number, as is being offered by the majority of fan dancers, but not so with this charming little lady. She gives her impressions of what a fan dancer should be as you will hear her tell it. She has been working hard, for she is a local girl, and has been seen at the Bolero with her Bollero number, which she originated, and the audience absolutely will not allow her to retire to her dressing room, being forced nightly to repeat with many encores. Her fame has traveled far, for her managers, the Lou Dorn Agency, has offers from Mexico and Cuba to follow her local engagements, and if she accepts them she will return here to fill some talkie contracts.
The Central Casting Corporation was formed to render a service to the industry and its workers, with no charge or discomfort to the day players or those who are fostering this institution. Ye Editor was in a measure responsible for the forming of the C. C. C., when the extras were being driven from pillar to post like a lot of lost sheep. Will H. Hays, president of the Producers Association, at the time of the forming of the Central Casting Corporation saw the value of closer co-operation between the employer and employees, and through the office of Fred W. Beetsom worked out the present system of handling the extras, supplying the demands of the studios, to the point where a certain rate of efficiency was developed, and then entered the battle of supply and demand, and the business became overrun with many who belong in other walks of life, but who still insist that they will make the grade. Some aspire to stardom, others a livelihood, a remainder just a pastime, through which they can gain certain pleasures by the daily contacts they make within the studios. The man who is the head of the C. C. C., Dave Allen, general manager, places almost 95 per cent of the extras on the studio payrolls daily. Naturally he is considered a man of power, hence the law of averages states that he sooner or later must become embroiled in either a controversy or scandal. Strangely, we outlined this same thing to Will H. Hays at the time the C. C. C. was being formed, and predicted that such an attack could be expected most any time. The only difference is that it took years to catch up with the offices of the C. C. C. and when it is over, the court's decision should put an end all these agitations.

Moving Movie Throng by John Hall

The best service one can offer Hollywood producers is to strongly advise them against all counter propaganda against church people and to refrain from raising "war funds," to be used in a fight against organized religious bodies. The claim started by interested people to get out and fight the church people is not good advice. As often pointed out by Filmograph, defeating organized church propaganda is a very simple matter—CLEAN MOTION PICTURES... This calls for no "war fund"; not a dollar must be spent against the church people. Every movie dollar can be used making CLEAN PICTURES... If this is done—the war of the church people will be won by motion picture producers. The producers should totally ignore the panicky squawks of their trade paper mouthpieces. The bitter articles against the church people accomplish just NOTHING...

On the other hand, they increase the indignation of the church leaders, who are determined to blot out of existence every motion picture containing a suggestive line or piece of business—and they WILL DO just that thing. There is no power strong enough to stop them... Religious crusaders, in a RIGHTOUS cause, cannot be defeat-ed by ANY GOVERNMENT or private group... Prohibition proved that, until its inequities, of its own weight, crushed the whole idea. There is no such probability in the fight against smut in pictures... The producer who will take a chance by allowing a strong flavor of "sex appeal" in his pictures is as dead as the dodo... So-called "sophistication," which, by the way, is just that, is in the same boat... Clever writers succeeded in selling that word... The man who bought it never looked it up in the dictionary... Churchmen know what it means, and they want no more of the illimitably elastic thing covered by "sophistication," as understood and interpreted in the home of the movie... Un SOPHIST is the prime requisite of an American dramatic heroine... Let that sink in... Churchmen ask but ONE thing—CLEAN PICTURES. Compliance with this wholly laudable desire means SUCCESS... Failure to comply with it means FAILURE... Filmograph has no axe to grind... Like an "anchor to windward," this paper holds all AWAY from the rocks... We stand now as we've always stood—

FOR CLEAN PICTURES... When producers do the same—there'll be an end to all BOYCOTTS by church people... No amount of advertising can put Filmograph on the side of those peddling sin... Calling indecent smut "sophistication" is the device of the SOPHIST, the worst enemy of producers and many misled stars... Their spurious, sycophantic published chatter has ruined many... IGNORE THEM, producers, and make CLEAN PICTURES, and the churches will cease bothering you.
Richard Dix and Edythe Fellows

Theatre goers are applauding the work of Richard Dix in "The Family Man," an RKO-Radio production directed by John Robert ric. In this photoplasm, Richard Dix, pictured here with star, is hew new laurels, for she has a most soulful part, and actually won the heart of Mr. Dix, like those who view the picture, because of her paying the strictest attention to her instructions and putting her very heart and soul into her work.

Academy Sound Awards to be Changed Next Year

Recognizing deficiencies in the present system of nominating and voting for the Academy Award for Achievement in Sound Recording, a committee of sound technicians, consisting of the heads of major studio sound departments, met today to work out changes in the rules for next year's Sound Award. The plan to be recommended follows in general the jury system used successfully for several years in determining the Scientific and Technical Awards winners, and contemplates that each studio will select the pictures which it considers best from the standpoint of sound recording for nomination for consideration by a jury consisting of one representative sound technician from each studio plus two representatives each from the Actors, Directors, Producers and Writers branches. From the group of submitted pictures, the jury will select the three pictures to be nominated for vote by the general Academy membership. This plan will be presented to the Academy Awards Committee and upon approval will be put into effect for next year's Awards program. Members of Sound Awards Committee are Carl Dreher, Chairman, Bernard Freericks, Franklin Hansen, Nathan Levinson, John Livadary, Thomas Moulton, Douglas Shearer, Theodore Soderberg and Gordon S. Mitchell, Manager of the Academy Technical Branch.

Celeste Rush and Her Showmen of Hollywood

If you haven't visited the Theatre Club, under the name of the Showmen of Hollywood, a pleasant evening awaits you. "Poor Nell, the Cabman's Daughter," has been running there for the past few weeks to crowded houses. This is one of those old time plays in which the familiar "aside" is used, causing much merriment to any audience. Another noveltv is the concert and refreshments served between the acts. Celeste Rush, in charge of this unique undertaking, has for able assistants Don McKenzie, Molly Raschofsky, Louis Irving, Lou Merrill, Margery Grennan and Arnold Englander. The excellent cast during the evening we attended was: Jack Reigan, Margery Hall, Thomas Owoyn, Russell Hawthorne, Fred Fairhug, James Hageny, Joseph Morgan, Orville Medby, Sam Lamb, Marie Kinney and Florence Glover, as well as Celeste Rush in person, who jumped into a difficult role at a moment's notice. There is only one way for anyone to realize the beauty and novelty of this unique theatrical venture and that is to pay them a visit in the near future.

Charles Crockett, the Great Ribber, is Now Silent

Charles Crockett, who has caused gales of laughter as the chief ribber at some of the best parties, is now silent, for he suddenly passed away. No actor has ever made more friends on or off the stage and screen than Charles Crockett. He had a happy faculty of commanding attention and respect. He was a loyal member of the Club and other organizations, and was always willing to lend a hand to any one at any time. What more can one say of any man?

"In and Out of Focus" by Allan Hersholt

"The Life of Vergie Winters"

Thanks to the earnest, thorough portrayals of Ann Harding and John Boles, rather than to Louis Bromfield's narrative, "The Life of Vergie Winters," an RKO-Radio presentation, undoubtedly will provide satisfying entertainment for the average picture-goer. Frankly, I am somewhat disappointed over the fact that producer Pandro Berman was unable to furnish the talented Miss Harding with a more cheerful, novel story than this cumbersome, conventional melodrama. Just as several films have resembled "Madame X" far too much in movement to be genuinely effective, so the similarity of "Vergie Winters" to "Back Street" causes it to be virtually suspenseless. It possesses, however, the evident merit of having been carefully fabricated. One feels that Mr. Berman and Director Alfred Santell did everything possible to make the best of the material at hand; that they gave Miss Harding and Mr. Boles, each supporting player, the art director, costume designer and photographer, the advantages of time and thought in the elaboration of detail which went into this lavish production.

Containing no airy writing, no superfluous locations, the dialogue contributed by Jane Murfin is delightfully natural. Miss Murfin has sharpened her vocabulary down to the essentials, and the result is that in the emotional scenes words do not get in the way. Rather, their directness has the rarely attained value of underemphasis. Helen Vinson, Donald Crisp, Betty Furness, Edward Van Sloan, Molly O'Day, Sara Haden, Ben Alexander, Jack Hulbert, Arthur Lake and Creighton Chaney have endowed the film with highly commendable impersonations. Mr. Crisp, although seen in a brief role, does the finest work of the supporting cast. If given a successional parts and proper exploitation, this intelligent character artist, I believe, easily would achieve stardom.

A Trivial Farce

There must be a public demand for pictures like the new Charles R. Rogers-Paramount offering, "Here Comes the Groom," otherwise producers would not turn them out with such disheartening regularity. Replete with humorless situations older than the hills, this is a wandering sort of story which seems entirely too obvious to be the least bit entertaining. It is one of those photoplays wherein everything happens according to schedule, so that at any moment the spectator knows exactly what will take place in the following scenes. Unfortunately, the only emotion he has while viewing the film is amazement at its triviality. Not that "Here Comes the Groom" is any worse than other screen plays of its type. Nor is it any better. As usual, the heroine has the mentality of a not over-bright six-year-old child, while the hero is a complete imbecile. There is no reason why these two precious characters, if they really had to do so, could not have made a passable double. The picture by the second reel. But the author, in order to pad his insufficient story, introduced a dozen other moronic characters and numerous complications.

Jack Haley is mildly amusing in the leading role, Mary Boland, Neil Hamilton, the attractive Patricia Ellis, Sidney Toler and Larry Gray are wasted on this utterly tedious production. Arthur Treacher offers an outstanding characterization of a butler, whereas as Isabel Jewell overplays her role considerably. Edward Sedgwick is responsible for the direction.

Manhattan Melodious Hit

While on our recent Broadway playing holiday, Jean (Dad) Hersholt and I viewed what little old New York's most fastidious comic opera connoisseurs consider the correct thing in musical comedy, "As Thousands Cheer." Without exaggeration, I admit that unquestionably this is the gayest, most charmingly original, humorous, tuneful revue I have had the pleasure of seeing. Generously produced, it is the highest example of that type of revue which has reaped its reputations from prominent entertainers as Marilyn Miller, Clifton Webb, Helen Broderick and Ethel Waters. The clever Mr. Webb, called upon to ludi- crously imitate Douglas Fairbanks, Jr., Mahatma Gandhi, John D. Rockefeller, Sr., Noel Coward and others, is quite remarkable throughout. Written by Irving Berlin and Moss Hart, the richly melodic score includes, among other numbers, a few of the most universally popular ones, "Not For All The Rice in China," "Her Easter Bonnet" and "Heat Wave Hits New York." It is the grandest show imaginable—and positively worth traveling thousands of miles to see.

"Ingagi" Director Signs Radio Team

William Campbell, veteran film producer-director, has signed the blackface radio team, "Mac and Henry," to star in a series of three-reelet featurettes to be known as the "Mac and Henry Talkie-ettes." The first picture, now in production, is entitled "Their First Round-Up," and depicts the amusing experiences of two negro hoboes. Mr. Campbell, who has produced independently for the past ten years, will best be remembered for his sensational success, "Ingagi." George W. McGuire and Tom Rice, who characterize "Mac and Henry," left radio station KMTR, Hollywood, to accept the picture contract.
COCONUT GROVE IS MAKING BEST OF 'EM Turn Out Nightly
With Gus Arbenhime and his celebrated orchestra as the main attraction, the Coconut Grove is making the best of its Southland turn out and pay tribute to this great Maestro, who offers some very fine music, and as ad attraction to actresses Jimmy Newell, the Three Downey Sisters, Maxine Tappan, and Mary Wood, the girl we failed to credit last week in our review of the grand opening night welcome home to Gus Arbenhime. Miss Wood is as sweet as they make 'em, and sings divinely, chiming in with Jimmy Newell, the Three Downey Sisters and Maxine Tappan in the ensemble song. She's a bright one at this swanky nite spot. We dropped in after the Lasky-LeVinsky fracas and sat next to Irving G. Thalberg, Eddie Mannix, Jack Conway, Jack Robbins, syrupy Robert Berghoff, Frank and Sid Grauman. Looking around, we saw Mr. and Mrs. C. Graham Baker, Carrie Grant, Mitzi Green and her Ma and Pa, Stuart Erwin and wife, Ann Blyth and friends, and Mrs. Norman McLeod, Bruce Cabot and Adrienne Ames (Mrs. Cabot), Nick Stuart and many others. We talked to Jimmy Manos, the head waiter, about his former life in the movies, and then called it a night. Yes, we eat at the Grove— and how! Gus Arbenhime’s music is better than it has ever been, so what more can any one want, we ask you?

FRANK SEBASTIAN RETURNS TO COTTON CLUB POST IN CULVER CITY
The boss of the Cotton Club in Culver City, Frank Sebastian, is back again as general manager of this popular night spot. Mr. Sebastian is a very busy man. On top of entertaining great crowds nightly at the Cotton Club, he has to prepare to open the Cher Cheee (formerly Plantation Cafe) in Culver City before the month ends. So Frank is busy—and he loves it. The Sebastian Cotton Club at this time offers Broomfield-Greely’s All Star Colored Revue, featuring the prettiest and peppiest Creole chorus ever gathered for a similar show. The headline is the Lee Roy Broomfield and Aurora Greely, the Four Dancing Covans, Eddie Anderson, Johnny Taylor, Rutledge and Taylor, Martha Ritchie, Cliff Ritchie, Jr., Ella May Waters, Dudley Dickerson, Octavia Sumner, and many others. Leon Herriford and his new Cotton Club Orchestra, featuring the greatest of all colored trap drummers, Lionel Hampton, round out the show. During intermissions Harold Brown accompanies the entertainers on the piano.

THE KING’S CLUB PROVES BUILDER OF STAR ENTERTAINERS
Gail Reingold’s knowledge of show business has stood him in good stead since he has been operating The King’s Club, Hollywood’s swankiest night-club. The artists that appear at this popular spot are booked up by other cafes, clubs, theatres, radio stations and film studios, they sort of banking on Mr. Reingold’s judgment, and going for the artists in a big way, that there is no place that seems like home as much as when eating dinners served here.

PRINCE LEI LANI AND MISS LEILEHUA TOP CAFE DE PAREE SHOW
A touch of Hawaiian atmosphere and entertainment tops the Cafe De Paree show this week. Prince Lei Lani and Miss Leilehua offer the finest kind of amusement for the guests. Monday night they were ably assisted by the McIntyre Bros, who are famous radio artists. The same night Ava Williams, also a guest artist, sang in the same program. The Dancing Sabahs hit in a big way. The regular show, along with Prince Lei Lani, shows Modie and Le Maxx, the cleverest and most youthful star dancers; Ruth Veloese and Russ Cantor, who sing excellently; Kathleen Bassett dances to a great big band; while Ken Wilmarth is M.C. Merle Carlson’s Orchestra furnishes splendid music.

HOLLYWOOD STABLES PUTS ON FINE SHOW
The Hollywood Stables is putting on some fine shows these days. The other night we caught Flo Ash, the greatest of all fan dancers. Violet M. Brown and Billy Benter, comics par excellence; Estelle Milmar, a very funny singing and dancing artiste; Bee Souer, who croons like nobody’s business and the Two Colored Flashes, were a tremendous hit. Hank Warren is manager of this spot.

RUTH WITH MERRY MAKERS
Ruth Veloese, who sings at the Cafe De Paree nightly except Sunday, is spending her Sabbath evenings singing on the Merry Makers hour with the Raymond Paige Orchestra.

KAY KYSER STARTS SUMMER SEASON OFF IN STYLE AT MIRAMAR
The summer season is under way down at the Miramar Hotel Terrace Room, where Kay Kyser and his Orchestra play regularly. Kay Kyser is one of the best dressed and handsomest of Hollywood’s leading Stars, and his outfit is made up of Eldon Edgins, that beautiful blues singer, making the natives sit up and take notice. At the opening Thursday nite, June 7, we caught a glimpse of many celebs, among them being Mae Clark, Sidney Blackmer, Mr. and Mrs. Louis Calhern, Randolph Scott, Dean Banton, Morgan Tyler and wife, Eddie Welch and wife, Marian Banfield and many others. Also in attendance was Publicity Chief, Forbes, Louis Saraceky, Jay Whidden, Wynne Gibson, Don Alvarado, Gus Kahn, Joan Marsh, Ann Darling, Lois January, George Sorrell, Jack Robins, Mr. Berghoff of the Knickerbocker Hotel, and last but not by means least, Mrs. Ivah Woldoff, wife of the manager of the Miramar, celebrated her birthday by entertaining at din- ner. Dr. H. R. Woldoff and Mrs. Woldoff, Miss Josephine Stroup, Dr. Dougherty, Floyd Wolford, Joe Minster, M. K. Lewis and Earl J. Wol- ford, Max Burian is the genial maître de hote at the Miramar.

CLUB BALLYHOO OFFERS SAME FINE CAST IN NEW JACK LESTER REVUE
The same cast, Lorraine and Packer, Kearney Wallis, Steve Benter, John Ca- pon, Mort Kaby, and beauty chorus, which has been clicking in a big way with cave lovers at the Club Ballyhoo, are in the new Jack Lester revue that opened Sunday. Frank Hanover, owner and manager, feels that he could look many a day before he could find a better aggregation of artists than he is presenting to the public, and what’s more, his band, made up of the “Commodores,” too is coming in for their share of attention and applause as they play the dance music. Sunday nite at this spot is getting to be a place where life is never dull. In the off time impromptu acts that appear being a riot of fun and amusement. We ran into Gus Keller, general manager of the Sears-Roebuck ready to wear department, breaking bread with some friends, while Lyle Talbot, Charles Wilson and hundreds of others dined or danced. Eddie Landfield, chief greeter, is keeping everybody happy as usual.

CHATEAU TRIANON OFFERS FINE SHOW, MUSIC AND REFRESHMENTS
The original owners of the Club La Boheme, now called the Chateau Tri- anon, threw the doors open to the public that loves a quiet and restful place to dine, dance and enjoy re- freshments such as satisfy the inner man, have a fine exterior. Here is a gal that will go places and do things if pro- ducers ever take a tumble to them- selves and give her a chance. The Vanderbilt Boys are a show all by themselves, and gained tremendous applause by freeing the Town House— we are told this is Agazzoni. With a name like that he should be able to cook up the deli- cacies of the season. The Chateau Trianon Orchestra furnishes very fine dance music.

JUNE 16, 1934
Hollywood Legion Stadium
Georgie, Hursford and Manuel (Dorothy) Villa were to a siding draw last week. It was a close thing for Georgie: the Mexican was a tough, clever hombre and almost ended Hursford’s winning streak with a K.O.

Johnny Hines took the upset from Pito Martinez, and Midget Martinez stopped Jimmy Cordova in the third—cut eye. Joe DeLucia beat Speedy Espiti; Red Wolfe-Walter Vaughn, draw. Izy Goldstein won the opener from Gabby Ybarra. That’s the end of Hollywood. This week: Joe Tei Ken meets Young Tommy. Charley McDonald continues to supply peppy cards and the faithful never disappoint him.

BIKE RACES ARE ON
Bicycle racing came back to Hollywood last week with the opening of the Winter Garden “saucer” track, a 12-lap, oval banked 50 degrees on the turns to assure the high speed, sometimes greater than 30 miles an hour, attained in the finishing spurs by the “push bike” athletes. The new track, on which races will be held every Wednesday and Saturday nights, is the only indoor bicycle speedway in Southern California and is under the management of Wm. G. “Long Bill” Furman, a member of the Hollywood Screen Actors Guild and former track and road champion of the Pacific Coast.

Paul Hurst, having fully recovered from his recent illness, is working in “Tomorrow’s Youth,” for Monogram Pictures.

COLUMBIA'S GONE WITH A WOOF IN “ONE NIGHT OF LOVE”

“One Night of Love” is a wof of a picture. Columbia has, for the first time in Hollywood history, successfully translated a grand opera star singing grand opera arias to the screen. By successfully, I mean popularly. “One Night of Love” is the sort of picture that every patron tells his neighbor to see. It’s a grand, delightful madhouse, with the charm of a madhouse connected with it. Particularly it is a triumph for Grace Moore and Grace Moore’s voice. One gets awfully tired of pictures in which the audience on the screen goes wild after the star has done a bit of canary squeaking. But during “One Night of Love,” it was the preview audience that went wild after Miss Moore sang. Yes, sir, it applauded and whistled and stamped. And why? Because some smart person in the studio had found the idea of letting Miss Moore give the microphone everything she had. There’s no tiring done of that marvelous voice here. It comes from the speakers with all the power and glory which has made it famous, and as a result the illusion of actually hearing Miss Moore sing is obtained. And Grace Moore is a delightful comedienne too. When her excellent performance is backed by a grand one by Tullio Carminatti and a swell one by Louis Albernie, the film presents a treat. The music is by Lyle Talbot, Nydia Westman and Andres de Segurola—well, you begin to get the reason for the success this picture is going to have. Of course, a lot of the credit goes to Victor Schertzinger, who directed, and the photography of Joe Walker. The story may not be strikingly new, but it is funny, delightfully paced, and well written. The whole show is simply bubbling over with vitality and fun. And it’s clean.

“KEEP IT A DREAM”
New Play by John V. A. Weaver, Presented by Daniel Wells and E. E. Clive, Opened Friday Night at the Hollywood Playhouse Thoroughly American and modern from the first curtain to the final one, “Keep It A Dream,” the new John V. A. Weaver play, opened Friday night at the Hollywood Playhouse. This romantic comedy drama of American life could easily be your story or the story of the happenings in your neighbor’s life put into play. New play is presented by Wells and Clive’s xenon with an all star cast including Wm. “Stage” Boyd, Sarah Padden, Eddie Nugent, Dorothy Libaire, James Bush and Gertrude Short. E. E. Clive directed. “Keep It A Dream” is to run for an unlimited engagement and then is being presented in San Francisco. A fall New York presentation is planned.

DUKE (SOURFACE) YORK FINISHES PIX AND RUSHES EAST FOR PERSONAL APPEARANCES
Duke York, who just finished a part in “Elmer and Else” at the Paramount Studios, starring George Bancroft, and under the direction of Gilbert Pratt, is the self same man who stood the acid test of the visitors to Screen Art’s offices at the Columbia-United Artists Stadium, when they tried to make him laugh and win $50. He has been dubbed “Sourface,” and is leaving Saturday for Detroit for similar appearance. When he goes to the Chicago World’s Fair, he plans to have two days in each city, and returning next week to again take up his place in filmland.

M-G-M Announces Its 1934-35 Monster Program

Paramount's Convention Proves Huge Success

L. B. Mayer, Thalberg, Selznick, Mannix at Executive Posts

The largest list of famous stars ever assembled in a single studio are to appear in fifty-two major productions, including eight super-features, to be filmed at the Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer Studios for the season of 1934-35. This was the announcement with which the studio yesterday embarked on its eleventh year of production.

The announcement climaxens a decade during which the doors of the studio have never been closed; during which an average of 1,600 workers and 6,720 players and extras have been employed annually, sensational hits presented, and famous new stars launched.

Stars to appear in the forthcoming season's productions include: Marie Dressler, Norma Shearer, Joan Crawford, Greta Garbo, Marlon Davies, Clark Gable, Wallace Beery, Jean Harlow, Jeanette MacDonald, Constance Bennett, Robert Montgomery, Helen Hayes, William Powell, Maurice Chevalier, Lionel Barrymore, Gloria Swanson, Ann Harding, Ramon Novarro, Warner Baxter, Myrna Loy, Loretta Young, Jackie Cooper, Fredric March, Evelyn Laye, Laurel and Hardy, Jimmy Durante, and others to be announced during the progress of the season.

All feature productions will be made at the Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer Studios in Culver City, headed by Vice-President Louis B. Mayer; his associate Vice-President Irving G. Thalberg; Vice-Presidents David O. Selznick and E. J. Mannix; and Producers Hunt Strom.

Adolph Zukor Proves a Real Leader of Men

Adolph Zukor, president of Paramount Pictures, proved to be a great leader of men—yes, the men behind the wheels of Paramount's progress these many years, who hail from every nook and corner of the world, and who have the welfare of their company so at heart that they assembled in the Ambassador Hotel in Los Angeles, for their annual convention, which has been in session during the past week, and this brought forth some sterling speeches by Adolph Zukor, Emanuel Cohen and others of note, and who heard for the first time what is in store for them during the 1934-35 season. So we herewith give you an idea of what to be expected from this organization.

Approximately 64 feature pictures and a total of 204 short subjects will be released by Paramount during the 1934-35 season; it was announced yesterday at the annual convention of the company, now in session in Los Angeles.

Coupled with this careful planning for the immediate future is the adoption of a flexibility of policy on pictures designed for release late in the season.

This policy will enable the production forces to create new paths in picture-making.

Already completed or in progress for the new season are Marlene Dietrich's "The Scarlet Empress," directed by Josef von Sternberg; Cecil B. DeMille's "Cleopatra," featuring Claudette Colbert, Warren William and Henry Wilcoxon.

Seen and Heard

By ARTHUR FORDE

Two Prizes Won—by Paul Green, with a Nobel Prize among his credits, so Al Rockett, associate producer for Fox Films, has assigned this clever writer to adapt the Sinclair Lewis story, "Work of Art," for the screen, with Spencer Tracy in the leading role.

48 Buxom Beauties—One from each state of the Union, are engaged by Columbia Pictures to serve in chorus and musical numbers for "The Girl Friend," which William Rowland will produce and Russell Mack direct. They tell us it is to be one of the great ones of the year for Columbia Pictures.

Ten Million Examined—with the average age of those attending picture shows being fourteen years of age. This should do away with the fallacy of thinking Hollywood must produce entertainment for children only. Paramount made the census, which is considered enough to give this statement authenticity for those thinking otherwise.

Stars Come and Go—but the cameramen go on forever, says Henry Sharp, of Paramount, who used film Douglass McLean and Charlie Ray in the good old days. Douglas is now a supervisor and Charles Ray is getting his second wind, to make a real come-back to the screen that knew him so well for those clean pictures, so much needed at this time.

Opportunity Knocks at the Door—of some feminine player, for the leading role in Mary Roberts Rinehart's story, "State Versus Elinor Norton," that Sol Wurtzel will produce at Fox Western Avenue Studios. Sol and Hamilton McFadden are to pick the lucky one, but just at present they are keeping the secret. The girls are all a-flutter.

That Female Team—Dorothy Arzner and Sonya Levien, are together at Fox Studio on "The Captive Bride," based on a play by Edgar Sheldon and Dorothy Donnelly called "The Proud Princess." Miss Arzner's good work on the Anna Sten picture for Samuel Goldwyn gave her the assignment, and the luck, to direct Charles Boyer, the handsome star just signed by Fox.

No Necessity for Fat—aves lovely Carole Lombard, of Paramount, who claims that a good stiff game of tennis will wear away all the bulky flesh. Carole is now playing with Gary Cooper and Shirley Temple in "Now and Forever" for Paramount, but gets up bright and early in the morning to practice what she preaches in the way of training.

Tuneful Operetta at Last—will reach the screen, with those great makers, Laurel and Hardy, who will make the Victor Herbert masterpiece, "Babes in Toyland," for Hal Roach Studios at Culver City. Ray McCarey will direct the opus, and with his long experience, it should be a welcome treat for the fans who enjoy good music for their screen fare.

Over in Vienna—Franz Lehár will have the great opportunity to hear his own music in a talking picture, as the sound track of "The Merry Widow," has been forwarded by M-G-M Studio officials. Incidentally, Franz will be seen in the picture, and give thanks to the dear public for demanding that his great music be brought to the screen for all time.

Trem Carr's Ranch—will have an Indiana homestead, and all, for "The Girl of the Limberlost," as Herman Schloem, Trem Carr's production manager, and E. R. Hickson, technical director, are hard at work with a great building crew on the location for the story that had a great vogue for years and is now being revived for the new generation.

No Dirty Pictures in the 64 Features—to be released by Paramount Pictures during the season, with 204 stars. One of the features will be "The Lion of a Bengal Lancer," so long awaited by discriminating theatre-goers. Cary Grant, Frances Drake, Richard Arlen and Sir Guy Standing will have the featured roles. This is expected to be one of the sensations of the year.

He Went Broke—so got right in harness with great success, says W. C. Fields, now working in "Mrs. Wiggs of the Cabbage Patch" at Paramount Studios. A lot of stocks that Bill thought were making him sit on top of the world are all he has left.

Best Dressed Woman of the Screen—is the claim of Doris Kenyon, in her new picture, "The Human Side," for Universal Pictures. Usually conservative in her private life, Doris is blossoming forth in some stunning gowns in this production that will surprise all.

The Women's Clubs—have given their approval of Marlene Dietrich in the Josef von Sternberg picture, "Scarlet Empress." Leading the praises were the Parent-Teachers and the National Society of New England Women. Paramount will now breathe easy, as many thought that there was lots for the censors to obliter.

Trem Carr Once More—is spreading out, and announces that Monogram moves to the Pathe Studios in Culver City on July 1st, as they need much room, now that their number of pictures have increased so greatly since last season. Their new programme is a wonder to the picture world.

The Song Smash of Years—was "Tony's Wife," written by Lane and Adamson, so Columbia signed the boys for "Hello, Big Boy," the picture that Felix Young will supervise, and claims will be one of the hits of the Columbia programme, for the new season.

That Great Trio—William Anthony McGuire, Gus Kahn and Walter Donaldson, will get together on "The Great Zeigfeld," for Universal Pictures. "Whoopee" was one of their hits, and the boys know all the tricks and promise to deliver something different to keep the great Zieggy's name green.

"Murder in the Private Car"—ANOTHER MYSTERY TRAIN YARN FROM M-G-M STUDIOS

"Rear Car," by E. E. Rose, must have had greater value as a stage play than it has on the screen, as it sneaks with old age as screen material. The talents of Edgar Allan Woof, Ralph Spence and Al Boasberg failed to put it over, even though adapted by Harvey Thew. The yarn concerns a murder mystery on a railroad train, with all the hokum. Even with the big age pursuing everybody, especially the colored Pullman porter, the piercing screams of the girls, the runaway train, threatening to collide with a runaway freight filled with explosives. All done repeatedly in the days of the gay old West. Harry Beaumont directed, with photographs by James van Trees and Leonard Smith. Charlie Ruggles tried hard to be funny with his stock pattern of humor, with Una Merkel playing straight for the first time, not being any improvement over her clever mannerisms, which were a real asset to the screen. Mary Carlisle, as lovely as ever, does well with the romance, helped along by Russell Hardie, Porter Hall, Willard Robertson, Bertchen Clifford, Cliff Thomson and Snowflake, in the regulation colored porter, completing the cast. For those who still enjoy the old time formula of murder mystery yarns, this one might appeal, but it is far from the high standard established by the M-G-M of Culver City, where we expect the best in the market.

Poor Old "King Kelly of U.S.A."—is delayed once more as Guy Robertson, star of the picture, will not be available until July. Robert Welsh will supervise and Leonard Fields direct, from the screen play by Fields and Silvertone. George Berndtson and Howard Higgins wrote the original yarn.

Boys Going Fishing—now that Bing Crosby and Dick Arlen are finished with their productions, so all the fishing tackle and the Arlen yacht are down in the Mexican waters trying to lure the famous swordfish to these two popular players of the Paramount Studios.

Another Step for Butcher—with Winfield Sheehan advancing the former production manager to associate producer. He has been given a good one to start with, and has Shirley Temple, James Dunn and Alice Faye—that looks as if he is on the high road to success.

A Good Newspaper Man—Damon Runyon has signed an exclusive contract with Fox Films, who will have first call on all yarns written by this clever man during the next year. "Little Miss Marker," for Paramount, was Runyon's, and that is making a great hit everywhere.

Extra Girls Resent Attack on Characters

The court troubles which involve Dave Allen, general manager of Central Casting Corporation, on a moral charge, which comes up July 27 for trial, is being resented by a great majority of the extra girls, who claim that those who are filing the charges are making many untrue statements about the so-called pitfalls that every girl must face if she wants to work as a letter. Extra letters and petitions are being signed by the girls, who take exception to the statements denying that they have had to subject to such abuses in order to make a living as an extra in pictures.

Carl Brisson Gets First American Starring Part in

“All the King’s Horses” at Paramount

Carl Brisson, who made such a sensational hit in “Murder at the Vautiles,” has been assigned his first starring role in “All the King’s Horses,” which Paramount is to produce under the supervision of William Le Baron.

Tony Pastor’s Again Catches On With Public

Tony Pastor’s Theatre is once more in the money. “The Ticket of Leave Man” has caught on with the public, and from now on it looks like peaches and cream for the actors and management. Sheldon Lewis, Theodore Lorch, Tommy Reiley, Ida Maye, Joseph Gerrard, Ole Ness, Bill Ghere, Maude Allen, Zena Bear, Darry Weldon and many others all help in a great measure to put the show across. John Decker did a fine job of directing.

Roger Imhof’s Contract is Renewed by Fox Films—Just Finished Tenth Picture in Year

Roger Imhof, veteran character actor and vaudeville headliner for many years, has had his contract with Fox Films renewed, it was announced today. Imhof made his picture debut just a year ago in “Paddy, the Next Best Thing,” and as a result was signed to a contract. During the year he has appeared in nine pictures, and is now in his tenth, “Judge Priest,” the latest Will Rogers’ starring production, which John Ford is directing.

Here, There and Everywhere

“Four Walls,” now being directed by Paul Sloane, will afford May Robson, that grand old lady of the screen, her finest mother role; Fran Chot Tone plays the son and Karen Morley the role of the faithful school teacher . . . Carol Lombard, one of the screen’s more beautiful blondes, has to darken her light tresses for her role opposite Gary Cooper in Paramount’s “Now and Forever” . . . Claire Trevor given the leading role in “24 Hours a Day,” which will go in production at the Fox Studio in July, Irving Cummings to direct . . . Rochelle Hudson to play Claudette Colbert’s daughter in the John M. Stahl production, “Imitation of Life” . . . Janet Gaynor back from location at Lake Arrowhead . . . The Wesley Ruggles having the swimming pool and bar built first in order to enjoy them during the summer, in their new home, which will not be completed in Beverly Hills until late fall . . . Miriam Hopkins to star in “The Richest Girl in the World,” which William Seiter will direct for RKO, a picture which tells a human story about a wealthy girl who marries for love . . . July 20th has been set as the release date for “When Strangers Meet,” second production on the Liberty schedule of eight for the coming season, directed by Christy Cabanne, starring Richard Cromwell and Arline Judge . . . Anna Sten’s contract renewed for a term of five years with Samuel Goldwyn, rehearsals now under way of “We Live Again,” which will co-star Sten and Fredric March . . . Tremain has borrowed Martha Sleeper from M-G-M for the leading role in “Tomorrow’s Youth,” which Charles Lamont is directing . . . Two old timers in cast of “One More River,” Universal chapter thriller, Grace Cunard and Stuart Holmes . . . And says Irene Dunne, RKO-Radio star: “Smart women are swinging to natural colored nails.”

Harry M. Baine Announces Candidacy for Re-election as Supervisor

Announcing his candidacy for re-election to a full term as supervisor in the third supervisorial district, Supervisor Harry M. Baine yesterday limited his remarkably concise platform to four words: “Business Principles in Government.” Sound leadership and actual experience in county affairs will be required in dealing with the complex problems confronting Los Angeles County, the Supervisor said, in pointing out that wordy theories and political promises will not solve these questions. Baine’s statement follows: “I announce my candidacy for election to a full term as County Supervisor of the Third Supervisorial District. My platform is stated in four simple words, ‘Business Principles in Government,’ the same platform on which I was first elected to complete an unexpired term some twenty months ago. During this time my official acts have followed this policy.

“Naturally, I have gained much worthwhile experience during these past months, calculated to save taxpayers money and bring about efficiency in governmental affairs. I also fully appreciate the humanitarian problems with which this County is confronted under the present economic conditions of unrest and depression. I have no wish to add to these themes, and am convinced that the same experiences, with plenty of hard work, is needed, not wordy theories nor political promises.”

Rainbow Studios Humming With Activity

Rainbow Studios of Hollywood, “makers of child starlets,” is one of the busiest spots in Hollywood where children are coached and trained for the silver screen, and where day and night classes are in progress for talented youngsters. The tutoring of the Rainbow children is under the capable management of Miss Marvel Scherder and Miss Ethel Grey, who leave no stone unturned in order to bring out the very best in kiddies who enter their studios. Rainbow Studios has no affiliation or connection with any other organization, and acts in its entirety as a separate unit, and its policy has always been to operate as a legitimate business, with capable teachers and proper personnel. Various casting offices have been pleased with the way the Rainbow children have been trained, according to comments made by casting directors of several of the major motion picture studios.

Epic Theatre Guild Stages Excellent Show

“The People, Inc.,” an excellent opus written by Emerson Treacy and Bruce McCormick, proved to be slick and sensational at Wednesday evening’s premiere, according to a highly enthusiastic audience that responded with plenty of the good old hand clapping and enthusiastic outbursts. The story has everything in it that is necessary to make it interesting. Political, social questions before the public today, love interest with a smattering of comedy that gives a lot of good laughs. Dialogue was fast and very even. The cast was well balanced. Ann McKay, as Grace Wade, proved to be an interesting trouper. She knows how to act. Emmet “Pat” Gleason in the role of reporter puts on the comedy angle very well. Jack Hagerty as the professor is very smooth, as is Wyndham Standing. Others in the cast include Blair Davies, Thomas Brower, David Lindogan, Forrest Seabury, Barrett Robertson, James Neill, Elizabeth Elliott, Paul Odell, Vesev D’Avore, Eugene Eubanks, Diane Aurburn, Richard Garrick, Barbara Boudwin, James Sargent, W. H. Bunell, Richard Gluyer, H. V. Richardson, Fred Trowbridge, Lucille Granet, Wayne Proper and Rita Green. All in all, this show ought to click one hundred per cent.

WHY WORRY?

The man who once said that a certain man WORRIED HIMSELF INTO HIS GRAVE sounded a real warning to others to avoid just such an experience, so we say: WHY WORRY? The things that seem to be ALL WRONG today will be ALL RIGHT TOMORROW, perhaps in a shorter time than we can take to tell about it. LIFE as it is today is brimful of just such enemies who are trying their level best to get away, and the easiest way to be licked is to WORRY. Turn away from it, refuse to have anything to do with it, shut your eyes and ears to it, and you will find that OLD MAN GLOOM will rush to other parts and people and leave you alone, to enjoy greater success and happiness. So we repeat, WHY WORRY? In the twinkling of an eye ALL IS OVER, so enjoy every minute of this good old life while it last. So, WHY WORRY?

Moving Movie Throng by John Hall

This is a good time for all interested to realize that Hollywood’s critics are influenced ONLY BY WHAT THEY SEE ON THE SCREEN. . . How, why, or by whom means NOTHING to them. . .

This fact should make very clear to worried producers that the barrage of abhorring now flooding the pages of friendly trade papers represent that much white space wasted and an added irritation to thousands of unfriendly eyes the owners of which cannot be harranged out of the evidence of their own personal senses. . . All this pother in the trade press, supposedly a comeback at eminent divinities of ALL creeds, only adds to the perplexity of the men whose millions are at stake. . .

The only source of ammunition for those now tearing away movie profits in staggering chunks is THE SCREEN... They know absolutely nothing of what goes on behind the scene in Hollywood—and they CARE nothing. . . Spending two bits at any theatre in the country furnishes them with all the evidence they need—and CAN USE. . . That evidence is furnished by Hollywood producers themselves. . . It is up to them to decide if they are going to supply the EVIDENCE AGAINST THEMSELVES AND THEIR OWN BUSINESS. . .

Here’s a bow: “It is hard to be a friend of the friendless when you make money in spite of yourself.”—Arthur Brisbane. . . Truth WILL out, even from Arthur. . . AND: “Children and a voice that has (or has been) perpetually cared for is not compatible.”—Jeanette MacDonald. . . Tut, tut, Jeanette; Madame Schumann-Heink will hear you. . . Ask that grand lady about children and a voice. . . Hollywood may try its worst, but that team of Mac West and Jim Timmony, her personal business manager, remains a thing of honor between two staunch friends. . . It is our sincere hope that Mac West will understand that Hollywood dislikes strong-willed friends like Jim Timmony, guarding the personal affairs of its great stars. . . Hold fast to that anchor, Mac. The Laemmles (as bordered by Winchell) are not losing their grip on Universal. If one is influenced by occult evidence, . . . As things now stack up at Universal, Uncle Carl, and Carl, Jr., are lining up a program of surefire big ones. William Anthony McGuire is writing “The Great Ziegfeld” and will later write “Sutter’s Gold,” and probably another big one, yet unnamed; and the studio writing staff will turn out a list of features ranking among the best. Carl Laemmle, Jr., remains head of production and is going ahead full blast while his dad heads for a rest in Europe. . . . No. gents, there is no weakening over on the big lot. . . And don’t forget son-in-law Stanley Bergerman. That lad has made several box office features and is going ahead with more. He is the type of young American business man who goes places.

ROSS AND SARGENT STILL HEADING KING’S CLUB SHOW Messrs. Ross and Sargent, those very clever patter singers, who were reported leaving the King’s Club, are still there and going over better than ever. These entertainers stand in a class all by themselves, and are making many friends among Southlanders. The Three Brownsies, clever Creole singing artists, too, come in for no end of attention. The King’s Club is the leading one out Sunset Boulevard way, and rightfully so, for Gall Reingold is a real host and strives to please everybody who happens to cross his threshold.

Madge Kelly, a well known Eastern columnist, arrived in Hollywood and is soon to present her famous literary contribution, “Thru the Dressing Room Door,” before the eyes of Southland readers to give the once-over and enjoy, Miss Kelly will have an announcement to make soon about her local affiliation.

EDYTHE FELLOWS

The talk of Filmland overnight as the heart throb of

in “HIS GREATEST GAMBLE”

Get a load of what THE HOLLYWOOD REPORTER, June 16, said: “DIX AND KID ACTRESS WIN FIRST HONORS.” “But THE performance in the picture is given by a little girl named Edythe fellows, who plays the daughter as a child, and whose acting is the main reason for the beauty of the first part of the film.”
“In and Out of Focus” by Allan HersHolt

Dix Offers Human Portrayal

A prominent cinema director recently told me that if hokum directors heart up into the aesthetic, if it brings a joyous chuckle or a sympathetic tear, it is no longer hokum, it is art. "His Greatest Gambler," Richard Dix's new RKO-Radio production, is a hokum story which measures up to these specifications. Yet, to call this photoplay art would be hyperbolical. To call it one of the finest motion pictures I have seen in the past twelve months is mere justice. And, then again, why shouldn't it be labelled as art? Certainly the principal players, the director, author, adapter, photographer and set designer are all artists.

Unhampered by accentuated sex appeal, jazz and violent dramatics, "His Greatest Gambler" unfolds a delightfully unique story, uniquely intriguing tale of the devotion between a father and his daughter—a sentimental yarn which is well calculated to tear at the heartstrings of the most blase beholder. Your first inklings of the lights after seeing this picture and marveling at more of its details have not remained with you. Watching it is like listening to a lovely, emotional piece of music. To remember separate phrases or motifs is impossible, however much they may strike you at the moment. But the glow stays in one's mind and heart—the after taste of its beauty.

"His Greatest Gambler," formerly entitled "Family Man," easily might have been a mawkish affair. Expert treatment and remarkably fine character etchings have made it a splendid picture. The portrayal offered by Richard Dix is so sympathetic and so warmly human that undoubtedly it will stay in the memory's record long after the film has been forgotten. Mr. Dix, I feel sure, will cultivate the hearts of feminine fans and win the respect of male movie-goers. He, nevertheless, must share honors with Edythe Fellows, a clever little actress, and John Robertson, who has accomplished an ingenious directorial job. Not that Robertson has introduced any novel devices or experimental photography. With a finely constructed plot and an actor as intuitive as Dix, this was not necessary. Mr. Robertson simply has spun the narrative with intelligence and taste, relying upon the audience's imagination to do the rest. The result is so good that one only remembers the director as an afterthought.

Although seen only in the initial sequences, Edythe Fellows, due to her exquisite portrait of Alice (as a child) merits a separate paragraph. Her interpretation of this very difficult role is so natural and sweet that it should win the approval of everyone. The sensitive understanding, touching grief, tenderness and joy she displays is amazing. In fact, Edythe does not at any time strike a false note. It is a genuine pleasure to predict a future of unlimited possibilities for this little lady.

Dorothy Wilson also deserves several loud hurrahs for her brilliant impersonation of the grown-up Alice. Bruce Cabot, Erin O'Brien-Moore, the talents of Leon Head, Charles Talbot and Eily Malyon give utterly fine performances. The camera work of Teddy Tetzlaff is excellent.

Sparkling Broadway Success

In comparing the recent Belasco-Curran Los Angeles stage production of "She Loves Me Not," Howard Lindsay's vigorously naughty farce, with the Manhattan presentation, it must be stated that the latter was generally far superior. As presented locally, the play, lacking the proper tempo, was a colossal failure. In New York, it is proving to be a triumph for Messrs. Keith, Wing, Perri, Keene and Ward, as well as others concerned. This genuinely witty, blissfully absurd comedy, developing to better fun each instant of each act, is by miles and costs the most gaily amusing, rowdily fresh offering I viewed while Broadway plaging last April. Swiftly, humorously played by a first-rate cast, prominently including Polly Walters, John Beal, Florence Rice and Burgess Meredith, it is pranksish, elusive and spontaneous, successfully achieving the goal at which it aims—entertainment. I left the theatre laughing lustily.

A Rare Play

It is my belief that all the hours spent in the legitimate theatre need not be dedicated to gaiety. Entertainment, perhaps, has its rules and fashions, and the majority of these may favor lightness and pleasure. But once in a while the stage should disclose its power for portraying something of deeper significance. Occasions like this, no doubt, are rare; therefore, they merit the depth of respect and admiration, particularly when it is as brilliant an offering as Max Gordon's current Gotham success, "The Singing Hour," a new play by Keith Winter. From every standpoint, the handling of this distinguished production is superb. Time and again there is a scene which makes you feel that unquestionably here is the highwater of drama and emotion, only to be followed by another reaching even loftier heights. Chiefly responsible for its success is the splendid artistry displayed in Keith Winter's writing, together with the remarkable direction and acting of Raymond Massey. While Mr. Massey's portrayal is the outstanding work of the well selected cast, there are other performances which should be referred to as memorable. Notably those of Adrienne Allen (Mrs. Raymond Massey), Gladys Cooper and Marjorie Fielding.
SOCIETY SHARE JOYS WITH STAGE AND SCREEN CELEBS AT THE COCOANUT GROVE

Ever since Gus Arriheim made his bow at the Cocoanut Grove in the Ambassador Hotel with his celebrated band and entertainers, society folks have been breaking bread, dancing and sharing their joys with the best known stage and screen celebrities. More so, and Reuben at the kind in years. It seems that the maestro has a following among Pasadenaen, Altadamen and Beverly Hilites, and what's more, the collegians likewise pack the Grove on their special nights. It is needless to mention names of those who have attended the past week, for it would be just a repetition of names that you will find in the social register and movie blue book. Captain Reuben Arvanoff, who is the right hand man to Jimmy Manos, maître de hote of the Grove, admitted that he was never busier than the past seven days, and that even changes in any kind of man who loves to be helpful and polite to everybody who crosses his path. Paramount convention visitors helped to pack this place during the week. The same sterling line-up of entertainers, headed by Alvarez and Florence, the greatest of all dancers, continue to get a great big hand nightly.

SPORTS LOVERS GREET ART LASKY AT CAFE DE PARÉE

Joe Pitrone's all-sports nights on Thursdays are becoming more popular at the Cafe de Paree with each weekly offering. For instance, last week he had Art Lasky as the guest star, and sportsmen from far and near dropped in and paid their respects to the heavyweight challenger. This Thursday the N.C.A.A. meets stars, headed by Jack Torrance, the ace shot putter, dine and dance to their hearts' content. The show offered by Pete Dokos, boss man of the place, consists of June and Virginia, former members of the Five Rhythm Girls, who do a Poet and Peasant dance number; Kathleen Bassett dances cleverly; Virginia Castle offers a Rhumba number that is a wow; Ruth Velose and Ross Carolay take over. As for the music, oh, yes, we almost forgot Ken Wilmarth, still the M.C., who sings and dances as the moods strike him. John Anderson is the glib hand man at the door, with Big Jim Marking time in between shakes.

KAY KYSER HAS GREAT ARRAY OF ENTERTAINERS AT MIRAMAR

A wide variety of special features greets the patrons of the Miramar Hotel Terrace Room in Santa Monica. Under the leadership of the society revues, Kay Kyser, "the Old Man from the South," and his entertainers are constantly participating in something different. The gay spirit which Edile Adams, Mervo Vogue, Irving Turner, Art Wilson and Bill Sykes and the other Miramar stars create, plus the delightful atmosphere of the Terrace Room, has drawn many smart revelers to make repeated visits there. Last Thursday night (June 21) was U.C.L.A. night, and the evening's entertainment was dedicated to the seniors who graduated the next day. "Hail Blue and Gold" and other campus songs were played, and student leaders were personally honored for their achievements. Many Brunu alumni as well as undergraduates had made reservations for the impressive occasion. A similar night was dedicated to Southern California on June 12. Sunday night we noticed Vicki Bann, Esther Rahlon, John Mchean Jr., Irene Ware, Jack La Rue, Betty May, Sammy Lee, Mack Gordon, Jack Robbins, Moe Morten, PhilReagan, Mrs. Roy Del Ruth, Charles, Bennett, beautiful Lucile Watson, George Sorell, Bobby Crawford, and that gorgeous darling, Marie Mark, who is the late bet to hit Hollywood, and who will soon be heard from, or we will miss our guess, and we still have to pull a bloomer.

SHIP CAFE PROSPERS UNDER TOMMY JACOBS' DIRECTION

The only man who has ever made the Ship Cafe in Venice a success is Tommy Jacobs, and he is the man behind the helm today. In fact, he is a maker of stars. Every now and then he introduces a new personality to night lovers at the seashore and they immediately become a star overnight. Tommy let us in on a secret the other evening—that he is soon to show us another find in the form of another Sophie Tucker, a crooner. Yes, a blues singer that will set all hearts a-flutter and bring great applause. George Redman's Orchestra, playing the softest and most entertaining kind of dance music, is the headliner at this spot, with Lawrence King, concert singer, taking the audience under his wing. Lawrence and Myrtle Gordon sharing first honors. Jimmy Durante and Jack Benny were the best known star entertainers to drop in to dance, dine and applaud. George Redman and his entertainers.

SEEN AT AL LEVY'S TAVERN...

Jimmie Gleason lunching with Russell... Regis Toomey alone... Natalie Talmadge lunching with her son... Thomas Meighan with the missus, greeting friends on first Hollywood visit... Zeppo Marx paying off his Carrera... Nils Asther... Many old residents of Los Angeles are preparing to honor Al Levy, noted local restauranteur, on the occasion of his 57th anniversary in the cafe business in Los Angeles. This event takes place early next month, and will be marked by special parties at both Levy's Hollywood Taverns, 1200 Downtown Grill... Levy's first local eating establishment was a movable oyster wagon, one of the familiar sights of downtown Los Angeles in the year 1877. Since that time he has been noted for his fine viands from this coast to the Atlantic. Most famous visitors to Los Angeles consider their trips incomplete if they do not dim their dinner candles for a little date for the anniversary celebration will be set within the next week. Meanwhile, Al Levy, in his 73rd year, actively supervises both restaurants and continues to create famous dishes for the gourmet's delight.

PACKER AND LORRAINE CONTINUE TO TOP THE BALLYHOO SHOW

Packer and Lorraine, that marvelous dancing team, continue to top the Club Ballyhoo show that Jack Lester staged and which has Kearney Walton, the best singing M.C. on the West Coast; Paramount Cafe, as cute and nifty a big singing hoover as ever trod the boards in a cafe, and Janice Capon, Shim Sham Revere star, who reveals more pep and personality than any dozen girls do at one time in a revue. The Commodores furnish the music, and the beauty chorus makes the boys look long and often at 'em while they step high, wide and handsome in some of the best dance steps. For the evening's show owner and manager, has Eddie Landfield on the job as chief greeter, and believe it or not, this place is more than getting their share of the night prowlers who like to dance and dine in a refined spot. Wednesday night Mr. and Mrs. Harry Lewis gave a dinner feast to their parents, who were celebrating their golden wedding anniversary. Did they have a good time? We say, oh, yes, indeed. The entire show is stage and screen star guest night and everyone has a fine and dandy time.

HOLLYWOOD STABLES OFFERS FLO ASH AS SPECIAL ATTRACTION

The Hollywood Stables management know their night life clientele, for they have retained Flo Ash, the greatest of all dance fans that has ever set foot on a New York stage. Miss Ash has made an art out of her dancing, her black faced fans, that she uses in her dance to the Bolero, is really worth the admission to the theater showing in this good old U.S.A. Miss Ash recently did a Waltz fan dance with Chas. Sabin, the latest Columbia Pictures "find," and by the way, Flo intends to do a fan dance atop of a new Lockheed aeroplane for the news reel weeklies. The Stables this week outside of Flo Ash offers Caroline Mason in a shadow waltz, Lucille Layman in a novel dance, the Two Flashes, colored steppers, and that popular Bec Soule singing "The Talk of the Town" and other hit numbers. Buddy Wallace and his orchestra top the show like they should and will in any spot.

FRANK SEBASTIAN CONTINUES TO OFFER BEST CREOLE SHOW

Frank Sebastian continues to lead all other editions of the best Creole show that has ever hit the night clubs on the West Coast. He has the Broomfield and Grecely Revue, the Four Covans, and the Leon Hirrord Orchestra. The star comics are Eddie Anderson, John McFarland, and Roy Dickerson. The girls who are goaling "em are Ella May Waters, Octavia Sumer, Martha Ritchie and many others. The chorus is the best ever put into a Creole show, singing songs to a big hand nightly, and many other features flick in a big way. Otto E. Brooks is the head waiter and sees that everyone is happy.

EL RANCHO CAFE IS A TRUE BIT OF OLD MEXICO

Messrs. Edward LeBaron and P. D. Aguilar bring a delightful Latin-American cafes in the "El Rancho," located at Vermont and Third Street, that one can find this side of Old Mexico. What's more, these gentlemen have not only looked after the atmospheric part par excellence, but have engaged the best chef that ever crossed the border, and have Carlos Gonzales and his Continental Orchestra, which sounded so much like the Cagat orchestra in that all the gents wanted to hear at the Ambassador, that we started checking up and found out that they are the very self same men minus Cupat, whom they left at the Waldorf Astoria, New York City, and who is on a vacation to Europe. The music is the finest of its kind around these parts. Now hold your horses, folks, for ye ain't heard nothing yet—hears and the doohickey of the dancers, did three numbers for us and they were beautifully done, and with such a sense of entertaining values that they caught on in a tremend- ous way. The "El Rancho" has added attraction, and if you ask us, the "El Rancho" is a success from the very first, and will grow into public favor by leaps and bounds.

Phoney Producers Replace Fake Movie Schools

Ken Goldsmith to Produce “Little Men” as Special

Use of Major Studio Names Coaxing Sucker Money Their Way

By HARRY BURNS

The suckers are biting in Hollywood these days on the bait that the way to get into pictures is through independent producing companies, and if you will check up you will find that the names of these companies have a likeness to the major studios of the Southland. One company is using part of a theatre circuit title as their own, while another is using the first part of a producing company that harbor some of the biggest companies making pictures for their releasing organization. The phoney indies producing companies are holding out all sorts of bait to the yokels, and are making quite a flash, thereby replacing the old time fake movie schools that promised to teach ‘em how to act so they could become stars.

We learned that some old timers who used to be in the money during the silent picture days are now heading the companies that are working this racket, and to say the least, they know their pictures and what it takes to make the books fall for their line of chatter, and if you ask us, this sort of gyp game should be given the good old-fashioned Hollywood air, rather than be tolerated, for they are a menace to the good name of the motion picture industry.

FERIKA IS WORKING

Feriña Boras is playing a fine part in “The Fountain,” starring Ann Harding, in an RKO-Radio production directed by John Cromwell.

MEL MOVES FORWARD

Mel S. Forrester is moving ahead these days as a character actor, getting a better line of parts, and naturally being the fine artist that he is, is proving himself worthy of better opportunities than he has had to date.

Leo Carrillo

Cinema theatregoers are high in their praise of Leo Carrillo for the performance that he gave in “Viva Villa,” an M-G-M production. In fact, it was this picture that won a long term contract for the stage and screen star. California has for years honored the name of Carrillo, and filmland is merely stepping right in line through the many fine pictures this great artist appears in from time to time.

Story by Louisa M. Alcott, the Author of “Little Women”

Ken Goldsmith is the first independent producer to start the ball rolling in the right direction to down censorship against pictures, for he has just closed a deal for the screen rights to “Little Men,” from the pen of Louisa M. Alcott, who also wrote “Little Women,” the Goldsmith Production to be made at the Talisman Studios, and is to be a special picture, with an all star cast. Cameras are expected to be going within three weeks.

Producer Goldsmith recently finished “I Hate Women,” which is taking the country by storm. Particularly gratifying are the reports sent in by the Warner Bros. theatre circuits that are playing the Ken Goldsmith productions. Mr. Goldsmith just returned from New York City, where he had a great chance to discuss the present picture and theatre situation with the distributors and exhibitors, and his decision to produce “Little Men” was brought about by his findings of the public demands at this time.

WESLEY RUGGLES DIRECTED PARAMOUNT FUN FILM SO ENTIRE FAMILY CAN ENJOY IT

This Paramount production, taken from a play by Ben Hecht and Gene Fowler, is fine screen entertainment for everybody. Music, snappy dialogue and a light plot by Howard Green, clever dialogue by Claude Binyon, and just for good measure they have added those magicians of melody, Mack Gordon and Harry Revel, Leo Robin and Ralph Rainger, who have given some tuneful melodies to the production. Jack Oakie gets the part of his career as a four-flushing radio performer. Ben Bernie is added as a special attraction with his fine band of clever performers and Ben himself in a real part. A rather sad touch is injected unwittingly into the picture by having Dorothy Delly and Lew Cody, both full of life and playing prominent roles. Avline Judge as clever as ever, Alison Skipworth, Roscoe Karns in another of his clever humor-ous characterizations, Paul Cavanagh, Monte Vandergrift, Jill Dennett, Lee Kohlmar, Tony Merlo, Ben Taggart, Charles McEvoy and Frank Prince all fitting into the humor of the mix-up slowly to put the picture over successfully. Leo Tover provided lovely photography, with Wesley Ruggles directing skillfully and having his play and players working naturally to a successful finish. The people who now look after the audience can hardly find any fault with the production and into the bargain should have a barrel of fun watching the picture unrolling on the screen.

"Quicksands"

WITH FINE CAST, NOW SHOWING AT SPOTLIGHT THEATRE

If Wilfred Hari hadn't played "Togo" in the latest offering at this little theatre there would not have been all the laughs to relieve the scordid story of the murder of a man and the terrible time his wife has to exonerate him. In the meanwhile the lawyer defending the accused man falls in love with the wife. Plenty of mystery while the right man is hunted and caught, and the first night audience applauded vigorously at the finish. Fine screen material and the best cast seen in a long time. Dulcie Cooper looking more beautiful than ever and playing the wife with skill and understanding of the difficult role. Earl Tree played the lawyer cleverly, with Bernard Suss putting in a real characterization as the doctor. Frank Darien once more steps to the front, with his daughter Daphie getting a great deal out of the part of the secretary to the lawyer. This young lady is advancing rapidly. Lester Blair, John-stone Lawrence, George Spelvin, Larry Murphy, Norman Costello and Ernest Young played the other parts earnestly and with skill. Earl Tree, General Manager of the Spotlight, can always be depended upon to give his patrons good entertainment as well as furnishing the casting directors of the studios with some good material.

Camera Sharks Look out—as Ann Sothern, cinema star of Columbia Pic-tures, has entered the field of camera studies, and her work on a Brownine has surprised her friends who have one of those swanky sets, but it seems as if Ann is putting it over the rest with her amateur kit.

Four for Will Rogers—is the task set for the favorite comedian of Fox Films, but as Will is a glutton for work, it doesn't faze him at all. Ed-ward Butcher, the latest to assume the reins of associate producer, will have one of the choice ones with "The County Chairman" as a prize.

No Time Lost—for Norman McLeod, of Paramount, as no sooner had he finished his vacation than he was assigned the direction of "Back Porch," a yarn for that popular comedian, W. C. Fields, that will be booming along shortly, as soon as Norman completes the cast and story, which should mean a few laughs.

Wills Kent Tells— that he predicts a great screen career for Rebel, famous white stallion. Reb Russell, all-American fullback, is the star of the Kent picture, "The Man From Hell," which is the first of a series expected to give many surprises with its daring stunts.

Fox Debs Making Good—with Alice Paye, Pat Paterson, Claire Trevor, Rosemary Ames and Drue Leyton all surprising the executives with their good work and the public response after only three months on the screen. Just watch these girls after their first year anniversary on the screen.

Teaching Shirley to Draw — was Gary Cooper between scenes on the set of "Now and Forever," at Para-mount Studios. There has a great bond of friendship developed between the tallest man on the screen and this diminutive Shirley Temple, now call-ing Gary her screen father.

Swimming in a Bowl of Water— were Mae West, Marlene Dietrich, Greta Garbo, Katherine Hepburn and Bing Crosby when the bowl tipped over and all were tipped out. A sad end, but they were only goldfish that Carole Lombard had named after her favorite stars. She bought some more and re-named them.

Two Old Pal—Leon Errol and Bob McKenzie met a couple of days ago on the IKKO lot, where they are working together. The last time these boys saw each other was in a stock company in Astoria, Oregon, twenty-six years back, in the Allen Stock Company, where they were trouping together.

The Stars Just as Eager — to meet other stars as any devoted fan, as Helen Macfess it was one of the thrills of her life when she was introduced to Gary Cooper. She hopes to realize her life's ambition some day with a real part opposite her favorite star.

"Student Tour"—that Chuck Reiser is directing at M-G-M, has Fay McKenzie, formerly child actress, in a full grown-up role. The last time we saw this clever girl she was playing Little Eva in a Uncle Tom's Cabin show a few years back.

Works in Bed—is the luck of George Breakston in his role in "Mrs. Wiggs of the Cabbage Patch" at Paramount. The boys on the set, as well as the di-rector, Norman Taurog, have a hard job keeping George awake, and the other youngsters are quite busy kid- ing George as he lays in bed day after day and gets paid for it.

John Gilbert in Luck—as he plays the stellar role in "The Captain Hates the Sea," the Lewis Milestone epic over at Columbia. Victor McLaglen, Wynne Gibson, Alison Skipworth, Fred Keating, Florence Rice, Leon Errol are the other lucky ones to be cast in one of the greatest yarns of the year.

Gus Kahn Says No—to the question as to composers being temperamental. He claims the real boys and girls enjoy their work and while writing lyrics and music is a little tough at times, the variety of the job keeps them happy. Just like a baseball game, it is the result that counts.

Mady Christians Stepping Up—according to the test taken of the German star a short while back. M-G-M executives claim the girl who made such a hit in the German picture, "Waist Dream," should be equally as famous in the United States upon completion of her first picture at M-G-M.

Torben Meyer Hits Once More—with a clever characterization in the Fox picture, "Wanted," at the studio where Sol Wurtzel presides. Lewis King, our favorite director, was in charge of the opus, and from all we hear, it will be another triumph for the Hollywood branch of Fox Films.

M. H. Hoffman Announces—that Gertrude Orr has been signed to write the screen adaptation of "Without Children," by Mrs. Woodrow Wilson. This is the eighth of a series for the 1934-35 season. Miss Orr is well known by Liberty patrons, as she wrote "The Mad Parade," one of their hits of the year.

The British Consul and His Gang—will attend a grand ball given by the officers of the British ship "Norfolk," arriving at the harbor July 12th, in honor of Loretta Young, their favorite movie star, Ann Sothern, Marian Marsh, Sally Blane and a score of others gracing this formal occasion.
Harry L. Lewis for Board of Equalization

Harry L. Lewis, well known progressive and liberal of Southern California, announced his candidacy for the State Board of Equalization, Fourth District, last week on the Democratic ticket. Lewis has been a resident of the State of California for forty-six years, and a newspaperman and publisher in this state for twenty-six years. He was one of the inaugurators of the present racing bill, now in effect, and it was largely due to his efforts that the measure was passed. This bill when fully in operation will make California a winter playground for tourists from all over the world and go a long way towards substantially reducing the tax burden and improving business conditions in general.

Lewis' constructive and progressive qualities are further emphasized in his work on the boxing bill in 1922, putting that sport under the regulation of the present Commission and doing a great deal to place it on a higher moral plane.

George Stevens Prepares to Direct Wheeler and Woolsey in Bert Kalmar-Harry Ruby Story, "Kentucky Colonel"

The great success of "Bachelor Bait," the all star feature he directed for RKO-Radio, has brought George Stevens another fine assignment in the next Wheeler and Woolsey comedy, which was written by Bert Kalmar and Harry Ruby. Director Stevens migrated from the two-reel comedy field, and is best fitted for his handling of features, because it has been proven that any man who comes from the ranks of the short subjects knows and appreciates the value of the fun-making situations and draws the best results from his material.

And what's more, he knows production values and makes every dollar spent on a picture show upon the screen. Keep your best eye on George Stevens, for he is going places and doing things this year.

Joseph I. Breen Heads Hollywood Censor Board

Will H. Hays, President of the Motion Picture Producers & Distributors of America, Inc., made the following statement: "At the quarterly meeting of the Board of Directors of the Motion Picture Producers & Distributors of America, Inc., action was taken to amend its system of self-regulation in order to eliminate appeals from the decisions of the Production Code Administration to the jury of producers in Hollywood. Additional local authority has been assigned to the Production Code Administration in Hollywood, of which Joseph I. Breen is the director, and the personnel will be amplified. Any appeal from the decision of the Production Code Administration rests only with the Board of Directors of the Motion Picture Producers & Distributors of America in New York, which assumes full responsibility for the character of the pictures appearing in the roads. There is but one answer only to reasonable objections to pictures, and that is the pictures themselves. It is recognized that the solution of the problem of the right kind of screen entertainment rests solely with the quality of the picture and the strengthening arrangements are directed to discharging that responsibility more effectively."

Good Luck, Charles!

The 15th Congressional District, feeling the need of a representative in Congress, has prevailed upon Mr. Charles Miller to run for that position. Mr. Miller, having been a resident of this district for the past 20 years, is widely known, and has been actively identified with civic affairs and business, and is very highly thought of by a great number of business men, judges and many civic office holders. He has also been connected with the stage, motion picture industry, and is at present Pacific Coast representative of the Actors' Equity Association, and Administrator of the Actors' Fund of America, both national organizations. Mr. Miller has consented to submit his candidacy to the Democratic voters of his district and has today filed his declaration.

Ibsen Masterpiece Next ShowHouse Offering

"Hedda Gabler," well known Ibsen classic, last seen here with Le Gallienne's repertory company at the Bilmore Theatre, is opening at The Show House, on Wilshire Boulevard, on July 5th, for a three weeks run. Seeking to top the astounding success of "A Hamdosome Affair," which ran for six weeks, Celeste Rush, producing director, has, after weeks of auditing, selected an all star cast which will feature Ingeborg Tillisch as Hedda in the opening week, supported by such names as Richard Klein, Freddie Winsor, Margery Grennen, Evelyn Roth and Tommy Thompson. As usual with Show House productions, refreshments will be served between acts, enlivening an already entertaining evening.

Nat Levine, president of Mascot Pictures, is surrounding the Wampas starlets with exceptional talent, Ted Fio-Rito and his musical organization already being under contract. Production on "Young and Beautiful," to be under the direction of Joseph Santley, will start immediately upon the return of the Wampas Baby Stars from Chicago, where they are making personal appearances at the Century of Progress.

Clean Pictures and the Box Offices

Hollywood Filmograph has advocated for years CLEANER PICTURES, and we were given the mercy ‘ha ha’ and laughed down and almost out by those who finally brought pictures up to the point where all they needed was the old familiar routine—MEN ONLY,” and as a side line put one “FOR WOMEN ONLY,” and Saturdays invite the KIDDIES to take in a matinee. Patronage was so split up that it equaled the unfortunate status of the killing of the foreign market income by the advent of SOUND. The fight to get back in line will bring back THE PICTURE THAT THE WHOLE FAMILY CAN ENJOY, and for one will welcome it, for it will mean greater patronage and profits, which in the end will spell a healthier business, healthier morals, and a more satisfied public.

Moving Movie Throng by John Hall

The bad Hollywood motion picture is on its way out and the nice big picture is here to stay. Hollywood is cleaning house, inside and outside, and naughtier writers are sternly ordered to write nice clean stories . . . That’s fine . . . Here’s another angle calling for attention: “Hey! hey! Extra! Extra! Hollywood film star married!” yelled a newsboy. “Why all the noise over a marriage?” asked a customer . . . "Ah, gee!” answered the kid, with a sneer in his voice, “Hollywood movie star divorces ain’t news any more. They don’t sell a shee!” This marriage IS NEWS . . . Cincinnati: “The bishops heard Breen (producer representative proposing self-censorship by movie industry), also listened to Martin Quigley, another industry representative. . . . ‘They (the bishops) announced that the League of Decency, formed by the church, will be expanded to every city and town in the United States, and appointed a council of priests to carry out that work’. . . Which same fully corroborates the attitude of Filmograph: Stop wasting time and money on totally FUTILE attempts to halt churchmen, who will be stopped by nothing but CLEAN PICTURES . . . It is with sincere pleasure that Filmograph reports to the churchmen, and all the rest of the world (for Filmograph reaches many far countries) that Hollywood IS making CLEAN PICTURES and Hollywood will continue to make clean pictures . . . Hollywood’s weakest plea is self-censorship; the churchmen will not listen to it . . . Just call off the ‘mariage minders’ and official ‘fixers’—and MAKE CLEAN PICTURES . . . This is ONE job all the ‘fixers’ in or out of politics, CAN’T FIX . . . Positive finality comes in a statement from a high church official of the Vatican; denying the Pope ordered the establishment of the league, he said: ‘Such a step would be entirely unnecessary, because the whole machinery of that church seeks to combat all immorality’. . . Hollywood will snicker at the irony involved when a certain big producer asked a visiting Scottish prince for his ‘sociable opinions’ on himself . . . She published it! . . . Horrors! Not her opinion; the request—And that, by the way, is a clever woman’s way of expressing an opinion of big Hollywood producers, asking for a compliment from a royal princess dabling in letters to ward off the bad wolf . . . When, and if, ex-king Alfonso of Spain comes to Hollywood to promote pictures, he will be suffocated by the culture of some of our biggest movie moguls, brave souls who don’t bat an eyelash when asking royalty’s real opinion of them, and who will make royalty bat all its eyelashes stuttering its royal way off the hot spot . . . Tish, tish, boys: have some manners when addressing your superiors . . . Or have our mighty ones any superiors, eh, er, er—culturally?

“In and Out of Focus” by Allan Hersholt

“Treasure Island”

The Robert Louis Stevenson classic, “Treasure Island,” generally regarded as Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer’s most prestige picture since “Queen Christina,” was presented to an unsuspecting studio audience last week. Your counselor was most fortunate in catching this “peek” preview of the already widely exploited cinema conception of Mr. Stevenson’s exciting story. The picture undoubtedly has been long and ambitiously awaited, not only because it is from the pen of Stevenson, but for the reason that great things have been promised by its producers. Then, too, it is because it is enacted by a star-studded cast, which includes Wallace Beery, Jackie Cooper, Lionel Barrymore, Otto Kruger, Lewis Stone, Charles "Chic" Sale and Nigel Bruce. In no respect, did the film disappoint. Photographed beautifully by Kay June, Clyde De Vima and Hal Rosson, acted intelligently and directed with a convincing technique, the absorbing tale is unfolded in an impressive and colorful manner, each sequence being presented with remarkable dexterity. Scene after scene comes before one with an alarming rapidity of action and vitality. In fact, the entire production has life and dash to a superlative degree. “Treasure Island” carries much optical appeal. For beautiful scenery and exquisite photography, it seldom has been surpassed, and, notwithstanding the present optical shortage, optical appeal still is one of the cinema’s principal charms. The picture possesses a series of magnificent views, with effective shadows and fine lighting. Director Victor Fleming evidently knew where every little cloud in the sky was, and it seems at times as if he has waited for these clouds to come to a certain spot, so as to he framed by the rigging of a ship. In one or two scenes the sun gilds the clouds, offering a memorable visual delight.

A most sincere performance is delivered by Jackie Cooper, who impersonates the young Hawkeye. The ever dependable Wally Beery, Otto Kruger, Lewis Stone, “Chic” Sale, Nigel Bruce and Dorothy Peterson give strikingly vivid characteristics. Lionel Barrymore, I am sorry to say, overplays his role. Herbert Stothart’s accompanying musical score is positively soul-stirring, while the art direction of Cedric Gibbons is spectacular.

“In and Out of Focus” by Allan Hersholt

“Treasure Island” is a welcome change from the flood of backstage films, with lengthy scenes of dancing girls.

“Here Comes the Navy”

Unfortunately, there is little time before the Filmograph goes to press to write a comprehensive critique of the new Warner Bros. presentation, “Here Comes the Navy,” which co-features those two sons of Erin, James Cagney and Pat O’Brien. Nevertheless, the fact that this picture, besides providing unusually stimulating diversion, is in every detail technically accurate, warrants our whole-hearted effort to beat the deadline.

Adventure, which has become a mere byword to describe screen entertainment, may be spelled with newly burned letters when “Here Comes the Navy” is released. While viewing this Ben Maddinson yarn, one is reminded of Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer’s spectacular, “Hell Divers.” Of course, “Here Comes the Navy” is not the salient and compelling achievement that this earlier offering proved to be. It is fashioned according to a more familiar and less ornate pattern. The narrative has some very conventional and mechanical qualities, but it moves so smoothly, thanks to Lloyd Bacon’s fine direction, that unquestionably the film will be acclaimed highly entertaining.

Delightfully refreshing are the portrayals of Jimmy Cagney and Pat O’Brien. Beautiful Gloria Stuart, as always, gives a convincing performance. The work of Frank McHugh, Dorothy Tree, Willard Robertson, Robert Barrat, Gunn Williams, Howard Hickman and Maude Eburne are pleasing. Arthur Edeson, an ace photographer, has contributed several picturesque camera effects which greatly aid in making the production a success. The Cagney-O’Brien combination, I feel sure, would be most successful as a permanent comedy team.
Mitchell and Durant Steal First Honors in "She Learned About Sailors," Fox Films Opus

The stage has sent us another great comedy team in Mitchell and Durant, who steal the whole show in "She Learned About Sailors." The funsters go about their roles like seasoned screen actors, and the way they garner laughs without half trying is something for Fox Films to consider whenever these gentlemen are allowed to appear in any of their future pictures, for they force the beautiful and gorgeous Miss Kaylin and Lewis Ayres to step their best to hold any real attention, and with Harry Green, a seasoned comedian, stepping into the picture, the whole affair sort of takes on a battle of wits and ability. This picture is well worth top billing in any theatre, particularly since the censor hounds are so hot after the sex stories. This tale was cleverly written by William Consmale and Henry Johnson, with music by Sam Kaylin. John Stone supervised the picture. The direction was so well done that you might as well start watching the theatre electric light announcements for some of Mr. Marshall's future efforts in a directorial way.

From the Desk of - - Magde Kelly

"Broadway Lover," at the Writers Club, is responsible for convincing your reviewer that the depression is over if we continue to have such delightfully refreshing comedies, as written by Desideri Pek and executed by such a fine group of players as frolicked upon the stage Wednesday night.

Tricky maneuvering on the part of Earl Foxe (Broadway Lover) aided by one famous Divorce Attorney (nicely done by Wm. Brisbane) brings a riotous lot of fun on to the stage at just the right time. It was grand to hear good old hearty laughs and real honest-to-goodness applause.

Evidently an actress with the appeal and surefireness of Miss Corine Williams (cast as a rabid newspaper woman) but not often. She gave an exceptionally fine performance and we knew all along that she would get her man—the woman-hating Mr. A. McCullogh, played by Mr. Eugene Renard—blissfully succumbed at what seemed to be a general round-up. No sooner did we get one pair of lovers on the way before still another two were found in each other's arms. Had Mr. Berry been charging so much per couple per match he'd have made some money. But he was in too jovial a mood himself to think about the lurid details of business. After three years he finds himself realizing for the first time that he has been in love with his secretary all the while. The secretary (Miss Marlene Lessing) gave a very smooth performance.

Your writer would like to have more space so that she could give each and every player the credit due. For instance, we got an awful kick out of the nine Mrs. John Smiths—as a matter of fact, I was disappointed at not getting a peep into the outer office, where still more John Smith widows were waiting. We left the Writers Club delightedly refreshed.

"Finder's Luck"

"Finder's Luck," a new mystery drama by Alice Haines Baekin, current at the Pasadena Community Playhouse, is a unique setting in an old Greenwich bookstore, and good dialogue. Its chief fault seems to lie in a too lavish use of coincidence to bring about the denouement. The Playhouse has given the play an excellent staging. Jerome Coray directed and used the fine setting of Robert Lee to its best advantage. Herbert Rooksby was the best player as the crusty old book buyer, and Sharley Simpson made a hit as the English customer. George Garner and Brice Spaulding turned in unusually good performances. Dorothy Adams was charming and always in character as the feminine lead. Bert Morris. Jerome Coray, Willard Davis, Dennis Donahue and Lou Vincinti completed the capable cast. "Finder's Luck" is good entertainment and should be popular in stock and little theatres.

Once More We Lead 'Em All

Hollywood-battled California Naval Militia, comprised of 140 officers and men, were sworn in Wednesday night, June 20, at the California Naval Militia Armory, located at 1935 So. Los Angeles Street. Lieutenant Gene Owen Hagbeer, recruiting officer for the state, acted as head of the Hollywood unit, aided by his staff, Lieutenants George Lancaster, Dr. Guy Hayman and Ray Flinsky. The unit was officially presented and accepted by Captain Park Dodge, head of the Hollywood unit, California State Naval Militia. The majority of the men in the Hollywood unit are studie employees. One division of the battalion consists of cinematographers and still men, which is the first photographic division formed in any state militia. In an acceptance address, Commander L. F. Brown stated that Hollywood is to be complimented on having the first organized battalion in the state.

"Bachelor Bait" is Stuart Erwin's Best Screen Effort; Director George Stevens Shares Honors

Stuart Erwin can look up his record in pictures, and he will bear us out when we say that he never played a part in a talkie that surpassed the one that he portrays in "Bachelor Bait," an RKO-Radio photoplay which was directed by George Stevens, who, to our way of thinking, shares honors with "Shin算", "Night Flight" and "Shenandoah". He is well equipped with the artist act right up to the highest comedy pitch tempo, still maintaining the dramatic values, thus holding the story together. Next in line for attention we hand the palm to Skeets Gallagher and Bert Kelton, who proved excellent foils for Stuart Erwin and played their parts for all they were worth. You can tab another success for Rochelle Hudson, who looked and thought as cute and sweet as ever and drew plenty of sympathy. Grady Sutton did well with a hard part, and Clarence H. Wilson took his medicine as the D. A. in a big way, as only a finished actor like he can. Berton Churchill clicked in a big way as the grasping politician and ward heeler. Lou Brock handled the production.

The story was by Victor and Edward Halperin and screen play by Glenn Tryon. Glen surely injected plenty of bowling laughs in this one. David Abel's photography was a work of art, and the music helped to hold attention rather than distract, like most music does, unless handled by an expert such as Max Steiner.

M. H. Hoffman Offers Splendid Entertainment in "Two Heads on a Pillow," Directed by William Nigh

Theatre-goers need have no fear in viewing "Two Heads on a Pillow," which was directed by William Nigh, who never lost a single chance to inject good clean, amusing fun into every scene in the picture, which was produced by Hal Roach and the Liberty Pictures Corporation, with Neil Hamilton, Miriam Jordan, Henry Arnetta and Hardie Albright in the top spots in the picture, backed by a cast that is second to none. The story continuity is by Albert DeMond, suggested by "The Eternal Masculine," by Dorothy Canfield. It is a long time since we have heard a preview audience laugh as heartily as they did while viewing this picture at the Stadium Theatre. It was all good clean fun, and who could fail to laugh at a picture that dealt with a situation actually felt that they were in the very environment of the story that was being unreeled before their eyes. The sound helped them get the dialogue and meaning of the very situation which smacked of happenings in real life.

Neil Hamilton and Miriam Jordan were ideally cast. They carried the burden for the story as only such capable artists can, and now we will just give you a list of some of the outstanding players taking part in this photoplay: Dorothy Appleby, Mary Forbes, Edward Martinde, Claude King, Lona Andre, Betty Blythe, Edward Kane, Claire McDowell, George Lewis, Emily Fitzroy, Nellie V. Nichols, Dorothy Granger, Jilda Ford, Mary Fay and Jack Kennedy.

The excellent music brought to light Chico De Verdi, backed by a splendid orchestra. The work of De Verdi was most outstanding and worthy of special mention. The beautiful photography of this picture was the work of Harry Neumann (A.S.C.) M. H. Hoffman, Jr., was the associate producer, while Rudolph Flothow was production manager. Exhibitors can announce to the awaiting public that this picture is in answer to their cry for clean pictures for the whole family to witness in the world's best theatres, doing it.

Lyle Talbot Comes Through with Another Winning Performance, "The Return of the Terror"

The late Edgar Wallace must have been screen minded when he wrote the book, "The Terror," for Warner Brothers have made it into very good screen fare. At the same time it is a fine vehicle for Lyle Talbot, Mary Astor, Frank McHugh and John Halliday, with Renee Whitney getting her first real break in some time. The picture is chic full of clever artists, such as Charles E. German, George White, Edward G. Robinson, Edward Keane, Robert Barratt, Frank Reich, Robert E. O'Connor, George Humbert, Maude Eburne, Cecil Cunningham, Frank Conroy and Etienne Girardot. Warner Brothers have a great bet in Lyle Talbot if they will try as hard to find suitable vehicles for him as they do some of their stars. Seated by us were many of the fair sex who were willing to give the picture their whole hearted and unreserved support, and the progress of the picture. When women do this sort of thing they certainly are falling hook, line and sinker for an actor. Ray Enright did a fine job of directing. Now showing at Warner's Hollywood and Downtown Theatres.

Thaya Boy

Regardless of how busy Sheriff Gene Biscaluz, is being a great stage and picture fan, having unlimited friends in both fields, he not only subscribes for, but religiously reads both "Variety" and "The Film Daily," which he finds time to personally deliver both copies to a poor actor neighbor in Santa Monica. In expressing his gratitude to actors in general, he said: 'The least the Sheriff's office could do in return for the very many gratis performances that actors have always so willingly volunteered to give for all sorts of civic charities, was to patronize the box office and ride with the Sheriff's posse at the Screen Actors' Guild benefit, which we surely enjoyed...

ALVAREZ AND FLORENCE DRAW DANCERS TO THE COCONUT GROVE

Every performance that Alvarez and Florence, sensational dancers, give at the Coconut Grove, in the Ambassador Hotel, draws professional dancers from every nook and corner of the Southland, for all want to compare their work with this famous team, and everyone there has talked it over since these great artists opened their engagement here say that they are absolutely in a class by themselves, and that one can learn much from watching them at every exhibition. Alvarez and Florence are headliners in conjunction with Gus Arlheim and his greater orchestra, which is made up of the maestro and such sterling entertainers as The Three Brownies, Maxine Tappan, Mary Wood and others, who entertain nightly. The Grove is packed every evening with large parties, who are there to celebrate anniversaries, birthdays, and weddings, and enjoy every walk of life dancing and dining. We glad handed many of our friends Tuesday night, seeing Miriam Hopkins entertaining friends; Eddie Grainger; Frank McLean, who got the same; Harold Kaiser dancing and dining with beautiful Marian Barrell; Diane Crystal, the gorgeous creature, giving Hynie Fink a break by dancing with his partner; Tom Gallery and a party dropped in, as did Edgar Selwyn and mistress, I. E. Chadwick and party shook hands with Ben L. Frank as the night drew to a close. Jimmy Manos and right hand man, Billy Thies and Captain Rouben, doing a fine job at keeping everyone happy.

GENE AUSTIN AND BOYS ARE HIT AT EL REY CLUB

The El Rey Club offers Gene Austin and boys in their incomparable music and songs. This is the latest of swanky nite spots to open. Ray Hailer is back of it and is very much on the job. The best of the town folks are making this their nightly rendezvous, and are swarming around Gene Austin for some of his favorite numbers like they used to when he first made his bow around these parts.

Gene Austin celebrated his birthday Sunday night and was presented with a beautiful box of chocolates by Mr. and Mrs. Norwood McLeod, and what’s more, “Norm,” who used to be a great cartoonist, drew the presentation card. All this happened about 3 a.m. The mystery is: Where did Mr. McLeod dig up the flowers at this hour?

PACKING ‘EM IN NIGHTLY AT THE RAINBOW GARDENS

Jack Dunn and His Perfect Rhythm Dance and Radio Band

THE HERBERTS MAKE BOW AT KING’S CLUB TO GREAT APPLAUSE

It looks like the King’s Club has found another winner in Charley and Grace Turner, who are the last word in entertaining with laughter, witty and smart singing which keeps their auditors listening very attentively, fearing to miss a single word, and if you ask us, you have to be smart to stay right with ‘em as they croon away. A most representative audience greeted them Thursday night, in fact, all the satellites who ever set foot in such a swanky club were there, and many new faces from Beverly Hills and Pasadena joined the merrymakers and applauded for encore by the scores. The Three Brownies continue to click with the crowds. When the night was over two new members for Gail Reigold had to step his best to stay ahead of everyone, and Paul Franks never dish out so many fancy drinks in all the years he has worked in New York and other key cities best clubs.

CAFE DE PAREE IS BUILDING UP FINE FAMILY TRADE

With one of the biggest and best gatherings of family folks at the Cafe De Paree. This is a tribute to Pete Dokos, the boss man of the place, and his associates, Joe Firrone and John Alexander. The other evening the place was loaded to the doors with members of the Eastern Star organization, who enjoyed themselves immensely all evening dining and dancing. The similarity of the theme was through three shows that were put on by Modie and Le Maxx, Ruth Ve olse, Russ Cantor, Ken Wilmarth and others. Merle Carlson and his Orchestra packed the place and some of the popular numbers that night nite are all sports nite, and are chock full of special attractions.

EL RANCHO IS SOON TO OFFER SPECIAL STAR GUEST NIGHTS

Mesra, Le Baron and Aguilar, who operate the El Rancho Cafe at Vermont and Third Street, are arranging a series of special star guest nights within the coming week that promises to make this latest of amusement places command greater attention, particularly since this is the most unique Latin American Cafe, reminding one of the heart of Old Mexico, and offers Carlos Gonzalez and his Continental Orchestra, supported by six feature singing and dancing numbers. The spacious dancing floor is open to the night sky, and the orchestra is in session Sunday, at which time entertainment is furnished and fine dinners are served. One visit to the El Rancho will cause you to come back and bring your friends.

JACK DURANT CROONS TO THREE BROWNS SINGING

The other night at the King’s Club Jack Durant, of the famous comedy team of Mitchell and Durant, did an impromptu number of songs with The Three Brownies, who are headlining at this playspot, and knocked ’em off long. He could easily outsing the best crooners if he cared to stick to this sort of entertainment, and the girls were greater than ever in such company. Gene Mann and beautiful Marylan Dowling were in the Durant party.

KEARNEY WALTON PROVES CLEVER SINGING M. C.

At Club Ballyhoo

Kearney Walton nightly proves that he is a clever singing M.C. at the Club Ballyhoo, where he is heading the Jack Lester Revue, with Paclor and LaRaine in a series of dances; Jackie Ca pon, comedienne; Myra Mason and a beauty chorus making up the show, and the Commodores furnishing the rhythm. Frank Hanover is building up his Sunday night spot, putting in added attractions via guest artists, and Eddie Landfield, the chief handshaker and greeter, is seeing to it that everybody has a good time.

Nita Mitchell, who came South for a brief visit to Ventura and San Francisco, and now Donald at the “Golden Slipper” in the Bay City, where she is making “em applaud long and loud for more of her blues songs. Los Angeles producers should have heard this lady before she was on a visit, but they didn’t, so she is pl.ty busy in San Francisco.

SHIP CAFE TO PLAY HOST TO GREAT CROWD OF FUN SEEKERS

June 30, 1934

Tommy Jacobs is making great plans at the Ship Cafe, Venice, to entertain a tremendous crowd July 4, when fun seekers will invade the seashore re areas of the Playlands. Tommy has arranged many piddled features in both the cafe and casino, and with George Redman and his sterling orchestra furnishing the music, it looks as though everyone who diies and dances in this playspot will have the time of their life. Last Sunday nite Jimmy Durante and a party of friends dropped in, and Jimmy, amid great applause, sang two of his favorite songs, and did they go for him in a big way! Among those who applauded were Jack L. Warner and party—we’ll say they did! And lo and behold, Elise Gilbert, that red-headed torch singer who imitates Cab Callowary in such a remarkable way, sang a couple of her favorite songs, and went over in a big way. Sunday nite is celebrities nite, and they sure come out and strut their stuff as a tribute to Tommy. We are told that he is putting together a birthday train for his friends during his operation of the Ship Cafe at Venice, and at the Airport Gardens, out Burbank way. The Ship Cafe is open every night except Monday.

KAY KYSER LEADS SINGING CHORUS AT MIRAMAR HOTEL

Leading the best singing chorus that has been heard here in Southland parts, as far as being made up by the musicians in an orchestra, Kay Kysers is making a greater name for himself and his orchestra at the Miramar Hotel Monday night. This is a remarkable thing. The maestro believes in injecting new features to his musical program, and aside from the singing numbers, he offers the Rhapsody in Khumba via a recording. He is a clever accommodator in the world regardless of the playing of “Carioca.” It is a masterful arrangement, and wins tremendous applause. Some of the celebs we saw there Sunday nite were Tom Brown, Robert Arnold, Lou McLeod, Ralph Like, Marian Barrell, Harold Kaiser, Arline Judge, Stu Erwin, Wesley Ruggles, Mr. and Mrs. Norman McLeod, Joe Riley, J. Gordon Cooper, George H. Stoll, Ed Fitzpatrick, Mr. Max Boquet, Roy Randolph and party, Vicki Baum, Winslow Felix, George Sorrel. We learned that Mr. L. B. Mayer was to speak Monday before the American Chamber of Commerce luncheon in the Miramar Hotel Colonial Room.

BILLIE ROSS RETURNS TO COTTON CLUB; NEW SHOW A HIT

BILLIE Ross, who ten years ago started working for Frank Sebastian in his Cotton Club, afterwards going east where he was a big sensation, is back at the place of his debut, and is very happy in becoming one of the star entertainers with the Broomfield and Gleekey all star colored revue, which has many headliners strutting their stuff. For instance, Clark Rutledge acts as M.C. and later does a dance with Johnny Taylor, famous funster, under the team name of Rutledge and Taylor. The Four Sensational Dancing Covans continue to click; Ella May Williams and Bessie Bowser hold her heart's content; Martha Ritchie surprises 'em all with her versatility; Octavia Sumler is a natural born clown, and she looks like a million; too; that's good to see. And crooners featuring with their beauty, talent and class, as she works with her partner, LeRoy Broomfield.

THE TWO GUITAR CLUB HAS A GREAT STAR IN "COUNTLESS SONIA"

Countess Sonia, from M.C.'s at the Two Guitar Club, which was formerly the Russian American Art Club, on Harold Way, near Western. This simple announcement doesn't mean so much, but when this charming actress and dancer acts as mistress of ceremonies and makes her famous speech, "I Thank You," you will just fall in love with her and the whole show the rest of the evening. There are so many stars that all one needs to do to tell about the show is to mention their names and say they all do their bit in making the show a hit. Those who take part are Eva Siefer, Olga Denova, Messrs. Melish, Bekaree, Beegel and Bencok. The song leader is Sonkar. The Russian atmosphere and music makes you feel that you are in a different world. Go and enjoy the fine food, music and show. It is off the beaten path.

IN HOLLYWOOD NOW

by Bud MURRAY

HOLLYWOOD received two great "shocks" when two kindly souls passed away—and it hits one harder when you would like a chip for a short time previous to their untimely deaths. When they had just finished "Shoot the Works," at Paramount (see "Great Magoo") which we were in in Noy Yawk, two years ago, for to aid in the war effort, and so, all these personal connections leave one sort of "withered," or are we getting old?—Then comes from Noy Yawk the news of our, the Pal, and the Finest Host, and Friend, anyone could want—"The beloved man on Broadway," the "guy" who couldn't say no; the quiet unassuming BILLY LA HIFF, who was always in his glory when he was "ribbing" someone—Yes, sir, LA HIFF has passed over, no doubtably, but 'tis true!—Again we sit by the fireside and think of those days in the corner of LA HIFF's "Tavern," with Jimmy Hussey, La Hiff and "Fatty" Arbuckle, all now at "The Great Beyond." See, it's been a bad week at HOLLYWOOD, NOW.

Trying to get out of the "rough," we notice "Loopoo" Velez and her Johnny back at the fights—Also Mae West and her old playmate, Jim Timony, down in front—Walter Winchell at the Fites, where he last received the well-known "socco," and which was all a BIG MISTAKE, between two regular guys, with a BIG MISUNDERSTANDING; Mrs. Winchell's boy is supposed to be vacationing here, but we have heard him on the air twice this week, and besides his Night Club appearances—You can't keep this guy down, he's too buttoned up! From Mr. and Mrs. Joe E. Brown are back from their vacation to the Orient, and back at the Fites—Alice White and Cy Bartlett always down in front—Clark Gable getting around places lately, and so with a sorta "dead-fish" cheerio, we'll see ya in HOLLYWOOD, NOW.

JACK DUNN SETS

NEW RECORDS AT GARDEN'S

Jack Dunn and his perfect rhythm band at the Rainbow Gardens is nightly setting new records for attendance. His musical aggregation includes some of the best vocalists who are singing with different bands around the parts. For instance, there is Marge Keeley, Gordon Smith, Dennie Moore, Al Shelleday and others. Some of the crooners double in the band on various instruments. In fact, many parts of the country are angling with Jack Dunn to broadcast over their stations with an augmented organization, and he may accept at some future time.

DICKIE JONES FINishes
PART AT PARAMOUNT

Another clever youngster who is now in demand, and will no doubt prove a great hit, is little Dickie Jones. He has just finished at Paramount in "Now and Forever," with Shirley Tem- ple, and will soon be seen at the theatre in the "Life of Virgine Win- ters." Sunday night at the Wilshire Ebell Theatre Dickie will act as M.C. at the Bud Murray Revue, having acted in the same capacity at the Figu- rnea Playhouse last Thursday. He is now appearing in "Baby Take a Bow" at Loew's State Theatre.

GAYLOR MIRIS GOES NORTH

Little Gaylor Morris has left for the state of Washington for a three-week stay. While in Seattle, Gaylor expects to make several personal appearances at local theatres.

ENTERTAINS "OUR GANG"

Jacqueline Taylor entertained "Our Gang" at a luncheon at the Billmore House on Friday, at 1:30 p.m. Ace Rennie acted as hostess, and there were many others of note present.

GORDON AND REVEL
ON "COLLEGE RHYTHM"

Gordon and Revel, the ace song writers, are now working on "College Rhythm," another Paramount picture which will have some of their hit numbers.

MARY CARLISLE AT THE BIG U

Mary Carlisle, who has been causing such a sensation in M-G-M features, has been loaned to Universal for their "Million Dollar Ransom" production that Murray Roth is directing with an all-star cast.

MELVILLE BROWN IS TO DIRECT "REDEED" FOR MONOGRAM PICTURES

Melville Brown is preparing to direct "Redhead" for Monogram Pictures. The story is being readied for the screen by Dorothy Reid and Jesse Lasky, Jr. Director Brown recently produced the stage play, "Bitter Harvest," at the Hollywood Playhouse, and is considering offers to go to Eng- land both as a director and producer.

OUR MISTAKE

In the Epic Theatre show, "The People, Inc.,” we gave mention that Jack Haggerty played theuma part. From many parts of the country are angling with Jack Dunn to broadcast over their stations with an augmented organization, and he may accept at some future time.

BILLY DRYER HELPS

Billy Dryer has flown from Liberty, Arizona, to help stage the Dancing Business Association affair at the Ambassador Hotel week of July 9.

OLYMPIC AUDITORIUM

Carnation Lou Daro and Tom Gal- lard handed the boys a treat last week when they tossed in there the craggy slapstick Maxie Rosenbloom and young Lee Ramage, San Diego's pride. Mr. Rosenbloom, these many moons meeting all comers in all places, was com- pelled to reach very deep into the deep well of his vast and varied experience to avoid the sturdy jocks of the boy with the heart of a lion and the skull of a Jim Corbett. Maxie kept his pan out of range and slapped and slapped, rolled and uppercut; rested his weight upon the tiring Lee and weathered all storms as an unswerving pillar of ringcraft against up-and-coming youth— and won Maxie a draw. It was a darn good bout, because Maxie was in there turning in many flashes, then resting on the sturdy shoulder of Mr. Ramage. The fans went away well pleased, and Maxie can strut our borough with chin up and look every fan in the eye. Other bouts: Al Moro stopped Tony Sousa in the fifth, cut eye; Mong are in base. Artie Dunn decided Johnny Cruz; Frankie Lice- mas stopped Angus Morgan in the first. Jack Scott stopped Ralph Nor- wood in the first of the opener. Next week the Olympic will be dark. Melville Brown is doing a great job. A draw, a tie. He's taken an adage and proven it to be the best. Maxie was to the dance sequence undoubled by any professional dancer.
Will H. Hays Faces His Greatest Acid Test

Censorship Drive Forces Him to Work To Save Industry

By HARRY BURNS

Whatever any one has ever said against Will H. Hays, who has for years headed the "Producers Distributors Association of America" fight for their interests, should applaud his present action, for he is today facing the acid test, and is deserving of a world of credit for the battle he is waging to save the industry from its hardest and worst attack since the very first picture made its public appearance. Mr. Hays is coming out here to show the producers what they are really facing, and once more they had better heed his warning, for he is on the ground floor, and knows what it takes to kill off the public antagonism against pictures. There are so many factions trying to boycott our photoplays that only a man of Mr. Hays' type and experience can, through a level-headed stand, stave off the onslaught to the point where it can be controlled, and the supposed-to-be wrongs righted, so that, at least for the time being, we will have a chance to fight for our very lives and existence, unhampered, and to say the least, with a better understanding of our problems.

FOX PICNIC AUGUST 12

The Fox Studios Picnic, slated for July 1, has been postponed to August 12, at North Hollywood Park. It promises to be one of the big doings of the season.

THE MOST TALKED OF FUNMAKERS WHO EVER CAME FROM GOOD OLD BROADWAY

Frank Mitchell and Jack Durant

When "She Learned About Sailors" is shown in the world's best theatres, Fox Films, who produced this laughfest, will have to admit that they have discovered two real star funmakers in the team of Frank Mitchell and Jack Durant, who are under the management of O'Reilly and Mann Agency. These famous comedians, Mitchell and Durant, set New York's Broadway aflame with their funny antics prior to coming to the West Coast and starting on their screen careers.

Should be Fought By All Good and True Americans

The most unfair thing that has ever been hurled upon the weary heads of the extras of Hollywood is now being worked out by the NRA Committee, who intend to cut the day players lists down to anywhere from 1,500 to 5,000 from what is purported to be 17,000 registered, with another 20,000 who think they belong in the movies. This is unfair and unconstitutional, and should be fought by every real American. We would say that President Roosevelt had no idea of ever allowing such a restraint of trade to be forced down the throats of our people, especially the poor hard working extras, who find it hard enough to get work now, but with this new system it is going to be just another of the ways and means of disrupting whatever harmony is left within the ranks and file of those who work in the studios. Those who are on the committee will be guilty of committing the worst crime that any one could through the very power entrusted to them by those in charge of the NRA Code activities in the Southland.

DOING FINE

Joe Sauers and Frances Miles are both doing fine and dandy on the Warner Bros.-First National lot. Joe will be remembered for his great work in "Es- kimo." Frances years ago played western leads at the big U studios.
“King Kelly of the U.S.A.”—gets under way at last with Guy Robertson and Irene Ware in the featured roles. This is Monogram’s best, which they have had a hard row in starting. Leonard Fields directs, with Robert Welch supervising.

What Lawyer For—will soon be shown up by Will Rogers, based on a story by Thomas Morrow. This makes four for Will, who has “Judge Priest” on his hands, “The County Chairman,” and “What Am I Bid,” for a good layout for Will to solve.

“Music in the Air”—will bring out Al Shean, famous member of the team of Gallagher and Shean. This will be Al’s first picture effort as well as Joe May’s, a visitor of Hitler’s land. Jerome Kern, the author, will add a song or two to help things along.

Not All Spectacle—says Cecil B. DeMille, celebrated for this sort of thing. Vidal human story containing great drama must be the base of all successful big films. Just watch out for Cleopatra, that should knock your eye out, from what we saw in the making.

1934 Best Year—for cartoon films, or so says Max Fleischer, veteran of fifteen years. Betty Boop and Popeye are the brain children from the Max brain. Just a little different, with a timely subject, with an up-to-date theme, is necessary.

Brief Life of a Star—is all the bunk, say Paramount officials, who point with pride to Gary Cooper, who has spent fifteen years on the screen and today is more popular than ever, but they should consider that Gary is a little different than the rest.

That Dancing Contest—in honor of “Dancing Lady,” Joan Crawford’s M-G-M picture, was won by a couple from Denmark, who will be entertained by Mr. and Mrs. Jean Hersholt, as soon as they reach the film capital.

“The White Parade”—for Fox Films, will be directed by Irving Cummings. This is the story of student nurses, based on a novel by Rian James, and will star their old favorite, Warner Baxter. Fox promises this one will be staged on a lavish scale, as the subject is universally popular.

One More Year—for Raul Roulien, brilliant player from South America, whose option was taken up by Fox Films after they saw his remarkable work in “The World Moves On.” This promises to be one of the sensations of the year for the Westwood studios.

Monogram’s Baby Star—Gigi Parrish received her first assignment from Robert Welch, executive producer, with a prominent role in “The Girl of the Limberlost,” the Gene Stratton Porter epic. This one should solve the troubles of theatre owners who have received orders for cheap films.

Another Tiny Village—has blossomed forth in the hills of California, with Paramount technical directors showing their skill by making a whole town for “Mrs. Wiggs of the Cabbage Patch.” Pauline Lord will make her debut in this one, that should establish her as another screen favorite.

Just a Relapse—hit Loretta Young at the Queen of the Angels Hospital. This decided studio officials that Loretta would certainly not be ready for “The Hide Out,” an M-G-M picture that is expected to be a sensation for the studio that usually hits.

Those Great Pals—Gus Kahn, Walter Donaldson and Leo Robbins, have found a new way to spend an evening. They go down to Venice and play the penny roulette. This is one of the reasons these popular boys have a pocketful of money whenever you see them.

Secretary and Treasurer—is the lucky draw for Frank Borzage at the Uplifters Club at Santa Monica. Frank is one of the star polo players of this popular club, but just now is directing “Flirtation Walk,” out at the Warner boys studio.

DeLong Make-Up
Studios Busy Spot

With new machinery installed in the DeLong Cosmetic Laboratories, and a heavy production schedule ahead, Robare DeLong, president of the organization, is kept busy personally supervising the manufacturing of his excellent product which bears his name. Many celebrities in filmdom use DeLong Make-up for their screen activities as well as scores of stage artists. This worthwhile organization has one of the most up-to-date plants on the Pacific Coast, with the very latest in new equipment, and according to Mr. DeLong, they are fully prepared to give the best in quality merchandise, as they always have done in the past.

Two Veteran Players—were chosen by Lewis Milestone, now making “The Captain Hates the Sea,” for Columbia Pictures. Claude Gillingwater and Emily Fitzroy were the lucky ones. This couple was popular in the silent days as well as today.

That Clever Writer—Tristram Tupper has turned in the final script for Monogram’s “The Healer,” a Robert Herrick novel. This one will be produced by Ben Verschleizer, with William Collier, Sr., in the important part.

Maryan Dowling Is the Latest of Screen “Finds” to Make Her Way Into Prominence

A sweet miss who is being groomed for big things in film circles is Maryan Dowling, unspoiled by the attraction she is commanding, she sort of has reconciled herself to the God’s who promise to make a place in the cinema firmament for her, that will place her among the real “fonds” of 1934. To meet Miss Dowling, the new, she has seen in some very good pictures, she sort of has a way about her that makes you think so at least, and after you walk with this charming little actress, you learn that she is new to pictures, but, that soon, you see very soon, she will be seen in something worthy of her talents on one of the major lots, and from then on, you will be amply repaid for becoming interested in her career.

Andy Clyde Is to Be Starred in a Feature At Mack Sennett Studios, Jed Buell Produces

Mack Sennett, noted for a lifetime as a discoverer of star-making talent in the movies, is turning his Columbus-like talent toward the production field and has found a protege. This fortunate young man is Jed Buell, for several years an executive with the Sennett organization, who now, under the experienced guidance of Sennett, is taking a step forward and is becoming a producer of feature comedies. Although Sennett is not financially or actively engaged in this project, he plans to lend a guiding hand in steering Buell away from the vaudeville that might promise a younger producer, and will give him every advantage of his neighbored years as a comedy builder. The producing company, headed by Buell, is called Rainbow Pictures, and will produce immediately a feature-length comedy starring Andy Clyde, entitled “College Sweetheart.” In the supporting cast are Mary Kornman, Grady Sutton, and Franklin Eastman. B. C. Stafford, a director who was also discovered by Sennett, will direct this feature, and also the second on the schedule, a burlesque of jungle adventure pictures, “They Go Wild.” The latter feature comedy will co-star Harry Langdon and Andy Clyde. Joseph Klein, major studio distributing executive, has arrived from New York to become Buell’s partner in the Rainbow Pictures organization. And while on the subject of Sennett discoveries, it might be interesting to note that Andy Clyde was discovered as a comedy star several years ago by Sennett.

Jesse L. Lasky Announces Eight Special Productions for 1934-35 Season at Fox Studios

Elaborate plans for the production of eight special pictures for Fox Film, for the 1934-35 season, were announced by Jesse L. Lasky, pioneer producer. Quality entertainment, is the keynote of the new-season program, according to Producer Lasky, noted for his production of superior pictures. First on the schedule will be “The White Parade,” a pretentious popularization of student-nurses, based on a forthcoming novel by Rian James, who is also writing the screen-play in collaboration with Jesse L. Lasky, Jr. Filming will start on August 6, under direction of Irving Cummings, and with an all-star cast to be announced later. “Heldorado,” starring Spencer Tracy, will go into production on August 20, and “The Captive Bride,” with Dorothy Arzner directing, will get underway two weeks later. “Heldorado” is an original story of romance and adventure in an abandoned ghost-town of the West, and “The Captive Bride” is from the New York stage-success, “The Proud Princess.” “Redheads on Parade,” a lavish musical featuring raven-haired girls, and “Casanova—The Immortal Lover,” another big-scale production, are on the shooting-schedule for September. Others on the Lasky-Fox program include John Galsworthy’s “The Apple Tree,” with direction by Frank Tottle; “Flight of the Swan,” based on the life of Anna Pavlova, and “Aces Down,” by Thompson Burtis, an air story of the United States-Mexico border patrol.

John Ardizoni Has Discovered Some Very Excellent Artists, Proves Capable Actor on Stage and Screen

Maestro John Ardizoni, actor and teacher of voice technique has played in no less than 15 talking pictures since coming to Hollywood less than a year ago. He played the opera singer in “Deli- cious,” Fox picture; singing chef in “College Humor” with Bing Crosby; musical director in “Nana,” with Anna Sten, Goldevy; vocal tutor with GeneAustin for “King of Kings” and other pictures with various major studios. Ruth Twyman who won first recognition at the Festival of Fine Arts was discovered at the Atwater Contest three years ago. The judges then did not see the possibilities of this wonderful soprano, and after the tumultuous raves with Mr. Ardizoni she was presented at the George Washington Centennial where she was enthusiastically acclaimed. Mr. Ardizoni is also responsible for personalities such as Tom Wallace, Lawrence King, and Philip Merzival. During the day Mr. Ardizoni devotes his time to acting. In the evening, and during his spare time he dedicates himself to the possibilities of ambitious artists. Maestro Ardizoni uses the Belcanto method of teaching, which translated means the production of beautiful resonant tones. He is remembered for his excellent work during the silent days of motion pictures and for his various operative roles with Metropolitan Grand Opera Company and others.

$45,000 Saved on Rock Contract by Supervisor Harry M. Baine

Supervisor Harry M. Baine announced yesterday that he had received a ruling from the NRA which will result in a saving of $45,000 to the County this year in its purchase of rock. Identical bids were submitted by a number of firms for 150,000 tons of rock the County will need this year. Five days later the Azusa Rock and Sand Company made an offer much lower than any of the bids originally submitted. Unsuccessful bidders contended there was an irregularity in submission of the reduced price. Supervisor Baine made a determined fight to accept the low bid. The matter was referred to the NRA which upheld Baine’s contentions and the rock contract saving the County $45,000 was awarded to the Azusa Company. This is another example of “business principles in government.” Baine declared.

O’Reilly and Mann Bring Warren Hymer Back to Hollywood for Great Part in Cantor Opus

The O’Reilly and Mann agency shot through a hurry home call to Warren Hymer who is in New York City to return at once for the Eddie Cantor picture “Treasure Hunt” that is starting at the United Artists studios under the direction of Roy Del Ruth. We learned from good authority, that the Hymer part will be the best thing that he has done since he first made his bow in pictures.
FAIR PLAY

The world loves FAIR PLAY just as much as they love true romance and love, it will be the same as long as this good old world lives on, and any one that strays from this pathway will find himself alone and out of step. We have been charged with being partial to the interests of Dave Allen in his hour of trouble, when he is set to stand trial on moral charges. WE HAVE ONLY ASKED FOR FAIR PLAY, we have warned those who are using this unfortunate happening to further their own ends, and leave his fate in the hands of the JUDGE AND JURY to find him guilty or innocent of the charges preferred against him. Until then we say let FAIR PLAY and fair thinking hold your highest thoughts.

Moving Movie Throng by John Hall

As usual, picture producers, supposedly organized, with wise advisers (like the Hays office, for instance), are meeting an emergency by knocking on the head against a stone wall... In the Philadelphia area, headed by the Warner Brothers, within two weeks, 525 picture theatres will close. The Warner representatives of John Schlessinger, gave the usual two weeks’ notice to employees in preparation for closing 75 (Warner Brothers) plants. The Motion Picture Theatre Owners of eastern Pennsylvania, as announced by Lowen Fizo, will close 450 theatres... We are told that “10,000 workers will be jobless.” In plain English, the NRA requires a kick in the pants and the effort of the President to keep people working is scornfully defied by the MOVIE PICTURE INDUSTRY... Now, the BIG question involved is: Who in the motion picture industry, blaming the church boycott, is going to EXPLAIN to the NRA authorities WHY and HOW the producer-exhibitor Warner Brothers lead several hundred theatre men to close their theatres and discharge “10,000 workers?”... The vital point involved here, a point with direct bearing upon producer prosperity, is the BIG question: Shall Hollywood producers be ALLOWED TO CONTINUE TO CONTROL BOTH PRODUCTION AND DISTRIBUTION?... If this issue is brought to life, the cause can be traced to the action of Warner Brothers, producer-exhibitors; for their action is positive evidence of the crushing power held by those who control both manufacture and distribution... As usual, Hollywood alights on the industry makes the bowler against THEIR... At this precise moment, in view of the various Clarence Darrow reports, the Government is LOOKING FOR EVIDENCE to DISPROVE the specific charge that the big industries FRAMED THEIR OWN CODES FOR THEIR OWN BENEFIT and the destruction of the little fellow... The Warner Brothers are PROVING the triumph of CORRUPTION. Those little theatre owners are following the move of a BIG PRODUCER-EXHIBITOR... You may be sure of THAT... This direct blow at the NRA can pass unnoticed by President Roosevelt and General John... Action will be SWIFT... Henry Ford tried this same move—he is asking to be forgiven... The big studios are saying to the good boys... Maybe Hollywood is much bigger and tougher than these... Maybe... In fairness to other big producer-exhibitors, it must be said that there is no reason to believe they think as Warner Brothers think but, every producer-exhibitor will suffer if the Government decides to bring big producers from controlling distribution. The Warhers have started the thing. Let’s see what happens...TO THEM... Take heart, Americans! With “Lady for a Day,” “Little Miss Marker,” and other typically AMERICAN stories by Dames Runyan, and the advent of several AMERICAN girls like Evelyn Venable, all hailing at smut, our motion picture literature emerges from a slough and heads for AMERICAN IDEALS.

Vidor Opus Fails to Joll

It might, perhaps, be expected that a humble reviewer, such as I, would approach a picture like the anxious key-note for the awaited King Vidor-Viking presentation, “Our Daily Bread,” which has required several months to reach and the considerable amount of effort and money to produce, with a good deal of trepidation—if for no other reason than my genuine respect for Mr. Vidor and his numerous memorable cinema masterpieces of the past.

I find it extremely difficult to report that this new Vidor offering, to a great extent, is not worthy of the time and expense it consumed. Since viewing the film, I have pondered the following thoughts in my mind time and time again, and that has happened to the man who created “The Big Parade,” “The Crowd,” “Hallelujah!”, “The Politic Flapper” and “The Champ!” Could it possibly be that through some sort of impeachment he has lost the perspective, the technique that once made him stand in a class by himself as a motion picture director? It seems distressingly sad, for the Vidor who recently gave us “The Strangers Return” and now “Our Daily Bread” surely is not the Vidor of old. It cannot be, in this instance, that he wasn’t permitted an absolute free rein in the selection of story and cast, as he, himself, produced, wrote and directed “Our Daily Bread.” The fact that this master of yesterday has failed to stage a comeback, no doubt, will make his future endeavors difficult and puzzle them with deep wonder. Nevertheless, I feel that everyone positively should see “Our Daily Bread,” for it is the type of photoplay that will arouse no end of controversial opinion.

Decidedly out of the ordinary, Mr. Vidor’s narrative has moments of brightness and color, but it is generally dull and dragy. Watching the final two reels, which are devoted to the diggings of a two-mile irrigation ditch, would be a certain cure for anyone suffering from insomnia! These latter sequences need a great deal of revision.

Vidor, unfortunately, has selected a rather weak cast. Over-anxious to please, Tom Keene, who portrays the leading role, lacks conviction. Karen Morley as Camilla, Barbara Pepper, a newcomer with definite screen possibilities, Addison Richards and Billy Engle—particularly Quinlan and Richards—are good in their respective roles. A most gorgeous photography by Robert Planck and Alfred Newman’s moving musical score aid considerably in saving the picture, which will be released through United Artists, om being an utter bore.

“Yellow Jack”

Al H. Holm, Sidney Howard’s ruthless-ly daring play, “Yellow Jack,” proved to be a box-office failure in New York, it unquestionably will be remembered as a tremendous achievement in years to come. For twelve hours, without an intermission, this is a play of burning excitement, this remarkable story of courage and devotion, held the Martin Beck Theatre audience spellbound. Based on a single chapter of Paul de Kruif’s “Microbe Hunters,” it is, I am told, one of the first plays to present accurate scientific research in dramatic form. Mr. Howard has unfolded an intelligent study of man’s struggle against and final victory over the yellow fever (“Yellow Jack”). Commencing in a London research laboratory, the action then takes place in Cuba, and then in New York, where the heroic Dr. Walter Reed and his small group of assistants and volunteers, after risking numerous lives, finally learn the secret of this disease. The superb production, which recently transferred to a New York Theatre brilliantly by Guthrie McClintic and acted cleverly by Barton MacLane, John Miltener, Geoffrey Kerr, Charles Gerard and the other players.

Social Notes

Mr. and Mrs. Paul Sloane entertained at an informal buffet supper last Tuesday evening in honor of their eighteenth wedding anniversary. Guests included May Robson, Edgar Allan Woolf, the Harry Greens, the Ernest Vajdás, the Lucien Hubahrs, Walter D. Beaudine, Vincent Barret, B. Seits, the Jerry Hoffmans, Victor Shapiro and the Max Steiners. Harry Lachman celebrated his birthday last week together with Maurice Pizes, Raoul Walsh, Allan Durham, John Quillan, Bill Beaudine, Eddie (life of the party) Cline, Eddie Quillan, Bill Conselman, Eric Pommer, Al Kaufman, Edwin Schatteri, Nat Levine, Mike Levey, Eph Asher, Sam Briskin and Junior Durkin. Following the luncheon, everyone, with the exception of Dad Hersholt and a few other old friends, had an enjoyable time playing basketball, Mr. and Mrs. Swatt, recently entertained the Walter Connollys, Glenda Farrell, the Hershorts and other friends in the old-fashioned American “saloon-room” of their spacious, beautiful Beverly Hills home.

“Stamboul Quest”

M-G-M’s production of “Stamboul Quest” will give patrons of the theater everything they desire in entertainment: romance, suspense, comedy, and mystery. Myrna Loy, who portrays a spy, has the best role of her career and gives an excellent performance. George Brent was the surprise of the picture, he has never had a part so suitable; one that gives him a chance to play comedy and really act natural. Lionel Atwill and C. Henry Gordon contribute their usual good work, and Rudolph Amenn and Mischa Auer complete the cast. Sam Wood deserves credit for the capable manner in which he directed the picture from an original story by Leo Birinski, adapted by Herman J. Mankiewicz. James Wong Howe’s photography is worthy of mention. The only real fault to find in this Bernard H. Hyman’s production is in the title, “Stamboul Quest.” Theatregoers will wonder what it denotes and might stay away because the caption does not sound especially enticing.

Gene Austin Proves Cleverer Than Ever in “Ferry Go Round” RKO Radio Short

Gene Austin will add many new friends to his following when they view “The Ferry Go Round” an RKO Radio short subject very ably directed by Sam White. The crooning star, is set in a ferry environment where he, Candy and Coco entertain, and to our way of thinking, it is very novel, commands a lot of attention and will help set off any program to a better start than one usually finds in such a picture. Gene’s personality gets over in a big way, and his associates come in for their share of recognition, Betty Grable is cute and clever, and Inty the ever faithful dog struts his best and garners quite a few laughs. Lee Marcus produced the fun-film with Bert Gilroy associate, the story is from the pen of Joseph A. Fields and Johnnie Gray while Harold Wenstrom is responsible for the photography. Keep your best eye on Gene Austin, he is in the bag for bigger and better things.

Conrad Nagel and Violet Heming Are Delightful in “There’s Always Juliet” at El Capitan

“There’s Always Juliet” from the pen of John Van Druten. The stars were given a great ovation the opening night; Mr. Nagel particularly had to wait on the applause to stop while he stood with head bowed and awated his chance to speak his opening lines. May Beatty, too, comes in for no end of applause, for her performance, and the work of John Graham Spacey too, is worthy of special mention. Henry Duffy is to be complimented on the staging that he gave this show, which was handled by Conrad Nagel. This play is a fine follow up in the footsteps of Will Rogers in “Ah Wilderness” for it is fine, clean entertainment, in the hands of excellent artists. Miss Heming was exceptionally good in the handling of her part. You will spend a very entertaining evening if you drop in any night at the El Capitan theater and see this show.

“The Green Bay Tree” Startles Hollywood Theatregoers

Mordaunt Shairp figured that the theathregoers who are broadminded would enjoy “The Green Bay Tree,” well it shocked even hard-boiled Hollywood at the Playhouse where it is being offered nightly with Edward Cooper in the leading role, and Walter Armitage catching the next bit of attention, because he is the principal character involved in this story. Herbert Evans, Marion Burns and Thomas Stevenson play the other roles that go to make up this challenge to the moral censors of Los Angeles who are crying so much about the screen being degrading. This is said to be the London version and was staged by Arthur Lubin. We hold no brief for the actors for they played their parts to such perfection that you believed the points that were brought to light throughout the play.

Lake Cosgrave Is in “The Key”

Lake Cosgrave who came here 10 years ago from Ireland to appear in James Craig’s picture “Hollywood” produced for the Lasky Studios at that time, is doing fine in the talkies. His recent productions “Little Women,” “David Harum,” “One More River,” and “The Key” which is now being shown at both Warner Brothers theaters in Hollywood and Downtown stamps him a fine character actor. Right now he is working in “The Six Day Bike Rider” with Joe E. Brown directed by Lloyd Bacon for Warner-First National Studios.

“The Scarlet Letter”

“The Scarlet Letter,” produced by Larry Daunour for Majestic release, is a sincere and faithful screen translation of Nathaniel Hawthorne’s great American novel. When it is cut further, and some of the rough spots smoothed, it will prove a real hit for any exhibitor. It is definitely in the major class. In costumes, settings, and viewpoint, it realistically creates the Puritan period. The dialogue, when it followed a pure idiom too closely, sounded artificial to our modern ears. When the characters spoke more modern lines, the picture improved. There is a grand cast of old timers in “The Scarlet Letter.” Alan Hale does the last work in the film as Bartholomew Hawkins, and William T. Kent is delightful as Samson. Henry B. Walthall turns in another striking performance as Dr. Dilling-saw, and Hardie Albright was effective as the Rev. Dimmesdale. Colleen Moore, somewhat miscast as Hester Prynne worked hard and did well. Cora Sue Collins was perfect as Pearl. Others doing fine work were Virginia Howell, William Tabbert, and Clive Brook. The picture was effectively directed by Robert G. Vignola, who seemed most at home in the lighter scenes. James T. Brown’s photography was very good, and Leonard Fields and David Silverstein wrote the screen play.

Technicolor Comes Into Its Own

The color problem has been solved at last by RKO Pictures in their first venture into the Tri-color process. A colorful yarn of old Mexico, La Cucaracha was released by RKO for release now. The picture is outstanding in the technical and artistic manner and deserves this color process, which color process does not in any way detract as has been formerly done. This was a pioneer film produced by Kenneth McGowan, Robert Edmund Jones was responsible for the colors. Lloyd Corrigan directed with a great deal of skill, with the photography assigned to Ray Rennuman who came out with flying colors. Russell Lewis directed the colorful dances, and the beautiful music of old Castile under the baton of the great maestro, Carl Marco. The picture has a scene that was taken by Lloyd Corrigan and Carl Wharton. The few of the players Don Alvarado and Paul Porcasi fitted perfectly into the production with Stelfi Duma taking good care of her part. If this is a sample of the future, color photography is in for a successful run.

“Hedda Gabler” Produced by The Showmen of Hollywood

Celeste Rush, that versatile producer who has done some startling things since she took over with the devotion of music and folk dancing. This color ambitious effort with a great deal of success. The great Ibsen classic was staged beautifully, and looks as if in for another run that is the watchword at this little theater. The story is unnecessary to go into at this time, we will go into the merits of the players. Ingeborg Tilisch played “Hedda,” with a great deal of skill and feeling, with Tomye Thompson running her a close second as Thora Elvest. Evelyn Roth made a gracious “Aunt Jule,” and Peggy Ely giving responsible characterization to the role of “Berta.” Of the men, Lon Merrill did a great deal of work with the part of George Tessman. Richard Kline was Eilert Lovborg to the letter with Frederick Windsor topping it all in the role of “Brack.” The play was beautifully staged and directed by Celeste Rush, and the first night audience applauded vigorously at the final curtain. Refreshments between the acts as usual was a welcome change to the sordid play. This Little theater is getting to be more popular at each new show.

Cy Kendall, of the KFI drama staff, gets the role of Bull. “Slick and His Boys” runs the gamut of “Sweet Adeline” to “Home on the Range” with an old-time barber shop quartet.

Jack Dunn Gains Much Applause at Rainbow Gardens

Jack Dunn and his orchestra are nightly gaining great applause at the Rainbow Gardens, where they are breaking all records for attendance at this time of the year. Maestro Dunn has some very fine plans for enlarging his organization and playing some of the big hotel spots, and on the air.

AL LEVY HAS CATERED FOR 57 YEARS

When a constant patron commented upon the fact that Al Levy serves at one place where a dinner finds plenty of changes in the daily menu, Levy pointed out the fact that in his 57 years of catering to the Los Angeles "inner man" he has served more than 3,400 varieties of food. This figure was arrived at by counting the many different dishes found listed on Levy menus for the past thirty years, copies of which the famous restaurateur has filed away.

"In any one week we have more than three hundred changes of menu," stated Levy. "I know from long experience that variety is the spice of the dinner, and that no meticulous diner wants to see the same dishes on his menu day after day."

On today's menu Levy's lists 143 separate dishes.

FRANK SEVASTIAN VERY MUCH ON THE JOB AT THE COTTON CLUB

Frank Sebastian is very much on the job these days at his Cotton Club, regardless of his just recovering from a severe illness. The genial host is still meeting his many friends who drop in daily to see new revues staged by Broomfield and Greeley, and to hear Leon Herriford's New Cotton Club Band play rhythm the likes of which no one else offers around these parts. Lionel Hampton is the ace trap drummer of this organization. The show is headed by Broomfield and Greeley and has featured Rutledge and Taylor, Eddie Anderson, Dahn Dickerson, Octave Smith, Martha Kittche, Cliff Ritchie, Jr., Blie Ross, The Four Dancing Covans and the prettiest Creole chorus we have ever cast our optics on. Otto R. Polo and Frank Sevastian are the names of the young army of waiters who see to everyone's wants in a fine manner.

MARTINO'S VILLA IS VERY UNIQUE NIGHT SPOT

The latest nite spot to catch the attention of Hollywoodians is Martino's Villa. It is noted for its food and fine entertainment. Built especially for the family trade, this place promises to get a greater part of the business out Ventura Way at Chandler Road. The name "Martino's" has become a byword out that way, and with Armand "Curly" Wright managing the place, cinemates are bound to come that way to their door. Every evening is full of greater surprises, and it is this sort of program that nite life lovers follow in and around central Los Angeles.

The impromptu shows are a wonder. The other night we caught Frank E. Farr acting as M.C., with Maxine Bar- ber, Elinor Morris and Virginia River- nor singing gaily to great applause. Many of the high lights in us broken broad and having a fine time at this spot.

MIRAMAR HOTEL TERRACE ROOM PROVES POPULAR SUNDAY NIGHT

Sunday night was the evening down at the Miramar Hotel Terrace Room, where the elite of stage and film rub shoulders with society, while Kay Kyser and his Orchestra play the sweetest of music. The two thousand parties that are given nightly at this spot are helping to make it more popular with seashore visitors, who have been swarming in numbers every night this week. The room is very public, which is every night but Monday. Last Sunday evening we ran into Bruce Cabot and Adrienne Ames, Frank Borzage, Chuck Rieker, Gilbert Pratt, Ivan Kohl, Bobby Webb and wife, Nick Stuart, Erwin Gelsey, Dic Rosson, who told us that brother Hal was coming along fine and dandy, Tom Brown, Max Boquet. The little cigs, we always make for the show, are well up in pictures, but things broke rather bad, so she took up her present work. Tha girl, more power to you. Hope some day you get a bigger break and stop hanging out on the talkies. We are glad to hear that Mr. Jacobs offers George Redman and his Orchestra, with a number of clever crooners. The food is the best among the seashore playspots, and when it is served to the kind of restaurants that are so popular, there are none finer than those offered here.

SHIPI CAFE WAS PACKED DURING THE HOLIDAYS

Tommy Jacobs was happy during the Independence Day rush, all on account of his old friends turning out in a big way to enjoy the Ship Cafe, which he has just opened. Alcaldado over for to be well up in pictures, but things broke rather bad, so she took up her present work. Tha girl, more power to you. EL RANCHO IS MOST UNIQUE MEXICAN CAFE IN LOS ANGELES

Without a doubt the most unique cafe in Los Angeles is the El Rancho, located on Vermont at Third Street, where Carlos Gonzales and his famous orch- estral Orchestra are a special attraction. The Ruiz Sisters offer novel dances, and any number of singers enter- tain. The Thursday night special offerings by star guests promises to be very popular. Leo Carrillo was the first slated last Thursday, and all depended upon his arriving in time from his personal appearance tour. Messrs. Eddie Le Baron and D. Aguiar cert- ainly gave the best show and the best of food of its kind to the desire of the Southland to the heart of Mexico right in the heart of Los Angeles.

FRANK HANOITER PLAYS OVER THE CLUB BALLYHOO

Frank Hanouter is entitled to a lot of credit for the way he is putting the Club Ballyhoo. He is the one who has started it, and now he is offering the Commodores, a fine musical organization. Lorraine and Packer, dancers par excellence, are to appear at the Cocoa Coconut, the latter the clever singing M.C. The Jack Lester Girls put on the revue numbers headed by the principals. It is the Sunday nite spot around the West Hollywood belt.
CARSTAIRS TO METRO

On completion of his script work on the Charles Farrell picture, “Beauty Hall,” John Paddy Carstairs, young director-writer, is leaving California to join the Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer scenario department. Carstairs was recently on the writing staff at Gaumont, leaving that studio (where he wrote and directed his first feature, “What’s a Girl?”) to direct at Sound City, where he made “Paris Plane.” He wrote the original screen story, “Lost in the Legion,” the next Leslie Fuller picture for British International.

Harry Carr Takes A Healthy Wallop At Censors

Industry Should Bar Scandalmongers

Hurrah for First Man With Nerve to Defend Industry

The boycott drive that the Catholic Churches started has aroused the ire of many of the same editors of the good old United States. The first one to really come to our attention is none other than our always faithful and fair-minded Harry Carr, who, in his daily "Lancer" column in the Los Angeles Times, issue of July 10, speaks right out and tells these reformers of the movies a few facts. We are not holding any brief against those who feel that they have a honest purpose in cleaning up the talkies; what we are against is the wholesale banning of pictures which are truly clean and entertaining. In the case of Mae West, whoever looks upon many of her sayings and actions in her pictures immorally, are of just as evil mind as the purported violations of ethics and morals as portrayed by this great actress' performances as purely and simply for entertainment purposes. Read what Harry Carr has to say on this subject:

"And now comes movie censorship by the churches with the almost inevitable result.

"I had to look twice to be sure my eyes were telling me the truth—that 'Little Man What Now' was among the list of condemned pictures.

"This is not only the finest picture made in any studio this year; but one of the finest pictures ever made. The acting is so superb as to be without precedent. Douglass Montgomery and Margaret Sullivan have climbed to the very top rung; and they are supported (Continued on Page 7)

Producers Have Hard Enough Time to Help Feed 'Em

Biting the hand that is feeding them is the latest indoor sport with people inside of the industry these days. The producers, to our way of thinking, have had a hard enough time keeping the business going, so that those employed within our ranks can earn a living, and to see the way some of the scandalmongers are tearing down the industry as a whole is to make one feel that nothing is so bad as to find traitors within one's very doors. They should be dealt with in such a manner that they would have to seek other ways and means of earning a living in some other walk of life.

There are certain people in Hollywood who just love to join the wrecking crew, and see who they can call their next victim. There is always a round trip ticket to everything that any one does, and who are we that we should become judge and jury and find our co-workers guilty of breaking certain breaches of trust. There are none so pure and holy that someone can't find a place to lay a finger on them, and who knows but perhaps their days of wilfully tearing down the other fellow's rating and standing will kick back at them and give them a dose of their own medicine.

Harold Lloyd Tells His Censorship Views

American audiences can best police pictures, in the opinion of Harold Lloyd, when asked what he thought of "official censorship." The comedian has always found that the best censorship comes right in the studio, and no Lloyd comedy has ever left his cutting room that had to feel the scissors of censor-ship. Lloyd's popular Saturday Evening Post serial, "The Cat's Paw," as his first picture in two years was its combination of adult and child appeal, sans implication of anything but the most wholesome entertainment. Lloyd recently said: "I am definitely opposed to 'political censorship,' if that is what is meant by official censorship." The best censorship is that which comes at the source—the studio. Such censorship can be compelled by a public which shuns the type of picture that needs censoring. Producers gauge their type of production by box office popularity. That's why we see so many 'cycles.' An aroused public is always the best system of policing, and when pictures reach the state that they have to be censored, it can best be done by means of box office boycott.

Jimmy Newell is a Good Bet for Some Producer

If some wise producer would only sit still long enough and analyze Jimmy Newell, the star crooner that Gus Arnaheim offers in conjunction with his orchestra nightly at the Coconut Grove, he would find a boy that would follow in the footsteps of the great Bing Crosby, Donald Novis and others who have migrated from this same spot to fame. Jimmy is a nice, clean-cut chap who enjoys his work and always gives his best. He is also willing to give and take whenever he appears in conjunction with the Three Downey Sisters, Maxine Tappan, and Mary Woods. You really have to catch Jimmy when he is on his own with a packed house to really appreciate his popularity and true ability, speaking from moral reasons. On the reason he selected Clarence Budington Kelland's popular novelette, "FILMOCRAPH" for Universal, the once titled "Belle of New Orleans," is still untitled . MAURICE CHEVALIER expects to leave the Coast late in August to make a picture for ALEXANDER KORDA in England . WARREN DOANE is making four-reel musical "Brevities" for Universal for fall release which will feature famous vaudeville and radio acts . . . Upon finishing his original story, "Sire Fire," for Columbia, AUSTIN PARKER is now adapting "A Present From Margate" at First National . The deal between Warner Bros. and RUDY VALLEE seems to be definitely set, with VALLEE agreeing to sign a contract for five pictures . . . EDWARD L. Industry To Work Self Protection System Amplifying Will H. Hays' statement of two weeks ago, which concered the action taken to amend and strengthen the system of industry self-regulation established by the Motion Picture Producers & Distributors of America, the following companies, members of that Association, announced yesterday that each would grant to exhibitors the right to omit the exhibition of any of their motion pictures released prior to July 15, 1934, against which there is a genuine protest on moral grounds: Columbia Pictures Corporation; Educational Film Exchanges, Inc.; First National Pictures, Inc.; Fox Film Corporation; Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer Distributing Corporation; Paramount Pictures Distributing Corporation; RKO Distributing Corporation; United Artists Corporation; Universal Pictures Corporation; and Warner Bros. Pictures, Inc.

This means that in any community in which there is genuine concerted objection to the showing of a particular feature on moral grounds an exhibitor who has contracted to exhibit that picture will be given the right to omit its exhibition without obligation for its rental.

The reason for the limitation of this cancellation privilege to pictures generally released prior to July 15 is because that is the date upon which the new regulatory provisions go into effect. After that date the Association's Production Code Administration will function with increased authority and the Board of Directors of the Association will assume final responsibility for all future motion pictures distributed by members of the Association.

To identify all films bearing the approval of the Association's Production Code Administration, a distinctive seal has been adopted and will be shown on the screen directly after the main title of all pictures. This seal, which every picture released after July 15 by members of the Association will bear, will be evidence of the industry's pledge that every precaution has been taken to insure compliance with the Production Code of the Motion Picture Producers & Distributors of America.

Frame Ups

Ever since the motion picture industry has attained its great prominence, there have been frame ups galore on officials who were in power to help ambitious extras gain the much sought opportunity to find ways and means of getting into the movies or to climbing to a higher standing than the day player. We remember when producers have been put on the spot, and in each instance the jury has thrown the case out of court. The case now in the Los Angeles courts against Dave Allen and Gloria Marsh filed by June DeLong, is one that is being watched by the entire country, and will do a whole lot of good towards stopping for all time the so-called frame ups. We want justice to be meted out to those involved, and feel that with the present judge and jury hearing the case, there will be no question as to the defendants' guilt or innocence, and we look forward to the case coming to a close without reflecting on the good name of the motion picture industry.

Moving Movie Throng by John Hall

Hurray for Willie Hoist! as the boys around Park Row used to yell when the Noo Yawk Jovial was being brought to life by Arthur Brisbane's two-syllable editorials, in 18-point blackface, three columns wide. . . . After all the Catholic, Protestant, Christian Science and Jewish church leaders of the entire community have demanded clean motion pictures, Willie rushes in and grabs the act, turning into the Hoist papers all credit for this great reform movement. . . . With enormous pride, Willie points to a letter, published in "My Los Angeles Examiner" on October 5, 1933, and signed "An American Husband." No wonder he used a cover-up nom-de-plume in "My Los Angeles Examiner." . . . At that time Willie and the boys over at M-G-M, where Cosmopolitan Productions stars Marion Davies, were the best of pals; skies were serene and no man looked ahead to the giant movement by the Catholic church. . . . Now, little Willie dashes in, betrays his business associates and tries to push aside out of the limelight the world's mightiest religious leaders and their millions of indignant followers. . . . Circulation, boys; just circulation; no more . . . Try to remember that the forces at work could, overnight, sweep from the ken of man every Hearst publication—and little Willie Hoist MUST pay thousands of stockholders 7 per cent interest on millions of borrowed capital. . . . In plain English, the church people put little Willie on the hot spot. . . . To all Hollywood producers, this dicky Hearst turnabout must be refreshing—lightening Willie's whole future depends upon the financial success of the papers practically owned by these stockholders—and not one motion picture unit. Plainly, Hollywood has been harboring a dangerous power. Now it realizes the same. . . . "The editorial indicates that Mr. Hearst is willing to put the power of his newspapers behind the whole SET ON FOOT BY THE LEGION OF DECENCY,"—Rev. Wifrid Parsons, editor of America, Catholic review of the week. . . . The capitals are over the heads of the producers. Not that BEHIND. No churchman is fooled by Willie Hoist. . . . They know him . . . Just now, Mr. Hearst is in Europe, enjoying himself as a good "American husband" should, with his family . . . No doubt the family will have a good time. . . . Perhaps, when he returns to his feudal estate, Sam Simeon, and his numerous gunners—guards, if you please—he will have a few kindly suggestions for his fellow producers—in stead of whacking them on the head with all the force of his many publications . . . Perhaps, instead of publicly attacking them, he will silently work with them to make their product acceptable to the morality crusaders and the public. . . . However, that 7 per cent MUST be met—and what a guy to do? When Willie arrives he should be a very much pleased "American husband."

“In and Out of Focus” by Allan Hersholt

Miss Merkel Shines

TIME—Thursday evening.

PLACED—Fox Wilshire Theatre.

FILE—“Paris Interlude” (preview showing).

In the row ahead of me sits a fashion-ably gowned woman—a woman whom the society editor of any local newspaper likely would refer to as "one of the most popular ma-trons of the Wilshire district." Suddenly she remarks to her companion in a quiet, refined manner, "This is dreadfully tiresome, isn't it?" The friend sighing concurs with her.

In the row behind a hoarse voice expresses an opinion, "This is the swellest pitch I've seen in ages." Someone makes a reply, "Yeah, darn good." A casual glance shows the speakers to be two employees of the Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer publicity department. Thus the "Upper Ten" are bored, while the "Lower Five" emphatically voice their approval!

So far as the "In and Out of Focus" department is concerned, "Paris Interlude" is a rather tedious offering, lacking action and charm. Produced by Lucien Hubbard for Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer, it merits little more than to be considered a cheap, place movie piece as an obvious and artificially complicated melodrama. Its fine treatment, however, has saved the yarn from being an entire failure. Indeed, it is quite good, including Marge Evans, Otto Kruger, Robert Young, Una Merkel and Ted Healy, to vitalize its characters and Edwin L. Marin to give them fairly intelligent direction, depicting the time to life at times. Again, your better judgment you find yourself, to a certain extent, enjoying parts of it.

Una Merkel, that superb comedienne who never disappoints, undoubtedly gives the most delightful performance in the film. Beautiful Marge Evans, always an actress of ease, does clever work in her role. Standing out by reason of her vivacity is the character-ization offered by Otto Kruger. Robert Young, Ted Healy, George Meeker, Louise Henry, Edward Brophy, Bert Roach and Richard Tucker are all excellent. There is a Technicolor show sequence, conceived and executed by Adrian, which probably will interest feminine picture-goers. Everyone, I feel sure, will find Milton Krason's photography stunning.

Harlow Film Sparkles

I feel I must write a few words complimenting the Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer organization on their delightful production, "Born To Be A Kid." Wrought from the charmingly clever Anita Loos-John Emerson story, it is a saucy, daring bit of fun which easily might have been quite shocking; instead it proves to be so diverting that its risque situations are one hundred per cent pure comedy. The preview audience was in high spirit during these moments which flash the danger signal. Bubbling over with bright dialogue and gaiety, the offering unquestionably is one of the best light dramas yet to reach the screen. Not one awkward note mars its smooth, natural quality."

"Born To Be Kissed" is a triumph for the gorgeous, fascinating Jean Harlow. She and Franchot Tone, forming an excellent romantic combination, are assisted adroitly by Lionel Atwill and a cast headed by Kelly, Noell (swell actor) Madison, Alan Mowbray and Hale Hamilton. Jack Conway, who did such a magnificent directorial job on "Viva Villa," again deserves no end of praise for giving us this grand piece of entertainment. It is my earnest hope that the picture will be a box-office winner.

Broadway's "Men In White"

While on my recent Manhattan vacation, the one legitimate stage offering that I was anxious to attend was "Men In White," the Sidney Kingsley Pulitzer Prize play—this, of course, being due to the fact that I had read in numerous theatrical publications how wonderful the presentation was. Previous to my departure for the big city, I viewed Henry Duffy's Hollywood production of this grippingly human drama, which I considered good, and naturally expected the Broadway version to be far superior. On the contrary, it turned out to be rather inferior. In the first place, the character delineations offered by Alexander Kirkland, J. Ed-ward Bromberg and Margaret Barker were not good, each lacking conviction. Then, too, the direction of Lee Strasberg was generally uneven. The production as a whole, in the opinion, was the splendid suspense and sheer authenticity achieved in the operating room scenes, making these moments genuinely absorbing. Mr. Kingsley's play unfolds a deep and rare understanding of the conditions of modern medical practice. Incidentally, this gentleman gives every promise of developing into one of America's most outstanding dramatists.

Death Snatches Two of Our Beloved Workers

The passing of Alec Francis and Harry Pollard within a few hours of each other was indeed a hard blow to filmdom. Both have given much to furthering the interests of this great industry, and we are grieving with their families at this hour of their sorrow, feeling as if they really belonged in our family.

“Jane Eyre”
MONOGRAM COMES FORTH WITH A BRILLIANT PRODUCTION
Charlotte Bronte wrote a classic that was well adapted to the screen by Adele Comandini and skillfully directed by Christy Cabanne. Trem Carr, in charge of production, made a wise choice in selecting Virginia Bruce for the name role. She was lovely, sympathetic and particularly adapted to the part. Colla Clive, Adele Comandini, Paul Muni, Marjorie Rambeau, Beverley Ugalde, Ethel Griffies, Edythe Fellows, Donald Roberts, Clarence Selwyn, Hylda Tyson, Gretta Gould, Claire DuBrey, Edith Kingdon, William Wagner, Jean Darling, Richard Quine and Ann Howard played the other characters in the book with rare understanding. Brilliant photography by Robert Planck, and setting, not mentioned on the credit sheet, perfectly fitted to the time. Monogram rarely disappoints its patrons, but this time they have excelled themselves in trans- ferring a novel to the screen so naturally that one could imagine they were with the people in the book. The critics applauded vigorously at the ending of the film, which should surely demonstrate that audiences everywhere will do likewise.

“Boulevard Stop”
“Boulevard Stop,” annual Pasadena Playhouse review—reason for name unknown—has what is probably the longest first act in stage history. Some members of the audience were so intimidated by it that they failed to wait for the second. They didn’t miss a great deal. Despite brilliant setting and costumes, and good dance routines, this revue by M. Monroe Ward is a flop. It lacks interest, comedy—except for the excellent prize fight take-off—and catchy tunes. Thomas Browne Henry directed the show, and should have known enough to at least have broken it into three acts. Costumes were by Wilma, song direction by Mrs. Pauline Garner, music by Finn Henderson, art direction by Willis Knighton, and dances by Clayton Romler and Collenette. As for the large cast—we had best say they tried hard, and let it go at that, with a small note that Ralph Fried was particularly disappointing throughout.

from the desk of madge kelly ...

“Truly, men gain not much for all their strife!” might well have been the last words of Steve Brady, left with his desolate shipwrecked soul in the weird surroundings of an ancient cliff-dwelling above Canyon Diablo in Northern Arizona, in the story, “Toureguine Matrix,” at the Gateway Theatre last night.

“Toureguine Matrix,” presented by Gateway Players Club, was written by Ruth Haggin Cole, whose “Lovely Lady” won the Los Angeles County Dramatic Association’s annual contest prize. Production staged and directed by Francis Josef Hickson, who also played the part of Padre Tomas with a dignity that is not always present in a role of this sort.

It is indeed a truly new story ... and in my opinion, the characters in this play will find more opportunity for everything in the future. Each actor lived a life of his own ... the drama was intense and gripping in its theme in living in a dream, as it were. In Steve Brady and Estaban, the playwright laid a vibrant soul across the stage in the sheep of Michael Whalen. Mr. Whalen’s performance was superb. Helen Morris as Lydia possesses all the quality and characteristics indispensable to those who would make the stage their work. She not only has beauty, but poise. As a matter of fact, I have never seen so young an actress so at home on a stage. Betty Roadman, as the mother, played an important part and played it well.

Go see this play. You’ll find the genial Mr. Roadman to greet you. The theatre strikes you as some sort of a sanctuary ... long after the final curtain I found myself lingering ... and to the players of this little theatre, I should like to express my thanks for a pleasant time and in the way of encouragement to add, that in these days of miracles, when anything is possible, it may be that anyone of you, or all of you, may develop into the star of today—the rewards are few perhaps, but there is always a satisfying compensation.

“Bolero” a Success at Shrine Civic Auditorium
Presented before a tremendous throng, Ravel’s passionate “Bolero” won great applause from the audience. Though Guskow’s work showed beauty and gracefulfulness, especially throughout the exotic Moorish-Spanish number. A large cast presented “Bolero,” wearing gorgeous costumes of the lavish Turkish court. James Reynolds, Pauline Becker and Manuel Ugalde all did impressive work. Leonard Walker conducted the orchestra very capably. “Bolero” was the first of a series of musical evenings. “Salome” is to follow July 25th.

GUS KAHN SIGNS AT M-G-M
Gus Kahn has just signed on the dotted line for a year’s contract at M-G-M Studios as song writer. Mr. Kahn’s many hits of the past year warrant this new association.

“Mother Knows Best”
There are thousands of mothers in Hollywood who would welcome an opportunity for getting their youngest on the screen. In fact, many of them go out of their way if they even think there is a possible chance of seeing their child on the screen, even for one picture. But not so with Carol Doris Stern’s mother, who is visiting here with her husband, Mr. Frank Stern, chief executive of the Standard Securities Corporation, who has been approached by certain producers to let their ten-year-old daughter take a screen test and possibly start on a cinema career. Someone who heard about this used a very familiar line, “Mother knows best.” She doesn’t mind taking her young and charming daughter to see them make pictures, but as far as locations in Hollywood, have reproduced so that filmland workers can see what a charming little girl she really is, and to think that Mother Stern said “no” emphatically as far as entering upon a screen career.

Jane Cowl to Come to El Capitan Soon
Today Henry Duffy proudly announced that Jane Cowl, one of America’s most distinguished dramatic stage actresses, as the star of Keith Winter’s play, “The Shining Hour,” is to be next attraction at El Capitan Theatre. He will present Miss Cowl in this notable New York and London success directly following the co-starring engagement of Conrad Nagel and Violet Heming in “There’s Always Juliet.”

Mathew Betz is a Good Bet
Mathew Betz, who started his career years ago on the legitimate stage and has played everything from comedy leads to character heavies, and who did equally well on the screen during the silent days and now in the talkies, is proving his versatility by playing in a Warren G. Daisy comedy, and following this by a heavy dramatic part in “Countess of Monte Cristo.”

KING'S CLUB HAS GREATEST VARIETY OF ENTERTAINMENT

Last Club offers the widest variety of entertainment in the West Hollywood strip. For instance, they star Gracie and Charley Herbert, who came here after setting the East afire with their croons,五金. They have headliners on a par with Bing Crosby, and make his place their daily dinner spot, and this, of course, helps to swell the list of new faces that follow the crowd. David Covey, who is associated as owner with Mr. Brandstatter, is all smiles these days, and why not, for they are getting more than their share of the business. For instance, Ye Editor dropped in and met two friends, Lillian (Harris) Barrett and Grace O’Brien, whom he hadn’t seen for some time, and we ask you, what could be sweeter than this?

FRANK SEBASTIAN IS ANGLING FOR SOME NEW TALENT

Frank Sebastian proposes to bring the Berry Bros., Sunshine Sammy and Valley Snow, all known as headliners on a par with the best of colored talent. You may see them within the next couple of weeks, when the Cotton Club head man will change his present Broomfield and Gereely Revue. Leon Herri- ford’s Orchestra, featuring Lionel Hampton, ace trap drummer, continues to click in a big way. Mr. Sebastian has engaged Harry Miller, well known cafe man, to aid him. Otto E. Brooks is still the head waiter, with a fine crew at his command.

FLO ASH PROVES TO BE
HOLLYWOOD STABLES

The cause and reason for the big business at the Hollywood Stables these nights can well be laid to Flo Ash, the blonde beauty of a fan dance that is making the natives sit up and take notice, her Bolero fan dance particularly being a K.O. In fact, it could feature any dancing program. Aside from Miss Ash is the De Vere Sisters, Janet Jordan, Joe Williams, Esther Silvas and Lee and Davis, with Cecil Frye and his Orchestra furnishing the music. The Hollywood Stables is in a class all by itself. It is the most unusual atmosphere and is located right in the heart of Hollywood at Cahuenga and Sunset.

GEORGE REDMAN PLEASURES
AT SHIP CAFE

George Redman and his Orchestra are still Knocking ‘em for a goal with their dance and dinner nights at the Ship Cafe. Tommy Jacobs, sponsor of this play-spot, knows and appreciates good music, and when he reopened The Ship no one else but George Redman, who played for the airport gardens for him, would satisfy him or his patrons. The show is up to the usual high standard offered here. Sunday evening is celebrity night and usually brings out a fine crowd.

Cafe De Pare is the family place opposite Westlake Park in Los Angeles. This thought is foremost in the mind of Pete Dokos, who runs the place and he sees to it that the whole family is entertained on his place if they care to do so. The show, too, is along this line. Last week’s bill is again held over, and Merle Carbon and his Orchestra furnish the music. Assisting Mr. Dokos is John Alexander, Joe Pirrone and Jim Frank. They look after the welfare of the guests. According to New York reports, "The World Moves On" is okayed for general release. This picture is clicking at the Criterion, and Charles Bas- tin, twelve-year-old boy actor, does a clever bit of acting in this Fox opus.

JACKIE SEARLE MAY APPEAR IN "LITTLE MEN"

Jackie Searle, as soon as he finishes in "Peck's Bad Boy," for Sol Lesser, is slated, we learned, to sign up for "Little Men," which Ken Goldsmith is to produce as a special.

SPENCER CHARTERS VERY BUSY

Having finished in the "Million Dollar Ransom" at the Big U Studios, Spencer Charter has been assigned for "Wake Up and Dream" on the same lot.

FINISHES

Carlyle Moore, Jr., has finished an important engagement in "Transatlantic Merry-Go-Round," for Reliance, with work to follow, according to present plans. Young Moore, who has thirty stage productions to his credit, and is from a prominent theatrical family, is considered a big "bet." He is called a most natural actor.

GOING TO NEW YORK

Patsy Kelly is to leave very soon for New York City for a six-weeks vacation. She will visit her parents and take in a lot of shows.

HARRY CARR ON CENSORSHIP

"If there is anything in that picture destructive of morals, my eth- nical nature must be very coarse.

EDTHEY FELLOWS

SURPRISES WITH THREE SONGS AT BENEFIT

Little Edythe Fellows last Friday night sang three songs at a benefit performance at the Exposition Park Theatre to tremendous applause. She was voted the greatest of dramatic child singers in the talkies. She is soon to appear on the radio broadcast Richard Dix as a booster program for "The Family Man" picture, in which she plays her greatest screen part.

KEPT BUSY

A clever youngster who is in demand is little Shirley Coates, who just completed work in "Mrs. Wiggs of the Cabbage Patch" and in "Now and Forever," both Paramount productions. Shirley will be seen in "The World Moves On," which is to be released shortly.

SPORTS

Olympic Auditorium

Slapsie Maxie Rosenbloom, when the bell rang for the fourth round last Tuesday night, had a lead over Lee Ramage; but on his way to the ring Ramage peppeled up and smothered Maxie in the ninth and tenth, and Referee George Blake gave it to the San Die- gano. It was a battle from the start. Until that fatal eighth, Maxie looked like a winner on any count. When he was worked, cuffed Ramage with all the pokes in the book, and the big crowd certainly enjoyed the thrill. But Maxie works in spurts. Between those spurts Ramage reached Maxie's body with a lot of stiff pokes, and Maxie, not in great shape, feels them down below. Blake's decision was well received.

Tony Canzela, Mexican heavy, stopped Tony Sousa in the fourth. Leon Kelly, entertaining negro, after being floored by Bill Thomas, got up and flattened his opponent, all in the first. Manuel Victoria decisioned Ray Kayser. Angus Morgan-Cannonball Green box in the opener. NEXT TUESDAY: Young Peter Jackson meets Ritchie Mack of Dallas, the lad who took two decisions from Kid Az- teca. The Tom Gallery-Carnation Lon Dario team seem headed for a big shot with Art Lasky and Steve Hams.

Hollywood Legion Stadium

Tony Herrera, lanky Mexican boxer, decisioned Manuel Villa last week—but nobody cared. It was one of Charlie McDonald's exceedingly rare bad deals. The boys tried, but they were not up to Hollywood's grade. Baby Palmore won from Young Speedy. Tommy McGough decisioned Jimmy Prewitt. Tony Roccaforte took the nod from Vincent Martinez. Tully Corro beat Sol Hernandez and Young Bud Taylor stopped Terry Roberts. This Thursday night or Friday, Tei Ken and Young Tommy rematch. This one will more than make up for last week. These two little sluggers stand the fans on their feet. Their last go was a whale of a fight. Don't miss it—it is sure to be a sell-out.

Legion Ascot Speedway

Rex Mays, youthful speed demon, fresh from a successful campaign in the East, thrilled 8,000 onlookers at the new Legion Ascot Speedway last Wednesday night when he annexed the Mays trophy, winning the half-a-mile race over Frank Wearn, while Ray Bixley came in third with Red Clark and George Conner holding forth and fifth places respectively. The safety of the new track was proved several times, when Wearn and Conner both went into spins, emerging without any serious mishap. Boycott Drive Will Help Real Actors
This Should Be Greatest Season For Short Subjects

Sex Pictures to Make Way for Dramatic Stories

By HARRY BURNS

The day of the real actor is here. From now on the studios will have to employ real actors, particularly veterans of the screen who can portray living characters who have real and true emotions rather than those who helped to put over sex plays, leg shows and a lot of "hot-cha" worthless antics which have brought the screen into disrepute with the finer people of the civilized world. The producers now realize that they will have to scrap a lot of stories that they figured would bring the shackles into the box office, and produce stories of a more wholesome and family nature with the punch lines spoken by real actors. So, whatever blesses one way blesses all, and we say let us go on with the show, giving them a real clean one from now on, and then watch this boycott of pictures die a natural death.

BLESSED EVENT
IN DECEMBER

Clara Bow, we learned from Rex Bell, her friend husband, is expecting a blessed event in December.

PLAYS IN JOE E. BROWN PICTURE

Beloved Lottie Williams plays Joe E. Brown's sweetheart's mother in his latest feature, that he just finished for Warner Bros.

PLENTY BUSY

Bobby Watson is plenty busy these days. He no more than finished in "The Hide Out" than he was signed for "Death On the Diamond," both at M-G-M.

Renee Whitney

Finishing a contract as a featured player that lasted eighteen months at Warner Bros., First National Studios, Renee Whitney has joined the free lance players and is right in line to do greater things in some of our best talkies. Miss Whitney has proved herself a very versatile actress who migrated from the Mack Sennett bawdy of stars to the more serious photo plays, and looks like she is destined to head for stardom before the end of this year.

Censorship Turmoil Will Help Create a New Demand

The short reel producers' prayers for ways and means to create new interest for products has at last been answered by the present boycott censorship drive that has become the talk of the world, for it will force exhibitors to either use more short subjects or return to the use of prologues and reviews as added attractions to their shows. The flush productions are too expensive in most cases, hence the day of the single and two reelers will be with us again, and some of our famous producers whose names in this field have been dying so rapidly will once more blossom out and become a part of this great industry, and will help the famous funmakers who have been used only as comedy relief in feature productions.

Let us bring back into the fold such men as Al Christie and Mack Sennett, who did a great deal of honest work in helping build up this industry to its present standing in the eyes of the world.

GRAYCE HALE
IN "PAN" PIX

Grayce Hale is playing in "The Party's Over," showing this week at the Pantages Theatre in Hollywood.

"DAD" PASSES AWAY

William "Dad" Zanfetta passed away Thursday at 11:10 p.m., at Keaster Hospital, Pasadena, just as we locked up this week's issue. We are too sad to say any more.

Harry Burns.
The Daddy of 'Em All

Max Factor

The dean and daddy of all cosmetics is Max Factor, who is pictured above in his laboratory at the Max Factor Make-Up Studios. According to facts and figures that make up cinema history, Max Factor gave us the first make-up to give natural tones to the skin in 1920; the first perspiration-proof liquid body make-up in 1923; the first under-water make-up in 1926; the perfection of Panchromatic make-up in 1933; the first Sunburn-Waterproof make-up in 1929; and Satin Smooth make-up in 1934. What a background of achievements! It is indeed a mighty parade of progress, and worthy of a place in the cinema hall of fame, so that others may try, in their chosen daily duties, to do their share toward placing the motion picture industry before the world by their accomplishments in as favorable a light as has this man and the institution that he so ably heads in its spacious quarters on Highland Avenue, in the heart of Hollywood.

The Barretts of Wimpole Street

Should Be One of the Sensations of the Year

Charles Laughton once more takes the order of merit for the best work as the father who never lets his family get the best of him. Maureen O'Sullivan ran him a close second as the daughter who defies her father. A really splendid picture, with intelligent screen play by Ernest Vajda, Claudia West and Donald Ogden Stewart. Most of you know the story from the play that ran in New York for a long time. It concerns the Victorian age, when the head of the house was a regular tyrant, and in this instance a crippled daughter falls in love with the poet Browning. Norma Shearer plays the difficult role of this daughter splendidly, with Frederic March playing the poet with discrimination, making an ideal character out of the part. Katherine Alexander, Ralph Forbes, Una O'Connor, who, by the way, got a great deal of comedy as the servant girl character one of those snipping kind; Marie Clayton, Ian Wolfe, Frederick Munier and Leo Carroll played the other roles beautifully. The direction of Sidney Franklin is of the highest order, with the loveliest photography by William Daniels. Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer Studios have produced some of the highest class films shown to theatregoers, and this one will rank with the best.

Mitzi Green Resumes Her Screen Career in "Trans-Atlantic Merry-Go-Round"

Returning to the screen in her first "grown-up" role, Mitzi Green has been added to the all-star cast of "Trans-Atlantic Merry-Go-Round," the new Edward Small production for United Artists. Mitzi, now sixteen years of age, says she is definitely through with "kids" parts. A child star in vaudeville, she made her screen debut at the age of eight. When she left Hollywood to "grow up" she had nearly a score of pictures to her credit. Reliance's "Trans-Atlantic Merry-Go-Round" is being directed by Benjamin Stoloff, with musical numbers, written by Richard Whiting, and dance routines under the direction of Larry Ceballos.

Natalie Kalmus to Paris — to supervise the color direction on a series of Technicolor pictures for which will be made in the French capital, but Natalie promises to be back to Hollywood in the Fall, as RKO needs her services badly after the brilliant color picture she delivered recently.

That Well Known Beauty Expert — Mala Rubenstein, is leaving us on a six months' tour of the United States. After telling the small town folks how to be beautiful, Mala will once more give us a chance to get ready for the Winter season and before the party invitations come in.

M-G-M Stock Players — will give the residents of Hollywood and Los Angeles a treat when they produce "All Good Americans" at the Music Box Theatre under the skilful direction of Maurice Revine. A rare treat awaits all of you on July 26 and 27 when the show opens.

That Bad Man — Robert Gleckner, was signed to a good role in "Marie Gallante." This new face to the screen is quite handsome, and six feet tall. He should be as popular as any of the other boys when his first picture is shown to the theatres of the United States in the Fall.

It Takes a Week — to grow the funny whiskers on the otherwise manly face of that great comic, Andy Clyde. You know all those funny pictures featuring "Pop Martin." Those ferocious Scotties of Andy's keep a-harbing at him as soon as he starts putting on the spinach.

Walking the Baby — was what woke up George Stevens, director at RKO, a few weeks ago, when his fellow living over him. After listening intently and noting the heavy and steady tread of the patient father, George took a new pair of shoes to have them broken in. The tram, tram, tram of the baby parade was just right.

Watching George Brent Work — caused the executives as well as the casting director to consider him for second place on the next Greta Garbo picture. Of course, the first lead goes to Herbert Marshall, who is getting to be one of the popular boys on the screen these days.

The Commodores Furnish Fine Music at Club Ballyhoo

Frank Hanfner has "The Commodores" offering what is a very satisfying musical program for the dances in between the three shows nightly, and the boys are making quite a hit. Look for Walton on the top bill of night life clubs. He is introducing Lorraine and Packler, international dancers, Myra Mason, and that very funny and clever Janice Capon, star of the Shim Sham Revue.
Ken Goldsmith Supervises for Universal

One of the long awaited pictures of the year, at least to the Latin-American public, will be produced at the Talisman Studios on Sunset Boulevard, starting July 26th. Moe Sackin is the producer, and has gathered around him for this entry some of the greatest names in the film capital. The name of the play is “Lucky Accident,” which is being adapted to the screen by Rene Horga. The screen play is being written by the team of Charles Brackett and Dorothy Parker, with Paul W. Seaton another name added, as well as the services of Luther Reed, who have gotten together what everybody acknowledges one of the strongest scripts read in a long time. The cast has been carefully picked, with Jose Crespo, Mara Maris, Anita Campello, Miho Aagila, Paul Ellis, Carlos Villar and that famous singer of grand opera, Andreas de Segurura. Moe Sackin and his famous agent will guide the way to success.

RKO-Radio to Produce “The Three Musketeers” in Technicolor

RKO-Radio Pictures announces that in association with Pioneer Pictures it will produce “The Three Musketeers” in the new Technicolor process. This is the process used so successfully in the production of the short subject, “La Cucaracha,” which Pioneer Pictures recently made and which RKO will soon release. John Hoy Whitman, president of Pioneer Pictures, has just completed arrangements for the production of “The Three Musketeers” with J. B. McGown and R. B. Kahane, representing RKO-Radio Pictures. Kenneth McGowan, who produced “La Cucaracha,” will also produce “The Three Musketeers” and Robert Edmond Jones, who designed “La Cucaracha,” will design the Dumas epics. Frank Lederer will head the all-star cast which is now being assembled. Present plans are that the picture will go into production about October 1 and be ready for release about January 1, 1948. This means that RKO-Radio and Pioneer Pictures will jointly produce the first feature in the new Technicolor process. The soft beauty of this tri-color process is already known to audiences by its use in the Walt Disney “Silly Symphonies.” Until “La Cucaracha,” it has never been used under actual production conditions. The success of “La Cucaracha,” the result of many months of experimentation with lighting and technical problems, has paved the way for the possibility of a feature length film in the same medium.

Hollywood Favors Harry Baine

Hollywood celebrities figure largely in the week’s political news. Joseph M. Scheck was elected vice-chairman of the C. C. Young-for-Governor Campaign Committee and Otto K. Olesen was made treasurer of the same organization. Supervisor Harry M. Baine was yesterday endorsed for reelection by the 23 Club, famous Los Angeles Masonic organization. In notifying Supervisor Baine of the action of the Club, President Otto K. Olesen said: “You can expect the support of myself and the entire membership of the 23 Club. We are all very proud of the record you have made as supervisor and feel sure that with another term you will demonstrate your particular ability to fully qualify your slogan, ‘Business Principles in Government.’ The 23 Club is very proud of you.”

Frank Strayer to Direct Dorothy Wilson in “A Girl Must Live”—Invincible Production

Taking another step upward on the ladder of fame. Dorothy Wilson, pretty young secretary, who was recently elevated to film leads at RKO Studios, today became a full-fledged star when she was signed by Maury Cohen, producer of Invincible Pictures, to star in “A Girl Must Live,” to be produced immediately. Invincible Pictures are operated by Charles Starrett and Big Boy Williams have been signed to appear opposite her.

With Messrs. Bacheller and Cohen, heads of the Invincible-Canfield Pictures, in the East, the production of the present picture is in the hands of Melville (Buddy) Shyer, production manager. This is just another sign of the ability of this youthful executive and the confidence that his bosses have in him and the rest of the organization.
Moving Movie Throng by John Hall

Panasses, panasses—who's got a panasse?... Hundreds are offered harried Hollywood producers every week... What to do? What to do?—yell a section of the trade paper... Spend a million dollars, bet... Another section... Sixty million Protestants: twenty million Catholics, and about six million Jewish people back their church leaders in their demand for MORAL pictures... How can any group of business men fight an army of that size?... If a fund of one million dollars is raised for the purpose of fighting the churches, WHO WILL GET THE MONEY? And WHAT WILL THE SPENDERS GET... Filmograph's answer points the ONE way: CLEAN PICTURES—and keep your million dollars with which to make MORE MORALY CLEAN pictures... If you do, you can LAUGH at the world... Going to the other extreme—Polyanna pictures—you will LOSE your money... This course is a nose-bleed contest to spit out illusions... Men ALWAYS turn away from the SIMPLE course... Their passions super-plant REASON, and simple answers are forgotten... Believe it: there is NO SPITE in the pictures... Men who lead the churchmen leading this reform movement... He who hints at prejudice or spite is no FRIEND of this industry... Completely disarm all criticism by making MORALLY CLEAN pictures... That's the answer—and the ONLY answer... Don't waste your money on costly campaigns... If you WANT to waste money, waste it on making the kind of pictures that will receive the endorsement of the churches... Shun it—unless some of the present champions are needed by some of the over-angry producers to fatten the box-office receipts by resorting to produce certain pictures that were salacious and unfit for the younger generation to view and which helped disrupt the morals of the elders who craved this sort of entertainment.

Child Play

The way some of the censorship boards of the good old U.S.A. are lambasting the motion picture industry reminds us in a good measure of a lot of children with a new toy going through the antics of child play, for they really don't know what it's all about and are in most cases taking hold of the wrong end in order to get into the picture business so that it will conform with their ideals and morals. Hollywood has spent billions of dollars to focus the eyes of the world upon the art of making motion pictures which entertain the world, and for any one body of individuals to think they can come in and reconstruct, tear down and remodel something that has taken the producers, years and years to build up to its present state of efficiency, is the most laughable gesture we have ever seen perpetrated during this civilized age. Those who are really willing to work with the producers of our motion pictures will readily find an open door so that they can enter with their honest opinions. A good deal of food will come from the present controversy, and that was reached by some of the over-angry producers to fatten the box-office receipts by resorting to produce certain pictures that were salacious and unfit for the younger generation to view and which helped disrupt the morals of the elders who craved this sort of entertainment.

In and Out of Focus” by Allan Hersholt

An Effective Film

Based on the best selling book "Big Moment," an incredible true story of old-fashioned yarn by Walter Hackett, this is a solemnly unsuccessful comedy-drama. As utterly devoid of cinematic distinction as anything I have seen in the past year, it never should (and undoubtedly never will) be classified as more than a very mediocre offering in the program group. My frank belief is that its absurdly childish and generally clumsy action simply cannot avoid being considered an insult to the intelligent spectator's mentality. The picture probably will please in the great open spaces where neighborhood theatres flourish, but it is far too obvious and unbelievable for the bigger cities.

Slim Summervelle and ZaSu Pitts, seen in the leading roles, rather fail to register. The narrative seems sufficient enough material for the two stars, but as it offers them numerous opportunities to put their particular type of humor across in their own ways. Still, in no more than two or three sequences are they even moderately effective. It is my opinion that neither Mr. Summerville nor Miss Pitts ever will be capable of carrying a feature picture. Perhaps the most successful portrayal in the film, from the standpoint of audience response, is that given by Mr. William Gaxton, the noted Broadway stage star. Although Gaxton has a tendency to over-play, a bright future in Hollywood must be anticipated for him. Kay Johnson, who never fails to be genuinely natural, does thoroughly fine work. Bruce Cabot, Ralph Morgan, Julie Haydon, Huntley Gordon and Tamara Geva give acceptable performances.

The direction of James Cruze is more or less conventional, due, no doubt, to the fact that the trite story offered him little opportunity to be original. Incidentally, Mr. Cruze, considered one of our better directors, has been a victim of inadequate material for the past two or three years.

Memorable Masterpieces

Owing to a shortage of preview critiques for the "In and Out of Focus" column this week, I was in desperate need of something to fill space with. Suddenly an idea appeared on the horizon and I selected the most memorable motion pictures I've seen during my not-so-many years of picture-going. Swell. That'll be a clinch, I thought. So I began, but—it proved to be a good deal more difficult than I had imagined. Truthfully, it required an entire afternoon of racking my brain. Anyway, here they are as I remember them:

"The Big Parade" (M-G-M).
"Hell's Angels" (Hughes).
"Seventh Heaven" (Fox).
"All Quiet On the Western Front" (Universal).
"Cimarron" (RKO-Radio).
"Wings" (Paramount).
"Trader Horn" (M-G-M).
"The Crowd" (M-G-M).
"Little Women" (RKO-Radio).
"Treasure Island" (M-G-M).
"The Dawn Patrol" (F. N.).
"Scarface" (Hughes).
"The Circus" (Chaplin).
"The Way of All Flesh" (Paramount).
"Cavalcade" (Fox).
"Shanghai Express" (Paramount).

Social Notes

Edward G. Robinson, one of Hollywood's most popular hosts, entertained at an informal stag dinner last week. His many prominent guests included Harold Lloyd, Maurice Chevalier, Jesse Lasky, Dick Powell, Jimmy Cagney, Pat O'Brien, Frank Capra, Chester Morris, Otto Kruger, Harry Lachman, Irwin Colb, Dudley Digges, Frank and Ralph Morgan, Jimmy Gleason, Jack Benny, Ernest Vajda, Frank Craven, Noel Madison, Joe Cawthorne, Edmond Breese, Ben Glazer and Jean (Daisy) Harrar. It was a most delightful evening... Thomas Meighan, Leon Errol, Lyle Talbot, Eddie Sutherland, Sam Cowles, Esther Muir and others glimpsed at the Cocoanut Grove with the Danziger group. One couple that won Europe's "Dancing Lady" contest do their stuff. They, of course, were accompanied by Gus Armahn's fine orchestra... Mother Hersholt gave a grand party in honor of Dad Hersholt's birthday last Thursday evening... The Paul Sloanes, the Edward G. Robinsons, the Edwin Schallertts, the Jerry Meyers, Lilian Elvis, the Harry Hhes, Raile Harris, Max Ree and Bodil Rosing were among the guests.

Paul Page finishes his part in “Have a Heart,” an M-G-M production directed by David Butler.
Wyne Gibson Offers Her Greatest Performance in “I Give My Love,” Excellently Directed by Karl Freund

The very depths of the soul of Wyne Gibson were brought to the surface in Victor Bann’s “A Perfect Murder,” and handled and dialogued by Doris Anderson, as she played the starring role of the unhappy artist’s model who struggles for the love of a worthless man, only to lose him. Then finding the man that she really loves, she loses him at a time when she needs him most. At the final fade-out, when they are brought happily together, you have to admit that this great actress has just given you her greatest portrayal, and that Karl Freund, who directed the picture, has likewise scored this victory by the careful manner that he treats a very dangerous situation, particularly during these hectic censorship days. Paul Lukas’ role suits him to a nicety, he neither over or under plays the part of the true lover. John Darrow turns in a “heavy” piece of acting that doesn’t harm him. Sam Hardy does his best, but is bit around as Baby Doe. At last he has been released from Hollywood to all too long, but we are glad to know that “Her Majesty the Widow” is still playing to good houses. In answer to so many inquiries, “Where is Warren Kerigian?” your writer dropped in on him the other evening—he hasn’t changed a bit—handsome, jovial, and with same appeal as before he deserted the film for a life of ease. More intimacies next week.

Thursday evening, eight-thirty, curtain up for Edward Clark and his Academy Players presenting “Every Minute Counts,” a three-act comedy by Milton Herbert Gropper and a one-act “Mediterraneans” by the famous “The Viper’s Fang” by Sydney Boniface. All players students of the Academy. However, one notices a showmanship touch; almost, Mr. Edward Clark, of course, has a marvelous background, having been author, actor, producer and director in a lifetime of stage and screen work. All players show promise. We especially enjoyed Mr. Clark’s surprise number—little Richard Godino, four years old, is as good as Baby Lero. Richard’s rendition of “I Only A Longing Cowboy” took the house by storm.

Happy Landing

PLOT ACTION FROM MONOGRAM STUDIOS, MAKES DECIDED HIT

Here is action with a capital “A,” as the audience was busy following the players readily, moving from place to place and always with a great deal of comedy dialogue to help things along. Ray Walker plays the lead in this one, and his playing personality not only sets the youngsters going, but is the older ones rally to his smile. Jaqueline Wells is a welcome addition with her beauty and grace, in the feminine interest. There was only one trouble with the girl, and that is, she almost loved both men at the same time. William Farnam, Noah Beery, Hyman Cooper, Morgan Conway, Donald Reed, Billy Irwin, Ruth Romaine, Eddie Featherstone and Gertrude Sipmple, were the others who helped the story move with success and plenty of action, coupled with snappy dialogue and good story. All about Uncle Sam’s Border Patrol. This was cleverly supervised by Paul Malvern and ably directed by Robert North Bradbury. The audience liked this one, that should go over big with those who prefer their screen fare full of thrills, snappy lines and a fast cast of seasoned players.

The Virginian

The Pasadena Community Playhouse opened its summer series of revivals with Victor Jory as “The Virginian,” and Owen Wister’s old frontier drama has made a substantial hit with enthusiastic audiences. Well staged and splendidly cast, the play still holds enough drama and comedy, good theatre and punch to put many a modern masterpiece to shame. The role of the Virginian was tailored to fit Victor Jory, and no one could have done more with it than he has with this production. Then too, the fine costumes he has been given. Mill Stone made a very decided impression on the audience as “Steve.” Verna Hillie was good as the schoolmistress. Among the cowboys, William Moore, Anthony Russ, Lee W. Jarchow and Peter King were particularly fine. The play was directed and given a modern touch by Byron Kay Foulger. Much of its success is due to him and to the striking yet easily changed settings of Willis Knight. The “Virginian” promises to be one of the Playhouse’s more popular productions, and is one of which they may justly be proud.

Bride of Sulu

JESSE GOLDBERG COMES ALONG WITH NOVELTY FROM PHILIPPINES

Authentic scenes of the rites and ceremonies of the several tribes residing on some of the islands of the Pacific, coupled with a love story that concerns the daughter of the royal house, and a commoner. The Exploration Pictures Corporation has given to the screen the seldom visited places, and they show the weird dances, as well as the queer wedding ceremonies. James Gilbert wrote the screen play, which John Nelson directed, with a narration by Gayne Whitman that explains the peculiar story. If this is a sample of what this new company can turn out, let us have more of their adventures.

Actor’s Workshop Theatre Staged Good Show

“Six of One,” a comedy of bad manners staged at the Actor’s Workshop Theatre three nights this week, wasn’t really a bad play at all. The original written by Herb Sterne and Rachael Marshall. Theme of story and dialogue very sophisticated, with some lines that wouldn’t hardly get by the censors if it were made into a film. Miss Winifred Greenwood takes the top spot, and really proved a hundred per cent trouper. Others in the cast included Paul Duggan, Evelyn Wright, Jack Givens, Carl Stepling, Frances Brachetto, Jane Thornton, Ralph Malone, Roy Chosas and Edward Chester.

AMBLASSADOR LIDO OFFERS

FRANK SEBASTIAN RAINS BROOMFIELD-GREELEY SHOW

FRANK SEBASTIAN has so much faith in LeRoy Broomfield and Aurora Greeley, who are producing those wonder- ful plays that he has decided to wait a while before he considers bringing in any new talent from New York City. In fact, Thursday night the new Broomfield and Greeley revue, which carries the “Bolero la Creole” and “Tantalito” numbers, is the greatest show of its kind ever staged in Sebastian’s Cotton Club, which has been operating ten years. The show up to date is by the producers, and the drummers, the players, and the vocalists. Eddie Anderson, Johnny Taylor, Dudley Dickerson, Jacques Rutledge, entertainers de luxe, Octavia Sumler, Martha Ritchie, Alice Key, the sensational Four Dancing Corves, the finest samba and dancing Creole chorus in the most daring numbers ever attempted, and to top it all off, Leon Herrfeld and his Orchestra, featuring Lionel Hampton, the greatest color trap drummer, put on some rhythm dance numbers that are knockouts. Let you say, Ray Rae is the little cigarette girl. In the Casino you will find an entirely different bit of diversion in Paul Kos- holff, who for two years has won many friends with his crooning at the Paris Inn Cafe and over KFAC, is singing nightly here. Paul is accompanied on the piano by Don Swander. They make the ideal pair for Boys and Girls. Mr. Kosholff should eventually find his way into the talkies, for he has a nice personality and should photograph well, and as far as his singing goes, you won’t hear anything better for the musical comedies on stage or screen.

JOHNNIE WALKER, who runs a nite spot in Santa Paula, which carries his name, was a visitor over the week-end in Hollywood. He dropped into Myra Mason’s house party Tuesday evening.

SARDI’S IS MEETING PLACE OF FILMLAND’S FINEST

The stars of today and yesterday have never lost sight of Eddie Brandy- statter, who has served them for many years. He knows how to cater to their appetites. Right now he is doing himself proud at Sardi’s, where, in association with David Covey, he is after his many friends day and night.

CLEVER TEAM

The Murray Sisters, versatile entertainers, know their stuff when it comes to harmonizing. These two gals are Studs—full grown and have spots in them, and are very popular with patrons. Kate is the brunette, Vanegi is the blonde.

KAY KYSER TO BE HONORED BY SOUTHERN FRIENDS AT MIRAMAR

All Southern Night will be celebrated in the Terrace Room of the Miramar Hotel in Santa Monica next Sunday evening, July 21, with all Hollywood stars and social celebrities who hail from below the Mason-Dixon gathering to mark the occasion with Kay Kyser and his "band from the Carolines," featuring Eddie Adams, that popular blues singer. Among those who have made reservations for the affair are Una Merkel, Dorothy Sebastian, John Gilbert, Sam Levene, Jacqueline Strahl and Blackmon Gunn. Kay Kyser will tax the seating capacity of this seashore spot for the "celeb." We saw Lee Tracy entertaining Dr. Jewell and Fabe Hardy with Mr. and Mrs. Grant Withers; Monroe Osweley, Allie Wimbrel, Dick Powell, M. C. Loewe, Sam Wolf, Matty Brooks, Sally Blane, Polly Ann Young, Al King, who is the future groom of Jane Farnham's niece, and the latter's wife, Lowell Sherman and Geneva Mitchell, Barry Trivers, Mrs. Buckley, George Sorel, May Wood, Ed Fitzpatrick, Mr. and Mrs. George O'Brien, Nick Stuart, Carol Lofter, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Murphy, Bill Ray, Robert Warwick, Phil Berg, Leila Hyams, Walter Kane, Mr. and Mrs. Cosmo Kyrell Belwe, Stella Rita, Dr. Leon Lazar, Jimmy Grier, Mr. and Mrs. O'Leary, Dr. Tames and Missus and some friends, Mr. and Mrs. Edmund Beeze, Virginia Dabney, Dixie Martin, Julia Laster, Heiney Fink and oodles of others. Gene Strall is maitre de hotel in charge.

J. C. FLIPPEN MAKES MANY NEW FRIENDS

At the EL REY CLUB

Ray Hallor has his eyes on signing up the right kind of talent for the El Rey Club, for he is offering J. C. Flippen as his star attraction at this club, where the best people in town break bread and enjoy meeting their friends at the El Rey over noon and tea hours of the morning. Mr. Flippen is a smart entertainer, and has a list of songs that are second to none. What's more, he is willing to put 'em over at any time and hour. Every night is a banner one at this swanky club. J. C. is accompanied by a musical trio that knows its rhythm. If you can drop in at the El Rey at a time when they have a musical group in residence you can get in—you will bear us out that it is the high spot of the places in the Sunset Boulevard belt, and all because the genial host knows his biz, and Mary, the maitre de hotel, knows those who belong to the club, and what they like to eat and drink during an evening's get-together with their families and friends.

CAESAR'S IN NEW LOCATION

The host of friends that became acquainted with Caesar's when they were located in Hollywood will be glad to know that they are opening shortly on Beverly Boulevard near Fairfax. Patrons will be assured the same excellent cuisine and service that made this place so popular.

GUS ARNHEIM DRAWS SOUTHLAND'S MAESTROS TO COCONUT GROVE

It is an even money bet that every maestro in and around Los Angeles who can get away from his own work has journeyed over to the Coconut Grove to study what Gus Arnheim and his aggregation have at their command that is winning so much applause and praise from those who are wearing a path to the very doors of the Ambassador Hotel amusement center. Old Night Hawk keeps hand shaking folks here nightly. Just as an example, we ran into the following people the other night: Patricia Ellis, Nat Finston, Leo Kolan, Betty Farness, Col. Jason Joy, Bert Wheeler, Mack Gordon and Harry Ravel, Alice Faye, Bruce Cabot, Tuffy Gannon plugging some new songs, Mort Ruby doing the same for Jane Silman, "Music In My Heart." Sally Blake, Maureen O'Sullivan and John Farrow. We could go on and on, but what is the use? We do want to tell you that Gene Austin and his Boys Monday night at this spot as an added attraction to the Gus Arnheim Orchestra, and Gene and the boys will goal the cash customers, like they have never before been entertained. To most of the Arnheim entertainers are the dancing mediums, John and Edna Torrence, the popular Jimmy Newell, the Three Downey Sisters, Maxine Tappan and Mary Wood, still holding down their gigits in flite fettle and to much applause nightly. B.C. Frank is up at Lake Arrowhead and we miss his smiling face and presence. Jimmy Manos and his real de luxe band and Billy Thies, are looking after the guests in real Coconut Grove.

Cafe de Paree changes show and artists

Pete Dokos, at the Cafe De Paree, has signed a new dancing team, Dorothy and Neil, to replace Modie and Le Maux, who depart Sunday night for New York City. Ken Wilmurt, the M.C., is closing within a week to go to Shanghai. He will be replaced by some one equally as well known. The rest of the show remains intact, with Russ Cantor, Ruth Velsher, Cathlyn Bassett and others. This dance and dance spot offers business men a chance to enjoy themselves also Monday and Wednesday afternoons, along with every night except Sunday.

NIGHT HAWK

JIMMIE GRIER ADDS PLENTY OF LIFE TO BILTMORE SHOW

Maestro Jimmie Grier, who heads his own orchestra at the Biltmore Bowl, is the life of the party, as the saying goes, for it is his individual efforts that adds so much life to the musical program and shows which is the best in town at this time. Old Night Hawk visited the Bowl for the first time Tuesday evening and enjoyed every bit of it. We started out by saying hello to Baron Long, whom we haven't talked to in years, as he put it. Our meeting made him think back to the good old Vernon days when Night Hawk was Tom McCarry's right hand man at the fight arena. Getting back to this spot, it is the nicest laid out cafe in the downtown district. Jimmie Grier's musical program wins a big hand from the best folks gathered to make the opening night a success. The lovely Mrs. Grier, who is a star, who does an artistic dance, with the veils and everything, including Gershwin's Rhapsody in Blue number, shes a great bit. Mlle. Villon, the sensational soft dancer (dressed up and with color lights) voces 'em. Joaquin Garay hasn't an equal in his song renditions, and stopped the show. Linda Lee, the blues singer, went down with the towns. Hank Brown and Hali, knockout comedians, kept 'em all roaring all through their act. During the intermission Millie Shry sang and played sweetly, Betty Roth crooned to much applause, as did Harry Foster and Dick Webster, while Douglas Evans acted as M. C. in a very capable manner. In fact, he is the KFI-NBC announcer for the Jimmie Grier-Biltmore Bowl broadcasts. Get a load of these old timers who look after your welfare here: Fred Blau, manager, Jack Barker, head waiter; aides, Jerry O'Connell, Hans Stieber and Jimmy Agreecia. In the Salon Aperitivo you will find Julius Klein playing the sweetest music on his marimba box. Jimmie Grier never was any better than he and orchestra are right now. Pay the Bowl a visit.

SORRY

In our review of "Broadway Lover," produced at the Writers Club, the name of Don Brody was omitted. We are happy to announce that we have learned that Mr. Brody after carefully rearranging the script, was personally in charge of the direction.

"Known from Movieland to London's Strand"
Hollywood Legion Stadium

Those two little gamblers, Young Tommy and Joe Tie Ken, sold out the Stadium last week—and gave the fans another thrilling slugfest from the first going to the end. Referee Larry McGrath’s draw decision seemed fair. After such a great battle, ending practically neck and neck, the fifty-fifty decision was a reward to both boys. They boxed it. It certainly was one great bout. Ray Acosta beat the tough Billy Bogg: Tony Chavez decided Baby Nationalista; Ray Campe beat Tully Carvo, who was off form. Manuel Ponce-Louis Carranza, a sizzling draw; Johnny Gonzalez took the opener from Walter Vaughn. This week: Tough, hard-hitting Bob Olin, twice winner over Bob Godwin, meets Abe Feldman, New York heavy. This will be seen, between two very big sluggers and should fill the place. Charley McDonald, manager-matchmaker, more than made up for the previous week. He rarely picks a quince. Since taking the Legion spot, he has, according to the Legion entertainment right out in front.

Olympic Auditorium

Young Peter Jackson, in his usual lethargic way, scored a decision over Jack Louie Tuesday. Jackson, champ of the Coast lightweights, is no crowd pleaser, hence a very slim crowd of fans were present. Down in the first, Mack managed to go the ten, now and then worrying Jackson with quick jabs. Jackson’s left arm means nothing, and his right is no news to any kid in the game. It was a slow, uninteresting bout. Henry Armstrong and Perfecto Lopez, in the ten-round middleweight match, giving one of the very best fights seen in Los Angeles in many a moon. The boys slugged every minute, the nod going to Armstrong, who some day will take Young Peter’s place. Armstrong is a good, two-handed fighter. Georgie Goodman-Joe Paraio, draw. Spud Stone stopped Johnny Bama, who was very much out of shape. Roy Vigil stopped Willie Juber in the second of the opener. Lou Droo steps out of the boxing picture, while Tom Gallery and Jack Droo will book some big ones. Art Lasky, Tommy Loughran, Steve Hamas and others will show here under Olympic promotion. This week Tennis, Tom Gallery and Jack Droo will offer three ten-round bouts and one four. At Moro, Burbank heavy, will headline against Tony Canella, tough Mexican. Hank Hank, held for some weeks out of the game, and Tom Patrick. Henry Armstrong and Perfecto Lopez, who put up a sensational go last week, are rematched for the distance. Here’s a card the fans should like. There should be plenty of action.

Legion Ascot Speedway

Rex Mays certainly did himself proud when he walked away from the field, the victor of three races at the Legion Ascot Speedway last Wednesday night. The race Mays seemed to take best was the two-lap Helmet dash, when he was presented with the Italian Helmet by Miss Rene Whintey, lovely ingenue screen star, who just finished a Warner Bros. long term contract. Effort was made to carry on to Mays in each race, while other winners in the main event were Frank Warne, second; George Conner, fourth; and Hal Cole, fifth. There were no accidents, but Pierre Bertrand handled the综合性 case so well that he shot off the track into a plowed field, taking part of the safety fence with him. Kelly Pelillo got a bad break when he was forced out of the race because his car was not the best of his, Eds. Pinky Richardson and Guy Deulen were the winners of the five-lap consolation races after the main event.

Wrestling

Jack Davis presented an excellent card to one of the biggest wrestling crowds seen at the Olympic Stadium in over a year last Wednesday night. No one knows what would have happened if Sammy Stein didn’t disconnect his jaw in the third fall, but before they could locate it, Gus Sonnenberg had won the decision, giving him the victory of two falls out of three. All the events were plenty rough-house and the only display of disapproval from the crowd came when the referee allowed Zaharias’ rough tactics in taking two falls from Dick Daviscourt in the semi-windup. Man Mountain Dean required but sixty-two seconds to pin down thelinewidth. Jack Green defeated Jack Smith; while Bonnie Moir and Bennie Ginsberg finished in a draw. Promoter Lou Davis announced there would be three referees next week, when Jim Browning will meet George Tizanian by Steely Mike, while Joe, pose Leo numa and Ed “Strangler” Lewis will face an opponent unknown as yet.

FURNITURE IN NEW MODE CREATES "TRANSITION" TYPE

The public has been looking for a long time for something new in home decorative styles—which has at last been answered in the recent development of "Transition" creations—which combined the striking use of antique or "bone" white with the rich finish of such woods as mahogany and walnut. This is the style of the B. H. Hammerly, Hollywood’s famous furniture designer and merchant: “The new mode has undoubtedly come to stay, and will receive wide acceptance, as it supplies a new note of brightness and cheerfulness which most modern styles have lacked, and when used in connection with the new and beautiful decorative fabrics of recent design, will prove a ‘tonic’ to dull rooms which is extremely welcome.
Rosenblatt To Pave Way For Collective Bargaining

Hollywood Is Over-Run With School Rackets

Actor-Writer Guilds to Talk with NRA Deputy Administrator

By HARRY BURNS

The coming to Hollywood of Sol A. Rosenblatt, Deputy Administrator of the NRA, should bring about two absolutely necessary improvements in connection with the NRA code. First: Making possible the collective bargaining between actors, writers and other branches of the industry with the producers. Various committees have been appointed to meet Monday night with General Hugh Johnson's right hand man and discuss these matters. Secondly: While Mr. Rosenblatt is here we would suggest that he pay equal attention to the extra code, which so far has not been officially O.K'd since certain changes were ordered made. Miss Mabel McKinney and the Screen Actors' Guild have done a great work in facing the trials and tribulations of the extras, but have been powerless to really act until the NRA code has been officially accepted and sent to every motion picture studio producing pictures.

Frank M. Hauser, head of the Hauser Packing Co., has for the past week been entertaining his good friend, A. While there, they discussed Paul Collins, who is running for Controller in the next election.

Jackie Morrow

Jackie is out to make a name for himself in filmland and those who have seen this versatile lad perform predict great things for him. We, too, join his great list of admirers, and will watch his future activity in Hollywood with keen interest.

Minions of the Law Should Make Drive Against Grafters

Hollywood has never been so infested with racketeers who are fleecing poor people every way they can, as now, when they meet up with someone who wants to break into the movies and by hook or crook will pay the price that it takes to gain their golden opportunity. These so-called ways and means are being sold to the poor boobs who want to break into pictures as scenarists, actors, dancers and singers. The motion picture business today is overrun with legitimate artists who are walking the streets of Hollywood hungry and unemployed. The industry has no need for anyone other than some unusual personality who really has talent—even then it is a hundred to one shot they will have a chance to show their ability.

RICARDO CORTEZ SHINES IN NEW CHARACTER FOR RKO

RKO Studios is in the habit of making some surprising pictures, and this one is a splendid example of remarkable direction by Worthington Minor, coupled with an entirely new characterization by Ricardo Cortez. The yarn by Frances Paragon, from the play by William Sippy, concerns a lawyer who, strange to say, is madly in love with his own wife. They become separated and she becomes infatuated with an artist. A murder is committed in the artist’s apartment, and of course the artist is accused and tried. The lawyer, by clever work, causes the wife’s sweetheart to be acquitted, and when the audience, of course, thinks she will rejoin her artist lover, she, like most women, gives you a complete surprise by deciding that her husband is the right man for her. Cortez is splendid as the lawyer, with Barbara Robbins making a good job as the wife. John Beal, a newcomer from the New York stage, is convincing as the artist. Margaret Hamilton injects some comedy in the court room scenes as an expert witness. Sara Haden, David Durand, Murry Kinnell, Fred Sullivan and Gae Evers are equally good in the minor roles. Worthington Minor did splendid work in the direction, with excellent photography by J. Roy Hunt. Pandro Berman gives something unusual that should be a welcome treat to most theatre patrons.

Harry L. Lewis and the Board of Equalization

Promising to do all in his power to “Set California Free” from the bondage of the old regime of narrowness and political bigotry, Harry L. Lewis, Democratic candidate for the State Board of Equalization, fourth district, has begun an active campaign in all of the eight southern counties comprising the fourth district. “Give the state back to the people,” Lewis pleaded in a recent talk before a body of civic-minded people. “Conservative and bigoted politicians have too long held California back. Our state needs to be turned free and thrown open to the tourists and visitors.”

McGuire To Take Same Precaution as Ziegfeld

William Anthony McGuire will subscribe to the same principle in the selection of feminine talent for his Universal production of “The Great Ziegfeld” as did the showman whose brilliant career he is dramatizing.

McGuire, who contributed a half-dozen musical hits to the record of the noted glorifier, has advised his staff of scouts and Hollywood agents that he is seeking more than physical beauty in candidates for the pretentious ensemble numbers and incidental parts. He confesses that he will strive to solve the Ziegfieldian secret of locating the intelligent type of beauty which he claims is responsible for the successful development of such a large number of the Folies’ producer’s discoveries.

Caught Violet Heming in the nick of time—she was bundling up a huge pile of fan letters and tucking them away in a trunk labeled “New York,” where Miss Heming is to try out a new play from the French for Lee Shubert. We are also happy to know and to pass on the good news that in all likelihood Miss Heming will return to Hollywood, inasmuch as “There’s Always Juliet,” in which Miss Heming and Conrad Nagel brought to glory here, has been sold for pictures. There is no doubt in our mind that this fine play seen at the El Capitan, turned down so many times before as too thin, was sold them purely on the strength of Miss Heming’s portrayal of Juliet. Until we meet again, Miss Heming.

Dickson Morgan acts as Guest Director for the Gateway Players’ Club when they present “Hope and Prey,” a romantic comedy by Jack Preston and Jesse Lasky, Jr., Wednesday, August 1.

A Lot of Money—in fact, $18,000,000, will be spent by William Sheehan, for Fox Films, for 55 pictures. Forty-six in English, eight in Spanish and one in French.

All Around the World—the inhabitants will have a chance to see Will Rogers, as he and his two stalwart boys, Will, Jr., and Jimmie, will go abroad as a chaperone, as Will is likely to rustle a lot of Statesmen while on the trip, which will last a long time and go into a winter here.

Andy Clyde joins Columbia and will start on an original two reeler written by Pierre Condet in about two weeks. No director assigned so far, but Andy is again growing whiskers.

The Man Who Made Millions Laugh Now is the Cause of Much Sadness

William H. (Dad) Zanfretta, who started his stage career at the age of five, and who passed away in his 79th year, made millions laugh with his funny antics and sayings. Today he is but a memory, for last Thursday night he passed away at the Keaster Hospital, in Pasadena. He was the "Daddy" of all clowns—he amused 'em all, from the crowned heads of Europe to the poorest of the poor. In life he always gave his all; in death, he leaves behind him many sad hearts, who loved him because he could take on with a smile, and up to his last hour he still continued to think about lightening the burden of others, for he said that soon his troubles would be over, it was not a long ways off, and for those who stood by him not to worry. And just before he drew his last breath he reached for a copy of what was his Christian belief, handed it to the woman who stood by him for a long time, and asked her to pray for him. His hearing gone, practically blind, his faith was still his main stock in trade, and when he did finally go to meet his Maker, he was ready, unafraid, for he felt he had given his best, his all, to this world, and was prepared to go on into the Presence of Him who is able to give us rest and peace. We know and feel that if any man ever reached that place that we all strive some day to attain, that William H. (Dad) Zanfretta was hiddan to enter into the Kingdom of God, for he was one of God's children, worthy of such a reward.

Thelma Woodruff Comes From An Acting Family and Has Great Screen Possibilities

Thelma Woodruff comes from a family of actors who have helped make stage and screen history. Unlike many others, she would rather attain her fondest ambitions through her own efforts, hence her working quietly and on her own, in stage plays, whenever she is given an opportunity, and the same goes for pictures. This has helped to school and educate her along the right lines, so that when the day does come and she is given a contract by one of the major studios, and this we are told is not very far off, Thelma Woodruff will be prepared to do the very things that the producers and directors will expect of her, without going through the preliminaries of first finding out what it takes to do the part letter perfect.

 Election Officers Changed

Many changes in election officers in the Third Supervisorial District have been made in order to conform to revised registration totals, so that all political parties may be represented in proportion to their party registration. C. N. Braswell, Chairman of the Election Board, announced yesterday. In one local area in the Third District 115 changes were ordered. This action was taken to assure fairness to all political parties, Braswell declared. W. H. (Bill) Addis has been appointed chairman and director of the downtown Los Angeles campaign of Supervisor Harry M. Baine. Antrim will open sectional headquarters at 239 South Broadway, Robert F. Craig, executive director of the Baine organization also announced.

The Meyer Synchronizing Company is Very Busy

The Meyer Synchronizing Service is currently working at top speed, putting musical backgrounds and songs into five features and twenty-four shorts. For Sol Lesser, the concern is scoring "Peck's Bad Boy"; for Monogram, "King Kelly of the U.S.A." and "Red Head"; for Liberty, "School for Girls"; and for James Ormond, "Brides of Sulu." Also in the scoring rooms are twelve Stan Woodyard travel shorts and a like number of Philippine exploration two-reelers.

Filmland Will Soon Have Another Fine Personality to Think About

Every now and then some one with great screen possibilities looms on the horizon and producers start asking: Where has she or he been hiding all this time? And so they will soon be doing about cute and fascinating Bunny Paulise, a young little miss who is attracting lots of attention around the major lots. A well known follower of studio life first set eyes on her, and instantly told Paulise to the well known producer on a major lot. Now they are angling to make a test of Bunny, and if this proves the success that they think it will, she will be placed in stock and given a career, and who knows, it may lead to stardom. In the meantime, filmland will soon have to start remembering Bunny Paulise's name and what she was last seen in, as far as some of our best tellies. Miss Bunny Paulise is not the kind of girl who will allow anyone or anything to break her faith in her ability to attain a place for herself, and is taking her work very seriously, in fact, a wee bit too much. However, those who have told her to pursue her career, rather than a determined.

Out of Gear

The main trouble with Hollywood is that we are out of gear, rather than in gear, and in our anxiety to get back in line, sometimes we make miserable mistakes, just like the driver of a car, stripping his gears, and having to take the car into the shop for repairs. We are doing this every day, and still we go on, wondering what it all about. What we need most is less worry about how we’re going to shift in the right direction. Go after it, and it will work out smoothly; jump at conclusions in haste and you are bound to find yourself in trouble. So take your time, do everything that you do the best you know how, and strive to do better each time, and you are sure to be in proper gear, rather than OUT OF GEAR.

Moving Movie Throng by John Hall

A once great artist died in Hollywood, went to his last rest—and Hollywood gave no heed ... A faithful few, most of them, like the departed, in the twilight zone of mortal life, wept at his bier. A tiny funeral parlor was his ante-room to eternity. Heads bowed, the thoughtful few heard the man of God, in solemnly sonorous tones, usher a soul from a world of poverty and pain to the presence of his Maker ... And it was during the reading of that simple service one was prone to wonder if Hollywood, with its very thoughtless placidity; if it really knows what it does ... In life, the departed was a great clown; which means that, in his world and time, artistically, he ranked with Hollywood’s greatest. His memories of the days of his greatness were his most precious possessions; they softened the poverty and suffering of his old age ... And, today, Hollywood holds many “greats,” who, some other day, shall have the same—memories, sans money and sans friends, even as many “silent day” greats now courageously face the world, held to firm resolve by memories of faded glory ... The tremendously worded invocations of the minister carried a chilling rebuke to all who forget ... One wished that all of Hollywood’s “greats” might know the message he brought; that it might give them pause; make them more thoughtful of the less fortunate, and cause them to show to all men, great and small, a kinder, a more human, fellowship ... The once great and dying in pain and want is an anomaly over which the gods may weep ... Such is the nadir of humanity’s agony in this far from perfect life ... One naturally would believe that, in Hollywood, our national center of dramatic art, where gather the great in all the fine arts, something more substantial than memories should be the final lot of once great artists; that when life’s sunset approaches, and the great twilight deepens to the blackness of the tomb, all who have contributed to man’s better life should be honored and succored by their own kind ... Our little funeral service seemed to point the futility of this hope ... One came away wondering; without reason for optimism. William H. (Dad) Zenffretta—our own “Dad”—was that once great clown. He was born in Oldtown, San Diego, in 1854. His father was Antoine Ravel Zenffretta, a direct descendant of Tiberia Pirrello, an historically famous Italian pantomimist. His mother was a descendant of John Rich, also in his time an historically famous English pantomimist. To the Rev. Wesley Havermade, Vicar of St. Francis Church, Los Angeles, the motion picture industry owes its gratitude for his services. The Troupers, Hollywood association of veteran players, furnished a choir of singers. So long, Dad.

DeMille’s “Cleopatra” Great

Once in a while a motion picture director has a dream, a vision of a film that he feels he must make, something really worth while, something spectacular and entertaining—a story which definitely is out of the beaten path that so many screen productions follow.

Once in a while, too, a producer comes to light who has grasped the director’s vision, making it possible to transform the dream into reality.

And—but more rarely—it happens that which is least is assembled which can realize both the director’s and the producer’s ideal of the picture.

Such an unusual combination has resulted in “Cleopatra,” which, for the first time last Saturday morning, was presented at Grauman’s Chinese Theatre to a small group of ladies and gentlemen of the press.

The director is Cecil B. DeMille; the producer, Adolph Zukor; the players, Claudette Colbert, Warren William, Henry Wilcoxon, a newcomer with exceptional possibilities, Gertrude Michael, Joseph Schildkraut, Ian Keith, C. Aubrey Smith, Claudia Dell, Irving Fischel, Arthur Hohl, Ian MacLaren and others.

The silent screen and its lusty successor, the talkies, have many achievements to their credit, but after all is said and done, only a few survive statu- tory fame. Now joining that select few, which have become a part of the tradition of our celluloid world, is this widely publicized and long awaited DeMille film. There was only one “Birth of a Nation,” only one “Big Parade.” There is but one “Cleopatra.”

A press agent in his wildest ravings, descending to the ballyhoo of the medicine show, scarcely could use adjectives over-laudatory to depict “Cleopatra” as screen entertainment. It is truly a great picture. Mr. DeMille achieves a directorial masterpiece with his artistic, swift, deft and always sure handling of the story and players. He has given us a play which is vivid, ingenuous and properly exciting. Never once does it fail to be completely accurate and opulent in detail. Memorable is the “Cleopatra” of Miss Colbert, as well as the character portraits offered by Henry (Marc Antony) Wilcoxon, Warren (Julius Caesar) William, Gertrude Michael, Ian Keith and that magnificent C. Aubrey Smith. The other players, too, give colorful and intelligent performances.

Paul Sloane is known for his ability to produce pictures that are both entertaining and profitable. He is one of the most successful producers in the business, and is sure to continue to make hits in the future.

SHE LOVES ME NOT
Paramount Picture with Box Office Kick

One of the best of the year, with suspense, humor and romance crammed into its story, this novel by Edward Hope, from a play by Howard Lindsey and made into a good screen play by Benjamin Glazer, was thoroughly enjoyable. Some good lyrics and music by Gordon and Revel. Beautifully photographed by Charles Lang. Bing Crosby and Mirlam Hopfens are at their best, with, of course, Bing being so delightful and Mirlam at her best in an entirely new characterization; a boy, in fact, and nimble feet that will astound any audience. Kitty Carlisle, Edward Nugent, Judith Allen, George Barbier, Harry Kolker, Maude Turner Gordon, Margarite Armstrong, Rolf Harolde, Matt McHugh, Franklin Ardell and Vincent Barnett all helped along greatly to amuse, with good results. Benjamin Glazer produced, with Elliott Nugent making a good job of the direction. You can't make any mistake in booking this one, as it is a clean, wholesome picture that garners many laughs.

WOODEN DOGS
Ralph Staub, in charge of short production at Warner Bros. Burbank studios, will start early in August on his next Technicolor featurette, using Holland as a background. Joe Traub and Peter Milne are writing the screen play, which will feature some of the Warner contract players. Staub will direct.

SAVED SHOW
Berta and Alfonso, sensational dancers, dancing nightly at the El Rancho, saved the show at the benefit at Grauman's Egyptian last Saturday night.

MARGARET POHLMAN MISTRESS OF CEREMONIES AT HOLLYWOOD STABLES
That popular rendezvous, Hollywood Stables, is still packing them in at their night spot on North Cahuenga Boulevard. Margaret Pohlmans, buxom mistress of ceremonies, knows her stuff when it comes to putting numbers over. She is remembered for her excellent work in various night clubs throughout Los Angeles and Hollywood. Miss Pohlman has entertained such celebrities in flounders as Joan Crawford, Gloria Swanson, Lewis Stone, Gable, and a score of other stage and screen celebrities. Here is a gal who knows her stuff.

FINISHES AT PARAMOUNT
Spencer Charterts, upon completing his role in "Pursuit of Happiness" at Paramount, moved over to Warner's Studios to play in "The Perfect Weekend," starring James Cagney. Charterts follows this in William Dieterle's next production at the latter studio.

Harold Lloyd is Immense in "The Cats Paw," His Latest Fun Film, Ably Directed by Sam Taylor
Una Merkel is a Howling Success—Great Sets and Photography Help Put the Picture Over in a Big Way

The bespectacled funmaker, Harold Lloyd, can stay in pictures until he grows whiskers to his knees, as far as we are concerned, for he never was funnier or better in his whole career than he is in "The Cats Paw," written by Clarence Buddington Kelland, and so ably directed by Sam Taylor. It fits the famous funmaker like a glove, and the way that the story has been stagcd smacks of so much realism that you actually are thrilled as well as amused every minute of the unreeling of the picture. Una Merkel, as the lead opposite the comical star, parries her audiences with her droll way of delivering her lines. She should find an easy road to stardom after this picture. Fine performances are also given by George Barbier, who puts his points and punches across like only a veteran of the stage can. Others who are worth quite a bit of attention are Grace Bradley, who has that something that makes the men and women alike never lose sight of what she does once she appears on the screen. Then there is Alan Dinehart, Madeleine Carroll, Michael, Wray Heron, Fuzzy Knight, Vic Barnett, all topping their work in a big way. You will also find J. Farrell McDonald, James Donlan, Frank Sheridan, Fred Warren, Edwin Maxwell, Nat Pendleton and many others more than hold up their ends. A special word of credit goes to Harry Oliver for remarkable sets and Walter Lundin for photography. Both were far above the usual run of the majors' best features. In closing, let us say that Sam Taylor, who directed this opus, should get a great big hand for his efforts on the picture. Mr. Exhibitor, hop on this one quick and give your box office a new lease on life.

Greater Screen Artistry (An Opinion)

One hears and reads much these days as to the "better methods" and "cleaner films" to be employed by the cinema producers for greater ultimate lasting success in the screen industry. Much of what we hear and read savors of sound common sense and fair judgment, and much also is of an entirely impractical and unsound nature. From the musical artists' standpoint, based on long experience in matters musical as well as theatrical, in the capacity of Instructor, Coach and Producer, it is my opinion that much of value can be included in the production of forthcoming films if greater care is given to its production, the selection of its directors and its writer. In any opinion that greater "silence" and about only half as much dialogue as at present included in the continuity of a screen production would greatly enhance the "Illusion" and bring about much more genuine screen artistry. Too much intellectual effort on the part of the spectator certainly does not rest one's faculties from daily routine mental exertion. A cleaner and more constructive chain of incidents in the continuity of a screen production will also be welcomed. Screening some of the better fiction of famous authors like Dickens, Longfellow, Goethe, Schiller is good material for screen production. Many of the older light operas also such as the compositions of Suppe, Flotow, Strauss and others would also lend themselves to easy and interesting screen fare. With the fine musical composers, directors and orchestral musicians extant in all the major motion picture studios, a higher quality of music should be also possible. The camera, after all, is probably the most vital factor in a screen production's technical side and should become a better medium to convey moods of the story than is the case in most of the present productions. The screen should afford proper relaxation to the spectator, purely genuine entertainment, provided there is greater silence than at present, cleaner enunciation, far less facial distortion in vocal delivery, and finer pantomime intertwined with mood descriptive music, and better story structure, as all these essentials comprise the inter-dependence of the successful screen production.

JANE COWL PLEASERS IN THE SHINING HOUR
Henry Duffy again succeeds in bringing one of America's most beloved stars, Jane Cowl, to Hollywood to appear in "The Shining Hour," at the El Captain Theatre. The audience was enthralled by Miss Cowl's performance in a story which fitted her personality to perfection. The play will be food for thought to Hollywood scenarists. Written without a weak. 8hout at present for good stories. Pat Somerset also deserves praise for his portrayal in a heavy role. Ely Malv and Frank Milan also do outstanding bits of work. The rest of the well selected cast consists of Joyce Carey and Leo G. Carroll. Keith Winter wrote the play, which was staged and directed by Russell Fillmore. Theatre-goers will enjoy Henry Duffy's latest endeavor to bring good, clean plays into his Hollywood housewive.

SALOME' WELI RECEIVED AT SHRINE AUDITORIUM
Lester Horton's spectacular "Salome" ballet was received Wednesday night at the Shrine Auditorium with rounds of applause. Done entirely in pantomime, it was a feast for the eyes, accompanied by the Shrine ballet or chestra, conducted by Leonid Name, and punctuated by the percussions of the Lester Horton Group. The Oriental motifs preceding "Salome" were most exotic and bizarre, the outstanding performances being rendered by Joy Montaya, Phram Van den Derg and Tonie Marachka. "Lament" was an artistic hit by Lester Horton.

EDDIE IS A GOOD BET
Edward Ward, musical director for Universal, did the scores for "Gift of Gab," "Romance in the Rain," "Embarassing Moments," "$Million Dollar Ramson," "Let's Be Ritzey," "I Like It That Way" and "The Countess of Monte Cristo." He was also the musical director for "The Great Giezfeld," written by William Anthony McGuire and Billie Burke, has been selected, from past experience. Mr. Ward looks like the logical selection.

CHARITA IN SANTA MONICA HOSPITAL
Charita, the Hawaiian dancer who has played many of the night spots, was injured in an automobile accident, and is reported at the Santa Monica Hospital.

ST. NICK
Marguerite Roberts, ace Paramount scenarist, has been commissioned by B. P. Schulberg to write the screen play and continuity for his next production, "St. Nick." Miss Roberts has just finished the screen play of "End of the World." Al Lewis, associate producer for Paramount.

COCONUT GROVE IS ORDERING THE ATTENTION OF ALL

The Coconut Grove is still offering Gus Arnheim and his celebrated Orches- tra, John and Edna Torrence, in- ternational dancers, Jimmy Newell, the most popular singer around these parts, the Downey Sisters, cast as you find ‘em, Maxine Tappan and Mary Wood, and some extra crooners from the Arnheim Orchestra. Every night is a big one at the Coconut Grove. Len L. France came back from Lake Arrowhead and is in line, we learn, to uncover some very new ideas and big names as future attractions at the Grove, located in the heart of the Ambassador Hotel, Los Angeles.

Gus Arnheim is a wise showman, and if you have any doubts about this you should have been at the Coconut Grove Wednesday night and watched the way by which the Alfred G. Vanderbilt’s party of thirty-five, who were dining and dancing at the Grove, and not overlooking a single bet to call on other stars who were present at the long-expected event. In the early evening, Gus Colley, Paul Keith, Sally Blane, Sally O’Day, Virginia Faris, the Hayworths, Fields, and others, were due to arrive from North Carolina, and we were glad! This is the high spot Sunday nights at the sea shore dine and dance places.

JIMMIE GRIER AND ORCHESTRA ARE THE LAST WORD IN MUSIC AT THE BILTMORE BOWL

Jimmie Grier and his Orchestra, according to those who know, are the last word in music and are adding in a great measure to the fun in Los Angeles this year. They are turning toward making the Biltmore Bowl the success that it is right now. The latest recruit to this playboy’s entertainment is Dixie Frances, a hootch girl who is a pupil of John Tio, a Japanese trainer of birds, who offers a parrot act that is a big hit. Marietta, the sensational dancer, popu- lar Joaquin Gay, Hank Brown and Hal, to Four Aiders, and the singers in the band, who work during inter- missions. Taking it all in, the Biltmore Bowl is spacious enough and has plenty of seating capacity to handle the biggest and best attractions in Los Angeles, you know, and that was a fit and proper way to do the last letter.

HERRIFORD, HAMPTON, AND COWANS HIT AT SEBASTIAN

The latest Broomfield and Galey all colored revue at Frank Sebastian’s New Cotton Club is making quite a hit with night prowlers. Leon Herriford, who heads his own orchestra, is topping all of his past efforts to make the show the success that it is. Leon Hampton, who is the king of all colored trap drummers, puts on his act, and he wows them. Lionel is quite a funster along with his specialty. Then you will see the Four Covans, who are given the acid test by another trio of hoovers, and they come out on top, for this quartet never seem to run dry for new and interesting steps in each dance. When you hear that Ritchie and Octavia Smulder make up the feminine part of the Creole stars and they surely prove clever, peppy, and fascinating to the onlookers. Cliff Ritchie, Jr., the man with the sweetest voice, who has heard the Cotton Club, wins great applause and en- cores nightly. LeRoy Broomfield and Aurora Galey do some numbers that would fit the world’s greatest theaters, and what a Creole chorus! Here are the most perfect, lovable and spirtually singing and stepping darlings that ever came from Harlem. Otto E. Brooks, head waiter, still meets and greets you at the door and looks after your welfare as a true Southern gen- tleman does when you happen to be across the Mason-Dixon line.

The El Rancho is the most unique Latin-American Cafe this side of old Mexico, the food that is served is typically Mexican and is prepared by P. D. Aquilar, who with Eddie Le Baron owns this place. JACK DUNN ADDS NEW TALENT AT RAINBOW GARDENS
A versatile vocal quartette, one of the few appearing with dance bands in the country, made its bow with Jack Dunn's SO-50 Club Rhythm at the Rainbow Gardens on Monday, July 23rd. The quartette is composed of Lee Lykios, first tenor; Dennie Moore, second tenor;
Austin Groat, baritone; and Heine Molof, a native Texan. They were known as the "Aristocrats." The newly formed aggregation will augment the vocal entretainment being successfully offered by Gordon Smith, musical comedy star, and Margie Keely, enticing contralto. Jack Dunn is making this an even more popular vaudeville spot.

Marilynn Morgan, who is the last word

she will be a steady fixture at the Cliff

ed for him is "One Night of Love," which has never before been heard

The Olympic Auditorium

Last Tuesday's card was eventful.
Tom Patrick ran out on Hank Hank-inson and Leo Ketl failed to meet Oscar Rankin. Eventually, after Rankin stopped Manuel Vaccaro in a round, Kelly popped up and went six rounds with Rankin, winning. Rankin fought two bouts. Al Muro, because of a cut over the eye, was stopped by Tom Collide. Kenneth Lee lost to Wally Hunt.
Davie Ablad, in an extra bout, badly whipped George Jerome, colored. The fans were offered their money back, but few left. Now comes the big show:
Again, for the third time, Slapstik-Maxie Rosenbloom, light-heavy champ, will meet Lee Ramage. Next Tuesday night is the date and, if Maxie can make up his mind to go to work—well, who knows what might happen —that is, if Ramage does not get down to work, Good supporting card.

Hollywood Legion Stadium

Bob Olin and Abe Feldman, heavies, fought a tough bout to a draw last Saturday evening. This pact has developed a lot of angles, none of them good. Referee Jackie Fields, claiming he was approached by gamblers, was alert, and, to keep the record clean, decided to call the bout a draw. He claims he was asked to stop the bout but his son was honest. Commissioner Martin suspended Fields, stating he did not question the honesty of the ex-champion.

Outside of that, the crowd seemed to think Feldman had an edge. We believe Fields meant well. One fact stands out in his favor: Nobody lost money. Gene Espinosa stopped Baby Palmore. Georgie Goodman decision-don Young Speely. Rito Martinez outpointed Adolfo Lozada. Jack Dunn's stop Sal Hernandez in the second; cut eye. Ray Virgil beat Buddy Sanders.
This week, Celerino Garcia meets Mike Payan, a top-notch Mexican who has been going great in New York.

Wrestling

There was enough excitement at the Olympic Stadium last Wednesday night to please the most ardent fan. Referee
McDonald and Inspector Carl Girard, of the State Athletic Commission, also had their little controversy when Mc-Donald awarded the decision to George Zaharias and Inspector Girard reversed the verdict and gave it to Jim Browning by disqualifying Zaharias on the grounds of strangling holds.
Jim Browning was declared the champ, with a rematch between Zaharias and Browning in the near future. Man
Mountain Dean took Dick Daviscourt with an overhead backward body slam;
Ray Steele and John Nino finished thirty minutes to a draw; Paul Boesch won over Jack Gonzano; and in the opening bout Bill Houlihan and Benny Gaspar finished with a draw.

FINISHES AT U

Dickie Jones just completed a nice bit in "The Human Side" under Eddie Busselle's direction.

CLICKING

Jerry Tucker has just finished some fine work as a New Yorkurchin in "Have a Heart," with Jimmy Dunn and Jean Parker at M-G-M, and as a cadet in "You Belong To Me," with Lee Tracy and Harry Cavan at Paramount. The talented youngster won the hearts of the casts and directors of both pictures.

KEPT BUSY

Little Anse Howard, who has been doing some great work at the studios, recently completed a part in "She Was A Lady," which was most favorably received. This youngster is clever and versatile, and fits into her parts like a hand in a glove.

PLAYS ROYALTY AGAIN

Cora Sue Collins is playing royalty to the second time on the screen—quite a treat for a six-year-old child.
Cora Sue is the little princess in "Beauty and Truth," at M-G-M. The child will be remembered for her role of Garbo as the young queen in "Queen Christina."

CHILD COMEDIAN WINS ROLE IN BALL GAME STORY

So cleverly did Mickey Rooney, child dramatic, acquit himself in "Hide Out," that he was yesterday awarded a role dear to a small boy's heart. He is playing the juvenile fan, andforegrounding with Bing Bode and other famous ball players, in "Death on the Diamond," Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer's new baseball mystery thriller.

IN "THE FATHER"

Jean Darling has a very nice part in "The Father," which will be presented at the Writers Club next Tuesday evening.

IN DEMAND

Suzanne Wood is kept busy going to "A Girl in Every Port" and to another. Upon completion of a nice bit in "All Good Americans" at M-G-M, Miss Wood went into "What Ladies Dream" at Universal.

he played "Dick White" in "As We Live," directed by Mr. Sloman, then as soon as that was completed, he was signed for the role of "Phil" in "The Human Side," which was finished last week by Director Buzzell; now Dick is with Ernst Frankie on "Esca-pade." This rising young juvenile is to play his part in "The Veteran," at Paramount, and is an all-around musician as well as a splendid trouper.

Hollywood Pix Racketeers Are Trapped
Rosenblatt Stops Cutting Down List Of Extras

Filmograph's Drive to Rid Industry of Gyp Artists Brings Action

By HARRY BURNS

Our fight to stop racketeering among the various so-called schools in and around Hollywood has brought quick action on the part of the various minoris of the law, for the past week a number of arrests have been consummated, and many of the violators of the law have been caught up with. Some who have been operating are said to have left town hurriedly, fearing apprehension.

It has come to our attention that a certain kiddie producer and teacher is asking fifty per cent of the earnings of certain children in the motion picture industry. This is in direct violation of the State law that allows only that a ten per cent agency fee shall be paid by the artists. We feel that this man will be the next to be caught within the net that the Better Business Bureau, the License Bureau and the District's Attorney's offices will ensnare with the bait that will be put out to trap such law breakers.

M. H. Hoffman has engaged William Nigh to direct the forthcoming Liberty production, "Without Children," suggested by Mrs. Wilson Woodrow's story, "The Eyes of Youth." Gertrude Orr has written the screen play. "Without Children" is the last feature of the series of eight announced by Liberty for the current season.

SOL REJOINS J. G. MAYER

Sol Solinger, who at one time was the right hand man of J. G. Mayer, one of the best known agents in Hollywood, has closed his own offices and agency and rejoined the Mayer organization. Thata boy, Sol, and good luck to both of you.

Thelma Woodruff

We are soon to see Thelma Woodruff in a United Artists production. This charming miss has been working quietly but very earnestly the past two years to make a place for herself. United Artists and M-G-M Studios have used her for many recordings, and now she is fit and able to stand on her own and is going after a line of bigger and better parts.

Ye Editor's Fight to Stop Unfair Cutting of List Brings "Rosy's" Aid

Just as we were going to press it was brought to our attention that Sol A. Rosenblatt, Deputy Administrator of the NRA Code, has put his foot down on the cutting down of the extra list to 2,000, and that he also has come out against the habitual kickers (scandalmongers) against this industry. Thanks, Mr. Rosenblatt, for taking this stand, for we have been putting up a lone wolf fight against both of these offenses, and we feel that your trip to Hollywood is not in vain.

We again repeat, give the better type of extras, particularly the old-timers, the breaks, and pictures will be better and need less censorship, and you will have a more happy working army of day players. Hollywood has harbored the film industry the past twenty years, and it has improved by slow but sure stages, and any new-fangled ideas of overnight changes will help to kill it quicker than anything else that we know of in existence today.

JAN RUBINI CLICKS

One of the outstanding features of "Hollywood on the Air" program at RKO Studios weekly is Jan Rubini, the conductor of the orchestra, who every now and then plays a violin solo that is gaining tremendous reputation for him with the listeners-in. Jan recently played the musical poem, "Of Human Bondage," as written by Max Steiner. Those who heard it are voicing their praises of this maestro's masterful work. Many say that he is fast topping the work of Rubinstein.

CHARLES HUBER DOING CHARACTER MAKE-UP

Charles Huber did the make-up for the character parts in "The Return of Chandu." He turned in a remarkable piece of work on the face of "Black Magic," who is supposed to be 100 years old.
Sport and Dressy Pajamas—seem just the thing for wear at Beverly Hills Brown Derby, as we saw Cornish Bennett in dark blue, Helen Twelvetrees in red, Mrs Al Rogers, Ann Sothern, Louise Latimer, and many others, with all the colors of the rainbow, at lunch a few days ago.

* * *

Carl Brisson—our own Yosemite, and told all his friends that there is nothing to equal the scenery in Europe. Another trip is scheduled for this latest Paramount star, and this time he says he will take his staff along to demonstrate what a swell place he discovered.

Jack Holt—new character—in "I'll Fix It" for Columbia Pictures. The virile star will be seen as a political fixer who can fix everything but his own love affairs. This happens in a large metropolitan city, where he is the big boss of everything and everybody.

* * *

Torben Meyer Busy—as just now he is with "Music in the Air" at Fox and then goes right into the Mark Sandrich production, "The Gay Divorce" at RKO Studios. The character boys are coming into their own these days, as we saw Murdoch McQuarrie in a swell make-up on a Sol Lesser set.

* * *

Joe Harris—says—his duck forgot to lay his usual egg yesterday, but he laid two today with an ontology on the second egg, for forgetting another usual stunt. And by the way, Joe is the bright still man for Invincible Pictures, which company Maury Cohen heads.

* * *

That Good Old Team—Mitchell and Durant, were signed by Fox Films for featured roles in "365 Nights in Hollywood," the Jimmy Stewart opus, soon to reach the screen. George Marshall directs with Bill Conselman and Henry Johnson at the writing end for Sol Wurtzel at the Hollywood studios.

* * *

Rene Hubert, International Designer—says Gloria Swanson was his inspiration in the old days, and now he will do "Music in the Air" for Fox Films. He expects to outdo himself for Gloria in the part she plays opposite John Boles.

* * *

Malville Brown Stays—after Robert Welch saw a rough cut of "The Red Head" at Monogram, in which Bruce Cabot and Grace Bradley played the leading roles, Brown will do either "The Million Dollar Baby" or "Flirting With Danger" for his next.

* * *

Joseph Santry Returns—to prepare his new story for Monogram Pictures. His recent work on "The Loud Speaker" in which Ray Walker gave the preview audience lots of laughs and was incidentally a smash hit for the youthful director, whom we used to stand in line at Jacob's Theatre in the old days.

* * *

Tom Carr Lost Everything—or so he informed us on a recent visit. He is now back at his old desk at Monogram, but says to keep clear of those sawbones, as they removed everything, including his pocketbook.

* * *

* * *

Mrs. Dorothy Reid Supervises—"Women Must Dress" for Monogram. Feature scheduled for October. The cast will include the winners of the Monogram Agfa Anso contest as well as some of the featured players from the major studios.

* * *

General James A. Farley Visits—the Fox Studios on his recent trip to Southern California. The great set in the "Marie Galante" was the attraction, as well as lunching with Henry King and his staff at the Cafe de Paree.

* * *

All the British Sailors—with Vice-Admiral R. A. R. Plunkett Drax, as well as officers of H.M.S. Norfolk, were visitors at Fox, where they all almost filled the great Cafe de Paree, but their greatest interest was the huge liner that seems to be headquarters of all companies.

thru the dressing room door with... madge kelly

Jesse Lasky, Jr., and Jack Preston's romantic comedy, "Hope and Prey," got off to a good start at the Gateway Players Wednesday evening. Plot, though wholly original, has some snappy lines which were very well put over by Helen Brown and the girl friends, Rita Carewe and Julie Bendell. Others in the cast were Alden Chase, Eugene Renard, Howard Nace, Catherine Cotter and Bruce Riley. The production was staged under the direction of Dickson Morgan. We spotted Jesse Lasky, Sr., and Mrs. Lasky, and other film luminaries and executives too numerous to mention. A very noted author-ess who remained in Hollywood for the opening was Madelene Blackmore, who collaborated with Sada Cowan on "Napoleon Had It Too."

Warner Brothers is giving its expensive musical "Dames" a strict purity test... cleaning up "Green Hat" to pass censorship. Wonder if we'll recognize any of the old stories. Mae West will still be the funniest bad girl in the house. Nothing so unique as Garbo's note on floral tribute to the late Marie Dressler—"Last Greetings." It has been rumored that Harold Lloyd's "Cat's Paw" will premiere at Grauman's. Peggy Shannon dashing into the Brown Derby for a bite at lunch time. Rette Davis driving in Sunset Boulevard at a traffic cop's speed. Gloria Stuart has turned authoress, publishing a book of poems all her own. Pauline Frederick writing an autobiography. J. C. Nugent has also turned author—written a play called "Dream Child," soon to have its tryout. Vere Teasdale sure she'll marry Menjou this time.

COHEN AND BATCHELLER ARE DUE HERE AUGUST 10

Maury Cohen, producer of Invincible Pictures, and George Batcheller, producer of Chesterfield Pictures, are expected to return from New York August 10 to begin their new season's program of features, it was announced today from the Hollywood offices of the allied organizations. Invincible just finished producing "A Girl Must Live," featuring Dorothy Wilson and Charles Starrett, with Frank Strayer directing, with Melville Shyer as unit manager and Andy Anderson at the camera.

PEERLESS PICTURES TO PRODUCE "GREAT GAMBLE"

Charles Hutchison is to direct "Gamble," a story from John France Natteford, for Peerless Pictures. In the cast will be Osmolow Stevens, who was borrowed from Universal, Janet Chandler, James Bush, Howard Lang, Desdon Roberts, Walter Farrell and Nina Gilberdt. Cast by Leo Lances, Max Shagrin offices. Mel DeLay is to be assistant director, while the script is being written by Tove Linder.

DEAN BENTON MAKING GOOD

Dean Benton, borrowed by Sol Lesser from Universal to do the juvenile lead in "The Return of Chando," according to all reports has done a fine job as the happy-go-lucky "Bob Regent." This is his first big assignment.

MEL deLAY WITH HUTCHISON

Mel deLay is to be assistant to Charles Hutchison at Alexander Bros. Studio, where Hutchison will direct "The Great Gamble," with an all-star cast.

FAY BAKER IN HOLLYWOOD

Fay Baker, nationally famous fan and interpretative dancer, arrived in Hollywood several days ago for a vacation. It is rumored that Miss Baker may take a film at the silver screen. She is a very personal type, and it is our opinion that she should do quite well in pictures.

LIBERTY FEATURES BOOKED

Budd Rogers, general sales manager of Liberty Pictures, has closed deals for the entire program of eight Liberty features with the Fredro Theatre, Detroit; the Genesis, Saginaw; and the River Theatre, River Falls. The eight titles are, "Cheaters," "When Strangers Meet," "Take the Stand," "No Ransom," "Once to Every Bachelor," "Two Heads On A Pillow," "School for Girls" and "Without Children."

GENE AUSTIN STARTS AT GROVE TUESDAY NIGHT

Gene Austin and his musical stooges start an engagement Tuesday night at the Cocoanut Grove in conjunction with Gus Arnheim's greater orchestra. Gene has a great following and is working better than ever these days.

“Queen Marie” Will Live On Forever and Ever in Our Memory

Much has been written and said of Marie Dressler and her conquests on stage and screen, but few really knew the real “Queen Marie.” Only once did it really come to the surface, and that was at the birthday dinner tendered in her honor at M-G-M Studios, when she stood before the most representative gathering of statesmen, executives, stars and co-workers, and refused to accept that great tribute in her own name, but would in the name of the actor. What a great woman, what a soul, what a darling of the Gods! If our readers could only have seen her as she entered the stage to receive her great honor, on the arm of Louis B. Mayer and the late Gov. James Rolph, Jr., she almost sank to the floor, so overcome with gratitude was she, but a little tug of the arm and a word or two of “Buck up, Marie,” from Louis B. Mayer, started the trio for their seats. If we live to see a hundred years we shall never forget Marie Dressler.

To us she was always a Queen, no matter what her reverses were, and now let us say that “Queen Marie” will live on forever and ever in our memory, and those of the amusement world.

Southern Writer in Hollywood

Anthony Patorno, who bails from New Orleans, has joined the writers’ colony in Hollywood, and at the present time is putting the finishing touches to his original story, “Debbil Stick,” a Mississippi River opus with a river packet background, revealing the insight of the Southern negro. Mr. Patorno knows the river packet roundabout thoroughly, knows his cane fields, cotton fields, cabins, his churches, his funerals. Having been born on the Mississippi, Mr. Patorno is amply qualified to bring out his point of view to perfection. Taking into consideration every minor detail dealing with life on the Mississippi.

“Debbil Stick” is a blend of romance, comedy and Southern negro life with enough suitable screen material to make it an unusual and an outstanding film production. Mr. Patorno is remembered for his “Princess Pat” radio stories, and his “Angel Face” stories, that created a sensation in the East recently. He is treating “The Mink,” a horror story, dealing with trappers of the Spanish-Creole section in Louisiana, Delacroix Island.

Carl Brisson to be Honored August 10 by Scandinavian Civic Club

Carl Brisson, one of the most popular stars that Europe has sent us in some time, is to be highly honored by the Scandinavian Civic Club on August 10th by a dinner staged as a tribute to him for what he has done to bring his native country into such great prominence since making his debut in “Murder at the Vaticins.” Governor Merriam has promised to be present at the affair, which is being handled by Victor Hanst. Carl Brisson will soon be starred in “Kings Horses” under his present Paramount contract.

Property Owners Saved Thousands On Assessments

Supervisor Harry M. Baldwin has made allocations and commitments of county funds for aiding city street projects in the Third Supervisorial District during the last two years which reached the huge total of $2,458,196.10. The funds used originate in the County’s share of the state gasoline tax and their allocation to city projects has saved property owners thousands of dollars in street assessments, it was pointed out.

Lyle Talbot’s “Embarrassing Moments”

Jot down as “most embarrassing moments” Lyle Talbot’s experience in playing an Indian in “The Dragon Murder Case.” With the aid of a little dark make-up, Lyle was doing nicely up until a scene requiring him to go swimming. It seems that Lyle had been unable to get down to the beach to get his seasonal tanning, and when he walked onto the set in his bathing suit, ready for the take, the rim about his neck where the make-up ended and “his lily-white body,” as he calls it, began, was nothing if not startling!

Reb Russell Looks Like the Best Bet as an Outdoor Star Under Willis Kent Wing

Reb Russell, who made his mark on the Northwestern football team, looks like the best bet among the Western stars who are now making a bid for fame and fortune. Willis Kent, the independent producer who is making his pictures at the International Studios, has Reb under his managerial wing and has made two outdoor features with him, “The Man From Hell,” by E. B. Mann, and “Fighting Through,” the work of a famous author. Reb has playing opposite him an All-American girl star, Lucille Lund, who, like himself, won fame on the All-American line-up. The pair make an ideal team, and Producer Willis Kent is making four outdoor pictures with Reb Russell as the star. This finishes up the series started with Lane Chandler and assures exhibitors outdoor pictures that are clean and full of fights and real action, such as Western fans love, and above all, the pictures will be censor-proof and can be enjoyed by the entire family.

Harry L. Lewis and the Board of Equalization

With a sweeping campaign platform of constructive liberalism, tax reduction and impartiality, the Campaign Committee of Harry L. Lewis, Democratic candidate for the State Board of Equalization, fourth district, has established campaign headquarters on the fourth floor of the Severance Building at Sixth and Main Streets. The Campaign Committee, consisting of many of the most important and leading citizens of the southland is now organizing for an extensive campaign which will be carried on throughout the entire eight counties comprising the fourth district. As a member of the State Board of Equalization, Lewis will do all within his power to institute a program of substantial tax reduction. Lewis considers the powers of the Board not only to include tax collections, but also tax reductions.

Decency

In the name of common decency the Dave Allen-Gloria Marsh-June De Long morals charges case should come to a definite airing and decision, so that in the future the motion picture industry will not be at the mercy of any one who feels that they should rush into the grand jury rooms and file charges against someone without first giving that individual a chance to disprove the charges. The State today is paying for the hasty action of those who ordered this trial, and will have to bear an enormous amount of money to again try those whom the jury failed to agree were guilty of the charges preferred. August 20th has been set for the retrial, and we hope that when the jury goes out this time that they will bring in a verdict that will prove that the whole affair was nothing more than an out and out frame-up by those who failed to make their mark in pictures and were using this means to get even with the man they felt was responsible for their being kept from making decent-minded people who earn a living in pictures and should be encouraged, and in our check-up, we find that they resent the attacks hurled upon their decency because they were more fortunate in getting work than those who are making the indecent charges against Dave Allen, general manager of the Central Casting Corporation, who furnishes almost 95 per cent of the extras in the major studio pictures.

Moving Movie Throng by John Hall

"Too full of adventure to be briefly described," as Mr. Dickens once remarked about one of his Pickwick chapters, about describes present conditions among Hollywood producers when everybody was all hot and bothered about the church campaign for clean pictures, nothing short of Mr. Sol Rosenblatt must plop himself down in our hectic midst... Just now, Mr. Rosenblatt is about as welcome as the pitchfork. A strange coincidence is the fact that, as Rosenblatt pops in, Mr. Will Hays pops out, via fast plane, they say... Can't officially state the two occurrences are in any way related— but use your own brain. The writers, Academy and Mr. Rosenblatt seem to be facing something; it is only the writers, Mr. Rosenblatt and the Academy know the situation on the rail on the fence, books might like someone is fighting for his life... Hollywood never did take to Rosenblatt—that is, REAL Hollywood, which is composed of organized workers... The bol-pollie seem to worship at his glamorous shrine, if that is the right designation for a political bug... "Rosie," as the boys lovingly refer to the National Advertiser but not so distant, from this distance, seems to sit and pur—and make long reports, while the gang toils and moils, and nobody gets anywhere... And this is no snarl at the NRA... Rosenblatt, according to his lights, may be doing his best... That best does not reach the crannies and crevices... The scouring process is not thorough. Too many, far too many, little, seemingly unimportant details are overlooked... Take the "key men"... They are working fourteen, sixteen, and more, hours a day, without compensation for the overtime... Plainly the National Law—NRA—does not contemplate in its philosophy working any individual two eight-hour days in one week, without fair compensation... Why not look the Rosenblatt on the nose?... Then there is the matter of "talking bits"... Is a talking actor entitled to $25.00 a day—or is he NOT?... That "previous arrangement" clause is a joke... Settle this one, Mr. Rosenblatt... Many hungry actors await your consideration... We think Mr. Will Hays is coming in for a lot of unmerited abuse by certain Hollywood leaders... They will bear no brief for Mr. Hays, but fair is fair... He was hired by the producers to do for pictures what Judge Landis did for baseball— clarify things and keep them straightened... If the producers do as they darn well please and ignore him... Placed in that position, what can a man do?... If the producers will give Hays the POWER, and agree among themselves to carry out his decisions, all will be well... Will they do that?... Don't be foolish! So the burden of grief lies right where the churches placed it—in the laps of the people. The individual, the individual, if he stands alone, are to blame for the morality crusade mess in which they find themselves. They can't place the blame on the shoulders of Will Hays. We're a voice in the wilderness, Mr. Hays, but we try to be fair. It's our policy.

Famous Seers in Hollywood

Patricia, celebrated seeress who is now sojourning in Hollywood, is the house guest of Helen Mitchell (Mrs Oliver Moroso) at Villa Moroso of North Yucca, near the famous national garden of Miss Patricia is a disciple of Kiruna of India, and while in the East recently was featured in a mammoth stage production, "Bonbou Seance," sponsored by Fox. While in Hollywood, Patricia will give private readings to a select group of motion picture personalities. She is remembered for her excellent work when she created such stage hits as "Miss Mollie" at Samarkand Gardens at Santa Barbara. Patricia has just finished an extraordinary book, "Perpetuation," that will find many readers of interest in the Southland. "Villa Moroso" is one of those unique, cool and quiet spots that is in every sense of the word a "villa," and those seekers of truth will find rest and relaxation in the words of this famous seeress.

Rob Wagner's Favorites

In last week's issue, the department presented a list of the most memorable movie vehicles often seen by Edward G. Robinson during his many years of movie-going. This week we have a privilege to offer Rob Wagner's selection. Mr. Wagner, the noted film critic, who has made America "four-star conscious," lists them in the following order:

2. "Joan of Arc" (Paramount).
4. "The Kid" (Chaplin-F.N.).
5. "Morning Glory" (RKO-Radio).
7. "Jockey Square" (Fox).
8. "She Done Him Wrong" (Paramount).
9. "Monte Carlo" (Fox).
10. "La Belle Marinieré" (France-Paramount).

Runyon Story Timely, Different

It is my earnest opinion that gangster photoplays should be encouraged rather than reiled. I am not denying, during the machine gun epoch a couple of years ago, too many pictures dealing with the same theme were produced; frankly, I must concur with the general feeling that they began to get in the way of each other, seeming imitative and lacking in freshness. Yet, despite such faults, despite even the doubtful possibility of them proving to be servious inferences, there should be no denying the cinema's ability to manufacture them most convincingly and powerfully, no disputing the fact that, woven around a narrative which definitely is out of the ordinary, this type of film always will be unusually impressive and diverting. Then, too, it seems to me a third-rate gangster melodrama is pretty certain to be more effective than a second-rate parlor comedy.

There is nothing third, or even second-rate about the Universal production, "Million Dollar Ransom," adapted from a decidedly different yarn by the clever novelist in which adaptation and screen play by William R. Lippman. Of all the pictures concerning gangsterism that Hollywood has turned out, this Runyon story, produced by E. M. Asher and Carl Laemmle, Jr., is one of the most absorbing. By reason of its timeliness and its originality, the production is inferior only to "Little Caesar" and "The Public Enemy," gardens which were acclaimed as the greatest and most true to fact gangster films ever produced. "Million Dollar Ransom" is indeed descriptive of today's crime situation.

Just as Edward G. Robinson was the dynamic figure in "Little Caesar" and James Cagney the electrifying force in "Public Enemy," Edward Arnold is the dominating character in this picture. Portraying Vincent Shelton, a former gangster who comes in to kidnapping, he acts with fervor and restraint. I have not, so far as I am able to remember, seen a more natural player on either screen or stage.

Ray Roth, the director, who has heeded the graphic writing of the author, with the result that the tale is endowed with vitality and realism, the characters being exceptionally true to life. His handling lacks swiftness, Phillips Holmes, Mary Carlisle, Andy Devine, Wini (newcomer who looks like good star material) Shaw, Marjorie Gateson, Edgar Norton, Bradley Page and Robert Gleckier give outstanding portrayals. Edward Ward's fine accompanying musical score is worthy of special mention.

EDDIE SUTHERLAND TO DIRECT "MISSISSIPPI"

Edith Sutherland has been assigned by Paramount to direct "Mississippi," with W. C. Fields, Lanny Ross and Evelyn Venable.

AT UNIVERSAL

Eddie Prinz is being kept busy doing the dance sequences on "Wake Up and Dream" at Universal Studios.
FRANK LAWTON STEALS
"ONE MORE RIVER"

It is rather surprising that Universal ever selected "One More River," the novel by John Galsworthy, because Frank Lawton, backgrounded without any new angle to base a really outstanding picture. It is the story of an English girl (Diana Wynyard), mistreated in Ceylon by her husband (Colin Clive), meets a nice young Englishman (Lawton) while returning to England. Because she has a yen to sleep all night in a motor car, she is snared for divorce by her husband, is adjudged guilty of misconduct with Lawton, who is her company at that time, and loses her case. The locality is typically English, the big scenes take place in a London courtroom. Because of the new censorship the film and story have been cut out, and all the patient lives, the scars are apparent. R. C. Sherriff, laboring under these handicaps, really does a swell job with the screen play, and James Whale deserves unstinted praise for the scenes. Art Director Charles D. Hall has some lovely sets. The photography by John Mescall is excellent, Diana Wynyard turns in a good performance, but is handicapped by looks too old for her role. Colin Clive was as natty as the part calls for and well cast. Frank Lawton is charming, ingenious, gains your sympathy and gives the outstanding performance. He steals the picture, class, frame, and easel. Mrs. Patrick Campbell is excellent and puts over her lines with gusto. C. Aubrey Smith and Henry Stephenson turn in fine performances. Reginald Denny has a breezy part and does well. Jane Withers is in and out of the picture, with very little to do. Lionel Atwell and Alan Mowbray, as the barristers, and Gilbert Emery, as the judge, carry the big courtroom scenes with finesse and aplomb. E. E. Clive, as the detective, does a clever comedy performance. This picture will go over big with the highbrow element.

"PAID IN FULL"

In a basket of revivals such as the Pasadena Community Playhouse is producing through the summer months, some of the eggs are certain to have gone bad. "Paid In Full," by Eugene Walters, may interest the critic of the theatre as an example of how completely a "hit" show can become obsolete, but as entertainment it simply does not register. Excepting a fine performance by Gilmor Brown as Captain Weigand, the plot is uninteresting, and the setting by Murray Yeats and Diana Rivers, the show is a series of monotonous monologues. The remainder of the cast included Morgan Conway, Josephine Rice, Philip Coates, and William Intyre. Gilmor Brown directed, and Robert Lee designed the sets. The next Playhouse show holds extreme promise, with Victor Jory and Jean Inness appearing in "Anna Christie."

STEVIE LEAKS A "SINCE YOU LEFT"

"Since You Left" is a fine little domestic piece, the kind which is a ready-made hit. It is the story of a young girl (Muriel Pavlow) who returns to the family home after a long absence, and finds all her old cronies looking the same. The film is a topsy-turvy comedy between the smooth acting of Gordon Mewerry and Philip Dorn, and the less successful work of the rest of the cast, with the exception of the "girl" role. A. J.ˑ'

"ROMANCE IN THE RAIN"

A Stanley Bergerman production; directed by Stuart Walker. Original by Sig Herzig and Jay Gorney. Screen play by Barry Trivers. Additional dialogue by Gladys Unger and John V. A. Weaver. Songs by Jay Gorney and Don Hartman, Camera, Charles Stennar, Cast: Victor Moore, Roger Pryor, Heather Angel, Esther Ralston, Ruth Donnelly, Paul Kaye, Guinn Williams, Franklin Parker, David Worth and Yellow Horse. As we see it, this Universal Light comedy is a victory for Victor Moore, New York stage comedy star, with second honors to Roger Pryor and Heather Angel. The acquisition of Moore by Universal is a step in the right direction. Moore just about runs away with "Romance in the Rain." A modern Cinderella wins in a magazine contest, after which a hasty wedding follows (Roger Pryor) has the brilliant idea to find a Prince Charming. The scribe falls for the gal and wins her. A simple plot, well worked out by Director Walker. Incidental built up musical comedy backgrounds put this production in a spot favorable for good box office returns. It is an ambitious attempt to compete with musicals costing much more. The cast (above) gives adequate support, and the film should be a good money earner. Why a girl with a thick English accent was selected to play the feminine lead in an American light comedy is difficult to understand, especially with a Yankee top-notch comic like Victor Moore grabbing every scene. However, the little girl has a wraith-like prettiness, which must have been the real reason an American girl was not used. Hollywood has many such girls. Roger Pryor works hard, and if suitably cast, will help the "U" program. A lot on Victor Moore.

"BRITISH AGENT" ALMOST AN EPIC

A Warner Brothers Production

"British Agent" just missing being an epic by that slight fraction of something which you cannot always place your hand upon, possibly it is caused by the rather thin finale. The story is laid in Russia at the time of the collapse of the Russian army on the Eastern front, dealing with the efforts of a British agent trying to prevent the then provisional government signing a separate peace treaty with Germany and the internecine war between the whites and the reds. The screen play by Laird Doyle from H. Bruce Lockhart's novel, "British Agent," is excellent, the dialogue well done and the propaganda arguments handled in such a way that no offense can be taken. Michael Curtiz handled the direction with deft and clever touch, especially the mob and mass scenes, never allowing them to become dragging, switched in at just the right moment to keep up interest and help tell the story. Nicholas Kholksky does a swell job as technical director. Anton Grot deserves praise for his art direction. The photography by Ernest Hall is fine. Roger Pryor as the Howard Lewis as the British agent could have been a wee bit more intensive. Kay Francis, portrayed as a spy for the Cheka, is rather thin and unconvincing. The supporting cast is exceptionally well selected, Irving Pichel as chief of secret service, J. Carroll Naish and Tenen Holtz turn in excellent performances. William Gargus, Phillip Reed, Robert Milton, Cesar Romero and Alphonse Ethier as co-plotter help along the suspense with nice work. Doris Lloyd does well in a small part. The story moves at a fast pace, is intensely interesting and should make a big hit.

DUDLEY NICHOLS DID A FINE JOB OF ADAPTING "THE FATHER" INTO STAGE PLAY

The Writers Club is offering "The Father," a play in three acts by Leonid Snegoff, who also plays the leading role and directs the piece. One complaint we find is that the author-director-star overcasts in his anxiety to put over the play across. The first act should be dropped, cut down to about fifteen minutes before the curtain goes up and relax and forget the whole production, and then start off fresh. He is a great actor, one can't deny this, but this is our criticism. The best piece of natural acting is revealed by a mere slip of a girl, Jean Darling, at one time a member of "Our Gang" comedies, and who really shows a great deal of promise in her new role. Brenda Fowler is very appealing and plays a difficult part like the true artist that she really is. Others who take care of their roles to the point of helping the play move along are Victor Jory, Betty Field, and Fredric March. Howard Chamberlain, Roy Hugh Sutherland and William Trieste. The sincere and honest efforts of the producers is very commendable and should be supported by theatre-goers.

"ALL GOOD AMERICANS" IS NOT SO GOOD

Maurice Revyes offered the M-G-M Stock Players last Thursday in a three act play, "All Good Americans," starring Laura and S. J. Pereksky, directed by Oliver Hindsell. It is a light frothy comedy, lots of conversation that means nothing and seems rather thin and unconvincing. Story laid in Paris, about all the Frenchmen who turn up in the American Bar or up in Julie Gables atelier. Plot—how she loves him, he won't tell where he gets his dough, she gets engaged to another, and he and she come to the final chapter. Then the whole work is delivered to newspaper men, who is perpetually drunk (Why do all authors make newspaper men drunkards?) Leo Chalkel, as the reporter, and Betty Furness, as the friend, gave the only convincing performances. Robert Taylor and Martha Sleeper tried their best with their lines. They gave a cute little pantomime at the finale of a girl caught in the rain at the fellow's cab. The entire proceed was deduced to Mount Sinai Home for Chronic Invalids.

"HEDDA GABLER" AT THE SHOWMEN OF HOLLYWOOD-WOOD ON WILSHIRE BLVD.

The director once more fits into a breach, and plays the difficult role of "Hedda Gabler," one of Ibsen's heroines. This time it was a demand, as quite a few producers wanted to see this clever woman work, and resorted a number of casting directors present, as well as James Cruze and Betty Comson. Margery Burton continued in her original role of "Thea Elvestad," Peggy Ely was good as "Miss Tesman," Marion McCarroll played "Berta," with Lou Merrill the fussy "George Tesman." Frederick Windsor as "Councillor Brack" was perfect, with Richard Knein doing ample things to the role of "Ejbert Lovberg." Donald McKenzie was as busy as could be directing the visitors. The settings were a credit to Arnold Englander, with Molly Raschofsky attending to the multitudinous duties that call for props. "Hedda Gabler" was a fine choice for this ambitious group of artists, and next they will revive "Poor Nell" in a return engagement. Arthur Forde.
GUS ARNHEIM IS FINDER OF STARS IN MUSICAL ROW

Gus Arnheim, who heads his own orchestra at the Cocoanut Grove, is the discoverer of stars along musical row. He has a happy faculty of knowing a real artist when he sees or hears them, and he has yet to make a mistake. At the Cocoanut Grove he has as singers, all making a big hit, Jim-y Newell, Maxine Tapan, Mary Wood and the Three Downey Sisters. While the dancing team of John and Edna Torrance are in a class all by themselves. Gus knows his music and has won favor with the most hardened critics and is nightly bringing to the Grove the best people who go the dance and hence swanky spots of the Southland.

The drawing power of Gus Arnheim is remarkable, the best of society, civic, stage and screen personalities weren't their way to the Grove to dine and dance to the tuneful music fur-ished by the great maestro. In fact, he is tagging all other orchestra leaders in the Southland in this direction. The other night we ran into the Clark Gables, Milton Breaux, Sylvia Sidney,
B. P. Schulberg, Lape Velez, Joan
Crawford, Frankوت Tone, Maurice
Chevalier, Marlene Dietrich and hundreds of others enjoying themselves to their hearts' content. The way these famous folks dance up to the bandstand and chat with Gus makes one's heart get a sort of a twinge, for it reveals how one man can work his way into the good graces of the town's best people by really rendering a service worthy of this honor.

EL REY CLUB IS THE RENDEZVOUS OF HOLLYWOOD'S ELITE

The elite of Beverly Hills, Pasadena and Hollywood number among the members of the El Rey Club who dine and enjoy the amusement arranged for them by Ray Hallor, who is in complete charge of this swankest of swanky gathering places of society's best folks and the stars of stage and screen, and if the fans who go to the theatre or view screen productions can get into this club, they would find their favorites trying to forget their arduous tasks at the studios and relaxing to their hearts' content. Fuzzy Knight is featured here as the star entertainer, and he is ably supported by Tommy Rike and Gene Austin's
Boys, who furnished the music that helped make Gene the star that he is today.

A GREAT SHOW

PLEASURES VISITORS

The show offered included such well known artists as Ross and Sargent,
Harry Hayley, Adam, Jvzn,
Jimmie, and The Three Randall Sisters.
What a line-up of entertainment. The guest host, Mr. De Soto, strutted around all smiles, and was he glad handing 'em as they came into the club. We, too, felt that this was the night of nights in nite spots, for here the very ocean was rolling up to the rim of the building, singing its sweet song in tune with the crooning and singing of these artists.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Stern, Maurice
Gebber, Stella Rita, De Leon
Laux, Pauline Garon, Rene Whitney,
Eddie Brandtster, Nita Martin, Ernest
Khalphost, Oma Brown, Gertrude and hundreds of others.

exceptionally fine musical and dance program to top the show.

WAMPAS BABY STARS ARE TO BREAK BREAD AT MIRAMAR SUNDAY NITE

The Wampus Baby Stars will offer a gay revue in the Terrace Room of the Miramar Hotel in Santa Monica Sunday afternoon. This will be their first appearance in Southern California since their return from the Shrine Convention in Minneapolis, and they will offer the same singing and dancing show that proved such a hit in the East. Many screen celebrities have made reservations for the evening honoring the young stars, and Kay Kyser and his orchestra have arranged many novel numbers for the occasion.
Miran

MANOR patrons will also welcome the return of Eddie Adams, young vocalist who has been absent due to illness.
Last Sunday evening Joe Penner did an impromptu number that was a bowing success. He was loudly applauded by Jack Durant, of Mitchell and Durante, Alice Faye, Alice White, Cly Bartlett, Robert Florey and wife, Grant Withers and wife, Nick Grinde,
Mr. and Mrs. Frank Stern, Maurice

MORGAN TYLER PUTS GRAND HOTEL OVER TOP AT HOLLAND MONICA

Manager Morgan Tyler this season has put the Grand Hotel, Santa Monica, over the top, for every room has been filled and Friday, Saturday and Sunday evenings the Silver Room is packed to the doors with lovers of finer dining and dancing. The Jonathan Club members who are associated with the seashore spot are helping to swell the attendance.

Orville Kyser and his Orchestra, headed by Kayser, is at the visitors, Gene Casey. You are, we are sure, very familiar with the King's Patter Songs, Ross and Sargent.

They seemed to be in better mettle and form for the occasion than any previous appearances. There is a little gal by the name of Charlotte Murrie who walks up to the piano and starts singing blues songs as if her very soul were in each note, and if she put her heart string like they have never been pulled on before by a crooner, there is something wrong with you and you had better see a doctor. Last, but by far not the least, the three beautiful Raab Sisters, fresh. He is a great actor, one can't come through with some very pretty and catchy harmony numbers, and did the crowd go for them in a big way?
We'll say they did! Oh, yes, you must meet Messrs. Gordon and Pancho and enjoy a real treat.

PATSY STEINER ACTS AS M.C. AT CAFE DE PAREE

Entertainment at the Cafe De Paree, on the old site of the Westlake Park, features several new acts this week, supported by the music of Merle Carlson and his Columbia Network Orchestra. Miss Patsy Steiner, well known in local night clubs, has come to write a success story in California, succeeded Kenny Wilmarsh as master of ceremonies. She handles the floor show and renders several specialty songs. Another new addition to the Cafe De Paree is Miss Emily the graceful acrobatic dancer, who is be- ing featured along with Miss Cathlyn Bressette, whose original rhythm dances have won her a long engagement at the gay night spot. Fetter and Beck, dan- dig their dance team, complete the floor show.

SEBASTIAN’S COTTON CLUB OFFERS “THREE ROCKETS”

The “Three Rockets,” who made such a hit in the last review, return to Sebastian’s Cotton Club, Culver City, where they are creating a sensation, particularly since The Four Dancing Covans, who are still working in the show, continue to uncover new steps in their acts. Next in line for special mention is the work of Lionel Hamp- ton, the greatest of all cornet-trumpet drummers, who shares honors with Leon Herrford and his Whispering Saxophone. The latter also leads his own orchestra, which furnishes the music for the Broomfield and Greeley all-star colored Dixieland band. Dudley Dickerson, Octavia Smuler, Martha Ritchie, Cliff Ritchie, Jr., and many others of note. Harry Miller is as- sisting Frank Sebastian, while in the Cotton Club’s all-star orchestra are shown the Blue Bowers, Harry Bowers, and Don Swander at the piano, and how this pair can entertain.

SARDI’S COMMANDS ATTENTION OF ALL HOLLYWOODIANS

We doubt if you can find a single Hollywoodian who dines out who has not at some time or other enjoyed the fine food that Eddie Brandstatter and David Covell offer through their ex- cellent Glenadale Sardis, right in the heart of Hollywood. Old Night Hawk runs into the best people here at all times, and here are just a few of the celebs that were there at one sitting: Walter P. Salofo alone; Louis Mil- ton hunting with Nate Watt; Helen Mack with Mr. Irwin; and Lee Tracy dining with his mother.

WHITE HORSE TAVERN OFFERS ELLIOTT LEWIS ORCHESTRA FEATURING BABY MACK

The White Horse Tavern offers Elliott Lewis’ Orchestra, featuring Baby Mack, the sweetest of all Creole Rat Pack orchestras, with the Satur- day waiters, supervised by Curtis Car- penier. When it comes to a night’s real enjoyment in a place where all Hollywood dines and dances until the wee hours of the morning, you will go a long ways to find a better place than the White Horse Tavern, which believes in charging for their food and service just enough that it will be within the reach of the working man’s pocket as well as the higher ups who need not worry about what they spend for an evening of real fun and enter- tainment.

WRESTLING

In spite of the dispute last week at the Olympic Stadium as to who won the wrestling decision, Jim Browning proved himself the victor over George Zaharias by winning two falls out of three last Wednesday night. Ray Steele, Glenadale boy, won over Leo Nuna. Steele threw Nuna with such force with a series of backward body slams that Nuna injured his neck and was unable to continue.

OLYMPIC STADIUM

Three strikes and out. That’s what happened when Maxie Rosenbloom met Lee Ramage at the Olympic last Tues- day, and the following day the Lieutenant Commander Kenworthy, of the Navy, gave the nod to Ramage after ten rounds of very so-so boxing —there was no fighting. Third- and last-round meeting. Adios, Maxie. Rosen- bloom fought a good game, though it is a great barnstorming stuff, but it is out of place in there against a coming youngster like Ramage, who, by the way, because of lack of aggressiveness and punch, probably won’t go far among the tin ear boys scrambling for Max Baer’s crown. The thing might have been called a draw and nobody would have cared. Hard hitting Leo Kelley (the Deacon, by the way), stop- ped Ramage all through the round cut eye, Artie Duran-Young Dempsey, draw. Johnny Walters beats Tom Hoffman. Johnny Martinez decisioned Jimmy Kelly. Carlos Miranda took the opener from Roy Virgil. Mushy Knight dominates Green in the fourth set, and was a good crowd present, indicating a profitable evening for Messrs. Gallery and Daro.

Tom Gallery and Jack Daro are lin- ing up two bouts for August. One go will pair Gorilla Jones with Oscar Rankin; the second will show Celerino Garcia against Kid Azteca. Lou Daro favors outstanding shows only. Ordin- ary cards fail to satisfy the box office. Lee Ramage is gunning for Art Lasky.

Hollywood Legion Stadium

Mike Payan, Mexican welter, was booted to the canvass in less than a minute by Celerino Garcia in last week’s main event. Mr. George Blake stopped the boxer. This “body- punch” of Garcia’s looks fishy to us. Holding a boy by the back of the neck with one hand and ripping a looping uppercut under his helpless chin with the other hand looks very much like a foul. But Blake allowed it—so it must be Hosome. From where we sit, it looks like assassination. Tony Chavez-Chris Pineda, draw. Murray Brandt, welter, decisioned Jimmy Wakefield. Midway, Mike Young-Sneden, a sizz- ling draw. The Watts Wasp continues to please ’em. Frankie Castillo decisioned Baby Nacionalista. It was a good bout. George Turner and Gene Gilmour, as always, go to win. This week, the Watts Wasp opens. THIS WEEK: That wait for return bout between champion Freddie Miller and Tommy Paul. These two boys are neck and neck for the feather title, and this go should be full of action.

Racketeers Chisel Just Within the Law
Harold Lloyd Takes Stand Against Dual Features

Casting Directors Innocently Help to Rob Poor People

By HARRY BURNS

The racketeers who have been fleecing would-be movie aspirants of their monies have figured out a gag that permits their chiseling just within the law, and only when they get overly ambitious in trimming the unsuspecting public do they fall into the clutches of the law. The casting directors of the studios are innocently aiding these vultures in robbing the poor people by granting the so-called agents and personal representatives of the ambitious kiddies an interview, and in some cases picking the children for day jobs in the studios.

These so-called agents, the mothers of the kiddies by charging them for publicity, advertisements in their own directories, and promise to put the youngsters to work in pictures they intend to produce. We heard today that one racketeer has been rehearsing his pupils for six weeks to appear in a juvenile revue. This is an unheard of procedure, even in the case of feature productions.

WHAT? WALTER WINCHELL SCOOPED?

Heather Angel's rich English accent in "Romance in the Rain," was commented upon in Filmograph's review of that Universal production. Los Angeles scribes and—wonder of wonders!—Walter Winchell himself made the same discovery—days after Filmograph reviewed the picture.

Carmen Gould

With the coming into the industry of a series of society pictures in order to meet the demands of the reformers, the artists who appear in these talkies are destined to come into their own, so we herewith introduce a personality who has recently appeared in "Stamboul Quest," "Death on the Diamond," "All Good Americans," "Gift of Gab," "Gentlemen are Born" and "Mrs. Wiggs of the Cabbage Patch." Miss Gould is very popular on and off the screen.

Gives Reasons for the Stand He is Taking

Harold Lloyd looks upon the dual feature programs as a definite menace to the progress of motion pictures.

Asked recently his opinion of what the general picture situation would offer this year, he replied:

"I think we will see a marked improvement in the motion picture business, along with the betterment of general conditions. It naturally follows that when people are not getting enough to eat, that pictures will suffer, but we have had an entertainment starved public for a couple of years, and when the pocketbooks begin to fill up once again, the conditions will be reflected in the box office returns, as is now the case.

"We have several bad conditions that must be cleaned up, however, before the picture industry heads on the right road. Double features are a definite menace to producers. They cannot be expected to turn out twice as many pictures as they have done in the past, in order to take care of the dual feature situation and still retain the high calibre of the entertainment expected.

"It appears to me that the public is being surfeited with two picture programs, and merit has suffered, without doubt."

Lloyd is offering as his next entertainment, "The Cat's Paw," taken from Clarence Budington Kelland's Saturday Evening Post serial of the same name, which Sam Taylor directed.
"When Day is Done" and Bert Levy

The love of Bert Levy, famed the world over as a cartoonist, for the song, "When Day is Done," stayed with him, and those who were near and dear to him to the very end, for as the services were about to start Tuesday, at which time he was to be paid his last tribute by those who knew and loved him in real life, the music and song of "When Day is Done" for the going through the air, for in life Bert Levy loved this song and the composer's (Franklin Bauer) voice, and his last wish was gratified. Rabbi Isaacson, of the Temple of Israel of Hollywood, conducted the services, and paid this great artist the finest tribute we have ever heard tendered any man within our industry. We join the bereaved family in their hour of sorrow, for Bert Levy was numbered among our best friends, and his passing not only loses to this industry a great man, but a friend to everyone who needed a friend, and this goes for Ye Editor, who could always rely on Bert to draw some cartoon or other to help lighten the burden or to gladden the hearts of Filmograph's readers.

It is Not Our Jack Pierce Who was Arrested on Racket Charges

Jack Pierce, head of the Universal make-up department, was very much put out by glaring headlines stating that the police had arrested a Jack Pierce, a film official, for running a so-called school for making kiddie actors stars. Our own Jack Pierce has for years been one of the leading make-up artists, and never has been mixed up in any deal that smacked of any such activities. In fact, he won the title of the greatest make-up artist in filmland two years ago, and was awarded the Hollywood Filmograph trophy at the Blossom Room in the Roosevelt Hotel. The case of Jack Pierce and his wife, Betty, came before Judge Charles B. McCoy Wednesday, August 8, and the courtroom was packed with mothers of aspiring kiddies, who made statements that brought about the arrest and the filing of other charges by the District Attorney's offices. If our readers will only recall, it was Ye Editor who has been putting up the fight that has brought about the running down of these so-called racketeers in filmland.

With production of the Laurel and Hardy feature, "Babes in Toylanld," well under way, the complete cast of the screen version of the Victor Herbert operetta, was announced today. Supporting the two stellar Hal Roach comics, who will essay the roles of Stanley Dum and Oliver Dee, will be Charlotte Henry as Bo-Peep; Henry Kleinbach as Barnaby; Felix Knight as Tom-Tom, Margaret Seddon as the Widow Piper and Virginia Karns as Mother Goose. Others who will have important parts in the picture are Ferdinand Munier, Billy Bletcher, "Kewpie" Morgan, Gus Leonard, Johnny Downs, Jean Darling, Alice Moore and William Burress. Besides these, there will be scores of bit actors and extra players in the cast.

Baine Fight for Welfare Safeguard

Under the leadership of Supervisor Harry M. Baine, the Board of Supervisors has taken steps to secure a welfare reserve fund of approximately $5,000,000 for the care of the County's unemployed and needy during future months. Urged by Supervisor Baine, the Board of Supervisors has asked permission of the State Board of Equalization for Los Angeles County to exceed its 1933-34 expenditures more than the five per cent legal limitation in making up the 1934-35 budget.

Liberty Pictures has Gem of a Picture in "School for Girls," Directed by William Nigh

M. H. Hoffman, producer of Liberty Pictures, in "School for Girls," has a gem of a picture. It is a timely thing, since the whole world seems to have turned censor-minded. Just take a peek at the star names in this latest Liberty opus; and you will have a fair idea what the producer had in mind when he set out to make this picture, so excellently directed by William Nigh—Sidney Fox, Paul Kelly, Lois Wilson, Dorothy Lee, Lucille La Verne, Toby Wing, Dorothy Appleby, Lona Andre, Russell Hopton, Barbara Weeks, Kathleen Burke, Anna Q. Nilsson, Purnell Pratt, Robert Warwick, William Farnum, Charles Ray, Mary Foy, Myrtle Stedman, Dawn O'Day, Edward Kane, Greta Gould, George Cleveland, Helene Chadwick.

The screen play is suggested by "Our Undisciplined Daughters," by Reginald Wright Kaufman. The story from the pen of Albert De Monds seems to have been given a thorough going over for loopholes, and is censor proof. The dialogue, also by De Monds, is very commendable.

A real word of praise should go to William Nigh for the direction of this picture. The majors should be scrambling to get his name on the dotted line. Any other director we can think of offhand, right now, would have made a jumble of trying to maintain interest in all the principals in the picture. M. H. Hoffman, Jr., was associate producer, while production was handled by Rudolph Flolot. And as a parting shot, the cinematography work of Harry Neumann enhanced the beauty and standard of this picture in a great way.

"Why?"

Why doesn't someone in the motion picture field work out a plan whereby extras and idle actors can work between pictures—the leg is its stock and those players who do not wish to rest during the summer months find stock good training as well as a very good means of keeping themselves before the public. We have had two splendid examples of what stock can do—Violet Heming, for instance, at the El Capitan with Conrad Nagel in "There's Always Juliet," was a tremendous success—and now we have Jane Cowl in "The Shining Hour," another stock show under the management of Henry Duffy. Mr. Duffy's stock companies have met with success in all cities. Both of these engagements have taken in receipts not to be sneezed at. And the names Heming and Cowl tell you that the stock of today carries headliners—not beginners. But at that, stock has also given us some of our very best actors and actresses. With all the brilliant and ambitious people in the motion colony today—practically the smartest and most progressive group in acting and producing, there is reason to believe whatever Hollywood cannot build up an institution comparable to the New York Theatre Guild. Think what could be done with all the extras, plays tried out, new talent discovered. There are endless possibilities in this movement. Won't someone step up and start something?

Spotlight Theatre

The Spotlight Theatre opened Tuesday last with a delightful comedy in three acts entitled "That Kind of Love," all about a divorced couple re-marrying, each having had their own little fling to bring back the true love they had for the other. Coburn Williams, as will be remembered for her clever performance as the newspaper woman in "Broadway Lover," again walks off with honors as June, the wife, Clyde Cook, as the husband, who practically stole the play, is always natural and at ease and vibrates his usual personality. Loretta Hurley, as Grace, June's friend, gave a splendid portrayal of the woman of affairs. John T. Carlyle, as the "other man," was splendidly cast. Others deserving honorable mention are Mary Alda and Jeanne Temple. Mr. Arndt Guist wrote the comedy.

Edward F. Cline Directs George O'Brien in "The Dude Ranger"

"The Dude Ranger," first of the series of six pictures starring George O'Brien, has the following cast line-up: Irene Hervey, Henry Hall, Jim Mason, Sid Saylor, Sid Jordan, Alma Chester and LeRoy Mason. Edward F. Cline will direct, and Frank Melford will supervise. Ahtherton Productions, Inc. (Sol Lesser and Major John Zanfit) are producing this series. "The Dude Ranger" is in production, and most of the picture will be photographed around the Zion National Park in Utah.

"Mascot Not In Any Combine," Says Levine

Regarding a recent trade paper announcement linking six independent producers, including Mascot Pictures, in a combine for production, Nat Levine, president of Mascot Pictures, states that the mention of his organization is without any knowledge of such a combine on his part, and without authorization.

Monogram has Jump On Other Producers, Says Johnston

Stating that Monogram in its three years of existence as a motion picture producing concern has never at any time had a censorable subject on its programs, W. Ray Johnston, Monogram president, arrived in Hollywood Monday to confer with Trem Carr, Monogram vice-president, and to make plans to rush the present production schedule in order to get pictures into the theatres while other companies are rearranging their schedules to conform to the purity campaign. Johnston declared that his concern was fortunate in having a complete schedule of an approved type of picture far in advance of the present church drive, and that it is his intention to get the pictures out while other concerns are re-shooting many of their current productions.

"Flop House," Cross Section of New York Slums, Next Show House Offering

"Flop House," a saga of the New York slums, a moral lesson to every flapper of this modern age, is a coming feature for the Show House, acheapplayhouse on Wilshire Boulevard, according to an announcement by Celeste Rush, producing director. The American Legion cheers can still be heard by those who pass Wilshire and Hauser, still ringing as they did on the nights of August 2nd, 3rd and 4th, when the Auxiliary of the Legion sponsored a very successful run of "Poor Nell, or the Cabman's Daughter in Distress." Nothing but praise was heard for the exceptional way in which Celeste Rush and the splendid Legion Auxiliary committee, Irene Bergoon, Edna Robinson and Geraldine Borsh, headed by that dynamic Blanche Frances, handled all angles of this production.
Communism and Film Stars

HeadlinesThorak skilled morning told of film stars being linked with Reds, that a United States hearing was about to come within our industry. Such stupidity as a statement in the Los Angeles Examiner shows plainly that it is a sin heaped upon our heads, that we are not all responsible for, nor are we guilty of the charges. Imagine stars earning as high as $7,500 a week turning "red." Only last Sunday night, at the Brass Rail, Victor McLaglen stood up and addressed almost five hundred people who were present to dine with him and to hear the Long Beach Chamber of Commerce, which was present one hundred strong, pledge to put over another unit of Victor McLaglen’s Light Horse Cavalry and Women’s Auxiliary, who will do Red Cross nursing, loudly applause the famous star, who said that he formed his army to fight Communism, to put down the Reds, to be at the beck and call of the government in any and all times in the event of any catastrophe or war. He pledged that his companies would all stand back of the President of the United States, Franklin D. Roosevelt, in all his undertakings, and particularly to fight any one opposed to President Roosevelt and the United States. Capt. Arthur Guy Empey, Dr. Dinsley, Mrs. Rodman Robson and many others were in accord with Colonel McLaglen. The meeting was presided over by C. Foster Ralston.

Moving Movie Throng by John Hall

Is General Johnson, NRA Administrator, going to replace Will Hays as Czar of the movies? ... Rumor sayeth so. Rumors of a large number of new movie boys; the report lacks verification by the most interested party, General Johnson. Question: "Why did Sol Rosenberg silently slip into Hollywood, daily a few days, they say, to drive the talent out again?... No reply... During his short (silent) stay in Hollywood, Mr. Rosenberg put his foot down hard on that extra registration plan. Why?... He says it is not feasible. ... Hollywood says the producers are against it. Take your choice... Who cares?... One little thing is quite plain: Judging from the numerous complaints being filed by extras, and others, the Movie Code is not working to the satisfaction of the low-salaried workers, in both acting and technical departments... The actors are very much dissatisfied because talking "bits" are paid less than $25.00 per day... This matter MUST be settled... Common talk among the extras has it that many independent producers are practicing plenty of trickery on extras. When told to take their troubles to the Guild, these complainers shy, fearing producer vengeance by refusing to employ them again... This attitude should not be... Let us see what the Guild says about it: "The time has gone by when trickery can be used to defeat the just requirements of those who create the pictures shown of the screen of America."—The Screen Guild’s Magazine.

Walter Connolly’s Future

Since recently viewing “Whom the Gods Destroy,” I have, in thought, asked myself these questions several times; what will be the future of Walter Connolly on the screen? Will he, following his brilliant portrayal in this photoplay, be encouraged to continue his cinema career as a star, or will he be permitted to devote his time and talent to a box-office failure? If, for some unfortunate reason, the Connolly films do not bring money to their producer, I earnestly hope that the talented player doesn’t, through discouragement, return to the New York stage, where, incidentally, is considered one of the legitimate theater’s really outstanding character actors. Furthermore, this humble reviewer trusts that he will, if not successful as a stellar attraction, be contented to play supporting film roles in Hollywood. I say this, because I feel that the motion picture industry positively needs such intelligent artists as Walter Connolly.

In reviewing “Whom the Gods Destroy,” several critics have compared the acting of Mr. Connolly with that of Jannings. Frankly, I believe Jannings has more of a natural ability for the stage, but Walter Connolly has a little more subtlety and shrewdness of characterization in his acting. Connolly is less able to submerge his own personality when playing various characters. However, he does a positive job in the role he is given, and critic could say that in his performance he shows the respect that in the past he has played is pictured with careful consideration of the requirements of the role, everything he does being well conceived.

As far as “Whom the Gods Destroy,”

The Dragon Murder Case

As mystery films go, “The Dragon Murder Case” is a poor and inelegant affair, weighted down with hokum and unfolding a yarn which is as unconvincing as it is far-fetched. And yet, because of the satisfying performances given by Warren William, Helen Love, Dave O’Brien, and the other players, it manages at times to be entertaining. It is quite possible that the picture will please in locations where the spectator isn’t fussy about particulars, but it, no doubt, is doomed in larger cities among the genre.

Versatile Mr. Van Dyke

If you can disregard the inconsequential basic idea of “Hide-Out,” produced by Hunt Stromberg for Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer, you will have a delightful elixir to munch. Director W. S. Van Dyke has unfolded the story magnificently. It is so much charm and light comedy that you probably will forget its weak qualities. Added to this, the humorous, fresh and sincere performances of Robert Montgomery, Gloire O’Sullivan, Richard Barthelm, Maureen O’Sullivan, Edward Arnold and Elizabeth Patterson are most entertaining.

Thanks to Van Dyke’s delicious touches, I was, during the greater part of the picture, charmed and amused delight. This film convinces me thoroughly that Mr. Van Dyke is one of Hollywood’s most versatile directors. The fact that he has given us “Trader Horn,” “The Thin Man,” “PrizFighter and the Lady,” “Estko” and now “Hide-Out”—each entirely different in treatment—proves this statement.
"KANSAS CITY PRINCESS" IS A KNOCKOUT

Warner Brothers sure smacks the old something loose for the first time in a long time with "Kansas City Princess," an original story by Cy Bartlett, adaptation and screen play by Manuel Seff and Cy Bartlett. William Keighley directs with a hot white spark which produces exploration of laughter. Lou Edelman, the story deals with two manipulators, who not only trim the nails, but suddenly decide to trim their men-patients. Joan Blondell and Glenda Farrell make one of the most thrilling and provocative teams in pictures, getting into some remarkably tight places, then extricating themselves by using the old noodle. Robert Armstrong, a tough guy in love with Joan, forces her to be his fiancée, causing most of the trouble. His work is great. Hugh Herbert, the perfect nut, cleans up plenty of giggles. Vincent Barnett, the dopy friend, fades out all too soon. Osgood Perkins, Victor Jory and Henry O'Neill, as the suave plotters, are excellent. A lot of comedy is furnished by Hobart Cavanaugh and T. Roy Barnes. Gordon Westcott and Arthur Hoyt, do nicely with small parts. Renee Whitney looked gorgeous acting her part with ease and grace. Orly-Kelly furnished some stunning gowns worn by Joan Blondell and Glenda Farrell. Art director John Hughes spread himself with witty settings. Photography by George Barnes was excellent. The whole action is fast and furious, clever dialogue, amusing situations and packed with a lot of laugh punches which leave you groggy and with aching sides. Should pack them in with this grand cast and clean wholesome fun.—LINDY.

"ANNA CHRISTIE"

There are four fine performances in the Pasadena Community Playhouse's revival of Eugene O'Neill's "Anna Christie," and the play has been staged and directed brilliantly. Cecille Elliot is the hit of the show in the grand role of "Marthy Women." Victor Jory, Ralph Fraud and Jean Inness are about on a par at Mat, Chris and Anna. Each realizes the role fully and performs it splendidly. Victor Jory directed the play, and it moved the speed and force and decisive, effective business. Willis Knighton was responsible for the sets and they were unusually good—particularly the second, which shows the harge in a fog. "Anna Christie" is one of those plays which find the Playhouse clicking perfectly. It is a show which you should not miss.

HAROLD WEIGHT.

"DuBarry"

A Warner Brothers Production, Scores a Triumph for Dolores Del Rio, Reginald Owen and Director William Dieterle

"DuBarry," as produced by Warner Brothers, will be a big surprise and delight to the American public, with its sparkling dialogue and comedy twists, showing one of the original gold diggers in a sympathetic role, and Louis XV as the hap-hap playboy of France. The story is a series of episodes when Louis, the tired king, was looking for the diversion which DuBarry furnished the happy King, and could not put away the laughs and the charmed clean. Dolores Del Rio is charming and alluring as DuBarry, and gives one of the outstanding performances of her career. Reginald Owen, Louis XVI, plays the part of the buffoon king with aplomb and yet a certain abandon which is right provoking. Osgood Perkins, Victor Jory and Henry O'Neill, as the suave plotters, are excellent. Ferdinand Gottschalk as "Lebel," the harrassed valet, is superb. Vree Teasdale looks charming and handier role with ease. Anita Louise as Marie Antoinette, and Maynard Holmes, as the Dauphin, handle some cute situations with great discrimination. They are sweet and wholesome. The direction by William Dieterle shows a finesse and smoothness by a production of this type and he spreads himself with glory. The photography by Sol Polito is simple and effective. Orchestration by Leo Forbstein puts just the right finishing touch to the production. Dialogue direction was taken care of by Daniel Reed. The sets were of the period, Jack Okey doing a good job. This picture should be a tremendous success. It has appeal, settings and an excellent cast and acting.

CONRAD NAGEL TO STAR IN "GOODBYE AGAIN" FOR EL CAPITAN

So pleased was Henry DuBarry with the performance of Conrad Nagel in "There is Always Juliet," recently at his El Capitan Theater, that he has closed a deal whereby Mr. Nagel returns to the stage within the next two weeks in "Goodbye Again" with a great supporting cast taking part in the play.

GENE AUSTIN TO MOVE TO LIDO, IT IS SAID

It is rumoured that Gene Austin and his trio, Candy, Coco and Nuts, are to move into the Lido, the outdoor dancing spot at the Ambassador Hotel, very shortly. Noted that Nelson Eddy was there the other night applauding Gene Austin and his boys. Seated at his table were the beautiful Gall Arnold, Miss Browning and Harry Stanton.

JAMES GORDON IN HOSPITAL

James Gordon was operated on at the Hollywood Hospital the other day. He is one of the prime boosters of The Troupers Club and has a world of friends in the industry.

 CABANNE AT UNIVERSAL

Universal has signed Christy Cabanne to direct "Reeves at Midnight," the second production to be made by Cabanne. This title was once on "Secret of the Chateau," which is now being filmed by Robert Thorne, with Claire Dodd in the leading role.

HARRY L. LEWIS

The functions of no other public office are so misunderstood by the general public as those of the State Board of Equalization, claims Harry L. Lewis, democratic candidate for that office in the Fourth District. As the Board, through its power of assessing property, levying and collecting taxes, enacts an everyday influence in the lives of every citizen of California, this state of public ignorance is a strange paradox. Lewis has taken an absolute stand on tax reduction. He has stated that he considers the powers of the Equalization Board not only to include that of tax collections, but also those of tax reduction.

THE GORILLA HAS "EM GUESSING"

The showing of "Murder in the Private Car" the past week at the Panthages Theater in Hollywood has created quite a furor, particularly through the fact that there is a Gorilla in the picture which takes an important part in the picture. He looks so real that the most critical theatergoers leave the theater wondering if the animal as shown in the film wasn't the real honest-to-goodness man-eater of the wilds. We, like most every one in the theater, were thrilled so much that we feared to witness the scenes enacted by the Gorilla and the rest of the cast, all in costume.

HAPPLY MARRIED

Harry Arnheim, brother of the famous Gus Arnheim, was happily married August 2 at Yuma, Arizona, to Miss Yvette Beye. The couple were followed with congratulations from all parts of the country, and are nightly seen at the Coconut Grove, where Maestro Arnheim and his orchestra are holding forth to great success under the management of Harry Arnheim.
GUS ARNHEIM AND GENE AUSTIN STAR AT COCOANUT GROVE

Gus Arnheim and his greater orchestra continues to remain the stellar attraction at the Cocoanut Grove. Tuesday evening Gene Austin and his stooges, Candy, Coco, Nuts, opened as the added attraction. This brought out one of the typical big night audiences of stars, executives, societydons and many of the curiosity seekers. We looked forward to Gene Austin and Gus Arnheim and their musical organizations playing a number together, but were disappointed. But who knows what they might think up such an idea. It would be a wow of a number. The added features, John and Edna Torrence, Jimmy Newell, Three Donkey Sisters, Maxine Tappan and Mary Wood continue to gain great applause during the evening's entertainment offered by Gus Arnheim and his orchestra.

JIMMIE GRIER, IS PUTTING THE BILTMORE BOWL OVER THE TOP

Jimmie Grier's manner of handling his splendid orchestra and the way he helps to sell the featured artists as they appear during the show, is what is putting the Biltmore Bowl over the top. He is ably assisted by Douglas Evans, who acts as M.C., during the performance, and the broadcasts over KFI-NBC. By the time this reaches our readers, there will be a change of acts at the Bowl, so we will give you the lowdown on that part of the program in our next issue. The other evening we dropped in for a bite and a few drinks around and we ran into Sam Taylor, director of Harold Lloyd's "Cat's Paw," soon to be released; Mrs. Chas. Lamont, Harry Lichten, Stewie Talbot, Leopold Bernstein and Julius Kline in the Saloon, and any other number of celebs from stage and screen. There is something so inviting about this playspot, the service and food are excellent, and the people you meet, just the kind that you would care to be your next table neighbor, or break bread with you. Mark the Biltmore Bowl on your visiting list and by all means drop in on any evening except Sunday, when they are closed.

NELY FERNANDEZ AND RUIZ SISTERS CONTINUE TO STAR AT EL RANCHO

If you like Mexican food, entertainment and music, you must drop in at the El Rancho Cafe at Vermont and Third Street, South. Lea Law, Corporal P. D. Aguilar run this unique place, and have as stars Nely Fernandez and the Ruiz Sisters, and as a musical offering you will find Carlos Gonzalez and his Continental Orchestra. Last Thursday night, Ramon Novarro and his sister and Fifi Dorsay were the guest stars and every one had a wonderful time. The singing waiters, and our own Eddie Le Baron put on Spanish-Mexican songs that won great rounds of applause. Just a fair example of how sincere are the owners of this spot: The other night the place was packed to capacity, and Messrs. Le Baron and Aquila danced aprons and waited on their guests.

Cafe de Paree

Complete changes in floor shows and entertainment features will be inaugurated by the management this week at the Cafe de Paree, on West Seventh Street opposite Westlake Park.

Headlining the new revue will be the team of Helen Hayes, and Frank Allen, formerly of New York, who will give their interpretation of "hot rhythm dancing." Cathlyn Besette, Emmalce, and Fetter and Beck round out the remainder of the varied dancing artists at the Cafe Paree.

Merle Carlson and his Columbia Network dance band are still furnishing the music at the gay spot and are gaining more listeners daily as they broadcast over KJU. Carlson himself aids in the vocal work along with Russ Cantor and Ruth Velose.

Wednesday night Jack Daro, immediately after the Brownling-Steele venture at the Olympic Club, gave a party at the Cafe Paree. Among those present were Gil Bishop, from KKN, Bunny Muir, Howard Cantonwine, Joe Tufts Mondy, Sammy Steele and Bob and Sitt Obright, all having a dandy time. Seated nearby was Joe Pirrone, who runs the White Sox ball park.

Henry Starr Still Holds Top Spot for Long Engagements

Henry Starr holds the record for long engagements along night life row, through holding the top spot at Henri's 50-90 Club, now located in the beautiful Sorrento Beach Club, Santa Monica, where Henri De Soto has one of the finest gathering of stars entertaining the members and their guests nightly, and, until the wee hours of the morning. Among those whom Henry Starr shares his talents with are Ross and Sargent, Charlotte Murrie, the Three Randall Sisters, and Gene Casey. While the sad seas waves are beating against the club building, these entertainers make merry before the best known stars of stage and screen, society's best known town's folks, executives from all the studios, and those known for their civic activities throughout the city. The dinner crowds go away boosting the cuisine in such a manner that it is only a matter of time before seats will be at a premium at the Sorrento Beach Club. Henri De Soto personally supervises everything, and in this itself is a guarantee of the best service and pleasure for the membership and their friends at this popular beach night life club.

Sherry's makes 'em sit up and take notice

Sherry's, the latest of new spots to open, at La Brea and Beverly Boulevard, is making the natives sit up and take notice, for they offer a classy colored show and orchestra that will gladden the heart of every one who pays this spot a visit evenings. The entertainers are all stars, Johnny Horace; Shelton Brooks, who also acts as M.C.; Gorgeous Lottie Gee, Willa Lane, hoicha singer and dancer; Oc-tavia Sumer, the prettiest of the entertainers; the Harlem Steppers, rhythm boys; and the Hersholt Coleman Orchestra round out the fine show, with Tommy Smith at the piano.

Visit Often

The movie folk still flock to Chinese Kitchen Cahuenga near Yucca. Lein Goldie, James Howe and many others are frequent visitors.

Dine - Dance to the Music

KAY KYSER HAS WEIRDEST SET OF PROPS AT MIRAMAR

Kay Kyser, the man from the South, who heads his own orchestra at the Miramar Hotel, has the weirdest set of props of any maestro in the country. He includes an ironing board, plug hats, banners, and a trapeze, all of which are used in presentation of novelty numbers. Further than this, Kay dislikes his orchestra being referred to as a "jazz band," as he claims modern dance rhythms are no longer jazz. The Miramar Hotel, Santa Monica, every Sunday night offers some of the biggest stars, impressive acts. This has been drawing the best attendance of any of the seashore playspots.

SEBASTIAN'S IS HOLDING DOWN CENTER OF STAGE IN CULVER CITY

The Broomfield and Greetly all-star colored revue and the Leon Herrford Orchestra are the stellar attractions at Sebastian's Cotton Club in Culver City. The Three Rocketts, Four Dancing Coawns, D a d y le Dickerson, Martha Ritchie, C l i f f Ritchie, Jr., and any number of other stars more than hold down their end of the show. Lionel Hampton offers a novel trap drumming act that too brings great applause. In the lounge room you will find Paul Kosloff, star crooner, with Don Swan- der at the piano.

The new show at Sebastian's is a wow. They repeat the hit numbers of the last show, which was headed by Aurora Greetly and LeRoy Broomfield in the Hawaiian and Bolero numbers, and they have added a soft shoe dance to the tune of Bing Crosby's latest picture hit, "Love in Bloom." The Three Brownies, who made such a great hit recently at the King's Club, are the special attraction.

WHITE HORSE TAVERN CONTINUES TO GAIN FAMILY TRADE BIZ

The boss men of the White Horse Tavern are very happy over the fact that they are nightly building up a better family trade at their night spot. Dinner crowds are taking advantage of the opportunity to dine and dance. Elliott Lewis and his Colored Syncope- pators are furnishing the fine music, while Baby Mack and other entertain- ers, including Carlos Carpenter's singing waiters, are winning greater favor with the visitors.
Advice to Artists
By SIDODRE SCHROEDER

(Writer's Note—We have requested that Mr. Schroeder write a series of articles dealing with things vocal and theatrical. He is an internationally acknowledged authority, and we hope our readers will like them.)

Vocal tones, whether spoken or sung, are complex of sound and resonance. The speaking voice can be improved readily and decisively, by musical training. We have only one set of vocal organs, and whether we speak or sing the same organs function. When speaking simulates singing, with only small facets of the singing voice used, then only are we speaking correctly. Our quality of voice, its resonance, breath flow and support are then bound to be of a richer and finer texture and character.

Vowel sounds must be distinct and pure in quality, minus any blurring or muddling. Each vowel has its own individuality. All must be focused in the resonating chambers, never deviating therefrom, and with proper consonant manipulation, correct breath control, support and resistance, a natural easy flow of words must necessarily follow. For success in acquiring these necessary fundamentals no reconcentrated mental attitude must be entertained. There is only one correct mental activity for sound and same study in any phase of art, viz: There must be no harassment on creative imagination; no caprices of inspiration; no indolence or aversion to discipline; no delirium of whins or moods. These latter would at first only seemingly “feed” our talents but ere long consume them. There must be calm understanding; then unfoldment; then development; then the desired accomplishment.

The road to success on the screen, as in all other branches of art, is not strewn with roses, but work, work, work must ever be the watchword. All art is an austere and inflexible taskmaster. One cannot wheedle it into complacency by the allurement of a pretty face or a winning personality. One cannot coquet with it; no smile can win its favor; only conscientious, correct, deep, earnest thought coupled with unremitting patience will enable one to reach the goal. Merit invariably wins.

Bigness of sympathy with all that is real stamps all great men and women, no matter what the calling. No one who is narrow or limited, who lives for self or for his own triumphs can find satisfaction. Seldom do such find even what is termed worldly success. Perseverance and persistence are qualities that are important for success in art as in any legitimate endeavor. The world has its own way of estimating genuine greatness. Enthusiasm of the moment may sway here or there, but the abiding judgment is generally on the side of the men and women who have transcended every egoistical.

ROMANCING—AND HOW

Dave Gould, dance impresario, and Nancy Nelson, formerly of the George White Scandals, are that way about each other. Dave waited for some time before he ordered lunch at the RKO-Radio Studios, where he produces the duration serial, “The Gay Divorcee,” and all of a sudden he jumped up and greeted Nancy, and someone remarked, “There’s Dave’s heart,” and we agreed.

CUTIE FINISHES NICE BIT

Alberta Dubin, a sweet little cutie who is very talented on screen, radio and stage, just finished a nice bit in “Babes in Toyland,” at the Hal Roach Studios.

BING CROSBY PUTS OVER SOME IMPROMPTU SONGS AT EL REY CLUB

You never can tell just who is liable to step up to the piano at the El Rey Club and sing some numbers. The other night Bing Crosby did some of his best songs—and was he a hit! Right now Maxine Lewis is the star attraction at this popular rendezvous that Ray Hallor operates for members and guests of the El Rey Club. Miss Lewis is creating quite a furore with her blues songs, and has proven’ quite a drawing card. She shares honors with Kearney Walton, popular song ace. Sunday night Harry Foster Welsh, the one-man opera company singer, put on one of the famous operas, playing all parts himself. He then did a number of popular songs hit and proved a riot of fun and amusement. The El Rey is the swankiest of night places, and is becoming the talk of the Southland.

SPORTS

Olympic Auditorium

Dark this week. Tom Gallery and Jack Daro are lining up a double main event for next week. Gallery is trying to match Young Tommy and Pablo Daro and Lefty Haynes and Tony Cane,ca or Lee Ramage. No definite news when we go to press.

Hollywood Legion Stadium

Freddie Miller, feather champ in some sections, lost a lot of prestige when he met Tommy Paul in last week’s main event. Referee Abe Roth, when he gave the nod to Miller, was razzed out of the ring, his route to the dressing rooms a storm of flying programs and roars of disapproval. Paul punched Miller dizzy, staggering him with stiff short rights. Miller’s long range left swings, in the early rounds, gave him an edge, but, after the fourth, Paul slammed him at will. Consensus was that a draw would have been unfair to Paul.

MAURICE GEBBER ENLARGES HIS FUR SALON

Friday night was a great evening for Maurice Gebber, who operates the fur salon next to the Vine Street Brown Derby, bearing his name. He had an informal opening and staged a fashion review that brought out many of the celebs.

SHIRLEY TEMPLE ENJOYS VACATION

Shirley Temple, five-year-old Fox Film star, has just ended a two-weeks stay at Lake Tahoe, Calif., on the first lap of her present vacation. With the child screen star at Tahoe were her mother and father. The latter has returned to his work as branch bank manager in Los Angeles.

As little Shirley has several more weeks before starting work in her new picture, “Bright Eyes,” at the Fox Studio, she will journey with her mother to a far Southern California beach resort for additional recreation.

HURST KIDDIES BUSY

Busy children these days are the Hurst kiddies. Phyllis just finished in “Pursuit of Happiness,” Paramount, under the direction of Ralph Murphy, while Alan has been doubling for “Spanky” in the Wheeler and Woolsey picture at RKO. Baby Gloria Hurst, just two-years-old, will be seen in the latest Irene Dunne picture, “Age of Innocence.”

AL JOLSON AND MAURICE GEBBER

During Al Jolson’s last visit to the Southland, he and Maurice Gebber flew over to Catalina, and while there they decided to get away from every one and really have a complete rest. So here you have a picture of the pair as our old faithful photographer found them garnered one sunny afternoon.

REPUTABLE SCHOOL GAINING RECOGNITION

WITH THE STUDIOS

The Rainbow Studios, which has been in business for only a few months, has the enviable reputation of gaining recognition from the motion picture studios that has been very satisfactory to the managers of this versatile organization. Their clientele has been high class, their integrity established, and they are continuing to grow.

Madame Miriam Nalke, well known teacher, actress, radio artist, and stage director, is now affiliated with the Rainbow Studios. Since coming to Los Angeles, Madame Nalke has trained many celebrities, and directed the Nalke players. Adult as well as juvenile classes are being formed, and casting of plays is now in progress. A group of Rainbow children have been selected and are preparing for work in a Technicolor production. Seven have finished in “Babes in Toyland,” and eleven have been slated for Educational’s series, “The Cornets.”

“A Midsummer Night’s Dream” Slated for Bowl Sept. 17

Max Reinhardt is Due Here Latter Part of August

By HARRY BURNS

Indicating tremendous interest in the forthcoming Max Reinhardt production of “A Midsummer Night’s Dream,” to be given at the Hollywood Bowl for five consecutive nights beginning September 17, hundreds of mail order applications have been received from all parts of Southern California since seats were placed on sale last Monday. For the convenience of those desiring to purchase their seats personally, box offices have been established in Long Beach, Santa Monica, Glendale and other Southern California communities, and additional box offices are to be opened as soon as arrangements can be completed.

The production, which has attracted nation-wide attention and which, it is expected, will attract thousands of visitors to California, is being sponsored by the California Festival Association, a non-profit group organized by the California State Chamber of Commerce for the purpose of sponsoring each year in California a great festival comparable to the annual festivals of Salsburg, Australia; Malvern, England, and other European centers.

Several of Reinhardt’s aides, who have assisted in the various European productions of Shakespeare’s romantic comedy, are now in Hollywood, arranging for the cast, the musicians and the technical phases of the production. Reinhardt will arrive here the latter part of August to conduct the dress rehearsals and to put the finishing touches on the production.

Gene Austin

Owing to Gene’s tremendous personal following, his engagement at the Coconut Grove has proved an instantaneous success, and so his activities have already been extended. Gene and Candy and Coco and their new orchestra are displaying their musical wares daily at 1:00 P.M. at the Ambassador Lido, which engagement is in addition to their nightly GROVE duties, of course. The Gene Austin radio fans can now listen fifteen times a week over KFI from the Ambassador Hotel, dance to his music every afternoon at the LIDO and thrill to his romantic songs every night in the GROVE. Gene sings “BLUE SKY AVENUE” in the new Rian James Universal picture, “Gift of Gab.”

Plenty of Work Outlined by Independent Organizations Soon

Producers George Battachery and Mauy Cohen returned Friday from New York after a stay of two months, where they scheduled their program for the new season. All Chesterfield and Invincible specials, “Port of Lost Dreams,” to go into production September 1st. “The Curtain Falls,” an original story by Karl Brown; “Song In My Heart,” a musical, will be produced elaborately, as will “Condemned to Live,” a dramatic story of modern life. All the remainder of the new program will include “Dartmouth Murders,” “Harvest Time,” “My Son is Yours,” an original story by Charles Belden, who wrote “Wax Museum”; “The World Accuses,” “Fragments,” “Just Off Broadway,” a musical; “Circumstantial Evidence,” “The Ghost Walks,” a mystery by Charles Belden, who also will write the screen adaptation; “Love In Arms,” “As Youth Desires,” “A Girl Must Live,” “Gentlemen’s Agreement,” “To the Ladies” and “Dark Til Dawn.”

Invincible Pictures just completed “One in a Million,” directed by Frank Strayer. This feature marks the completion of last season’s programme for Chesterfield and Invincible, which included eighteen features, all of which were produced and delivered on schedule time.

C. M. ACTS AS M. C.

Charles Miller, popular Democratic candidate for Congress, 16th District, served as M. C. on Saturday afternoon, August 11, 1934, at Pickfair, sumptuous home of Mary Pickford, when the Post War Service League presented its annual lawn fete.
Joan Crawford and Clark Gable Share Honors in "Chained," Adroitly Directed by Clarence Brown

Joan Crawford and Clark Gable were never better suited for any story that M-G-M has produced in the past as they are in "chained," which Clarence Brown directed so adroitly, for there are many situations in which any of our stars might have overplayed or the directorial handling of the action could easily have missed fire and taken the naturalness out of the plot and made it just another photoplay, rather than a true story of what might happen in anyone's life. We find only one fault, and that is at the tag end, when Clark Gable defies Otto Kruger and actually steals his wife, whom he (Kruger) too had won amid circumstances that stamp ed him a rotter, for he gave up his wife (Marjorie Gateson) for her (Joan). The finish should be ironed out a bit. Take away the stigma of it happening so suddenly and give a more plausible reason for it, and M-G-M will have a wow of a picture that will ring the box office bell in face of all the censors of the world. Stuart Erwin steals the laughs and gives a fine piece of acting with it. Otto Kruger is excellent. Una O'Connor and Akin Tamiroff help round out the cast. Hunt Stromberg produced this picture, which was beautifully photographed by George Folsey. In fact, Miss Crawford and Mr. Gable never looked so good. John Lee Mahin's screen play was way above the average picture given the stars. It was taken from an original story from the pen of Edgar Selwyn. Exhibitors can sit back and let this one talk for them, after they announce it as their attraction, for it will pull 'em in—and how!

George Stevens is Directing Wheeler and Woolsey in "Kentucky Kernels"

George Stevens' assignment to direct Wheeler and Woolsey in "The Kentucky Kernels," by RKO-Radio, is a ten strike for the powers that be on that lot. Director Stevens is the type of megaphone wielder who will bring in a K.O. picture, because he has a happy faculty of knowing the value of real comedy situations, and he seems best suited to bring out the best fun making antics of the famous funsters. We watched them at work at the old Shelby Home on the Universal lot the other day, and we must say that theatre-goers are in for a real real when the picture is finally completed and shown on the world's best theatre screens.

Lois Wilson Scores in "School for Girls"—Lucille La Verne and Kathleen Burke Outstanding

One of the outstanding performances in "School for Girls," produced by M. H. Hoffman, was given by Lois Wilson, as the assistant matron. She portrayed her part with feeling and charm, and it was a pleasure to watch her work, and gratifying that she gave all she had to help put over an independent picture. As we went to press the night of the preview we could give but a resume of the picture. At this time we want to also compliment Lucille La Verne for her sterling performance—hard boiled but perfect. Also there were four girls in the picture of whom special mention should be made—Dorothy Lee, Toby Wing, Dorothy Appleby and Kathleen Burke. The latter gave a marvelous portrayal as the rebellious inmate of the reform school, and will go far in pictures. Bill Nigh is to be congratulated for his smooth direction and the cooperation given to him by the entire cast.

VERY GOOD, EDDIE!

Production was held up for nearly two hours on the "Stratosphere" set Monday morning while Eddie Nugent, who appears with Bill Cagney in the production, officiated as an impromptu ambulance driver in a maternity case. Eddie was waiting for a call from the

George W. Hill was a Most Beloved Man Among Men—
We Sure Will Miss Him

George W. Hill gave his all to this world and then passed out of it. He was a man among men and most beloved. We shall miss him greatly. The M-G-M lot is not the same without his smiling face to greet us. We know that his soul is at rest and that he has already received his reward and blessings for the good that he did while in our midst.

Tommy Atkins To Direct "The Silver Streak" for RKO-Radio

RKO-Radio has made a wise move in selecting Tommy Atkins to direct "The Silver Streak" as one of their features. Here is a man who has served this organization for years in the capacity of assistant director and who has in many instances jumped into the directorial chair and finished many of their pictures when the megaphone wielder was either found lacking in ability to make a real job of the picture that he was on, or was suddenly ill and forced to step out of the picture.

Masquers Stage Mess at Uplifters Sunday

Celebrating the election of Lowell Sherman to the presidency of the Masquers' Club, the annual Masquers' picnic, or "mess," will be held at the Uplifter's ranch Sunday, starting at 10:30 A.M., and ending at midnight, it is announced. One of the features of a day of many double, triple and quadruple features will be the all-star baseball game, with Willie Collier, Sr., captain of one of the teams, and Lowell Sherman for the other nine. Famous stars will be in the line-up. The "mess" is for Masquers and their guests, Don Lee and Arthur Wenzel, of the public relations department, state.

Miss Ghaghan Clicks in Bay City

The Curran Theatre in San Francisco attests the fact that good times have returned in San Francisco with a bang. This is now evident in the case of the Maxwell Anderson play, "Mary of Scotland," which is now playing its second week at the Curran Theatre. So encouraged is Producer Curran over the triumph of Miss Ghaghan in the title role of the hapless queen that he has just concluded the purchase from the New York Theatre Guild of the entire Western rights of this play. The Belasco Theatre will house the attraction early in September, and there is no doubt a new precedent in first class plays with splendid casts will be established by "Mary of Scotland" in Los Angeles.

Urge Election of Baine On His Record

Supervisor Harry M. Baine should be reelected in the August primaries on the strength of his sane, efficient and business-like record while in office. He has saved property owners in the Third Supervisorial District more than two million dollars in street assessments by extending county aid to city street projects. He has heartily cooperated with our business and civic organizations. The best interests of the Third Supervisorial District demand his reelection.

"An Intimate Evening" Clever Show at Tingle Tangle Theatre

Lundy and Heller served Barry Triver's arrangement of an "Intimate Evening" with all the trimmings and dripping with mirth and satires Thursday night at the Tingle Tangle Theatre. It is a series of skits on current pictures and general roasts on the movie world at large. Arthur Morton has written some tuneful music, especially "Will You Be My Leading Lady," with Bill Morgan, Philip Ormsby and Jilda Forde. The "Little Red Schoolhouse" and "I've Burned My Bridges Behind Me," rendered by Maxine Lewis, were received with round after round of applause by the audience. Eddie Vitch had the audience in stitches with two clever pantomimes. Bob Oakley ripped off his jokes to the biggest entertainment of his public. Louise Larabee was splendid, especially as "The Great Marlow," and pulled a big hand in "One More Cavalcade," assisted by Perry Mayo, a satire on pix with English casts. Another skit, "A Souvenir from the N.V.A.," done by Milton Douglas, Max Price and Perry Mayo, was a scream in any language. Particular attention must be called to "Alt Hollywood Children," done in negro spiritual style by Maxine Lewis and Thelma Robinson, assisted by entire cast. Arthur Morton and Jack Dale at the baby grands provided the music. The whole show is as scrwy as one could imagine; clever dialogue and a good night's entertainment. It is worth a "look see."

HARRY CAREY IS IN TOWN

Back from a tour with the Barnett Circus, after showing to about 50,000 admirers all over the Mid-West and South, in over 100 cities and towns, Harry Carey and his personal representative, Bill Crosby, is back in town and is to close a picture deal very shortly.
Clever Kiddie Deserts Screen for Stage at the Paramount Theatre

After appearing in about seventy-five pictures during the past five years, little Mary McCarty is deserting the screen for a short engagement in Fauchon and Mar- co's revue at the Paramount Theatre this week, when she appears in "The Booe- gy Man," doing her specialty, which she was so ably taught by a famous stage and screen actress, Nelle V. Nichols. Miss McCarty's latest picture in which she appeared was "Dames," a First National-Warri- ver Bros. production. The charming kiddie sings in six different languages and is quite an accomplished dancer as well. Having just reached her tenth year, she gives promise of developing into an ingenue of the first water, for she takes direction like a seasoned troupers and knows how to conduct herself admirably at all times. Miss McCarty looks every inch an aristocrat. Her co-workers will attest to her versatility and ability to look like she just stepped out of a bandbox, and Ma McCarty sits back and allows her to play her roles with her true child-like understanding, so that she will not become a stage or screen-conscious actress, but will always be natural and will play her parts with true feeling and emotion like actresses of many years' experience do when they are put to the test by their directors.

SIGNED FOR LIBERTY'S "WITHOUT CHILDREN"

Evelyn Brent, Jacqueline Wells and William Janney have been signed for important roles in Liberty's forthcoming feature, "Without Children," which will shortly be placed in production at the Palit Studios in Culver City. William Nigh will direct from the screen play by Gertrude Orr.

Telephone DR. 5151
Moving Movie Throng by John Hall

That million dollar fund to fight the church people has been tossed to the scrap heap by the producers... As suggested by this column, they have decided to save their money for good pictures... Filmoograph congratulates whoever initiated this flash of intelligence... However, there is a fly in the ointment... The producers will call the railway from outting their brains against one stone wall... Now they are going to butt their heads against another... Some one of them has made the bright suggestion that they cut down on newspaper advertising... Supposedly, this is in retaliation, because the press, as a whole, backed the men of the church, and they are bitter against the newspapers there... But one answer: The newspaper publishers have got too much common sense to butt THEIR brains out against a stone wall. They never even hesitated when they realized the POWER back of the church drive... Gentlemen of the motion picture industry: When you start to retaliate against the newspapers of this country, you are butting a stone wall... If there is no ADVERTISING in the dailies, weeklies and monthlies, the editors, naturally, will conclude that picture makers do not WANT publicity, and will TOTALLY IGNORE the picture industry and all connected with it... It is the legal right of any newspaper to ignore all who ignore newspapers... And this means slow death to all appealing to the public for patronage... Every American able to read is a newspaper reader... Those who do not read newspapers are so far away from populated centers papers are unobtainable; so they don’t count... And this is the second secret of the producers, if they do as suggested and withdraw newspaper advertising, are heading for... Common sense dictates that the producers shall continue their newspaper and trade paper advertising as though nothing had happened, and devote to cleaner, better pictures the million they started to use against the churchmen... Starting a war against newspapers is simply making the enemy take out of a little skirmish with the church... The only sensible conclusion is that the picture producers will NOT curtail newspaper and trade paper advertising as though nothing had happened, and devote to cleaner, better pictures the million they started to use against the churchmen... The decision not to spend the war fund was made in New York... Those who made that decision must at once make another: They must decide NOT to start a war with the press of the nation... And while we are on the matter, all should remember that the worst offender has been a PRODUCER—William Randolph Hearst, who went a bit beyond the needs of the occasion. The other papers of the country were moderate...
“Have a Heart”

"Have a Heart" is one of those new "purity formula" pictures which the screen is suffering from at the present time. Instead of using their brains and meeting the public demand for pictures which are not so very good, but which are cheap and convincing, some picture producers have fallen back to the sloppily sentimental hokum film with falsely accused heroes and villainous villains who are miraculously cured in the last five minutes. It is rather surprising that Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer should think so little of its splendid record to indulge in such films.

Of course "Have a Heart" is better than the run of hokum, because of the efforts of its splendid cast, and because of several clever bits of direction on the part of David Butler. In the cast, Stuart Erwin carries off the honors as Gus with his best performance in a long while. James Dunn is fine as Jimmie, and Jean Parker is very good except in those sequences where he is forced to suffer too drastically. Una Merkel is delightful, and Kate Price and Samuel S. Hinds shine in their roles.

The story was by B. G. De Sylva and David Butler, adapted by Florence Peterson and Elmer Allan Wood, so it is rather difficult to fix the blame. Anyhow, the picture is clean, and maybe they’ll like it in the hinterlands, because the plot will seem like an old friend. James Wong Howe’s photography was excellent.

—Harold Weight.

Fall Classes Being Formed at the Rainbow Studios

The marvelous bit of acting done for the screen by some of the clever child stars has aroused in every parent’s mind an interest which is demonstrated by the number of tiny children who are being brought to the Rainbow Shops for training. That these children are picture conscious is proven daily to the amazement of directors and other visitors to the Rainbow Studios. The method employed in teaching embodies the efforts of many of the stars, and the work is given to them in such pleasant form that they are constantly amused and intrigued. Mothers find that children do not want to leave when their classes are finished.

Fall classes are starting with new groups of youngsters. Beginners’ classes from 2 to 6 years, as well as older groups, are included.

Jennie Le Gon at Sherry’s

Sherry’s Café has a fine show and we looked at a very clever, fast stepper, cute little Jennie Le Gon, who is as pretty as she is game and knows her dancing on a par with the best we have ever seen. Johnny Horace is funnier than ever; then there is Lottie Gee, Wilma Lane, Shelton Brooks, the capable M. C., the Harlem Steppers, and Hershey Coleman's Orchestra, with Tommy Smith at the piano.

The Fountain

Reveals Superb Acting in a Poor Story—Ann Harding, Paul Lukas and Jean Hersholt Click

It is rather surprising that the powers that be at Radio could not visualize that "The Fountain" had such a transparent plot! The action would be necessarily slow, and in these days of a glut of English background productions, it would not enhance Ann Harding’s popularity. After the picture had progressed a short time the ending was inevitable and no amount of perfect acting by the cast or notable screen names could pull it out of the doldrums. The entire picture is in the way of perfect portrayals in their parts, but the dialogue is one platitudine after another, with no clever lines or repartee to lighten the dull drone of words and then more words. Ann Harding strives to the utmost with all her art and ability, but she does not enlist your sympathy. Brian Aherne portrays her boyhood flame and renewed kindling of her love with a regression which does not satisfy your heartstrings with one of the finest performances of his many successes; his part was ideal. Jean Hersholt, as the sympathetic uncle, turns in an outstanding performance. Sara Haden is well cast, handling a catty characterization letter perfect. Ralph Forbes and Violet Kemble-Cooper do well in supporting roles.

The direction by John Cromwell is the nightly variation.

VcM of Over

Love

Using Producers indulge in a picture which is poor from the start and which we need not waste much time in describing. The picture is "VcM of Over," the story of a young woman (played by Ann Harding) who is a child of the streets. In her efforts to make a living she is forced to marry an unsavory man, but later finds that he has deserted her and that he is an even more unsavory man in his new life. She then meets a kind-hearted young man (played by Paul Lukas) and they fall in love, with the help of some sympathetic friends (played by Jean Hersholt and Brian Aherne). The story is well acted and the dialogue is clever, but the picture is too long and the ending is predictable. Overall, this is a mediocre picture that fails to make a lasting impression.

Gene Austin and His Augmented Orchestra

Please Rideouts Greatly

Gene Austin added five more musicians to his clever trio, Candy, Coco and Nuts, and opened an engagement at the Lido, in the Ambassador Hotel. Friday afternoon, and we would say that he pleased the cash customers immensely. In fact, he has the best musical aggregation of its kind on the Pacific Coast; we doubt if you could equal it any place in the good old U.S.A. Gene divides into the Coconut Grove with his trio, and those who visit the Grove evenings will make this their luncheon spot after expense of this great attraction, next because it affords one a chance to enjoy the fine food outdoors, and when it comes to dancing to the tune of the Gene Austin music—well, it will just make you happier than you have ever been in a similar line and dance spot.

Some Stunt Worker

Dick Bolter did most of the stunts that you will see in ‘Chicane’ and doubled in playing a part which called for plenty of fisticuffs. He is said to be the last word in stuntology.

Supreme Pictures

Start Second

"The Brand of Hate," an original story with screen play and dialogue by Jack Natteford, has been selected by Sam Katzman as the second starring vehicle for Bob Steele. Lew Collins, formerly of Universal, will direct. The camera will be handled by Bill Thompson. Shooting started August 15th.

"Late Christopher Bean" is Well Received

Ben Bard produced "The Late Christopher Bean," Thursday night, August 9th, at Elks Ryan Studio, 3632 Wilshire Boulevard, for' the Wiltshire Theatre, which is a new cast of young talent who will go far in the theatrical world. An enthusiastic audience was well entertained and received the offering with rounds of applause. The cast, Gail Gardner, Malcolm Graham, Marion Mitchell, Jack Bradbury, Gwena Phillips, Allan Courtland, Cherry Martin, Gregory Golubeff and Brian Burke, acted like old troupers. The work by Gail Gardner and Gregory Golubeff was outstanding.

Loretta Young Looks Better Than Ever—Entertains Many Friends

Loretta Young, looking more charming than ever, was hostess at her home on Beverly Boulevard the other day. Assisted by her sisters, Sally Blane and Polly Ann Young, she entertained with a garden cocktail party a number of well known columnists, who were delighted to get a great look at her. Her mother also assisted with sweet graciousness, and was most happy to tell everybody who admired the cheese tasties how they were made.

Ray Benard at Universal

Ray Benard plays the role of the Greek god Apollo in Universal’s "Night Life of the Gods," direction of Lowell Sherman. From all reports, this production is to be one of their outstanding triumphs of the year.

Jack Rose’s Mother Is Here from Canada

David Broekman—Musical Store Clicks at Hollywood Bowl

Saturday night will long be remembered by musical lovers at the Hollywood Bowl, when they heard "Harlem Hymn," from the pen of David Broekman, and supplemented by the fine singing of Clarence Muse and other colored stars, who sang throughout this rhythmic melody of Harlem. It was the first time that this musical score had ever been heard publicly, and gives promise of developing into a great measure, especially with the ensemble background that was offered upon this auspicious occasion.

Back with Tommy

Jack Pase is back again with Tommy Little, head of the KRO- Radio prop department. They seem to have a knack of working well together.
Gus Arneheim is building his greatest following at the Cocoanut Grove nightly. At no time since he first made his hit with this show at dawn of its place of the best people from Southern California has he endeavored himself in a greater measure, and that is quite an accomplishment, when one remembers that through the years that he has been away from the Grove, other maestros have come and made a hit there and then gone on their merry way to gain greater glory. Maestro Arneheim's added popularity comes to him through his untried efforts to give cafe lovers the very best in music and the personal attention that he gives to please them. At this time he has John and Edna Tapes sensational dancers; Jimmie Newdoll; the Three Downey Sisters; Maxine Tappin and Mary Wood helping to win added favor with Arneheim, and across the floor Gene Austin, Candy, Coco and Nuts are a riot of fun and amusement during intermissions. Gene Austin is keeping the crowds at this spot until the wee hours of the morning by his clever song hits. This other night he sang Walter Donaldson's hit song, "Blue Heaven," as a tribute to the author, who took a bow, and it went over in a big way. Gene Austin is a star attraction extraordinary, and Ben Frank, manager of the Grove made a wise move when he signed him. By the way, Ben flew to Chicago the other day—there must be something in the air. What? Well, wait and hear when he gets back.

EL REY CLUB SHOW

The members and their guests who visit the El Rey Club this week have the best treat along these lines that has been offered bereft in some time. Headed by the Eddie Bush Trio, formerly the Biltmore Trio, you will find Gene James and his intimate music, Besse Benoit, Kearney Walton and Freddie (Sunshine) Skinner, Ray Hallock has had careful selection of his entertainment, just as he is in the matter of picking the membership of this club, which is made up of the elite of the Southland. It is the play-spot of Hollywoodians, and old man Night Hawk just loves to give the place the once-over nightly.

EARL BELL PROVES BIG HIT AS M.C. AT MARSHALL'S RENDEZVOUS

The site club beautiful, Marshall's Rendezvous, located on Flower, near Sixth, is right in line to become the most frequented popular price cafe in the heart of Los Angeles. Bob Gamble, manager of this play-spot, has lined up an excellent floor show, which is headed by Earl Bell, who acts as M.C., and if you ask us, he is making quite a hit. The beauty about Earl is that he never attempts to be funny, and sings and dances very cleverly, and has a fine way of commanding attention. On this week's program you will find Jean De Loach doing a tap number that brings down a big hand. Mills Barlow, a peppy and captivating acrobatic dancer; Jean Faye, who shows us what a real Hawaiian dance can be in the hands of a beautiful and shapely girl; and to top it all off, the Sid Diamond Orchestra furnishes the dance and show music in an excellent manner. The food is as good as the best, and one look at their kitchen and chef will make you feel like placing Marshall's Rendezvous on your regular visiting list.

ALAN WOOD STARS AT THE CLIFF Dwellers CAFE

At the eleventh hour Alan Wood was signed to act as M.C. He is a great favorite with show folks, and has built up quite a cafe following in some of the best spots in and around the film capital. He is one of the niftiest singers and dancers, and knows how to build up the acts that he presents to those in attendance at the places where he is working.

Pat O'Shea, a new crooning star, proves a knockout at the Cliff Dwellers, where he is nightly singing to great applause as he heads the big variety show offered at this spot that George Distel is managing. Others who are making quite a hit are Maxine Barbor, that blonde menace, Ava Williams and Lita Marty. The dance music furnished by that clever quartet of feme musicians makes the natives step high, wide and handsome. The food and refreshments are equally enjoyed by the guests, who stay on until the wee hours of the morning. The Cliff Dwellers is located right in the heart of the theatre and dance district of Beverly Boulevard, and fast growing in popularity with stage and screen stars who make this their rendezvous.

VANITIES CAFE CREATES NEW LIFE ALONG HOLLYWOOD BLVD.

With the opening of the Vanities Cafe, formerly the Moutmartre, new life has been added to Hollywood Boulevard, for Billy Zidell has arranged one of the best all-around entertaining shows and has refitted the place in such a manner that it promises to bring the best kind of family trade into this latest of playspots opening its doors in this vicinity. Bobby Maurice, formerly of the Club Richman, in New York City, is the clever M.C. who heads the show, and is backed up by Frank and Helen Lee Wilmott, the Six Vaniteasers and Wayne Wise's Comedores, while the entire show production is in the hands of James Blackburn. The chef, Sarlaw, formerly of the Salainga Cafe, is in complete charge of the cuisine.

SEBASTIAN'S LOUNGE ROOM DIVERSION CATCHES EYE OF NIGHT LIFE LOVERS

The lounge room that Frank Sebastian added on to his club in Culver City has caught the eagle eye of the night lovers, and they are nightly dropping in there during and between the Broomfield and Greeley all-star colored revue. At this spot you will find plenty of fun and amusement. Heading the show are Aurora Greeley and LeRoy Broomfield, next the Three Rockets, Four Covans, Martha Ritchie, Cliff Ritchie, Jr., Dudley Dickerson, and any number of other stars, and not forgetting the beautiful chorus of Creole steppers and singers. Leon Herford's orchestra features Lionel Hampton at the trap drums, this rounding out the show.

GRAND HOTEL CROWDS ENJOY O'VILLE KNAPP'S MUSIC

Orville Knapp's Music Orchester, which includes Virginia Verrell's singing, are making quite a hit with the Grand Hotel guests in the Silver Palm Room; every Friday, Saturday and Sunday night, for they are putting on a program of music and song that satisfies the most critical person dropping in there.

Of all the nite spots along Santa Monica Boulevard, the Black Pussy Cafe is being best attended by the Southland's best known satelites. JIMMIE GRIEAG AGAIN PROVES MASTER OF BILTMORE BOWL SHOW

Jimmie Grieg again heads the Biltmore Bowl show with his clever handling of his orchestra, and what proves the best variety of acts that Baron Long has garnered together to amuse his clientele at this temple of amusement. Heading the show is John and Harriet Griffith, a classy dancing duo, who do a take-off on George Raft and Carole Lombard in the "Rafto" bolero, as they did in the picture of that dance name. The Three Blue Blazes uses some new and very entertaining dance steps. Flora Duane comes back with a beautiful Spanish number this week, and Rose Wallace proves herself the singing artiste. Joaquin Garay hasn't an equal as a floor show singer; he gets right into the hearts of his audiences and holds 'em all the way. Jon Tio, the bird with the human brain, continues his patter, is held over and goes bigger than ever. The crowds that are packing into the Biltmore Bowl are the finest people in town, and they are being very capably handled by Captains Barker, O'Connell, Stieber and Aggeriaca, with Fred Balu as manager of this popular dine and dance place.

Dirt Seems to Pay—and How!

Ridiculous and unfair to hold the movies solely responsible for humanity's trek toward the sensational and harmful . . . Figures show that not since the Lindbergh kidnapping did the presses run so heavily over schedule as they did following the tried-and-true story of Dillinger. Tabloid papers made the biggest kills in New York Daily News went 500,000 over normal. Presses running all day the Monday following gunman's death at hands of Chicago policeman on Sunday. Another tabloid, the New York Mirror, went 150,000 over normal business. Reports from other cities show increase in sale of all papers carrying Dillinger death news. In Chicago, Jack Lait's column made them gasp with his stories about Dillinger. Papers fairly eaten up.

What Do You Make of It?

In Pasadena the other day I learned from an exhibitor that, "I'm No Angel," starring Mae West, broke all records for number of re-showings—and this in a city which has always watched pictures with a keen eye, as well as having a city censor.

Returns

Eric Von Stroheim will shortly be seen as the star of "Fugitive Road."

Our delightful Carl Brisson has at last decided to turn producer, teaming with former Mayor James Walker. It seems Brisson has already advanced $5,000 toward it. All we ask is that Brisson will sing in every scene. He is now at work on "All the King's Horses." Mr. Brisson is also author of three books.

Elissa Landi, newly signed Paramount player, is soon to start work in a new musical, "Yours To Command." Miss Landi formerly studied for grand opera, but gave up the drama.

Carole Lombard waits from "Orchids and Onions" to "Now and Forever." Rumored to be the Doug Fairbanks, Jr., and Gertrude Lawrence contemplate playing on Broadway next year.

Might be a good idea to have "Men in White" trail "Cleopatra." Henry Wilcoxon first suffered stab wound in leg and the other day while back for some retakes on this picture suffered another gash. This time the little finger on the right hand.

Women's Clubs praise Dietrich's "Scarlet Empress"—best picture of the month, they say. We're glad.

"Journey's End"

No wonder R. C. Sheriff went into such ecstasies at dress rehearsal of his noted war play, "Journey's End," running at the Hollywood Playhouse. Few authors have had so fine a star as Colin Clive and so splendid a supporting cast to carry their play to such laurels. Colin Clive again distinguishes himself as one of our finest "imports," and was given a hearty ovation and welcome back to the leg. The cast included John Warburton, who gave a realistic and genuine portrayal, Forest Harvey, Robert Adair, Desmond Roberts, Gerald Rogers, Reginald Sheffield, E. E. Clive, Henry Mowbray, Stanley Mann and Kurt Muller. The dugout was very realistic and brought back to our minds the world war—pathetic yet glorifying.

"Flop House" Brilliant at Wilshire Show House

Legitimate playhouses have two types of attractions these days, the modern presentation of up-to-date plays, and the comic burlesque of the 10-20-30 melodramas of yesteryear. "Flop House," which opened last Monday at The Showmen of Hollywood Theatre, on Wilshire Boulevard, was a combination of both. Honors for acting must go to Helen Tobias, who, as Becky Finkelstein, keeper of the flop house, created such a sensation that the first night audience gave her six curtain calls. Alice Sebastian, as Marta, the seemingly wronged ingrate, was splendid. Gay Logan, as Dave, the hero, was convincing. The self styled "notorious Madame Kate" was excellently portrayed by Lorri Bowen, although she showed nervousness in spots. Orville Medley, Aaron Viller and Mabel Parsons were good. A swell bit was done by David Starling as a broken down drunk, while Fred Frieburg, Merle Lewis, Jack Reagan and Van Rohl, in the smaller parts, were pleasing. "Flop House," a good show which opened too soon, as it closed last Friday. It should be brought back by "The Showmen" for a longer run.

SPORTS

Hollywood Legion Stadium

The unusual at the Stadium is a poor house. Manager Matchmaker Charley McDonald never has a poor house, the big place being filled week after week. Last week the place was jammed with regulars who wanted to greet little Lon Salica, Olympic bantam champion, who journeyed from New York to tackle the tough Korean, Joe Tie Ken. And what a sensation the boy from the East proved himself! From the first round, he gave Tie Ken a boxing lesson, taking in return a vicious body beating few lads could have taken. But Lou is a master boxer and as game as they come. He had too many gloves for the rugged, clever Tie Ken, taking all he had to give and boxing him dizzy, easily running away with the nod from Referee Frankie Van, who, by the way, devotes his days to the sport, for Best Wheeler of Wheeler and Woolsey. It was a great bout—one of the reasons why McDonald keeps 'em coming. Johnny Hines, another Olympic champ, was lucky to get the nod over Gege Van- vante. The decision was boosted. Rice Acosta, in what looked like a bitter battle, decisioned Rudy Mendez. Teddy De Francis won from Johnny Walters via technical K.O. in the third. De Francis won all the way. George Tur- ner won from Del Price, and Dick O'Brien took the opener from Jimmy Breslin. THIS WEEK: Frank Row- mesey meets Abe Feldman, who fought Bob Olin a tough go. This one should be a hummer. Rowsey has been rest- ing and is in great shape. Feldman is no man's set up.

Olympic Auditorium

Dark this week. Will open the 21st with a double main event bill. Tentative program: Gorilla Jones vs. Oscar Rankin and Leroy Haynes vs. Tony Cancellia. Johnny Risko, the Cleveland baker boy, has agreed to meet Lee Ramage in the near future. Ramage has started training at San Diego.

CULVER CITY KENNEL CLUB

REVAMPED INTO SPEEDWAY SHORT TRACK AUTO RACING

Not so long ago a state law was passed that made dog racing in California prohibitive. This last week a lot of race plants into inactivity and several thousand people out of work. One of the most beautiful of these plants was and is the Culver City Ken- nel Club, on Washington Boulevard near Lincoln Boulevard. The Culver City Speedway, as the new plant has been named, will hold races on Sunday afternoons at 2:15 P.M., starting Aug- ust. Admission will be 25 cents for adults, 25 cents for children. Re- served box seats will be 75 cents.

KIDDIES

JACKIE MORROW MAKES HIT AT GREEN ROOM CLUB

Jackie Morrow proved what a clever youngster he really is that other day at the Green Room Club, made up of many prominent actors, when he did his song and dance which has made him such a favorite on stage and screen throughout the East. The youthful actor works like a veteran, and made the old timers rave over him and de- mand many encores.

Jean Darling is working in "Babes In Toyland," the Laurel and Hardy feature at the Hal Roach Studio.

Anne Howard will appear in "Great Expectations," at Universal, as Estella, when a child. She is a clever little actress. Her direction is perfect. Stu- wart Walker, who is directing, is quite charmed with her quick adaptability.

"Mickey." Rentschler has been signed by Supreme Pictures in a smart part with Bob Steele as star.

Shirley Jean and Donald Rickert have been busy lately, Shirley Jean in "I'll Fix It," at Columbia, in a nice bit, and Donald at Columbia and Uni- versal.

LAWLOR SCHOOL ENTERTAINS

Lavlor Professionals' School again opens with an enrollment of three hun- dred. Director Viola Lawlor has planned a delightful open house on Sat- urday, August 18th, to greet all her old friends as well as new. The Green- wich Village atmosphere in all the studios has been designed with the most accurate conception and good taste. A most charming environment for the pupils. Such names as Tony Wing, Tom Brown, June Knight, and scores of others who have been recognized by the motion picture producers have gained their poise and knowledge in this fine old school.

SHIRLEY COATES

AT PARAMOUNT

Little Shirley Coates has just finished a small role in Paramount's "Pur- suit of Happiness," under the direction of Ralph Murphy. From there she went to the Warner lot, where she played in a Technicolor production.

HOPEFUL

Dickie Jones, now working in "Babes in Toyland," is a real rider as well as dancer, and no matter how busy he is at the studio he never forgets his pony, and gives him his usual exercise by trick riding in hopes some studio may catch him to "ride. Dickie is assigned a nice bit in the "Gay Divorce" at RKO.

Influx of New Story Material Helps Save the Day

By HARRY BURNS

The much dreaded slack period which strikes the picture studios around these months, yearly, is being hurdled in a very good manner by the producers, regardless of all the censorship and boycott troubles. for the scenario departments are working almost at top speed, and within thirty days every studio will be turning out more pictures this year than they did at this time twelve months ago.

All this should be good news for every worker within the film capitol, for they have sort of stood back wondering just what was liable to happen next, and hoping that something or other would tend to relieve the lack of work in their chosen calling, and sure enough, it has happened, and we are soon to see better times.

One of the main factors in helping right this deplorable condition was the fact that Joseph Breen passes on all censorship points, and his O.K. is final with the producers, and up to date it has worked wonders, for Hollywood no longer has to wait on New York’s O.K. as far as censorship on their stories goes.

JIMMY DUCAN

ENTERTAINS

Clark K. Gill, state traffic officer of the California Highway Patrol, and Jimmy Keown, John Luchamich, Kenny Logan and others, were the guests of Jimmy Dugan. Mr. Gill was a great help to Dugan while he was assisting Marshall Nelan, the director of “The Lemon Drop Kid,” take some scenes on the state highways.

Just as Vital as SERA and CWA Funds Expenditures

The United States of America has set out through President Franklin Delano Roosevelt to place 4,000,000 people to work through the efforts of certain administrative boards, and aside from this, we already have the SERA, which is producing plays with unemployed actors. Why not extend this to the cinema workers. Make certain pictures with the unemployed, sponsored by the government. Lend a hand to those at the mercy of the Motion Picture Relief Fund.

The motion picture people help support the country at large. They are numbered among the tax payers, and if the monies of this country are to be spent for relief work, we feel that those who are taking a hand in outlining where these funds should be spent to help bring about greater prosperity, could not find a better place than right in our own industry.

Southland's Best Dancing Beauties Seek Jobs in “The Great Ziegfeld” Production at the Big U

TO WILLIAM BURRESS

GRAND OLD Trouper

Sunday, August 19th, was the birthday of one of the dearest personalities in pictures. The staff of Filmmograph wishes to extend to William Burrell their heartfelt congratulations and best wishes. William Burrell has played many parts on the stage and on the screen, but the loveliest part he plays is his sweet, quiet self, with always a good word for everybody and a helping hand to the discouraged. He is indeed a credit to his profession, and we wish him many more years of good health and contentment.

WHERE IS MATTHEW BETZ?

DE GOFF IS MAKING CLUB TROUVILLE THE HIGH SPOT IN FRISCO

Frank Castle and Jack Settenrich, the sensational piano duo who have been featured the past weeks at San Francisco's smart night spot, the beautiful Club Trouville, have again been taken out of circulation by a long term contract with DeGoff, under whose ownership the Club Trouville is achieving national fame. Frank Castle is producing and starring in the club's revue, which is already one of the most popular radio features originating in San Francisco. Castle, under another name, was formerly a concert pianist appearing with the greatest musical organizations, both here and in Europe. Henry Duffy heard him play during a concert at the famous Del Monte Hotel and persuaded him to become musical director of one of his San Francisco theaters. Teaming with Jack Settenrich, they have developed the most unusual two-piano combination to be heard on the coast.

NEW YORK NIGHT LIFE BEAUTY ARRIVES HERE

Marcia Knells, the orchid girl of New York's night life, whose glorious voice and blonde loveliness has been the feature of Manhattan's swank night spots, is a new addition to Hollywood's famed beauties. Coming west for a rest and a holiday after two seasons of continuous club and radio appearances, it appears that she is not going to be allowed to remain idle. When Ben Blue did a series of shorts this spring for Warner Brothers in the east he persuaded her to do the lead opposite him, and those who have seen those of the series released will credit Marcia Knells' unusual beauty, plus a splendid speaking voice that records perfectly, will win her great success in pictures.

WAGNER ADAPTING OWN STORY

George Wagner, Universal scenarist, has been assigned to writing the screen play of his as yet untitled original story, which sold recently to Lou Ostror, Universal producer.

Cafe de Paree Puts on a Peppy Variety Show

The Cafe De Paree puts on a peppy variety show this week, with Russ Cantor as M.C., who croons in between acting in that capacity. Nick Cochran, a clever flunter, heads the acts. Naomi Warner, a sweet young miss, sings with plenty of feeling and a keen understanding of her songs. Then there are two dancing acts, Petter and Beck and Frank and Helen. Cathlyn Bessette finished her engagement Wednesday night so she could go east to join Ted Lewis and his Orchestra.
“THERE’S ALWAYS TOMORROW” GOOD COMEDY—WELL ACTED

Universal has produced in “There’s Always Tomorrow” one of the funniest comedy dramas ever produced. As a matter of fact, it is really a comedy with pathos, a rare comedy for it gives the audience腹部 laughter for reel after reel, and at just the right moment the real-pathos creeps upon you with a tender, gentle touch. The picture is wholesome, depicts the life of the average American family, and is so well produced that the acting and direction makes itself felt without the use of boxing gloves. Ralph Morgan turns in a great piece of acting, without smirking, as the neglected father. Blanche Barnes is charming in an intriguing performance. As a newcomer, she covers herself with glory. Lois Wilson and Louise Latimer fill in nicely. Robert Taylor, as the oldest son, acts with just the right pathos, and in the second act when Winslow and Maurice Murphy, as the twins, put over their lines to the delight of the audience. Helen Parrish was cute as the youngest child, snippy and snippy. Margaret Hamilton, as the stern matriarch, brings to her role the same quality that pictures today. She is absolutely a knockout. Edward Sisson directs in just the right tempo and times the comedy with precision. It also wrote the story, with contributions by Christine Ames and William Hurlbut. Photography by Norbert Brodine excellent. Nice sets by Charles D. Hall. Sound by Gilbert Kurland good. Danny Mandell did a fine job as film editor. We congratulate Henry Hengis for giving the public such a clean, mirth provoking picture which should be an instantaneous success, and Carl Laemmle, Jr., for keen perception and foresight.—LINDY.

“WITHIN THE LAW”

An even more pertinent study of social conditions today than when first produced, Bayard Veiller’s great melodrama, “Within the Law,” was received with vociferous enthusiasm at its Pasadena Community Playhouse Revival. Hardie Albright, Marilyn Spreck and Onslow Stevens were the featured players, and each one contributes greatly to the hit. Hardie Albright has a great talent for attracting movie scouts. Robert Taylor, Sam Flint, Hamilton Cummins and Gerald Fielding were good, and Gigli Parrish shone in a bit. Hardie Albright directed the show and modernized it so thoroughly in technique and dramatic style that it might have been written at the present moment. Willis Knighton designed the settings, and Gilmore Brown supervised. Within the Law is a worthy follow-up for the Playhouse’s grand production of “The Adventures of Anna Christie.”

—HAROLD W. HEIGHT.

“YOUNG AND BEAUTIFUL” GREAT ENTERTAINMENT

“A Mascot Picture.

“Young and Beautiful,” a Mascot Picture, is what one would call “the Producers” answer to the “Exhibitionist’s Prayer.” It has all the earmarks of a major production. Nat Levine is to be congratulated for presenting a fast moving breezy musical with just enough plot to keep the ball rolling. The action centers on a press agent for a studio (William Haines), engaged to marry an actress (Judith Allen) just breaking into movies. As he can see only publicity possibilities for her at every turn, this obsession causes all the trouble. What will please the public is the introduction of all the principals immediately with a bang, tuneful songs, the 1934 Wampas Baby Stars, who appear all through the picture, showing plenty of talent and lots of pizzazz, and the studio shots. One song, “She’s Got That Way,” by Harry Tobias, Neil Moret and Ted Fio-Rito, will probably be a season’s hit. J. Bernard Grossman, Ted Snyder, Jay Kern Brennan and Jack Starns also contribute nifty songs and music.

William Haines turns in a great performance. Judith Allen proves herself a darned good actress, and Joseph Cawthorn, as the dyspeptic producer, is a wow. John Miljan, who is the love menace, for a change has a dandy part, handles it gracefully and should be groomed for bigger and better things. Shaw and Lee do a mirth provoking “piano movers” skit; they deserve more footage. James Bush and Warren Hymer are excellent. Vincent Barnett does some clever dumbstructing. Ted Fio-Rito and his orchestra play the tuneful melodies to help along the entertainment. The direction by Joseph Santley was spot on time. It was a good job at the scoring. John Stemner handled the camera with some novel effects and the recording by Balsley-Phillips is excellent. Joseph Santley and Milton Krims did the story and adaptation from the screen play by Dore Schary, with additional dialogue and construction by At Martin and Colbert Clark. Claire Joline contributed some stuning costumes—“Young and Beautiful” should pack them in. It is a clean, clever, corking combination of talent and tunes.—LINDY.

“IRIS MARCH” GRIPPING

—M-G-M PRODUCTION

In order to comply with the new censorship rules and the general howl for clean pictures, M-G-M has done wonders in adapting “The Green Hat,” generally considered, and the Akins can feel proud of her work. The splendid cast plus excellent direction by Robert Z. Leonard and the keen photography of Charles Rosher, will put this picture over. Constance Bennett and Miss Akins work hard to convince the audience of her sincerity. She accepts her cross with a humility that is touching, arising to great heights of emotion with a repression that grips. Herbert Marshall, as the vacillating Akins, gives a good performance. Henry Stephenson, Akins’ father, as the stuff necked old-school Englishman, carries on with just the right subtle touch. Robert Loraine and Lucien Little, the two mentors, handle their assignments beautifully. A great performance, as the drunken brother, weak, but with the saving grace of worshipping his boyhood friend, is offered by Hugh Williams. Ralph Forbes, “Boy Fenwick,” and Elizabeth Allan are well cast, with little to do but well done. Mrs. Patrick Campbell fades out after a few lines. Leo Carroll as the doctor, is to be commended for a nice bit of work. Constance Bennett will work hard to convince the admirers to her banners by the artistry of her work.—LINDY.

NOT MORALITY BUT THEIR OWN SPECIAL INTERPRETATION OF MORALITY UPON THE WORLD AT LARGE.

DANGEROUS TO HONEST REFORM

These men are just as dangerous to the clean-up campaign as they are to motion pictures. Their stupid prejudices will discredit the entire movement, unless the sincere workers purge their ranks. It is salaciousness and cheapness which must be fought. There is no room in the battle for bigotry and prejudice and blue law advocacy.

Nor should the motion picture producers merely accept such outrageous attacks as the banning of that lovely film, “Little Man, What Now?” When they know they are in the right, they must stand up and if need be fight, carrying the fight to the American people.

HOT SHOTS

By HAROLD O. WEIGHT

Good Pictures Will Win

Motion picture producers have been challenged by the clean-up campaign. They must answer the demand for clean pictures with good pictures. They cannot regain lost audiences by diving headlong into sentimental slop and 100 per cent piety, without artistic or dramatic merit. They must make films which will build up the entertainment appreciation of the elements of the public to which films already appeal, while at the same time interesting audiences which only their exceptional films have reached before. They can do it, by bringing sincerity and honest and artistic freedom of expression to the making of motion pictures.

The Lunatic Fringe

Every movement or industry or organization which involves human beings is always cursed with a lunatic fringe. In Hollywood the lunatic fringe makes the most noise, and is therefore apparently accepted as the expected product of the film industry.

For example, the reasonably sane producers have stood complacently by while the lunatics alienated the American public with salacious vulgarities misnamed entertainment. Worse, despite a few voices in the wilderness warning of the wrath to come, these producers who started by tolerating the movie of sexual acrobatics, ended by embracing it.

And now, when the day of atonement has inevitably come, these movie moguls show every tendency toward meekly accepting the manifestos of the lunatic fringe of the reform movement.

HALF-PINT NAPOLeONS

Do not misunderstand me. The campaign of religious and secular leaders to sterilize Hollywood was bound to come. I and others predicted it years ago, and I am strongly behind it now. The film industry allowed itself to be controlled by a “dummy” organization which pledged reform and then made no attempts to make it. It fostered the publication of millions of pages of “love lives” and gossip in the fan magazines. It allowed the average citizen to obtain a picture of Hollywood as a cross between Sodom and Gomorrah, with a dash of straight Hell for seasoning. It then lent considerable weight to that impression by the production of dirty pictures.

But my objections to the producers of dirty films are equalled by my objections to the cranks and professional reformers and half-pint Napoleons who have attached themselves to the clean-up and who seek to enforce...
Doug and Mary

The marital troubles of Douglas Fairbanks and Mary Pickford have been given such wide publicity throughout the civilized globe that it behoves every one who can do a single thing to help bring about a reconciliation to do their level best in striving toward this end. And if Doug and Mary value what this great industry has done for them in the past, they will do all they can to bring about what the whole world is looking forward to, and that is their once more becoming the most beloved and respected representatives of the cinema art, as the ideal couple that the public will admire and respect, and stop all this tongue wagging and talk regarding their private affairs.

Moving Movie Throng by John Hall

Just now motion picture Hollywood is a tumbling show and a flea circus combined. . . . Climax after climax startling the astounded spectator as the big bugs tumble over each other and the little fleas move hither and yon, closely watching passing events, hunting this, that, in the end, all will be well . . . Reports from the hinterland state: "The boycott lists (of pictures) are drawing customers because of their desire to see something that the churches did not want them to look at."—Trade paper news item. . . . This is true, Trade papers handling this matter should be shunned by producers . . . It is open defiance . . . Under the present circumstances, open defiance of the churches spells FIRE AND CENSORSHIP SHIP . . . The churches positively will refuse to fail—and when they put their combined pressure on Congress! . . . You tell 'em, George . . . Who would expect to find in O. O. McIntyre a powerful (though entirely innocent) supporter of a picture and stage reform movement? . . . "Old-time millers that inspired another generation with teneness are, of course, merely rib-tickers for moderns." O. O. McIntyre . . . WHY? we ask . . . Have those in control of our dramatic culture made a JOKÉ OF VIRTUE? . . . Are their ribs tickled by: "Rags are royal raiment when worn for virtue's sake?" . . . The masses once cheered that sentiment . . . When they ceased cheering—the decadence of the American drama started . . . These—and much more; oh, much—constitute the tumbling bugcircumstances of circumstances, leading the trained flea parade . . . Mr. Hays, in his new capacity of Arbiter, advises church dignitaries of Hollywood's censorship plan . . . Archbishop John T. McNicholas, of Cincinnati, chairman of the Catholic bishop's committee that organized the Legion of Decency, writes: "One recognizes that there are legitimate dramatic values in life, affording themes of proper and profound interest to mature minds, which would be utterly unfit for the impressionable minds of youth. Those who have thought the problem through are convinced that many pictures should bear approval for adult patronage, while others could be permitted as general patronage." . . . This leaves the road to worthwhile pictures wide open . . . Nothing could be more liberal . . . The Bishop's statement is Catholicism at its liberal best. Mr. Hays and the powerful churchman have made a step in the right direction . . . Hollywood's tumbling bug and flea circus show is a lot of bother about nothing. The common-sense and political sagacity Will Hays has used in managing things the producers keep from the public is displayed in this public correspondence with one of the most powerful of the church leaders. Boasting that the masses—always ready to be naughty—are patronizing pictures on the blacklist in SPITE of the churchmen will blast to smithereens all the INTELLIGENT work of Will Hays .

Joe E. Brown's Favorites

Mr. Joe E. Brown most generously has given the Filmography his well-chosen list of his favorite motion pictures. It, incidentally, is the fourth selection of this sort to appear in the column, the others having been offered by Edward G. Robinson, Rob Wagner, Harry Lachman and Jane Murfin. Brown's original list is arranged as follows:

"The Birth of a Nation" (U. A.);
"The Big Parade" (M-G-M);
"Robin Hood" (Fairbanks-U. A.);
"The Kid" (Chaplin-F.N.);
"Toafable David" (Inspiration version);
"The Freshman" (Peerless);
"Lady for a Day" (Columbia);
"The Champ" (M-G-M);
"Seventh Heaven" (Fox);
"Little Caesar" (Warner's-F.N.);

Stories Important to Star's Future on Screen

A topic of considerable discussion among movie fans today is: How much longer will Edward G. Robinson. If the America's foremost authors of his forthcoming motion pictures. Robinson's list of the most outstanding characters has decided, and therefore, the implications of the stars are advocate for. Will the studio.
“THE STOOGES”

Folks, here goes for our first attempt at a gossip column. If you don’t like it, woe to us. Having dinner at the Derby we saw: Preston Sargent escorting lovely Margaret Sullivan again, looks pretty serious. Lou Brite wandered in minus his dogs. Ernst Lubitsch enjoying coffee and the inevitable cigar. Incidentally, we bet you don’t know Ernst flew to Frisco a few weeks ago with the Thalbergs and a party to catch a preview, with the new hubby of his ex-wife piloting the ship. Leo Morrison left Saturday via plane to meet and spend week-end in Tahoe with Max Baer and Ancil Hoffman. Maxie will be with us again in a few days. Here’s hoping Barbara Worth clicks in her comeback chance at M-G-M. You probably know that Barry Trivers and Florine McKinney are very much that way since the “Night Life of the Gods” went into production. While on that subject, better ask Allan Mowbray what made him blush so the day of his birthday when Lowell Sherman presented him with a gift. By the way, hope Lowell Sherman will cool off with the new trunk he’s wearing around the lot. Major John Zanft leaves for a quick business trip to New York this week. What do you suppose was the cause of Isabel Jewell’s woebegone expression the other night at Sardi’s. Sid Silvers feeling pretty happy about his victory in a game of handball against Dave Butler. His one worry is that he will never be able to do it again. He himself admits it was a lucky accident. Looks like the romance is on again between Claire Trevor and Vic Orsatti. I. E. Chadwick’s son, Lee Chadwick, was married Sunday evening to Sylvia Thompson, a non-professional. Wonder what will happen about that lawsuit of Mary Minor’s against Wm. Wellman? More next week. Goodbye now. THE STOOGES.

SHERRY’S CONTINUES TO COMMAND ATTENTION OF NIGHT LIFE LOVERS

Located at Fuller and Beverly Boulevard, Sherry’s is commanding attention of light life lovers. The music and atmosphere of the kind that every one in the family can enjoy. The music of Hersholy Coleman and his orchestra, with Tommy Smith at the piano, makes ’em all step rhythmically at their best. Johnny Archer, chief funmaker, is in a class all by himself. Pictures should finally claim this very clever colored artist, who sings, dances and pokes fun during an evening’s performance on a par with the best of them.

One of the big features of Sherry’s staged as an eleventh hour attraction is Miss Donna Day, a sensational fan dancer, who is quite a beauty, and handles her act in such a manner that it will not offend the most fastidious person present.

Gene Austin, Peggy Watters and Lyle Talbot

The Cocoanut Grove offers Gus Aranbein and his celebrated orchestra, and Gene Austin and his stooges, Coco, Candy and Nuts, nightly, while afternoons Mr. Austin can be found in the “Lido,” dine and dance spot adjacent to the Ambassador Hotel, where Gene has twice as many musicians working with him. Our old faithful photographer, Hymie Fink, caught Gene Austin in the Grove the other night showing one of the favors to Peggy Watters and Lyle Talbot, hence this picture of three popular idols of stage and screen.

Harry L. Lewis Has ‘Em Pulling for Him

During the past two weeks many civic organizations have pledged their wholehearted support to Harry L. Lewis, democratic candidate for the State Board of Equalization in the Fourth District. Among the outstanding organizations to tender him their endorsement are the Independent Order of War Veterans, who have six hundred branches throughout the State, and especially in the Fourth District; the James A. Garfield Democratic Clubs; the Fraternal Democratic Clubs; the Community Service Club; Latin American League; the Allied Beverage Industries; and many others. Lewis favors the recommendation of the re-opening of the Sales Tax on all foodstuffs. This will reduce the cost of living by an appreciable amount and place the burden of the tax where it was originally intended.

PASSES UP BROADWAY

Loyalty in the profession proved itself again when Johnny Downs, now playing “Little Boy Blue” in “Back to Tideland,” for Hal Roach, forfeited the lead in a Broadway production, “Tourists Accommodated,” to stay in Hollywood and work again at the studio where he first started in pictures, playing in the original “Our Gang.” Upon completion of this picturization of this famous Victor Herbert opera, Johnny may return to New York to accept a role in the “Maltese Falcon,” which affords him dramatic opportunities in portraying a “boy gangster.”

FINISHES FEATURED PART

Helen Westcott has just finished a feature part in “Paradise Over Texas,” playing the opposite “Big Boy” Williams in a Beacon Production directed by Edgar Ulmer. Helen is only five years old, but has had a wide experience with her mother on the stage. Her acting before the camera was perfect, her pronunciation clear and never through her fault was a retake necessary.

NOVEL SKITS AT GINGER BOX REVIEW

The Ginger Box Theatre opened Wednesday night with a new musical review in two acts and one refreshing intermission, written and staged by Billy Wayne and Roger Gray. Some of the skits, especially “Rarely Possible,” “Affairs D’Amour” and “Hitch Hiker” are very well done, clever and awfully funny. Billy Wayne, Ruth Warren and Marie Callahan carry the show and were a scream in “The Interview.” Elocut Outou does a cute interpretive dance a la Hawaiian; the rest of the cast, Helen Curtis, Jane Johns, Hazel Fitzgerald, Lowell B. Drew, La La Goodwin, Charles Godwin, Roy Kelso, Charles Brummers and Roger Gray add to the evening’s entertainment. Warren Gilbert and Max Ritter preside at the pianos.

“TO BE CONTINUED” CLEVER PLAY—AT SPOTLIGHT THEATRE

Edward Earl Tree presented a three-act comedy drama, “To Be Continued.” Monday night, at the Spotlight Theatre, which was well received by the audience. The story by Guy Falcconer is snappy and well acted by Don Greg- ory, Cecile Elliott, George Aubrey Nash, Katheryn Herndon, Elizabeth Heilgard, Marion Sharling, Milton Klise, Blanche and Joseph Talbot and Don Gregory gave the outstanding performance in a difficult role. He has a well modulated voice and plenty of personal charm. Katheryn Herndon did a nice job directing.
GUS ARNHEIM KEEPS UP TO THE MINUTE WITH LATEST MUSIC AT GROVE

As soon as a new song or dance hit reaches the public’s attention, Gus Arnheim loses no time in getting a copy of it, and he is the first maestro in the Southland to play it at the Coconut Grove, in the Ambassador Hotel. He will offer as soloists John and Edna Torrence, those great dancers; Jimmy Newell, one of the most popular singer-s; the Three Downey Sisters, Maxine Tappen and Mary Wood. During las vegas visits Gene Austin, with Coco and Candy, sing and play to great applause. They keep the crowds seated until well after the hours of business. The other night there were some very voracious partiers, and Coco and Candy lost their voices! I could not on and on and mention many more. Tuesday nights, as of old, are back, and you can look for them to get bigger and better every week.

MILANES SISTERS, CUBAN SENSATIONS, WIN GREAT APPLAUSE AT “NINETIES”

Direct from a South American and Mexican tours the Milanes Sisters, dancing team with a repertoire of more than sixty dances and ensembles, have scored a regular hit with patrons of the “Nineties” Cafe. One of their greatest successes has been with the “Cuban Rumba,” the Milanes Sisters being the only ones in Hollywood who can dance the Cuban rhythm, which claim.

Producers and casting directors should take a peek at these clever girls for picture purposes, for they look like a great bet. Peggy Page acts as M.C., and we want to tell you that here is a gal that knows her audiences, and when she croons—well, you just have to admire her versatility. The Manhattan Duo do a very clever modernistic dance. Lee, the fan dancer, is a rare “white smoke” and Vera are clever toe dancers. Janet gets over with some nice songs. The line girls look good. By the way, captivating Helen Forrest has been winning the amateur fan dance contest evenings and is in line for a good engagement ere long, we were told.

JIMMIE GRIER CLICKS AT BILTMORE WITH MJB PROGRAM

Jimmie Grier is a busy man these days in between offering such a fine musical treat to the cash customers at the Biltmore Bowl who dance nightly to his orchestra, and on Monday night broadcasting on the MJB program with his organization. Last Monday night he had as guest artists Ruth Etting and Sam Coslow, and we happened to listen in on the program—and it was a wow! Tuesday night the Wampus Baby Stars helped to pack ’em in and almost a thousand were turned away. The show offered this week headed by Elsie Gilbert, who offers the best impersonation of Cab Calloway we have ever seen. On the bill is Terry La Francioni, who has a fine voice and personality. Teresa Casajuana (Maria Alba’s sister) offers a pubhshed dancing that is smart and clever. Three acts held over from last week are the Three Blue Blazes, Flora Duane, and John and Harett Griffith. Douglas Evans acts as an aside. Biltmore Bowl is under the management of Fred C. Elan.

GORDON AND VELLER PUT IMPROMPTU DANCEFEST AT EL REY CLUB

The famous song writing team of Max Gordon and Harry Revel Tuesday night put on an impromptu songfest at the El Rey Club that won many new friends and admirers. We stopped counting the many song hits of their own that they sang. Their latest, “Three Cheers for Love,” and many others, were greatly applauded. The El Rey is a top bus’o’la who via the swanky places in the Hollywood dis- trict, and is, through the management of Ray Hallor, in line to continue its popularity for a long time to come.

GENE AUSTIN TOPS LIDO BUSINESS BY FAR AT AMBASSADOR

Leave it to Gene Austin and his augmented orchestra that he leads at the Lido in the Ambassador Hotel every afternoon to pack ‘em in into any place where he entertains. We dropped in Wednesday afternoon and found every table and booth filled, and as an added attraction, Gene was introducing a fashion review staged by I. Magnin & Co., with some very beautiful models parading around in the finest of dresses and furs. The musical program is the finest that the Lido ever offered, and Gene Austin and his musical organization are in line to make a great name for themselves with the Southland’s fashion public, who love the attractive afternoon dance mart.

MIRAMAR LEADS BEACH PLAYSPOTS FOR PUBLIC FAVOR

The Miramar Hotel Terrace Room is getting the best play among night life playgoers. Every night (except Monday) you can find the best known stars of stage and screen dinn- ing and dancing there. Joseph Mankiewicz gave a dinner in honor of Robert Riskin. Then there was Erwin Gelsey, David Burton, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Canfield, Antonio Moreno, Barbara Weeks, Paul Ames and hun- dreds of others. Kay Kyser and his Orchestra furnished the music, with plenty of entertainers to keep the crowd in a merry mood.

CLIFF DWELLERS FOOD PROVES BETTER THAN EVER AFTER SEVEN YEARS

After furnishing the finest steaks and chicken dinners for the past seven years, the Cliff Dwellers starts on its eighth year of serving the public. George Distel, manager, points to this with pride, and rightfully so. The entertainment at this time is also the very best. Alan Wood is the sterling M.C., with Pat O’Shea, singer par excellence, sharing honors. Littl Marty is the heart winner among the fair sex. The fantastic beauty, Bette Davis, who we will make her mark one of these days not only in cafe life, but the talkies. Maxine Barbur is another one who is making a hit, and is worth watching for future reference. Drop in here any time and dine and dance until the wee hours of the morning.

HOLLYWOOD BRASS RAIL ATTRACTS FINE BUSINESS

Hollywood Brass Rail is in the majority of those who are daily and nightly dropping into the Hollywood Brass Rail for dinner and refreshments. It is a sort of meeting place for stage and screen stars, the business men and women do come in (for lunch, evenings there is always plenty of entertainment furnished by the singing waiters and artists who do impromptu numbers. The other day Judge McKay held court and the good brass rail, and officials from many of the police and court departments were present. It was the first time such a procedure ever took place in a cafe.

The Ambassador Lido has been the scene of many enjoyable luncheon parties since the inimitable Gene Austin and his girls have started their unique act, and appeared daily during the early afternoon hour. This week end Carmen Gould was hostess at a delightful luncheon. Her guests included Miss Camille Clardy, Mrs. Henry G. Bobkin, Miss Betty Bonta, Mrs. Maurice B. Bonta and Mrs. R. Douglass Burrows.

FRANK SEBASTIAN SIGNS BEN POLLACK TO HEAD COTTON CLUB SHOW

Frank Sebastian on August 30th will start a new innovation at his Cotton Club, where he introduces Ben Pollack at the head of his orchestra, and a floor show which will have as the headliner Doris Robbins, who, by the way, is to be one of the stars of "Ziegfeld Follies” picture that Universal is soon to produce. Mr. Sebastian is to offer two shows in one. The Pollack organization will replace the colored revue and the white orchestra. Meanwhile some of the colored stars and a string orchestra will move into the Lounge Room, where they will entertain at the same time that the all-white show is holding forth in the Cotton Club proper. This is the first time Sebastian has booked such an attraction in years. The Broomfield and Gleeley all-star colored revue will stay on until the opening of the "Ziegfeld Follies” with a new idea is put into effect. Ben Pollack comes direct from Billy Rose’s Casino De Paree in New York City. He has played in Chicago at the Chez Paree, New York Hotel, New York City; Blossom Health Inn, Detroit; Byd- dere Hotel, Kansas City; while in St. Paul, Minnesota, he played at the Low- ery Hotel, Plantation and Boulevards of Paul and last, but by far not the least the Hollywood Club, in Galveston, Texas.

MARSHALL’S RENDEZVOUS SEES QUEEN OF NITE CLUBS

The Duke of Marlborough, the genial host of Marshall’s Rendezvous, located on Flower near Sixth Street, is staging a beauty contest that will, when com- pleted, introduce to the Southland the “Queen of Nite Clubs.” Miss Paty Campbell won the first preliminary event and will compete against all comers. The entries are being regis- tered from the other cafes as well, and it promises to become quite an exciting affair. Miss Marty Van de Velde is entered as the M.C. He has a fine singing voice and a personality that immediately makes him a favorite with cafe lovers. In the floor show this week you will find a “bubbling dancer” who is a K.O. Thursday nights are set aside as “professional nights,” and artists from stage and screen make it quite an affair. Bob Gamble, who is the manager of this place, announces a new addition to this popular place in “The Flying Trapeze” Beer Parlour. Excellent cuisine is in order, and a general good time for Southland’s best people are promised. Marshall’s Rendez- vous a regular nightly habit.

BLACK PUFFY CAFE IS VISITED BY MANY CELEBRITIES NIGHTLY

Carl McBride and his associate, Jer- ry Colton, have been well known to celebrities from stage and screen, and are nightly acting as hosts to their friends. This place is very inviting as you come to the front door, and more appreciated when you drop in, for it is spick and span, and the food is of the best.
Musicale production no Beverly had Rowsey human Gateway say Miss combination remained very Hollywood picture shelogue.

Great News

Michael Whalen is back with the Gateway Players. We liked him so much in "Turquoise Matrix," also a Gateway production. Whalen replaces Eugene Renard in the Preston-Lasky, Jr., "Hope and Prey." And by the way, we noted a great improvement in this comedy since first previewed several weeks ago. Authors and director got together and cut out a lot of unnecessary dialogue. They have made a good job of it. There is no doubt but that the movie heads will gather in some very fine actors from this group. They have a real find in Helen Brown.

I have never seen anyone so completely lose themselves and give way to a characterization as does Bette Davis in "Of Human Bondage." Calls to mind Wallace Berry's "Pancho" in "Viva Villa." One was never conscious of Berry, he was "Pancho" throughout the film. And what a "Pancho."

They say W. C. Fields is going to do "McFadden's Flats." I can hardly wait.

How is England balancing things with so many of her players trekking to Hollywood? M-G-M brings over another "import"—Antoinette Celler, lovely young London stage beauty. Believe it was Selenieck who discovered Miss Celler.

Having seen Tallulah Bankhead in "Forsaking All Others," it is difficult to believe that anyone else can play the role. It is still spoken of as the Tallulah Bankhead play. Still many critics and producers feel that Joan Crawford can fill the bill.

Great Screen Possibilities

It was just a few minutes before deadline and I had one more assignment—I expected to be out on this job but thirty minutes or so—I remained ninety minutes. Ever since previewing Corinne Williams in "Broadway Lover," produced by the Writers Club, I have wanted to learn more about this charming little actress. I was amazed to learn that Miss Williams, still a very young girl, has enjoyed successes comparable to many of our well known stars. Just a few of the highlights in her career: Born and reared in Germany, but boasting American parentage and dividing her time between Germany and the United States. Thirty-two crossings to date. Talked of her engagement as Premiere Danusse with the Chicago Civic Opera Company as though it were nothing at all—this connection lasted three consecutive years; then to Paris for Opera Comique; a Musical Comedy that ran one year in Germany followed. Then a stock tour of her native country, back to U. S. A. Miss Williams smiled when she spoke of returning to the States. Paramount Publix thirty-two weeks, more stock and this time up in Milwaukee, Wisconsin. So popular was Miss Williams with German fans that she played a return engagement in Berlin in Musical Comedy, this return engagement running two years. Miss Williams unfortunately is typed as a German player entirely, although all of her work in France and Germany was in English. The little actress tells me she did play a German girl in "Flesh" with Wallace Beery, which all goes to prove that Miss Williams is a scholar and speaks the English language equally as beautifully as the German language. And this little girl is by no means a prune—she has accepted and played small parts in "Goodbye Again," "British Agent," "Night of Love" and "Scarlet Empress," and she asked me to please tell the world that she is an English actress; however, I assured her that such an announcement would not be necessary, as casting directors and producers cannot be fooled and are not apt to pass up so beautiful a speaking voice as Miss Williams possesses.

Clarence Brown and Wife Leave

Clarence Brown and wife, the former Alice Joyce, were very gay yesterday when they said goodbye to a host of friends who saw them off at Grand Central Airport, on their first lap of a tour that will wind up in Germany. New York to Buenos Aires by air and from there they will take the Graf Zeppelin to Germany. In the merry throng waving farewells we spotted Mrs. Brown's two lovely daughters and Mr. and Mrs. Larkin H. Brown, parents of Mr. Brown.

SPORTS

Olympic Auditorium

Gorilla Jones, claimant of the middle-weight title, took a hard hacing from Oscar Rankins last Tuesday night, dropping the decision. It was a tough bout all the way, with Rankins battering Jones all over the ring, paying no attention to Jones' celebrated right. Rankins, the slugger, was too tough for Jones, the boxer. It was the main event, supported by two other ten-rounders, featuring Hank Hankinson, a human skyscraper from San Diego, and Tiger Smith, New York negro. Hank stopped Smith in the first. Tony Cancela, Mexican heavy, surprised the crowd by going ten tough rounds with Leroy Haynes, negro heavy from Phoenix. Lee Rameau was introduced as the headliner of next week's card.

Hollywood Legion Stadium

Frank Rowsey and Abe Feldman put on a show at Hollywood last week. Two sluggers heading the bill packed Charley McDonald's big arena with regulars—and nobody was disappointed. Rowsey hit Feldman with everything he bad, and the New York Jewish boy absorbed it and came back for more. There were times when their knees bent and their steps wobbled, but they were in there levelling for a knockout. In the early rounds it looked like Rowsey to win when he slashed Feldman's eye and the clarinet flowed like water. But Feldman's handlers stopped the flow, and he came from behind to win the nod in one of the best main events Hollywood has staged in moons.

GILMORE STADIUM OFFERS THRILLING MIDGET AUTO RACES

The latest sport to catch the public eye is the midget auto races, staged every Thursday night at Glimore Stadium in Hollywood at Beverly and Fairfax. Everybody seems to be wearing a path to these events, and if the patronage continues to increase as it has to date, they will be playing to capacity.

FOX FAILS TO TAKE UP OPTION

Paul Eddy's option was not taken up by Fox Films, but the actor stands a good chance to play in two of the best pictures on their budget right now, which will be directed by J. G. Blystone and Irving Cummings.

SWEET ADELINE

Irene Dunne and Hugh Herbert are to be seen in "Sweet Adeline," produced by Warner Bros.-First National Studios. What a combination and what a picture they should make.
CENSORSHIP FIGHT IS DYING NATURAL DEATH

Rosenblatt Should Pay More Attention To Extras Code

Reformers Let Up Their Barrage—Play Watchful Waiting Game

By HARRY BURNS

The censorship cry that took the country by storm seems to be dying a natural death, all because the producers heeded the warning and threats of the reformers and have set about to clean house and to make cleaner and better pictures. This is true in many respects and should bring plenty of praise from those who were so ready to condemn the men back of this industry, who, although not entirely at fault, took the onslaught of their attackers and have quietly gone ahead and made pictures. The exhibitors' demand for box office pictures, no matter what the subject or what standard or morals were represented in the pictures, had as much to do with the boycott cries that made their way to the daily press, civic clubs, churches and organized censor boards, and now that every one is really trying to help clean up what was claimed a breach of public confidence and morals, will in turn result in a greater victory for the producers of pictures, and the whole family will once more be educated to come to see our best plays in the world's theatres.

LON YOUNG GOES WITH CHESTERFIELD-INVINCIBLE

Lon Young, publicity manager for Mascot, has resigned from that post and goes to Chesterfield-Invincible as assistant on production for the eighteen forthcoming pictures.

CHARLES RAY IN RKO'S "BY YOUR LEAVE"

Charles Ray, star of the screen's silent era, has been cast by RKO-Radio Pictures in "By Your Leave," now being filmed under the direction of Lloyd Corrigan and the supervision of Pandro S. Berman. Ray supports Frank Morgan and Genevieve Tobin. Others in the cast are: Neil Hamilton, Glenn Anders, Gene Lockhart and Betty Grable.

George O'Brien

"The Dude Ranger" company, first of a series of six adventure pictures produced by Artherton Productions, and starring George O'Brien and Irene Hervey, has just returned from a two weeks' trip to Zion National Park, where they filmed scenes of the picture. Eddie F. Cline directed the former Fox Films star, and those who have seen the rushes say that he was never more natural and at his best than he is in his initial picture under his new contract.

Nobody Seems to Know What to Do to Obey the Rules

Sol Rosenblatt, deputy administrator of the NRA Code, should pay more attention to the extras' code than he is, so that the producers can go on and make pictures unhampered by the extras who seem unable to understand what is right or wrong about the rules set out and which are to govern their daily work in the studios. The extras are just as vital and important as are the stars who appear in the pictures, for without the day players to back them up atmosphereically, the stars would be left high and dry, and since the extras are so important, it behooves Mr. Rosenblatt to stop dallying around with the code and get it down to a basis that the industry will know what is the best way to get the best work for the best price, so that all hands can work harmoniously and not at odds, as is the case right now. So wake up, Mr. Rosenblatt, and get busy and serve the best interests in filmmaking by showing them the way to peace and better working conditions, which you promised when the NRA code was first accepted and put into working order.

BOB STEELE IS MAKING EIGHT WESTERNs FOR SUPREME PICTURES

The youngest of western stars Bob Steele is slated to appear in eight feature westerns for Supreme Pictures. He has already worked in two and is preparing to start in his third production. Theatregoers are in for a treat when these pictures finally reach the screen.

MGM KEEPING SEATON AND PIROSH BUSY

George Seaton and Robert Pirosh are working at M-G-M on a new story and screen play for Stuart Erwin and Una Merkel tentatively labeled "Milk and Honey." They recently completed the screen play "The Winning Ticket."
Mrs. Benjamin Warner Passes Away After Celebrating Fifty-eighth Wedding Anniversary—She was a Most Lovable Soul

Mrs. Benjamin Warner, one of the most lovable souls we have known in years, passed away Monday at the Cedars of Lebanon Hospital. She was the wife of the pioneer showman, Benjamin Warner, who, like his dear wife, was the life and inspiration of the Warner Brothers in their struggle which led them to their present position in filmdom as leaders of this great industry. We numbered Mr. and Mrs. Warner among our dear friends; they were always a tonic to us when we happened to cross their paths. The Warner Bros.,' premieres of their productions in Hollywood will not be the same without Ma Warner holding her little talks with the many celebrities who attended the shows on such auspicious occasions. Here is one woman who was instrumental in helping more unfortunately than any other person that we have known in the Southland, and she did it in such a quiet, kind, and massuming manner that her reward in the heavens must be a joy to her heart even greater than it was on earth, for she can well accept the knowledge that her years on God's soil were well spent, and for a great purpose. God bless you, Mrs. Benjamin Warner, and also those whom you have left behind to carry on.

Darryl Zanuck Signs Many Contracts on Return to Hollywood

Things are beginning to happen at 20th Century with Darryl Zanuck back on the job. He signed Maurice Chevalier to star in the screen musical version of the "Red Cat," which play, by Rudolph Lothar and Hans Adler, is now in its sixth month in Paris and fourth in Vienna. Chevalier likes the songs and comedy situations—they fit him like a glove. Then Edward Arnold was signed to play in "Cardinal Richelieu," which will star George Arliss. Arnold will play the role of Louis XIII. He will probably be cast in "The Call of the Wild," Jack London's famous story of the frozen North. Then the various rumors that Ronald Colman would return to London were set at rest by a new deal being consummated between Zanuck and Colman whereby Colman will continue for a long term to give his exclusive services to 20th Century Pictures. "Clive of India" will probably be his next stellar vehicle, which will be a big dramatic spectacle.

Chesterfield-Invincible Move Into Pathe Studios—First Picture Starts September 1

George R. Batcheller and Maury M. Cohen, producers of Chesterfield and Invincible pictures, today signed a leasing deal with RKO-Pathe Studios, to produce their new program of eighteen features on the Pathe lot at Culver City. They have previously been renting space and facilities at Universal City. Invincible plans to put its first production of the new season before the cameras at Pathe September 1, with Frank Strayer directing. This will be "Port of Lost Dreams," an original by Frank Strayer, who is now readying the screen adaptation. Chesterfield and Invincible will keep business offices in Hollywood, but the production staff will move into offices at the Pathe lot.

WID GUNNING LANDS FINE POST

A Few Essentials for Screen Artistry

By Theodore Schroeder

With the ever-increasing proficiency of the "talkies" the wide-awake artist of the screen must look for greater augmentation of voice quality, pitch, resonance, breath management, mood expression, etc, if a more magnetic "personality" is to be projected and if lasting success is to be maintained.

The subject of voice culture has always been clouded by controversy, strident advocates of various so-called "methods" overheating the whole matter with much that is not pertinent or authoritative, obscuring its natural and essential simplicity when properly understood.

A purely human function as subtle as singing cannot be developed mechanically nor can the mere "ipa dixit" of any teacher gratify the demands of present day standards of such excellence. It must be a sound, simple and correct procedure based on fundamental principle.

Without properly controlled breathing, the best and richest speaking tone cannot be produced. In a general way I would advise breathing through the nose mainly, but also taking in some breath through a small mouth opening. Breathing through the nose draws the palate slightly backwards and upwards thus exposing the hard surface of the roof of the mouth where the correctly produced tone must be focused in order to bring into play the upper resonating chambers. Breathing properly through this small mouth opening helps to enlarge the space of the pharynx. Thus enabling one to better combine nasal, head and mouth resonance, and consequently have a more vibrating tone.

The main muscles of inspiration and expiration are the lungs, diaphragm and intercostal muscles. The lateral-abdominal breathing is correct and natural, mimics any chest or shoulder bearing. The power, volume and richness of a voice depends on the correct use of the resonating chambers and the volume of breath used under correct control. On resonance depends the quality and carrying power of every tone; its importance must therefore be paramount. In the last analysis, good speaking, like good singing, is much more of a correct "mental procedure" than purely a physiological one. The artist must acquire a correct use of head, nasal, mouth and chest resonance if the voice is to be properly focused, thus enabling the artist to project properly any mood or color. Everything pertaining to proper vocal technique must co-ordinate.

Louise Dresser Gives as Great Performance in "Girl of the Limberlost" as She Did in "Goose Woman"

RALPH MORGAN, MARIAN MARSH AND HELEN JEROME EDDY SHARE HONORS IN MONOGRAM PICTURE—WELL DIRECTED BY CHRISTY CABANNE

Catching the spirit of the Gene Stratton Porter novel, "The Girl of the Limberlost," adapted by Adele Commandini, Louise Dresser repeats her greatest performance, during the silent picture days in "The Goose Woman," by giving the very same finished demonstration of her true artistry. Miss Dresser faces the acid test in her scenes with Ralph Morgan, Marian Marsh and Helen Jerome Eddy, for these are at their very best in this picture. We might add that this quartet of artists practically carry the story, although fine performances are turned in by Eddie Nugent, Gig Parrish (a good bet), little Tommy Bupp, a promising youngster, Henry B. Walthall, Betty Blythe and Barbara Bedford. The perfection with which Christy Cabanne was in keeping with the picture. He held his actors just enough in restraint to make their work speak with an air of realism, in accordance to real human every-day characters, and was ably aided and abetted by the artistic photography of Ira Morgan, and the settings by Ernest Hickson; sound, John A. Strasny, Jr. (Dalsky and Phillips Recording System); edited by Carl Peterson. William T. Lackey produced the picture under the eagle eye of Trem Carr, vice-president in charge of production. "The Girl of the Limberlost" was built for the present day audiences, with an eye to box office, and exhibitors will find their audiences leaving the theatre pleased, feeling they have really been entertained.

“CARAVAN”—FOX
A Smashing Musical Hit. Great Triumph for Charles Boyer, Loretta Young and Phillips Holmes

The greatest gift within the power of picture producers is to give to the public pictures which are not only beautiful to the eye, but pleasing to the ear. "Caravan," a Charles Boyer creation in "Caravan," with just enough story to intrigue and just enough music to please. Eire Carrall directs with a deft touch, blending his scenes of breath-taking beauty with lavish interiors to perfection and showing meticulous care and preparation; never descending to slap-stick antics to furnish the comedy relief. "Caravan" is artistic, with a grand cast and sparkling music, the story dealing with Aristocrats and Gypsies in a small Hungarian province during the grape harvest and wine making season. Loretta Young, the countess who must be married by her twenty-first birthday, looking more beautiful than ever, plays to perfection with a gentle grace and charm that is refreshing, so effortless that you cannot believe she is portraying a role. Charles Boyer is well cast as the care-free gypsy who loves Loretta and what would not? Phillips Holmes is better than excellent as the lieutenant, debonair and smart. Jean Parker gives a good performance as the wild-cat gypsy girl in love with Boyer. Louise Pagenda is very funny as the governess. Eugene Pallette, C. Aubrey Smith and Charley Grapewin do well with small parts. Noah Beery, Dudley Digges, Richard Carle, Lionel Belmore, Billy Bevan, Armand Kaliz and Harry C. Bradley fill in the background atmosphere characterizations. Samson Raphaelson adapted and wrote the dialogue from the story by Melchior Lengyel. Continuity by Robert Liebhild excellent. The photography by Ernest Palmer and Theodoro Sparkuhl rates four stars. Art directors William Darling and Ernst Stern, the latter also furnished the costumes, show beauty and taste in their work. A. L. Von Kirbach did a swell job with the sound. Music by Werner Richard Heymann and lyrics by Gus Kahn, add to the loveliness of the picture; the "Wine Song" is sweet and tuneful while "Ha-Cha-Cha" is one of those boisterous ditties that tinges the air and makes your feet mischievous. "Caravan" is a rollicking, depression lifting, clean musical picture.—LINDY.

CONRAD NAGEL SCORES AT EL CAPITAN
Conrad Nagel, once more scores a hit at the El Capitan in "Goodbye Again" by Allan Scott and George Haight. Staged and directed by Russell Hillman. He gives a smooth and interesting performance and is ably supported by Sally Bates, who although a newcomer to filmland, commands the strictest of attention. Others who help carry the tempo of the play are Helen Lee, Richard Nightingale, Henry Cauthiens and Malcolm Kahn. It is a light pleasing and smart bit of entertainment and worthy of theatre-goers attention, particularly because Conrad Nagel is in it.

Edward Small has produced for public entertainment a charming presentation of Alexandre Dumas' "The Count of Monte Cristo," and a picture which will become one of the outstanding productions of the year. The screen play and dialogue by Philip Dunne, Dan Totheroh and Rowland V. Lee follows the story closely, not going into too much tiresome detail, only bringing out the most important incidents and weaving them all into an interesting romantic situation, with a glorious denouement. The direction of Rowland V. Lee is masterly, smashing home the fine acting and characterization necessary to the story. Robert Donat and Elissa Landi give the parts they just the right touch of pathos; Louis Calhern plays de Villefort, Jr., with a sangfroid and polished delight to see. Sidney Blackmer and Raymond Wallburn as the two other conspirators, are brilliant. O. P. Heggie, as Abe Faria, gives a beautiful performance. Irene Hervey, Georgia Caine and Walter Walker do fine work. Luis Alberni, as the faithful Jacopo, handles his part with touching loveliness. Lawrence Grant and Douglas Walton are well cast. The photography by Peverell M. Marley is marvelous. Art direction by John Du casse Schultz is beautiful, and the musical direction by Alfred Newman is most pleasing. Gwen Wakeling provides beautiful gowns. Grant Why tock does a great job editing the picture. The public will receive this picture with open arms. It is of the superior class, great cast and greater acting.

“MAN OF IDEAS”
The Hollywood Players sponsored by Lola E. Rogers put over a winner in “Man of Ideas,” August 24th, when Emerson Theatre ran away with the show as the boos who are full of ideas and wants to force them on every one that they contact, they finally work out the notion that bores of trouble for everyone in the story. Phyllis Fraser has good possibilities for the screen. Richard Strong was fine and dandy, as was also Bee Humphries, with the balance of the cast, Jack Haggerty, Earl Eby, Mary Louise Treen, Philip Andre, Jack Swanson, Sue Ross, Virginia Ode on, Albert Tarbell, Ross Stanley, Heenan Elliot, and Boyd Mathis more than holding up their end, particularly Miss Treen. The Hollywood Theatre is worthy of every one's attention as it is ideally fitted up and the staging of the plays are miniature Broadway productions.

INTERESTING FACE AT SHOW HOUSE
"Mary Joa", being revived by the Showmen of Hollywood at the Show House on Wilshire Boulevard this week, would be a difficult vehicle for any stock company to ride. It's comedy is chaotic and burlesque, and it's third act is entirely out of a tempo that wears thin. Nevertheless, the young company, under the direction of Celeste Rush, gave a skilful and entertaining performance Monday night, revealing considerable talent. First honorable mention for Monday night's performance should go to Merle Lewis, for his sympathetic portrayal of the lovable though indulgent Mr. Burge, who feeds his family on tidbits of philosophy, while his uneducated wife feeds them to pay the grocery bill. In Julie's own language, Kaye Ranier (who plays Julie, the Mae Westish cousin of the Burge family) is a "kick." Peggy Elvy is sincere and apt as Mrs. Burge, and Richie Reagan pleasing as Mary Joa. Fred Fribourg, queen of the Jenquinsworths, is convincing at times; unnecessarily repressed at others. Jack Reagan and David Star ing are good in the burlesque roles, and Berta Wolliston, Mabel Parsons and Cyril Melki add to the demographic Jenquinsworths. Tonye Thompson does an excellent bit of character acting as Granny Wells, the family skeleton who refuses to "stay put." Renee Whitney is charming and beautiful natural for "Mother's choice" for the Jenquinsworths bride.

Old Age Pension—Townsend Plan

A blessing in disguise is in the offering—if everyone who has a spark of love in their hearts for the other fellow will place their signatures on the dotted line in favor of the Townsend Plan, which will pension off all who have passed the sixty-fifth year in their lives, and who are willing to retire from active work so that the younger generation may be enabled to keep the family bread supplied as it should be in this grand old country. Dr. Townsend is the father of this movement, and is fast sending thousands of petitions to Washington so that President Franklin Delano Roosevelt will take a hand in making this a law. One of the prime movers and workers for the Townsend Plan is Mother Gray, who, with her husband and two children, all well known in film circles, is not only lending her support, but is touring about Southern California, singing the praises of this great idea to help humanity at a time when it is most needed.

Moving Movie Throng by John Hall

"Pure Principles," says Julien Benda, French thinker, "whether of the Right or the Left, will not work out in the actual life of societies." Benda, being a cynical European Latin, "Sickled over" with the discredited wisdom of centuries, can be said to have realized, tyran ci-cal aristocrates, is prone to accept philosophies warped by ages of intolerance and surrender man's inherent quest for Idealism. As counter thought, we have the Anglo-Saxon Pilgrim Fathers, who, in their firm faith in Idealism, tore themselves away from the Old World intolerance of pure principles and founded this, the mightiest of all nations... Our Nation is a child of Pure Principles—Idealism, if you will. Its birth and development overwhelmingly refute Benda's argument. The United States of America is an irrefutable fact... Abraham Lincoln, in his Gettysburg speech, expressed the hope that "This nation, so conceived and so dedicated, shall long endure". In Lincoln's belief, our great Civil War would decide that momentous question. Today, we are facing what Lincoln faced: Shall our Idealism endure?... We are engaged in another kind of war, and, as in the day of the Great Emancipator, our national Idealism—our greatness as a nation—are in the balance... We are engaged in a war between organized religion, backed by the better elements of the country, and the powers of Evil, which, if not totally destroyed, will totally destroy our American Idealism—the foundation rock of our Pure Principles... During this, the second century of the life of the nation founded by those Pilgrim Fathers—all ready to die for the Pure Principles they sought in a strange land—of the Anglo-Saxon New World humans, not Anglo-Saxons, has coagulated in the very heart of our most densely populated communities... This strain is anti-Puritan—entirely out of sympathy with all who would follow the Pilgrim Fathers; concerned only with materialism; utterly destructive of Pure Principles... An idolatrous belief in the sanctity of acquisitiveness and an atrophied sense of community interests... Big Business is the name... PROFIT is their great god... This attitude is extremely remote from the Ideal planted here by the Pilgrim Fathers, and sedulously nourished throughout the first century of our national existence... Our people now fight against a poisonous seed, planted by bloated materialists... The second (bloodless) Great War is a grim struggle between unscrupulous Materialism and American Idealism... A corrupted stage, screen and literature leaves no room for American Idealism... Our American churchmen, educators and statesmen have failed in their foundation of Pure Principles, are aroused by the menace and are fighting the Materialists to a finish that can have but one ending... They know the decayed wreck called the Old World—and will save from its tragic fate, our New World.

"Lost Lady" Fine Offering;
Stanwyck, Morgan, Green Click

An ordinary plot; familiar situations; easily classifiable characters—a superfluous materialist—along with the commonplace and tedious screen offering, "A Lost Lady," Barbara Stanwyck's newest Warner Bros.-First National production, manages to be a picture that is different and highly entertaining. For simplicity and human ness (two old reliable words), it overshadows the majority of plotplays of similar type. The indescribable effectiveness of many incidental scenes and situations is due to the fact that two of the things that make this film a work of marked quality, despite its triteness. Except for some excess footage, the interest is constant, and the approach is not solely sentimental as it might have been. A "Lost Lady" is essentially a victory for Director Alfred E. Green, whose splen did technique is at all times noticeable. Barbara Stanwyck and Frank Morgan for the Gene Mar key-Kathryn Scola adaptation of what is fundamentally an all-too-familiar idea.

The exquisite Miss Stanwyck, more beautiful than ever, gives probably her finest performance to date. It is a superb piece of acting. Frank Morgan, an artist who never fails to be realistic and sincere, turns in a beauti ful portrayal. Mr. Morgan is one player whose acting always merits strict calibration; it is at about this time that producers were waking up to that fact. Ricardo Cortez, Lyle Talbot, Hobart Cavanaugh, Philip Reed, Edward McWade, Walter Walker, Samuel Hinds, young Willard Huffman, Rafaela Ottiano, James son Thomas and Henry Kolker each have their good moments.

M-G-M's "Death on Diamond" Excellent Entertainment

An audience's complete silence in a large theater, when caused by animated images on the silver screen, frequently proves to be astonishing, and it is generally presumed to be a sign that the picture is holding each spectator's interest. During several scenes of Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer's "The Diamond," which was previewed recently at the Fox Wil shire Theatre, some three thousand persons sat as still as if they all were holding their breath; then sud denly the majority of them broke the stillness by hearty laughter. I found this most impressive, and it undoubted edly was delightful music to the ears of the M-G-M executives who were present.

"In and Out of Focus" by Allan Hersholt

"Death on the Diamond," produced by Lucien Hubbard, is a cleverly acted, expertly handled presentation. The yarn, which is of the time, is not be not especially strong or at times logical, but Edward Sedgwick, the director, has treated it so intelligently that the film is most pleasing entertain ing. It causes one, whether or not one so desires, to give vent to a sudden and violent outbreak of laughter. Then, also, the action never fails to be genuinely exciting and absorbing.

Two of the finest comedy portrayals I have seen for a long while are contributed by Ted Healy and Nat Pendleton. The talented Healy, in particular, is great. He does a memorable bit of emotional acting in Pen dleton's death scene. Madge Evans is very attractive and gives a really charming performance, while Robert Young and Paul Kelly both are splendidly handled. Allan Hersholt's performance is a notable one. The Warner Bros. supporting players—Harry C. Sherman and Ralph Spence have done an excellent job on the screen play. Milton Krasner's camera work is no more than just satisfactory.

Donald Crisp's Favorites

Donald Crisp, veteran director and player, very kindly sent in this interesting list of the most notable motion pictures he has seen. Mr. Crisp's selec tion is the fifth in our series in this column. His all-time favorites are: "The Birth of a Nation" (U. A.); "Broken Blossoms" (U. A.); "The Miracle Man" (first Paramount version); "The Dancer Mark" (Art); "The De vine Lady" (F. N.); "Seventh Heaven" (Fox); "Robin Hood" (Fairbanks-U. A.); "King of Kings" (De Mille-Pathe); "The Kid" (Chaplin-F. N.); "It Happened One Night" (Col umbia); "Stella Dallas" (M-G-M); "Little Women" (RKO-Radio); "42nd Street" (Warner Bros.).

Baer's Frisco Reception

While vacationing in San Francisco last week-end, I attended a Paramount press reception given at the St. Francis Hotel in honor of Max Baer and little David Holt, the screen's newest child. Max, when asked by several scribblers what his favorite feminine stars, mentioned Marion Davies, Norma Shearer, Joan Crawford and Jean Harlow—all M-G-M players. Two members of the Para mount publicity department hearing this, called Baer aside. A moment later, the champ returned to continue his conversation, stating most empha sically that Claudette Colbert, Mae West, and Lucille Scott were the favorite stars, while David was happy to note the home folks. Al fresco's most distinguished critics were present at this thrilling affair.
Viva Conway!
I have just seen “Viva Villa” for the fourth or fifth time. After each showing I leave the theater enthusiastically convinced that this Jack Conway film is the greatest American picture yet made. Even after sober reflection, I guarantee that “Viva Villa” is the finest American film since the talkies.

But it is more than a great motion picture. It is Hollywood’s long overdue Declaration of Independence from stage technique. It is a promise that we need not much longer suffer those loud mouthed illegitimate movies which result from the unhappy mating of stage directors with motion picture cameras. In it we find a direct, triumphal return to the technique of the silent film. Sound and dialogue and music are aids and not shackles to the movement and pictorial beauty of real motion picture sequences. It demonstrates that sub-titles are at times more effective than spoken titles. Viva Conway!

A New Rhythm
Two other recent Hollywood films have given me hope that the spirit of experiment and originality are again alive in the movie city.

First is King Vidor’s “Our Daily Bread,” which is an important film any way you look at it. It is important because it dares tackle present day social conditions and suggests a way out for suffering millions of unemployed. It is more important, artistically, for that amazing sequence in which the co-operative workers cut a channel for irrigation waters. This sequence is very close to being a new experiment in motion picture rhythm. King Vidor has attempted to bring rhythm within the frame of the picture—in the action of the characters—as contrasted to the Russian system of rhythm through cutting and contrasting frames. I would not say that Mr. Vidor had been entirely successful in his experiment, but he has been so successful that “Our Daily Bread” is one of the best and most unusual films of the year.

Russian Montage in Hollywood
The third picture, Walter Lang’s “Whom the Gods Destroy,” is not as consistently fine as the other two, but at least three sequences in the film represent the finest adaption of Russian montage to American films that I have yet seen. The ship-wreck sequence alone would make this Columbia picture an outstanding one. The effect of panic on ship board has never been so faithfully caught. And again and again throughout the film, flashes of cinematic genius and intelligence delight and surprise the watcher.

Thunder from Hollywood
So once again there comes thunder from Hollywood. The thunder of creative geniuses who see more than mere machine production in the making of motion pictures, and who will not be held down to formula. These three great films cut through the turmoil and confusion murk of Hollywood, bringing hope again to those who believe in the future greatness of the sound film.

THE NUDIST
Here is a funny idea for a short talkie, it might even be worked into a real play with an all-star cast. Peter Du Rey proved a very capable actor when the Randall Hughes farce comedy played at the Domino’s Theater Monday night and should be given some screen parts. Others who clicked were George Overman Jr., who played a difficult part of a “Sissy,” Martha Brock and Celia Ryland are worth watching for future references. Rose Marie Garrett was very funny, Libby Taylor (colored), almost stole the show. Beth Hartman looks very good, give him a hand too, to Bud Flanagan and Bud Geary, and don’t forget Frances Stone and James Dundee who helped matters along. It is a spoof take-off on the “Nudist” idea and craze which was started and directed by Dolph M. Zimmer.

ANN HOWARD GOES TO FOX
Ann Howard, a charming English child who has become a screen actress, has just completed a role in “Great Expectations” at Universal and now moves over to Fox to portray Gloria Swanson as a child in “Music in the Air.”

GRANT WITHERS PLAYS FINE ROLE IN BIG U SERIAL
Grant Withers returns to the screen in a big U serial “Tailspin Tommy” directed by Louis Friedlander, with an all star cast. Freddy Fralick closed the deal for Grant Withers and is looking after his screen activities.

Baby Continues to Take 'Em

"Now and Forever" with Shirley Temple will not fold up at Paramount until September 5th making a three and a half weeks engagement.

Welcome, Mrs. Leslie Carter!

Almost a dozen years ago Mrs. Leslie Carter and John Drew appeared at the Mason Opera House in "The Circle"—September 17th Mrs. Carter appears in her original role at the Hollywood Playhouse.

Did You Know That—

Kathleen Kerrigan was the first actress in the profession to have a theater named for her—their theater still stands and carries all the first run pictures. Miss Kerrigan enjoyed a long and interesting association with the late David Belasco and the exotae Leona Ulrici.

Aline McManosh and Guy Kibbee will co-star in Ralph Spence's original "Social Pirate's", also in Sinclair Lewis' "Babbitt."

"The Green Hat" has been re-titled "The Outcast Lady" after many re-takes.

Patsy Kelly and Thelma Todd will again team up for a frolic.

We Hope You Make It, Helen—

Helen Morgan does test at Warner Studio for one of the leading roles in "Sweet Music," the forthcoming Ruby Valley musical.

West Point Wedding

Ruby Keeler and Dick Powell will be surrounded with one hundred dancing cadets and twenty beautiful girls in "Mr. and Mrs.

Hail, Kentucky!

"Cuby" the nag in "Mrs. Wiggs" gets a press agent—the story was written by a dear old Kentuckian in the blue grass state where Cavalcade won the last Derby. And "Cuby" is now rated as being worth $1000 instead of $200, his value when Alice Hegan Rice wrote the story.

"THE RICHEST GIRL IN THE WORLD"

Miriam Hopkins supported by a very good cast gave us another of her subtle and charming performances at RKO's Hill Street Theater. Miriam as Dorothy Hunter "the richest girl" loves Anthony Travis (Joel McCrea), but puts him through all sorts of tests before accepting him for fear that he is marrying her only for her money. You'll get the thrill of your life seeing la Hopkins handle the plot. Fay Wray, Henry Stephenson, Reginald Denny, Beryl Mercer, George Meeker and Edgar Norton were all splendidly cast. Seldom do we find a director who has so many successes to his credit as William Seiter whose skill in handling actors and situations is something very worth while. And we do not believe that the record made by James Van Trees could be surpassed. This fast moving comedy is from the story and screen play by Norman Krasna, produced by Pandro S. Berman.

"PURSUED"

Previewed at the Pantages. A drama by Larry Evans adapted for the screen by Lester Cole and Stuart Anthony, original story title was "Painted Lady." Cast not to blame—story absolutely nil. Rosemary Ames was at her best and her rendition of "Wanted" was sympathetic and beautiful. She has a lovely voice. Much credit goes to Pert Kelton—she got her lines over with punch and gaiety. Victor Jory didn't come through at all.

Plot had to do with a lady of the evening falling in love with a nice young man (Russell Hardie), but being constantly pursued by the "vilia" Victor Jory. Story ends as per usual run of such plots—man and maid united and to live happily ever after. A Sol Wurtzel production directed by Louis King.

"AGE OF INNOCENCE"

The "Age of Innocence" at the RKO Hill Street Theater. Our first opinion was that it was cold, blase, another period picture just like so many of the others, but when Irene Dunne made her first appearance as the role of Countess Olenska who sacrificed her own happiness at the suggestion of Newland Archer played by John Boles, retained to secure her divorce from a man she doesn't love that her fanciful relationship may be spared, we found ourselves completely gone on this delightful film. Archer quite naturally falls desperately in love with the beautiful and alluring Countess. She makes him go through with his marriage with her cousin (Julia Haydon), to whom he had already become engaged before the unforeseen daintiness and appeal of Countess Olenska had crossed his path. An ace high card backed by the draw. Winsley carried all the funny spots in the picture. The playing will live up to the standards of the story.

CAROL LEE

guessed wrong for the first time this week when she picked "Panama," which is just no good for her. We give her credit for picking and starting the current hit—from the West Coast, and we recommend this type of song for the Hollywood song pluggers' delight. A ham actor who hangs around the front of the theatre after his performance is called a three sheeter in the show business.

"LOVE IN BLOOM"

"WITH THE EYES"

of the radio universe turning westward and the NBC and CBS Chief's steps journeying Hollywood-west, we wonder what's in the offing. Don Gilbn, NBC Vice-President, has established the permanent headquarters in Hollywood, and news from New York tells us that Bill Paley, CBS President, is packing his bags again. More and more programs are being broadcast from the coast, as great radio names are drafted for pictures, and great picture names are drafted for radio. Eddie Cantor, Joe Penner, Bing Crosby, and Lanny Ross are veterans. Many new radio-picture names will be born during the forthcoming K. S. season. That—really pulls music out of the boys. We didn't think so much of him as a hotel night spot music master, because Grier is a better musician than he is a showman and, after all, on the air, that's what counts. And that reminds me that I'm still wondering why—newly elevated Hollywood on the Air musical chief, apparently didn't have time to arrange a new feature for his second broadcast. His audience, which was alleged to have requested "Buffoon", got it— but, personally, we know Eddie Kay has greater arrangements up his sleeve.

GRIER BATON-IER

RUBINOFF

EDDIE KAY,

M-G-M and Fox Plan Many New Films

Culver Studios Will Soon be a Hotbed of Activity

By HARRY BURNS

After weeks of uncertainty Charles Laughton has been definitely set for the role of Wilkins Micawber in "David Copperfield." Up to the moment no announcement has been made who will be signed to play David Copperfield as a boy. As the life of Johann Strauss the great Viennese "Waltz King" lends itself to screen material, Rupert Hughes, the famous American novelist, has been assigned to work on the screen play which Bernard Hyman is to produce. M.G.M. has also purchased for screen production "The Shining Hour," the play in which Jane Cowl made such a great success. Ruth Gordon, one of the outstanding New York stage stars was signed for a long-term contract the day before she left for the East where she will complete her stage contract. Rosalind Russell, brilliant stage actress and Louise Henry, blonde screen charmer, have been assigned to play in the same picture "Forsaking All Others." These actresses went to the same school in the East. They met for the first time the other day on the lot. Clark Gable, Joan Crawford and Robert Montgomery have the stellar roles in "Forsaking All Others." Charles Butterworth has also been added to the cast in a big part.

TANYA (SUGAR) GEISE IS MARRIED TO J. GEO. WRIGHT

Tanya (Sugar) Geise and J. George Wright, San Francisco broker, have answered to the famous "I do" vows before Judge Alejandro Battani, and are going to Honolulu on their honeymoon. Miss Geise is a very clever artist and entertainer. Sunday evening the couple had a merry dinner and dance party with Mr. and Mrs. Frank Stern and Mauricce Gebber at the Miramar Hotel, Santa Monica.

Marshall Neilan

We are glad to see Paramount Pictures have Marshall Neilan once more directing pictures in Hollywood. "Mickey," as he is more familiarly known to his host of friends, has been away from Filmiland entirely too long, and we know that when he completes his present picture, starring Lee Tracy in "The Lemon Drop Kid," from the pen of Damon Runyon, he will be in line for a long term contract, and theatregoers will be made happier than they have been in some time.

Many Sign On Dotted Line for New Productions Starting Soon

William Thiele, noted Viennese director, has been signed by Fox to direct the Parisian comedy with music "Lottery Lover," which Al Rockett is producing. Al, will also produce "Under the Pampa Moon" which will be adapted by Ernest Pascal and in which Warner Baxter gets the starring role. After being postponed time after time, because of player trouble, "East River," the sand hog story, starring Victor McLaglen and Edmund Lowe has gone into production. This picture from a technical standpoint will be of great interest to the public, showing how tunnels are built and the dread disease called "the bends" can be avoided. It also will lend itself to some wisecracking dialogue, to offset the dangerous action. Raoul Walsh naturally will direct. "White Parade" which is starring John Boles and Loretta Young has a brilliant supporting cast, which includes Dorothy Wilson, Muriel Kirkland, Asta Lullwyn, Joyce Compton, Jane Darwell, Sara Haden, Polly Ann Young, Frank Melton and Walter Johnson. This story was written by Rian James and Jesse L. Lasky, Jr., with adaptation by Sonya Levien and Ernest Pascal. "Batchelor of Arts," which is now in production has a strong cast with Frank Albertson in a featured role. Tom Brown, Anita Louise, Arline Judge and Henry B. Wallis are other featured players. Louis King will direct.

AMERICAN PRODUCER WHO STRANDED TROUPE IN CHINA PREPARING ANOTHER UNIT

Word comes to us that an American producer who took a company to China and stranded them there, is in our midst and is preparing to take over another unit, however, he is supposed to be working under an assumed name, so vaudeville and stage artists better watch their step if they sign up for such a trip.

Russ Columbo Started and Ended His Great Career in Hollywood

His Passing Is a Great Loss to Amusement World

Russ Columbo first reached fame right in the heart of Hollywood, and ended his great career by finishing his best picture, "Wake Up and Dream," at the Universal Studios, only to be snatched away from us just as we commenced to know and love the real man that he was and for what he stood. No matter wherever one met the famous crooner, he was so generous with his greetings and had he lived he would have, through the screen, become one of the most outstanding figures since the days when Rudy Valentino caused such a furor by his screen work. Strangely enough, we parked our car in front of the park, where stood a bronze statue of Rudy. Just as we were heading for home from the Blessed Sacrament Church services, we met an old friend, Father G. G. Fox, and he told us about Russ, while attending a funeral a week ago, then having some sort of presentiment that something might happen, for he said he felt that he should prepare, for he, too, might soon he called upon to answer the final call, and when it happened, he did not want any hurrah at the services, and he even didn't want any organ music. His wish was obeyed to the last letter. A sidelight on how strange the fates are with some of us. Russ Columbo had just finished a transcription with Jimmie Grier and some funmakers, and was invited to go fishing over the week-end to Encina. He accepted, finally changing his mind and staying in Hollywood. Had he made the trip, God alone only knows if it would have staved off what happened, or was he destined to go to the heavens to receive the blessings of God for the happiness he had spread over the radio, on the stage and screen. The amusement world has lost a great personality, and we deem it a great pleasure to have met and known him until the very end.

Victor McLaglen Dines Soccer Football Team, Light Horse Cavalry, Auxiliary and Band at Hollywood Brass Rail

Victor McLaglen believes in making new friends, for last Sunday night at the Hollywood Brass Rail he entertained almost 400 guests at dinner, when he had gathered together the soccer football team that he lately acquired as part of his Light Horse Cavalry organization, with the Women's Auxiliary of Red Cross Workers, and the Brass Band and Bengal Lancers all made merry. It was a great affair, and the host was venerated one of the most popular men in his chosen profession. Among those who were present were Jim Tally, Clyde Cook, the three McLaglen brothers, Major Trasher, Ltent, Commander Kinshall, George Davis, sport writers Sid Ziff and Claude Newman and many others equally well known. Victor McLaglen headed the parade that started at La Brea and Hollywood Boulevard to the Hollywood Brass Rail, and all sat down to a fine dinner, enjoying themselves until the wee hours of the morning.

The Stebbins-Marin Tragedy Shocked Filmland

The accidental death of Mrs. Arthur Stebbins, her two children, Lila and Jerry, and Mrs. Ned Marin, while returning home in a car from Yosemite, shocked Filmland in a greater measure than any other tragedy that we have faced. Words fail us at this hour to write any more about the accident or those that crushed to death. Rabbi Edgar Magnin conducted the services, that were held at the Wilshire Boulevard Temple, and if one was there, they would have to admit that there wasn't a single dry eye in the synagogue.

Max Reinhardt Says Theatregoers Soon to Become Theatre Conscious

"From the slough of the world's theatrical depression, a new idea has been born; the idea of the festival. And through the festival the world will again become 'theatre-conscious'!" This was the declaration Monday of Max Reinhardt, internationally famous producer, who arrived in Los Angeles to begin work at once on the presentation of his spectacular Shakespearean fantasy, "A Midsummer Night's Dream." The play opens September 17 in the Hollywood Bowl for a series of five performances.

Busy Season Ahead for Roach

With twenty-five additional short subjects and at least three more feature length motion pictures to be filmed during the ensuing six months, the Hal Roach Studios, in Culver City, is preparing to meet the busiest production schedule it has yet faced, beginning in late September. This announcement was made yesterday by Hal E. Roach, president of the pioneer studio, which bears his name, of which has emanated many of the outstanding fun films of the past twenty years. Among the two-reel comedies yet to be made this season are three starring Laurel and Hardy; seven featuring Charley Chase; five with Thelma Todd and Patsy Kelly; five starring Irvin S. Cobb and the same number featuring the famous "Our Gang." One of the three remaining feature productions to be filmed during the current season will star Laurel and Hardy, who are now in production on "Babes in Toyland," probably the most pretentious full-length picture they have as yet appeared in.

Jeanette MacDonald Greatest of All Merry Widows, Maurice Chevalier is Superb, Ernst Lubitsch Direction Great

Those who remember "The Merry Widow" of yesterday will not recognize it in the M-G-M modern version, for all that they retained of the old score was the title and the music, with just enough of the plot to hold the piece together. Screen play by Ernest Vajda and Samuel Raphelson, based on book and lyrics by Victor Leon and Leon Stein and music by Franz Lehár. However, the remarkable performance of Jeanette MacDonald is the best ever rendered by any artiste on stage or screen. Maurice Chevalier is superb as "The Count" who guards the King and who has to make love to the wealthiest woman in order to save a kingdom. Ernst Lubitsch's deft touches during his directing the picture holds your attention throughout, and is worthy of the production that Producer Irving G. Thalberg made possible for such a tremendous undertaking. The work of George Barbier smacked very much of the work of Charles Laughton in "King Henry the Eighth," and one more artist who stood up like the seasoned actor that he is, Edward Everett Horton, came through with flying colors against great odds. Una Merkel helped to keep matters moving, while one of the outstanding exhibitions of acting fell to the lot of Herman Bing, who is a second Emil Jannings. Sterling Holloway, Ruth Channing, Mina Gombell, Donald Meek, and last but by far the least, Henry Armetta, showed up very well. The musical end of the picture was entrusted to Herbert Stothart for the adaptation. Lyrics to Lorenz Hart; additional lyrics, Gus Kahn. Song, "It Must Be Love," Richard Rodgers and Lorenz Hart. The photography was beautiful and was accomplished by Oliver T. Marsh, A.S.C. It is a musical treat, the likes of which have never before been produced on such a lavish scale, and should bring millions of cinema theatregoers to the box offices of the world's best theatres.

“THUNDER OVER TEXAS”
BEACON PRODUCTION
Shirle Castle wrote a thriller for Beacon Productions and Eddie Geane-dman did a swell job adapting and dialoguing “Thunder Over Texas,” a fast moving Western, plenty of action, good plot and Joen Warner directed with spirit. The00000000000000 revue scenes are gorgeous, with some great photog-ography by Harry Forbes, who does ample justice to “God’s own country,” and the riding episodes. Some clever shadopen shots are beautifully done. Big 'Boy Williams is a real he-man, good acter, and provides some thrilling riding. Marian Schilling, as the love interest, is splendid. Little Helen Westcott, five years old, has a glorious part through the film. She is truly marvelous. Philo McCullough and Claude Payton come through with good performances. Bob McKenzie does some nice work as the judge. The comedy relief, furnished by Vic Potell, Tiny Skelton and Jerry Corbett, as the radio hounds, is very novel, and adds to the tertainment. Dick Bot-
tiller, as the Mexican scaveng,
gets a clever portrayal, and should have bigger parts. Sound recording by Frank McKenzie, excellent. Fred Preble handled the technical direction. Okay.
The kiddies and the grown-ups will just cat this picture. It has every appeal that a Western can provide. Max Alexander has produced a come-on for more of this brand.

“JESSE JAMES”
With all the “Hain’s,” including per-outs and specialities, the Pasadena Community Playhouse is giving a real revival this week with the production of that ancient thriller, “Jesse James.”
Thomas Browne Henry has directed the play in grand style, and the show is staged, costumed and presented in beautiful fashion. Particularly entrancing were the tableaux at the end of each scene. Ray Clifton was most heroic as Jesse, and Owen King and Brice Spaulding particularly villainous as the head villains. Ben Schwartz did about the best work of the play as Lige, and Paul Regan Maxey, Ray Murray and Beth Porter were outstanding. Others in the cast were George Lynn, James Hawks, John Dobbs, and Ethel Hawks.
Gilmore Brown supervised “Jesse James,” and Robert Lee designed the delightful settings.

“Wake Up and Dream”
(UNIVERSAL)
KEEN MIRTH PROVOKING MUSICAL COMEDY
Kurt Neumann certainly squeezes out every drop of comedy in “Wake Up and Dream” with a fast, well timed direction which will put this picture in real money. He whips his pathos and comedy sequences into a frothy melange and serves it up with a delightful sauce of pretty tunes.
Russ Columbo is well cast as the crooner and puts over his songs, “Let’s Prentid There’s a Moon,” “Too Beautiful” and “When You're in Love,” by Bernie Grossman, Jack Stere, Grace Hamilton and Russ Columbo, which are sweet and tuneful. Roger Pryor is going places—inf act, he has ar-served. He gives a clever, smooth performance, nabbing the limelight with his sincerity. June Knight runs a close second with a beautiful performance. She has talent and a great personalitv which will stick out in any production. She should have more scope. Henry Armetta is a scream in both the Italian and English languages. The audience just roared and howled with laughter at him. His scenes with Catherine Doucet are a riot. Andy Devine certainly rates more footage. He has a style that gathers the laughs. Wini Shaw is some flashy gal who will cure a lot of poor eyesight within the near future. Universal also furnished the stars with a good supporting cast, which includes the inimitable Richard Carle, Paul Poreci, Govin Gordon, Matthew Bilsen, Billy Corbett, as the radio hounds, is very novel, and adds to the tertainment. Dick Bot-

tiller, as the Mexican scaveng,
gets a clever portrayal, and should have bigger parts. Sound recording by Frank

Hugh Herbert Steals the Show in “Dames”—Guy Kibbee
Makin’ Em Laugh
Warner Bros. have a good audience pleaser in “Dames,” just released. Hugh Herbert, as the eccentric millionaire, steals the show, while Guy Kibbee gains many a laugh. Glenda Farrell, as the gold digger, puts over a fine performance, and the romancing part of the opus falls into the hands of Ruby Keeler and Dick Powell.
Miss Keeler does more acting and less dancing in this one and goes over big. Mr.
Powell is the same crooning juvenile—the fair sex go big for him, so that’s the answer. Ray Enright directed the picture with a keen understanding of the comedy situations, while Busby Berkeley again put in some novel dance numbers with beautiful backgrounds. Sid Hickox and George Barnes did themselves proud as the cinematographers. Songs by Warren and Dubin, Dixon and Wruble, and Fain and Kahl, are very catchy. Leo Forbein furnished the Vitaphone Orchestra, with musical arrangements by Ray Heindorff. The story is from the pen of Robert Lord and Delmar Davis, with screen adaptation and play by Delmar Davis.

“The House of Danger”
(PEERLESS PICTURES)
EXCELLENT MYSTERY—WELL ACTED
Charles Hutchinson has produced a winner for Peerless Pictures with “The House of Danger.” His direction is keen and smooth, bringing out the salient points of this murder mystery with telling force. The story, adapted and dialogued by Jack Nattestad from the original novel, “The Great Gamble,” by C. C. Children, holds your interest—the suspense is well sustained. The fire at sea, the attempted murder and the final episode of the automobile smash are very exciting. Hutchinson places the comedy relief in the proper spots. Onslow Stevens does a grand piece of acting as the hero who impersonates his chum in the endeavor to solve the murder. Janet Chandler provides the love interest with charming grace and plenty of personality. Her acting is well restrained. Nina Guilbert, as the aunt, gives superb portrayal. Her sly comedy with Howard Lang, who is admirably cast and gives a brilliant performance as the lawyer, is subtle and smooth. Desmond Roberts turns in an outstanding performance as the crook butler. The scamp nephew, Walter Farrell, handles his part with a fine perception of the lack of punch in a thin part. The photography of Henry Kruse is beautiful, some of the shots breathtaking. Edith Thornton provides some lovely sets, which were well dressed. Freeman Lang sound was excellent as recorded by J. F. Westmoreland.

“THE LAST WILDERNESS”
JERRY FAIRBANKS PRODUCTION
In all probability one of the finest pictures of its kind ever produced, “The Last Wilderness” is a classic. It is not only unique but is full of action thrills and picturesque landscapes, with appeal and drama of wild life. Educational, instructive, every museum of natural history in this country should have a print. Every exhibitor will want it. The picture is a series of shorts over a period of two years in order to catch animals and birds at mating sea-on, and in winter habitat. None of the shots are faked or done in traps or studio, they are in the open and depict wild life as it really is in its natural beauty. You lose all sense of camera. There are some thrilling episiodes; the fight between two bears who snarl and strike, and maul until one is killed. Howard Hill, who is champion bowman of the world, tracks the killer-bear and finally shoots it with an arrow. He saves two cubs which later cause many laughs by their silly antics. Hill also shows how fish are shot with the bow and arrow, and kills a wild cat which has attacked a coyote.
When he shoots a rattlesnake through the head, you realize how he takes his life in his hands to get realism. The buffalo kill brings back boyhood dreams of the big plains. Gayne Whitman wrote and spoke the narration, which is simple but beautifully spoken. Ned Frost did a superb job at the camera and the film editing by Robert Carl-sell is swell. Jerru Fairbanks has contributed to America a grand picture, something really worthwhile, and should receive the Academy award this year.

“GIRL OF MY DREAMS” GOES INTO PRODUCTION
Mary Carlisle has been borrowed by Trem Carr from M. G. M. for a second time to appear in the leading role of another college picture, “Girl of My Dreams,” which goes into production this week with Ray McAvery directing. Others in the cast are Sterling
Holloway, Eddie Nugent, Arthur Lake,
Cipka Carville, Tommy Dugan and Gigi
Parish, Monogram’s Wampas baby star. George Waggner wrote the original story and screen play with W.
T. Lackey producing. Edward Ward has been signed to score the picture.

In and Out of Focus by Allan Hersholt

Hecht-MacArthur Film a Most Unusual One

To Ben Hecht and Charles MacArthur, the two gentlemen who wrote, directed and produced "Crime Without Passion," this aunt and boyish taste of artish and artistic talking pictures ever presented. Messrs. Hecht and MacArthur have employed something of both the German and Russian techniques in their handling of the production, but they have quickened the tempo to American standards. The action moves at a properly swift speed to the rousing climax and then ends with an artistic realism that ignores saccharine conventionalities. Crime without passion at its best remains, one of an O'Neill stage offering, is decidedly out of the rut of ordinary features, and contains remarkable dramatic effects and spectacular scenes which should ensure its drawing well anywhere.

The cast, with the exception of Claude Rains, is composed of generally unknown players. Mr. Rains, who scored an unexpected success on the screen as "The Invisible Man," gives a strikingly vivid performance, although he at times over-plays his character. Marjorie, a really sensational newcomer, does a superior piece of acting. The others Whitney Bourne especially—are excellent. Special effects provided by Slavko Vorkapich are nothing short of miraculous! The introduction to the picture, because of Mr. Vorkapich's remarkable scenes showing the three Pur- fumes, undoubtedly will be remembered for years to come. Don't miss viewing "Crime Without Passion"—for if you do, you'll regret it.

"Servants' Entrance" Very Poor Offering

The average motion picture audience of today demands realism, novelty and charm. Movie fans rebel against artificial, old-fashioned and uninteresting material such as is found in Sigrid Boo's story, "Servants' Entrance," which has been produced by Winfield Sheehan for the E.P.I.C. Corporation.

Rob Wagner, my companion at the preview showing, walked out during the second reel of the picture, stating that he knew a smoke would be far more enjoyable and that he'd meet me outside after the thing was over. Although I made no such confession, I felt my duty to stay and give the narrative a chance to develop. At the end of the sixth reel, I still was waiting for something worth while to happen. Finally, unable to stand it any longer, I joined Mr. Wagner and away we drove—racing the picture all the way home! We were, however, not the only members of the audience who didn't bear viewing this colossal piece of trash. I counted at least ten couples that left during the six reels which I saw. In a word, "Servants' Entrance" is an utter flop.

Janet Gaynor, who is co-starred with Lew Ayres, may hold your attention. I never have been a Gaynor fan. Ayres and Walter Connolly offer convincing portrayals, while Louise Dresser, as always, is good. Ned Sparks, seen but not in much importance, is fairly amusing. The remaining players are not worth mentioning. Frank Lloyd's direction, unfortunately, doesn't help matters any.

"Desirable" Pleases; Muir and Mayo Score

"Desirable," the Warner Bros. presentation, is an excellent example of what can be made of a simple romantic story by a master of dramatic substance. Owing chiefly to Jean Muir's clever performance and the brilliant direction of Archie Mayo, this is a highly entertaining picture. Its theme centers around Miss Muir, a young lady barely out of adolescence who, after becoming engaged to Charles Starrett, realizes that she, in her heart, has been in love with George Brent. She then is made supremely happy. Nothing but the fact that the subject of her affections has had a previous love affair with her mother, Ver- ree Teasdale, Director Mayo has introduced num- erous situations that are delicately amusing bits of business unfolding his story. He is greatly aided by the well selected cast. Miss Muir's characterization of the girl who goes through a metamor- phosis under the spell of romance is very colorful and sincere. The many George Brent, Verree Teasdale, John Halliday, Charles Starrett, Russell Hopton, Joan Wheeler and Barbara Leonard make the best of their splendid opportunities.

CURTIS COMPLETES ROLE

Curtis Warner, renowned for his fine performances, is Hal Arling's avia- toir sweetheart in "Gallant Lady," has just completed his latest assignment at Warners as a West Point cadet in "Filtration Walk," which is starring Dick Powell and Ruby Keeler.

Frank Melford, production manager on "Peck's Bad Boy," has a sore hand caused by handshaking, and a broken back, caused by poundings given in recogni- tion of his work on the picture.

Moving Movie Throng by John Hall

The very probable election of Upton Sinclair Governor of California and the adoption of his E.P.I.C. plan means much to the motion picture industry. The Plan plainly states that, if ANY industry cannot properly feed, clothe and house ALL engaged in it, the STATE will take it over and manage it. The State in control of motion pictures—goodbye colossal executive salaries and "bonuses"! Such things will be absolutely VERBOTEN. NO NEIN . . . If this thing succeeds, the prospect materializes—the exodus to New York will be quick and complete . . . BUT! and it is some BUT—will that help? . . . Imagine the State of California, official producer of America's motion pictures . . . Can private producers successfully compete with it? This outlook is NOT beyond possibility; in fact, fast-moving events make it extremely probable. Some of the socialists, Upton Sinclair publicly states his E.P.I.C. plan, to devote itself to uncovering the Railway and the E.P.I.C. . . . There's that army of extras. THEY will be guaranteed a livelihood . . . Vitaliy, ess, they cannot be ignored . . . And there is the army of technical workers . . . To equalize things, big executive salaries and "bonuses" MUST be cut, more evenly to distribute money among the real workers . . . Something for Hollywood moguls to THINK about . . . Here we have an IMPOUNDERABLE, frequently referred to in this column . . . The situation is another astonishing reminder of the far from perfect workings of what smart(1) lawyers find in law books—Law; the selfish all lawyers bow down to and worship . . . It did not save Germany . . . "Beware the imponderables," warned Bismarck . . . Lawyers and politicians—the same thing—were too stupid to understand—and they killed millions of men and wrecked the great nation Bismarck built . . . The men advising Hollywood how to evade the law and MAKE MONEY are not sufficiently MENTAL to THINK of imponderables . . . We know of no GREAT lawyer advising Hollywood . . . We know of ONE great lawyer, Clarence Darrow, who flatly disregarded all the Code methods . . . Now comes Upton Sinclair and his E.P.I.C. plan, to the amazement of the Nation and the world, OVERWHELMINGLY supported by the VOTERS! . . . If this new controllable industry—controllable industry—those industries unable, or unwilling, to maintain employees—suc- ceed, and it will, other state will adopt it . . . The Roosevelt administration, under the Constitution, will test all ideas aiding the REDIS- TRIBUTION of wealth . . . All who oppose these things face inevitable de- struction by an aroused, hungry elec- torate, grimly determined to make the new DEAL a complete success . . . Recent events indicate that the re- count and re-registration of NECESSARY extras is a lost cause . . . In view of impending legislation under E.P.I.C. it behooves producers to AT ONCE DECIDE just how many extras the industry can support, and have the figures ready for the new Governor. The extras officially registered will guide authorities at Sacramemo.

THE STOOGES

Hello, folks.

It's too bad so many terrible tragedies occurred last week. It naturally put a damper on the three-day holiday. However, we caught quite a few film people at Santa Barbara, including Mr. and Mrs. Cowan (Lenore Coffee), Edgel Selwyn and Alice Dahl, Mr. and Mrs. Jack Cummings with Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Bergerman. Joan Bennett, looking quite well after the birth of her baby, with her husband, George Markley, Mr. and Mrs. David Selzick—Myron Selzick showing his client, Evelyn Laye, about the hotel. Mr. and Mrs. Jesse Lasky. Marcella Burke was also there, looking grand—one would never know she had just had a nervous breakdown. The Dick Arlen's were there, celebrating his birthday with a gang of friends. The Sol Lesons are off to Europe before long.

Signe and Roberguson gave a farewell party at the Hayworth, which was arranged by Edgar Allan Wolfe. He left for New York Tuesday night.

Marlene Dietrich was at the depot the other night seeing Chevalier off—you very fond of his acting.

Most any night you'll find Bette Davis at the Hayworth marking time for those in-between dance chats with her husband, Harmon O. Nelson. He's the pianist in the orchestra, you know. Of course, Dickie, for Binnie's an ex-gangster, man, has been seeing the sights of Hollywood with Lupe Velez.

You'll all be glad to know the old Colony Club opens again on or about the twelfth of this month, as David Selzick may be a lot of John McCormick these days. A sweet new orchestra from New York, managed by Mike Wallace, gave an audition at the Roosevelt the other day. Binnie Hull signs them.

We know everyone will be happy to hear that Florence Hannaman is well on her way to recovery.

An amusing thing happened at the Grove the other night—Binnie Barnes and the Fox Eye Club nightly, while we were discussing different Hollywood types. Binnie pointed to a very blonde girl dancing by and said to Florence: "That is my idea of a very over-dressed and cheap looking girl. Her nose should be in a chorus line-up." At that particular moment the blonde turned to Florence and said "Hello." Imagine Binnie's surprise when she learned that the girl she had been talking about was none other than Florence's sister. Was Binnie's face red.

Goodbye now.

JOHNNY HORACE TOPS SHERRY'S CAFE PLAYSPOT

He is always on the make, and the way the crowds enjoy this funmaker, makes you get into the spirit of the doings. The rest of the entertainment comprises of some more colored entertainers and as an added attraction Donna Dean, a sensational fan dancer, makes 'em sit up and take notice. The jazz orchestra furnishes the dance music, and every one who comes in for dinner and spends the evening vote this spot the best of any of them in the neighborhood.

"PUPS"

"The combination of uniqueness and originality makes the charming atmosphere of the Shack . . . epicures of delectable dishes such as Harry Oliver, Edwin Maxwell, Florence Roysters. Colin Clements and scores of others find the varied menu of the "food oddities" unexcelled. The Shack is now introducing to its patrons a new oddity in "Pup in the Blanket," served with savory Boston baked beans, a new innovation of the "hot dog." In mentioning this dish don't forget the fritters that melt in your mouth.

The Cotton Club in Culver City, where he is staging two-shows-in-one offering an all-white show in the main dining room, and a colored revue with the soul. Here Harry Doller, featuring Lionel Hampton King of trap drummers in the lounge room. The opening night was the sign of the greatest turnout that Frank Sebastian has had here in years, and is worthy of all of this attention, for he has not only created the biggest attractions in cafédom, but, he has spent thousands upon thousands of dollars in improv- ing the Cotton Club. It is a sort of a sherry-go-round, something doing all the time, the lounge room is the central attraction, many have visited this place, and feel that they can be at ease and really relax to their hearts content. Time alone prevents this breeders, details all the attractions and artists that are in the festivities, and just what a great treat Mr. Sebastian is offering night lovers.

SPARKLING COMEDY DRAMA AT HARLEQUIN STUDIO GUILD THEATER

“So This Is Love” presented by Mrs. R. D. Shepherd is one of the best comedies on the stage at this time. Written by Katharine Kavanagh and directed by Johnstone White, the story, of a typical American middle-class family, has a great appeal to one’s sense of humor with just enough touch of the dramatic to hold the suspense. It is well acted, breezy and smooth. Hugh McNair, as Tony, an adored youth who knows all about women and Vivian Reid, as Margie, who does a dumbbell love sick girl, run away with the show. These two would make a great team for the legitimate stage or screen. Carlos de Valdez is fine as the father and Elizabeth Pen- dleton does a nice bit of work as the mother, she is adorable. Kathryn Prather holds your interest in the lead. Ron Steele, as the reporter handles his assignment very well. Celeste Grun, as the married sister, furnishes a polished performance, her dramatic climaxes show good training. William Parsons, the ne’er-do-well husband of Celeste is worthy of special mention. All the acting is heavy, is polished, has a fine speaking voice. Elsie Mackie, as the English snooty neighbor is refreshing. Wilfred Hari, the Japanese butler, keeps the audience in stitches while he holds the stage. The play was enthusiastically received by the audience which was composed of many socialites and movie folks.

Hollywood Radio-o- caster

has stalled in our midst and taken two from radio’s fold within the week. We most foresighted executives, a man tribute to the passing of one of radio’s whose vision and determination brought him into every field he entered, and whose sense of justice and fellow- ship made loyal friends of all those with whom he came in contact. It has been said that DON LEE once carried his radio stations at a loss of $10,000 a mouth; it is gratifying to know that he lived to see the time his great experiment, the Don Lee Broadcasting System, could reciprocate by carrying the depression-de- flating Cadillac distributorship. With the nation we must mourn the going of the young RUSS COLUMBO who seemed just to have started upon a career whose heights were infinite. In the passing of one whose major work has been done, it is not so difficult to see a Design; but when the toll is a young life, whose dreams are yet greater than his deeds, one must merely accept and trust that the Lord whose ways are so mysterious knows best. In the realm of drama, Peter the Great ranted and sobbed his last Sunday after- noon over the CBS network. Stars to TRUE BOARDMAN for his portrayal of so difficult a role. We understand that both True and MORA MORTIN, whose interpretation of Catherine the Great, was as beautiful a piece of dramatic work as we’ve ever heard, are UCLA programs—True graduated just this year. While we’re shooting star-struck over a whole aureola boroeth of them to EDDIE LYNN, who authored the two Russian series across country. It’s to be regretted that his radio scripts can’t be circulated with other biographical works; until one has read and re-read some of his manuscripts one doesn’t appreciate the history with which his lines are weighted, nor the literary beauty with which they’re written. If Ralph Rain- ger smiles like that on hearing his brainchild, that lovely of lovelies, “Love in Bloom,” sung by Carol Lee, we wonder how he’ll beam in November when Mrs. Ralph Rainger will present him with their first born. Thanks, RKO, for giving us more of Carol Lee; there can never be too much of her for us. But what happened to BENNY RUBIN?

We were looking forward to hearing the old invigorator emceeing Hollywood on the Air, but the substitute, JIMMY FIDLER set a tempo that is too matter-of-fact racy to permit time for whole-hearted laughs or genuine enjoyment. On the Chase and Sanborn hour, the inimitable cackle of Jimmy Durante’s stooge, Meadowlarks, is the best laugh-generating feature of the whole show, in this reporter’s opinion—but of course, we like our humor, “Easy come, easy go”; this labored laughter just falls short of our conception of fun. On the same show, Rubi- nell most almost had us enthusiastic over the GORDON AND REVEL

“I’m Hummin’; I’m Whistlin’; I’m Singin’,” until he wound up on that final ouch, a slightly sour “G—” and sour is sour, whether slightly or full-blooded enough.

JIMMY NEWBURY

performance was irreproachable on the Hall of Fame broadcast, neither it nor any of his work of late possesses the fire or sincerity he used to have with Ted Dah. Can it be that GUS ARNHEIM’S song “Am I Distracting the Lad?” If he’ll come to, it’s our opinion that Jimmy’s voice can vie with any of them. That Maxine Tappan could dis- tract the best of them, though; the Kansas City lass can put more insinu- ations into a lyric than any St. Louis woman that ever hailed out of the Midwest. Arnheim can pick them—and congratulations, Gus, on yours and the boys’ rendition of Fritz Kreisler’s immortal “Caprice Viennais.” A gold star to GENE AUSTIN’S saxophone-less aggregation at the Ambas- sador Lido, which sounds like a pioneer of combinations to come to this reviewer. It’s the dankest music on air. Gene and Rainer are doing programs from the Cocomo Groove. We wonder whose oversight neglected ALBERT VON TILZER’S haunting new melody, “Facing the Wailling Wall,” on the Demi-Tasse Re- view. In our opinion, this will prove one of the greatest of all times. And Robin and Rainer fans that we all are, wouldn’t it have been a finer tribute to the veteran tunemaster to fore- go one of the R & R hits for a real von Tilzer orchestral feature? Are you readin’.

JIMMY GRIER?

Hollywood welcomes a visiting radio star from Detroit, PHIL WOOD, who tells us the joke of the week. According to Phil, two inebriates were talking it all over. Said the first happy man, “How do you know that I weighed three ounces when I wshorn?” Second drunk; “Did you live?” “I’ll shay I did! (hic) Yuz oughta shee me now”

RKO — RADIO STUDIOS — HOLLYWOOD

"Hollywood on the Air"

NBC Network
Paramount—RKO-Radio Line-up Looks Good

This past week it looked like the "Yellow Peril" had struck America. If you had been lead blindfolded onto the Paramount lot and then the blindfold removed on the set of the street scene for "Limehouse Nights," you would have seen Chinamen to right, left, in front and in back of you. George Raft must feel like a stranded marine during the Boxer Rebellion. It will certainly be a change for George when he隔离了 "Limehouse Nights," his new feature. Bette Davis and Francis the feminine roles, in the scenario. When W. C. Fields finishes his present picture Paramount will probably feature Polly Moran with him in "McFadden's Flats." After Cecil B. DeMille gets "The Crusades" and out of production, it is understood he will do Louis Parker's play, "Joseph and His Brethren." Paramount has purchased "Two Little People," by Frank Dazey and Agnes Christine Johnson. It will be developed for Cary Grant, Helen Mack and Baby LeRoy. Paramount is away ahead of events. It recently cast an unborn babe for a scene in "The Lemon Drop Kid." The infant was photographed at the hospital by a crew of studio workers. Her name is Phyllis Rica Frey. A star before she was born.

CARMEN GOULD IN COLUMBIA PRODUCTION

Carmen Gould has just finished in Columbia's "Spring 3000;" direction of Roy Niel. Nancy Carroll has the stellar role in this epic, which promises to be one of the outstanding pictures of the year. Miss Gould who is a Southener has been working consistently in worth-while parts, and it is understood that she is slated for an exceptional spot at one of the major studios.

Charles Chaplin

Accorded by press and public to be the "Silent Napoleon" of filmland, this famous funster is preparing to make his most unique comedy, which, we are told, will deal with a subject that is entirely new to theatregoers and the industry.

This Should be a Good Season for This Company

RKO-Radio is getting set for a diversified program which will take in many subjects that appeal to the average film fan. They have a football comedy-drama, tentatively titled, "The Football Fool," now in production. Instead of using stock shots, actual scenes are being taken of the Trojan team in pre-seasonal practice. Eddie Quillan has the lead with Betty Furness, Grant Mitchell, Edgar Kennedy and a number of gridiron heroes supporting. "Silver Streak" starts a new cycle in pictures when the Burlington Streamline Zephyr will be harnessed to the screen. Through one long sequence the train is interwoven with a drama of modern life, which has its climax in a race from Chicago to foil death at Boulder Dam. Glendon Allvine is producing with Tommy Atkins as director, Earle Foxe, an old-time picture star, has been signed as technical adviser for "Wednesday's Child," a domestic drama. He will supervise sequences taken at Black Fox Military Academy, of which he is president. Now that Director Wallace Fox has returned from Catalina Island where he used the famous glass-bottom boat to find best locations for underwater scenes for "The Sea Girl," this film is scheduled to go into production at once. Steffi Duna and Regis Toomey are set for the leads, Steffi has been taking sun baths in preparation for her role. Seton I. Miller will adapt the Stuart Palmer mystery story, "The Puzzle of the Pepper Tree," for Kenneth Macgowan, who will produce the film.

WILLIAM BAKEWELL SIGNED BY CHERSTEFIELD PICTURES

William Bakewell has been signed by Chesterfield Pictures to play the juvenile lead in "The Curtain Falls." Story by Carl Brown, direction, Charles Lamont.
George O'Brien Stars in His Best Outdoor Picture, Directed by Edward F. Cline

GRAND CANYON SERVES AS BEAUTIFUL BACKGROUND FOR OPUS PHOTOGRAPHED BY FRANK B. GOOD

Zane Grey's original story, "The Dude Ranger," is a love tale of the West that will hold you until the final fade-out. It deals with a wealthy young Easterner who inherits from his Uncle a ranch out West, and when he goes to take possession of it, finds many difficulties and some real cattle stealing. He impersonates a hired hand, and while trying to unseal the honest who the culprits are, falls in love with the rancher's daughter. Villainy runs rampant, and he finally outwits the outlaws, wins the girl, and all ends happily.

George O'Brien, as the hero, gives his best performance since "Sunrise." He characterized his part and acted more naturally in this opus than we have seen him in some time. George grows on his audience, and in the end they are pulling for him to come through a winner. This, in the present day Westerns, is some accomplishment. He does his best work when he injects a bit of comedy to his character with Irene Hervey, as the rancher's daughter, and LeRoy Mason, the heavy, who tries to upset the love affair between the pair. Miss Hervey needs a few good pictures to make her a real favorite. Mr. Mason, if you please, gave a surprising performance as the villain. Sid Saylor capped all comedy honors. Henry Hall was particularly good. Others who helped matters along were James Mason, Alma Chester, Lloyd Ingraham and Sid Jordan.

Si Jenkins did a good bit, as did Dick Rush. Edward F. Cline did a fine job of directing, being assisted by Billy Carr. The adaptation and screen play is by Barry Barringer; story supervision by Harry Chandler; production manager was Frank Melford; art direction by Robert Ellis; film editing by Don Hayes; sound by L. E. Clark. The beautiful photography by Frank B. Good is worthy of special mention. It reveals the Grand Canyon as it has never before been pictured. The large audience at the Ritz Theatre applauded as the story was being unreeled amid such backgrounds. Exhibitors will find "The Dude Ranger," produced by Sol Lesser, a very entertaining family picture, and you can prepare to get a series from George O'Brien that will add greater interest in your theatres.

New Casting Chief Named

Campbell MacCulloch, state executive secretary for the National Recovery Administration, has been appointed general manager of the Central Casting Corporation, succeeding Dave Allen. MacCulloch, it is stated, has been given authority to completely reorganize the bureau, making such changes as will tend to elevate the efficiency of the organization.

Says Jack L. Warner, vice-president of the Motion Picture Producers' Association: "The selection of Mr. MacCulloch came after a long and thorough search for a man qualified by experience and judgment to undertake the important duties as manager of the bureau. He will assume his new work immediately."

One Newspaperman to Another

GOODBYE, OLD PAL, JIM MITCHELL, THANKS FOR EVERYTHING

As I sit at home Sunday afternoon and write this farewell note to you, old pal, Jim Mitchell, I have the urge to write, one newspaperman to another. I am proud to have known you and to thank you for the very things that you did to make every one respect us scribials, who have to FIGHT FOR EVERY INCH OF RESPECT AND CONSIDERATION. You made our fight a lighter one by your actions and the respect that you commanded. I KNOW THAT GOD HAS ALREADY REWARDED YOU, and as you look down on us from above, I know that you are pulling for us to make good, and in knowing this, we can carry on.

GOOD-BYE, JIM, UNTIL WE MEET AGAIN.

Clever Actress Fools Director

For a recent picture, "The House of Danger," in which she gave such an outstanding performance, Nina Guilbert was assigned the role of an lady and un-quested to come back that afternoon all made up for the part. When she re-turned, the director was busy casting and interviewing other talent. In she came—the director looked up and said: "I am awfully sorry, but I think the part is filled, although you look just the type." He nearly fell out of his chair when Nina said: "Well, Mr. Hutchison, the make-up MUST be good if you don't recognize me." Miss Guilbert has a most astonishing personality when you con-sider that she is a young woman, but can portray middle aged women with consummate ease. Her legitimate stage experience is invaluable. She has played leads in stock at the Alcazar Theatre in Frisco, under the direction of Edward Belasco, and also has appeared in the Baker Theatre in Portland, playing the part of Sadie Thompson in "Rain" for West Coast Theatres. Without make-up, Nina Guilbert is a very at-tractive woman, and really should be cast for the flabbiest semi-comic leads of the tittering type a la Billy Burke, as Nina is slim, small and refreshing.

Tom Buckingham Passes Away in Prime of Life

The passing of Tom Buckingham in the prime of lie is indeed a very unfortunatething, for here was a man who had everything to live for. He was a self-made man, came up from the ranks of cameraman to director, and has given much help to improve screen entertainment in the form of some very splendid stories, as well as directing pictures. Ye Editor talked to Tom a week before he passed away, and remarked then how well he looked and hoped that he would soon direct another fine pic-ture. And to think that today we are writing about our good friend and co-worker in this great industry—just a memory of yesterday—great deeds that he has accomplished while he was in our midst.

Gilbert Roland Signed by Fox to Long Term

Because of his work in "Elinor Norton," now in production at the Studio, Gilbert Roland has signed a long term contract, it was announced today by Sol M. Wurtzel, producer. It is planned to feature Roland in five pictures a year, and Mr. Wurtzel already has ordered a search for stories suit-able to the actor. The son of a Spanish matador, Roland, whose real name is Luis Alonso, was born in Durango, Mexico. His first important motion picture part was that of Armand in Dumas' "Camille." During the last year he has appeared in "She Done Him Wrong," Clara Bow's "Call Her Savage," "The Woman Spy," "Without Glory" and "After Thought." He is playing the leading male role in "Elinor Norton," adapted from Mary Roberts Rinehart's "The State Versus Elinor Norton," which has Claire Trevor in the title part, with other roles filled by Norman Foster, Henrietta Crosman and Hugh Williams.

THE PURSUIT OF HAPPINESS

A Rare Piece of Entertainment

If ever there was a picture in which the star absolutely dominated, Francis Lederer, capturing your interest and sympathy in "The Pursuit of Happiness," stands the year's hope for a bit of sprightly and a glorious performance. There is no other actor on the screen today who could have portrayed the young Hessian transplanted to a strange country with stranger customs, and peculiar ideas of what happiness means. His supporting cast is well chosen. Joan Bennett is ideal as the love interest. Her mother and father as portrayed by Mary Boland and Charles Ruggles, give an excellent characterization of typical Colonial types. Walter Kingsford is perfect as the narrow-minded blue nose reformer and Minor Watson gives a nice portrayal as the courteous Southern officer. Adrian Morris has a caddish role which he never over plays. To Barbara Babcock and Van Heflin we owe our hat. She is great as the maid of all work. Not the usual frowsy or typed servant, but a sweet nice girl who is in love with "Puritan Punishment" is credit to Paramount and adds another triumph to Alexander Hall for his deft direction and handling the "bundling" episodes with a skill that precludes any criticism. From the play by Lawrence Langner and Eliza Tabor; the adaptation by Stephen Morehouse Avery, and Jack Cunningham is clever with good dialogue; J. F. Virginia Van Upp wrote the Art direction by Hans Dreier and the set decoration by Kari Strass handled the camera with beautiful photography. Arthur Hornblow, Jr., is to be congratulated for his fine production and presenting Paramount and the public with a picture which has every appeal that makes success. "Bundling," was a New England custom in revolutionary times when lovers courting, got into bed on cool nights to conserve wood and keep warm. They wore all their clothes.

TORBEN MEYER GOES TO RKO

Having just finished an assignment in "Music in the Air," at Fox, Torben Meyer goes to R. C. K. O. where he is to play in "By Your Leave."

"Gift of Gab" Universal

SNAPPY ENTERTAINMENT—GREAT CAST—BIG BOX OFFICE

Universal shot the works on "Gift of Gab" with superlative entertainment. The cast reads like a million dollars; Universal's own stars, spangled with headliners of the radio, and plenty of plot. Good music, swell dialogue and great performances by the cast, will make this picture big box office and one of the best pictures of the year. Shaped on the revue angle, with broadcasting as the main form of entertainment, it will have appeal to the general public. Edmund Lowe and Gloria Stuart carry the story with grand performances, and Victor Moore, with Alice White, run a close second. Gene Austin puts over "Blue Sky Avenue" effectively. A screaming parody on a murder mystery is done by Roger Pryor, Paul Lukas, Charles Morris, Karloff and Binnie Barnes. Another scene, in a doctor's office, is side splitting, done by Helen Vinson, Hugh O'Connell and Phil Baker. Henry Armetta and Andy Devine contribute to the fun in incidents with Victor Moore. Songs by Ruth Etting, the Downey Sisters, Ethel Waters and the Beale Street Boys, accompanied by Gus Arnheim and his orchestra, fill in beautifully. Sterling Holloway, as the sound man, helps along. Douglas Fowley, a new personality, looks like a comic. The direction by Karl Freund is swift and sure, never letting the plot or entertainment lag. Screen play by Rian James and adaptation by Lou Breslow, from the original story of Jerry Wald and Philip Epstein. George Robinson does a swell job with his camera, and David Garber furnishes fine sets. Raymond Curtiss handled the film editing expertly. The song hits, "Talking to Myself," "Blue Sky Avenue," "I Ain't Goin' on Sin No More" and "Don't Let This Waltz Mean Goodbye," contributed by Con Conrad, Albert von Tiller, Charles Tobias, John Meskel, Herb Magidson, George Whiting and Murray Mencher are corking. Edward Ward, musical director, did a beautiful job. "Gift of Gab" is smart, well balanced entertainment.

CHESTERFIELD PRODUCTION STARING HENRIETTA CROSMAN IS WELL UNDER WAY ON PATEH LOT

"CRIMSON ROMANCE" Mascot

It is astonishing that the executives who saw the rushes on "Crimson Romance" did not destroy this film rather than foil upon exhibitors and the public such a mixture of slush. Supposedly a master production, the dialogue is so full of drivel dug up from every old war picture ever produced, that this "melon drammer" borders on the farce, and the direction and acting reminds one of the old German gutter bands, where every man for himself predominated. As the story unfolds one does not know if it is German propaganda, peace propaganda or a direct slap at the American nation and its vaunted fair play. The boy, of German parentage (James Bush) cannot get a job after being dismissed by a manufacturer of airplanes who is supplying the Allies, because some of them crack up on tests, which are really made by the American boy (Ben Lyon). So-o-o-o-o, Ben and James go to Germany. How did they get there? And we next see them as lieutenants in a German air division. From there on nothing but stock shots are plentifully sprinkled in the scenes to give it some realism. Sari Maritza, furnishing the love interest, tries real hard to help along the story. William Bakewell, who thinks he is a coward, commits suicide, and is splendid. Hardie Albright, who keeps himself in a perpetual state of drunkenness, does nice character work. Erich von Stroheim smiles all through these scenes, although he incomparably a blood-thirsty, sadistic commander of the bombing squadron. Was he silly enough at the futility of it all? Al Martin and Sherman Lowe usually write good dialogues and stories, but they cannot be proud of this one. Direction by David Howard, loose. The photography by Ernest Miller is good. Screen play by Milton Krimms. Added dialogue by Darius Schroeder. Film editing by Doris Draught must have been a terrific job.

SECRET OF THE CHATEAU Universal

"Secret of the Chateau," is a clever little mystery story well told by a good cast and excellent direction. Richard Thorpe did a nice job directing this picture for he holds the suspense well in the record of events, and moves his players and cameramen to capture everything the plot holds. Claire Dodd does a nice piece of acting but this girl was seriously handicapped with a poor supporting lead in Clark Williams. Claire should be given better parts as she is a sterling actress, and on the up and up. Alice White does her part with the usual wise-cracking manner and George E. Stone handles a serious-comedy part well-worth mentioning as real good. Jack Holt's part is a lot out of a meagre part. William Faversham does a clever bit of work. DeWitt Jennings and Ferdinand Gottschalk are excellent. They help Claire to put over the picture. Osgood Perkins was a bit wavy in his scenes, but his part is from the original story by Lawrence G. Blochman with continuity by Harry Behn and additional dialogue by Llewellyn Hughes. Screen play by Al De Mondo. Robert Planck gives some excellent photography, especially the shadow shots. The picture, produced by L. L. Ostrum.

"MARY OF SCOTLAND" PRODUCED BY FINE VEHICLE FOR GAHAGAN, KEITH, COOPER

Homer Curran made a fine selection of "Mary of Scotland" for Helen Gahagan, Ian Keith and Violet Kemble Cooper, and if you care to add Ian MacLaren for the part of the king, you get a lot out of a meagre part. Miss Gahagan rises to great heights a number of times during the three acts. Ian Keith plays his role with a keen understanding and finesses as the romantic Earl of Bothwell. Miss Violet Kemble Cooper, too, is splendid as Elizabeth Tudor, undermines Mary Stuart, while Ian MacLaren, as John Knox, the agitator, is superb. Then you will like Lionel Belmore, as Lord Huntley, Nigel de Brusler, Montague Shaw, Richard Vail, Raymond Lawrence, Walter Bonn, Chappell Dossett, Joseph Anthony, Colin Craig, Clare Verdera, William Jeffery, Dora Clement, Elizabeth Willbur, Glen Ellison, Vernon Downing, Alice A. Green, John McBride, Jack Macklin, Leslie Thomas, Edward Fisher, William Dorrne, Roger Bloom and Frederick J. Fynn. All do their best to stay within the bounds of their roles, keeping up the standard set by the stars.

THE STOOGES

Hello Folks:
The circus was quite a treat for the scofflaws of Hollywood. For once in their life they had a chance to take down their hair and go naive on us.
The opening night we spotted several celebrities, Sid Grauman having the twist of his life with his mother. The Pat O'Brien's having a lot of laughs at the sideshows. Alice White, Frank
McHugh, and the Louis Calhern's.
Charlie Feldman with his new bride.
Eph Asher, taking time off between bites of peanuts and popcorn to give
"hello" to all the old circus men. Eph, by the way, worked for the circus in his younger days.

Did you know that Universal was giving Paul Ames a screen test in hope that they might find another Clark Gable. Incidentally, Paul gave the publicity department of Universal a huge order for fan pictures of June Knight, it seems the potential star is very, very much in demand.

It's moving time for the Otto Kruger's.
They took a lovely home in Beverly Villa, and Gene Delmar back from Hawaii nei, still railing about the mar-weekend they had.

John Beal and wife, so newly wed, really had a tough break. They had just been settled a couple of weeks when she received a wire offering her a part on Broadway. While enroute, John received the notice that Hollywood thought the deal was off. There was nothing else for her to do but to stay in New York and take her chances at getting another job.

Ross and Sargent, the warbling boys at the Kings Club, are leaving for London within a month.

What is this between Stuart Ross and Mrs. Max Steiner, they're seen constantly in one another's company.

Jimmy Horne is all set with a director's job at Columbia.

It looks like wedding bells for Jimmy Dunn and Patsy Lee. Jimmy, left for New York Sunday night to see the fights. Guess Alice Faye wanted to see them too, as she was on the same train.

Folks keep your eyes open for another lawsuit to be filed against Donald Cook, it might be interesting.

William Anthony McGuire gave a big reception in the Venetian room of the Beverly Wilshire Hotel the other evening in honor of his sister.

Claude Raines back from New York preparing to start work on his next picture which Eddie Luddy is directing.

Better not ask Walter Kane what made him blush so when he put the key into his apartment door the other evening and found two unexpected guests.

Goodbye now.

GUS ARNHEIM TO MAKE WAY FOR TED FIO-ROTO AT COCOANUT GROVE

Gus Arnaheim will make way October 1 for Ted Fio-Rito to return to the Cocoanut Grove. The latter has a new addition to his orchestra in Kearney Wagner, who is now Arnaheim. Tuesday night celebrated his birthday at the Grove and a glance around showed that some of the best known celebs were there enjoying themselves on their own. Gene Austin finishes Monday night here, and moves on to the Colony Club. He and his Stooges have proven quite an attraction here. Gus Arnaheim is going on a tour up North and then he and his orchestra play the South. Ben L. Frank, we learned, has some very good attractions following the Fio-Rito engagement, although he is not announcing them at this time.

BILTMORE BOWL OFFERS A CLASSY SHOW THIS WEEK

The Biltmore Bowl is offering a classy show this week, headed by the “Sensational Three Chalchots,” posturing acrobatic marvels; Riaan De Bor offers a Spanish dance number that clicks. Hais Ender and Frank Allen are very clever dancers. Mildred Stone again scores with some songs. Terry Franconi is as popular as ever with the crowds who like his singing, and to top it all off, you will see Don and Sally Jennings, who really look like they belong dancing on such a swanky ball room floor as the Biltmore Bowl. Jimmie Grier and his Orchestra are still the big noise at this playspot.

MARLENE DIETRICH, JOSEF VON STERNBERG AND OTHERS VISIT THE KING’S CLUB

The past week found Marlene Dietrich, Josef Von Sternberg the best known of satellites visiting the King’s Club. However, you must not overlook, Helen Trevettrees, Frank Woody, Chester Morris and wife, Jack LaRue, Douglas Montgomery, Carl Laemmle Jr., Raymond Griffith, Frank Borzage and wife, Scott Darling and wife, Ralph Murphy, Jack Cohn, Philip Holmes, Eddie Sutherland, Renee Torres, Jack Conway, Robert Z. Leonard, Howard Hawks, Patsy Ruth Miller, John Lec Mahin, Donald Cook, Lyle Talbot, George E. Stone, Darryl Zanuck, Carey Grant and many others of equal note. Ross and Sargent are the headliners and going better than ever. J. Walter Leopold and his Orchestra made up of of his aides Sugar, Pep, and Ginger, furnish some very fine music. You will be greeted by George Baron the maître d’hotel and served by Paul Franks.

SEBASTIAN’S TWO-IN-ONE SHOW MAKES A BIG HIT AT CULVER CITY

Frank Sebastian’s new idea of staging two shows in one at his Culver City Cotton Club is making quite a hit with cafe lovers. Starring Ben Pollack and his orchestra, backed up by one of the best variety shows, in which Doris Robbins is the featured artiste. The program is replete with so much star talent that we might add that no place in the whole country will you find such an array of artists. For example, get a load of these names: Jimmy Ray, the greatest of all soft shoe dancers; The Three Jacks and a Queen; Ray Mayer and Edith Evans, who sing and play the piano to much applause; The Three Comedy Nuts (Clarke, Prince and Norcroft) who set ‘em wild with a funny fan dance, in which they use menus from the tables. Miss “Nash,” international exotic rhythm dancer, who is a sensation, and Ruth Zc Loise, direct from the California Melody makers of radio fame, a swing singer of The Ben Pollack Orchestra is the last word in music, and Presario Sebastian rightly walks around prouder than he has been in years, for he is indeed offering the public the best of the breadth of the land in show and cafèlon.

The Broomfield and Gleeley all star colored revue, as staged in the Lounge Room, is the best ever offered by Le Roy Broomfield and Aurora Gleeley. It is the closest to the naked truth craze that has hit the country, for four beautiful Creole damsel walks in review while LeRoy Broomfield and Aurora Gleeley dance and sing merri ly, and boy! oh boy! the show then gets away to a hot stride. Martha Ritchie croons to great applause; Dudley Dickerson makes ‘em howl and clap their heads off, and almost breaks his back as he stoops in between dancing to pick up the money that is thrown to him. The Famous Three Brownies, “Queens of Song,” play and sing. They are good to look at and hear and go over big. Cliff Ritchie, Jr., not only sings the latest hits, but like his mother, Martha, is some stepper. Speaking about high steppers, lay a bet on Willa May Lane, the Four Dancing Cowans and Three Dancing Rocketts go to town and make you feel that they are the last word in dancing. In closing let us give a great big hand to Leon Herriford for the peppiest and jazziest orchestra that has come to the Cotton Club in years. He is giving London, Hampton, ace trap drummer, plenty of work to keep up with the band, and also to do his solo trap drum number, which is a wow. The Lounge Room is running the Cotton Club main dining room show a great race for first honors.

CHICK ENDER AND CHARLES FARRELL SCORE BIG HIT AT THE CLOVER CLUB

The new Clover Club reopened last Wednesday night to a capacity crowd. Who’s who in Filmland was there. The club was decorated with many novel features. A glass dance floor with trick lighting effects won the admiration of everyone. Chick Ender and Charles Farrell, international salon singers, were roundly applauded; in fact, they received an ovation. Their clever lyrics to songs are great.

Edie Adams got her share of applause with her torch songs. Arthur Mengre and his orchestra supply the dance music. We doubt if there ever was a team of entertainers that came to the Southland who were as well known and liked as Messrs. Ender, Farrell, and Farrell. They are the last word in putting across packet songs. The great crowd was some of all set for the songs from the start, and they were so smart and able to put over their points, that one had to admit that the management made a very splendid move in bringing these artists here, in the nick of time, when we were ready to take into our fold some new faces and personalities along night life row.

There is no use trying to tell you who was there as “first nighters,” for everybody that was anybody could get inside the place throughout the whole night was on hand to give the boys a hearty welcome, and to compliment the management for the great improvements over the old Clover Club, which, when it closed, was one of the most popular get-together spots along Sunset Boulevard.

CHICK THECK AND HIS ORCHESTRA OPEN AT MARCELLE INN

The Marcelle Inn (the Club Arlscrat of Southern California, located in Altadena), started off their winter season Thursday night in great shape. The attractions offered are of the finest. Chick Theck and his Orchestra furnish the music, with Don Julian and Marjorie, famous dancers; Lanai, Hawaiian dancing marvel; and Adele Burrian making up the entertainment. Night club visitors better prepare to put the Marcelle Inn on their calling list, for when your friends get through telling you about this lovely spot, you will rush your reservations in without any loss of time.

MIRAMAR TO STAY OPEN—KAY KYSER CLOSES SEPT. 22

Kay Kyser and his Band, who will complete their engagement in the Miramar Hotel, Terrace Room on Saturday, September 22, will be honored at a farewell party in the Terrace Room next Sunday evening (Sept. 16). Announcement will be made next week of another nationally-known orchestra which will take Kyser’s place. Kyser closed the Terrace Room during the fall and winter season, according to Earl J. Woford, general manager of the Miramar.

Jean Harlow, June Knight, Paul Lukas and many other screen stars have reserved tables for the farewell party for Kay and his “Band from the Carolinas.” The entire orchestra of Gus Arnaheim, Jimmy Grier and Don Cave, along with Nacio Herb Brown and other famed songwriters, will also attend the affair Sunday evening. Much impromptu entertainment is promised by the various celebrities who will gather to bid Kay adieu.

CLIFF DWELLERS OFFERS ONLY GIRL ORCHESTRA

Everything connected with the Cliff Dwellers Cafe is unusual, the place it’s self smacks of all that is unique, the food is known the world over, and now they are offering the only girl orchestra via Mary Silverman and her five syncopaters, who can play anything from jazz to grand opera, they head line the show which has Frankie Gallagher as singing M. C., Lita Marty that bundle of pep and personality, and as a new attraction charming Jessie Hill, Joe Fine, that singing waiter, and Frank Bruno, who leaves his station behind the refreshment bar long enough to warble a few songs, and Doe, that dancing tray slinger, all go towards rounding out the fun and amusement for the visitors to this popular playspot.

GERRY JOYCE OPENS AT CLUB BALLYHOO SUNDAY

Gerry is featuring in his band, four singers among them a very fine trio. Gerry Joyce, has been musical director at K. F. A. C. and also in charge of commercials at KFWB for a year and a half. Featured with Georgie Stoll at the Paramount Theater for one year.

We feel sure that he will be a great asset to Frank Hanover, for he is just the type of orchestra leader Hollywood has been needing.

JOHN ROPER'S 3 JACKS AND A QUEEN A HIT AT THE COTTON CLUB

A quartet of dancers who are undoubtedly at the top of their profession, John Roper's 3 Jacks and a Queen, featuring Donna Lee, are stop- ping a ball at Frank Sebastian's Cotton Club in Culver City. It is with regret that cafe-goers of Holly- wood and Los Angeles can't see their sensational Black Art Adagio dance, which they do in theatres. This number, conceived by John Roper, is so intricate in its maneuvers that it is impossible to present in a cafe. John Roper's 3 Jacks and a Queen recently arrived here from a ten week engagement at the Shadowland in San An- tonio, Texas. Previous to that they appeared at the Forrest Club in New Orleans, at the Grove in Houston, in the leading vaudeville houses all over the country, and in Europe with Hol- lers Revue in Germany.

BLACK PUSSY CAFE CONTINUES TO BUILD UP A FINE TRADE

Hollywood's best known celebs from stage and screen are helping to build up a fine trade for the Black Pussy Cafe, located at Harper and Santa Monica Boulevard. Every night one meets his favorite stars enjoying a little recreation away from their work. The impromptu entertainment that is put on is worth the price of admission to any show. Another fine feature about the Black Pussy Cafe is the food and refreshments.

YIDDISH THEATRE OPENED HERE

Los Angeles now has a Yiddish Theatre, Messrs. Goldfaden, Vinogradoff and Friedman, opened the Major Thea- tre Wednesday night, offering "The Shop," as their first production.

IRIS MONOHAN CATCHES ON AT CLUB BALLYHOO

Iris Monohan has a triumphant return to the Southland cafes when she caught on in a big way at the Club Ballyhoo, where she is appearing nightly as one of the headliners. Sally Sweet, the niftiest of blue singer, Jane Larkin and Virginia Castle, formerly of the Five Rhythm Girls, and Charles Craft, make up the entertaining show that Frank Hanover offers in his re-decorated playspot on Sunset Boulevard. The Andy Clark Orchestra is one of the most tuneful that has played around here in some time.

CAFE DE PAREE ENTERTAINS THE BEST OF FAMILIES

The Cafe De Paré, located opposite Westlake Park, is the one place where the whole family can be entertained. Merle Carlson and his Orchestra furnish the music, Russ Cantor acts as M. C. Naomi Warner sings solos and doubles with Cantor now and then. The rest of the show is made up by the Sister Team, that is singing and dancing pair, Ty Parvis and Dorothy Gray.

NEW SHOW AT THE CHATEAU MADRID

The new show at the Chateau Madrid, Joe Twerp and his Radditons, and Tommy Reilly, are proving a draw. Many radio fans and radio stars are flocking to this spot to see their favorite, Joe Twerp. Joe, who is known as the "tongue twisted" reporter, is also on the KFWB Hi-Jinks. Stage and screen stars are dropping in to see and hear their favorite, Tommy Reilly. Tommy, at the piano, singing his comedy songs, is just the tonic for your blues.

HENRI'S 50-50 CLUB draws FINE CROWDS NIGHTLY

Henri De Soto's 50-50 Club is drawing fine crowds nightly. There is the finest of entertainment in music and dance to be had here, and the folks that you meet here are the elite of the South- land. Mr. De Soto is planning plenty of innovations which he will offer very shortly we are told.

EL REY OFFERS SAME MUSICAL ATTRACTIONS

When ever one wants to dine and enjoy the last word in refreshments, they drop in to the El Rey Club, which has as added attractions an array of musical and singing talent to boot second to none. This is one of the swankest clubs along the Sunset Boulevard belt.

Barney Whitney.

Hollywood Radio o-caster

WHICH ONE OF THE NETWORKS would like to drop a microphone into the middle of Sunset Boulevard in Hollywood's Country Strip, where fifteen night clubs flourish within a few hundred feet of each other? Here is gathered some real talent: Gene Austin opens at the swanky Colony Club following his engagement at the Coconut Grove, Chic Endor and Charlie Farrell have already moved into the Clover Club, and Harl Smith, New York society's favorite orchestra lead- er, has imported his aggregation to the new Trocadero; the El Rey, Mont Aire, Kings, 30-50, Hayworth and various and sundry other night spots will battle it out with the mighty "Three.

The arrival of the BOSWELL SISTERS portends not only Paramounts cast- ing for "The Big Broadcast of 1935" (for which Jessica Dragonette is also being imported), but signifies that George Stoll is tuning up, and Connie, Vet and Martha are soon to start "bonging" to the tune of BING CROSBY's "singing" on the CBS soap favorite. We wonder why the Shell Show, their favorite Pacific Coast production, is going off the air in two weeks? With a real comics like Yabhub and Cheery, who appeal to laugh lovers of every age, an orchestra like Stoll's, and a personal- ity ah-libber like Rush Hughes as an announcer, we were hoping the combination could go network. Looks as though CLARENCE MUSE, the inspired composer of "Sleepy Time Down South," is due for renewed popular- ity; his appearances on the Holly- wood on the Air and Shell Show for the past two weeks have moved us all to valuable appreciation. Muse is a real actor, too; this reporter heard him rehearse "Old Black Joe" five times before the program hit the ether lanes, and in every performance, the beloved darky got that same sincere tear effect in his voice. That is consistent per- formance! He has to be versatile and consistent to play in three pictures at one time, as he's doing now! ... Readers have requested that we review one program each week, so as our first vic- tim we've selected Hollywood on the Air, on which, as per usual, there was a lot of last minute changing, with the result that the audience was given a view of mikes fright in wholesale quan- tity. That's a bit extravagant, but the Hollywood Mirror magazine, replaced Jimmy Fiddler as emcee on three minutes' notice; Frank Nelson took Donald Kerr's place, and Carol Lee stepped into the headliner's role for JOAN BENNETT, on the excerpt from R. K. O.'s "The Dangerous Corner." Some very good acting, incidentally; may we expect to be seeing you in pictures, Carol? We understand you ghost voiced in "The Cat's Paw" and several others.

TOM LENNON'S "Joy and Darlene" serial reached a finis, and we must admit we heaved no form of farewells. The man who wrote "Lady in Love" is sure of better continuities than this; The unbounded success stated for "The Continental," that new terpsichorean and musical sensation created by CON CONRAD and HERB MADGISON should boost Cor's spirits for a speedy return from his recent operation. And other musical directors might take lessons from EDDIE KAY

And other musical directors might take producing new songs. By featuring "The Continental" for fifteen minutes, and arranging sufficient variations of the song to keep it from getting monotonous, Eddie had all of R. K. O.'s guests singing' and whistlin' and humin' the opus from "The Gay Dic- torese" at the end of the program. And we hope June Marlowe will stick to is singing. Her success was so great the television itself couldn't save eyesight tune on the ballads. Bill Carey, on both California Melodies and Merry- makers, did his best to pull a HARRY BARRIS;

some of the people who don't know Harry seemed to like it. The swift and sure finger of his piano was appreciated by those of us who consider introductory gags an interference between selections; and it's grand bear- ing a bit of recognition for FELIX MILLS' arrangements—but how's for giving Bad Fleischer, who made that "I Got Rhythm" orchestration, a break? In- deed, inasmuch as KJH revives its gags so frequently, why can't the music department bring back that Mills "Ghost of Dinah" series? That CBS dramatization of the Chicago Fire didn't compare in dramatic quality, liter- ary value or production smoothness with BILL ROBSON'S dramatization of the Bombing of the Times! Bill crams more facts, more enlightening background into seeming- ly incidental dialogue than any master of dramatic technique one may hope to read. And he makes every character as real as an acquaintance. Let's hope his sponsor will someday develop the vision to send this young artist's vivid dramatizations eastward; KJH shows his "Calling All Cars" steals & per cent of the local audience. The gag for the week—and we hope some of you haven't heard it— is credited to Hollywood's famous gag man, SAM GOLDWYN

One of the boys asked him if the new feature picture starring his latest pride and joy would assume the usual colossal proportions. "Yes," he said. "It will be colossal on a small scale."

WARNER - UNIVERSAL WORKING HARD

Burbank Studios Keep Everybody Going at Top Speed

Ricardo Cortez and Margaret Lindsay will play the two principal roles in "The White Cockatoo," a mystery romance by Mignon G. Eberhardt, which will go into production next week at the Warner Brothers Studio. John Eldredge and Gordon Westcott will have two of the other leading roles, while Ruth Donnelly will furnish the comedy. Alan Crosland, will direct; the setting of which is a winter hotel on the French Riviera.

Slides will be abundant in the forthcoming Rudy Vallee production, "Sweet Music," according to present indications.

Five star comedians will have leading spots in the cast. The first three of them announced by the studio are Joe Cawthorn, the eccentric German comedian, Ned Sparks, the dead pan comedian, and Allen Jenkins, the hard-boiled comedian, whose work has featured numerous Warner pictures. The two other laugh roles will be announced soon.

In addition to Vallee's own famous band, the Connecticut Yankees, the popular Fred and Milt Britton band also will appear in "Sweet Music" which will be directed by Alfred E. Green. Helen Morgan will have one of the principal feminine roles. Warner Brothers are negotiating to send a technical company to Boulder Dam to make impressive background scenes for its forthcoming picture, "Backfire," tentatively set for James Cagney to star in. It will contain numerous impressive shots of the vast engineering project. Warner Brothers are keeping everyone on the lot going at top speed.

AL HILL GETS A BREAK

Al Hill, after seven and a half years in pictures, gets his best break in "Crime Doesn't Pay," a M-G-M short which was written by Marty Brooks and is being directed by George Seitz.

LAEMMLE STUDIO IS PRODUCING ITS GREATEST PROGRAM

Edward Ludwig was assigned the direction of Universal's latest screen thriller, "The Man Who Reclaimed His Head." The story deals with munition manufacturers who try to pipe down an editor who is pounding against war and its devastating effects. Claude Rains, who made his screen debut and success in the "Invisible Man" has the lead. The story by Jean Bart was adapted by her and Samuel Ornitz. Eddie Ludwig has selected a powerful supporting cast including Lionel Atwill, Wallace Ford, Lloyd Hughes, Lawrence Grant, William Worthington, Bill Davidson, Phyllis Brooks and Carol Coombes. Joan Bennett will play the female lead. Kurt Neumann has been slated to direct the next B. F. Zeidman production, "I've Been Around," starring Chester Morris. This will be a hilarious comedy and will go into production shortly. Michael L. Simmons, author of "The Bowery," has been signed to combine Edgar Allen Poe's chillers, "The Raven" and "The God Bug" into a screen play entitled "The Raven." William Wyler is directing "The Good Fairy," the picturization of Ferenc Molnar's story in which Margaret Sullivan will be co-starred with Herbert Marshall. The supporting cast will include, Frank Morgan, Alan Hale, Beulah Bondi, Reginald Owen, Anne Darling and Phyllis Ludwig. Lowell Sherman has become a curator in a museum. If you don't believe it, see the enormous set he is using in "Night Life of the Gods" one of the most unusual pictures ever attempted by a motion picture studio. It took nerve, Universal and Lowell Sherman to even attempt this picture. They are now striving to produce their greatest program of pictures.

DOES A FINE BIT

Louis Adlon, Jr., did a fine bit in "The Merry Widow," starring Maurice Chevalier and Jeanette MacDonald, under the direction of Ernst Lubitsch.
Stanley Bergerman Has Proven Himself a Very Capable Producer

Few young producers who have entered the film field since the advent of talking pictures may boast a more successful five years than Stanley Bergerman, Universal producer, who has just completed the first of the current series of Charles Dickens' pictures, "Great Expectations."

Bergerman's first work at Universal was the supervision of the Slim Summerville shorts, which were unusually successful; then he supervised the Babe Ruth baseball shorts and the Tom Mix Westerns. As he graduated from shorts into features Bergerman began by making comedies, then musical comedies and dramatic features. Then he alternated them so that no two pictures of any classification came together.

He made "Moonlight and Pretzels" in New York studios, with Karl Freund directing, and in addition to a big box office success, the picture introduced Roger Pryor to the Screen. Then Bergerman starred Karloff in "The Mummy," with Freund again directing, and this picture became one of Universal's big money makers for the season. "Out All Night," with Summerville and Pitts, was another Bergerman production, also "I Like It That Way," and recently "Romance in the Rain." With Stuart Walker directing, Bergerman has just completed Henry Hull's first Universal picture, "Great Expectations," by Charles Dickens, and now the active young producer is filming Max Marcin's "Cheating Cheaters," with Richard Thorpe directing. Among his contemplated pictures for the balance of the season is "Bread Upon the Waters," which Gladys Unger is adapting. Miss Unger has been associated with six of Mr. Bergerman's productions as has also Phil Karlstein, acting as assistant director.

A.S.C. Hi-Jinks Moulds Better Friendship Between Cinematographers

SEBASTIAN'S COTTON CLUB ALL STAR COLORED REVUE MAKES 'EM ALL CHUCKLE WITH GLEE AND APPLAUD

The A.S.C. Hi-Jinks last Monday night at the Uplifters Club, Santa Monica, was indeed a huge success. Producer Harry Cohn and Henry Henigson, from the C.U., attended, with four hundred Cinematographers and guests. The show put on through Frank B. Good brought to light Frank Sebastian's Cotton Club show from Culver City. It was the Broomfield and Greeley all star colored revue, featuring Lionel Hampton, king of trap drummers, and the Leon Herrford Orchestra. Broomfield and Greeley set the pace for Dudley Dickerson, the Four Dancing Cowans, the Tin Pan Boys, the Three Bickets, Willa May Lane, Martha Ritchie, Cliff Ritchie, Jr., the Four Cotton Club Beauties and many other features. The crowd chuckled with glee and applauded loud enough to tear the roof off the building.

Suzanne Wood Came From the Heart of Chicago's Best Society Folks Into Pictures

The late Suzanne Wood, who possibly attracted more attention in filmland than any other character actress, passed away last week. She came from Chicago's best society folks, but had her heart set on making good in pictures on her own, and when she finally passed away, she was really getting some place in pictures. Miss Wood had a heart bigger than herself. She was always helping those who were less fortunate. We learned to know her well, and her sudden passing was a great shock to us, for only a short while back she planned starting a new campaign to attract due attention to her work, and we were to lend a hand. But now all her plans have come to an untimely end, and Suzanne Wood leaves behind a name worthy of all she set out to do in real life and on the screen.

Edgar Rice Burroughs Speaks

To set at rest all rumors or statements that have been verbally made in the trade that have appeared or may appear in the trade press, Mr. Edgar Rice Burroughs makes the following announcement: "It has been brought to my attention that certain persons or firms claim ownership to one of my Tarzan stories, and under the guise of that alleged ownership propose offering for distribution a Tarzan picture. I am most grateful to the industry for the manner in which it has accepted the pictures produced from my stories, and therefore I believe it only right and just to notify all interested that aside from Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer (which firm has the rights to one of my stories) and Burroughs-Tarzan Enterprises, Inc., no person or firm has the right to produce a Tarzan picture."

“JUDGE PRIEST”

Fox

One of the best, if not the best, picture that Will Rogers has played in up to date, “Judge Priest” is a perfect vehicle for him, and he was in his glory. His characterization of the lazy Kentucky judge who mingles common sense with the law will make him millions more friends. Sol Wurtzel has produced a nifty for Will Rogers and Fox. Henry B. Walthall had a beautiful part and he stood the acid test. He was glorious. Tom Brown and Anita Louise were charming and added much to the interest of the picture. One of the outstanding portrayals was done by David Landau. His repression and self-entering work as the father was more than excellent. Berton Churchill had a fat part and made the most of it. Big Hattie McDaniels, the colored Kate Smith, lent color to the picture and not only is she a good actress but her song with Will Rogers will knock them dead. Stepin Fetchit ambled along with a grand performance. Rochelle Hudson, Roger Imhof, Frank Melton and Francis Ford were fine. Charley Grapewin held a nice spot and Brenda Fowler played the catty mother to perfection. The direction of John Ford gave the picture a nice tempo, slow at the start but a grandstand finish. George Schneiderman did some gorgeous photography. The screen play, by Dudley Nichols and Lamar Trotti, was a fine job with clever dialogue, was based on the Irvin S. Cobb character, Judge Priest. Settins by William Darling lovely. Gowns by Royer, period and pretty. Music and lyrics by Cyril J. Mockridge, Dudley Nichols, and Lamar Trotti added to the entertainment. This picture should be a big hit and go like wildfire all over the country and Europe. It gives a keen insight of the South, its lazy ways, lovable people and intense sectionalism. —LINDY.

“THE DRUNKARD”

IN 439TH SHOWING PLEASES YE EDITOR

Tuesday evening we witnessed the 439th performance of “The Drunkard” at the Theatre M. What a record, and what a show! It really took us back to the good old days, and as we gazed at the P.T. Barnum banners on the four walls it made us think back to the days we, too, worked in a museum. Yes, Huber’s, to be exact, and try as one may, regardless of whether you are an editor or not, it is difficult to place this show in as proper a light as you should for the general public to appreciate what they are missing if they fail to see this take-off on the days when actors and actresses chewed the scenery in order to get over their points to their audience. The work of Jan Duggan, Ada Lilly, Henry Kleinbach, George Stuart, Samuel Ethridge and Ruth Marion was excellent. The Wallace Sisters fine. Others who aided in putting the right feeling and atmosphere into the entertainment were Jeffrey Williams, Yvonne Copeland, Larry Greiner, Donald Brown, Don McNa- mee, Master Silver Lucas, William Blatchford, Betty Copeland and others. Jackson Swales, at the piano, helped in a great measure. As a parting shot, let us say that George Stuart has plenty on the ball and is full of pep and animation, which helps put the show over with a bang. Messrs. Shobe and Bell, the producers, can run this show as long as they like, for each show, we know, must be different, and one can never tire of the tom-foolery that it offers.

YIDDISH PLAY PLEASES

CROWD OF THEATREGOERS

“The Shop,” which was written by H. Levinick, is the first stage play that Messrs. Adler, Winogradoff and Gold- faden put on at the Major Theater as the first of a series of productions in Yiddish. The cast, Herman Seratsky, Albert Friedman, Sonia Ravitz, Charlotte Goldstein, Judah Alarab and Ela- lasaroff, Robert Harris, Eli Mintz, Paula Wulter, Leah Torguen, Thelma Babitz, Matias Kovalasky, Isaac Sver- doff, Howard Rosen, Issie Hellman, Julcs Glad and M. Schult, all played their parts in such a capable manner that many said the show reminded them of “Koshe Kalb,” the greatest of all Jewish plays staged here recently.

Jimmy Murray is making a real comeback. He was pounced upon by a gang of youngsters Friday night at the fights to autograph their books, and he did it like a real star, and what’s more, he never looked better. We heard that Bob Roper has had him in hand lately and got him in the pink of condition.

“PECK’S BAD BOY”
Central Casting Corporation

The purpose of the Central Casting Agency as created by the Association of Motion Picture Producers has not worked out as successfully as it should have, because it clutters up the extras, unless they happened to be in the circle and lucky enough to be in favor with the boys and girls who did the casting. Many a worthy day player has never obtained the proper chance to disport his true acting wares, for they had only one avenue to obtain their work, and that was through the C. C. C. So, the only solution to stop all this picketing, fighting and framing of the officials in order to force the will of a few and not the majority, is to close down the Central Casting Corporation and return to the old system of allowing the studios to do their own casting, and in that manner the extras will all have an even break, and the producers will get a chance to further the interests of those who deliver the goods when they are given the jobs.

The Central Casting Corporation recount of extras seems to be a matter of state politics, with the producers standing on the sidelines, disclosing responsibly. It is a matter of record that Sol Rosenblatt, NRA movie Code Administrator, has ruled against the extra recount. Recently appointed to succeed Dave Allen as head of the C. C. C., Campbell MacCulloch, is the chairman of the whole matter. He says: "I have no control over the matter. All I know is that Mrs. Mabel E. Kinney, of the state department of industrial welfare, who is chairman of the NRA extras' code committee, has our registration rolls and is making some attempt to stabilize employment by making it possible for some people to work steadily rather than many only occasionally. But I have nothing to say as to who will be retained, who discarded."

From the above, the producers, who employ Mr. MacCulloch, make it quite plain that they are not interested in recount of extras. Quite to the contrary, they indicate that Mrs. Kinney, an employee of the State of California, in possession of the rolls, has full charge. To the thousands of extras interested, this should be important news. Their working relations with the studios are passed on to the representative of the State.

Moving Movie Throng by John Hall

Hollywood is all-a-gog over what will happen when Upton Sinclair is Governor of California... If—as clearly indicated by "big" picture men—the public makes a fight of it by utmost politics via the screen—the Kilkenny cat fracas of Irish song and story, will be made to look like a tea party... All who enter the political arena must expect to "take it"—Hollywood, because of its "Yes-man" complex among those who accept crumbs from those who have "it," usually does what is wrong when it faces a jam... The widely circulated threat to remove several big studios—when no such dandy threat is seriously considered—is ONE wrong thing in the present emergency... No motion picture "big shot" amounts to a hill of beans in the political field... One THOUGHT he did—and when the "taking" time arrived, he ducked into his hole... This is an AMERICAN business... When an industry becomes international in its scope it is the function of Government to observe its activities... The all-powerful weapon of universal propaganda represented in the AMERICAN motion picture BELONGS TO THE PEOPLE, and, under no circumstances, is it to be used as the WAR CLUB of ANY group. It is the duty of the owners of the mechanical and artistic equipment... "Cock-eyed philosophies of life, backfence humor and raw dramatizations of sex," says a writer, still the official fire of Joseph Breen, film censor for the producers... Some movie column writers come under this heading... We read: "Jimmy Duffy, old-time vaude star, who is here to scribble off cinema pages, claims Harry Weber wants him to do a cafe section version of "The Hat Supper"..." Jimmy Starr, L. A. HERald-Express... TRYING to make a joke of one of the most sacred episodes in the life of Christianity's founder is about the "ultima thule" of Hollywood back-fence humor... Hollywood gag" 1,999,999: Movie moguls, not so young and not so handsome, being touted by movie columnists as frequently seen at hot night spots with cute blondes... "I have no fear that the inherent and unconquerable forces of freedom will not triumph." Herbert Hoover... This CONCLUSION, after many thousands of words expressing FEAR that NRA destroys liberty, indicates many words about NOTH-ING... We read: "Broadway (N.Y.) is a shoddy honky-tonk alley," and: "three of which are grand and undoubtedly will prove to be immensely popular; that—TONY GAUDIO PHOTOGRAPHED... doing, as always, a job too well... ORRy-KELLY CREATED THE GOWNS... which are little more than just ordinary; that—THE CAST INCLUDES DICK POWELL—also who gives his finest performance to date; JOSEPHINE HUTCHINSON... a newcomer to the screen who proves herself a very capable actress; JOHN HALLIDAY... delivering one of the most unexpected portrayals I have seen in the past twelve months; FRANK MCHUGH... offering the usual delightful McHugh type of comedy; ALLEN JENKINS—who scores in a brief role; RUTH DONELLY... turning in an excellent comedy performance; and DOROTHY DARE... who displays a charming personality, but frequently over-plays.

Hollywood Tidbits

Stanley Bergerman, highly pleased with Henry Hull's work in the Universal-Bergerman production of "Great Expectations," tells me that Hull may be starred in a remake of "The Hunchback of Notre Dame," which some years ago was done with the late Lon Chaney... Erich von Stroheim we know will likely be featured in an independently produced film that Paramount, I understand, is to release... Billy Wilkerson was the only person whom I saw the other afternoon at the opening of his Trocadero Sidewalk Cafe—looking so lonely while he ate a dish of vanilla ice cream! It's a grand place, nevertheless... "Jail Breaker," in which Franchot Tone will star, will be made for Columbia, concerns a small town bookkeeper who, due to a striking resemblance, is mistaken for America's first public enemy, just escaped from prison of the puritans, and embarks on his way to the yarn... Rumor says that Glenn Tryon's first directorial effort, "Gridiron Flash," will place him in the group of much-in-demand megaphones. Hull off to Europe, given the opportunity of both writing and directing... Helen Hayes, having just completed "What Every Woman Knows," plans to retire from the screen for a while; she will re-open "Father of the Bride" at the East and then take a long-deserved vacation... Bruce Cabot and Grace Bradley have their first real cinema breaks in the Mei Brown picture, "Redhead," and tell me they have never felt better on the silver screens.

Reinhardt's Production of "Dream" Utterly Exquisite

The opening performance, Monday night, of Max Reinhardt's Hollywood Bowl production of the William Shakespeare comedy, "A Midsummer Night's Dream," is, without doubt, my most memorable theatrical experience, if that means anything to you. Frankly, I had expected the offering to be disappointing — for the reason that long awaited spectacles of its type usually prove to be. But, as I hurriedly write these few lines in an effort to beat the press deadline, I simply cannot find the proper words to describe the genuine excellence of the presentation. Mr. Reinhardt gave "A Midsummer Night's Dream" splendid, real and humanism, Underwood was earned by little Mickey Rooney for his superb portrayal of Puck; by Walter Connolly for his delightfully natural characterization of Bottom; by Max Ree for the gorgeous costumes he contributed; by Otto K. Olesen for the most remarkable outdoor lighting effects that Hollywood has seen; by Theodore Kosloff and Nini Thelade for the handsome uniforms; Eileen Rand for his splendid conducting of the orchestra; and by Sterling Holloway, Olivia de Havelland, Evelyn Venable, William Henry, Julie Haydon, Frank Reicher, Nini Thelade, John Lodge, Otis Harlan, William Parnarm, Philip Arnhold, Leif Erickson, George Walcott and the other players for their colorful performances. "A Midsummer Night's Dream" will be referred to in years to come as an historical event of Hollywood—for which we must thank the directorial genius of Mr. Max Reinhardt. Long live Reinhardt!

“The Circle”

Mrs. Leslie Carter ... an entire audience to its feet ... love and reverence for this great actress giving way to so many interruptions as to almost summarize “The Circle” by saying it was made good story material only because of Mrs. Carter. And this charming lady standing by in such a humble, modest manner. Truly the fabric from which this great performer was woven seems imperishable. Our star held them off until the final curtain — four, five, six times the curtain went up, then down, and Mrs. Carter saw there was nothing to do but greet her friends and admirers across the footlights. And again we found Mrs. Carter retiring, unaffected by her many successes . . . “I take this opportunity to thank my company for their splendid support”—this, from one of the finest actresses of all time. And a performance that cannot be equalled. Charlotte Wynters is quite charming, and E. E. Clive did the old John Drew role exceedingly well. Others in the cast are Ann Tewksbury, Gerald Rogers, Denis D’Auburn and Frank Milan.

CELESTE RUSH SIGNS FOR KFAC FOR DREYFUS CASE

Celeste Rush, producing director for the Show House, goes back to an old love in producing the “Dreyfus Case,” on KFAC which started Thursday at 8 o’clock, and will continue each Thursday thereafter for a period of four weeks. Miss Rush will be remembered by radio audiences as Princess Nadji of Chando, and as an added assurance of a splendid program she is entracting the leading feminine role of Madame Dreyfus.

The cast of the production reads like a “Who’s Who” of radio, Colonel Sandheer, of the French Intelligence Service, will be played by Don Wilson, the “old man” of radio, best beloved for his portrayal of the Marquis de la Tour in “Richelieu.” Colonel Fabre will be portrayed by Ted Osborne, the minus witted, yet cunning King Louis, also of “Richelieu.” John Prince, whose deep baritone voice has thrilled thousands both on radio and stage for the past fifty years creates General Mercier, while Fred McKay, whose inimitable portrayals of Gen. Hugh Johnson and our beloved President Roosevelt brings to life “D’Aboville.” Ted Myers, whose voice is best known to insomniacs, does Du Patty.

Others in the well-rounded cast are Richard Kline as “Dreyfus.” Lou Merrill as the infamous “Brucher,” James Hagnay, old NBC favorite, as “Captain Henry,” Betty Welleston, Fred Broughton and David Starling. America’s foremost radio sound effect man, Charles Forsyth, handles the effects for this program, while Arthur Tabbals faithfully follows history in the writing of the script.

FRANK SEBASTIAN AGAIN COMES TO THE FORE WITH LAVISH ENTERTAINMENT

With the success of the most daring experiment in caddeduisedumor, Frank Sebastian is going to even greater heights with his shows this week. The two-in-one idea at the Cotton Club is the most amazing idea ever created. In the main room is Ben Pollack and his orchestra, featuring that marvelous little singer, Doris Robbins, and a big show. When you enter the Cotton Club, you are seated in the main room, you dance to Ben Pollack's Orchestra. Pollack Revue goes on and after the show, the Creole Revue starts in the lounge room, and for no extra charge you can wander in there and watch that show, and dance to Leon Herriford's orchestra. The lounge room as it is right now is the most unique in niteroy row. You can get any kind of fun a a d amusement you can have there. It reminds you of the good old Caliente pastimes with the hottest re- rive this side of Harlem thrown in for good measure.

In the lounge room is Leon Herriford and his orchestra, featuring Lionel Hampton and Broofield and Greeley's Creole show, with Dudley Dikerson doing a chair trick, Martha Ritchie singing "I Just Couldn't Take It Baby," the Three Rockets in a fast tap dance, Cliff Ritchie singing "I'll String Along With You," the Four Cowans singing and dancing to the "Reefer Man," Willa Mae Lane singing "Lots of Love," LeRoy Broomfield singing "Tonight is Mine," Aurora Greeley doing a high kick dance and the Creole Beauties doing a hot, sensuous dance.

The new show in the Cotton Club that opened Thursday night consists of ten beautiful girls doing a "Tiller" number with formations, Jimmmy Ray, Doris Robbins singing "Love in Bloom," for an encore "Beat of My Heart"; Lock Romaine and Mack Pack- er dancing the "Carioca"; Ken Hancock and Al Gold stop the show with their comedy and dancing; Fred Scott singing "Without Song"; and the ten girls in a high kick routine for the finale. Ben Pollack acts as M.C. and leads his own orchestra during the show.

NEW AND DIFFERENT LAUGHS AND EXCITEMENT AT CLUB TEMPO

The Club Tempo, Eighteen Street near Central Avenue, is Harlem at its best. This spot offers something that Hollywood and Los Angeles have been wanting for a long time, and Earl Dan- ner had the foresight and courage of his convictions, to give the little fellow what they wanted. For excitement, laughs and entertainment, this is the spot. Anything is liable to happen at any time, and it does. For instance, the other morning Mae Diggas and the Brownies kept the crowd entertained until the wee small hours, and the Nichals Brothers, those sensational dancers, that were at the Paramount Theatre last week, were guests of honor at a dinner which was tended by the Club. Who's Who of Central Avenue was there.

The Club Tempo is furnished in the finest taste and furnishings. It is really the most popular and only spot to go to that is worth while on Central Avenue. Alice, more popularly known as "Red," will make you feel right at home. A beautiful girl and a marvelous commentator. Jennie Le Gon, a gorgeous bit of femininity, will dance her way into your heart. Arthur Twyne really goes to town at the piano and the "Street Singer" puts you into that mellow mood with his songs.

The Club Tempo is open to members only, so advise you to secure your membership as soon as you can.

JAY WHIDDEN OPENS AT MIRAMAR HOTEL SAT. NIGHT

A pair of long-standing popularity—Jay Whidden and the Miramar Hotel —will get back together again Saturday night. The personable dance or- chestra leader starts the fall season of revelry in the same Terrace Room where he first achieved fame in this country on his arrival from London several seasons ago.

Many film stars and social leaders have made reservations to welcome Jay back tomorrow, according to Earl J. Wolford, manager.

Whidden and his Orchestra will continue throughout the winter season in the Terrace Room, Wolford announced.

TED FIO-RITO IS TO HAVE A FLOOR SHOW, WE ARE TOLD

A little bird whispered in our best ear that when Ted Fio-Rito opens October 1st at the Coconut Grove in the Ambassador Hotel, he is to have a floor show as an added attraction to his orchestra. Kearney Walton is one of the highlights of the Fio-Rito organization, and will be backed up by a fine array of entertainers. Gus Aron- heim and his Orchestra are still the main attraction here and will continue to play there until time for Ted Fio- Rito to make his bow, which is his much promised return engagement to the Grove.

THE KING'S CLUB BRINGS BACK THE 3 BROWNIES

With the return by popular demand of Thelma Brown and her Brownies, the King's Club has taken new life. Always a favorite at this smart rendezvous, they returned with a whole repertoire of new songs, and many old friends are dropping in to welcome them. Ross and Sargent are still headlining at this spot, and their smart songs are going over bigger than ever. Walter Leopold singing and playing his own songs is fast becoming a favorite with night club lovers, who are making this playspot their nightly get-together place to see their friends, creating a big round of fun and amusement that is second to none. There are now places galore opening along the Sunset Boulevard belt, but the King's Club continues to be one of the bright spots because they have never cut down on their high grade food, refreshments and entertainment, regardless of what happens, and they are starting the fall season off in better shape than they have in some time. George O'Hara is the maitre d'hotel, and has as his aides men who command attention for the service that they render. Paul Franks is the man behind the mahogany, and that boy can serve 'em up in fine style.

BALLYHOO CLUB STILL PLEASURES WITH FINE SHOW AND BAND

With two changes this past week, the Ballyhoo Show has taken on new life. Gerry Joyce and his Orchestra opened here last Sunday night and Joe Conners is added to the show. With Jack Charles acting as emcee, the show opens with Jane Larkin and Virginia Castle doing a novel tap dance with trays, dressed cute the girls go over fine and next that little bundle of fun, Iris Monohan, singing and dancing to the "Rhythm King." Jack Charles then sings "Tonight is Mine," and for an encore does a dramatic version of "Brother Can You Spare a Dime." Larkin and Castle return to do that popular French dance, "the Can Can," a great number. Joe Connors, making his first appearance on a Cafe floor here, does a nice eccentric dance with lots of pep and personality. Sally Sweet, the charm girl, sings the "Grass Shack" and in the second half does a cute little dance, for an encore Sally sings "Goodnight." Playing for the show and dancing is Gerry Joyce and his Orchestra.

NEW SHOW AT THE BILTMORE BOWL

The Three Cachalots, a perfect hand-balancing act, open the early show at the Bowl with plenty of feeling, first singing a number, and for an encore "Two Cigarettes in the Dark." Lee Storms and Lee, a trio of fine dancers, offer something different, tap dancing to classical music. Larry Burke, a lyric tenor, sings a show, song, and a long series of songs before the patrons would let him leave the floor. Helen Moore and Frank Allen, dancers, first offer "Orchids in the Moonlight," conceived by Frank Allen, and are brought back to do the ever popular dance, "Caribou." Jimmy Grier and his orchestra still continue to please with their very fine music for dancing and the show.

ARROWHEAD SPRINGS DRAWS HOLLYWOODIANS

Hollywood folk, who attended the county fair at Pomona this past week have been plenty smart in eluding the blistering heat that has beset most Angels. Scores of them slipped out of town in the cool of night and sped the sixty-five miles to Arrowhead Springs, where a 2000-foot altitude takes some of the curse off the temperature. Headquartering there, the wiseys have made quick dashes to the fair in nearby Pomona, taken in its wonders, and then returned to the Springs and into the swimming pool. To Mr. and Mrs. John Mack Brown, Rosita Moreno, Gloria Swanson and Herbert Marshall goes the credit for originating the idea.

SPECTACULAR CHILD ENSEMBLE

"Fantasy of the Rainbow" promises to be full of surprises, according to the director staging the show for the Rainbow Studios. Mr. R. Van Nibroc says: "Never would I believe it possible to produce an ensemble such as our cherry blossom festival dance, colorful and with all the oriental grace of Japan, using children of no more than 4 years of age. The French love story and dance, entitled "Moonlight on the Fountain," will take you in imagination back to the court London's XVI of France. The military attribute to heroes are the enclosing ensemble, a fashion parade which outshines anything ever produced in the "Follies Bergiere" of Paris, modeled new styles and created on living dolls six and under. Undoubtedly "Fantasy of the Rainbow" will be an interesting spectacle.

KAY KYSER LEAVES FOR CHICAGO

Four months ago Kay Kyser, the lanky boy from North Carolina, was pretty much unheralded and unsung when he brought his band to the Ter- ritorial Room of the Miramar. His engagement completed Friday, he left for Chicago, and most of Hollywood is figuratively shedding tears. Kyser's personal charm, his hard work, novel music, and his willingness to play requests made him and the Miramar the outstanding favorites. Last Sunday, on his final week-end, pretty June Knight represented the entire film colony when she presented Kay with a scroll of famous names, signatures of stars who urged him to come back again. Kay's next engagement is following Hal Kemp in a Chicago night spot.

PASADENA PLAYHOUSE

Under the skilled direction of Byron Foulger who has produced many hits such as "Volpone" and "The Virginian," "The Prisoner of Zenda," promises to be one of the most popular of the summer revivals at the Pasadena Community Playhouse.

The remarkable ability of Willis Knighton to create artistic settings finds full expression in the colorful locale of the play. A lot of it is headed by Walter Woolf, Broadway dramatic star who in his first appearance in the West measures up to expectations in an amazingly brilliant performance, in a dual role of king and impostor.

Allen Bridge, Cyril Thornton, Carmen Mathews, Paul Hammond and Paul Regan Maxey score heavily in leading parts. The supporting players give such uniformly excellent character portrayals that it is difficult to pick favorites.

Cafe de Paree Still Doing Capital Trade

Cafes continue to go, but Pete Dokos and his Cafe de Paree still carry on, and rightly so, for Pete works on the principle of giving his patrons what they want, nice food, a nice place and show. Russ Cahnert is master of ceremonies, and Naomi Warner starts the show singing "Pardon My Southern Accent," Betty Doree does a fast tap dance, and the La Maras, a new addition to the show, dance a beautiful Waltz. Nick Ochse sings a税收 song that he has written with Earl Hatch, called "Oh, You Pretty Woman." For an encore Nick sings "Gotta Go," Ty Parvis, a personable young man, sings and dances to "2nd Street." Russ Cahnert gives the little fingers Ten Little Fingers and Ten Little Toes. Betty Doree and Ty Parvis close the show with a fast tap dance to "Bugs Cline Rag." Merle Carbon and his Orchestra play for the show and dancing. Mr. Cahnert becomes quite famous up and down the coast with his broadcasts from KJH. Listen in sometimes—he has a great combination.

CLOVER CLUB DRAWS THROUGH BEAUTIFUL AND NAME SHOW

With name attractions and a beautiful room, the Clover Club management has gone to still further expense to please its patrons and have brought out here George Lamaze, undoubtedly the best man available today in charge of your dinner.

Chuck Ender and Charles Farrell, those clever songsters, have taken Hollywood and Los Angeles by storm with their smart songs, Edie Adams singing the blues is also getting her share of the applause. For your dancing—the smart sophisticated rhythms of Maurice Menge and his Orchestra.

WANTED—A DOG CAPABLE OF BECOMING A FILM STAR

Darryl Zanuck, who will produce Jack London's "Call of the Wild" for 20th Century Pictures, is looking for a dog qualified for the leading canine role. Zanuck will not only have Fredric March as his master, but will have a chance to duplicate the fame of Rin Tin Tin, Strongheart and other four-footed screen satellites. The "Call of the Wild" is of a mixed Newfoundland and Alaskan husky breed. Zanuck wants a dog that follows the Jack London description both as to type and training.

—BARNEY WHITNEY.
U. A.—Columbia Lots Are Busy

20th Century Starts the Ball Rolling for Fall Season

With freaks and side-show players brought from all parts of the country, Darryl Zanuck's production of "The Mighty Barnum" for 20th Century Pictures is proceeding at a merry pace with Wallace Beery, the star, playing P. T. Barnum.

"The Mighty Barnum" is being produced as a mammoth spectacle, with all the pageantry of P. T. Barnum's life. Hundreds of extras will be used from time to time in the crowd scenes attendant on Barnum's shows.

Adolphe Menjou plays Barnum's partner, known in the show world as Bailey. Janet Beecher, stage star, plays Barnum's wife. Rochelle Hudson plays the niece.

Virginia Bruce will have the colorful role of Jenny Lind, the Swedish Nightingale, whose American triumphs were closely identified with Barnum's rise to fame.

Herman Bing, John Hyams, Tammany Young and Charles Judels are other members of the cast already signed.

"The Mighty Barnum" is the first picture to be directed by Walter Lang under his contract with 20th Century. Fred Fox is assistant director. Peverell Marley is the camera man.

The screen play was fictionized from the life of the great circus showman by Gene Fowler, noted biographer and novelist, and Bess Meredyth, leading screen writer.

JAMES HORNE TO COLUMBIA

James Horne, short reel director, is to make some shorts for Columbia Pictures. Director Horne has been putting across some fine two reelers at the big U.

Harry Cohn's Studio Continues to Make Fine Pictures

Clyde E. Elliott has been assigned by Columbia to direct a sensational picture which will be titled "China Roars," and will leave within a month with a unit to film the entire picture in China, Inner Mongolia, Indochina, and other parts of Asia. It will not be an animal picture, but deals with an American doctor, who, while flying through the interior of China with a young Chinese aviator, is captured by a band of nomads when the plane falls. Thrills, spills and chills. Cast, except lead (unchosen yet) to be entirely Chinese and Mongolian. In order to speed up the comedy schedules, Jules White, head of that department, will have three writers to work on scripts. Felix Adler and Griffin Jay are doing a story and screen play for the Three Stooges, and Richard Smith is doing the same for Andy Clyde. Ford Beebe has started work on an original story for Tim McCoy, temporarily titled "Alias John Law," which Harry Decker supervises. Jean Arthur, screen star, has been signed for four more pictures and will return to Columbia upon close of her Broadway starring play. Frank Capra, ace director for Columbia, returned from New York, and, taking his trusty shears in hand, has started cutting his latest picture, "Broadway Bill," which stars Warner Baxter and Myrna Loy. They say Harry Cohn, captain of Columbia Studios, hasn't even got his fingers crossed on account of all the bad luck attendant on the making of "The Captain Hates the Sea," because he believes that all jinxed pictures have been tremendous successes in the past, and is playing a hunch that his latest sea yarn won't make anybody seasick in the pocketbook.

Anna May Wong

With the stamp of approval of Europe's critics and theatre-goers still imbedded in her heart, Anna May Wong has just finished her first American picture, "Limehouse Nights," at the Paramount Studios, which we are told will add new laurels to her reputation as a screen actress.
Anna Sten and Fredric March Outshine All Predeces- sors in “We Live Again” (“Resurrection”) “Resurrection” has been made three different times during American film history. This trio of productions have come along during the progress of cinema history, which dates from the early silent picture days to the present oral films. Anna Sten and Fredric March are the latest stars to enact Katsuha and the Prince Charming, whose love for one another finally takes them to Siberia after going through one of the most heart rending experiences, as recounted in the famous novel, “Resurrection,” by Leo Tolstoy, adapted by Maxwell Anderson, Leonard Praskins and Preston Sturges. Named “We Live Again,” by Samuel Goldwyn, these artists give a most remarkable performance. Their portrayals are rendered with such smoothness and thorough understanding that one actually forgets that they are viewing a play by play drama.

Other sterling performances can be credited to C. Aubrey Smith, Jane Baxter, Ethel Griffies, Mary Forbes, Gwendolyn Logan, Cecil Cunningham, Jessie Ralph and Jessie Arnold, while the following players do excellent bits: Sam Jaffe, Fritzsi Ridgway, Morgan Wallace, Davison Clark, Dale Fuller, Edgar Norton, Michael Visaroff and Leonid Kinsky. “We Live Again” is really a master stroke on the part of Rouben Mamoulian, who directed this picture. His handiwork was very effective in some difficult scenes enacted by Miss Sten and Mr. March, which might have caused the censors to pounce upon the picture and cut it so that it would have become another “programmer.” Director Mamoulian also showed a keen insight of moh psychology. Next in line for an honor mark, we would place the name of Gregg Toland, the cinematographer. While too high a praise cannot be given for the musical score by Alfred Newman, settings designed by Sergei Soudeikin and executed by Richard Day, costumes by Omar Kiam, film editing by Otto Lovering and sound recording by Frank Maher. Exhibitors will find “We Live Again” a new life restorer to their box office.

Walter Lang Directs Wallace Beery in “Great Barnum” Walter Lang is directing Wallace Beery in “The Great Barnum at the United Artists Studios. We caught a scene the other day in which Mr. Beery showed his acting wares to perfection with Janet Gaynor and Lucille La Verne. It was a wow of a sequence. Fred Fox is assisting Director Lang, with Peverell Marley behind the camera. Walter Lang expects, after finishing this picture, to go to Europe for a short vacation.

“BLOOD ON THE MOON” IS A NAZI TIRADE AGAINST THE JEWS What happened to a Jewish family under the Hitler-Nazi ruleship is the theme of the picture, “BLOOD on the Moon,” three-act play from the pen of Claire and Paul Sifton, is revealed at the Mayan Theatre. Directed by Lucille Ryson, the plot reveals some fine character acting by Col. Reginald Barlow, superbly emoting by Hugh Einfeld, an excellent speaking voice of Lenita Lane, splendid acting of Zeffie Tilbury, and convincing work of Arthur Godder, are the high spots of the show. The rest of the cast, in the order named, are L’Estrange Millman, Louis Morrison, Andres Van Haden, Bert Sprote, Dorothy Tenany, Harold Nelson and William Wagner. Hallie Hill, Ingeborg Tillsich, Marian Seaver and William Meskenop fill in very nicely. “BLOOD on the Moon,” staged by more seasoned hands, would hold tremendous interest. As it is, the waits and delays kill a great deal of the interest. Lucille Ryson and Lucombao are the producers of the play.

IN DEMAND June Smaney has indeed been a very busy youngster these days, having fin- ished a nice part in Columbia’s “I’ll Fix It!;” she was called by Universal for work in “Tsalpin Tommy” and “The Good Fairy,” the latter starring Margaret Sullivan and Herbert Marshall, direction William Wyler.

September 29, 1934

Busy Artist Carmen Gould is one actress who has been busy during the past three months. She has appeared in no less than twenty major productions during this period. Her latest appearance has been with Warner’s in “Romance in Manhattan.” Some of the other productions that Miss Gould has appeared in have been “Spring 3100,” “Half Way to Heaven,” “Border Town,” “Perfect Week End,” “Gentlemen Are Born.” “Orchids and Onions,” “Broadway Bill,” “Wake Up and Dream,” “Death on the Diamond,” and other prominent pictures. Miss Gould is a society type actress, with a pleasing personality and melodious Southern accent. Since her debut into pictures several months ago, Miss Gould has made rapid strides in her work.

“WHEN I TOLD THE VILLAGE BELLE” CLICKS L. Wolfe Gilbert and Bill Kernell have written a song hit. “When I Told the Village Belle,” According to word from the music publishers, E.C. Marks Company, the country has gone for this number in a big way, and will place these song writers over the top in songland.

GEORGE BARBER IS IN “COLLEGE RHYTHM” George Barber is playing a fine part in “College Rhythm,” starring Joe Penner and under the direction of Norman Taurog. When the “Merry Widow,” produced by M-G-M, is shown, you will say that Mr. Barber gives a performance in that picture on a par with Charles Laughton in “King Henry the Eighth.”

ANN BLAIR LOOKS PROMISING Marking the initial stage appearance of one of the Southland’s own talented starlets, Ann Blair of Santa Monica made her debut in “By Candlelight” by Siegfried Geyer at the Pasadena Community Playhouse last Tuesday night. Miss Blair, a graduate of UCLA. last June, and a member of the National Collegiate Players, enacted the role of the Baroness in this Viennese play. Other members of the cast included the Budapest star, Irene Biller, in the role of Marie; Ramsay Hill as the prince, and Reginald Sharland as the valet.

"THE LEMON DROP KID"
Paramount

The original story by Damon Runyon deals with a race track tout who is reformed by a country girl, whose death at the birth of a son smashes the tout's little world. He goes to prison for stealing the money to pay for the wife's confinement, but is finally consolated by his love for the little son. The story is rather thin and while at times has lot of punch, is a bit disappointing. Lee Tracy turns in a rapid fire comedy performance which is not as convincing as heretofore. Helen Mack steals the picture—when she dies you lose all interest. William Frawley is a knockout, and Minna Gombell as his teammate runs a close second. Kitty Kelly, as the telegraph operator and friend of the small town girl, is a comer. Watch her smoke. Baby LeRoy is cute as ever. Sterling performances are turned in by Robert McWade, Clarence Wilson and Henry B. Walthall. Charles Wilson, as thearden, stands out with a great piece of acting. Marshall Neilan got every bit of punch out of the story and action possible and deserves credit for making a trite story into a fast moving picture. Screen play by Howard J. Green with additional dialogue by J. P. McEvoy well handled. Photograph by Henry Sharp good. Art direction by Hans Dreier and John G. Goodman okay. Earl S. Heiner Jr. as director. Charles Barton keeps the action moving along in nice tempo and his spotting of the sly comedy between Raymond Hatton, Jun Duggan and Olga Howland, with the song "Wagon Wheels," well done, and the exciting episodes of the river crossing and attacks by Indians add to the excitement and interest of the picture. Randolph Scott plays the part of the chief guide and lover with a capable performance. He is a real he-man without being too horsey. His love scenes and action with Billy Lee are sweet. Gall Patrick is charming and lovely and turns in a good performance. Monte Blue handles the rendezouge role with nice perception. Leila Bennett shines in a character part. All in all, the acting is well done by the entire cast. The original story by Zane Grey was turned into the screen play by Jack Cuningham, with adaptation by Charles Logue and Carl A. Buss. Sound by Phil G. Wisdom perfect. Earl Hedrick does a nice job with art direction. Harold Hurley has produced a picture which will have great appeal to the American public at large, keeping alive intense patriotism.

"One Exciting Adventure"
Universal

EXCELLENT DIRECTION AND ACTING

Ernst L. Frank took advantage of every possibility and turned in a finished product to Universal by his clever direction of "One Exciting Adventure." Handling a plot which could easily have degenerated the picture into a tripe, commonplace offering, he paces the timing so beautifully that the story maintains its momentum and interest and holds the suspense till the last moment. Dealing with crooks and detectives in a Continental city, the picture is so well directed and so well acted that your sympathy is with both the criminals and sleuths. Binnie Barnes, her charm and personality combined with superb acting, shoots herself into stardom. Neil Hamilton gives the finest performance of his life. Paul Cavanagh offers a distinctive characterization, acting with a savoir faire that is refreshing, and while the master crook, you hate to see him caught. Grant Mitchell, as a dumbbell detective, who through his friend (Hamilton) catches Cavanagh, and Eugene Pallette, the bungling sleuth, give very capable performances. The supporting cast, Jason Robards, Ferdinand Gottschalk, Henry Koller and Doris Lloyd, are placed in the right spots. The original story of Franz Schlutz and Billie Wilder is done into a dandy screen play by William Hurlbut, with good clever dialogue by Samuel Ornitz. Photography by Norbert Brodine, excellent. Film editing by Murray Seldine shows care. Art director A. Stanley Fleischer furnishes some beautiful sets. "One Exciting Adventure" is a pleasing, charming picture, which is a credit to Universal, the director and every member of the cast.

"WAGON WHEELS"
Paramount

"Wagon Wheels" is a saga of the trek across America from Independence, Missouri, to Oregon, during that period when the country was infirmed with empire building. The picture keeps alive the intense sufferings of the hardy pioneers, the story of the women in face of dangers and the attempts by the Indians to keep the white man out. William Mellor turns in some gorgeous photography, especially the long shots, which look like steel engraving director. Charles Barton keeps the action moving along in nice tempo and his spotting of the sly comedy between Raymond Hatton, Jun Duggan and Olga Howland, with the song "Wagon Wheels," well done, and the exciting episodes of the river crossing and attacks by Indians add to the excitement and interest of the picture. Randolph Scott plays the part of the chief guide and lover with a capable performance. He is a real he-man without being too horsey. His love scenes and action with Billy Lee are sweet. Gall Patrick is charming and lovely and turns in a good performance. Monte Blue handles the rendezouge role with nice perception. Leila Bennett shines in a character part. All in all, the acting is well done by the entire cast. The original story by Zane Grey was turned into the screen play by Jack Cuningham, with adaptation by Charles Logue and Carl A. Buss. Sound by Phil G. Wisdom perfect. Earl Hedrick does a nice job with art direction. Harold Hurley has produced a picture which will have great appeal to the American public at large, keeping alive intense patriotism.

Mickey Rooney and Evelyn Venable Score in "A Midsummer Night's Dream"
Universal

"A Midsummer Night's Dream" is the greatest spectacle ever produced, and for acting and pagentry will probably never be surpassed in this day and age. The setting, the background of the Hollywood Bowl, the superb lighting effects, the master direction, coupled with the immortal comedy by William Shakespeare, will live forever in the minds of those who were fortunate enough to view it. The entire cast was more than excellent in rendering the blank verse so hard for those not accustomed to this type of reading lines and too much praise cannot be lavished upon the actors and actresses who volunteered their services, and director Max Reinhardt, who gave to Los Angeles this glorious performance. In a production of this magnitude naturally some players will stand out as exceptional. Mickey Rooney, as Puck, stole most of the honors. He was glorious. William Henry and George Walcott gave sterling performances, and Olivia de Havilland rendered a most capable characterization. But Evelyn Venable gave an outstanding rendition as Helena. Her acting was charming. She handled her role with care and thought, showing her early training in Shakespearean roles. Her voice was like a bell, resonant and carrying to the farthest reaches of the Bowl. The performance was a wonderful tribute to The Immortal Bard, and will leave a lasting impression upon the audience.

"LOVE TIME"
Fox

"Love Time" is a romantic fictitious episode in the life of Franz Schubert, who was one of the most fascinating figures in the musical world. Nils Asther is not convincing as Schubert—he may have a great appeal to the feminine audience, but there is something lacking in his portrayal. He is not as sentimental or dreamy as history paints Franz Schubert, the man who wrote such beautiful music. Pat Paterson is sweet as the princess, but she was lacking a certain girliness natural to one brought up in the country. As the story unfolds, at times she rises to her opportunities, but is not strong enough as the lead. What the picture needs is greater comedy relief. Lucien Littlefield gives a grand performance as the henpecked landlord, but why Harry Green, Herbert Mundin and James Burke are washed out after a few episodes is beyond me. Those comedians could give a bit to the picture and pep it up a bit. Henry B. Walthall and Henry Kolker do a lot with small parts. Herbert Conti is efficient. The musical adaptation and dance photography by John Murat are a work of art and one of the most beautiful scorings this season. Based on a story by Richard Carroll, the screen play is by William Conselman and Henry Johnson, with the adaptation by Lynn Starling and Sidney Lanfear. Songs by Sidney Clare pleasing. Arthur Miller gives some lovely photography. The direction by James Tinling keeps the tempo of the picture too slow.

"THE GREAT ZIEGFIELD" SHOOTING POSTPONED TO NOVEMBER
SHAW AND LEE ADDED TO CAST

"The Great Ziegfield," which had been set to go into production in October, has been postponed to shoot in November on account of William Powell being assigned for an immediate picture at M-G-M, and Fanny Brice not being able to report, as the Ziegfield Follies in which she is appearing in Chicago will be held over. Also as producer McGuire has been ill for the past two weeks, many details to be worked out could not be arranged. However, it has been announced definitely that Shaw and Lee, eccentric buffoons of many Broadway successes, have been added to the cast. Casting of show girls and dancers from applicants throughout the whole country will continue until production starts. With the exception of Powell, Fanny Brice and Shaw and Lee, the balance of the cast has not been selected. Musical and ensemble numbers will be filmed by Seymour Felix in preparation of dancing sequences early in November.
The Heart Line

What we need today is to get closer to THE HEART LINE. There is entirely too much ONE FOR ONE, and nothing at all for ALL in this motion picture industry. Uncle Sam should put a stop to this hogging business, of one man holding down three jobs. What we want is the day and age of SPECIALISTS, every man to his own job, and let the other fellow give a chance to earn a living. This holds good in certain businesses combining three or more stores into one and cutting down the earning capacity of the LITTLE FELLOWS, who is the life and existence of this country. If he is robbed of a chance to earn a living, the country will soon go to smash. Have a heart, President Franklin Delano Roosevelt, and find ways and means of bringing this country to its senses and getting closer to THE HEART LINE. Let him who has plenty give the fellow who has the least a chance to carry on, and we will have a happier and healthier country than we have ever claimed as our own UNITED STATES.

Moving Movie Throng by John Hall

The questionnaire sent to extras by Mrs. Mabel Kinney, State Welfare Department chairman of the extras' Code Committee, has all the earmarks of an application for charity... Frequently, they want exactly the opposite. The questionnaire, which actually NEEDS the OPTICAL DAY check of an extraneous person, is, in itself, merely THE HOMICIDE. This seemingly eliminates all ambitious youngsters—and many oldsters, all through the ages in the show business. If the extra end of the picture business becomes a branch of the State Welfare Department—which means CHARITY—the men and women working in pictures become public charges... Plainly, the IN- TENT of the questionnaire is to gainfully employ all those extras necessary to meet demands of the industry... Only the most experienced and the most considered... From the 29 VERY PERSONAL questions in the questionnaire, one can conclude that these people need CHARITY... Sol Rosenblatt, NRA Administrator of the movie code, says there shall be no re-registration of extras... Mrs. Mabel Kinney says there SHALL be re-registration... Looks as though Federal and State authorities are about to lock horns... Signers of Mrs. Kinney's questionnaire are sent notices for extras, after answering 29 decidedly personal questions, are supposed to UNDERSTAND that work in pictures is NOT GUARANTEED... The questionnaire says so... The gist of these 29 questions is: ARE YOU ENTITLED TO CHARITY... There is reason to believe that Mrs. Kinney, unknowingly, faces a maze of political skulduggery... The producers, probably in a hurry, refuse to GUARANTEE any man a job in pictures... This statement is in the foot of the questionnaire... Who put it there, or why it is there, no man knows... We don't believe that the Code Committee, which is a State Welfare worker and wants to HELP the extras; but the lady is facing a group of smart business men whose influence reaches high places through national connections... We do believe that there is a job for a woman... A well-hoiled lawyer is needed... That questionnaire amounts to an insult to AMERICAN WORKERS... That AMERICAN men and women, in order to work at their profession, must be objects of charity is revolting... This in view of the fact that they are NEEDED... Monogram Has Another Fine Picture in "Tomorrow's Youth"—Directed by Charles Lamont Dickie Moore almost steals the show in Monogram's "Tomorrow's Youth," an original screen play by Harry Sauber and ably directed by Charles Lamont. The way Dickie puts his scenes across makes one believe that Director Lamont's love for children was carried right to the little fellow's heart. John Millan gives another of his finished performances that has marked his career. Martha Sleeper is lovely to look at and enacts her part well. Franklin Pangborn is a natural born comedian and should be given starring roles. Others who helped put the picture across were Gloria Shca, Barbara Bedford, Jane Darwell, Niles Welch, Paul Hurst, Harry O. Bradley and Edward Le Saint. Jack McKenzie's photography is excellent. Monogram seems to be knocking out A.O. pictures with each new one, and this one promises to be a sheller winner.

CONGRATULATIONS

We couldn't get close enough to Wally Kerrigan's box the other night to put him on the back for his magnificent and elaborate costuming of Reinhardt's "A Midsummer Night's Dream." And for the benefit of those who inquire, his guest for the evening was no other than the beautiful and charming Kathleen Kerrigan, the celebrated stage star.

LACKEY TO PRODUCE

Trem Carr has assigned W. T. Lackey to produce "The Nut Farm," from the Broadway stage success by John C. Brownell. Melville Brown has been selected to direct. Lackey has just completed "Girl of My Dreams," his tenth feature for Monogram.

"BY CANDLE-LIGHT"

With a devastating giggle, a gloriously many-sided voice and a dazzling personality, Irene Biller made her American debut at the Pasadena Community Playhouse this week. She happened to appear—although I do not believe the vehicle would have made much difference—in "By Candle-Light," an amusing Viennese farce by Siegfried Geyer, whose comedy even P. G. Wodehouse's adaptation couldn't destroy. As a result of its performance, it seems certain that Miss Biller—if she desires—will soon be starring in Hollywood pictures. Reginald Shalard supported Miss Biller as "Josef" and, while his work was excellent, it seems to me that Wodehouse has put too thick a coating of the typical English farce servant "business" on the role. Ramsey Hill, as the prince, was splendid. Another unusual personality brought forward by the play was Ann Blair, who makes a decided impression in her brief appearance as the baroness. Other characters doing striking work were Perry Ward, June Terry and Court Treatt. Lenore Shanewise directed the play in a fashion calculated to bring out its best points. Robert Lee's setting was unusual, but contained the most hideous color combinations the Pasadena stage has seen in a long time. Gilmore Brown and the Playhouse are again to be congratulated for sponsoring something worthy in the theatre. And might I suggest to Mr. Brown that a revival of "The Merry Widow" with Miss Biller in the lead would be a knockout.

EDythe Fellows Learns Song at Interview— Gets Plenty Fan Mail

Edythe Fellows showed what a marvelous mind she has when she was called to the Paramount studios for an interview and told that she had to learn a certain song for one of the pictures. Edythe sat down at the piano and while other children were being interviewed, she learned the song and sang it for the director right then and there. This charming kiddie starlet is receiving oodles of fan mail from all over the country.

BEN POLLACK SETS JAZZ RHYTHM SPACE FOR HERRIFORD BAND
Frank Sebastian is playing Santa Claus to Southern California way ahead of schedule, offering to Cotton Club patrons attractions unheard of in the history of cabarets. Ben Pollack has unwittingly taken the dance band bandwagon on the Coast today. The floor show, consisting of all headliners that can be compared to any other cabaret show in America. Leon Herriford and his orchestra, in the Lounge Room, and a far British Creole red. All for the price of one admission. Ben Pollack Revue consists of that charming sweet singer, Doris Robbins, formerly a Ziegfeld Follies star, and a songstress who can't be beaten; Jimmy Ray, a cafe and vaudeville headliner who has been featured in the best cafes in the East, a dancer who is different—seeing him dance is to be thrilled by the grace and beauty of his movements; Fred Scott, a robust batonist, who can be compared to anyone. For grace and beauty of movement, Loque Lorraine and Mae Packer, artists of the dance, are without peer. And last, but not least, those two grandiosi of the stage and screen, Ben and Al Gold, first making you laugh with their clever nutty songs, and then dancing to their own style and manner, that can't be beaten.

In the Lounge Room are Leon Herriford's orchestra, featuring the world's fastest drummer, Lionel Hampton, Broomfield and Greely, Dudley Dickerson, Martha Ritchie, the Four Creole Beauties, Cliff Ritchie, The Three Rocketts, the Four Covans and the girl with the dangerous curves, who entertains you as you want to be entertained, Wills Mac Lane. You will find every unusual diversion that you can among the indoor sports of Caliente. We will vouch for this, for we stood by and encouraged each of our own.... You couldn't help but chuckle with glee when we noticed how everybody else was whooping it up and playing their favorite sport of the times, which is so popular these days.

The best bet in town—listen and thrill to Ben Pollack and his orchestra, with Doris Robbins.

THOSE FOUR DANCING COVANS ARE VERY BUSY THESE HUSTLING DAYS
Dividing his time between teaching the last word in Harlem rhythm, Willie Covans of the Four Dancing Covans, reports that his school, located opposite the Jefferson High School, is getting a great play, while the Four Dancing Covans are strutting their best steps at Frank Sebastian's Cotton Club in Culver City, as one of the featured acts in the Broomfield & Greely doubling, and can't help but chuckle with glee when we noticed how everybody else was whooping it up and playing their favorite sport of the times, which is so popular these days.

WALTER LEOPOLD NOTED SONG WRITER AT KING CLUB
J. Walter Leopold, the writer of many successes, such as "It's All A Lie," etc., is playing and singing many of his past successes and future hits at the King's Club nightly. This spot, catering to the elite of the show and business world, has won its popularity by giving its patrons the finest of foods and entertainments. Appearing with Walter nightly are those two boys, Ross and Sargent, who have taken Los Angeles by storm with their clever songs. And for the latest in hot, low-down rhythms don't fail to listen to the 3 Brownies.

JIMMY GRIER AND FINE SHOW DRAW AT BILTMORE BOWL
Popular prices, popular show and a popular hand still prevail at the Biltmore Bowl. Douglas Evans, with a clear, distinct voice, announces the first artist, Yvonne St. Clair, who dances a near perfect high kick. The voice of Harriet Stone first sings "Beautiful Love," and for an encore "My Heart Stood Still." The 3 Cachalots still continue to be in favor of Biltmore patrons, with their usual high kick. The best of all is the Bob Shade of radio fame, sings "Without a Song," and for an encore, "Now That You're Gone." Helen Moore and Frank Allen continue to be the reigning favorites in the singing world. This week dance a beautiful waltz. Jimmy Grier and his orchestra, in spite of their heavy broadcasting schedule, still play nightly with as much pep and syncopa-tion-as of their opening night six months ago.

VINCENT LOPEZ PROVES HIMSELF A GREAT MAESTRO AT BEVERLY WILSHIRE GOLD ROOM OPENING
"To watch and hear Vincent Lopez play the piano," said one of the guests at the Beverly Wilshire Gold Room in Beverly Hills the opening, "is worth the price of the admission." Such a statement about covers this great maestro's artistic appeal. He is without a doubt one of the greatest. The Los Angeles Twirlers have had the pleasure of seeing and hearing, and what is more, he has a galaxy of entertainers that top any that have ever appeared here. Frances Hunt is as sweet as they make 'em, and croons her way into your heart. Lou Bring is a riot of fun, Fred Lowry is very likeable and entertaining, but one of the highlights of the show is Johnny Morris, a whistler; his triple notes are remarkable, to say the least. General Manager R.P. Jennings can well be proud of getting the Music Corporation of America to book Vincent Lopez into the Gold Room in preference to any other place, to start off the fall season. Tuesday night's opening was a gala affair. Society rubber-shodded with clowns, circus stars, chorus girls, and famous Lowell Lang actor. Vincent Lopez to the great gathering, and the occasion that greeted the man who made famous "Lopez speaking" on the radio—and by the way, this self-same famous orchestra was first on the ether in America—thanked every one present for making possible his first appearance in California, and he hoped it would be a long stay in our midst. It was a great night, and will long be remembered. It is needless to mention that was anything of importance dined and danced to this tuneful organization's music. Even R.P. Jennings was talking very earnestly to Mrs. Lucille Gates, and if you ask us, this looks like they are that way about one another. Albert, the Maître d'hôtel, and his aides kept everybody happy, and old Night Hawk and the Mission never had a better time in all the years that we have been making the rounds of cafés.

TED FIO-rito OPENS MONDAY NIGHT AT THE COCONUT GRAVE
Gus Ahnhein and his celebrated orchestra close their engagement Saturday night at the Coconut grave, after one of the most successful season that the maestro has enjoyed in the Southland. He is being tendered a farewell party by many of his friends, and we hope he returns here after his Northern, Southern and Eastern tours. Ted Fio-Rito, dean of composer-maestros, comes back to the Coconut Grave, in the Ambassador, Monday night. Hollywood, which has long been that way about Fio-Rito's music, will greet him with open arms; every stellar name in screenland has made reservations to welcome the latest from Ted. Ted's newest is great, is now colossal. The Three Debutantes are still with him; so is the clown, the crooner, and bad boy Mario Lino. New are Johnny Candido, better known as Candy, as fine a bull-fiddle wrestler as ever drew broad, and possessed of a voice that has been called the best; Don Juan, Two and Three, a trio of Buffalo, New York, lads, recently "discovered."

MERLE CARLSON LEAVES HANDERS SOON FOR WINTER NORTH
Possessing ability to play symphonic dance music, which delights the ear as well as the feet, Merle Carlson and his orchestra has rapidly gained recognition in the coast, with his nightly broadcasts over KFI and both networks. This youthful maestro's fan mail, has reached a staggering height with requests from up north, so the broadcasting Agency Bureau has the consent from Pete Diven, owner of the Cafe De Paree, where Merle is appearing, to release him for a six weeks' personal appearance tour in the principle cities up north. Merle Carlson and his Orchestra will make their first appearance at the Civic Auditorium in Pasadena October 19th and 20th. After that they will appear in Mission Beach, San Diego, the Berkeley Ballroom, Fresno, and Sweet Ballroom, in Oakland. Traveling with Merle Carlson will be Russ Cantor, that little man with the big voice, a radio star in his own right. Merle will return to the Cafe De Paree here after his tour, and here's wishing him lots of luck, and we know every other city will love him as we have here.

AVA WILLIAMS IS MAKING MANY NEW FRIENDS AT CLIFF DWELLERS
Ava Williams, the gal from the Cliff Dwellers, who the Cliff Dwellers have been giving the right of way to, when it comes to putting on as many request numbers during the evening that are called by her many followers, is winning many new friends nightly. Two newcomers to this spot, that Blonder Heart-Throb Dorothy Ernie, and the Singing Walter, Leo Card, are also coming to a mighty new attention. George Boyce acts as M.C. and, as an added attraction, his singing and dancing reveals a great variety of new numbers. Holdovers, Pauline Starr in the "Dancing Of The Stars," and Ray Morty is still going good; popular Lou Stein, Frank Bruce, Joe Fine, Don Draper, Dick Carroll and Art Wilson panic omen. Mary Silverman and her girls play fine music; yes, they keep everybody happy, and General Jack Ash meets and greets you at the door.

BLACK PUSSY CAME IS VISITED BY THE BEST KNOWN CELEBS
We doubt if there is a cafe in Hollywood that has a better clientele than the Black Pussy Cafe, located at Harper and Santa Monica Boulevard. Celebs from every walk of life drop in there for lunch, dinner and refreshments. Carl McBride and Jerry Rath are the key men in charge, and make it very easy, and what is more, they keep everybody happy. Billy Holiday ran into Howard Hawks, Leon Errol, Hale Hamilton, Walter Catlett, Jack Ruthenford, Carl Harbaugh, Gloria Sheer, Winslow Felix, Ken Maynard, Victor Heerman, William A. Gill, Jack Snowden, Walter Morriso, Larry McGrath, Fidel LaBarba, Dell Henderson, Sam Hardy, Mary Egan, Paul Gerrard Smith and many others or equal note and having an elegant time, and we fell right in line and our part to join the merry throng.

ENDER AND FARRELL PROVE DRAW AT CLOVER CLUB

Amidst beautiful, smart surroundings and a perfectly balanced dinner as only George Lamarr can arrange, patrons here are put in a most delightful mood to further appreciate the clever arrangements and lyrics of those international songstresses, Chick Ender and Chas. For dancing (which is on a trick lighting effect glass floor) there is Maurice Menge and his orchestra.

DON JULIAN AND MARJORIE TOP MARCEL INN ENTERTAINERS

Altadena harbors the most aristocratic cafe in Southern California in the Marcell Inn. Here you will find everything that is built for good clean entertainment, a fine place to dine and enjoy the best of refreshments and amusements. Don Julian and Marjorie, the sweetest of swellballroom dancers, are the headliners. They are being run a hard race for first honors by the charming Juliet Sisters. Next in line is Adele Burian, song stylist extraordinary. This blonde beauty as an added feature sings some of the German song books. Charlie Thack and his Orchestra furnish the music, and if you can sit still while they play, there is something wrong with your tootsie woosies. Walter Lippis, one of the landmarks of good old Los Angeles, is another contestant for the Marcell Inn with Harry Devine the official greeter. Another item of note is the chef who is at present serving up the fine food here was the original owner of the Los Angeles Marcell Inn, famed the world over for its cuisine.

EL REY CLUB WINS GREATER ATTENTION FROM NIGHT LIFE LOVERS

Night life lovers are wearing a pathway to the El Rey Club nightly. Gene James and his Orchestra, Jimmy Barr, famed M.C., Fred Skinner, that son of Ham, who sings and plays the latest hit songs like only he can, and many impromptu features, make up the entertainment. The food is known throughout the length and breadth of the land. When it comes to refreshments, you can obtain anything that you heart desires in this spot. Drop into the El Rey Club any night at any time, and you will find more stars in this rendezvous than you will in a half dozen other similar places of this kind.

Hollywood Radi-o-caster

WHEREAS THE SUSPENSE of the election is holding other businesses in abeyance, it is booming the radio coffers and disrupting radio schedules, programmatically speaking. Despite the profusion and confusion of the too-often vapidive radio campaign speeches, the sponsored programs have done their best to retain their audiences. No matter how sound a slumber the political may have driven all...

BING AND THE BOSWELLS can arouse to enchanted attention, as long as they’ll offer such irresistibles as “I Love You Truly” and “I Only Have Eyes for You” in their inimitable style. Wonder why a sponsor sufficiently astute to bring Bing Crosby, the Boswell Sisters and Georgie Stoll’s orchestra together will throw away the greater part of their Pacific Coast potential audience by spotting Bing’s and the Boswell Sisters’ programs at a time when the population is still clearing office desks?

GEORGE STOLL knows not only his musical scores and his violin, but he understands his audiences; how many conductors with George’s exquisite taste for cultivated music would have had the acumen to play hillbillies and familiar “farnyard” music for the Fair attendance Monday night? Maybe the cold froze up some....

YAHBUT’S sound effects; this was the first time his seemingly spontaneous gags came few and far between.

JEANETTE NOLAN the woman who was last seen heard as the authority on Charis foundation garners, is being very gracious as Maybelle Jordan on the Sunday night Maybelline program, teaming with Don Mario Alvarez, whom we’ve all heard and whom we often seen at Luce’a’s. To date, the music of HARRY JACKSON’S orchestra is far more interesting than the oozing, sugary continuity of the program. When will writers learn that romance as it is lived is of sterner stuff than polysyllabic “sweet nothings”?

FRED MCKAYE is really injecting youthfulness into his CBS Benjamin Franklin portrayal, even to rushing some of the scenes; and they’ll match voices later on for the mature Franklin. Sponsors are turning opportunity from their doors in not taking one of those...

can steal the audience anywhere he goes; his naturalness and personality permeate even the other lanes. His performance on “Hollywood on the Air” Sunday nights was as well as the feminine adulators. A great deal of his appeal undoubtedly lies in his seeming naive and awkward-but-sincere youth type; but Sunday night all the RKO audience was muchly impressed by Francis’s life-guard shoulders when he took off his coat (perhaps because of the heat, but probably to prove it wasn’t all padding). We’ll be missing the grace of.

RUTH ETTING’S tiny hand giving Jimmy Grierson tempo cues for her changes in rhythm, and with the coming of Lopez we hear the producers are giving up their featuring of song writers. In our opinion it’s just as well, for they never gave the public an opportunity to get really acquainted with the composer, his work or his personality. Someone wasted talent in a colossal way on those programs! Or did they purposely miff their chances for real composers’ hours?—or don’t performers realize the American public is intensely interested in creators? or merely?

Lowell Sherman to Direct "Becky Sharp" in New Color Process

In 1928 the motion picture industry found itself on the verge of a revolutionary movement that was destined to envelop it in a chaotic turmoil from which it did not fully emerge for three years.

The cause was the advent of sound. Before sound was finally mastered old equipment in both theaters and studios, customs and procedures had been completely revamped, studio personnels from the acting profession down the line had been severely shaken, reigning stars had been broken and new luminaries had ascended the heights. In short, all of the precedents of the silent screen had been wiped out and a new set established.

Now comes color, and if the rumbles that are gathering in volume are to be taken seriously, color will start the second major upheaval in the film industry.

Color is not new. It has been played with...dabbed at gingerly, with gingerly results. Its ineffectual treatment in the past has held it back. In most cases it has been used superficially, as a wash on a colored post-card.

There is one exception, and that one exception has started all of the Hollywood rumbles.

The exception is the John Hay (Jock) Whitney experimental short, "La Cucaracha," produced by Kenneth Macgowan, the producer of "Little Women," and released by RKO-Radio. This short picture has started all the talk about color and has projected from practically every studio in Hollywood plans for extensive color programs. It started it because it showed producers what could really be done with color, but it didn't show them (Continued on Page 3).

Max Baer is to be Directed by Neilan in "Kids on the Cuff"

Max Baer, world's heavyweight champion boxer, is to be directed in his next photoplay, "Kids on the Cuff," by Marshall Neilan, at the Paramount Studios in Hollywood. This announcement is good news for many of the faithful knights who were in hopes that Maxie would strut his acting wares in the Southland.

The first actor to benefit by these plans is none other than the old favorite, Grant Withers, who has been signed to battle the title holder in the picture, and in so doing, he will gain his best break since he came back into pictures.

Director Marshall Neilan just finished the Damon Runyon story, "The Lemon Drop Kid," for the same company, and it was so well handled that the company decided to give him the plum of the season, the Baer opus, for the eyes of the world will be centered on the new champion's motion picture activities, since Max Baer was such a sensation in "The Prizefighter and the Lady," the M-G-M production that showed Primo Carnera swapping punches in a make-believe championship fight, and strange as it may seem, the real titanic battle was a repetition of the picture fracas. It couldn't have been better staged had it been just a movie affair, rather than a scrap that caused the world's championship to change hands, with Max Baer the new champion.

George Lamaze serves you a musical cocktail, with Chick Endor and Charlie Farrell, at the Clover Club, nightly.
Oscar Radin Conducts 233 Club Symphony Orchestra to Great Applause

With fifty musicians answering in unison to the wave of his baton Wednesday evening at the Hollywood Masonic Temple Auditorium, Oscar Radin conducted to great applause the first concert of this season, which the 233 Club is sponsoring. It was without a doubt the finest aggregation of musicians ever assembled. Mr. Radin selected the following numbers for his program: March, “Pomp and Circumstance” (Elgar); Overture, “Tamahauzer” (Wagner); “Kamenol Ostrov” (Rubenstein); “Soaring” (Schumann-Radin); “Walther’s Prize Song from Meistersinger” (Wagner); “Sherzo II” (Chopin-Radin); “Herbertina” (Viscount Herbert). In numbers both he and the audience found the name of Radin, we wish to say that Maestro Oscar Radin was responsible also for the transcription for the orchestra. Let you already know, Oscar Radin is musical conductor and composer at the M-G-M Studios, having created some very brilliant musical numbers for that company, and the majority of the musicians who helped make the concert the great success it proved to be are working with Mr. Radin on the lot when he scores pictures. This accounts for the beautiful rhythm of their playing and their answering to every motion of the magic-like wand that sailed through the air in the hands of Oscar Radin while he conducted the concert.

Victor McLaglen’s Soccer Football Team Beats Fox Team at Loyola Stadium

In one of the most thrilling soccer football matches ever staged in Southern California, the Victor McLaglen Lighthouse Soccer Football team defeated the Fox Studios team Sunday afternoon at the Loyola Stadium, winning the game by a score of 3 to 0. This clinches the first of a series of games for the State championship. Victor McLaglen left a sick bed in the Hollywood Hospital to be present to urge his team on to victory. Immediately after the game, the players and friends joined Colonel McLaglen in a hot dog roast at the clubhouse at the Breakfast Club. The McLaglen Lighthouse band played on the field and paraded to great applause.

Martin Freed is Making ‘Em Sit Up and Take Notice on Warner Brothers Lot in Burbank

Martin Freed, who has conducted all of Al Jolson’s music for the past five years, and who is now assistant musical director to Leo Forberstein at the Warner Brothers First National Studios in Burbank, is making them all sit up and take notice by the way he is conducting, arranging and composing music for the Warner features. His latest accomplishment was his work with Irene Dunne in “Sweet Adeline,” which we heard through inside information is going to boost the stock of the famous RKO star as a singer as well as an actress, and naturally, this will reflect on the shoulders of Martin Freed for the way that he assisted Miss Dunne in this picture.

Imperial Productions Have Large Program Scheduled

Imperial Productions, now located at Talisman Studio, has arranged for a schedule of fourteen features, with release all set. The first picture will be “Phantom Mystery,” an original story by Earle Biglow. The adaptation is being written by Joseph O’Donnell. No cast or director have been selected, but the picture goes into production about November 1st. Clifford Sanforth, the motion picture producer who has been formerly known as Clifford East, has a contract with Imperial Distributing Corporation, New York, to make these pictures. He has a number of stories and plays now contracted for, but is also open for a number of original stories with the following background: Baseball, football, prize fight, auto race, horse race, forest fire and a good sea yarn. Mr. Sanforth will be pleased to interview writers who care to submit script along these lines.

Harriett Hoctor Ballet Dances to Be Staged at the Belasco Theatre October 22-23

Interesting news for Southern California devotees of the art of terpsichore came today in an announcement from William Anthony McGuire’s production headquarters at Universal that he will present Harriett Hoctor Ballet as a concert attraction at the Belasco Theatre for two performances Monday and Tuesday nights, October 22 and 23. Miss Hoctor, who was the premier dancer of scores of New York and London musical shows, and the recognized princess of modern ballerinas, is launching her concert tour in Los Angeles prior to her appearance in “The Great Ziegfeld” film which McGuire will produce next month. The Harriet Hoctor company reveals a cast of sixty persons comprising the ballet and concert symphony orchestra, in addition to concert artists, and Ramon and Rosita, world famous dancers, who are featured in the entertainment. Panned as a creator of ballets, Miss Hoctor came into theatrical prominence in Ziegfield’s, “The Three Musketeers.” This engagement won her a contract with the noted Follies’ producer and she appeared successively in “Show Girl,” “Ziegfeld Follies” and “Simple Simon.” Her concert ballet has become an international attraction. Reservations will be filled in order, and tickets will go on sale at the box office Wednesday for both performances.

Rex Bell Finishes First of a Series of Six Pictures for Resolute

Rex Bell has just finished “The Tonto Kid,” under the direction of Harry Frazier, for Resolute Pictures, which are being produced by Marion Kohn and Al Manon, who will release through the Pathé First Division Corporation. Supporting Rex Bell is Ruth Mix, Buzz Barton and many other favorites. Cameramen James Diamond and Benny Glenn photographed the picture. Resolute pictures are also to produce two serials, the first one, “The Sky Fighters,” starring Ralph Graves, Lila Lee, Ruth Elder and Frank Clark.

New Arrivals

Irene Taylor and Seggar Ellis arrived in Hollywood at the same time. Both are top singers, with real chops to back them up. Some moon picher company by accident is going to grab this pair and get very excited, which is just as it should be.

Producer Celeste Rush has Splendid Play for Wilshire Theatre—Tense Drama Opens at Show House October 17th for 2nd Smashing Week

The Showmen of Hollywood announce October 17th as the re-opening date for “The Invalid,” fine psychological vehicle, at The Show House, 5625 Wilshire Boulevard, at Hauser. Receiving such notices as: “Best thing of its kind since the ‘Silver Chord,’ ” and “as human a drama as has been witnessed in the last decade,” this play is said to be, by Celeste Rush, director, one of the best offerings this season. Included in the cast are Richard Kline, of Paramount Studios, playing “Jim Barnes,” devoted son to the invalid mother, portrayed by Margaret Woodburn, famed character actress. Jeanne Lewis, splendid ingenué, plays “Julie,” while Olga Anderson, late of many London productions, plays the ex Mrs. Barnes to perfection. Others in the cast are Sally Noble as Miss Harris, the nurse, and Harry M. Pollard as Dr. Hendricks, who plays the sympathetic Doctor Parker. For real human entertainment that needs no censor to keep it clean, don’t fail to see “The Invalid” at The Show House, opening October 17th.

GilbertRoland Assigned His First Picture Under His Long Term Contract with Fox Films

Gilbert Roland, whose work opposite Claire Trevor in “Elmoro Norton” brought him a long term Fox Film contract, will play his first role under the newly signed agreement when he goes into the male lead of the mystery-melodrama tentatively titled “24 Hours.” Born in Mexico, the son of a Spanish bull-fighter who is now retired, in Spain, Roland’s real name is Luis Alonso. His forefathers, away back, were Moors. Oddly, in “24 Hours,” Roland will enjoy one of the few Spanish roles that have come his way. Mona Barrie has the principal feminine part in the picture, with John Halliday also featured.

Ann Nichols is Doing Fine

Ann Nichols is dividing her time between working in pictures and teaching voice and dramatics. Miss Nichols just finished a part in “Life Returns,” at the big U, under the direction of Dr. Franke. The well known character actress has developed the following pupils: Trudy Wood, winner of the California voice contest, who is now appearing with the Metropolitan Opera; Billy Hech, youth saxophonist; little Mary McCarthy, Roy Kelso and Eloise Olund, now appearing in the Ginger Box Revue; and Harriet Hendricks, concert singer and pianist.

“THE FIREBIRD” — Warner Brothers
A Triumph for William Dieterle and Warner Bros.—Verree Teasdale and Anita Louise Score
“The Firebird” is a tense, distinctive, dramatic picturization of the solving of a murder mystery by psychological deduction. Directed by William Dieterle with a strong hand and sympathy for the underlying motivating theme, the picture is certain of success. The entire cast is exceptionally well chosen and throw themselves into their characters with a concerted co- ordination. Anita Louise is a stress queen to a. Anita Louise also proves that she is not just a beautiful girl. Her dramatic connection is a piece of artistry seldom seen on the screen. It is not acting, it is the visualization of a hopeless soul scarred by the fire of dreadful experience and repressed passion. Lionel Atwill gives a convincing, polished performance. C. Aubrey Smith, as the police inspector, handles his role with fine discrimination. Ricardo Cortez portrays a difficult part impressively. The supporting cast, Dorothy Tree, Helen Trenholme, Etienne Girardot, Hobart Cavanaugh and Robert Barrat, were excellent. Based on the play by Lajos Zilavsky, the film was written by Charles Kenyon, with a brilliant adaptation by Jeffry Dell. Produced by Gilbert Miller. Art Director Anton Grot furnished appropriate sets. The photography by Ernest Haller was above average. Editor Ralph Dawson did a fine job with smooth running sequences. Henry Blanke supervised.

“READY FOR LOVE” — Paramount
“Ready for Love” is a very thin yarn with an obvious ending and while directed at a good pace with spotty acting, not much of a part the cast, it has very little story value, and some of the incidents in the picture are out of keeping with the present time. The daughter of a wealthy family in a small-town to visit her aunt and meets a young newspaper reporter. She insecure the enmity of the women who think, because of a squib, published at the time of her arrival, about her dog Bobo, she was the mistress of a deceased man. Ida Lupino hands in a clean cut performance and Richard Arlen is very sincere in his work. They make an ideal team and would click in a lively vehicle. Marjorie Rambeau is good as the fast thinking and talking mother. Trent Durkin tries real hard at being a love sick boy. Esther Howard put a lot of pep into a small role. The rest of the cast in supporting roles are Beulah Bondi, Henry Travers, Ralph Remley and Charles E. Arnt. Screen play by J. P. McEvoy and William Slaves McNutt from the novel by Roy Flansagan contains some good dialogue at times. Marion Gering directed. Photography by Leon Shamroy good. Hans Dreier and Earl Hedrick furnished sets. Sound by Jack Goodrich okay. Produced by Albert Lewis.

“MRS. WIGGS OF THE CABBAGE PATCH” — Paramount
Norman Taurog directed “Mrs. Wiggs of the Cabbage Patch” at a nice tempo and threw a lot of entertainment into the picture. Stanwyk’s beautiful sets and trick photography. The story is very much connected to the past and present generations and still holds your interest as a tale of a woman whom adversity could not depress. Pauline Lord bands in a splendid portrayal of Mrs. Wiggs and ZaSu Pitts, as the old maid, gives a fine characterization. W. C. Fields is as breezy as ever. Evelyn Venable gets an awful lot out of a meager part. She is so charming and has such a beautiful voice that she is wasted on such a small role. Kent Taylor renders a sterling performance. Charles Middleton can always be depended upon to come through with the goods. Jimmy Butler and George Breck斯顿 are excellent, and divide honors, as the two boys. Edith Fellows, Virginia Weidler and Carmen Johnson are lovely in their respective roles, as Mrs. Wiggs three little daughters. From the story by Alice Hegan Rice and Anne Crawford Flexner, Jane Storm and William Slaves McNutt wrote the screen play. As the entire action, with few exceptions, takes place in shanty town, Hans Dreier and Robert Odell furnish sets in keeping with its locale. Photography by Charles Lang excellent. Douglas MacLean produced for Paramount a picture which will have a great appeal to the masses.

“GRAND EXPECTATIONS” — Universal
SUPERB ACTING, DIRECTION AND WRITING
“Great Expectations” is a distinct triumph for Stuart Walker, the director, Gladys Unger, who adapted the story, and Henry Hall, who gave one of the greatest performances of the season. For those who know their Dickens, who never spared words when even writing about a chimney pot, too much praise cannot be lavished upon Miss Unger for keeping the story so close to the original that it lost nothing by the transcribing and in fact added to one’s interest by holding the mystery with an intimate touch. There was a profound interest of the audience, which at times was so carried away by the superb acting of the cast that bursts of applause punctuated the deep stillness of an engrossed audience. Henry Hull carried one away with the sincerity of his acting. Phillips Holmes, Jane Wyatt and Florence Reed were glorious. Francis L. Sullivan, Walter Armitage and Virginia Hammond came through with keen performances. Alan Hale and Rafaela Ottiano were convincing. The child cast, George Breckston, Anne Howard and Jackie Earl, were extraordinarily good and showed the results of perfect direction. Photography by George Robinson excellent. Madame Hilda Grenier is to be congratulated on her technical direction, and Art Director Albert D’Agostino furnished sets which credit to the picture. Edward Ward furnished a musical score that blended with the utmost harmony into the entire action of the picture. Jack Pierce is to be commended for the wonderful makeup of Henry Hull and others of the cast. Maurice Pilic’s supervision of the film cutting, with Edward Curtiss, was a tremendous job, beautifully done. Stanley Bergerman has delivered to Universal and the public a picture that is interesting, well done and bound to be a tremendous hit.

KROK Uses New Color Process
how it was done.
Under the banner of Pioneer Productions, the Whitney company, K. S. Magowan, loaned by RKO-Radio, will start the cameras on “Becky Sharp” about the first of November. This adaptation of the Langdon Mitchell stage play by the same name, which is an adaptation of Thackeray’s “Vanity Fair,” is being written by Francis Farajohn and Dwight Taylor. A great cast of artists is being assembled for this feature. Miriam Hopkins is in the leading role. Lowell Sherman will direct. Fast Eddie Jones, technical color director of “La Cucaracha,” will lend his talent to “Becky Sharp.”

If Whitney has found the key to the adaptation of the third dramatic ingot, let’s hope they have found one of the second great upheaval in the cinema. Others, if they don’t know already, will find out soon, you can lay odds to that, and the color picture will replace talking shadows. When they do, the public will accept them as their natural heritage as they accept, with amazing calm, every other forward step of progress.

CALL THE POLICE
For the first time in police, reserves were called out to handle the crowds that swarmed to see “Peach’s Bad Boy,” at the Roxy Theatre, New York. Some 8,000 people came to see this picture in two days, Saturday and Sunday, October 6th and 7th, and Irving Lesser, manager of the Roxy Theatre, predicts a three weeks’ run, which is most unusual for the largest theatre in New York City.

IN HOLLYWOOD NOW
By BUD MURRAY
Being an old “wintergardenite,” we naturally felt the urge to delve into Jack Oakey’s Sunday Nite Frolic at the Wilshire Ebell Theatre—And lo and behold, it was just like it on the outside, with the crowds fighting for tickets—which were at a premium —and although the atmosphere never for a moment reminded us of our 15 years at the N. Y. Winter Garden, the “personal feeling” was there—The expert M.C.’ing of the show by Osterman, and the “beckling” of Jack, by Frank Fay, who was better than we have seen him in years—Then another of our old playmates, Lon Holtz, being applaudcd vociferously, and finally forced up on the stage for the “Maharajah gag,” which was a honey—We could have sat in the gallery and sung our parts of the “good old days,” like Ben Bard, Charley Irwin, Jimmy Duffy, Jack Haley—What memories they bring back—Also several dance directors like Busby Berkeley and his Missus—Larry Celeblos and his Frae—Jack Lester—Then Mervyn Le Roy down in front—Jack Oakie did not have a sweat shirt on (that’s summery)—Wesley Ruggles and the Missus, Arlene Judge, and Stu Irwin and the lovely June Collyer came in very late—Mack Gordon trying to get into one of those Wilshire Ebell seats—Sam Kramer, the agent— and Walter Kane, of the Webers Office, another 10 per center—Ruth Roland getting a kick out of the old “cinema” silent Jackie showed—Wally Ford back from Noy Yawk—Barbara Stanwyck droppint to the screen, looking a word or two about the bill (let’s forget about the band, because that was from hunger)—Harriec Alexander, a new dancing act around here, excellent “hooters”—Sammy Cohen and his Mis¬sus (Roche)—were the real natural. Winter Garden act, although they did separate acts, each one was a hit on their own—Rest of the bill so—But for $1.50 tops, once a week, this shouldn’t mean missing the right theatre, with the right kind of a band—IN HOLLYWOOD, anytime.
Faithful

One of the greatest words that we have had the pleasure of catching up with of late is FAITHFUL. It is the key to everything that is worth while; it is the avenue and channel to happiness, contentment, and the broadening out of one's ideas and ambitions. If we are only FAITHFUL to ourselves, we will be more apt to be a greater help to our fellowman, and no matter what one thinks or does, one will find that in the end it is more beneficial to be FAITHFUL and honest, and so can one allow the good that is all about us to reward us for being FAITHFUL. Be true in our every day life, our business and our friends—and above all, our families. It pays a good dividend in the long run and helps to lengthen our lives.

“Wednesday's Child,” RKO Film, a Classic of Human Emotion

Wednesday's Child is, in the opinion of this department, a glorious cinematic symphony that will be played on the heart strings of the world. The picture is noted for its delightful humanism, for John Robertson's fine direction and for the superb acting contributed by Edward Arnold. It serves also to introduce to us a leading man in the person of Frankie Thomas. It causes the spectator to both laugh and sob, in many places humor riding so hard on the heels of pathos that the tears become overflown.

The first impression of John Robertson's direction one gets is that it is slow and unimaginative, but as the reels unwind, the consciousness grows that a weak story is being told so well that the weaknesses, points being scored without apparent effort, and there is not an unentertaining moment. While Robertson had a very competent cast for the picture, the utterly fine performance of the Sister have been given if the brilliant direction had been absent. The dominant note in this director's handling of his people is humaneness. He has used a few too many close-ups, weakening the effect of some scenes that would have been better without them. But he has not sinned greatly in this regard, utilizing both medium and long shots to good advantage in several places.

There are many favorable moments in “Wednesday’s Child.” The scenes in which Edward Arnold and Frankie Thomas appear alone together—particularly two or three of them—are simply beautiful, tender and human in conception and extraordinarily effective in presentation. Edward Arnold, judging from his portrayal in this film and from his other work during a thus far brief picture career, unquestionably is headed for great things. He is magnificently natural in “Wednesday's Child.” Young Frankie Thomas gives the screen one of the grandest performances ever contributed by a boy and does it with masterly mechanisms until they are not apparent, and he reveals both depth and understanding. Karen Morley offers another of her almost flawless pieces of acting, being in the rôle of a机制 until they are not apparent, and he reveals both depth and understanding. Moving Movie Throng by John Hall “Florida, here we come!” Just like that... Mr. Joseph M. Schenck, out... “London, we're on our way to you”... Yes, sir; the big boys are going to ruin California if the Democratic gubernatorial nominee, Upton Sinclair, is elected Governor of California... One wonders what the bankers and other stockholders will say and do when they hear the bad news from the West Coast, who say that United Artists, when they move, will just call the dog, put out the fire, and walk away—leaving landlord Fairbanks to hold the sack... The big M-G-M Studios are in Culver City, in which the Loew boys are a trifle interested, will stay right in California... The production head, of course, being more interested in state politics than pictures, has the right to quit his job and go to Florida... Uncle Carl Laemmle, who actually controls his own great business, flately states he is not interested in politics—universal has no intention of moving... Paramount, Warners, RKO, Fox, and the independents have not responded to the THREAT by Schenck and Mayer with any degree of enthusiasm... The Schenck-Mayer team seem to be playing a lame hand... In fact, these two seem entirely deserted by all other responsible producers... All the extra work in Hollywood, if the head of the C.C.C. is correctly quoted here, will be "taped" and "rotated" as the jobs pop up... Once officially "taped" and worked only as a "type," what becomes of the future of the player?... "Waiters" are cited... Once a waiter, always a waiter... People who wear clothes with distinction become clothes dumies... Mr. MacCulloch, new boss of the C.C.C., has a tough job... Briefly stated, the real purpose back of the organization of C.C.C. was to form what labor men call "a company union"... This has failed completely... It is in line with what our ingentic Big Business Men call "Regimentation." The "Rugged Individualism" is annihilated... Now what is sauce for the goose is sauce for the gander... The little fellow must be saved from "Regimentation." He is entitled to the right to be Big Business Man is entitled to... Just like Mr. Hoover, we strike a blow for "Liberty" and "Rugged Individualism"... The valiant fight for "Rugged Individualism" is being fought by Joseph M. Schenck and Louis B. Mayer... The former isinspired sight to all extra battles for the right to be versatile in their chosen profession... These great leaders for American Liberty, led by that fearless leader, Herbert Hoover, set an example our army of extras take to heart as an inspiration to go and do likewise... Tis an ill wind that blows no good, as the sturdy burghers of long ago roared as they fought nobly for "No taxation without representation," filled the waters with tea and struck that first blow at Lexington... Hollywood producers and extras are up in arms against "Regimentation" and the end of "Rugged Individualism"... It's a war. Messieurs et Mmesdales... That "thin red line" over yonder seethes and boils in the veins of one and all... Led by those sterling heroes, Schenck and Mayer, we march to victory—over what?

“Perfect Week-End,” Warner Offering, Swell Entertainment

It was inevitable that the recent milk strike, the events of which for a time filled newspapers throughout the country, should creep onto the silver screen in some exciting melodrama. And here, as in any case of triumph in this, the newest Jimmy Cagney picture. Rough, racy, realistic, with hot excitement and fresh comedy running through each of its fast-paced sequences, “A Perfect Week-End” is an outstanding entertainment—a grand success for everyone connected with it.

Author of the timely yarn is Frederick Hazlitt Brennan. The two talented men who did the screen play are Warren Duff and Seton Miller, show by their unusually deft fashioning of situations that they are indeed clever at evoking either thrive or laughs from an audience, being able to do this without evident attempt. Into the last written script Ray Enright has breathed the breath of verity and made the piece zizel with swift action until the new saturation temperament of the world gets itself. The popular Jimmy Cagney and Allen Jenkins, seen as a pair of hard boiled truck drivers, never have given more enjoyable performances; Jenkins, it must be added, has his best screen role to date. Next in line for praise come Arthur Aylesworth, Spencer Charters and the versatile Robert Barrat—each being equally up to the job. Pat O'Malley and the youthful Stanley Cramer, are terrific in their roles.

“MUSIC TRUST’’ FACES SUIT BY GOVERNMENT

Invoking the Sherman Anti-Trust Law, the United States Department of Justice has started prosecution of the American Society of Composers, Authors and Publishers. The suit is on the contention that the Society with its ironclad grip on copyrights, dominates the distribution of radio music, which amounts to the "staple goods" of music business and an indication of the interstate commerce of "transmitting electric energy, ideas, entertainment."

The successful prosecution of the case would practically conclude the energetic campaign that the A.H.A. has been waging for some time against the great increases in rates and the restriction on the reproduction of music created by members of the organization—Pacific Coast Record, October issue.

and, two days later was assigned the same company.

A Trip Around the World—is what Joe Keaton, father of Buster, is taking,
by the way of postcards sent him by his son from many interesting places. Buster says the trip reminds him of the many one stands both of them took in their early days of vaudeville.

Ticket to a Murder—is the weird title that Max Alexander, of Beacon Productions, is to start soon. Lew Collis, now directing "Sing Sing Nights" for Monogram Pictures, will start, on account of his many recent successes for Independent companies.

 Finger Nails to Blend with Costumes—is the latest fashion edict from Hollywood, with Claudette Colbert, of Paramount, starting the fad in her present picture, "The Gilded Lily."
With this oddity, the tip roughe must also blend with the costume.

He Knows It All—or it looks that way, with Joseph Santley writing the story and screen play, as well as directing, but not being content with all this, he is to write the lyrics and music for two Monogram pictures.

Jack Holt Gets a Good One—in "Frisco Fury," a yarn of a salty sailor, who inherits a newspaper and unwill-ingly makes a hit with the job. Colnumbia Pictures have assigned H. S.
Kraft and Sam Ornitz, original writers of the story, to make the screen adaptation.

Two Musicals at Once—is the task set for David O. Selznick, of M-G-M Pictures, with "Piccadilly Jim," a song and dance show, and the other an untitled original, starring Joan Crawford and William Powell, Frankuch Tone being the third member of the cast.

Old Castle Garden in New York Repealed—in all its glory, where Jenny Lind sang for Barnum and the multitudes. This will be seen in the 20th Century Picture, and from what we have seen at the studio, it looks as if Darryl Zanuck is in for another great success, with Wallace Beery making an ideal Barnum.

"Strange Wives"—is the next that Richard Thorpe will direct for Universal Pictures. This one is the Edith Wharton Cosmopolitan story, that tells a strange yarn of a man who married a Russian girl and found out that he would have to take care of her whole family and relatives.

Curley Robinson's New Store—out at Universal City, is quite an innovation, as it is right inside B gate and is just the thing for the employees, who may purchase all the necessary things without going out to the main store and restaurant.

Another Contract Given—to John
Twist, scenario writer for RKO Studios. John has been with this Gower Street studio ever since they started, and is one of the reliable men of the writing staff. He is now at work writing another thrilling mystery yarn.

The New Bathing Pool—on the phantom stage at Universal Studios was especially built for Lowell Sherman's production, "Night Life of the Gods," but it is such an elaborate piece of work that it looks as if Universal will have to make some bathing beauty pictures.

Doing Double Duty—is Lambert
Hillyer, at Columbia Studios, in writing and directing his next picture,
"Stake Out," a story of a detective lieutenant who cleverly wiped out a gang of murderers. Bruce Cabot and Judith Allen are to be featured.

HOLLYWOOD FILMOGRAPHY
CHICK ENDOR AND
CHAS. FARRELL PROVE WORTH TO CLOVER CLUB

This Sunset Boulevard room holds an undeniable charm of atmosphere and intimacy which already has made it a talked about spot in the nicer Hollywood night life. It’s the new trend in night clubs patronage. Not a hide-away, but a spot that can be made a retreat by nice people who don’t want to be tossed around in the big hotel rooms, cabaret-theatres, casinos and their ilk. Mr. Endor and Chas. Farrell, those two international songsters who were brought out here from the east by the management here, are well proving their worth. Their own clever songs, coupled with their own music, put Hollywood in a big way. George Lamaze, another importation from the east, who was brought out here by a rival spot, but who failed to see his worth, is well proving it here. Mr. Lamaze is world famous as a dicetian and is delighting Hollywood with his dinners and proper ways of serving it. Maurice Menge and his orchestra play for dancing and sing their clever songs. Mr. Endor and Farrell. Menge is well known on the coast here, a favorite with the class clientele for his smart sophisticted rhythms. Count Hahn, managing the Clover Club, is putting on more than capable assistants in all departments, notably Moe Morton, who handles the publicity and advertisements for this spot.

VINCENT LOPEZ IS WINNING MANY NEW BOOTERS AT THE BEVERLY WILSHIRE

Vincent Lopez and his orchestra, at the Beverly Wilshire Hotel Gold Room, is winning many new booters with his fine musical programs for the dinner dances and his broadcasts, which reach all over the country. Vincent Lopez has been noted as acharming singer and keeping friends, and is putting on a show that is drawing the best people from all over Southern California to break bread and dance at this beautiful hotel. To name names, the stage and screen that are enjoying this treat nightly would take in so many names that it would look like a roster of who is who in the industry, for they all come there some time or other during the run of the engagement. We noticed many celebs Sunday night, when we almost forgot to mention that Mr. and Mrs. Walter McCarthy never miss a Sunday evening at the Gold Room.

The other night was composer’s night, and what a tremendous crowd of musical geniuses were present. It was their tribute to Vincent Lopez, and if you ask us, it was a worthy one.

HENRI’S 50-50 CLUB TO MAKE MANY NEW CHANGES

Henri De Soto, who operates Henri’s 50-50 Club, is making many new changes of which the most noticeable is the change of this popular night spot, which will help put the place over the top. The entertainers, popular Dixie Frances, Charlotte Murrie, The Eddie Bush Trio and others, are being of no use untoward to give the swanky crowds plenty of amusement.

BEN POLLACK AND 2-IN-1 IDEA POPULAR AT COTTON CLUB

The 2-in-1 idea which started five weeks ago is still in favor with night club patrons of Southern California. With two orchestras, thirty star entertainers and a low tariff, the idea couldn’t miss. In the main dining room we have none other than Ben Pollack and his Orchestra, featuring Doris Robbins, singing as only she can, with Ben Pollack acting as emcee. The show opens with the acet tape dacer on the coast today, Matty King; those two clever comics, Morro & Yaccaneli, are next on; Fred Scott follows; and Don & Sally Jennings dance a waltz. Doris Robbins then sings “Talking to Myself,” and Ben Pollack and his orchestra close the show with a “Big Louis Fantasy.” In the Lounge Room there is Leon Herriford and his Orchestra, featuring the world’s fastest drummer, Lionel Hampton. The Creole revue features Brenda and Greeky, the producers, with those fast stepping dancers, the Three Rhythm Rockets. Cliff Ritchie sings in a clear tenor voice, Dudley Dickerson will laugh and swing his way into your pocket. The Four Crows, the new girls, offer the latest in tap and Russian dancing. Martha Ritchie, a sweet songstress; Willa Mae Lane has had more requests for “Handy Man” than any other song. The girl with the dangerous curves is fast coming up to the top, and those four shapely Creole beauties showing you the latest in pearls and other things and sports Sebastion’s has has still another room that would be worthwhile to visit. While the Lounge Room houses the most unique Creole show, this amusement room offering unusual chances for fun through popular sport and pastime popular all over the world.

BLACK PUSSY CAFE POPULARITY GROWS TO HIGHER HEIGHTS

The Black Pussy Cafe is growing to high heights these days than they expected when they opened this get together meeting place of satellites from stage and screen. We happened to glance over O. O. McIntyre’s column in the L. A. Examiner October 10, in which the sage wrote: “Leon Errol’s new cafe on Santa Monica Boulevard is a recent rendezvous for actors billeted to Hollywood. He calls it The Black Pussy and is there nightly. He opened it as a place to loaf and, to his amazement, the spot has since the opening proved profitable. Errol, once a Ziegfeld star, was one of the few comedians to make the glam follies’ producer laugh out loud.”

CHICK THECK AND HIS ORCHESTRA WIN NIGHTLY APPLAUSE

Altadareans are greating the music of Chick Theck and his orchestra nightly with great applause at the Markell Inn, for the maestro knows how to keep his fans on their toes with a bit of lush and beautiful atmosphere of this aristocratic amusement place, where the best town’s people dine and dance to their heart’s content, and enjoy just enough entertainment to satisfy their tastes for something to break the spell of the sameness that sometimes spoils one’s evening while they are pleasure bent. The public response the past week for Don Julian and Marjorie, those clever dancers, caused them to put on a waltz number that is the most beautiful we have seen around these parts. George Lloyd not only acts as M.C., but puts over an imitation of Clie Sale in “The Specialist” and “The American Tourist” to a great big hand and many hearty laughs. Miss Adele Burian sweetly sings “Two Hearts” in both English and German. Herb Goodner has a great song on one; she not only sings, but plays her own music on the piano, and, we almost forget, she also tickles the ivories for Mr. Lloyd as he sings. The orchestra, featuring Willa Mae Lane, is a classy one out of Pasadena, and is what we would term one of the real treats that Southern California has to offer lovers of night life.

CLIFF DWELLERS OFFERS BEST SHOW IT EVER STAGED

One seldom sees such a swell show as the Cliff Dwellers is offering right now. In fact, it is the best they ever staged. The Flordadora Sextette, headed, by beautiful Virginia King, is a wow. George Boyce acts as M.C. and puts over some very fine dancing and songs. Dolly Hobson’s imitation of Ted Lewis is a classic. Leon Carr, that romantic baritone, gains a big hand. Then there is Lois Stein doing some new songs that wow ’em. Frank Brano and Joe Fine and the rest of the gang come in for a lot of attention. Film and stage stars have been dining and dancing here to the fine music as played by Mary Silver and her Girls Orchestra every night to the wee hours of the morning. Virginia King is the heart throb that added so much loveliness and talent to the Gene Morgan act for almost a year on the road. So, one can say we the Cliff Dwellers are putting on their best show right now.

TO BE MARRIED

Eva Barnes and Clarence Eves are to be married Tuesday afternoon, Oct. 10, in the Little Country Church of Hollywood. The ceremony is to be attended by many stage, radio and screen celebs.

TED JO RITO HAS A FINE SUPPORTING COMPANY AT GROVE

The musical aggregation that Ted Fio-Rito has banded together is giving him splendid support nightly at the Cocoanut Grove in the Ambassador Hotel, where he is playing to excellent crowds nightly. For instance, you will find Von Knight, a great clown and singer, those charming Three Debutantes, Don Juan Two and Three, Louis Chico, Mazy Marcellino, Campbell Twins, Frank Paply, Cy Bernar and in the sensational dance team, Charlie Baron and Joan Blair. The unique manner in which the entertain- ment is presented gives all of the artist a very fine chance to do their best work. Ted Fio-Rito piano playing is one of the outstanding features of the Grove offerings.

DON SANTO MAKES THEM LAUGH AT BALLYHOO CLUB

A new show opened at the Ballyhoo Club last Sunday night. Mr. Antonio, who has exclusive booking for this spot, has supplied Frank Hanover, owner and manager, with a very fine cast. Don Santo is the new master of ceremonies, with plenty of pep and gags, putting the show over in very fine style. Kay Green opens the show with a fast accro- batic routine. Ty Parvis, a young man with personality, sings “42nd Street” and in the sensational chorus does a fast tap dance. Sylvia and Bettina give their impression of “Mamie Sattan.” Bob Sherwood, one of the boys from the orchestra, is fast becoming a favor- ite here with his singing of “Honeymoon Blues.” Bob takes a hot trump- seto piano that puts Louise Armstrong to shame. Ty Parvis returns with Betty Dorsey, a comedy blonde, who very personally joins in “When We Build a Little Home.” Don Santo, the emcee, next does his bit of nonsense and gets plenty of laughs with some clever gags and pieces of business. Don Santo and friends sing “Happy as the Day is Long,” and then does an eccentic dance for a close. Sally Sweet still continues to be the reigning favorite here. Sally first sings “I Have to Think That You’d Grow Old, Baby,” and then does encore after encore. Gerry Joyce and his orchestra more than help put the shoe over with their fine support, and their smart arrangements of the music for dancing to, makes your evening most enjoyable. Frank Hanover stars a new innovation here this Saturday and Sunday afternoon with a danceante. A large Orchesta will be there and celebrites from every walk of life. For a new thrill—listen to Synthia, with Wally Duane at the piano, sing “Heat Wave” and “Opti- mistic.”

VISIT NIGHT SPOTS

Dorothy Roberts and her sister, Gladys McGee, Chicagoans, have been shown around the night spots by John Linden, and after having the time of their lives, the girls departed for the Windy City.

BARNEY WHITNEY.
JIMMIE GRIER AGAIN PROVES STAR OF BILMORE BOWL

Jimmie Grier and his orchestra are the stars of the Bilmore Bowl show this week, although there are a number of fine acts that offer quite a variety of entertaining songs and dancing.

Bob Shafer leads the field; then there is Esther Pressman, Rita and Rubins, Beatrice Hagen and the Three Cachalots. Los Angeles has gone in a big way for the Bowl as a rendezvous for their dinner dances and with the popular Jimmie Grier holding down the center of the stage, there is a good reason for the big crowds.

GENE JAMES’ ORCHESTRA, DORIS ROACH’S SINGING, POPULAR AT EL REY CLUB

After a siege in the hospital, Ray Hallor is back at the helm of the El Rey Club. Gene James and his orchestra are setting a new style with their intimate music. Charlie Kaley, of radio fame, pleases with his songs. Fred Skinner, who now sings adequately, Doris Roach, with her distinctive songs and different style of singing, is now the rage of Hollywood. Accompanying Doris is Elliott Daniels, a piano player of distinction. Nick, former head waiter at the Brown Derby, is now in charge of cuisine here.

MERLE CARLSON LEAVES—FRANK JENKS OPENS AT THE CAFE DE PARE

Merle Carlson and his Orchestra leave this week for a personal appearance tour up north for six weeks. Frank Jenks and his Orchestra replace Merle. Pete Dokos, owner-manager, has held over the show from last week, featuring those two clever dancers, Jane Lar-kin and Virginia Castle. Naomi War-ner still sings her way into your heart. Parro & Rita, ballroom dancers, get their share of the applause. Russ Cam- tor still carries on as master of cere-monies, and singing with Merle Carl-son’s Orchestra on the air nightly.

STAN CLARE AND HIS RHYTHM TRIO AT KING’S CLUB

Many surprises are in store for the patrons of the King’s Club this week. Harold Hinds is assembling a show that promises to surpass anything that has been attempted in its history so far. Stan Clare and his rhythm trio, with their rhythmic music, make you dance. Stan features Bill Leahy and Sadie Shipley. The many friends of Charlie Jordan and Blackie will be glad to know that they are now connected with Harold Hinds at this popular rendez-vous.

THE LUCKY SPOT PROVES A LUCKY FIND FOR CAFE FOLLOWERS

Cafe followers were lucky to run into the Lucky Spot Cafe, operated by Max Holterz. They offer the most for the least cost of any of the places in that neighborhood, and what is more, this goes for entertainment and food. Little Eddie Barnes is the official greeter and he knows how to be a real host. For your entertainment Stanley Mack, with an improved baritone voice as you can find, Miss Eva Barates, a blues singer without a peer; Adele Stepp has had years of training with some of the best voice teachers in the country; Joyce King for your lowdown rhythm, songs; and last but not the least, radio’s happiness girl, Louise Howatt, at the piano. At the Lucky Spot you will find your favorite star of stage, screen and radio relaxing and having a good time. As an extra added attraction, Max Holterz has for a limited time one of the outstanding acts in show business. Don’t fail to see them.

MIRAMAR HOTEL TO RUN COLLEGE NIGHTS DURING FALL SEASON

The Miramar Hotel, pleasure center for yachtsmen, swimmers and poloists throughout the summer, is now the football hotel, with fans making merry before the games on Fridays, which are “college night,” and celebrating victory or drowning sorrows the next night. Coviert charges for college students are fifty cents during the fall sea-son, and Jay Whidden’s orchestra, aided and abetted by the silver-haired Betty Grable, continues to draw good crowds to the famous Terrace Room, where Wilshire meets the sea.

ANNUAL DANCE OF THE INWOOD BOYS

New York City—Filmland is inter-ested in the fourth annual dance of the Inwood Boys, who have secured the best talent and music available. The affairs of the club are being looked after by the following officers: Milton Wienerberg, president; Saul Maren, vice-president; Jack Lazard, secre-tary; and George Wienerberg, treas-urer. They are welcoming every one to have a good time and have engaged Al Katz and his music to be on hand for the dancing.

AL BARRETT PASSES AWAY

Just as we were going to press we learned with deep regret of the passing away of Al Barrett, who is well known among the day players in the industry. He was a very earning and sincere worker and had many friends among his co-workers.

FROM THE HEAR

of things, the publicity men deserve the biggest bouquet for the CBS Camp-bell Soup epic, that grand new radio dis-hell whose recipe spells Hollywood Hotel. It combines the features of last year’s Old Gold and Charis pro-grams and succeeds in being suspic-ioulsy (very, very) reminiscent of the “Top of the World Night Club” that TED WHITE, the voice of versatility, really origin-ated for King two years ago. The publicity men’s efforts prepared us for something titanic, for someone with a speaking voice combining the honeyed come-hitherness of an Homeric siren, with a singing voice that would make the Hymn on the Siren’s message vanish from their zoup-ing, and with beauty enough to win her one a magnificent star role picture opposite Dickie Powell . . . and along came who just sings . . . just. It was JEANETTE NOLAN who read her lines as the hat-check girl, and Jeanette’s voice could have ensnared any Ulysses. (Looks like the Nolan year.)

ROWENE WILLIAMS

LOUELLA PARSONS

missed her usual number of lines. Gene Austin’s original who used to accompany Gene on the bull-fiddle until Fio-Rito discovered his triple voice act, was as intriguing as usual. But the program only proved that the old fallacy still prevails . . . that the more and bigger the names the more the publicity, and about the biggest name was CLAUDETTE COLBERT’s.

She proved her voice is as alluring as her visual self. El Brendel was ordin-arily fair comic relief, though Ole Svenson would have been just as amusing. Such a program lets loose a lot of whoys and wherefores, such as WHY, with such a prosperous talent budget as that being consumed by this program, won’t a producer spend an-other century note for the rental of the Radio Playhouse? Production of a program in the local studies seems to handicap it by a limp-ing start. HOW can producers with average appreciation of program tech-nique so consistently waste talent, time and general effectiveness? The Listen-ner suffers all the agony of having tried to listen to half a dozen programs run-ning at the same hour, and having missed the vital part of each. And WHY, on the

S & W MERRYMAKERS

will the powers that dictate to the pens insist on two central commercials on top of the quarter-hour ones, when they’ve achieved the nigh-impossible by arousing genuine studio applause on writer-actor clever dramatized commercial blues? And WHY don’t any of the successful artists, announcers, and the like of the local CBS station ever end up in radio’s happy hunting ground, New York?

SIGMUND ROMBERG

has been a Hollywoodite so frequently that we must feel a local interest in his Saturday evening program, which slipped by all too Swiftly, leaving a pleasant afterglow of gratitude in the hearts of its listeners for the glorious gifts that radio CAN bring, and yearning for more. The speeches were too long for a simulation of natural expo-sition, but the material was so fasci-nating that you forgot you were be-ing edified. “So Shy” IRVING TAYLOR’S policy of mixing the highbrows a break on his Log Cabin program gave one to Betty Borden, and the continuity surrounding her part of the program was very well handled, but slightly in-accurate, because BETTY BORDEN has been on the air before. She is one of the four KMTR finds to proceed onward and upward in the past few weeks. The others are MILDRED STONE, who is now Jimmy Grier’s “Dresden Doll,” PAT O’SHEA, who is barnstorming with Gus Arn-hold, and ROY RINGWALD and his quartet, broadcasting under the collective title of “Stella and Her Fellas,” now emitting music modern with ANDRE KOSTELANET that makes the spine prickle from fore to aft. With Fred Waring’s “Babs and Her Brothers” and “Stella and Her Fellas” making such a sucess of it, we may expect an inundation of limp-pid voices pouring out their wa-was and bo-boys under the nonsensical radio “Annie and Her Amateurs,” “Betty and Her Beaus,” “Cora and Her Cor-horts,” “Dotty and Her Dandies,” “Es-ther and Her Escorts,” ad infinitum, like us.

DICKIE IS BUSY

Dickie Jones is a busy boy. His work in “Babes in Toyland” was very well liked at the Roach Studios that they called himselves to work with “Our Gaug” on the same lot. The past week Dickie appeared in “Fifteen Wives,” screened at the Los Angeles Theatre.

Clown Club
California's High-Powered Racketeers

Motion Picture Industry Leaches Trim Poor Actors

The so-called fake movie schools were run out of town years ago by this publication, after the owners of various studios had sued us (or $330), 0000, and found themselves facing prison, so they decided to quit the unprofitable business, made so by our fight to protect the public interests. But undaunted by the fate of these racketeers, others have sneaked into the field and are again bleeding the actors to death by all sorts of schemes. Some claim "inside pull" to get them work, others charge actors so much for their publicity and feeding of executives in order to further the interests of their clients, and still further, with the passing of the casting directories that the producers used to use, the so-called agencies are publishing their own, which is useless, because the producers have their own directory and listings through the Call Bureau.

So much for this far, there are a number of men who claim to be agents who carry their offices in their inside coat pockets, who are working the innocent actors for all they are worth, and who find them easy prey, owing to the fact that the various studios have so many actors in stock and under contract, and are loaning them out to other studios, thereby cutting down the percentage of the chances that a free-lance actor has to get a break. This leaves the actors wide open for any bait that is put before them, and in many cases the percentage paid the agents is far above what the law allows in this state. Strange as it may seem, these practices are not worked on directors, writers or technicians. It is only the poor actors. Something should be done to oust California's high powered racketeers.

Kiddies and Dancers Find Themselves at Mercy of Slickers

A quick glance through the kiddies and dancers colonies will reveal that they, too, find themselves marked by the racketeers who are robbing them right and left of their savings, with promises of jobs if they use their directories, which they claim are widely read by the producers and casting directors inside the studios. One racketeer claims that he is a studio scout, paid by the producers to find talent. He makes certain charges for special services rendered. Another director runs an agency in connection for the kiddies. Taking it all in all, you will find this a deplorable state of affairs. We were approached by a certain casting aide one day and asked if it was advisable to take an interest in a kid directory. Yes, siree, they wanted to put $500 in it, if the investment was secure. We told the man to hold off until we had a chance to see what this directory owner was really up to, because we always knew that he was the king of chiselers in Hollywood.

The dancing brigade who make a living by appearing in our musicals too are the victims of grifters. Some are on the inside and claim a pull with the dance directors who are putting on the numbers for the studios. The latest gag to be pulled by a man with a police record of years' standing is the creating of a dancers' directory. This, he claims, is necessary, so that the dance directors can tell how they look and what pictures they have worked in. This not only applies to the grown-ups, but the kiddies as well. Mothers of children will pay any price to put their little darlings in line to outshine their neighbor's children.

LET'S SEE WHO'S WHO

By HARRY BURNS

"The Captain Hates the Sea" is Another Columbia Wow, Thanks to Director Lewis Milestone

Lewis Milestone took a simple story, "The Captain Hates the Sea," from the pen of Wallace Smith, and made another wow picture for Columbia. In fact, it might be classed as another "Grand Hotel" or "Dinner at Eight," only this time we sail on the high seas, and find that anything is liable to happen on a cruise. Acting honors go to John Gilbert, Victor McLaglen, Walter Connolly, Alison Skipworth, Fred Keating, Wynne Gibson and Leon Errol. The high spots are the work of John Gilbert, who never soars up on the whole journey, Victor McLaglen's performance as a detective, Fred Keating as a polished heavy, Walter Connolly as the captain, Wynne Gibson's dramatic acting and a thrilling leap from the steamer, Leon Errol's funmaking. And then you will find Walter Catlett and Donald Meek getting howls of laughter as the bartender and the bearded passenger. Two girls, Helen Vinson and Tala Birell, command attention. Others who please are Louis Alberni, John Wray, Arthur Treacher, Claude Gillingwater, Emily Fitzroy, Akim Tamiroff, and Geneva Mitchell, while the Three Stooges cut in here and there as laugh getters with their music. We also noticed Inez Courtney and G. Pat Collins in good bits. The camera work of Joseph August is worthy of special praise. Director Lewis Milestone never missed an opportunity to nurse every situation for all it was worth, and our own pictures' high standard is once more attained by this picture, which is censor proof, and good box office fodder for the exhibitors to work on, to draw in their best clientele.

"Kentucky Kernels," Wheeler and Woolsey Laugh-fest, is Their Best

GEORGE STEVENS DOES A SWELL JOB OF DIRECTING

Whoever was responsible for the selection of the story of "The Kentucky Kernels," written by Bert Kalmar and Harry Ruby for Bert Wheeler and Robert Woolsey, certainly struck up a happy medium for these famous funsters to put over their best fun-making antics, for in this laugh-fest they are at their very best. Messrs. Kalmar and Ruby are also responsible for the screen play, music and lyrics, which about covers the most vital parts of this opus going over like it did, with the exception of the fine directorial work of George Stevens, who seems to have caught the spirit of these funmakers and carried them along at the proper speed and tempo to make them funnier than ever. Roy Webb was the musical director. And now for the artists; Spanky McFarland is deserving of a bouquet for his trouping like a seasoned actor, rather than a child; Mary Carlisle won attention first because she carried the Southern accent out to perfection, and next, because she acted at her best and looked beautiful. Noah Beery proved that he is one of our best actors—his flair for comedy is on an equal with his dramatic talents, and he sings well, too. Lucille La Verne was superb; Paul Page very satisfactory; Sleep 'n' Eat, funny. Others who filled in admirably were William Pawley, Louis Madon, Frank McGlynn, Jr., and Richard Alexander. Edward Cronjager's photography was a treat to behold. H. W. Hinson was in charge as associated producer of the production. RKO can promise theatregoers and exhibitors a real treat and a box office winner.

"Anne of Green Gables" is Sweet Opus

RKO-Radio has a sweet picture and story in "Anne of Green Gables," from the pen of L. M. Montgomery, with the beautiful screen play by Sam Mintz. Theatregoers will love Anne Shirley. This youngster has a soul that reaches your very heart. Tom Brown as the young lover comes through with a very fine performance. Two character women and a character actor just about steal the show—they are Helen Westley, Sara Haden and O. P. Heggi. The rest of the cast, Murray Kinnell, Gertrude Messenger, Charles Grapewin, June Preston and Hilda Vaughn are satisfactory. George Nichols, Jr., did a good job of directing, and the photography work of Lucien Andriot and Vernon Walker is deserving of special mention. And we almost forgot—Max Steiner's fascinating music and fine sets by Van Nest Polglase and Al Herman.

It Was Our Error, Nellie V.

Through an error we gave credit to Ann Nichols, instead of Nellie V., last week in our story about the fine work in pictures and the running of a dramatic and voice school, and also omitted the name of one of her best pupils, little Sherry Ardell. So we apologize to Nellie V. Nichols, who, we again state, is a very versatile artist in her chosen calling.

Where is Ferike Boros?

We wonder where Ferike Boros is? A very capable and versatile character actress, who has to her credit many fine parts in our best talkies, but who for some reason or other has been passed up of late. Here is an actress that should be encouraged rather than discouraged. Come on, boys, let's give her a break.

Charles Lamont Finishes Directing "The World Accuses" for Chesterfield Productions

Director Charles Lamont has finished another feature picture, "The World Accuses," this time for Chesterfield Productions, over which company President Geo. R. Batcheller presides, with the following featured players: Vivian Tobin, Russell Hopton, Harold Huber, Mary Carr, Barbara Bedford, Jameson Thomas, Cora Sue Collins, Dickie Moore and Suzanne Edwards. Melville Shyer is unit manager and M. A. Anderson cameraman.

Jack Osterman Puts Sunday Night Frolics Over the Top

You will have to hand the palm to Jack Osterman for the way he put the Sunday night Frolics over the top at the Wilshire Ebell Theatre, in association with Irving Strouse. These men took a chance, and won out with great odds against them, and if you ask us, these affairs are destined to be with us for many a Sunday evening's entertainment, and the artists who appear should get a great big hand, for through their co-operation, and theirs alone, can these concerts continue to build up public interest and help bring back vaudeville. Already, Warner Bros. are adding vaudeville to their shows, and Sid Grauman likewise offers a number of acts in conjunction with his Chinese Theatre picture show.

IN HOLLYWOOD NOW

BY BUD MURRAY

Off the beaten paths IN HOLLYWOOD NOW—First to the second Jack Osterman Frolic, at the Wilshire Edell Theatre. A better show than the first, with Fred Keating Mc'ing with a Capital “C.” Some more Winter-Gardenties, on the bill, were Lou Lockett and Roy Cummings. The individual hit of the bill was Eddie Vitch, cartoonist and "panto" comic—Lockett's protégues, Lee, Storms and Lee, did some wonderful tap work. Ada May and Olia Howland gave a grand idea of class vaudeville—as Osterman said: "Al Terry's hand k now one another now—but we still don't think they are intimately acquainted—Irene Franklin introduced from out Davy-Dagget in the lobby to greet you pleasantly; also works in the show.

Then down to the Million Dollar Theatre, now run by Popkin & Singer, who formerly ran the Burbank—A great show for 25 cents—16 girls—George Clark the comic—several acts and two features—and as good as the 50 cent shows in town—Popkin and Singer should be congratulated.

At the Dancing Teachers Business Association Dance in HOLLYWOOD, bumped into Walter Wills, his president—Dave King—Bessie Clark—Fred Ahern—Gabriel Cansino entertained with his famous Flamenco dance—Wanda Gazar at the door—The "Blue Blaze" did a perfect Rhythm dance—So we had to bump into the Night Hawk at one of these out of the way places—Try and keep this old bird from the "newsy spot." The "OLD NIGHT HAWK" will catch you if you don't watch out—BOO—(Did I scare you?)

Life Savers

Wherever one finds treacherous seas you will find life-saving stations—on our beaches, at the various summer resorts, one meets up with LIFE SAVERS, who guard us from the undercurrents that might claim us as a victim of the sea. So it is with every day life. We all are in need of a helping hand. No one can tell just when we will be ourselves in the greatest distress, and when we call for help, we are grateful to the first one who comes to our aid.

Big business today, alike with those who are operating in smaller ways, are in need of LIFE SAVERS, and every one can do his part toward helping, especially the LITTLE FELLOW, who needs the aid of the masses. So every one who reads this can and should do their bit. We need you to help us put our CHRISTMAS NUMBER over the top, so that we can be saved from that devil—not the roaring sea—but lack of funds to carry on our fight for mankind; yes, a fair deal for everybody. So come on and be one of the army of LIFE SAVERS.

Moving Movie Throng by John Hall

Things are moving fast... The motion picture industry, as a whole, is NOT excited over the coming gubernatorial election... A careful survey of the various big plant studios failed to reveal any signs on the walls telling the world they were going to move out of California if Sinclair is elected... No, gentlemen, Hollywood is not worried about who is going to be the next Governor of California... It may be said, without fear of successful contradiction, that the motion picture industry, as a whole, is NOT in the political arena... The biggest and the most responsible men in the Hollywood picture field, except two, express no political preference... So that's that... Observing all the new feature pictures as they utensil before the cash customers, one is impressed by a fact holding its own tide of regret: Real actresses of the stage, slowly and remorselessly, crowd from the screen the big-name feminine stars of silent days... Very evidently the public knows real acting—and will have nothing less... NAMES, without the skill of the dramatically trained actor, or actress, seemingly, spell financial loss to that unhappy producer trying his best to keep alive a favorite star born before the talkies... It is not a pleasing spectacle, the passing of these men and women who formerly held the public in the palms of their hands... Indeed, it is sad... Progress crushes them aside, and as we survey the picture, we make note of the powers of the extras... We have observed three in one picture crowd... That's Hollywood; the land of heartbreaks, where an ocean of tears, in a tidal wave, washes away the dreams of thousands and hurls them to the flotsam and jetsam of life's wreck-strewn sea... Too much is written about the glories of picture stardom... The right side of the canvas is held before the millions of Hollywood-crazy boys and girls of the country, and no Hollywood movie scribbler dares reverse the frame and show the other side... That would be treason... Would that those millions of kids out yonder could come here and study the wretched clamor by thousands for a few crumbs handed out as extras... Was it that some one who had come here and study the unseated darlings of the gods, thrown from high place by the invention of the talking picture medium; hear them bravely talk of a "come-back"... These people deserve a better fate—but producers must answer the call of the public... Nothing but the greatest stage celebrities will satisfy the people who pay the admission—and who shall say they are wrong... Violating this sacred day after day, one cannot refrain from having for these dethroned stars of yesterday a feeling of sincere sympathy... Pity we abhor; we know that... They are proud; and they tenaciously cling to the hope that the tide will turn; that someday, they will be swimming with the current, through green passages, and happy days will be here again... We hope so.

"The White Parade" STAMPS LORETTA YOUNG A GREAT ACTRESS

"The White Parade" is the biggest opportunity yet afforded to Lorettia Young. Her expression and method of action are so genuine that Miss Young rises to great heights in this picture. She is perfection itself. Director Irving Cummings carried out every detail in the most correct manner. To him goes much of the praise for the success of this story, from the novel by Rian James, adapted by him in collaboration with Jesse Lasky, Jr. Screen play by Soysta Levins and Arthur Pink. Carole Lombard, whose previous work is another example of the fine work this artist can do. John Boles had very little to do, but had the sympathy of the audience. Next in the honor line comes Jane Darwell—she does a great piece of work. Charming little Muriel Kirkland again distinguished herself, and Sara Haden gave a flawless performance. Astrid Allwyn, Joyce Compton, June Gitlesson, Dorothy Wilson, Polly Ann Young, Frank Conroy, Frank Melton and Walter Johnson gave natural performances. It is the story of a training school for nurses.

DON BROU PRODUCING "ADAMS EVENING," GATEWAY

"Adam's Evening" opens at the Gateway Theatre Monday night, and a peep in rehearsal again proves that Don Brody is more than an average director. Mr. Brody has many successes to his credit and will direct "Devil's Side Show" and "In the Red" a year or so ago, Burns Mantle's Red Book spoke of them as "the finest productions of the little theatre he ever had seen."

The Romance of Numbers

BY NANCY WHITE

The mental uncertainty of the public today in regard to all scientific principles awakens the modern thinker and spurs him on to try to explain satisfactorily the mystical formula of the trinity—God-Man and the Universe to those diligent seekers of truth who are willing to put forth an effort to clear this mystery and find peace, harmony—that natural rhythmic melody which is an obscure fountain to be found in every human heart. The most of us have hidden it, utterly concealed and silenced it, but it is there. If you dig deep enough in your own nature, you will find it.

Numbers and the stars have been the only close companions I have had for many years. Though misused and abused as they are, in my humble opinion hold the key to the Bible, to the Universe, and to the tradition and understanding of the majestic process of the human race.

The fundamental principles of this great law cannot be comprehended by the mere physical brain of man—but by a slow chemical process of rebuilding and reorganizing the cell structure of the mind in order to perceive this knowledge intuitively.

Now to bring about this attainment in the most interesting way possible is to study the three principles of the absolute, which are clearly defined in great Esoteric Number 1. In this Number we discover three general principles to be applied to every order of human knowledge.

First: The element that is required in philosophy by the word God. Second: Destiny or Being—shows us its identity with the immutable Laws which govern the Universe.

Third: Proof that human WILL responds to Man.

Dear Every I start out from the Divine Laboratories with the same weapons with which to conquer King Matter. He is the Magns (Magician), the pure intelligence illuminated by the Will. Let us picture him dressed in white, the emblem of purity, with a band of gold around his brow, the emblem of eternal light. Let us put in his right hand a magic wand with which the magician performs his great work: the scepter the emblem of creative intelligence. He raises this scepter toward Heaven to indicate his aspirations to Wisdom, Science and Divine force. His left hand points towards the earth, the indication of his WILL to dominate matter. In front of him we place a cube to indicate the action of spirit in matter. Upon this cube we place a cup full of human passions, a sword, the weapon of every Sir Galahad who fights error, a gold coin (representing of money), the emblem of the reward granted to voluntary labor. We make a belt of a snake biting its tail, the symbol of eternity. An Italian upon the cube indicates Vigilance. To interpret Number 1 more fully let us use the four words, inscribed upon the four symbolical forms of the sphinx: "To Know, To Dare, To Will, To Keep Silent." To Know: "Sir Galahad" symbolizes soul. His ultimate goal is to conquer human emotions. This has to be accomplished in the wilderness of matter, and his strength lies in the pureness of his heart.

Among man's 7 principles No. 1 represents Atma, the Ray from the Divine, 1 with the Father, through which man becomes one with the All. Man must find the master key that is within to unlock the secret of his soul, for if he finds the key it will make all forces subservient to him. This accomplished, he will know full well the Symbolic meaning of Number 1. And of the Trinity God, Man and the Universe.

Vincent Lopez stops dancing at Gold Room by playing piano.

Any time that Vincent Lopez sits down at the piano in the Gold Room of the Beverly Wilshire while his celebrated orchestra is playing, and starts tickling the ivories, dancing stops, and all hands toward the piano to watch and listen to the great maestro until he finally finishes, and then they give him a tremendous hand. The Lopez engagement is proving quite a success, for it is serving two purposes. It affords the musical aggregation the time to continue their nightly broadcasts that they were doing from New York, and allows them to see California and mark their new friends. We doubt if there is a single celeb in the film or theatrical business who hasn't visited the Gold Room since Vincent Lopez opened there for the fall season, and we will soon hear if his Eastern engagements can be set back so that he can stay on here for a longer engagement than was originally contracted for by the Music Corporation of America, which is managing the Lopez tour.

Marcell Inn wins attention of elite at Altadena play spot.

When society wants to play they like their fun and amusement in the right kind of environment, and from all appearances, they have had the Marcell Inn, at Altadena, the play spot that they like, for nightly you will find the Southland's best people, who like to dine and dance, enjoying themselves to their heart's content amid the most romantic setting one can find this side of Callente, or even Monte Carlo. Aside from serving the finest food and beverages, you will be highly entertained by Don Julian and Marjorie, who introduce for the first time in America the sensational Brazilian dance, the "Maxixe." It's a gorgeous and fascinating display of the fire and passion of these people, and the way these dancers put it over is worth the price of the evening's amusement that one enjoys. Adele Burian, "The Personality Girl," sings "Bill," as if she were really her own sweetheart and no one else's, and along with that, she has plenty of other song hits, and if you ask us, Miss Burian is quite a pianist as well. George King, dancing demon, puts over some soft shoe tap dancing that is a treat. He draws a very big hand at the finish. The music is sweet and soft, and is furnished by Chick Throck and his Orchestra. The beauty about everything connected with the Marcell Inn is that the place is departmentalized so well, that everyone works with clock-like order, with absolutely no confusion. Walter Lipps, assistant manager, and Harry De-vine meet and greet you at the door. They are the last word in seeing that everyone is at ease, comfortable, and that the service is of the very best.

Ted Fio-Rito makes 'em applaud long and loud at the Cocoanut Grove.

The handsome Teddy Fio-Rito and his Orchestra are furnishing nightly at the Ambassador Hotel Cocoanut Grove is causing the large crowds to applaud long and loud, for so pleasing are the numbers that the musical genius selects for his programs. The entertainers, too, have been catching on in a greater measure with each performance. Taking it all in all, the third season of the Ted Fio-Rito aggregation will go down in history as their most triumphant one.

Ben Pollack Breaking Records at Soto Inn Club.

Going into his seventh week here, Ben Pollack is still maintaining his leadership in orchestras. Frank Sebastian continues to present his 2 in-1 idea. In the main dining room we have Ben Pollack and his Orchestra featuring Doris Robbins. In the show this week are Fred Scott, Don and Sally Jennings. Ben acts as emcee. In the Lounge Room there are Leon Herrford and his Orchestra, featuring the world's fastest drummer, Lionel Hampton. LeRoy Broomfield acts as emcee for his Creole Revue, with the Four Creole Beauties, Dudley Dickerson, Martha Ritchie, the Four Covans, Aurora Gredley, the Three Rhythm Rockets, Cliff Ritchie and Willa Mae Lane. For those wishing entertainment where the sky is the limit, Frank Sebastian offers another room for your pleasures. In keeping with the atmosphere of Sebastian's spacious night club, which is replete with novelties, you will find a casino which is being visited by sports loving people. It is indeed a thrill to stand by and see the folks enjoy this most popular paste.

Tommy Lyman a hit at the King's Club.

An ovation by filmland's greatest greeted Tommy Lyman at his opening at the King's Club last Thursday night. Tommy, who is the original torch singer, and coined that phrase, proved it to the King's Club and a big way. Singing all type songs and all his own, in his own style, Tommy Lyman is just what night lifers have been wanting and looking for. As an added attraction, Stan Claro's Montreallers, with the 3 Torches, delight you with their dance music and syncopation. To greet you and look after your Welfare you will find Harold Hinds, Charlie Jordan and Claude Dury at your command.

Thanks to Ben H. Lewis.

Ben H. Lewis was responsible for the clever drawing last week of George Lipton and Charlie Farrell, Clover Club advertisement, and this week Ben, the good old reliable, again comes through with a fine drawing of Dorothy Murray, who opens at Henry's 50-50 Club Saturday night.

BALLYHOO CLUB FAST GAINING IN POPULARITY

With a fine show, good food and nice music, Frank Hanover's Ballyhoo Club is gaining in popularity every night. Encearing the show is Don Santo, who in one week's time here has done wonders to rejuvenate this spot. Still a reigning favorite is Sally Swett, with her charming smile and songs. Kay Green, an acrobatic dancer, with plenty of pep and personality; Sylvia and Bettina, two charming and graceful dancers; and little Cynthia, who will sing any request from ballads to low down rhythms; Wally Dnae accompanies her on the piano. Gerry Joyce and his orchestra are soon to leave here on account of Gerry's heavy broadcasting schedules. Gerry Joyce plays the violin for the Shell Hour, Bing Crosby's program and the Rudy Vallée program. Arthur Silber promises Frank Hanover a combination orchestra that will revolutionize dance bands in Los Angeles.

CLOVER CLUB STILL DOING CAPACITY BUSINESS

Hollywood is still flocking to the new and beautiful Clover Club. The main attraction is Chic Endor and Charles Farrell, as star entertainers, and George Lamaze, maître d'hote, who is known all over the world for the fine cuisine that he serves. Messrs. Endor and Farrell are a lot of fun, a whole show by themselves, and have made thousands of friends since they opened their engagement here. Maurice Menge and his Orchestra furnish the music, while the staff, we wish to state that this organization is the fastest growing in popularity of any of the new orchestras that have made their bow in the Southland. Count Hahn and his right hand man, Moe Morton, are plenty busy keeping up with the demands for accommodations for the best known celebs that live in Southern California.

BOB PERRY'S NEW CAFE IS AN IDEAL GET-TOGETHER PLACE

Bob Perry, originator of the comedy "singing waiters" in one cafe, has gone one step further in his business affairs and opened a place that Hollywood is proud to have located in the heart of the city. For it is the fast word in town and as in the past, Bob has the singing waiters all dressed up and strutting their singing waives as an added attraction. The food, which has become world famous, is at the command of his fine clientele, and as it comes to beverages, when they have everything that the law allows, and the best Hollywoodians can be found there day and night. It is one of the high spots for the gathering of the celebs from stage and screen, not forgetting the sporting fraternity, who drop in after all sports events and talk things over. Bob Perry's new cafe on Hollywood Boulevard at Cahuenga is here to stay—and bow!

BLACK PUSSY CAFE DRAWS FINE PATRONAGE

One would be surprised to see the fine clientele that dine and enjoy the best of legal beverages at the Black Pussy Cafe. The place is so fine, the food so tasty, that it has become the family spot of all the Santa Monica Boulevard eataries. Celebrities from every profession are making this place a habit for lunch, dinner and after the show suppers. Carl McBrine and Jerry Raths are operating the Black Pussy Cafe, of which the famous comedian, Leon Errol, is the boss man, and naturally he has many of his old pals of stage and screen making his place a sort of a rendezvous.

STEEPING AROUND

Mr. and Mrs. Waas have been stepping around with Myron Friedman and wife and brother Max in the various night spots. Caught them at the "Frolics" the other night, and to be sure, they were enjoying a sort of hand-shaking bee with their many friends during intermission.

BILTMORE BOWL OFFERS FINE SHOW AND SPLENDID MUSIC

The Biltmore Bowl this week offers a fine show with Wally and Ver'dyn, Esther Pressman, Bob Shafter, Rita and Rubins, Beatrice Hagen, and the Jimmie Grierson Orchestra. Popular prices are helping to draw 'em in and the entertainers send 'em away happy. Of course, the good food and refreshments are too well known to need any comment, so we will leave this place with a fine memory of a pleasant evening.
STRIKE TALK IS A LOT OF HOOEY

Actors Still Recollect Last Fiasco That Cost Millions

The much talked-of strike that is liable to hit the film industry at any time is a lot of hooey. The actors who could call a strike will again prove that they value their contracts and future more than the good will and friendship of their coworkers of the various organizations who have banded together to try and improve working conditions and salaries. One has just to think back to the eleven weeks' suffering that the actors underwent when Frank Gillmore, through Actors Equity, declared a strike and fought to bring the producers to time. The chances of an actors' victory right now is slimmer than before, since the Screen Actors Guild and the Academy of Motion Picture Arts and Sciences are on the opposite sides of the fence, and will naturally fight it out along the lines that spell defeat for the actors, regardless of whether they are taken in by Equity and given an American Federation of Labor charter or not.

It has been proved in the past, that the stars who talked the loudest about being ready to fight in order to help their fellowmen usually wound up by sticking to their contract, paying a sofer berth for themselves. We point to these facts in past strikes, and if you ask us, we will tell you straight from the shoulder that this is no time to talk about striking, or to interfere with the producers making pictures, or we will all be looking for a hand-out when Santa Claus comes sneaking in on scheduled time.

SUPPORT the COMMUNITY CHEST

Extras Better Leave Well Enough Alone At This Time

Those who will hit the hardest if a strike does come to pass are the EXTRAS. They are now being cut down to three days a week, and if they are robbed of even earning this amount, you will soon see them decrying the strikers and finding ways and means of taking care of their own problems. And why not? Haven't they been run around and buffeted in every strike like a lot of hoodlums, and used only to help people think that with this vast army of men and women, it is just a matter of time, and the producers will have to make the concessions demanded.

The extras had better let well enough alone and fight their own battle for regulation of their own business, and let the powers that be fight for what they believe is their right, but let them do it through a board of arbitration, and not through causing the little fellows to go through unwarranted and uncalled for suffering by calling a strike.

The Central Casting Corporation is so strongly entrenched with the various women's clubs right now through certain committees that have been appointed by General Manager Campbell MacColloch, that the calling of a strike would defeat every good that Mr. MacColloch is striving to do for the extras by bringing in certain improvements to satisfy the demands made by these bodies for bettering the extras' working and pay so that they can earn a decent living.

When Joe Penner dined and wined the "College Rhythm" company at Al Levy's Tavern before he left for the East, he figured that he was through with the famous "Duck" that he has become so much affiliated with, but not so you could notice it. When Joe took the choo choo East, he was met at Pasadena and handed a ticket for the "Duck," properly insured and in a parrot cage with a card bearing the following: "From Pop and the Boys," and poor Joe had to feed the "duck" all the way East.

OLYMPIC CLUB

Bep Van Klaveren, welterweight champion of Europe, is to swap punches with Cefernio Garcia Tuesday night at the Olympic Club. This should be a smashing go, for Garcia is the type of fighter that works best when he is expected to take a flinging from an opponent, so the wisecracks say that Cef is in for a trimming, and of course he figures otherwise, and it is the difference of opinion that makes things interesting. Tom Gallery once more has a real asset to offer the Olympic fans, and we, for one, will be on hand to see the fun.

HOLLYWOOD LEGION STADIUM

Charley McDonald, manager-matchmaker of the Legion, continues to pack his big clubhouse with hot attractions. Last week Speedy Dado, supposed to be on his last legs, had a packed house standing up, roaring its surprise, when he outboxed and outslugged Lou Salica, a bantam with wins over Young Tommy and Joe Tie Ken. It was the biggest kind of an upset. Old man Dado was just too smart for Salica, fighting when he wanted to fight and dancing when he wanted to dance. The Brown Doll took six of ten rounds. Salica took two—others were even. It was a great bout. THIS WEEK: Fred Lenhart, tough light heavy, meets Bob Godwin. Somebody is going to kiss the canvas.

RAY PAIGE HAS GREAT BAND AT GRAUMAN'S CHINESE THEATRE

Sid Grauman re-opened his Chinese Theatre last week with a new policy—a pop price concert show. On the stage Mr. Grauman features Ray Paige and his orchestra, consisting of thirty-six people, including four women. Paige opens up the show playing “Rhapsody in Blue” and encore with “Remember.” These hill-billies, the Randall Sisters, are on next, and sing “Pardon My Southern Accent” and “She'll Be Comin' Round the Mountain.” Jackie and Earle Hatch, a twin piano offering of “Night and Day” and “Dancing With.” Two charming little girls, the Crane twins, dance “The Ballet of Yesteryears.” Edith and Billy Wilshire, next on, do a colloquial tap dance. Margot Hedges offers a violin solo. Len Perfect, the girl with the golden voice, sings “My Hero.” Next, Paul Gerrits offers something different on roller skates. Raymond Paige and his orchestra close the show with a special arrangement of “Black Eyes.” The picture, Constance Bennett and Fredric March in “The Affairs of Cellini,” taken from the stage play, “The Firebrand.”

DICKIE JONES WORKS STEADILY

Dickie Jones is working steadily, first, because he takes his work seriously, and next, because he has plenty of talent to give the directors what they want. His last assignment was in “Strange Wives,” in which he plays one of the twins. They are supposed to belong to Esther Ralston, who is the leading lady in the picture directed by Richard Thorpe. When you see “Old Heidelberg,” produced by M-G-M, watch for Dickie Jones, as it will soon be released.

MAURICE MENGE WINNING FAME AT CLOVER CLUB

Maurice Menge, young maestro at the Clover Club, is growing more and more popular with each performance at this new late spot. He and his boys are setting a new style in music with their soft rhythms here in Hollywood—not unlike the popular Eastern Eddie Duchin orchestra. The popular leader is well known in Los Angeles. He is said to be just as fine a musician and arranger as he has proven a leader. After bringing one of the finest bands we've ever heard to Los Angeles some few years ago, he had the distinction of opening and playing the summer season at the Casino, Catalina Island, in 1929, after which followed an engagement at the Hotel Roosevelt in Hollywood and a fifteen weeks' recording engagement at Fox Studio. In 1930 Menge discontinued his organization, preferring to wait until “better times,” and joined the ranks of the Earl Bartlett Biltmore Hotel Orchestra, of which he was a member until a recent date.

Frank Morgan Scores Great Hit in "By Your Leave"

ATTENTION, MR. THEATRE-OWNER! If you feel your patrons wish to see a dynamic personality riding off a delightful merri ment through seven reels of motion picture if you believe it is wise to see all consistency thrown to the winds to make a holiday for one stage, if you are a player the screen can boast, you should attempt immediately to secure for your theatre Frank Morgan in the RKO Radio offering, "By Your Leave.

This charming comedian has taken upon his shoulders the Gladys Hurlbut-Emma Wells farce and lifted it into such a glorious harlequinade that the present audience keeps it breathless while he was on the screen. The vehicle, in a hasty analysis, is little more than a two-reel comedy, elongated, but that the production lands with both feet firmly on the ground — the right of collective bargaining — The loud "OUCH!" caused by this comes from Hays headquarters in New York, where somebody missed a fine chance at "peace in our time." The laughers are enjoying a Roman holiday. All the greatest political economists, including many college professors — for fat fees are filling financial pages with dry reading and no useful suggestions — Hearst, Brisbane, et al., leading the great Bankers-Big Business Men's Rebellion against the New Deal, are with this gang of kidnapers who know more than the men running the Government. They are unable to offer one constructive idea The President and his advisers can use. Hearst is the loudest and most useless of the entire mob. All of which makes us glad to be able to turn to one pleasant prospect: In the hour of our deepest national gloom, we turn to MAE WEST and "Belle of the Nineties." Now there's a paradox. But that paradoxes make us forget the kidnapers — and all the rest. Censored, Mae is more brilliant than ever before. Like a fine diamond, her real talent, both in acting and writing, grows dazzling under friction. Would that we had more like her.

“Gentlemen are Born” Entertain: Alexander and Foran Highlights

The difference between the average picture-goer and the average critic is that the one, with no particular attention to close and critical examination, is looking for entertainment, while the other, who entertains, is interested in examining the product closely and critically. To be sure, if a critic, in spite of his preoccupation, is entertained, he gladly, of course, will make note of that fact for the benefit of others. But in the main, his interest lies in the work he has to do.

“Gentlemen are Born,” produced by First National, offers a couple of points of attack, so reviewers naturally have hurried to pounce upon it. And this seems rather a pity, for, in the opinion of this eye witness, the audience enjoyed it immensely. The story, I must admit, is pretty thin stuff, but it has been realistically and sincerely enacted by young Foran and Ross Alexander. Franchot Tone, Margaret Lindsay, Jean Muir, Ann Dvorak, Henry O'Neill and the other players that it emerges as splendid, thoroughly believable entertainment. Margaret Lindsay, Jean Muir and E. Green, unfortunately, is not quite up to his excellent standard, some scenes lacking the proper tempo. Particularly fine, from the acting standpoint, are the performances of Ross Alexander, displaying exceptional ability, and Nick Foran, who makes the best of a grand opportunity. Both of these players make the characters they impersonate real. Ross Alexander, Margaret Lindsay, Jean Muir are next in line —each being utterly convincing. Henry O'Neill, seen in a small role, offers an outstanding portrayal, and Charles Starrett is good in his part. Photography by James Van Trees is fine.

“The State vs. Elinor Norton” a Jinx to a Good Cast
“The State vs. Elinor Norton,” by Mary Roberts Rinehart, adapted for the screen by Rose Franken and Philip Klein, was a bit baggier. Claire Trevor’s very good performance led us to expect something much better than the final round-up gave us. Miss Trevor was really out of place. She was wasted. Gilbert Roland, who seems to grow handsomer each time we see him, gave an unusually impressive performance. Hugh Williams played a difficult part exceptionally well, and Norman Foster and Henrietta Crosman, like the other players, Hamilton McFadden directed, George Schneiderman doing the photography. The Rinchart novel was so badly adapted for the screen as to make it almost unrecognizable. Enough meat in it have made it a great picture, as well as to have given these earnest actors deserved honors. Fox production and release.

“WOMAN ON TRIAL” PLAYS TO BRILLIANT ASSEMBLAGE AT THE PLAY HOUSE
“Woman on Trial,” a three-act play by Ayn Rand, and directed by E. E. Cleve, opened at the Hollywood Play House to capacity audience. The jury was selected from “out front.” Play opened and closed in the Wilshire, Barbara Stanwyck—“the woman on trial” gave a very splendid performance. Mizzelle Britton shared honors. The play lacked comedy, too overtone, with unnecessary and tiresome dialogue. A very capable cast. Honors also go to Eleanor Wesselhoft, Eric Snowden, Morgan Conway, Arthur Loft and Boyd Irwin. E. E. Cleve made himself all too scarce. W. M. Jeffrey handled his role particularly well. Wallace Anderson, Burt Miller, William Crowell, Sam Godfrey, A. C. Henderson, Harry Hollingsworth and Harry Stafford complete the cast. If play is re-written, dialogue condensed and given speed and action, it would have screen possibilities.

“ENTER MADAME” GIVES US THE LOVELY ELISSA LANDI
“Enter Madame” gives Miss Landi wide range, and this brilliant star handles the role with the utmost finesse. Cary Grant’s performance jumped to a new high. Lynn Overman handles his role with ease, as does Sharon Lynn. Michele Buturil, Paul For- cas, Adams Bower, Don Grazier, Frank Albertson, Wilfred Hari, Torben Meyer, Harold Berquist, Diana Lewis and Richard Bonelli also help make this picture excellent entertainment. Director Elliott Nugent made nice work of this story by Gilda Vareis Archibald and Dorothea Dunn-Bryne, it having been strikingly adapted for the screen by Clarence Brackett and Gladys Leeman. Theodor Sparkuhl again distinguishes himself as an ace photographer. Paramount production.

GATEWAY PLAYERS CLUB PRESENT “ADAM’S EVENING”
“Adam’s Evening,” a delightful farce by Katharine Kavanagh, and splendidly directed by Don Brody, has many ninth provoking situations. Rolfe Se- dan was wonderfully cast, reminding one of Ernest Trues or Charles Rugg- ers. Others in the cast who were splendid and convincing were Mari- anne Morgan, Bernice Pilot, Betty Roadman (whom we had not seen since her great work in “Torquoise Matrix”), Charles Moore, Francesco Maran, Constance Bergin, Wally Ma- her, Paul Norby and Emily Pinter. Don Brody’s productions have a pro- fessional air.

HOLLYWOOD FILMGRAPHY

HOT SHOTS
By HAROLD O. WEIGHT

Real Censorship
Here is a free tip for the organizations who are working to clean up Hollywood. That is, the tip is free and makes them work. The movies are the only way into effect. If you want real censorship in Hollywood, you can get it the way other interests have gotten it—by buying it. You have been working from the wrong end by attempting to establish a boycott among the customers. The proper course is to buy stock in motion picture companies, or buy men in the industries, or if this fails, get the basic industries which support the motion picture business with film, sound and music, money and countless other things to put in a word for you.

If you pull the proper strings and spend the proper money, you can write your own censorship regulations for movies. You can put a dozen petticoats on every baby star and have every employee within the confines of Hollywood fired for mentioning the word “sex.”

Movies as Salesmen
What is more important—as America’s biggest discoveries discovered long ago—you can not only keep things out of pictures, but you can say what will go in. In other words, you can have a big say as to what Americans will think about and what they will buy.

If you are a munition manufacturer, you can see to it that every newsreel will feature militaristic clips of the army and navy and marines; that it will show what ships, etc. are being built in England, and Italy, and Japan support; that it will have speeches by Congress- man Jingo about the need of preparedness. At the same time you can see to it that nothing which might hurt the munitions business goes into feature pictures.

If you are a crooked capitalist, or indus- trialist, who has been pirating utility companies and grafting on profits, you can see to it that any character in your company, who betrays the secrets to crookedness in business, or government, is shown as a whiskered, tattered long-haired Red; you can see to it that if, by any chance, a crooked industrialist is shown in pictures, he is presented at the end of the picture as suffering so acutely from his own conscience that no legal steps need be taken against him.

If you are in the luxury trades, you can make every woman in America green with envy and grim with determination when she sees the gowns and trappings of her favorite movie star. You can build up a profitable install- ment-buying business with John Cit- zen, simply through making him desire the homes, and clothes, etc. which is constantly displayed before him.

TED FIO-RITO IS SOON TO ADD MANY NEW FEATURES AT GROVE

We learned from very good authority that Ted Fio-Rito is soon to add many new features to his list of entertainers at the Coconut Grove. Velcz and Yolanda, those sensational dancers, are to return, and there is a pos-cluded, too, of Charles and Gracie Herbert being put in to bolster up the comedy end of the show. Candido, who plays the bass violin, and who uncorks a bass voice so well that he gains plenty of laughs, is being given a wider scope these days, and is clicking in a big way. The other day we saw Howard Hughes and Sally Blane stepping around. In the party was Eddie Sutherland, doing all right.
Dorothy Arner and Billie Burke at a nearby table; Patricia Ellis and Ma looking very happy; Mr. and Mrs.
George Landy and Mr. and Mrs. Howard Green partying. The Ambassador Hotel, rendezvous for the elite of the Southland, continues to draw 'em in with the fine music offered by Ted Fio-Rito, the singing of Muzzy Mar-cellos, the third Debutante of Fio-Ritettos, and many others who help to entertain. Jimmy Manos is the head man in charge, with Messrs.
Ruben and Thies as his aides.

MARCELL INN AT ALTADENA OFFERS FALL SEASON PROGRAM

The fall season was auspiciously opened this week at the Marcell Inn, at Altadena, by a greater program being offered in the form of greater entertainment and dance music. A survey of the playspot will also reveal many pastimes and pleasures that are rarely seen in cabarets, but only be found in certain centers like Calente and Monte Carlo. The cuisine here can easily be boasted of as the best in the small districts of Pasadena, Altadena and Flintridge, for the chef comes from one of the best known families of caterers California has harbored for years. The entertainment is headlined by three stars, Don Julian and Marjorie, who seem to have a greater routine of numbers than any dancers we have seen on the local stages in years. Adele Burian, blues singer extraordinary, continues to win great applause. George King, that fast stepping soft shoe dancer, is dead over by popular request. Chuck Thick and his orchestra furnish the show and dance music to the skies, the perfor-mation of all who dine and dance here nightly.

CHAS. MURCH AT BRASS RAIL

Chas. Murch, who has been associated in the past here with Henry's for years, is back at the old stand right, but the place today is known as Hollywood Brass Rail. It seems like old times to see the good old standby C. M. on the job again in our midst.

VINCENT LOPEZ MAY STAY ON WEST COAST UNTIL AFTER NEW YEARS

There are certain others afoot that may keep Vincent Lopez and his sterling orchestra on the West Coast until after the first of the New Year. At present he and his musical organization are the stars of the Beverly Wilshire Hotel Gold Room, where they have been filling a six weeks' engagement. The management is trying to work on a new idea for this swanky inght spot, which, if it goes through, will cause quite a furore in cafe circles. At any rate, Vincent Lopez is liable to be the one selected to appear in "The Great Ziegfield" picture, by William Anthony McGuire, and if so, it will mean he will stay with us until after the first of the New Year. If this plan does not work out, there are still other plans afoot whereby the musical genius will stay in California. He likes us and we like him very much, so what could be sweeter than this,
we ask you?

Wednesday nights have been turned over to “Celebrity Night,” and the idea is getting over with a bang. And why not Senator Lopez knows how to be a perfect host, and he is right at home with the best of them.

TOMMY LYMAN VOTED HOLLYWOOD’S FAVORITE AT KING’S CLUB

The stamp of the film capital has voted Tommy Lyman Hollywood’s new favorite entertainer. For instance,
Helen Morgan, Eddie Sutherland,
Chuck Endor, Charles Farrell, Frank
Morgan, Irene Dunne, William LeBaron, Lily Talbot, Alice White, Cy Bartlett, Norman Foster, Claudette Colbert,
Jimmy Starr, Nat Soutag, Arthur
Cæsar and many other celebrities have gathered here to listen to the country’s greatest torch singer, Tommy Lyman, assisted by Al Lamb at the piano. Stan Clare and his Rhythm Trio furnish the music in between the song offerings of the star crooner.

DOILY HOBSON IS NEWEST OF CLIFF DWELLERS STAR

The Cliff Dwellers have discovered a new star in little Dolly Hobson, who for years has been a sensation throughout the mid-west. She was known as “Big Dolly” in the old “Big Dolly,” and when she migrated to the stage and night clubs, she continued to set the country afire with her remarkable talents. Miss Hobson is now right com-non and in great demand at this play-spot as the star of the latest show staged by George Boyce, who also acts as Master of Ceremonies, and in which Virginia King is featured in a number of shows and ensembles. The ensemble this week is a take-off on “It Ain’t No Sin No More,” taken from the picture play, “Gilt of Gal.” Lita Marta heads the “La Cucaracha,” from the screen play of that name, with the four singing waiters as her aides. George Boyce does a dance number (“I Need Loving’) with Dolly Hobson. Mr. Boyce also does a laugh comedy tango act with Lita Marta. And now we come to a knockout stunt—Lo Stein, vers-satile character actor, offers “Shanghai
He is supported by Dolly Hobson and Lita Marta. Bishop and Jean Foster help with some songs to keep up the fine tempo of the show. Virginia King then comes through with some song hits, “Shake That Thing” and “I Don’t Believe You.” Those singing waiters, Lita Marta, Leo Carre, and Doc Draper, goal ‘em with songs that reach your very heart. Last of all, we want to pay a compliment to Mary Silverman’s Girl Trio of musicans—they sure know their music when it comes to show or dance tunes.
Mary is on her way to get some place with her present combination.

TERRY DANZLER’S ORCHESTRA OPENS WED. NIGHT AT SHERRY’S

Terry Danzler, brother of Mary Brian, and his orchestra are to make their bow Wednesday (Halloween) night at Sherry’s Cafe, located at Bevdale and Vine. Terry Danzler, who made a star of the Delmar Orchestra in his youth, is also a very clever director, and he has his orchestra assembled in such a way that it will be a success. The orchestra is to devote its first appearance to musi-cial numbers, and to please the audience, will play many songs of its own. The orchestra is composed of members of the Delmar Orchestra, who have been well known in Hollywood for some years. The orchestra is to open at the Sherry’s Cafe on Wednesday night, and is expected to be a great success.

Eddie Adams Returns to the Clover Club

After a siege of illness Eddie Adams re-opened at the Clover Club, much to the delight of her many admirers. Eddie is singing better than ever. George Lamaze is still pleasing the most fastidious of diners with his epicurean arts. The feature attraction, Chick Endor and Chas. Farrell, are all that people have expected. With their smart songs and debonair way of singing, Hollywood has taken them into their bosom. Maurice Menge and his orchestra are setting a new style in dinner-pation. Manager Count Hahn and his assistant, Moe Morton, are all smiles at the way the crowds are flocking to the Clover Club.

Private Club Atmosphere at Henri's 50-50 Club

Henri De Soto's 50-50 Club offers its patrons more for their money than any spot in town. For relaxation there are ping-pong tables and a billiard room. The seats at the bar are like a divan, and the main dining room has to be seen to be appreciated. Henri's service and dinners are an inspiration. For your entertainment, Henri offers that charming bit of personality, Dixie Francis, playing the guitar and singing her own songs as only she can sing them, and Mark Harrington, with a tenor voice that wins rounds of applause nightly. The 50-50 orchestra, consisting of seven men, plays for your dancing in a smooth, rhythmic style. This spot is a great favorite among performers, and you can always see your favorite in an impromptu bit on the floor.

Frank Jenkins Wins Favor with Singing and Playing at Cafe De Paree

Showing a versatility that is amazing, Frank Jenkins at the Cafe de Paree is going over in great style. Besides leading his orchestra, Frank is considered one of the best trombone players in the country, and has a voice that is great. Assembling in the entertainment here, a trio of dancers emulating the latest in ballroom dances; Naomi Warner, a songstress who has pleased the patrons a long time; and the Haynes Sisters, in high kick and acrobatic routines. Pete Dekos still continues to please everyone with his high quality food and entertainment. Halthea night will be one to be remembered here with the surprises in store.

Frank Sebastian's Cotton Club Has Another New Feature

Always looking for something new, Frank Sebastian now offers his patrons a raised dance floor, on even height with the musicians. Ben Pollack and his orchestra, featuring Doris Robbins, are still playing nightly in the main dining room, and the triumphant return of those favorites, Loch Lorraine and Mae Packer, are greeted with applause by all. In the Lounge Room, Lionel Hampton is still the big feature in an all-Croon revue, and as an added feature you will find a Casino in which you can enjoy the sport of sports, which is particularly enjoyed abroad and in Caliente. All these attractions, with Alex Begele set at the piano and entertainment, and only in Culver City and at Sebastian's can you find them.

New Band and Show at Ballyhoo Club

The Texas Rangers, a six-piece combination, opened here last Sunday night, with plenty of comedy offerings, and perfect dance rhythm. Manager Frank Hanofer's patrons seem well satisfied. Don Santo, who acts as M. C., first introduces Sylvia and Bettina, a blonde and brunnette, doing a soft shoe dance. Next on are Morro and Yaccaelli, two wop comics who play gutars. Sally Sweet then offers her own cute personality songs as only she can. Next Bettina returns for a high kick waltz and beautiful fan work. Don Santo closes the show telling some gags and singing "Happy as the Day is Long," and in the second chorus, Don does a high down rhythm dance. Popular prices now prevail at the Ballyhoo Club. Afternoon tea dance every Saturday and Sunday, with a Cuban Orchestra as the added attraction.

Two Guitar Club is a Very Unique Spot

The Two Guitar Club, formerly the Russian-American Art Club, on Harold Way, is one of the most unique places around here. They offer Countess Sonia, the greatest of all entertainers, with Alex Begele as a fine partner, in sensational acts. There are any number of novel performers and EL REY CLUB draws AS LATE SPOT

Still continuing a great dinner busi- ness, Billy Roberts, manager of the El Rey Club, keeps the spot open the latest. Doris Roche is setting the style and pace for all other entertainers, and Chas. Kaley is appearing in person here for his many admirers of radio land. Gene James and his or- chestra, with their special arrangements of music, are a delight to listen to. Harry and Paul more than take care of your wants, and the greeting of Mario at the door makes one feel right at home.

Bob Perry is Drawing His Old Friends to New Cafe

Bob Perry is drawing his old friends to his new cafe on Hollywood Boulevard, at Caluenega. We dropped in the other evening for dinner, and the way Bob was glad handing every other person who came in for dinner made us believe that he is on his way to greater success than he enjoyed at his original spot, the Brass Rail that he operated so successfully for.

Community Chest's Great Work

More than $300,000 has been allocated by the Community Chest for welfare services and relief for thousands of families and single persons who are ineligible to aid from government funds. This includes general relief for the aged and the handicapped. Chest agencies in the last year have served 37,400 families—including 82,000 children and 109,000 adults. This year the Chest appeal is for $3,094,805. More than 70 per cent of the total will be used for service to children.

The Sunday Night "Frolics" Looks Good

Conglomerate of "Palace" quality acts feature tomorrow night's vaudeville bill at the Sunday night vaudeville "Frolics," which will be presented as usual, at the Wilsibn Elbro Theatre. The big names sound like a revival of the good old days when kings and queens of the two-day reignful supra, Irene Franklin, star of many Broadway musical shows and vaudeville headliner for years, and Ann Codree, Schultar star and internationally-known vaudevillean, are among the surprises for anticipatory theatregoers. Frank and Milt Britton and their Band, stars of the Ziegfeld Folies, which has just completed "Sweet Music," starring Rudy Vallee, for Warner Brothers, is another headline act. Eugene Jackson, the colored boy of "Cimarron," with his gifted sepia-looked brother, are another fine act. Fuzzy Knight, mud maniac of the galloping ivory keys, will make the audience chuckle with delight. Jimmy Ray, comic vaude- ville star, will amuse the audience. The Gasca Troupe, acrobats supreme, are another novelty number. Surprise of the evening are Frank Tuttle, the Para- mount director, with Katherine DeMille, Colle Tapley, Charles Arent in a sketch, "Keep It Clean," presented by special arrangement with Paramount Studios. Several clever blackouts complete the program. Eddie Michaels and his Boys will be in the pit—a new band.

In "East River"

Jack Norbeck is working in "East River," directed by Raoul Walsh at the Fox Westwood Studios.

Benny Bard announces on Saturday, October 27, at 2:15 P.M. the presentation of "School Daisies" with a Children's Group... this is the first of a series of plays to entertain young children and grown-up children. Shirley Temple was associated with this group at the time of signing her present contract with Fox Studios.
